

Denton Bobcats Win Tourney

Score, 49 to 46;
Delaware City
Defeats Smyrna

In one of the finest exhibitions of basketball that the Eastern Shore has ever produced was an exhibit at the Dover High Field House last Saturday evening as a never-say-die Denton Bobcat Five put on a last ditch stand to shade the equally aggressive Georgetown County Seaters 49-46 to capture top honors in the Dover YMCA Invitational Basketball Tournament. It was a battle from the opening toss with two aggregations of typical American manhood giving everything they had to come out on top. Georgetown was out in front 15-12 at quarter and 24-23 at half. At the three quarter mark they had the advantage 40-35. In the final period the County Seaters bogged down with Denton finishing strong dropping 14 to Georgetown's 6.

Stan Prosen and Gran Diffe sparked the winners while Griffith, Lingo and Walls carried the Sussex County hopes. In the final tabulation of points Gran Diffe had registered 19 to take game honors with Stan Prosen the runner-up with 15. Griffith paced the County Seaters with 14 while Ken Lingo was a very close second with 13. While the result does not show very heavy in the scoring column the return of Harry Hughes, veteran Denton Guard, did much to bolster the winner's hopes as he sparked on defense, brought the ball up the court in smooth fashion and used his height to much advantage in recovering the ball on the boards.

It was a brilliant game to win and a mighty tough one to lose and a contest that could only bring credit to both teams. It was a game that sent the fans on their way well convinced that they had witnessed the Shore's finest in action. It brought to a close the second annual Dover YMCA Tournament, an event that had witnessed sportsmanship at its highest degree from every player that participated as well as the fans from all parts of the Shore.

In the consolation game Delaware City tripped Smyrna Hornets 51-31. Delaware City was strong throughout while Smyrna failed to show the form of the previous week. Eddie Jordan with 15 points and lanky Bob Jones with 14 paced the consolation game winners while Bud O'Neill was the big gun for Smyrna with 12.

Immediately following the championship game awards were made by Mayor William J. Storey of Dover. Brief remarks were made by Mayor Ralph S. Baker of Georgetown, Mr. Russ Orme of Denton and Mayor Earl Sylvester of Harrington. Coach Bob Roberts accepted the winner's trophy for the Denton Team, Ken Lingo received the runner-up trophy for Georgetown while Eddie Jordan was on the receiving end of the consolation game trophy for Delaware City.

Jos Griffith, veteran County Seater eger, was named the Tournament's outstanding player and received the trophy for that honor. Gran Diffe, Denton's valuable tap-off basketballer, was selected as the player that meant the most toward the success of his team throughout the tournament and received a trophy similar to the one given to Griffith.

Diffe also came in for further honors as he was the tournament's individual high scorer. Diffe had trailed Ken Lingo of Georgetown for this honor up until the final two minutes to play. Final tabulation showed Diffe having 62 and Lingo 61. In making the first two awards it was difficult to make a decision as it would have been possible to pick many other players and you just wouldn't have been far wrong.

Every player gave every thing he had and the sportsmanship of every player in the Tournament was beyond reproach. The awards were made on the basis of play through the entire Tournament and not just on the basis of the final game.

It was the opinion of the committee that Griffith was outstanding for Georgetown in every game. He played a heady game, kept his team well balanced and always seemed to come up with a little extra if his team needed. He was not a flashy player but was one of the County-Seaters main scoring threats and played in practically every minute of his teams activity.

Diffe did equally as well for Denton. At times they needed the help of this hard working cager to keep them in the fight and he came through in grand style from the opening game. The Dover Committee wishes to thank the fans and the teams for their excellent co-operations. It was great.

DELAWARE SAFETY COUNCIL

Good manners belong on the highway as in your own home! — "You extend rights and courtesies to people in your home." W. W. Harris, Vice President for Public Safety of the Delaware Safety Council said today, "and rights and courtesies should go to drivers on the road, too. You must give others the traffic right-of-way not only out of politeness but for the sake of safety. No driver is a good driver unless he knows and obeys the traffic laws."

Fifteen per cent of all drivers in fatal city accidents failed to yield the right-of-way, the most frequent violation, according to the National Safety Council.

Here is a list of rules to remember with respect to the right of way at intersections:

1. A car already in the intersection has the right-of-way over cars approaching. You must give way to any car already there as you come up to the intersection.

ANTI-TUBERCULOSIS SOCIETY OF DELAWARE

Wishing to close its books to conform with the fiscal year of the National Tuberculosis Association, officials of the Delaware Anti Tuberculosis Society today appealed to recipients of Tuberculosis Christmas Seals during the holiday season, who have not made their contributions, to make their returns before the end of March.

F. S. Johnson, Treasurer, stated that the Society still needs approximately a thousand dollars to reach the desired goal of $70,000 to carry on the work of the Society during the ensuing fiscal year which starts on April 1st. Dr. William Marshall, Jr., President and G. Taggart Evans, Executive Secretary, expressed their appreciation in the name of the Society to the many recipients of the Christmas Seals who sent in their contributions for the Seals, but which were not received by the Society, due to the stealing of some of the Seal sale mail by a temporary employee of the Wilmington Post Office.

Mr. Evans stated that this unfortunate experience entailed considerable labor to unravel, and though unavoidable under the circumstances, that the Society regretted this inconvenience to the senders of the lost mail.

It was stated that to date more than thirty thousand Delawareans have contributed to the 1948 Christmas Seal Sale. Returns may be sent to the Delaware Anti-Tuberculosis Society, 1308 Delaware Avenue, Wilmington, Delaware.

COLOR COUNTS FOR HEALTH IN VEGETABLES

Color really counts when it comes to choosing vegetables, states Mrs. Violet N. Goodwill, home demonstration agent for Kent County. The deeper, more intense the vegetable coloring, the more Vitamin A is found in the vegetable. Vitamin A gives protection against colds and other infections such as sinus, flu, and others. Vitamin A is found to some extent in all green and yellow vegetables. When Mrs. Goodwill plans the family meals, she should think not only of including green and yellow vegetables every day, but also of the choosing of the most nutritious among them.

Mrs. Goodwill points out several examples of how color is a guide to the Vitamin A content. Deep yellow sweet potatoes contain 23 times as much Vitamin A as an equal serving of yellow turnips. Deep orange color of winter and acorn squash contains almost 20 times as much protection as the paler summer varieties. The brilliant yellow of carrots means even richer Vitamin A content.

In green vegetables, the home-maker who chooses the green celery over the bleached variety is making a wise choice. Leaf lettuce offers more Vitamin A than the paler head lettuce. The deep green of broccoli, spinach, and chard all spell ones moneys worth in food value.

These gay green vegetables should have an important place in diets, not only because of their Vitamin A contributions but also because they offer Vitamin C, some of the B vitamins, and iron. In addition, most greens provide some calcium for strong bones and teeth.

FIRST-AID KITS FOR HOUSE USE

"First-aid kits are essential equipment for every home, believes Mrs. Violet N. Goodwill, home demonstration agent, who points out that facilities for prompt treatment of injury can save a life or prevent serious infection. This is the busy season on the farm and therefore such equipment is especially important just now. It should be available both in the home and at convenient points about the farmstead," she asserts.

"Good first-aid kits need not be expensive or difficult to provide," she emphasizes. Homemade kits containing the essential medications, drugs, and dressings may serve equally as well as the more costly prepared kits on the market.

The Agent recommends the following materials for assembling a good first-aid kit:

A tight box, preferably metal such as a small cash or fish tackle box. Rolls of adhesive tape of varying widths. Sterile cotton; Swabs and sticks. Sterile white cloth for bandages and tourniquets. Matches. Ointment for burns. Tincture of iodine. Boric acid. Tincture of mercuriolate. Tincture of benzoin. Rubbing alcohol. Liquid green soap or benzine.

Carvel Explains Proposed Tax Program

Revenue Needed for Recommended Improvements

The people of Delaware were told by Governor N. Carvel, in a radio address on Wednesday night, that the decision is in their hands concerning whether the State can have better education, better schools, better roads and institutional facilities.

The Governor's radio address was a part of his previously announced program of "going right to the people" with his plans and recommendations for improvement of the State government.

A large portion of the Carvel message was devoted to a further explanation of the proposed tax program which the Governor submitted to the General Assembly last week and which is designed to provide the needed revenue for the recommended improvements.

Citing that the State employs many persons who render service such as teaching children, building and maintaining highways, conserving and developing resources and administering to the needy, who need adequate salaries in order to have them remain in the State's service, the Governor reviewed the critical condition that can result from failure to provide for these persons.

"During the past two years," stated the Governor, "we have only met this problem in a half hearted manner and the result has been that we have lost many of our capable employees, especially in the field of education, and have failed miserably to attract new blood to the field of State service."

In addition to the question of increased pay rolls, the Governor pointed out that practically all materials and services needed in the State have increased in cost from 50 to 100 percent resulting in about seven million dollars of the State surplus being used.

After citing that the expenditures to date "have not supplied the kind of education your children should have," the Governor continued, "you have indicated to me that you wanted real improvements in the character of educational services which the State has been rendering. We are a State which has a great faith in its future and this rests in the hands of our young people who are now going to school."

"I believe that we are as a State anxious to supply our future citizens with the finest education that money can buy and I believe we are willing to pay additional reasonable taxes to provide for this important birthright. In order to do this we must pay school teachers sufficient salaries to attract competent people to the profession and to keep many of the excellent instructors presently on our pay rolls."

The Governor also reviewed the need for rebuilding and extending the State's permanent buildings and highways which, he recommended be financed through a bond issue. He pointed to the great immediate need for added school facilities due to the increasing school population and the development of suburban communities.

The bond program, totaling 25 millions, was also described in detail with 12 million earmarked for schools on the basis of providing buildings immediately needed and others as the need develops, 9 millions for roads, of which 7 millions would be used to match federal funds, and four millions for improvements of buildings operated by State agencies.

Governor Carvel made it very clear that the entire program, that of providing for immediate needs in both supplies, buildings and personnel, and the revenue needed to finance this program, rests entirely with the General Assembly to be guided by the desires of the people of the State in these matters.

The decision confronting the people could be termed one as to whether the State is to improve and progress, or standstill and retard advancement.

New Plymouth Appears Today At Warrington's

Completely Redesigned And Streamlined; Has 97 H. P. Engine

The new line of Plymouth automobiles, with outstanding mechanical improvements and up-to-the-minute styling, make their appearance in dealer showrooms here and throughout the United States Friday, Everett B. Warrington, owner of Warrington's Service Center announced today.

Completely redesigned and streamlined, the new Plymouth contains a 97-horse-power engine which is smoother, livelier, and more economical. Other changes make notable contributions to beauty, safety, and passenger comfort.

Wheelbase has been increased for a better ride and more road stability but at the same time the over-all length has been reduced for ease of handling. Although lower and narrower, the new bodies provide greater interior room for passengers. The car's appearance reflects a complete change from last year's models. The Plymouth may be seen at Warrington's Service Center.

Designers have achieved a "common sense" streamlining in which ease of handling, safety and comfort have received strong consideration. Fenders which blend perfectly into body lines are nevertheless separate and detachable, thus avoiding sheet metal masses so costly to repair or replace.

Sedan seats are wider and deeper, both in front and rear. The width of both cushions has been increased (5" in front, 6" in rear, front seat width 56", rear seat width 57") with panels and arm rests so located as to take maximum advantage of the interior space. Rear seat room in the Club Coupe has been increased to the equivalent of the Sedan. There is more head and leg room in the Sedan rear seat.

The new Plymouth line includes nine distinct automobiles. There are four special deluxe and two types on a 118-inch wheelbase, one inch longer than last year's. In addition, Plymouth will build three deluxe models on a brand new 111-inch wheelbase. This wheelbase group consists of a two-door sedan, a three passenger coupe, and a new body type, the Suburban.

Available on the 118-inch wheelbase will be a club coupe and a four-door sedan in the deluxe series, while the special deluxe group will include both the club coupe and four-door sedan in addition to the convertible club coupe and the station wagon.

Engine performance and efficiency has been improved with a new design cylinder head which increases compression ratio to 7 to 1. A new chrome plated compression piston ring reduces cylinder wear and provides greater protection during the break-in period. There are improved oil rings for greater oil economy, while a newly-designed intake manifold induces quicker, smoother engine warm-up and produces faster response to throttle opening.

The longer wheelbase allows a "cradled ride," as passengers are more nearly centered between the axles. Another contribution toward smooth riding qualities is the adoption of diagonally-mounted shock absorbers at the rear of the car, greater rebound control in the front shock absorbers and the newly designed rubber limit bumpers. The new shock absorbers also allow greater road clearance and reduce side sway.

Interior design of the Plymouth provides many driver and passenger comforts and conveniences. Sedans have the rear door hinged from the center post for easy entrance and exit. The seats, front and rear, have a three-pillow cushion while seat backs have a full pillow on each side and three vertical pipes in the center. Imitation leather kick pads are carried around the seat bases and on the door base. New, more rugged window regulators close or open windows with half the numbers of turns formerly required. Instrument panels with a new grain finish have been redesigned and relocated for ease in reading gauges. The glove box latch has been improved for designed to reduce theft of articles from parked cars, and the ignition cable has been heavily armored from the ignition switch through to the engine compartment as a safeguard against car theft.

A new automatic electric choke, of the same type used on other Chrysler Corporation cars, has been

Danger Signals Posted On Farm Income, Says Co-op Official

A warning on declining business activity and farm incomes was posted for local board members of Southern States Cooperative attending an annual mid-winter regional conference Monday, March 14, at the Hotel Richardson, Dover, Delaware.

"While there is no fear of any deep depression in the near future, the danger signals are out and it is necessary that we as individuals and as an organization adjust our operations to take into account these changing conditions." That statement was made in a report on Southern States for the first half of the fiscal year, by Dr. C. D. Caskey of Baltimore, Md., director of Research Department of the Cooperative.

"In the years ahead," he continued, "farmers will need their own cooperatives as never before if they are to protect their economic welfare in a society dominated by big business, big government and big labor."

Attending the conference were local Southern States representatives from the following communities: Chestertown, Md., Harrington, Delaware and Smyrna, Delaware.

L. D. Caulk of Wyoming, Delaware, a member of the Southern States Board of Directors presided at the session, which also was attended by several agricultural workers as guests of Southern States, and by managers of Co-operative service agencies in the area.

Caskey presented this picture of the farm supply outlook for spring: Feed—Record 1948 grain crops assure plentiful supply; feed prices have dropped approximately $25 per ton during the last 12 months and prospects are good for favorable feeding ratios.

Fertilizer—With an extreme shortage of both solid and liquid nitrogen, it may not always be possible to provide patrons with what they want, when they want it and where they want it.

Seed—With the exception of alfalfa, timothy and red top, the national supply of legumes and grasses should be ample for spring. Although the supply of Kansas alfalfa is short, Utah and Oklahoma alfalfa are equally as good.

Petroleum — Supply plentiful. Gasoline may be tight next summer if business conditions are good enough to keep gasoline consumption at high level.

Other Supplies—With the exception of some steel products, miscellaneous farm supplies are available in adequate quantities.

The report pointed out that total volume for the first half of the 1948-49 fiscal year was $55,295,000 up 6 per cent over that of the same period last year. Feed tonnage increased 20 per cent; seed volume 16 per cent, petroleum 8 per cent, and miscellaneous farm supplies 10 per cent. Fertilizer tonnage decreased 7 per cent, due mostly to shortage in nitrogen and potash.

Poultry marketing volume increased 106 per cent. Egg volume, however, went down 14 per cent, along with a substantial decrease in producing flocks. Grain marketing volume dropped 14 per cent as a result of the poor small grain season and heavy rains and late harvesting of soybeans and corn.

Net worth of Southern States proper reached a high of $17,000,000 Dec. 31, 1948. The Cooperative was using a total capital of $31,250,000, as compared with $24,924,000 as of the same date a year ago. Investment in a Texas oil refinery and three ocean going tankers accounted for a portion of the additional capital requirement. Net margins were $622,000 'as against $1,116,000 last year, largely due to inventory losses as a result of declining prices.

Southern States had $2.23 in current assets for each $1 of current debt as of Dec. 31. A ratio of 2 to 1 is considered satisfactory for a good credit rating by banks and other credit institutions, the report pointed out.

Cluley was deputy state auditor under the former auditor, Fred C. Powell, and served as acting state auditor after Mr. Powell became incapacitated about a year ago.

Harness Meet To Open Here Wed., April 27

Regular Purses to Be Increased; Seven Memorial Races

The opening card of the annual 20-night spring meet of the Kent and Sussex Racing Association at Harrington, will be ushered in Wednesday night, April 27, instead of Saturday night, April 30, it was announced this week.

Over 300 of the best trotters and pacers in the East are stabled at the Harrington track, with applications for stall space for many more being received each day.

Several new features and improvements promise to make this, the opening harness meet in the East, the best yet. According to Racing Secretary George C. Enalen, of Odessa, N. Y., the track should be the fastest half-mile track in the East. J. C. Coates, of Goshen, best track builder in the nation, has just resurfaced and banked the track and graded the turns. The association also has a new training track.

Racing enthusiasts will also appreciate the use of a new totalizer which will result in closer approximate odds showing on the field board than heretofore when a manually operated "tote" board was used. With the new board, payoff prices will be posted only a few seconds after the announcement of race results, says Racing Secretary Enalen.

There will be seven memorial races this year, with the J. Wirt Willis, B. I. Shaw, and Warren T. Moore races repeated. New memorial races added will be the Ernest Raughley, J. Morris Harrington, Green Valley, and Direct Express memorial races. The Raughley race will honor Ernest Raughley, who until his death last year, had been secretary of the racing association and the Kent and Sussex Fair since their inception.

The Harrington race will honor J. Morris Harrington, who, until his recent death, was state harness racing commissioner. Fred Greenley, of Harrington, will present a trophy to the winner of the Direct Express Memorial Race, so named in honor of his late famous pacer. Stout Turf Supplies will also present a trophy to the winner of the Green Valley Memorial Race.

Purses will be $1000 for each memorial race. Purses for regular races will be $400 to $600 this year instead of $300 as formerly. Another feature of the meet will be the use of a Cadillac starting gate which operates the same as the Litzberger starting gate used here last meet. The gate was used at Laurel Raceway last year. The starter here will be Harvey Hartman.

E. I. Lankford, of Baltimore, will be the mutuels manager this year. Lankford has also been mutuels manager at Delaware Park since its opening.

The following officers of the racing association were re-elected at a recent meeting: President, J. O. Williams; vice-president, J. Gordon Smith; treasurer, W. W. Shaw. Arnold Gilstad was elected secretary to replace the late Ernest Raughley.

What ECA Means

YOUR HOME TOWN Reporter has been particularly interested in the testimony before the senate foreign relations committee with reference to the new appropriation of more than five billion dollars for the Marshall plan, or the economic cooperation administration, for the next fiscal period.

As yet we have heard nothing specific on this phase of the operation of ECA and we believe it to be vitally important to the continuity and success of the plan.

Secretary of State Dean Acheson told the committee that the situation in Europe from an economic standpoint is "vastly more encouraging than it was two years ago."

Hoffman said he hoped European countries would balance their budgets, that ECA's economic objective could be attained by 1952, that he would prefer continued high taxes here to a slowing down in the European recovery program.

It has not attempted to show Joe Doakes out in Keokuk or Kokomo what the ECA plan and the expenditure of this money means to him personally and to the general welfare and well-being of the community in which Joe Doakes lives.

This reporter believes ECA is overlooking a bet and a necessary and important factor in the continued successful operation of the entire program unless it does just that. The folks back in the Home Towns are generous, they believe more or less vaguely that the Marshall plan is a good thing but still they would like to know in a very material and specific way just how they are benefiting, just what they are getting for this money, how it is being spent and how it affects each one of them individually.

Stamp-Lovers, Field Day

The philatelists are having a field day and the postoffice department is hoping the President will veto many of the 22 bills that far introduced in the congress providing for issuance of special stamps.

A member of the house committee on postoffices and civil service said, "The post office can issue only so many stamps a year, but special stamps mean a lot to the member who personally and to the member who usually pass them and then the President vetoes 'em."

Rankin Hits Back

Congressman John Rankin of Mississippi, obstreperous Dixiecrat who has been charged with being everything a member of congress should not be, kicked off the house un-American activities committee as a bigot and a debaser of civil rights, is getting back at the administration. He forced a bill out of his house armed services committee, which he chairmans by virtue of his seniority only, calling for a veterans pension.

Senators generally are more prolific in the introduction of bills in the congress. For instance, in the 80th congress there were 3,186 senate bills and 7,607 house bills introduced.

Two state legislatures, Arkansas and Nebraska, have petitioned congress to reject compulsory health insurance legislation.

WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS Truman Threatens to Take Battle On Legislative Program to People; MacArthur Sees No Russian Attack

(EDITOR'S NOTE: When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of Western Newspaper Union's news analysis and not necessarily of this newspaper.)

TRUMAN: All Aboard!

President Truman, who obviously regards himself as the "man with a mandate," was tossing some not too subtle threats toward congressmen inhospitable to his legislative proposals.

The President meant that if congress didn't set about soon enacting into law the pledges he made to the people during the November campaign, he'd hit the trail again and take the issue to the people—the way Franklin D. Roosevelt used to do.

MR. TRUMAN apparently felt that by so doing he could whip public sentiment up to such a pitch that congress would be forced to go along with his program, or else face a possible defeat in the 1950 elections.

Not having the vocal equipment of his predecessor, who could get desired results with his "fireside chats," Mr. Truman would have to climb aboard a train if he wanted to influence the masses.

Strangely enough, congress didn't seem unduly perturbed at the President's threat. Things went along in congressional procedure about as usual, with Republicans charging that the 81st congress is also a "do nothing" congress, while Democratic members were inviting comparison with the "do nothing" 80th congress.

IT WAS READILY evident that Mr. Truman was needed by lack of congressional action on his program. Reiterating his campaign pledges of last fall, in which he declared the central issue was the "welfare of all the people," Mr. Truman asserted that lobbyists, pressure groups, and controlled editorial pages, columnists and commentators were offering determined opposition to his legislative program.

"All we have on our side," he said, "is the people." Pointing out that he found on his campaign tour that the people of the nation are concerned about their government, Mr. Truman termed that concern a "fine thing."

"I propose to do all I can to help it along," he added, then he hurled the threat: "In fact, I may even get on the train again and make another tour around the country to tell the people how their government is getting on."

Observers purportedly on the "inside" of things in Washington regard approval of the congressional committee on the economic report—Mr. Truman's proposal for controls to ward off inflation—as lip service only and argue that none of the committee expect the proposal to win congressional favor.

It was said the favorable committee report was made only to "save face" for the President as he seeks to implement the pledges he made in his election campaign.

THE COMMITTEE vote, which will send the measure to the floor of congress, was 7 to 4 for approval, and that came only after the proposals of the President had been toned down.

Critics of the Truman plan say it poses the unique theory that the country is in the midst of an inflation and deflation period at the same time—a condition admittedly difficult of comprehension.

They assert, too, that it would give dangerous controls to the President at a time when they actually are not needed.

One commentator observed that if any members of the committee considering the proposal had had any idea it would be enacted by the congress, it would have been killed completely before it ever got to the floor of the house or senate.

THE ENTIRE IDEA of a Russia Answered The Russians had an answer to what would happen if they ever moved on Japan.

Gen. Douglas MacArthur, in a special interview, declared that he did not expect any attack upon Japan by the Russians, but if that occurred, "we," meaning the United States, "should certainly defend her."

Wins Film Award

Virginia Wave, Cathedral films' star, receives the annual award as the best actress of religious films from the American association of religious film distributors for her work in the film, "Simon Peter, Fisherman," in which she portrayed Concordia.

sian attack on Japan held a bizarre aspect. With the U.S. as chief occupation force, how could the Soviets launch an attack of the Japanese without, in effect, making war on the United States?

But, General MacArthur evidently held the subject serious enough to comment on it.

"In case of another war, we do not want Japan to fight," MacArthur said. "Japan's role is to be the Switzerland of the Pacific," he explained.

THEN HE MADE a telling point in speculation of a Russian attack on Japan:

"Even if the Soviet government had aggressive intentions toward Japan, Russia would be incapable of carrying them out unless she could secure mastery of the air and either had a far Eastern fleet of her own or possessed the means of neutralizing any action by our fleet.

"Russia could not obtain air predominance," he went on. "On Okinawa I had constructed at the end of the war 25 airfields with the capacity to dispatch B-29's, then our largest bombers, on 3,500 missions a day. The whole of eastern Asia from Singapore to Vladivostok would be within range of those machines."

HE DID NOT point out that with development of the bombing arm of the air force since the war, even farther distances for bombing purposes could be covered by present-day missile carriers.

Of the function of Japan in the American strategy of defense, MacArthur said:

"We never intended to use Japan as an ally. All we want her to do is remain neutral."

UNIVERSE: No Limits? Since the first man lifted his head and gazed in puzzled awe at a star-studded sky, mankind has been trying to discover the secrets of the universe.

To that end, the huge, 200-inch palomar mountain telescope was built and put into operation.

But the telescope's first contribution to the sum of man's knowledge of the universe served only to deepen the mystery.

Astronomers using it found that there is no outer edge to the universe of stars, and the look they took was twice as far as man has ever looked before.

The astronomers got some pictures of nebulae a billion light-years distant and spaced about a million light-years apart. Each one is a world of stars, like the Milky Way. The star worlds are about uniformly spread up to the previous limits of sight, about a half-billion light years.

FEWER JOBS: For White Collars

There are many fewer "white collar" job openings than a year ago in most U. S. cities, but high grade personnel is still in demand. The volume of job-seekers, particularly men, is up all the way from ten per cent as much as 300 per cent, but a heavy majority of the applicants are below-standard material and there is little market for them.

This is the tenor of reports from 106 private employment agencies in 42 principal cities from coast to coast, surveyed by the family economics bureau of Northwestern National Life Insurance company.

THE "WEEDING OUT" process is now on in full swing, agency executives report, as employers prune down working forces to eliminate the lazy, the inefficient, the chronic absentees and the chronically tardy, "who don't realize that the wartime gravy-train has tumbled to a stop, and the era of competition is back."

The biggest drop has occurred in jobs for untrained and junior office help, particularly male, the survey finds. But there is still a nationwide demand for salesmen and sales promotion personnel, and, in most cities, for accountants and other technically trained men.

MOST AGENCIES report that salaries are the same or slightly better than last year for experienced or trained personnel, but that employment requirements are stiffer, employers interview more candidates per job, and check their qualifications much more thoroughly.

The great majority of employers dealt with are uncertain as to the future, agencies report, but optimists slightly outnumber pessimists. Most employers feel that pre-war competition is here again, and with it the immediate necessity of trimming costs and sharpening efficiency at every possible corner.

The prevailing attitude is that good business can be had by means of increased efforts, if pending legislation does not turn out too unfavorably; many concerns are reported as marking time on their future programs until they can see how the new tax program and labor law shape up.

Answers Critics

Former Gov. Mon C. Wallgren, Washington, nominated by President Truman to head the national security resources board, denies critics' charges at committee hearing. He was accused of being "soft toward communism." He branded the charges "ridiculous and silly."

WAR TALK: Little Ease-up

There was little ease-up in the talk of possible war.

War rumors were still flying, the latest reporting that the Russians had strengthened their garrisons along the Soviet-Norwegian border.

The informant said the Russian troops had come from the Murmansk area. While not estimating the number involved, he said the troop movements had been observed and apparently were in connection with the stand taken by Norway on the north Atlantic defense treaty.

THE INFORMANT said there were no indications of similar troop movements along the Finnish border.

Norway and Russia now have a short common frontier in the far north. The frontier was established when the Petsamo region of Finland was ceded to the Soviet union under terms of the Russo-Finnish peace treaty.

The Soviet union recently proposed to Norway that both nations sign a non-aggression pact. Norway has made it clear she will not enter into such a treaty. Instead, Norway appeared disposed to cast its fortunes with countries in the proposed north Atlantic treaty—the United States, Canada, Britain, France, the Netherlands, Luxembourg and Belgium.

SLOWDOWN: Bonned By Court

The supreme court has upheld a Wisconsin ban on the slowdown as a union tactic in a dispute with management.

By a 5-4 vote, it sustained a state law which prohibits any concerted efforts by workers to interfere with production except by going on strike.

The specific action involved was a series of unannounced work stoppages.

CORNERSTONE: Truman for U. N.

President Truman will lay the cornerstone for the permanent headquarters of the United Nations on April 10.

The President will head a list of speakers that will include Dr. Herbert V. Evatt, Australian foreign minister and president of the general assembly. The ceremony, in New York, will be attended by representatives of all 58 member nations and thousands of visitors.

Russians Claim Supersonic Rocket

BERLIN.—The world's first piloted supersonic rocket projectile is the spearhead of a new, gigantic Soviet air force, a Russian science magazine has claimed.

The aircraft-rocket was described by the magazine Vokrug Sveta (Around the World) as "flying with a speed far in excess of sound," which is about 700 miles an hour at sea level.

The projectile was said to have been put through its first public paces on Red air force day June 25 when, the Soviet author said, "a huge crowd stood awestruck by the sight of this extraordinary propellerless machine hurtling past them at colossal speed."

Experts "Debunk" Lot Of Gadgets Marketed As Cure for Ills

WASHINGTON.—Experts gathered in the debunking laboratories of the national food and drug administration and regarded a mounting stack of gadgets which have been sold as panaceas for plagues of the human race.

The public has been buying them as cures for everything from falling hair to hemophilia.

Successful sales of some of them apparently depend on how many ailments the inventor can list as curable through use of his contraption—and those claims are the basis of seizure and prosecution by the food and drug administration.

"There has been a deluge of them since the war," says George P. Larrick, associate commissioner of the administration.

"Some of the inventions are actually dangerous," says Dr. Irvin Kerlan, medical officer in charge of therapeutic devices.

"High on the list of gadgets we seek out is that which claims a cure for a serious disease, particularly that disease which grows progressively worse while the patient tinkers with the new miracle machine."

One of the newest devices and still under litigation in the Mid-west is a dumbbell-appearing creation in which the center bar is supposed to be filled with water which has been exposed to cosmic rays.

By merely holding the dumbbell, the patient is supposed to absorb the latent energy and acquire a resistance to diseases and ailments. The cost is between $50 and $100.

Mud From Norway Fjords Sometimes Holds Uranium

OSLO.—Uranium-containing mud can be dredged up from the bottoms of some of the fjords that cut deeply into the coast of Norway, states Dr. Kaare M. Strom of the University of Oslo.

The atomic energy element, however, is not present in high enough concentration to justify scooping out the mud and working it as an ore. It is of interest primarily as a possible means of determining under what geological conditions the uranium-containing black shales may have been formed.

Uranium concentrations in present fjord-bottom muds range from 13 to 60 grams per metric ton, Dr. Strom's analyses show. This is equivalent to from one-half ounce to two ounces per long ton. This is far below present levels for workable ores. The U. S. atomic energy commission will purchase such ores when they contain over two pounds a ton.

Dental 'Hang-over' Brings Damage Suit in England

EPSOM, ENGLAND.—Saint Clair Salmon in asking $360 damages from a dentist told a court the last thing he remembered clearly was the doctor giving him an anesthetic after which:

He found himself outside the surgery walking to his car. Persuading a policeman he was not drunk and was fit to drive. Trying to enter his garage, but colliding with the right-hand wall. Trying again, but knocking over a gasoline pump on the left. Finally achieving entry. Getting out and collapsing. Waking up inside his house five hours later.

Discovering he had left his coat, collar and dentures in the surgery. The dentist, Frank Davies, had entered a claim for $80 against Mr. Salmon. The court gave judgement in favor of the dentist and disallowed the counter-claim.

Vermont Town Doesn't Have Enough Pupils for Schools

CHITTENDEN, VT.—At a time when most communities are worried about overcrowded school buildings, Chittenden has an even more pressing problem for the opposite reason.

There aren't enough pupils to fill the $500,000 Frederic Dukes Barstow memorial school. Upkeep of the structure strains the town budget each year. With 379 residents, the town can fill only 89 of the school's 200 classroom seats.

Under the will of multimillionaire William S. Barstow, the school may go to Middlebury college "if it does not fulfill its purpose."

Man Burned Down House To Get Away From Wife

GETTYSBURG, PENNA.—Judge W. C. Sheely sentenced Charles Ray Keller to two to four years in prison after Keller told the Adams County Court he burned down his house "to get away from my wife." Keller pleaded guilty.

"I burned down the house," he told Judge Sheely, "to collect insurance to pay off my debts and get away from my wife."

Democrats in Accord

HOUSE G.O.P. leader Joe Martin has been tipped off that southern and northern Democrats finally have come to terms on civil rights. The compromise apparently was reached during backstage bargaining between leaders of the two Democratic blocs.

The ex-speaker relayed his report with great interest to other G.O.P. leaders at the Republican round table. This is a table in the house restaurant where Republicans gather for lunch and which serves as a sort of G.O.P. command post.

MR. MARTIN didn't reveal his sources, but southern congressmen have long been close to him, and Joe's inside intelligence on Democratic goings-on has usually been devastatingly accurate.

Terms of the all-important civil-rights agreement, Martin reported, are as follows: both sides agreed to an anti-lynch bill, anti-poll tax bill, 60-cent-per-hour minimum wage, and modifications of the Taft-Hartley law.

These are crucial and important compromises on the part of conservative southerners, but they have served notice this is the furthest they will go. They will not, for instance, accept the dynamite-laden fair employment practices bill, which will be quietly side-tracked in the house. But they will support the rest of President Truman's fair deal.

This backstage compromise, however, is nothing more than a quiet Yalta agreement among the leaders, Joe Martin pointed out. It can't possibly be binding on all the rank-and-file Democrats, and many congressmen on both sides will vote the dictates of their own consciences.

Ham And Eggs—$25

M. Andre Picard, originator of the French gratitude train idea, was seated in a restaurant in Akron, O., eating breakfast. He had been hospitably and graciously entertained by various cities across the country, and he suggested that it was time he paid some of the bills himself.

Picard explained that he had exchanged some francs into dollars in New York, and pulled out a hundred dollar bill to prove it.

Frank Douglas, French-speaking secretary of A. F. Whitney, president of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen, had been loaned to Picard to help him across the U.S.A. He said: "We don't like visitors to pay for things in our country. Besides, that $100 bill looks like it was counterfeited."

Picard, however, insisted; finally was told he could pay for his breakfast. Subsequently, the waitress, tipped off in advance, brought Picard a check for ham and eggs—$25.

M. Picard looked at the check, but did not wince. He did ask how much American workmen made per week, then he took his check and his $100 bill to the cashier.

The cashier, also tipped off in advance, held the $100 bill up to the light and said: "I'm sorry but this bill is counterfeit. I'll have to call the police."

French Will Remember

M. Picard and part of the French gratitude train committee, sailed for France, after one of the most inspiring trips across the U.S.A. ever experienced by any foreigners.

They have come to know this country even better than many Americans. And they have also come to love it. Here are some of the things they will long remember:

How the American railroads not only hauled the gratitude train free, but were even thoughtful enough to put French-speaking personnel on most of the trains. . . the 120-piece high-school band at Elkhart, Ind.—musical instrument center of the world. . . the popularity of Governor Paul Dever in Boston. . . the tremendous parade staged by Mayor Joe Smith in Oakland, Calif. . . the way Mayor Al Feeney of Indianapolis matched his clothes with his complexion. . . the patience of Maryland's Governor Preston Lane in waiting in the cold for the late arrival of the train in Baltimore.

Of German descent, Heine put on one of the warmest of all welcomes for the French. . . the courtesy of Governor Earl Warren in traveling the length of California to welcome the gratitude train. . . the courtesy of Governor Alfred Driscoll of New Jersey in not being willing to get up at 9 a.m. to be on hand.

The warmth of Mayor Heck Ross's welcome on one of the coldest of Des Moines days. . . Governor Tom Mabry's broad-brimmed New Mexican hat. . . the fact that two Italo-American mayors—Mike di Salle of Toledo and Tom D'Alessandro of Baltimore—gave the French one of their finest welcomes. (It was only a short time ago that Italy and France were locked in mortal combat.)

No Original Cattle Breeds in U. S.

Although the United States is a meat-eating nation and slaughters about 34,557,000 cattle and calves annually, it has produced no original breed of cattle. On the other hand, it has originated two breeds of horses and several breeds of pigs.

Since the beginning of America, pure-breed cattle were imported for breeding purposes. Henry Clay imported the first Herefords for use on his Kentucky farm.

UP AND OVER IN HOCKEY THRILLER . . . Here's a scene typical of the thrills that are dished up for hockey fans wherever the game is played. The United States team took the event by a score of 12 to 1 in the fight for the world's title. The American went on to win the championship with a slashing type of play which seemed to bewilder their opponents and leave them helpless.

IF PRESIDENT FELL THROUGH FLOOR . . . There'd Be Re-Joisting in the White House . . . THE WORLD WOULD STAND AGHAST

H. I. PHILLIPS

TRUMAN AND THE TUB

President Truman, in explaining the probable cost of around five million dollars to repair the White House, declared — "My bathroom sagged so that I had begun to fear it would go through the floor."

We can't see why the President was alarmed. He would have been the first president ever to have fallen from one floor to another in his bath; it would have made history.

For a century there might have been signs in the White House: "President Harry S. Truman, 32nd President of the United States, Landed Here" or

"On This Spot Harry S. Truman Made the First Crash Landing Ever Made in a White House Bathtub, Gilder Type."

Had Harry kept his mouth shut, let the building deteriorate and bravely crashed through the floor in his tub, it might have been from a calamity so far as his fortunes are concerned. People love the dramatic these days. They crave entertainment and action as never before. There on the ground-floor in his second-floor bathtub amid the rubble, his head unbowed, he would have won a new grip on the public. The picture might have taken a place beside Washington and the Delaware in water exploits. We can imagine some painter glorifying it with an oil entitled, "Truman Crossing the Dilapidated Beams."

The accident would have given the people a new appreciation of what a president has to go through. It would have kindled a mood of warm sympathy and understanding. What man has ever stepped into a bathtub without at least a fleeting fear of an accident? And how many have known what it is to take a tumble in one? Can you fancy their feelings for a President who had stepped into a tub . . . powl . . . gone down a flight or two!

This is an era of rumor, gossip and suspicion; the story would have spread that the Republicans had undermined the timbers, and this would have increased pity for the President. From coast to coast, across mountains and valleys, over brooks and rivers, from log cabin to mansion the one cry would have gone up: "How's Harry?" The world would have awaited breathlessly the hourly bulletins from the White House:

10 A.M.—The White House morning statement read: "The President is doing well, but still suffering from his own amazement."

Noon—The President is resting. His face is not so red by 10 degrees as was after the mishap.

1 P.M.—Mrs. Truman was allowed to visit the President this afternoon. She asked him simply, "It seems mighty funny to me that you and the tub went down two flights, but your bathrobe remained on the hook upstairs!"

2 P.M.—President Truman got a telegram from Thomas E. Dewey. It read: "I join the bathtub users of America in my deepest gratitude that you piloted the tub to a safe landing and I sincerely hope you will soon be bathing again in the happiness and security which you have a right to expect from our country."

3 P.M.—Henry Wallace was asked to comment on the President's bathtub accident and replied: "It was too far away for me to know the exact facts. All I know is that you hear of nothing like that happening in Russia."

5 P.M.—The doctors said they would permit the President to be interviewed by radio and television. "I only regret" Mr. Truman said, "that I have but one ceiling to give for my country."

A New Jersey court has ruled that a night watchman sleeping on the premises is entitled to overtime if awake during his sleeping hours. If he sleeps during his waking hours, does the boss get a refund?

We just heard of a fellow who, needing rest and quiet, was ordered by his doctor to spend six months in Wall street.

Lights Increase

Egg Production

Fluorescent tubes convert a little current into a lot of light. So when Ralph B. McKenzie of Kane county, Illinois, put 1,000 laying hens into a pen 40 feet wide and 100 feet long in a remodeled dairy barn, he installed 16 four-foot tubes to augment the little light which was available through the windows.

The lights, when all burning, consume 640 watts per hour. At the reduced rate McKenzie pays for extra electricity, the average is less than seven cents per hen annually; thus, two of the many extra eggs laid by each bird during the year, pay the light bill.

STAR DUST

Robert Taylor
Stars in Western

By INEZ GERHARD

ACCORDING to a poll taken among allied exhibitors, there never has been a first class western that has been a box-office failure. Even the cheap quickies make money in some localities. Next on the moneymaking list come outdoor pictures, in which action is more important than dialogue. Those spectacular musicals are fourth on the list. Indicative of what we can expect comes Metro's announcement that they will make three westerns, the first, now under way, being "Devil's Doorway," starring Robert Taylor, just back from Europe. The other two are "The Outriders" and "Ambush." No stars have been announced for them as yet, but no doubt they'll be big ones.

Hedy Lamarr also is headed for a western. Paramount has her slated for "Copper Canyon," with Ray Milland and MacDonald Carey. At the same studio Burt Lancaster gets another of those tough roles that he'd like to abandon. He'll be a hard-shelled gambler in "No Escape." But first he plans to make "William Tell" as an independent production, in Italy.

Twenty-five hundred head of cattle were used for the stampeding scene in Allied Artists' "Stampede." Rod Cameron, starring, said "When I watched them filming those scenes it seemed there was nothing for miles but bawling Texas steers."

George Burns had bitter arguments with his laundry over the disappearance of some of his best shirts—then found that his daughter Sandra was wearing them to school, with the shirt-tails, outside her skirt, dangling ankle-length.

Stanley Clements was up to his eyes in textbooks on the set of "Mr. Soft Touch" at Columbia. He had enrolled at UCLA for night courses in industrial engineering, and not even Evelyn Keyes and Glenn Ford could distract him.

Melinda Markey, now 14, will follow in mama's footsteps if she has her way. Melinda promises to be as pretty as her mother, Joan Bennett, and also as talented. She's lucky if she inherits Joan's good sense as well.

The FICTION Corner

WHILE a vast throng of theatergoers passed through the exits of the Orpheum, the beautiful blonde attraction left quietly by the stage door on the arm of her most ardent admirer, the owner of the theatre and string of others.

At the curb stood Max Berber's limousine, and just ahead of it, a taxi. Four maudlin "Collegians" having a sing-song, obstructed the entrance to Berber's car, but made way while the lady stepped in. Then suddenly three of them gave Berber the bum's rush, while the fourth clambered in beside Paula Pauleen, tap dancer extraordinary.

Max spluttered and fumed while the three kidded him. A letter was pressed into his clenching fist and his car keys were frisked from him. The taxi jumped forward, and in a moment was followed by the limousine carrying the dancer and four members of the notorious Scarlet Gang in evening clothes and top hats, still simulating drunken collegians, singing to drown out the cries of the distressed dancer.

In the Holland Tunnel the singing ceased and one of the gang said to the girl:

"This is something new in kid-naps, sister. We're all jolly good fellows, members of a theatrical troupe (to the general public). But don't get us wrong. We'd rub you out as quick as any Broadway mug if you failed for a minute to give the spirit of our little game. Your big boy has just read our demands in a note left with him."

"I'll—I'll pay you," chattered the little dancer. "Please—my contract. I must dance every night."

THE CAR sped along for thirty miles and turned into a narrow road. License plates were switched and another fifty miles sped by. They stopped at a railroad village and parked the car on a side street. They changed their toppers for peak caps and entered the railroad station.

"Oh, you're the troupe from the operty house," grinned the operator. "Thought there was two girls in the party."

"One of us is a female impersonator, haw! haw!" laughed the spokesman. The operator laughed too, and began stamping the tickets. "Train's not due for thirty minutes yet," he apologized.

"O.K. brother, we'll put on a little show while we're waiting." He strode over to Paula. "Smile, sister, SMILE," he hissed, and out loud. "Come on, Sally Rand, give the gentleman your best imitation of a fan dance."

Paula was ready to faint but entered into the game by dancing a whirling tap number that had the operator's eyes popping. Some singing followed and a bottle was passed around.

"Now, another dance," ordered the master of ceremonies.

"Just a slow one," pleaded Paula. "I'm very tired."

"Oh, all right," yawned the fellow. She made a long slow stride straight to the operator and whispered "Listen!" Then she performed a painfully punctuated dance with more body undulations than footwork.

The bottle passed around again and the operator went to his key, took an order, sent one, and in a few minutes the train was in. They boarded it.

Sargo was a small city. A taxi was ready waiting for them and whisked them out into the country where they got out in front of a big house.

Every shadow exuded a police officer. Eight of them had pinioned the four "collegians" before the door opened, and two more seized the servant.

Paula promptly fainted. Two officers carried her to safety.

"This house has been under suspicion for a long time," said an officer to Paula. "When that operator's message mentioned 'Sargo' we posted a squad at the house. Here's the car now which followed their taxi from the depot."

Oh, yes, Paula's dad had been a station agent and had taught her to tap dance the Morse code.

Counterfeiting Becomes Practice of Racketeers

WASHINGTON.—Racketeers are turning to counterfeiting because wartime "get-rich-quick" schemes have played out. U. E. Baughman, chief of the secret service has reported. The switchover was cited as a reason why merchants, banks and other victims got stuck with $190,133 in counterfeit money in 1948, as compared with $84,712 the year before.

GINGERBREAD
CARS
HOSES

It is natural, it seems, for people to flaunt their wealth, and it is done in devious ways. We knew a young man in another town who had inherited almost a million. He was a modest young fellow, democratic in every way, and a neat dresser—with the exception of one article of dress. He wore the shabbiest old hat in the world. "Why does he wear such a shabby hat?" someone asked. "That's the answer," replied another. "When you see him wearing that shabby hat your first thought is: 'To see him wearing that old hat, you wouldn't imagine him to be a millionaire, would you?'"

Walk along the streets of any town, and you will have no difficulty in naming the wealthiest citizens of that town, fifty or one hundred years ago. Find the largest houses, the ones with the most gingerbread ornaments, and you will discover that the wealthiest people owned these. This was their only way of advertising to the general public that they were wealthy. Most of these old houses are decaying, but they meant something in their day.

Then came another era—the automobile age. The wealthiest man in town didn't buy the first automobile in town. He was too cautious. He had made his money the hard way and wasn't going to throw it away on some new, untried contraption. The first automobile in town was bought by some tin-horn sport, one of no great intellect, but with a little money, recently inherited, and he wanted to make a fleeting impression before the money evaporated.

When the automobile passed the experimental stage, the wealthy people of the town began to buy, and the wealthiest man had the finest car. Even today, in some towns, by watching the parade of cars, you can spot the wealthiest citizens.

Another era—the era of the lush war money! The gingerbread houses were forgotten. No longer were they criterions of wealth. Neither were the swank automobiles. These things were archaic. They had no zip, they had no zing. Race horses! Those were the things. Wealthy people invested fortunes in racing horses. You could tell the wealthiest man in the city by his splendid stable of racers. Money was easy and they spent carelessly, recklessly.

A few years pass, and walking along the back streets of any old town you can tell who used to be the town's wealthiest citizen. You can tell by the ruins of that magnificent old house, the house with all the gingerbread!

MORE "BALDERDASH" ABOUT CIVIL SERVICE

The Republican press in the state is beating the "tom-toms" for enactment of a so-called civil service law by the present General Assembly, backing up the pleas of a party leadership that was discredited by the voters last fall. Their arguments, for the most part, are specious.

Out of the several alleged reasons for civil service advanced by this partisan press, we think one offered last week is a gem. The Republican newspaper said: "Only by passing a good civil service act, like this one of Representative Given (R.-Sussex) can the taxpayers count on a truly Efficient State Government."

What became of all the prating and claims by the same Republicans, over these many years, and even last fall, that under Buck and Bacon and all the duPont selections in various posts, this state government of Delaware was so highly efficient? Political balderdash.—State Register, Laurel, Del.

Gov. Elbert N. Carvel's Statement To Members of Radio and Press

Holds Conference to clarify his recommendations on various tax increases presented to the Legislature.

Because there have been so many reports indicating a misinterpretation of those revenue measures which I outlined in my message to the Legislature last week, I should like to use this occasion to clarify certain of these provisions.

First, with respect to the gross income tax: I want to make it plain that this is in addition to the regular State income tax. The gross income tax is actually a tax on net income with certain usual exemptions disallowed; for example, charitable donations, dependencies, federal income taxes, interest on mortgages, taxes paid on real estate, and other miscellaneous items now deductible on federal and the regular State income tax, are not allowed on the gross income tax.

All regular expenses in connection with the conduct of business are exempt from the gross income tax. The result of such a tax will mean more than doubling the amount presently collected by the regular State income tax. Only in this way can an equitable increase in revenue be achieved.

I would like to point out by examples that this is not a tax on the little man alone, but is equally distributed on the basis of income and income only. With a standard exemption of 1-thousand 40-dollars in all brackets a person with a gross income of 15-hundred dollars would pay 4-dollars and sixty-cents and no regular State income tax.

A person with a gross income of 2-thousand dollars would pay 9-dollars and sixty-cents and no regular State income tax.

With a gross income of 5-thousand dollars a person would pay 49-dollars and twenty cents, plus 17-dollars and 51-cents regular State income tax, or a total of 66 dollars and 71 cents.

A person earning 15 thousand dollars would be assessed 2 hundred 88 dollars and 80 cents, plus regular State income tax of 1 hundred and 49 dollars and five cents, or a total of 4 hundred and thirty seven dollars and 85 cents. All these examples are based on the income of a married man with two children.

Let me emphasize that these are the only state taxes collected directly from individuals for the support of such services as schools, police protection, health and welfare agencies, conservation of our natural resources, agricultural research and development, and similar state services.

Revenue measures recommended by me covering a one cent increase in the gasoline tax, and the proposal to increase automobile and truck registration fees are designed as an equitable means of procuring additional revenue by means of a usage tax. These funds will be applied toward our road building and maintenance program.

I should like to point out that these registration fees have been raised on all classifications according to weight; for instance, the fee on what we usually think of as automobiles in the low price range is increased from 8 to 12 dollars.

On heavier, higher priced cars the fee is raised from 12 to 16 dollars.

Registration on trucks is increased proportionately as to weight.

The two cent cigarette tax, and the doubling of the liquor tax are, I believe, self explanatory, and will bring Delaware more nearly in line with surrounding states.

Frederica

Our town will have a pridelul kinship in the March 23rd recital, which is to be given in Woolsey Hall, New Haven, Connecticut. Mrs. Laura C. Mitten, town, is the grandmother of William Mitten, who will present this organ recital as a required artistic and technical toward his degree—to be conferred by the Yale University School of music in June of this year.

Mitten is the son of Mr. and Mrs. H. Conner Mitten, of Milford. His father graduated from the local public school and his grandfather, the late Harry F. Mitten, was for many years one of the most prominent businessmen in the community. For more than 40 years the late Mr. Mitten was the only furniture firm and undertaking establishment in the town.

Mr. Mitten will present the entire program on the Newberry Memorial Organ, and those to attend are assured that an outstanding and noteworthy musical evening is to be theirs. He won his progressive honors, and final selection for a Yale scholarship, from competition with musicians throughout the United States, and he has continued to gain recognition from musical authorities. During his junior and senior years, at Yale, Mitten has been organist at the First Lutheran Church, at West Haven.

It would appear that Frederica is well pleased with its town officials, since all were reelected by a large majority at the town election last week. The five councilmen are: Arthur Stokesbury, Edward Holleger, both holdover members; reelected members are Kent County prothonotary, W. Marion Stevenson; John C. Darby, State Bank Commissioner; John E. McBride, manager, Delaware Trust Company.

Mrs. Elizabeth Clemmons, who has been a patient at Moore's Nursing Home, here, for several years died on Saturday evening. She was a native of Camden.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Bishop and son, of Goldsboro, Mr. and Mrs. Marie Holleger, of Dover, were Sunday dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Bishop.

Mrs. Grace Homewood, of Baltimore, Md., Mr. and Mrs. Darby Homewood, of Harrington, were recent visitors of Mrs. Julia B. Darby.

Mrs. J. Reynolds Rogers, town, was elected secretary of status of women at the Dover District W. S. C. S. Selbyville Spring meeting. M. S. Gordon, of Plymouth, N. C. is spending some time with her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Hinkley.

Miss Marie Knotts gave a dinner party on Sunday. It was in honor of her father's birthday, as well as fifth wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Marker, of Cheswold. Others who celebrated with their friends were: Roland Knotts, Miss Emily Marker, of Dover, and Miss Violet Reed, of Cheswold.

Mr. and Mrs. Elwood Cahall and children, of Chester, Pa. spent the week-end with Mr. and Mrs. Howard Davidson.

It was gratifying to have Rev. Wood occupy the pulpit in Trinity Methodist Church on Sunday morning. The fine cooperative Christian spirit was manifested by the pastor and his wife when, the previous Sunday Reverend Wood prepared the excellent sermon "Talents", which was delivered by Mrs. Wood, who occupied the pulpit. Mrs. Harry Clark gave a vocal solo, with Mrs. L. L. Carlisle, Sr., at the organ.

Mrs. Leno a Langrell and Miss S. Helena Case presented the Trinity Church flowers last week.

Miss Lillie Clark of Wilmington, spent the week-end with her sister, Mrs. Ella Rust, and brother, George Baker.

Sunday the Sussex Baseball League met with the local league at the community building.

The Frederica Fire Company will continue to sponsor the Thursday evening dances at the Fire House.

Mrs. Elizabeth Calloway is much improved in health. She remains with her daughter, Mrs. Edw. Short, of Milford.

Mr. and Mrs. Willard Sapp entertained as their Sunday guests Mr. and Mrs. John Sapp, of Middletown, Jack Fields and son, of Wyoming.

Sunday callers of Miss Nettie were Mr. and Mrs. Spencer Hammond, of Milford.

Mrs. Della Wilson, president, called the Sunshine meeting to order Tuesday of last week, as the first gathering of the organization since the Christmas packages were distributed.

Mrs. Mary Burris lead the devotions and Mrs. F. Alonza Morris was pianist. The group entered into a general discussion as to the means whereby the treasury may be increased.

Letters of appreciation were read from those who had received cheer cards, flowers and other Sunshine remembrances.

April was designated as the month for payment of dues. The members were mindful of the absence of their treasurer, Mrs. Mabel Raughley, who after being critically ill at the Milford Memorial Hospital, is at her residence in town. She is, however, but slightly improved.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles C. Blendt, of Smyrna, were Sunday callers of Miss S. Helena Case.

Henry Purnell is convalescing.

From where I sit... by Joe Marsh
Never Too Late To Learn
 Cappy Miller's young son, Squint, is forever coming up with new ideas. Now they're not all world beaters, but Cappy is usually willing to give them a try.
 That's why things go so well as the Miller farm. Cappy is open-minded, tolerant of new ideas and new ways of doing. He doesn't think his way is the only way.
 From where I sit, a little tolerance will make things go better for all of us. You respect my views and I'll respect yours—whether it's on farming, politics, or choosing between an ice cream soda or a temperate glass of beer.
 Seems Squint found a new way to clear brush. They take two tractors, about thirty feet apart, and connect them with a heavy chain weighted down on the ground with old iron. First they both go parallel in one direction, then they go back over the same swath in the opposite direction and up comes the brush—roots and all. Worked fine and saved time.

 See the difference... Hear the difference!
 That solid and satisfying sound when you close the door of a Chevrolet Body by Fisher typifies the finer and more durable quality which runs all through the car. There's nothing flimsy or "tinny" about this car; it provides quality that is "true-blue"—through and through!
It's the most Beautiful BUY of all
 The most Beautiful BUY for Styling. Not only is Chevrolet's Unisteel Body by Fisher more solid, more sturdy and more satisfying to ride in, but it is also more beautifully designed, upholstered, and appointed than other bodies in the Chevrolet field. It has smarter colors, too!
 The most Beautiful BUY for Comfort. Here, you can relax as you ride... in a Super-Size Interior... featuring "Five-Foot Seats," extra-generous head, leg and elbowroom, and the advanced heating* and ventilating system of a car that breathes. (*Heater and defroster optional at extra cost.)
 The most Beautiful BUY for Driving and Riding Ease—with New Center-Point Design
 Just as you can see the difference and hear the difference born of quality when you close the door of a Chevrolet Body by Fisher, so you will experience the difference when you drive or ride in this car that America calls the most beautiful buy of all.
 And what a decisive difference you will find in its driving and riding qualities! New Center-Point Design—including Center-Point Steering, Center-Point Seating, Lower Center of Gravity without loss of road clearance and Center-Point Rear Suspension—brings you an entirely new kind of driving and riding ease found elsewhere only in costlier cars.
 Here, indeed, is the most beautiful buy of all—for total car value—because it brings you all these qualities of costlier cars at the lowest prices and with outstanding all-round economy!
 The most Beautiful BUY for Thrills and Thrift. Nowhere else will you find such a perfect balance of power, acceleration, economy and dependability as you'll find in Chevrolet's Valve-in-Head Engine! That's why more and more makers are adopting Valve-in-Head design.
 The most Beautiful BUY for All-Round Safety. You'll enjoy maximum safety with: (1) New Certi-Safe Hydraulic Brakes; (2) Extra-Strong Fisher Unisteel Body; (3) New Panoramic Visibility; (4) Safety Plate Glass in windshield and all windows; and (5) the super-safe Unitized Knee-Action Ride.

History of Harrington

ELECTRIC POWER IN HARRINGTON DATES BACK TO 1906

Early in the 1900's electricity was very much of a luxury and much more of a curiosity. Not many people were sold on the idea of lighting their homes with such a mysterious commodity, nor could many afford such a luxury.

To those who desired this startling discovery and could afford it, it was necessary for them to construct individual companies to furnish the power needed for home lighting purposes. As the small towns grew and the importance of electricity became apparent and desired by many more individuals, it soon became evident that the most efficient way to serve these people with the best in electric service was by one dependable coordinated electrical system.

The Town of Harrington followed very much this same pattern. On August 30, 1905, a franchise was granted by the Town of Harrington to Harrington Light, Heat, and Power Company, to construct an electric generating system to serve Harrington. A clause of the franchise stated that the plant must be in operation by November 2, 1906, otherwise the franchise would become void. The company failed to construct its plant by this date and the Phoenix Company was granted a franchise to construct an electric generating system to serve Harrington.

Phoenix Company purchased three grist mills in the vicinity of Harrington, which were operated by water power. Electric generating equipment was installed in each of these mills and interconnecting lines were constructed, as well as a line to the Town of Harrington. Electric energy was generated during the latter part of 1906.

These three mills were located on McColley's Pond (sometimes known as Holcomb's Pond), Wilson's Pond (sometimes referred to as Burnt Mill Pond), and Tharp's (sometimes called Thistlewood's) Pond. Both Wilson's and Tharp's ponds went dry when their dams burst.

These three ponds were on Brown's Branch, so named because Daniel Brown obtained 300 acres along it in 1680. Streams making up part of the Branch are the ditch running past Hollywood Cemetery and the ditch going through Wheeler's Park. Sections of the Branch nearer Harrington are sometimes called Jackson's Ditch.

Scharff's "History of Delaware" gives description of McColley's and Wilson's ponds. The history mentions that on October 6, 1740, at Isaac White's millpond, there were surveyed 303 acres for the heirs of William Jacobs. The survey shows three houses on the bank of the pond above the dam. White's pond probably occupied the site of the mill owned in 1887 by William Wilson.

McColley's Pond was started in 1746. The original owner was Thomas Muncy for whom two acres were condemned for a grist-mill. Thomas Ogle purchased the property from Muncy. On May 25, 1785, James Douglas purchased of John Clayton, sheriff, "all that lot of ground or millseat with part of a mill thereon on the south side of Brown's Branch."

A very large merchant mill was erected by Douglas, which was known as "Mordington Mills." In 1816 it was in possession of his son, Walter Douglas.

Clarence Shockley, of Harrington, formerly lived near Wilson's Pond. He says that he bought 12 1/2 acres of the light company's land in 1919 or 1920 and that Dick Hope took over Wilson's Pond on the sale of the Kent County Electric Company. Hope also had an interest in Killen's Pond light equipment. Shockley says that the light company also got power from Killen's and Coursey's ponds.

S. L. Sapp says that the original light company here had a building on the site of Vane's Cannery. The first house in Harrington to be wired for electricity was the Ora Sapp home on Commerce St. The first homes in Harrington were wired free, Mr. Sapp said.

Although the Phoenix Company went into receivership on May 20, 1907, it continued to serve the Town of Harrington and expanded its facilities to serve nearby towns until November 1, 1916. On this date the Kent County Electric Company, which had been incorporated on October 27, 1916 for the purpose of acquiring the Phoenix Company, began operation.

Kent County Electric Company served the Town of Harrington with electricity until October 27, 1927, when all of its property and assets were conveyed to Eastern Shore Gas and Electric Company, which name was later changed to Eastern Shore Public Service Company.

In the latter part of 1943 the Eastern Shore Public Service was merged with the Delaware Power and Light Company, which serves the town with electricity at the present time.

METHODS OF HANDLING FARM WOODLOTS

Given by Conservation Service.

Methods of handling farm woodlots was the topic of a demonstration given by the Soil Conservation Service last Wednesday to the Harrington Farm Veterans and high school Vo-Ag classes. The demonstration was arranged by Mr. Wilmer F. Aist, SCS Conservationist and was presented by Mr. W. Hutchinson, SCS Forester.

Thirty people were present at the woods on the Taylor farm west of Harrington. Mr. Hutchinson pointed out that our farmers should become interested more in the obliquely pine stands due to rapid growth and good demand as a rule for pulpwood and other soft-wood products. Hardwoods, such as the oaks and gums, are too slow in growing—and the market for these has not been as good as for the pines. He felt that yellow poplar was one of the better hardwoods to grow if a farmer was not interested in pines. He noted that farmers participating in the soil conservation program can obtain all necessary information for establishing woodlot areas, or for marketing to best advantage the timber in a stand.

Mr. Hutchinson and Mr. Aist demonstrated the use of the Doyle and International log rules for estimating the board feet of lumber in trees and logs. They described how new seedlings should be set out, and how old stands can be maintained and harvested every few years.

One tree, a pine, measured 25 inches in diameter at breast height and 56 feet high as far as usable timber was concerned. By the International Log Rule it figured out as containing 545 board feet and was estimated as being worth about $7.80 at the going price of $15.00 per 1000 B. F. at the present time.

Mr. Hutchinson gave some general rules for handling farm woodlots. First, to market each tree to its best use—and not to blindly cut over an area. Secondly, during actual cutting, to take out all mature, misshapen, diseased and dying trees. To leave the young, straight healthy growth. Thirdly, replanting a cut-over area, to replace it with rapid growing, desirable "species"—such as pines or poplars. Every woods presents a different problem, but common sense as to the best time and methods of marketing should be observed.

CORN TOP BREAD—A BREAD THAT'S DIFFERENT

Elsewhere in this issue of the Harrington Journal is announced the introduction of Corn Top Bread. This is being brought to the market by Hudson's Bakery, Inc., of Georgetown, Del.

For some time there has been a consistent demand for bread that is truly different. Corn Top, perfected in response, meets this need with bread that is deliciously different. It reminds those who have tasted it of old time kitchen baking.

This new product follows numerous changes which have been completed at Hudson's. Included is the addition of several machines of the most modern design. The changes permit closely supervised scheduling of all steps necessary in baking.

As with all products of Hudson's Bakery, the new bread will be baked right in Georgetown. Modern delivery and daily distribution insure users of oven-to-table freshness.

New Plymouth on Display

Plymouth's new special deluxe four-door sedan (above). Throughout the new Plymouth line beautifully streamlined bodies are lower and narrower, seats are wider and headroom greater. At the same time overall exterior dimensions are reduced, but wheelbase has been lengthened to 118 inches and glass area is increased. Horsepower is raised to 57. Although fenders flow gracefully into the body they are detachable for ease in repair.

New Plymouth Features Beauty, Performance, Safety and Comfort

Brilliant new styling is combined with outstanding riding comfort, increased roominess, and sweeping mechanical improvements in the new line of Plymouth automobiles. Completely redesigned, the new Plymouth has a longer wheelbase for a better ride and more road stability, but less front and rear overhang for easier parking and garaging. While the silhouette has been lowered and the width decreased, there is more head and leg room and seats are wider. Typical of Plymouth's many refinements is the ignition-starter combination, with which a turn of the key starts the engine.

The new Plymouths are sleek in appearance. New rear-end styling provides a graceful balance with the horizontal grille lines which emphasize the broadness of the front. Fenders which blend perfectly into body lines are nevertheless separate and detachable, thus avoiding sheet metal panels so costly to repair or replace.

The new Plymouth line includes five distinct automobiles. Special deluxe and deluxe types are on a 118-inch wheelbase, one inch longer than last year's. Special deluxe models are: four-door sedan, club coupe, convertible club coupe and station wagon. In the deluxe group are the four-door sedan and the club coupe. In addition, Plymouth will build three deluxe models on a brand new 111-inch wheelbase, a two-door sedan, a three-passenger coupe, and a new body type, the Suburban.

Body styling which produces greater passenger room without excessive bulk also increases visibility. V-type windshields have 37 percent more area and provide excellent vision without distortion. Windshield wipers clear 61.5 percent greater area and the rear window is 35.4 percent larger.

Northern Town Warmed By Drift Currents

Hammerfest, on the island of Kvaloy off the coast of Norway, is regarded as the most northern town of Europe.

Its latitude is 70 degrees 40 minutes north—about 10 minutes farther north than Point Barrow, Alaska. It is a prosperous city and has a normal population of several thousand.

In spite of its northern latitude, Hammerfest enjoys a comparatively mild climate; the average January temperature is a little below freezing and the harbor is always ice free; this is attributed to mild westerly winds, the drift currents of the Gulf Stream and/or those of the North Atlantic.

"WHEN MY SISTER was three and I almost five years old, our loved Daddy was killed in a motor crash," says a letter lying here on my desk.

"When mother married the family doctor, a widower," the letter goes on, "what has proved to be a fatal injury to my development took place. I was not conscious of it then, naturally, but the seeds of what grew to be absolute morbidity were sown then.

"Our stepfather loved Lily and me, but two boy babies came to take our places, and at 12 and 14 we were sent to boarding school. Our happy country summers and the letters and packages from Mother never could remove our sense of deep injustice and it has colored both our lives.

"It was my psychoanalyst who, searching painstakingly through my past, unearthed this unhappy situation in my girlhood and has helped me enormously by putting the blame for this injustice where it belongs—on the accident that robbed me of my father and my mother's second marriage."

"This is only part of a 17-page letter, which I have not answered. It takes more patience than I possess to sympathize with such a woman. And yet she is typical of actual hundreds who write me every year that fancied slights, injustices and disadvantages far back in their perfectly normal, everyday, give-and-take, up-and-down American childhoods, have upset their mental balances for life.

"It has become the fashion to seek back for something Mother or Dad did or something they left undone and lay today's stupidities, resentments, failures and flaws in character all to that. Must Compensate For Wrongs But, good heavens, which one of us hasn't suffered wrongs far deeper than these imaginary ones Diana lists here, not once, but all through our younger years! Parents will have favorites, teachers will put the blame on the wrong child, and young bewilderment and confusion will lead children into embarrassing and humiliating morasses. Unless we make up our minds, at 5 or 7 or even earlier, that that's the way the stupid world of grownups is and develop some sort of shell, philosophy or spiritual balance to offset it, we shall grow up like Lily and Diana—lopsided human beings whose wretched destiny it is to complicate further rather than help straighten out this enigma that is life.

Some 40,000 of us die in auto crashes every year, so that detail didn't particularly distinguish these little sisters. Terrible, but it's the truth. And as for a pretty mother, at 29, taking a second mate, for happy years of motherhood and companionship—was that such a crime never to be forgiven?

"Mother," says another part of Diana's letter, "was always trying to make us like Uncle Rob, as we called her husband. But we saw through her devices."

In other words, you and Lily were ungracious little jealous mixins and did all you could to ruin your mother's chances for happiness in her marriage. I'm all for modern psychological methods when they deal with the problems of the immediate present. Many good doctors and teachers and all good mothers know how to handle those cases that arise in connection with almost every child's development. Their acuity in analysis and method is amusingly evident to those of us who can remember our own young vagaries, inhibitions and fixations—only under simpler names. As long as the psychologists take today, tell their patients just what's wrong today, then I'm with them.

But when they encourage us to dig into the past, to discover that at four months one's bottle was late in arriving and at three years Mother said she already had kissed us goodnight and was going downstairs—now—and that these heinous crimes lived on and malignantly affected all our later years, then that is sheer nonsense. Silly? You'll find all these instances solemnly portrayed in a recent moving picture that supposedly represents a woman's experience in a madhouse. These are the causes that sent her there.

SHORT STORY Dancing Shoes

By CHARLES DORIAN

WHILE a vast throng of theatre-goers passed through the exits of the Orpheum, the beautiful blonde attraction left quietly by the stage door on the arm of her most ardent admirer, the owner of the theatre and string of others.

At the curb stood Max Berber's limousine, and just ahead of it, a taxi. Four maudlin "Collegians" having a sing-song, obstructed the entrance to Berber's car, but made way while the lady stepped in. Then suddenly three of them gave Berber the bum's rush, while the fourth clambered in beside Paula Paulsen, tap dancer extraordinary.

Max spluttered and fumed while the three kidded him. A letter was pressed into his clenching fist and his car keys were frisked from him. The taxi jumped forward, and in a moment was followed by the limousine carrying the dancer and four members of the notorious Scarlet Gang in evening clothes and hats still stimulating drunken collegians, singing to drown out the cries of the distressed dancer.

In the Holland Tunnel the sing-song ceased and one of the gang said to the girl: "This is something new in kid-naps, sister. We're all jolly good fellows, members of a theatrical troupe (to the general public). But don't get us wrong. We'd rub you out as quick as any Broadway mug if you failed for a minute to join the spirit of our little game. Your big boy has just read our demands in a note left with him."

"I'll pay you," chatted the little dancer. "Please, my contractor. I must dance every night."

THE CAR sped along for thirty miles and turned into a narrow road. License plates were switched and another fifty miles sped by. They stopped at a railroad village and parked the car on a side street. They changed their toppers for peak caps and entered the railroad station.

"Oh, you're the troupe from the opera house," grinned the operator. "Thought there was two girls in the party."

"One of us is a female impersonator, haw! haw!" laughed the spokesman. The operator laughed too, and began stamping the tickets. "Train's not due for thirty minutes yet," he apologized.

"O.K. brother, we'll put on a little show while we're waiting." He strode over to Paula. "Smile, sister, SMILE," he hissed, and out loud. "Come on, Sally Rand, give the gentlemen your best imitation of a fan dance."

Paula was ready to faint but entered into the game by dancing a whirling tap number that had the operator's eyes popping. Some singing followed and a bottle was passed around.

"Now, another dance," ordered the master of ceremonies. "Just a slow one," pleaded Paula. "I'm very tired."

"Oh, all right," yawned the fellow. She made a long slow stride straight to the operator and whispered "Listen!" Then she performed a painfully punctuated dance with more body undulations than footwork.

The bottle passed around again and the operator went to his key, took an order, sent one, and in a few minutes the train was in. They boarded it.

Sargo was a small city. A taxi was ready waiting for them and whisked them out into the country where they got out in front of a big house.

Every shadow exuded a police officer. Eight of them had pinioned the four "collegians" before the door opened, and two more seized the servant.

Paula promptly fainted. Two officers carried her to safety.

"This house has been under suspicion for a long time," said an officer to Paula. "When that operator's message mentioned 'Sargo' we posted a squad at the house. Here's the car now which followed their taxi from the depot."

Oh, yes, Paula's dad had been a station agent and had taught her to tap dance the Morse code.

THE MAD PIPER
Spring, the Mad Piper, is leading them back, Boudreau and Feller and Gordon and Bauer, Williams, DiMaggio, Bearden and Mack, Dyer, McCarthy and Lemon and Sauer, Southworth and Musial, Slaughter and Sain, (This is a cinch without using the brain.)

Spring Dreams of '49

AT THIS TIME last season, the following facts had been rather definitely established:

The Red Sox and Yankees were to fight out the American League pennant race with Tigers and Indians in fairly close pursuit. The Dodgers and Cardinals were to take over the National League race with the Braves always threatening.

This seemed to be logical enough. No one knew anything about a kid pitcher named Gene Bearden and no one could guess that Lou Boudreau and Larry Doby would improve to any such extent as they did. Also, no one could figure the Cardinals would get such little help from their rookie crop, and the Dodgers would be scrambling around last place long after the season opened.

Now at least 10 clubs are indulging in early March dreams of October cash and glory. Here they are: AMERICAN LEAGUE—Cleveland Indians, Boston Red Sox, New York Yankees, Philadelphia Athletics and the Detroit Tigers.

NATIONAL LEAGUE—Boston Braves, Brooklyn Dodgers, St. Louis Cardinals, New York Giants and the Pittsburgh Pirates, with Chicago's Cubs hanging around the outskirts.

There has seldom been a time in major league history where so many ball clubs in both leagues could be rated with a healthy chance to win. Something unforeseen can happen to scatter them apart, but they could also come to the wire under two blankets.

The best ball club in the two leagues looks to be Cleveland. The second best club should be the Red Sox. We are leaning heavily on that "should be" adjunct.

THE BEST CLUB in the National League should be the Dodgers with their speed and youth, their quantity of strong arms and stout legs, plus their 1948 experience. But it will probably prove to be the Braves again.

If Billy Southworth could win a flag with Eddie Stanky out of action over two months and Warren Spahn afflicted with an off year (for Spahn), there is no particular reason why he should not win again with a few slight improvements and more help from these two standbys.

Also, I have a fair idea that Billy Southworth's Braves will come north in April the best-conditioned team in the older circuit. Southworth overlooks few bats when it comes to getting the best out of what he has to work with. He wastes less time in his training campaign than any manager I ever knew.

A Dip Into the Dark

With the first day of spring training less than a week away, we hereby climb out on the end of the limb of a palm tree which has no limbs to speak of.

Here are our nominations for the early October roundup that may prevent us from seeing the Army-Michigan football game:

AMERICAN LEAGUE—Cleveland Indians, Boston Red Sox, New York Yankees, Detroit Tigers, Philadelphia Athletics, St. Louis Browns, Chicago White Sox and the Washington Senators.

NATIONAL LEAGUE—Boston Braves, Brooklyn Dodgers, St. Louis Cardinals, Pittsburgh Pirates, New York Giants, Chicago Cubs, Philadelphia Phillies and the Cincinnati Reds.

You can cut out this prediction, if you care to, and save it for next October.

The two races are the toughest to pick that I can recall in the last 10 decades. Lou Boudreau's Cleveland Indians are better equipped than anyone else to win the American League pennant.

THEY HAVE a crack young catcher in Hegann—and they have the best pitching staff in the league with Bearden, Feller, Lemon, Paige and others. They have the best infield in the league—although the Red Sox may challenge this statement. They have one of the best outfields.

We've picked them as we see them now—with March heading for a raw, rainy April—and a raw, rainy May we hope not. But it looks that way.

JUST BEFORE the warmer weather makes its appearance, many a woman is apt to take a good look at her windows. The curtains look very dirty and sleazy after a winter's heating. If you're certain they won't stand another laundering session, then get out the tape measure and sewing machine. It's time to make new window dressings!

Glass curtains are among the easiest items that can be made at home. Most of them require only long stretches of straight seams. There's no fancy stitching or cutting, no elaborate patterns, and hardly ever any ripping if you follow the simplest rules.

Soft, full gathers will make the simplest materials exquisite when they're made into curtains. First measure the windows as to height and width. The curtain material should be purchased twice as wide as the window. You'll need at least two inches at both top and bottom for seam allowances, and from two to four inches for a shrinkage tuck, so add at least eight inches to window measurements on the length.

Net marquisette, scrim, sheer rayon or nylon are all used for glass curtains. A good quality, firmly woven material will give you the most satisfaction and most wear and is well worth the few cents more a yard which it costs. It's very important to buy good material if you live in a community or ruler, and draw a chalk line on which to cut.

Pay special attention to the grain of the fabric in cutting, folding and stitching so the curtain will hang straight.

Selvage edges are woven tighter than the rest of the fabric and should be removed before cutting and sewing the seams. Why? After the curtain is washed, you may find yourself with baggy curtains which never can be ironed smooth.

This selvage does not show up in the new curtain, but it will almost always show up after laundering.

Use Iron to Save Basting Stitches Professional seamstresses always work with an iron and ironing board set up, ready to use, in their sewing room. Many edges can be pressed immediately after cutting so that the fold is sharp. This may be stitched without basting.

As soon as the curtain is cut or torn, turn the side seams, using an iron to fold them neatly. The hem edge on these is one or two inches when finished. Press first a quarter of an inch turn, then a second one inch turn. Pin the hem on the outside edge and then stitch, thus saving basting.

The top edge is turned in a casing, out this usually is basted first so that you can hang the curtain for a trial to see that it fits your window rod. This fitting will also help you in seeing that the curtain hangs properly.

Use Stiffening At Heading If you like transparent curtains to hang properly, it's best to use some stiffening at the heading of the curtain. Usually three inches or slightly more is best. Firm crinoline or buckram are fabrics which are best.

In measuring the turning necessary for the heading, decide first on the depth of the pleat, then turn the top edge in two inches more than this measure, allow a double turn so the buckram will not show.

When measuring the buckram, measure two inches from the edge, because the top stiffening should not extend to the outside hem of French-pleated curtains.

Turn the heading at the top of the curtains. Baste the edge of the fabric to the stiffening material, then turn it twice and stitch the hem or baste it.

It's also possible to use washable buckram banding made with eyelets to form the French pleats. No rings are needed. The curtain pole is slipped right through the eyelets, thus giving the necessary pleat.

If you are putting in the shrinkage tuck of two to four inches, put this in at the top in a narrow heading above the casing. Or, to avoid the shrinkage tuck, wash the curtain material before sewing, and it will shrink as much as it is going to, and no allowance need be made.

Before Finishing Hem, Hang the Curtains

It's always a good idea to hang your curtains before putting in the hem, so that you will have some idea where they will hang. This will also give you an idea of where to turn the bottom hem.

These simple glass curtains are usually sill length and have a narrow hem.

Another aid in having curtains hang properly, is the placement of a weight sewed in the corners of the hem. This is almost always used in drapes, and should be used in glass curtains because the material is so light.

No Purse Problem

You need never again worry about what to do with your purse when dining out, if you have one of these smart purse holderettes. These inexpensive gadgets are small and compact; they fit into your bag when not in use, and will help you avoid uncomfortable juggling of the purse on the lap or trying to find a place on the table or floor for the bag. They may also be used for holding umbrellas or packages.

There are many schools of thought on how omelets should be made, but the main thing is to have them light.

A light touch is necessary in putting together an omelet and it should be cooked until just done, then served at once. The omelet recipe given here uses one of the season's most delicious green vegetables and is made even more appealing with cheese sauce. Serve it with a vegetable juice cocktail, hot rolls and relishes and a simple fruit dessert, and you have a meal you'll be proud to serve anyone.

Beat the egg yolks until light. Add the milk and salt, then fold in stiffly beaten egg whites. Pour into a skillet in which butter has been melted. Cook slowly until puffed and lightly browned on the under side. Place in a slow (300°) oven for a few minutes to dry the top. Spread half of the omelet with hot, chopped broccoli, fold the other half over it and turn onto a platter.

Melt butter in top of double boiler. Add the milk, stirring constantly until sauce is smooth. Garnish the omelet with whole heads of hot, cooked broccoli and serve with hot cheese sauce.

YOU'LL FIND THESE supper rolls quick to fix, and an excellent, nourishing way to solve a meal problem:

Lenten Supper Rolls (Serves 6-8)
1 pound grated American cheese
Small bottle of stuffed olives
¼ cup butter or substitute
¼ cup finely chopped green pepper
¼ cup minced onion
1 (8-ounce) can tomato sauce
8 hard rolls
Mix cheese, sliced olives, butter, green pepper and onion. Blend in canned tomato sauce. Cut off ends of rolls and hollow them out. Butter insides of crust and stuff with cheese filling. Replace ends of rolls and wrap each roll in waxed paper, twisting ends to hold paper tight.

LYNN SAYS: Here are Facts About Yeast Breads
It's important to use all-purpose flour in making bread and rolls with yeast because this contains gluten. Cake flours are short on gluten and do not make good bread with yeast.

When the temperature goes higher than 88°, the heat may easily kill the action of the yeast.

Mix finely chopped, hard-cooked eggs with cream cheese and spread on toast. Broil until slightly bubbly and serve with bacon strips.

Butter slices of bread, top with a slice of tomato over which is sprinkled grated cheese. Place a strip of bacon on top of the cheese and broil until bacon is crisp.

Cool milk or water before adding yeast or you will kill the action of the yeast. Slightly warmer water may be used on the dry granular yeast, but the temperature should not exceed 115°.

To permit dough to rise best, place it near a radiator or in a pan of warm, not hot water. Cover closely.

Buttons and bows, in taking a cue from a popular song, are being seen in new hat and purse fashions. In a limited combination, they look not gaudy but very smart and effective.

In the color picture you'll be seeing strong vibrant colors as well as very subtle pastels. There's lots of gray, too, from the soft tones to the very stormy ones. You'll find the always-wanted accents of white.

Observing Rules Is 'Must' When Home Cooks Make Dishes of Cheese, Eggs

IF YOU'RE BUSY juggling menus for Lent or simply trying to add variety to your meals, then there's concrete help in today's column of recipes. Cheese, eggs and fish are favorite foods right now, and it's a wise idea to know how to bring out the best in each food.

All these foods, cheese, eggs and fish are economical, which may be an incentive for you to give them more than a passing thought. However, they're also foods which are highly nourishing. All three contain high quality protein which you need for building and repairing tissue.

Aside from other vitamins, cheese furnishes calcium and riboflavin. Eggs supply vitamin A and riboflavin, as well as iron. For these reasons, both foods should be included in the daily diet.

CHEESE AND POTATOES are two foods that combine naturally to make a pleasing flavorome dish. This soufflé may be baked in individual dishes or in one large casserole. For a meatless meal, serve it with asparagus tips in drawn butter sauce, minted carrots and creamed onions.

It may also be served very nicely with a roast leg of lamb in place of au gratin potatoes.

Potato and Cheese Soufflé (Serves 6)
1 tablespoon butter
1 tablespoon flour
½ cup milk
1 cup grated or shredded cheese
1 tablespoon grated onion
½ teaspoon salt
Dash of pepper
2 cups rice potatoes
3 egg yolks
3 egg whites

Melt butter, add flour and blend. Add milk and cook, stirring constantly, until thick. Add cheese and seasonings and cook over very low heat until cheese is melted. Add potatoes and well beaten egg yolks. Fold in stiffly beaten whites. Turn into a large or into individual casseroles which have been buttered and bake in a moderately (325°) slow oven for 40 to 60 minutes.

BAKED BEANS, prepared as they are in the following recipe, are tasty and filling, guaranteed to take the edge off sharp appetites.

Lenten Baked Beans (Serves 4-6)
¼ cup minced onion
1½ cups minced green pepper
4 tablespoons fat or salad oil
4 cups cooked or canned baked beans
¼ cup chili sauce
¼ cup grated American cheese
¼ cup buttered bread crumbs
Saute onion and green pepper in fat until tender. Add beans and arrange in a greased casserole, alternating layers of the beans with cheese. Top with crumbs. Bake in a hot (400°) oven for 30 minutes.

When you're ready for the dough for rising, grease the top of it lightly with butter, fat or salad oil, and cover with a clean towel.

Light greasing helps prevent a crust from forming on the dough. The towel prevents dust from coming in contact with the bread.

Bread and rolls should be removed from their pans immediately after baking so they will not steam and become soggy.

If you like a soft crust on rolls, brush them with melted butter as soon as you finish baking.

If your rolls and bread do not rise rapidly enough, the temperature of the dough is probably not high enough. The ideal temperature is from 80° to 85°.

To prevent "ropy" bread, always use scrupulously clean utensils for mixing and baking. Scrub them with soap and water and rinse in hot, clear water.

If you prefer a crisp crust on rolls and bread, brush with egg beaten with a slight amount of water if minutes before baking time is finished.

FIRST AID to the AILING HOUSE
by Roger C. Whitman

QUESTION: My basement floor was painted some time ago, but the paint has worn off and I would like to fix up the floor so that the youngsters can use it for dancing. Because of the expense involved I would prefer not to lay asphalt tile. As it is now, there is powder about one-quarter-inch deep over the whole floor and the surface is not smooth, but full of small pin-holes.

ANSWER: You can treat the floor and get a good job, depending on how much labor you are willing to put into it. I would suggest that you look forward to laying asphalt tile as soon as you can manage it, for the tile would be much more comfortable underfoot than concrete, if the floor is to be used for dancing. In the meantime, you can paint the floor with an appropriate paint with a rubber base.

COMEDY AND MUSIC
FEATURED ON MILFORD
VAUDEVILLE BILL

On Friday and Saturday Schine's New Milford Theatre celebrates the 10th week of their new vaudeville policy, which has been widely acclaimed in this area, by presenting the biggest and best variety bill yet. The 5 act show leans heavily towards comedy and music.

The opener on the bill is Al and Connie Fenton with a different type of dance routine that is sure to please audiences. The second act is Duke Dorrell billed as "The Mad Violinist." His comedy skit has convulsed theatregoers in leading amusement palaces in both the United States and Europe.

Third on the program is that popular musical team from radio and television, The Marimba-Aires. It is one of the finest musical novelties yet presented on the Milford stage. The fourth act is a one man comedy riot, Steve Evans. The management states that he is positively the funniest man in vaudeville. The closing act is Ladd Lyon and Co. who will present a surprising climax to an exceptional vaudeville program.

Not only is the stage program of special interest this Friday and Saturday but the screen attraction is one of the outstanding adventure films of the year, Douglas Fairbanks, Jr. in "The Fighting O'Flynn." Stage shows will be presented on Friday at 7:00 and 9:45 and on Saturday at 4:00; 6:50 and 9:45.

added. Among the outstanding innovations is the combination ignition and starter switch which completely eliminates the starter button. The car starts by turning the ignition key slightly beyond the "ignition on" position. When released, the key automatically returns to "ignition on" position. The device is not only a driver convenience, but makes it impossible for children to move cars which are parked and left in gear by accidentally pushing the starter-button.

A new fresh air car heater, which steps up defrosting and more readily removes window fog, is available in three models. Located under the hood, the new heater operates quietly and is easily installed. It may be used in warm weather as a fresh air circulator.

New seat cushion construction allows the addition of extra spring coils to reduce the softness of the cushion and to provide greater support, if needed.

There are numerous improvements in the new Plymouth's electrical and lighting system. Headlights equipped with a bullseye lens in the center of the sealed-beam lens provide substantially increased light output. Plastic lenses have been installed in the stop, tail, and parking lights. The lenses are more resistant to breakage, and provide better sealing at points where dust and dirt might enter. A new enclosed circuit breaker, interchangeable with those used on other Chrysler Corporation cars, eliminates the need for replacing lighting system fuses.

WHEELER RADIO STORE NEWS

Cheerfulness is one of the best medicines that can be prescribed, and this can be had at a very reasonable price. Did you ever stop to realize that the paper you now have on your walls was put there years and years ago when people had a different light on living - in fact it was then something that would last and children could rub their hands on it and still would look about the same, but that day is gone and the papers you buy today are made to look cool, bright and cheerful. Now think it over and drop in and get some of the same cheerful looking paper and make the whole family happy.

This time of the year I try to tell the people who own battery sets to have good batteries as when the weather is warm the signals do not carry quite so well. In fact, if you have an electric radio you should have it in the best of condition for the warm season just ahead. Bring it in and let my man give it a check up. You know a radio is something like a human being. They both should have a check-up ever so often. Sometimes it is put off so long that nothing can be done. In that case you know Philco is building thousands of radios every day, so if you need a radio, buy Philco and you have that which you have always wanted.

Trapped Bull in Silo Gives Farmer a Baffling Problem

NEW HAMPTON, IOWA.—Farmer Orvin Knutson has a two-horned dilemma at the bottom of his silo. A 1,200-pound Guernsey bull fell into the pit, and Knutson doesn't know what to do about it.

Along with a nice set of horns, the critter has such a mean disposition that Knutson doesn't want to descend into the narrow confines to attach hoisting belts.

He said it would cost more than the animal is worth to knock an exit hole through the silo walls. But the animal has not been fattened for slaughtering, he added.

Besides, Knutson has three feet of silage which would be spoiled in the killing.

Rocket Mail Delivery Not Recognized by Postmaster

TRONA, CALIF.—The rocket mail didn't go through.

Youthful scientists sent eight rockets loaded with 4,200 letters soaring a mile across dry Searles lake practically into the Trona postmaster's lap.

But that functionary, Don E. MacPherson, refused to accept the mail for sending because it bore stickers resembling U. S. stamps.

Sponsors of the rocket experiment, Glendale Research Society of Glendale, said they had stamped all envelopes "not U. S. postage" as instructed by U. S. District Attorney James Carter of Los Angeles.

The rockets are of stainless steel, 11 feet long and 3 inches slim. Their testers, mostly junior college physics students, claim they go 400 m.p.h. and 4,000 feet high. The young scientists foresee a future transcontinental rocket mail service.

But somebody had better tell the postmasters first.

Surgeons Forget Fowl in Vet's Stomach; He Can't Sue

BALTIMORE, MD.—A pensioned army veteran who sought $100,000 from the government because of an 18 by 30-inch towel left in his stomach was told that he couldn't sue Uncle Sam.

The veteran, 50-year-old Arthur K. Jefferson of Joppa, Md., filed the suit under the recently-enacted federal tort claims act, waiving immunity of the United States from damage suits by private persons.

But Federal Judge W. Calvin Chestnut ruled that congress did not intend to include suits by former soldiers for service-connected disabilities "for which there was already existing a large body of federal legislation."

Mixed Burglar Alarm Signals Bring Police to 'Robbery'

CINCINNATI — Four policemen went to Antonio Dipilla's grocery in answer to a robbery alarm.

But there was no robbery. The grocer just got his signals mixed up.

Dipilla explained that he and his landlady, Mrs. Frank Klein, who lives on the second floor, had a pre-arranged signal whereby he was to tap on a pipe in case of a holdup.

"Mrs. Klein was in the store, and a few minutes after she left I heard water running in a washroom," Dipilla said. "I forgot about the signal and rapped on the pipe to call her attention to it."

The landlady, hearing the rapping called police.
