

If New or Increased Taxes Are Not Needed, Repeal to Be Suggested, Says Carvel

Governor Tells Press Conference Also That Proposed Survey May Result in Economy in Government

If it is found that any of the new or increased taxes proposed by the State administration are not needed to meet the cost of operation of the State government, Governor Elbert N. Carvel will recommend their repeal.

This was made clear by the governor during his press conference this week in response to questions pointing out that possible economy in State government costs may result from a proposed survey intended to make recommendations to the next session of the legislature for the purpose of eliminating any duplication of effort in the various State Departments.

The governor made it clear that he, like everyone else, does not like taxes and expressed the opinion that no taxes should be collected if the revenue derived from them is not needed.

In response to some of the opposition to the proposed gross income tax, the governor announced that he intends to propose to the legislature the enactment of a series of exemptions that would equal $200 for each dependent including a man's wife.

The governor also stated that he will be unable to approve any appropriation bills, including the general budget bill, for which the revenue is not in sight to meet the cost of the appropriations. He cited that existing laws would require him to follow this plan.

Governor's Talk

Upon taking office on January 20th, I found that the State for the past several years had been running in the red. In short, Delaware was spending more than it was receiving. Faced with a deficit, it was apparent that additional revenue had to be obtained. To meet this situation in the very limited time available, my party turned to the war emergency tax, sometimes known as the 1 per cent gross income tax, which was in effect from 1943 to 1945. That statute was changed by doubling the exemption and increasing the rates in the upper brackets.

Both as governor and as an individual I am opposed to the imposition of any taxes that are not needed. I endeavored to make my position clear on this matter in my message to the General Assembly.

"The task confronting me in both the preparation and presentation of this program was far from easy.

"Yet in the Democratic campaign of 1948 certain changes and improvements in public affairs of this State were advocated and thereupon became a part of the issue of the campaign in which the voters were to make a decision.

"A majority of the voters in each of the three counties approved the Democratic candidate for governor and the Democratic plan for betterment of existing conditions. This must be considered in the light of a mandate from the voters. (Continued on insert page)

INTOLERANCE A TWO-WAY STREET

The cry of intolerance is never raised by the majority. The majority makes the rules and plays the game according to its fancy. It can be intolerant and get away with it, because it has the snouts of war, whether it be military or social.

Intolerance is begged by the minority. The majority in Spain, Mexico, and Italy is the minority in the United States—yet that minority has a scintillating voice over here, while in the other countries mentioned the minority hasn't even a subdued whisper.

Those adventurers who settled on the "rugged, rockbound coast" of New England years ago have become more or less tarnished in the light of history. They were malcontents in Europe and raised the cry of intolerance, so they came to the new land where they could worship God "according to the dictates of their own conscience" and bitterly persecute others who wished to worship in another way. Give the run-of-the-mill shouter of intolerance the balance of power and he will become the most intolerant creature in the world. Roger Williams, fleeing from the religious persecution in Massachusetts, took refuge among the Indians. "I had rather be among the Christian savages in Providence," he said, "than among the savage Christians in the Massachusetts Bay Colony."

A woman from Philadelphia—she looked like a sorrel whose hair had been dyed—after spending a week or two in Harrington, snapped: "Horses! Horses! Horses! That's all the people of Harrington know and that's all they think about and talk about, day after day, night after night. They have one-track minds. Wrong, lady—very, very wrong. They do not possess one-track minds. All the tracks in the United States are running in their minds."

If Wilmington would only keep from imitating Harrington! A little over a year ago the Better Business League of Harrington appointed John Parks as chairman of a committee to see that receptacles for waste paper, etc. were placed upon the streets of Harrington. John, as civic-minded and conscientious as any citizen of the United States, had those receptacles in their respective if not respectable places within a few days. A few weeks later there came a mandate from the City Council: "Please remove those receptacles. Some of our people are using them for the disposal of garbage." Last week Wilmington ordered the removal of receptacles. Ditto!

The hake is a fish of the colder waters. The female frequently weighs several hundred pounds, while the male weighs only fifty pounds. The male hake's plight is probably responsible for that expression, "The poor fish!"

(Continued from page 1) and we find the finances of the State in such condition that additional revenue must be procured in order to meet the expenses of the State.

"Existing tax and income records reveal that about one-third of the tax receipts from the gross income tax would be paid by ninety per cent of our residents, while remaining two-thirds would come from about ten per cent of our people.

"No tax can be popular. The most that can be achieved is to make the tax equitable and fair. In order to achieve fairness, I therefore recommend an amendment which will allow every taxpayer a deduction of $200 for each dependent. Dependents in this interpretation would mean a wife and children. I have reached this conclusion after listening to many people who have contacted me in my office in Dover by letter and by telephone. I am indeed grateful for the advice and counsel which I have received from these people all over the State, and because I have complete confidence in their ability to so intelligently advise me, I have come to the conclusion that this change in the proposed Emergency Gross Income Tax is desirable.

"It has been stated in several of the papers throughout the State that my proposed revenue measures are unpopular, and indeed, after reading the interpretations placed upon these measures by the newspapers and editorial writers, I cannot help but agree with them that they would be unpopular if they were as represented. However, this is not the case. By direct attempt to misrepresent to the people of Delaware, these newspapers and editorial writers are fooling only themselves, and not the people. I know that my revenue measures are not unfair and I do not believe, after they are properly explained, that they will be unpopular with the people of this State. I intend to use every facility available to me to see to it that this misrepresentation is overcome.

The people of this State deserve to know the truth. It is my intention to see to it that the people are given the facts, and that they are allowed to make their own decisions. As I have pointed out before, and shall continue to do so, no tax which falls upon all the people in proportion to their ability to pay, that is, by an income tax, can be dubbed a 'poor man's tax' or a tax on the 'little man.'

"We are also mindful of the fact that there are very many residents of our State who enjoy the benefits of the services provided by the State, yet contribute nothing directly in taxes to the support of the state government.

"For that reason a tax on earnings has long been considered as an equitable form of procuring support for the state government. "Let me emphasize that I shall strictly observe that section of the Revised Code of Delaware, 1935, Section 12, Chapter 158, which provides that no appropriations, including the budget appropriation bill, shall exceed the estimated amount of revenue which the State will receive. In other words, it will be impossible for me to sign any appropriation bill, including the regular budget appropriation bill, until new revenues have been provided by the legislature, and, as stated before, I shall strictly observe this principle."

UNIVERSITY OF DELAWARE

The Dean's List at the University of Delaware for the first semester of 1948-49 includes 488 students, or about 22 per cent of the entire student body. The list named four students from Harrington High School.

Dr. Francis H. Squire, dean of the University, reported that 18 students had scholastic indices of 4.00, equivalent of a straight "A" average. A record averaging at least 3.00, or "B", for all subjects is necessary for inclusion on the list.

Veterans more than held their own with non-veteran students. They constituted 45 per cent of the student body last fall, but the 243 veterans who are on the Dean's List are almost exactly 50 per cent of the total named.

Students named from Harrington High School were: Robert R. Steward, Jr., Enoch S. Richards, Jr., Melvin C. Luff, Oscar T. Roberts, Jr.

BEWARE IDES OF MARCH WHEN IT COMES TO FIRE
Beware the Ides of March if you want your farm property from going up in flames, Mrs. Violet N. Goodwill, Kent County Home Demonstration Agent warned.

Cited figures released by the Fire Protection Institute to indicate that March is the worst month of the year in terms of fire losses. And losses this year may reach new highs.

"More than $74,236,000 worth of national property was destroyed by fire during March of last year," Mrs. Goodwill stated. "Based on Department of Agriculture calculations, approximately 14 million of that one-month loss occurred on America's farms." Fire losses in 1948 amounted to over 711 million dollars, the nation's greatest destruction by fire in a single year.

This is a serious threat to the farmer, to the consumer who depends on his products, and to the entire national economy. Furthermore, fire losses can be reduced through a simply program of prevention and protection.

There's nothing complicated about rooting out fire hazards and using common sense to prevent fires," Mrs. Goodwill contends. And there's nothing complicated about getting the best approved fire extinguishers and spotting them at strategic points on farm property against the time when unpreventable fire breaks out.

A fire multiplies fifty times in eight minutes, and today's farmer can't afford to operate without sound fire-fighting equipment.

HARRINGTON SEVENTH DAY ADVENTIST CHURCH

A medical center for Hiroshima and a mission headquarters for Guam will be financed by an offering in which members of the Harrington Seventh-Day Adventist Church, will participate on Saturday, March 26.

Above $250,000 is sought in the one day offering to be received in Adventists Churches all over the world.

F. R. Millard, superintendent of the Japan Union Mission, in a message to the church said that "the officials of the city are laying plans to make the new Hiroshima a model for Japan. They have encouraged us in plans for a center made up of church, school, and medical unit."

The headquarters on Guam will organize work started by a Seventh day Adventist sailor who acted as an "impromptu" missionary for the church while stationed on the island in 1944.

"Japan's great need is for good hospitals," Millard said. "Authorities are asking us to establish as many as possible, and we must definitely plan to build, to build five more in the near future."

Joshua Lister, superintendent of the Harrington Sabbath School, declared that, "It is altogether fitting that Christian institutions of mercy should rise from the ruins and destruction of Hiroshima and Guam. Before the war our church of 90 members in Hiroshima was one of the most active in Japan. We must help them rebuild it, and give them facilities with which to minister to their neighbors."

"Japan is like a person trying to regain consciousness after a severe accident," he said. "Her needs are spiritual, mental and physical, and the Christian church must minister to them all."

Seventh Day Adventist maintain 20 foreign missionaries and about 40 national workers in Japan.

FOOD FOR THOUGHT AGE AND EXERCISE

This column continues the story of meat which was started last week and this article will adhere to generalizations on the effect of age and exercise on meat.

All meat slaughtered at an early age is tender. Lamb is at its best at about six months of age. Being so young, no amount of gamboling through green pastures could produce a tough cut of meat. With advancing age, lambs become "yearlings" which yield more meat of slightly less tender qualities. When properly cooked, most of us have difficulty distinguishing "lamb's" from "yearlings".

Then at the stage of full growth the meat from sheep is called mutton. Mutton is used very little in this country. It does have a pronounced flavor yet not unpleasant. The lack of popularity of mutton may be placed upon our custom, instead of its taste, for there are many other highly flavored meats, in the natural form or because of processing, which are enjoyed by us. Mutton is less tender than lamb. This is due to both age and exercise.

These effects of age and exercise are true of the bovine species also. The young, upon being slaughtered, is called veal. Veal if properly cooked, is always tender although it does require thorough cooking. Veal should never be served rare, never broiled.

Now the question arises, if veal cannot be served rare what accounts for the steak of the bovine species called steer, being so tender and often recommended in convalescence. It's understood we all recommended it when we're in good health.

This distinction will be made in this column next week.

New Plymouth on Display

Plymouth's new special deluxe four-door sedan (above). Throughout the new Plymouth line beautiful streamlined bodies are lower and narrower, seats are wider and headroom greater. At the same time over exterior dimensions are reduced, but wheelbase has been lengthened to 118 inches and glass area is increased. Horsepower is raised to 97. Although fenders flow gracefully into the body they are detachable for ease in repair.

New Plymouth Features Beauty, Performance, Safety and Comfort.

Brilliant new styling is combined with outstanding riding comfort, increased roominess, and sweeping mechanical improvements in the new line of Plymouth automobiles. Completely redesigned, the new Plymouth has a longer wheelbase for a better ride and more road stability, but less front and rear overhang for easier parking and garaging. While the silhouette has been lowered and the width decreased, there is more head and leg room and seats are wider. Typical of Plymouth's many refinements is the ignition starter combination, with which a turn of the key starts the engine. The new Plymouths are sleek in appearance. New year-end styling provides a graceful balance with the horizontal grille lines which emphasize the broadness of the front. Fenders which blend perfectly into body lines are nevertheless separate and detachable, thus avoiding sheet metal panels so costly to repair or replace.

The new Plymouth line includes nine distinct automobiles. Special deluxe and deluxe types are on a 118-inch wheelbase, one inch longer than last year's. Special deluxe models are: four-door sedan, club coupe, convertible club coupe and station wagon. In the deluxe group are the four-door sedan and the club coupe. In addition, Plymouth will build three deluxe models on a brand new 111-inch wheelbase, a two-door sedan, a three-passenger coupe, and a new body type, the Suburban.

The 97-horsepower engine has improved performance and efficiency with a new design cylinder head which increases compression ratio to 7 to 1. A new chrome plate compression piston ring reduces cylinder wear and provides great protection during the break-in period. There are improved oil rings for greater oil economy, while newly-designed intake manifold induces quicker, smoother engine warm-up and produces faster throttle response.

Body styling which produces greater passenger room without excessive bulk also increases visibility. V-type windshields have 37 percent more area and provide excellent vision without distortion. Windshield wipers clear 61.5 percent greater area and the rear window is 35.4 percent larger.
