

Princess Ward Wins Journal Harness Race Trophy Here

Closely Pushed by Czarmite; Racing Especially Fast for Initial Nite Of 20-Day Meet Here of Kent & Sussex Racing Association

Princess Ward, driven by J. O. Hunt, won the Harrington Journal Trot, feature of the opening harness racing program at the Kent and Sussex Fairgrounds, Wednesday night.

Czarmite trailed Princess Ward in the third race, and the tables were turned in the fifth race, the second heat of the feature. Princess Ward took the trophy, however, for having turned in the better time in its winning effort.

More than 4000 fans were on hand for the start of the 20-night program.

The racing was the fastest on the opening night of any meet here. Several events were raced around 2:00 and 2:10 and in the sixth race Rita Direct, driven by C. Wingate, made the mile in 2:07.1, one-fifth of a second from the track record of 2:07, made by Prince James towards the close of last year's meet.

Some 450 horses are on the grounds, a record number which includes an unusually large number of speedy candidates. With a comparatively favorable spring for training and a rebuilt track which, some observers say, will speed up the time three to four seconds, many prophesy that the track record, for the pari-mutuel meet, of 2:07, made by Prince James last year, will be easily broken.

An innovation in local harness racing is the introduction of saddle cloths. These cloths, made of duran plastic, will come in eight colors, one for each of the nightly events. Entries will wear the cloths when going to the paddock and when warming up. Thus, by noting the color, spectators will know at a glance in which race the candidate will take part. Furthermore, the numbers on the saddle cloths will be more visible than the head numbers which will continue to be carried.

The feature race Friday night will be the Warren T. Moore Memorial Trot for a purse of $1000, supplanting the Charles D. Murphy Memorial Pace to be held May 14. The B. I. Shaw Memorial Pace, scheduled for May 14, will be raced tomorrow night.

The leading driver of the race meet will receive $100 from Rickards Bag Co., of Selbyville; the second driver, $50 from Bridle Bit Restaurant, Harrington, with $25 being donated by L. B. Brittingham, Laurel, to the third driver. The leading driver last year was T. Wingate.

Hoof Beats

By Mrs. Harry S. Stout

The initial race meet of the year for Indiana began Wednesday at Shelbyville, with a five-event matinee program. Sponsor of the program was the Green Valley Racing Club, with proceeds to go into the club's funds to promote the recently organized Green Valley Pacing Stake. This new stake, which will make its debut in 1950 when foals of 1948 will race as two-year-old pacers, is named in honor of Harry S. Stout's late two-minute pacing gelding, Green Valley died here last year and is buried in the infield of the local track. A memorial race will be run for him here next Friday night. It will be a race and a trot for $1000, Green Valley, written up in The Harrington Journal two weeks ago, was a trotter in his later years.

Incidentally, Collins Clothing Store and Phillips Men's Shop, Milford, both sell racing neckties with a trade-mark of Green Valley.

Green Valley's trophy blanket, along with those of the Harrington Journal, K & H Provision Company, and Peoples Restaurant and Service Station, is on display in Peoples Restaurant.

The Harrington Journal blanket has a black border, with white letters on a red background. "It's like the Journal. Black and white and red all over."

Doc White, "the wizard of the turf," arrived Monday. Everybody likes Doc, who has been purveying dope sheets here at all pari-mutuel meets.

Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Griffith announce the foaling of a bay filly last Friday morning by Helena, dam of the renowned Direct Express and Direct Spangler. She was the trotter, Nibble Hanover, 1:58 3-4, of Hanover Shoe Farms. Helena left Thursday for the farms where she will attend the court of Ensign Hanover.

The New Jersey contingent arrived Tuesday from Paulsboro. J. Oscar Hunt, of Swedesboro, was represented with the chestnut gelding pacer, High Command, who raced on the opening night here last spring in 2:08. Other Hunt horses were May Raider, a trophy winner here last year. Another Hunt horse is Princess Ward.

W. G. Cowgill, supervised eight other Jersey horses, including Kirby C, a three-year-old trotting filly, Kate D, a nine-year-old trotter who raced here last year; Flo C, who also raced here last year, and Breeze Along, a two-year-old trotter. These candidates belong to Dr. Darlington. There was also a gelding pacer, Wild Majesty, belonging to Albert Newton, also of Swedesboro. For Roy Ware, of Woodstown, N. J., there were Victory Donover, a four-year-old trotting gelding, trained but never raced, and Bob King, a five-year-old bay gelding pacer.

The State Harness Racing Commission met Tuesday at the Bank of Felton and elected J. Harold Schabinger, chairman.

Mobile X-Ray Unit To Visit Houston

The State Board of Health Mobile X-Ray Unit will be stationed at the Fire House in Houston on Friday afternoon, April 29, from one until four, and chest x-rays and blood tests will be available for all persons 15 years of age or older.

Last year the same service was made available to residents of Houston and nearby communities. A yearly check-up such as this is advisable, and one way of preventing and controlling tuberculosis, one of Delaware's leading health problems.

The progress is sponsored this year by the Houston Home Demonstration Club under the direction of Mrs. Pearl Stevenson, health chairman, assisted by the Women's Club and other organizations in the community.

Houston is one of several communities in Kent County to arrange for the mass chest x-ray survey offered by the State Board of Health and the Delaware Anti-Tuberculosis Society. The first two weeks in May have been scheduled and will be announced later by radio and press.

May Raider

The B. I. Pete Shaw Memorial Pace will be run at the Kent and Sussex Race meet here tomorrow night. Shown above is May Raider, last year's winner of the pace, with owner J. Oscar Hunt up.

V.F.W Honors Shirley Sipple

Miss Shirley Sipple, Felton school teacher, and author of the book, "Delaware Through the Years", received a certificate of Merit from the Department of Delaware, Veterans of Foreign Wars of the United States for her outstanding work to further Americanism. The award was made in Wilmington, Monday afternoon by National Commander-in-Chief Lyall T. Beggs of Madison, Wis.

After lauding Miss Sipple for her work in writing the text book adopted by the Delaware school system, the national VFW leader also praised the Department of Delaware for singling out Miss Sipple for the award.

"We need good school teachers today," Beggs said, "and it is unusual to find one, who is willing to give of her spare time to do an outstanding job such as has been done by Miss Sipple. I want to commend the Department of Delaware for recognizing that Miss Sipple had made a great contribution to her State. These are the things that help strengthen America, and I congratulate the people of Delaware on having such interested people within its confines."

The certificate of Merit read, "Department of Delaware, Veterans of Foreign Wars of the United States, Certificate of Merit to Miss Shirley Sipple, of Dover, Delaware, for her outstanding contribution to the state in writing, 'Delaware Through the Years'—a text on Delaware's history to simply and correctly impress the Youth of the State with the tradition and heritage which is theirs." Signed, Raymond M. Loose, Department Commander.

Children's Teeth To Be Subjected To Fluorine Trials

The fluorine team from the United States Public Health Service, assigned to Delaware under the direction of the State Board of Health, started work in the Harrington Schools this week, and children for whom fluorine will be made available have been selected from the first six grades.

According to Dr. Neil Kerico, dentist in charge of the program, each child will receive four applications of fluorine given about three days apart, which will apply to the teeth following the method approved by the Public Health Service.

The teeth of the children will be examined prior to applying the fluorine and parents will be advised concerning those in need of dental attention. It is important that teeth which have started to decay receive immediate attention from the family dentist since they are not protected by the fluorine. According to Dr. Kerico, the topical application of fluorine is successful in reducing the yearly incidence of dental decay from 40 to 50 per cent, but as far as it is known, it has no effect of teeth which have started to decay.

Working with Dr. Kerico at the Schools are Miss Dorothy Peters and Miss Jo Ann Keichner, dental hygienists, and Miss Elizabeth Jackson, clerk. The team will move to Sussex County when the work is completed in Kent County.

Parents of the children and other interested persons in the community are invited to visit the school during school hours and observe the work being done there.

The Felton High School Glee Club directed by Mr. Haines, sang a group of songs and Miss Mary Ellen Saboe sang two solo numbers. Miss Thelma Steward played, Valse by Chopin.

Mrs. Lowder Harrington, gave a humorous reading. The closing meeting of the club year will be held in the Community Hall, May 4 at 1:30 P. M.

Deciding to give the fish a try in the Delaware Bay off the Mispillion Light, they were fortunate enough to hook fifteen medium sized trout, which they believe to be the first trout of the season caught on hook and line.

While in the vicinity of the "Mohawk", Stafford made a telephone call to Georgetown, via Mr. Ward's newly installed "Ship to Shore Marine Telephone."

Violets Grow in Trees--Sometimes

Violets will grow in trees. Peoples Restaurant, Harrington, has an exhibit this week showing the demure plants growing in a hollow, of a black gum.

The curiosity was discovered by Ernest Calloway while cutting timber near Farmington. The hollow was about four feet above ground.

During his press conference on Tuesday Governor Elbert N. Carvel again repeated his former statement to the effect that he cannot approve any appropriation measures for which the estimated revenue is not in sight to pay for the appropriation. In this connection the Governor is only following the law which provides for all appropriations to be covered by the needed revenue before they receive executive approval.

A spokesman for the Administration pointed out that the budget for the operation of the State government has been before the session since early in January. Several months ago the Governor, in a special message, outlined the fiscal needs of the State and offered suggested revenue raising plans to provide funds for meeting these needs.

Almost immediately following that message by Governor Carvel, measures containing provisions for the items outlined by the Governor were introduced and placed on the calendars, this source added.

Therefore, according to this spokesman, the Administration has fulfilled its duty to the public by first citing the various fiscal needs of the State and then outlining a revenue raising program to provide for these needs.

It was further pointed out that the Legislature may be the cause of upsetting the fiscal plans through their own actions since the present long-drawn out session has long since passed the sixtieth day and the expenses of the session, much larger than usual because of the large number of attaches and employees attached to the session as well as the need for additional printing, and the estimated amount set aside for Legislative expenses may be far too small.

O. E. S. Aids Needy Children

The Order of the Eastern Star has contributed funds for a program of aid to needy children in America and overseas, and through the Save the Children Federation, a national child service organization, has provided more than $50,000 for this work, it was announced today by Mrs. Marie L. Roberts, Worthy Grand Matron, Grand Chapter of Delaware.

Adopted as a national project by the Eastern Star's General Grand Chapter, the program has reached more than 1,000 children in 320 little country schools in the United States through Save-the-Children school sponsorships; hundreds of children in European schools, more than 160 individual children in war-depleted countries of Western Europe through child sponsorships, and hundreds of needy mothers, who are being given layettes for their babies.

In addition, broad support has been given to the general child service work of the Federation.

Contributions for the project have come from local Eastern Star chapters in some 28 states, and Canada, Alaska, Mexico and Puerto Rico.

The project is under the direction of Most Worthy Grand Matron, Mrs. Eva M. Hamilton, of Chicago. It was initiated by her predecessor, Sister Olga Phillip and is supervised by the welfare committee of the General Grand Chapter. The committee's international membership includes, Mrs. Marion I. Knight, of Detroit chairman; Mrs. Margaret Morrison, Montreal, Quebec; Mrs. Marie Bezouska, Santurce, Puerto Rico; Miss Mildred M. Hicks, Washington, D. C., and Mrs. Eva S. Wright, Vt.

Because the Save the Children Federation offers a program by which many children could be reached directly through sponsorship of schools as well as individually, this organization was chosen as a means of instrumenting the Eastern Star's pledge "to hear the cry of orphan, the call of want, and the piteous wail of sorrow."

Isolationism Exists

WHAT ISOLATIONISM is not dead, at least in the United States senate was clearly indicated when Sen. William E. Jenner (R-Ind.) in a three-hour speech on the Senate floor called for repeal of the Marshall plan; urged the senate to refuse to approve further appropriations for it; refused to adhere to any bi-partisan foreign policy; praised the action of Senators Lodge, Borah, H. Johnson and other isolationists of the 1920 era in keeping this country out of the League of Nations; declared this country is "hated around the world" because of our material possessions and our humanitarian attempts to relieve suffering and our outpouring of money to stay other Democratic governments; declared that World War II was not the result of our failure to join the League of Nations, but that it was "deliberately planned"; castigated our foreign policy and charged that "secret diplomacy is the rule and not the exception"; charged that this nation "our own country and our own leaders have been a party to conspiracy which has permitted Russia to gain the place she holds today in world affairs."

He charged that this country has directly violated the Atlantic charter; that the signing of the Atlantic pact is what Russia wants and will enable Russia to win the cold war without firing a shot; and the Hoosier senator predicted that the very countries we are helping today will "automatically become ingrates, hating us because we helped them."

Not in recent months has a more bitter speech been delivered on the floor of the United States senate. Some newspapers such as the Chicago Tribune gave the senator's speech banner headlines. Paradoxically, the senator's home state metropolitan newspapers in Indianapolis gave his address scant attention.

Rural Renters Menaced

There is every indication that the folks who rent property in the smaller towns and rural communities are due for substantial rent increases under the new rent control law recently passed by congress lifting the bulk of responsibility from the shoulders of congress to local officials in the cities and towns and the governors of the several states. This is another indication of the passing of that party and personal responsibility in this congress about which we wrote last week.

Results will be certain abolition of rent control in rural areas, particularly in the South, and the southern solons could go along on this premise, since relatively few renters in the South are voters. But in northern states and the larger cities there likely will be no decontrol because it would be political suicide for local officials to lift controls.

So with rent controls in the North and no rent control in the South, just one more artificial barrier is created between the two sections of the nation.

Martin Policy Sound

This reporter recently had a long talk with Congressman Joe Martin of Massachusetts. Although he has moved out of the speaker's office which he occupied during the 80th congress, by virtue of his job as a minority leader, he still rates a pretentious private office in the Capitol.

It's to be reached down a narrow corridor which slants off from the Hall of Statues. First on his program is a campaign to sell the American people on the record of the Republican party in both the 80th and the 81st congress. And his coal black eyes snap when he talks about it, for he believes if the people once "know the facts", the results will be different in the next election.

The canny New Englander has a down-to-earth philosophy with which few can disagree at least while he's talking, using frequent gestures with a paper knife to punctuate his remarks. And apropos the position of Senator Jenner on our foreign policy, here's Joe Martin's position on foreign policy: "The United States has made its course, and we should all stick by it regardless of party."

Futile Fiddling

Freshman Sen. Hubert Humphrey (D-Minn.) in his maiden speech took occasion to castigate his colleagues for fiddling away so much time without accomplishing some legislation. Said the Minnesotan: "What the people want is for the senate to function. Sometimes I think we become so lazy . . . we feel so secure in our six-year term, we forget that the people want things done."

Scouting for Scouts

Soon a full dress campaign will be underway to take the Boy Scout movement into the small town and rural areas of the country. Rural scouting hasn't progressed to any extent, and in its stead the 4-H and Future Farmers' movement has blossomed. It is expected that the nation-wide campaign will be in full swing by September 1, with the prime objective of regaining some of the ground lost to the other groups.

WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS Critics Attack New Farm Program As Urging Unprecedented Controls; Extension Seen for Marshall Plan

EDITOR'S NOTE: When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of Western Newspaper Union's news analysts and not necessarily of this newspaper.

FARM PROGRAM: Pros & Cons

President Truman's sweeping new farm program met with mixed response on Capitol Hill. Critics claimed it would carry the nation closer to socialism and would empower the government with unprecedented farm controls and powers.

PROponents of the measure contended that consumers would be benefited because retail food prices would be allowed to seek their own level.

No matter which school of thought was correct, it was inescapable that the program would use taxpayers' dollars to guarantee farmers an income equal to that of a recent 10-year period.

Some opposition to the plan termed it as one that might be so expensive that it would push the U. S. treasury toward bankruptcy and would thoroughly regiment the farmer.

CHARLES F. BRANNAN, secretary of agriculture, conceded that "imponderables" such as weather and improved farm techniques made it impossible now to estimate the cost of the program.

He said of the program that it probably would mean a heavy drain on consumers' dollars.

He added that the government plans soon to undertake a costly new program to keep up the price of pork. If this program is approved, farmers would sell their pork for whatever it would bring. The government—meaning the public—then would pay the farmer the difference between the support price and the price the farmer actually received.

REPRESENTATIVE Anderson (R., Minn.) was not impressed. He estimated the total government outlay under the program might run as high as 10 billion dollars a year.

When it is remembered the government has no money except that which it gets from the people in taxes, objective observers were wondering who, if anyone, could benefit by the program, since farmer and consumer alike would be paying out added funds to finance it.

OLD AGE: No Elixir Impending old age affects many people in many ways. But to all who stand on its threshold, it is a topic of prime consideration. Of late, science, medicine and the psychiatrists all have been concerned with the subject and apparently little loath to be heard upon it.

LATEST to ponder the problem of how one should approach old age and what may be expected in this period of life was a conference of 800 physicians from all over the nation.

These physicians were all agreed that one of the biggest problems facing the medical profession in the problems of old age is making those added years healthy, happy and useful.

Throughout the conference the warning was sounded again and again that something must be done to give men and women not only long life, but a healthy, happy and useful old age.

THE SIMPLE and sad fact is that man's life has been extended beyond his present capacity to enjoy it as a useful citizen, the medical authorities agreed. For in prolonging life, science also prolonged suffering and misery—all the chronic illnesses and disabilities which plague mankind in the declining years.

Dr. Chauncey Leake, of the University of Texas, said that young people as early as in high school should be taught how to grow old—that is, how to cultivate hobbies and intellectual curiosity and how to develop a systematic regimen for physical and mental hygiene.

He declared the country should have an "old-age program" similar to the child-care program.

HE ALSO URGED increased research on drugs which may help the aged by preventing the disorders to which old people are subject.

But, coming out by the same door wherein he went, he warned that all hope for an "elixir of life" must be dismissed—that there is no "miraculous drug" to restore youth to the aged.

Wherein he delivered himself of a truism well known even as Ponce de Leon was searching for the fountain of eternal youth.

"CORN" PROPOSAL

British Shudder at Hominy Grits Plan

It was doubtful if the majority of Americans would work up any vast regret at the plight of Englishmen who faced the horrible possibility of having to eat American-provided hominy grits.

For, most Americans would realize that there are thousands of needy poor right here in the South in our own United States to whom hominy grits is a staple item of diet, and who would face actual want without them.

The situation was that congress might require 15 per cent of all corn shipped under the European recovery plan to take the form of commerial or hominy grits. England was reported aghast at the report. The explosive reaction was: "Now the yanks expect us to eat the ruddy stuff."

With the Marshall plan admitted by buying such items as false teeth and hair switches for the British, cynics would be little surprised at the reaction of our British cousins should they have to suffer the ignominy of eating hominy grits. That, surely, would be simply too, too much.

To the English, corn (or maize) is a grain fed to pigs in England, but consumed with mystifying relish by "those strange people across the Atlantic." One English writer pointed out that "Americans down south make much use of it.

Happy Birthday!

In the spring when care and strife are most easily forgotten and put aside, the expression here of Pandora, Philadelphia zoo's precocious chimpanzee seems to epitomize the carefree abandon of spring. But Pandora is happy for another reason—she's celebrating her second birthday on her gift bicycle, and is she having fun!

MARSHALL PLAN: To Be Continued

Europe appeared certain of continued receipt of Marshall plan aid for another 15 months.

An enthusiastic house of representatives, shouting down or beating off every attempt to reduce the proposed appropriation figure, approved the gift bill by a vote of 354 to 18.

EVERY AMENDMENT which would have reduced the fund, or delayed action in order to study Europe's real needs, was brushed off by the majority.

The bill, as approved by the house, was for 200 million dollars less than the bill which was voted by the senate. The upper chamber passed a measure appropriating 5.58 billion dollars. The house bill called for 5.38 billion.

The house measure would authorize continued U. S. aid until July 1, 1950, subject to possible later cuts by the senate and house appropriations committees. It provided 272 million dollars to encourage American private business to invest in recovery projects abroad.

Such investments would be guaranteed against loss by confiscation of property overseas.

FINAL VOTE on the house bill came after Majority Leader John W. McCormack (D., Mass.) pleaded against a GOP-led economy drive with a warning that the "world is looking either to Washington or the Kremlin."

On the passage vote, 125 Republicans joined 229 Democrats in favor of the bill.

Rep. John M. Vorys (R., Ohio) backed an amendment to cut off 380 million dollars from the appropriations, which was defeated. Vorys, saying he favored the Marshall plan and the North Atlantic pact, nevertheless warned that "we have to keep strong here at home . . . if we are to help out abroad."

Vorys offered an amendment of his own to term what he called the "give-away" of American billions. It, too, was defeated.

SACRIFICE: Love of Mate

If the name of vanity truly is "woman" then the sacrifice made by a Chicago woman for her husband must rank among the "no greater love" examples which are contained in the record.

MRS. JOAN BIERDZ, 20, had a husband who was stricken with cancer. The disease had ravaged his face to a point where an adult told him that he "looked like the villain of Frankenstein." Mr. Bierdz was a patient in the Bronx, N.Y., veterans' hospital. He had written his wife that his face "caused comment" when he attended a movie, and that he would never go out again.

After receiving the letter from her 26-year-old husband, Mrs. Bierdz slashed both her arms. She was arraigned in a Chicago court on a charge of disorderly conduct.

SHE TOLD the judge: "I did it because I wanted people to look at me, instead of him . . . my husband has been told by VA doctors he can live only a year at most."

DEFENSE: Excesses Seen

What could the people believe about America's defense needs? Were the taxpayers being taken for a "ride" by a cynical, contemptuous coterie of military brass hats who were using world tension to set up an artificial basis for huge grabs from appropriation funds?

THESE APPEARED to be fair questions—and here's why: Robert Patterson, former secretary of war said: "It is no exaggeration to say that the cost in duplication, competition and disjointed effort directly traceable to the two-headed (army-navy) system ran into billions and billions. Much of the public debt is due to that division of authority and responsibility between the war department and the navy department."

But what has that to do with defense appropriations? Herbert Hoover—appointed to head up a survey committee to streamline government and cut costs—said that the army, navy and air force are padding their money requests to congress by millions of dollars.

He also accused them of "startling" waste and extravagance.

THE FORMER PRESIDENT, appearing before the senate armed forces committee, declared: "Applications in the military budget for hundreds of millions of dollars to retol industry should be examined with the greatest skepticism."

Hoover told the committee that what the department of national defense needs is a good bookkeeping system. "At the present time," he said, "nobody can tell the cost of any particular function in the armed services."

In submitting a report, Hoover observed that the federal government now has about 27 billion dollars worth of personal property, and said: "We might be able to live on our fat for awhile if we had it cataloged and knew where it was."

ALLIANCE: Things Humming

The administration was really moving on the north atlantic defense alliance.

President Truman had urged the senate to take early action on the treaty in order to help western Europe ward off "brutality and aggression" by pledging U. S. participation in the pact.

SUCH ACTION, he said, "would be a long step on the road to peace."

Thus, as he began his fifth year as President of the United States, Harry Truman pointed up anew his conviction that a lasting world peace is an obtainable goal.

"This treaty," he said, "makes clear the determination of the people of the United States and of our neighbors in the North Atlantic community to do their utmost to maintain peace with justice and to take such action as they may deem necessary if the peace is broken."

WALLGREN: He's Willing

Like the weak, but insistent jangling of a run-down alarm on a bedside clock, Mon C. Wallgren was still talking about what might have been.

A VISITOR to the White House—where he did not talk with Mr. Truman, the former Washington governor and close friend of the President, said he is "still available" for the chairmanship of the National Securities Resources Board.

Wallgren's nomination to that post by President Truman was tabled by a senate committee.

Bing at Bat

Bing Crosby, whose varied activities include the vice-presidency of the Pittsburgh Pirates, looks like anything but a crooner as he takes a turn at bat. Bing headed up a coast-to-coast radio program "welcome back, baseball."

PARKING: Now Automatic

There appeared some hope for relief in the nation's parking dilemma. In Boston, William A. Braun had invented an automatic parking device where a customer's car could be parked in a mechanical storage garage. Boston city officials were showing interest in the proposition.

Braun said that such a garage human hands would not touch the automobiles.

RESERVES: Senate Assists

The senate has approved a bill to extend death and disability benefits to civilian reserves of the armed forces while they are on duty or in training for periods of less than 30 days. Such coverage now is provided only for service of more than 30 days.

The cost of the measure, which is retroactive to 1945, was estimated at $850,000 annually and will materially aid reservists.

Helicopter Saves Boys Found Aground on Bar

NEW YORK.—Two boys who had been missing almost 48 hours in a rowboat were rescued by a coast guard helicopter from a sand bar in Jamaica bay.

The helicopter feat was the second successful mission by this type of aircraft in two days. The day before the second rescue a police helicopter pulled to safety a Brooklyn man who was almost sucked under by mud in the bay.

MIRACLE SURGERY

Doctors End Long Torture

SAN FRANCISCO.—An unprecedented operation which restored the ability of a 43-year-old man to swallow has been reported by three University of California surgeons.

A gunshot wound caused the affliction of the unnamed patient. He had to take all food and liquid through a tube that by-passed his throat. Any attempt to swallow caused coughing and strangling. He could not appear in public.

After three years of this torture, the man was on the verge of suicide, the surgeons said in a medical publication, The Annals of Surgery.

Bullet Cut Nerves The doctors, Howard C. Naffziger, H. Glenn Bell, and Cooper Davis, found the bullet had cut four important face and head nerves. The nerves could not be restored. The surgeons decided to try to cross-connect some of the healthy muscles of the throat to replace those made useless by nerve degeneration.

Medical books did not show the surgeons all they needed to know about swallowing. Slow-motion X-ray movies of normal swallowing and the patient's attempts to swallow showed, for the first time, they said, the mechanism of the procedure.

Before operating on the patient the doctors experimented on three monkeys.

One of the things about the patient was that some of the useless muscles in his neck bulged out when he tried to swallow, obstructing the throat passage.

The doctors bound these muscles with a strip of thick, tough sheathing tissue which normally covers the main bundles of blood vessels and nerves in the neck.

The other main difficulty was that the patient's Adams apple would not rise. This is one of the important movements in swallowing.

Surgeons Split Muscle The surgeons made a lengthwise split in a muscle which runs from the back of the head to the base of the tongue and the chin. This muscle normally retracts the tongue. Part of the muscle was left for the tongue. The other part was tied to the Adam's apple, restoring its ability to rise.

The patient was afraid to try his rebuilt throat at first, but now is swallowing normally, the doctors said.

The new operation may help some war wounded.

Filibuster Would Permit Senators to Die Talking

WASHINGTON, D. C.—The ancient and honorable custom of filibustering is based on the proposition that a senator may talk himself to death if he chooses.

American legislators have been taking advantage of the filibuster "right" ever since the nation was born, but now some senators think it's time to put an end to it. Sponsored by Republicans, a proposal to change senate debate rules also have support from some Democrats.

If they have the voice and constitution, senators may now, under certain circumstances, talk as long as they wish. Senators have kept the floor for hours or days and—in relays—for weeks and even months to defeat a proposed law.

They don't talk, necessarily, to persuade opposing senators. They may just talk to make the opposition so weary it will give up out of boredom.

The fabulous Huey Long of Louisiana read the Bible, offered advice on love affairs, told how to fry oysters and make "pot likker," read a biographical sketch of Frederick the Great and quoted Victor Hugo.

Long was supporting an amendment to the national industrial recovery act in June, 1935. He talked 15 1/2 hours but lost the debate.

Police Called to Rid Dwelling of Noisy Cats

ROSELLE, N. J.—In the home of Mrs. David J. Schulman it was the cats' meow—with five of them vocalizing until police drove them out with blackjacks.

One was chased out by the first officer to arrive, but returned. They took to the rafters when attacked. Concerted police effort finally was successful in ridding the home of cats—and howls.

"I can't understand how they get in," said Mrs. Schulman. "The doors are locked."

The cats move too fast to be counted accurately. But Mrs. Schulman said she thought there were five. The howling in the basement, from soprano to bass, perhaps boosts her estimate.

Mrs. Schulman thinks the cats were courting a female feline which belongs to her household "more or less." She said the female just adopted the Schulmans.

When the lady cat goes, Mrs. Schulman hopes the rest of the beasts won't find the house so attractive.

"Last year," sighed Mrs. Schulman, "they were in the attic. We got them out of there, and now they're in the basement."

Also, said Mrs. Schulman, her daughter Valerie, 5, is allergic to cats.

Ohio State to Bring Education to Convicts

COLUMBUS, OHIO.—An expanded educational program has been put into effect at Ohio state penitentiary to combat inmate idleness. Four hundred convicts will attend the prison school. About 200 were originally enrolled in education classes.

Warden Ralph W. Alvis said the new "students" would be picked from men on the job in the prison industries.

Waitress Puts Out Fire, Fined

PASADENA, CALIF.—Gloria Miller, 24-year-old waitress, was fined $25 because she put out a fire in her apartment and neglected to notify the fire department until 12 hours later.

Her landlord, William Berk, produced the $25 and spoke glowingly of his tenant.

"Here was a heroic action which prevented greater property damage and possibly loss of life," the landlord said. "I spoke to several firemen about the state law requiring all fires to be reported, no matter how trivial. They admitted they had never heard of it."

Then Berk announced he was cutting Miss Miller's rent 10 per cent.

"Hot ziggy!" she exclaimed. "Oops! Maybe I'll have to report that!"

Oak Ridge Opens First Public Museum On 'Man And Atom'

OAK RIDGE, TENN.—As part of a broad program of public education in the field of nuclear sciences, the Oak Ridge Institute of Nuclear Studies has established the world's first permanent museum dealing with atomic energy.

To be known as the American Museum of Atomic Energy, the exhibit was opened to the public on March 19, when the security gates to the town of Oak Ridge were removed and the community itself adopted a normal residential and business role.

The museum is operated by the Institute, a non-profit educational corporation of nineteen Southern universities which conducts a program of research and training in the nuclear sciences under a contract with the atomic energy commission.

The exhibit includes the "man and the atom" show which was shown at the New York City golden jubilee last summer. It is described as the most complete exhibit ever assembled in the field of atomic energy.

The display is housed in a 32,000-square-foot structure used as a cafeteria during the war. A nominal fee is charged for admission and the proceeds will be used for improvements in the exhibit. The Institute has assembled a trained staff for the museum.

Hamburg Night Life Irks British Occupation Force

HAMBURG.—The sign on the door of the plush Atlantic Hotel still says verboten to Germans.

Sickly kids beg cigarettes as British cars roll up.

Half a mile away across the Alster, the picturesque lake in the middle of Hamburg, stands another hotel, The Esplanade. There are no signs here because this is a German place.

Inside The Esplanade, waiters in tails hover over prosperous-looking men with beautiful, expensively dressed women. A band plays far better jazz than you can hear in a British club.

Outside stand the kids, this time begging from Germans.

This is Hamburg, 1949. The feverish pulse of currency reform has given the city a Parisian glow. Everyone agrees it's the most luxurious place in Germany. One reason may be that it's a port, another the bombs which wrecked the outskirts spared the center. At night thousands of lights twinkle around the beautiful Alster.

If it's night life you want, you can go to The Esplanade, or The Tarantella, or a place called Erud Sie (he and she), done in cream and dark blue in the best New York tradition.

A bottle of good champagne costs 35 marks. At the official rate of exchange, this is $12.

Navy Official Chides "Gadget War" Beliefs

WHITE OAK, MD.—The assistant secretary of the navy for air, John Nicholas Brown, has chided scientists for spreading the idea that war might be won easily with gadgets and "extraordinary" weapons.

"The ability of a human being to survive the blows of his enemies, in whatever form delivered, is immense," he said in a speech for the dedication of the central unit of a new $35,000,000 navy ordnance laboratory.

"His capacity not only to survive, but his faculty of continuing to fight, is amazing," Brown continued.

"The facility with which he finds means to counter the most highly developed machines of warfare is discouraging."

"The idea of war easily won by means of extraordinary weapons is an old one and very appealing. It is an extremely dangerous concept to propagate. I fear it may tend to give our people an idea of war very far indeed from that justified by the facts as we know them."

"It must be confessed that much of the misapprehension regarding the nature of war stems from commentaries by men whose knowledge of science vastly exceeds their experience in the awful actualities of combat."

Police confronted him with the group of women he is shown facing, and asked which he had held up. McGranahan said none of them. But Wilda Bieber (second from left) theatre cashier had been the victim in a holdup McGranahan had "confessed." Los Angeles police said the man's "confession" had been an attempt to shoulder blame for a crime committed by another. The police maneuver was a neat bit of strategy which showed the falsity of McGranahan's story.

A BUTTON MAY MAKE GROMYKO A YES MAN... What if Science Could Control Man's Thoughts? ...OR A RAY MIGHT MAKE HARRY CHEER KREMLIN

By H. I. PHILLIPS

SCIENCE AND THOUGHT CONTROL

WITHOUT assuming any mantle of prophecy, it is fair to suggest that ability to control man's thoughts with precision through science is by no means out of the question. This is more awesome in its interpretations than was the mushroom cloud in 1945.—Dr.

John Ely Burchard, Dean of Humanities at Massachusetts Tech. There goes that gooseflesh creeping up our spine again!

Say it ain't so, doctor! Tell us you don't really mean that the laboratory will find a way to throw a switch and make a man's thoughts come out the designated slot! Admit you are not serious in contemplating a day when a button may turn a yes man into a no man, nice as it might be to see in converting Gromyko—presto!—from a no man into a yes man!

Or is it to be done by rays? Turned by Joe Stalin onto President Truman, might they halt Harry in the middle of a stern "We intend to stand by to the bitter end" and bring forth an abrupt cry, "Hooray for the Kremlin!"

Do you see a time when the Thirteen Men of Moscow, giving uproarious approval to a Pravda editorial denouncing America, may, under a magic ray in the hands of Uncle Sam, suddenly glow with anger and order the Pravda editorial writer shot at once?

Is the time near when Vishinsky, loaded with epithets and rising to excoriate the democracies, will, due to a current, a ray or an isotope, break into a broad smile and say, "Ladies and gentlemen, I am just a Happiness Boy. There is nothing in this world like friendship. See what the boys in the backroom will have!"

Can Henry Wallace, mounting the platform, be reached by a mystery beam and his address denouncing ERP, the Truman administration and the Atlantic pact converted into a talk on how to produce better laying hens?

We see the following possibilities: 1.—Mogow issues orders for the complete seizure of China. The Chinese Communist general gets it, but Washington calls on its Thought Control tower, centers the beam on him and renders the general incapable of saying anything but "Nuts!"

2.—The politburo prepares to issue a blast at America. Under the Thought Blitz the boys cannot think of the words "Wall Street," "Money Bund" or "Exploiters." This leaves them completely helpless. 3.—A new play opens on Broadway. It is lousy. But the producer has scientific connections. He controls the thoughts of the critics to such an extent they can't even dismiss it as "adequate."

4. We go to the races with the right combination in the Daily Double. It is 2 and 6. The guy at the window who has a thought control apparatus fills our skull with the numbers 4 and 7.

(P. S.—Nothing keeps us sane except the fact that the winning combination turns out to be 5 and 8.)

STAGE SCREEN-RADIO BY INEZ GERHARD "A YANKEE at King Arthur's Court" has been screened three times; Paramount's new version is the best of the three. Done in Technicolor, with delightful new songs, it stars Bing Crosby, Sir Cecil Hardwick, Rhonda Fleming and William Bendix. Sir Cecil, superb in his comedy role as the king, raises his voice in song and also appears with bare knees, something new for him, though he said recently at luncheon that it's the second time the knees have appeared publicly. The first time was on the stage, when he wore a Roman toga. This is a picture for the whole family to enjoy, expertly directed and acted, beautifully staged.

Paramount will tell movie audiences about 11 of its new pictures in a nine-minute short, "Eyes on Hollywood"; starring Alan Ladd and Mary Jane Saunders, it depicts the thrills of a child seeing the inside workings of a studio the first time. Stars, directors, everybody will be seen in special scenes. The film will be available to theaters without charge.

King, dog veteran of numerous landings in the Pacific during the war, makes his screen debut in "After Midnight." In his first scene he leaped at Alan Ladd, tore his leather jacket to shreds, and hung on in a struggle on the ground—then, when Director Mitchell Leisen called "Cut," King immediately relaxed his grip and tried to lick Ladd's face!

Another animal actor celebrated his 13th birthday the other day, on the set of Monogram's "The Kid Came West." He was Rebel, the black horse used by Johnny Mack Brown and his birthday cake was made of straw, with carrots for candles.

Gertrude Berg may regret that "The Goldbergs" are now on television instead of radio. Mrs. Berg, the show's author and star, is so determined that it will run smoothly that they rehearse 30 hours a week.

Ezra Stone, director of Broadway's "At War with the Army," and star of "The Aldrich Family," has begun a new career as a lecturer. Made his first appearance last month in Buffalo, and has been booked in various other cities.

The Fiction ARTISTIC ANCESTORS

By Richard H. Wilkinson

"I WISH," said Aime Butterworth wistfully, "I only wish there had been some one in our family who really did something, something worth while, something—" she smiled as she said it—"I could brag about."

Fred Butterworth laid aside the morning paper, gulped down the last of his coffee, shoved back his chair and said: "What?"

Aime overlooked his rudeness. "The bridge club meets here this afternoon," she said, "and I dread it because Aggie Spencer and and Gertrude Wilcox will monopolize the conversation with stories of their ancestors. Fred scratched his chin and contemplated the wistful look in his wife's eyes. Suddenly he banged the table. "By George, I'd almost forgotten it! Darned if I hadn't. You sit here a minute, sweet, till I rummage around in the attic. I'll give you something to brag about!"

Later he returned with a book. "But what is it?" asked Aime. "It's a book of poetry, that's what it is! Written by my mother and published 20 years ago. There's talent in my family, I'll have you know."

Aime's eyes lighted, then glowed with sudden joy. "Fred! You dear! Is it really? Was your mother really a poet? Oh, why didn't you tell me before! It's just too exciting!"

Fred grinned delightedly. Enroute to the station he began to smile. And by the time he had boarded the 8:15 the smile had developed into an occasional chuckle. Tom Cooke, who usually sat with Fred during the short run to the city, became curious.

"Say, what's eating you this morning? Let a man in on it if you've got something that'll fetch a laugh these dull days." Fred laughed outright. "I'll tell you, Tom. It's too good to keep. But don't on your life breathe a word. It would kill Aime."

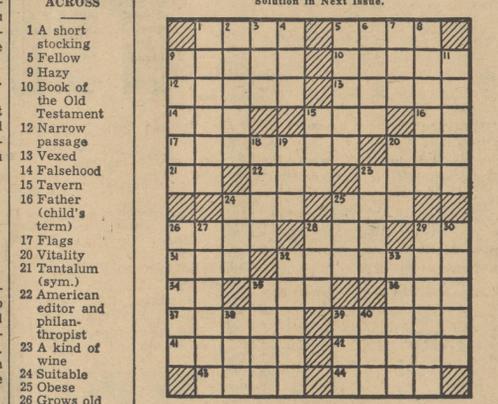

TOM MADE SOLEMN promises and cocked his ear. "Well," said Fred, "Aime was upset this morning because she didn't have anything to brag about at her bridge club. The other members, it seems, have artistic ancestors. It made Aime feel bad to think she married into such an uninteresting family, so I dug into an old trunk and produced a book of poems that mother published 20 years ago, and told her to brag about that."

Tom looked puzzled. "What's wrong with that? I'd say a mother-in-law poet was O.K."

Welfare Agency Merger Approved By State Senate

The Senate passed 12 bills Monday including a measure calling for creation of a state department of public welfare and a companion measure relating to the State Welfare Home, but voted to defer action on a bill which would require a reassessment of property in New Castle County by July 1, 1950, and every four years thereafter.

The welfare department bill which originally proposed a merger of the State Old Age Welfare Commission, the State Board of Welfare and the Delaware Commission for the Blind, was amended before its passage to eliminate the Delaware Commission for the Blind.

There was little discussion of the bill or the amendments. Senator Vera G. Davis (R-Dover), sponsor of the bill, and Senator John E. Reilly (D-Wilmington), who presented the amendment, both noted that the entire matter had been discussed at length in a debate before the Senate recently. On the roll call, the vote was 14 to three, with Senators Leon C. Bulow (R-Bridgetown), Nelson M. Hammond (R-Felton), and George W. Rhodes (R-Newark) casting the negative votes.

As passed, the bill projects a department of welfare with two main divisions. There would be a division of general welfare, embracing old age assistance, general assistance and aid to dependent children, and a division of child welfare to include administration of foster home placement and protective services.

12-Member Board
The department is to function through a board of 12 members to be appointed by the Governor and is to have as executive and administrative officer, a director of public welfare appointed by the board. It would also have "an adequate staff to administer its functions in accordance with the highest standard of public welfare work."

The bill specifies that the aim of the department shall be "the promotion of a unified development of welfare activities" and it sets forth a list of 16 duties and responsibilities through which the department is to achieve this aim. If passed by the House and approved by the Governor, the bill is to take effect on July 1.

The companion measure, passed without a dissenting vote, calls for the creation of a State Welfare Home Commission consisting of four members, which would operate the Old Age Welfare Home at Smyrna, Senator Davis, who sponsored this measure also, pointed out that the outside assistance program of the present Old Age Welfare Commission would be taken over by the proposed state department of public welfare.

PREVIEW OF 1949 HARRINGTON FAIR TO BE SEEN ON CBS-TV SHOW, MONDAY, MAY 2

Television fans will get an advance peek Monday night, May 2, at the world-famed variety show of the George A. Hamid productions which audiences at the 1949 Harrington Fair will be seeing during the week of July 26.

In reality, a part of the Harrington Fair's grandstand show will be making its initial debut on the television screens with George A. Hamid, known as the world's greatest showman, and two of his acts appearing in person on the CBS-TV Program "Preview", 8:00 to 8:30 p. m. EDT.

Hamid, who is well known in Harrington, is presenting only two of his acts because of time limitations of the television show. He said, however, that he thought this appearance would give Harrington fairgoers, together with patrons of other Fairs throughout the east, an opportunity to see what he has on tap for their 1949 sessions.

Appearing with Hamid will be Shirley Lavall, beautiful lass from the midwest who is recognized as USA's leading contortionist, and the unusual European comedy team of Kric and Krock.

Tex McCrary, editor of the Phillip Morris living television magazine program, will introduce Hamid and his acts. The Tex McCrary and Jinx Falkenberg "Preview" program is presented weekly from the New York CBS-TV studios in Grand Central station and is telecast over the network which includes outlets in Boston, Philadelphia, Baltimore, Washington, Pittsburgh, Cleveland, Detroit and Chicago.

Dutch Farm Boy Comes to Delaware

A young Dutch farmer, Ary de Bloois, arrived this past week in Delaware, to receive practical farm training for a six-months period. One of 32 farmers sent to this country by the joint efforts of the Netherlands Government, the Economic Cooperation Administration and the Office of Foreign Agricultural Relations, U. S. Department of Agriculture, Mr. de Bloois will spend approximately half his time in Delaware and the remainder in Massachusetts.

The farm of William Ritcher, Dover, was chosen as headquarters for Mr. de Bloois because he is interested in broiler raising. The Ritcher farm is engaged in poultry, layers, and broilers, and fruit raising.

The farm families who take the Dutch visitors into their homes and give them on-the-job training in various agricultural practices will encourage them to put into practice methods and techniques learned in the United States and pass them along to other Dutch farmers.

Carvel Vetoes Resolution Against Socialized Medicine

For the first time this session and for the first time since he assumed office, Governor Carvel Thursday exercised his power of veto.

The Governor withheld his approval from a Senate concurrent resolution, sponsored by President Pro Tem Vera G. Davis, which would place the Legislature on record as asking the United States Congress "to refrain from imposing any form of compulsory insurance or any system of medical care designed for national bureaucratic control."

In a message to the Senate, the Governor said that his reasons for withholding approval of the measure were as follows:

"It was cleverly brought out by the Selective Service during the last war that a substantial percentage of our youth had been receiving inadequate medical care. This resulted in certain physical infirmities of our young men and women who otherwise would have been available for the defense of their country."

"It was strongly indicated at that time of emergency that a constructive health program was greatly needed to assure a full supply of manpower for the adequate defense of our nation."

"It is likewise important that in time of peace this country should endeavor to make a constructive effort to conserve and improve the health of its people."

"Good health, just as aid to the needy, aid to education and development of our nation's highways, are matters of nationwide concern."

The resolution, which is counter to the health program sponsored by President Truman, passed both branches of the Legislature on strictly party votes—the Republican majorities for; the Democrats, against.

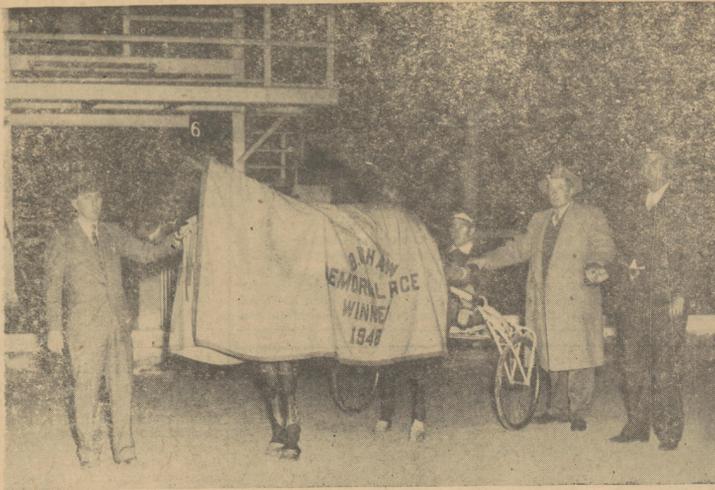

In order to become official, the measure must now receive the votes of 60 per cent of the elected members of both branches. Including that an effort might be made to obtain the 60 per cent approval, Senator Davis had the measure restored to the calendar a short time after the vote message was delivered.

Governor Carvel signed eight House bills Wednesday. They are: Representative Collison—To increase the amount of taxes which may be raised in Bridgeville.

Representative Cool—To amend a 1947 law relating to vocational rehabilitation to make certain funds available to civilians.

FIFTH GRADE GIVES MINSTREL SHOW

At the Assembly on Friday, April 22, the fifth grade, sponsored by Mrs. Quillen, gave an excellent performance before the Senior High School. The class presented a minstrel show with a stage setting showing a southern cotton field set beneath an entrancing blue sky filled with fluffy white clouds.

The interlucator was "Mike" McAllister and the two end men who kept the audience laughing were Robert Taylor and Billy Calloway. Roy Cain took part of Phil Harris. As part of the program, a mouth organ solo was given by Billy Calloway, Janice Lee Tibbett played an Hawaiian guitar, and Eileen Harris, Lucile Clark, and Patsy Derrickson gave a rendition of the Andrew Sisters program, impersonating them while a victrola recording was played.

In addition to this program, the Junior Band played a hymn and the Junior March, while the combined Junior and Senior Bands played other selections. Mr. Brobst was in charge of the program.

MID-DELAWARE LEAGUE STARTS SEASON SUNDAY

The Mid-Delaware League begins its first full season of baseball next Sunday, May 1st. The league is playing organized baseball this year and will be giving the fans and friends of the clubs a lot better and faster brand of baseball. Every club, to the best of our knowledge, has strengthened greatly over last year. They are bringing some of the old and well known faces of organized baseball back into the eyes of the public.

The Viola Baseball Club has added several new faces to their lineup this year. Among them is William Green, one time a great and popular player of the Mar-Del League. He will see action in left field for the Viola squad and is also expected to be of great help at the bat.

James Chambers, old time catcher, of the Mar-Del League as well as many other leagues, will be great help to Thinlow Vandewende, the Viola regular. William Johnson, young but a well seasoned player will hold down the second sack in a few weeks.

Sunday's schedule will be played as follows: Playtex at Viola; Harrington at Tower Team; Stantonville at Farmington.

Playtex is a Dover outfit employed by the International Latex Corp., who took Masten's Corner place this season. Their home games will be played in the Dover Eastern Shore League Park.

Tower is a team just across the Delaware line on the Bridgeville-Denton road. Harrington, Stantonville, and Farmington, are teams that are well known through these parts and will be playing their home games in their respective towns.

New Publication Describes Tools

The attractiveness of the home and the satisfaction and pride that the members of the family derive from it, depend in no small degree on the way they maintain the house and equipment, says Miss Louise R. Whitcomb, extension home management specialist for the University of Delaware.

And, since this upkeep takes a big slice of the budget, families should learn to make minor repairs as they are needed and so avoid those larger expenses, worry and delay.

But to be successful with home repairing, Miss Whitcomb continues, the right tools are necessary and these tools when once purchased should be kept together in some convenient place where they can be easily located.

A new bulletin called "Good Tools for Household Repairs" gives suggestions for selecting these tools and their convenient storage. This free bulletin may be had by writing to the Office of Information, Agricultural Extension Service, Newark, Delaware.

From where I sit... by Joe Marsh

How We Licked The Parking Problem

For a while it looked like we'd have to put up parking meters. Folks working in town—including some of the store owners—were taking up all of the space along Main Street.

Farmers coming in to shop never found a place to park, and sometimes had to lug stuff a half mile or so. Some started to do their buying in other towns. Finally, store owners and farmers had a get-together—with the result that the empty field near the depot was fixed up for all-day parkers.

Now farmers get their shopping done comfortably, and the merchants have a better place to park than they had before. Just took a little friendly co-operation to make everybody happy.

From where I sit, most differences can be ironed out by just talking things over—maybe with a cup of coffee or glass of beer—and seeing the other person's side of it. Next time you have a problem or a little difference to settle, why not try just that?

A HISTORICAL SKETCH of BROWN'S BRANCH and FORK LANDING

Jackson's Ditch, Peckham's Branch, Brown's Branch—all are one and the same. Time was when the stream was a veritable beehive of industry. Three millponds furnished the power for sawmills, gristmills, canneries, a woolen mill, and a fertilizer factory.

Today these industries have vanished. Two of the millponds are dry and their sites are marked only by the languorous branch as it passes through swamps of willows, red birch, and cat-tails.

One cannot mention Fork Landing without mentioning Brown's Branch.

Brown's Branch

Brown's Branch rises in Millpion Hundred, flows through a portion of Milford Hundred, and empties into Murderkill Creek at Fork Landing. Daniel Brown, from whom the stream took its name, obtained 300 acres in this vicinity in 1680. There was also surveyed for him Aug. 26, 1684, 900 acres on the north side of Murderkill Creek which, Jan. 24, 1685, he sold to Richard Mitchell and Mary Wells.

McColley's Pond

Among the many tracts taken up by one John Brinkloe was one called "Wild Goose Chase," situated on Brown's and Manlove's Branches. It passed to his son, John, and Feb. 6, 1746, two acres on Brown's Branch were condemned for the use of a mill for Richard Brinkloe. This pond is now known as McColley's or Holcomb's Pond.

On May 25, 1785, James Douglas purchased of John Clayton, sheriff, "all that lot or ground or millseat with part of a mill thereon on the south side of Brown's Branch," which was offered at public sale as the land of Thomas Ogle. The land formerly belonged to John Harmenson, who sold to Thomas Muncy, for whom two acres were condemned for a gristmill in 1746. Thomas Ogle purchased the land from Muncy.

A very large merchant mill was erected by Douglas (sometimes spelled Douglass), which was known as Mordington Mills. The brick house, occupied by L. I. March, at the pond is still known as Mordington. In 1816, the mill was in possession of Walter Douglass, a son of James Douglass, and it then contained two waterwheels and three pairs of stones. Douglass operated the mill until his death in 1827. On May 14, 1829, it was purchased by Charles Kinney, who sold it to Samuel A. Short on Nov. 12, 1832. The mill burned and a new one was erected about half the size of the former mill. A sawmill was also erected by Short, the grandfather of Samuel A. Short Sr., W. W. Sharp, Mrs. Emmett Raughley, and Leonard Harrington, all of Harrington. Short retained possession until Jan. 1, 1848, when he sold the mills to Joseph O. McColley, who, Feb. 23, 1876, conveyed them to Mrs. Elza B. McColley, wife of Edward B. C. McColley. J. L. Smith obtained possession May 8, 1878, and was still in possession in 1888 when Scharff's "History of Delaware" was written.

Though Scharff says Short operated Mordington Mills until 1848, Short probably lived then at Fork Landing. His grandson, Leonard Harrington, says his mother told him she moved from Mordington to Fork Landing in 1832 when she was four. Byle's Map of Kent County, published in 1859, shows Short's Store at the village.

J. L. Smith, in 1884, began to manufacture fertilizer from king crabs at Mordington. One hundred tons were being manufactured annually in 1888 which sold readily in the vicinity.

McColley's is the only pond existing of the three ponds on Brown's Branch. In recent years, it furnished some of the power for the old Kent County Electric Company. Last year the dam broke. It has been repaired but it will take some time before the pond will fill up.

Wilson's Pond

We do not know the exact date of the beginning of what was once known as Wilson's Pond, the next pond going upstream from McColley's. It existed, however, in 1740. On the north side of Brown's Branch, at the pond then called Isaac White's millpond, there was surveyed Oct. 6, 1740, 303 acres for the heirs of William Jacobs. The survey shows three houses on the bank of the pond above the dam. The land lying to the north was owned by Nathaniel Luff, and down the branch below the dam was a tract called "Rawling's Lot," and west and south was Melvin's Adventure, 272 acres taken up by Edmund at an earlier date. This land must have been in the vicinity of Marvel's Crossroads (Porter's Corner) which is shown on Byle's Map in 1859 as Melvin's Crossroads.

White's millpond occupied the site of the mill owned in 1888 by William Wilson. In 1816 the mill was owned by Joseph Chears, and contained a waterwheel and two pairs of stones. The mill was later owned by John D. Smithers and by him sold to Alfred Newcome, whose administrator sold the mill to Paris D. Carlisle. William Wilson purchased the property of Carlisle during the Civil War. He enlarged the mill and operated it until October, 1887, when his son, James A. Wilson, took charge. Grinding was done by burr and was mainly custom work.

Mrs. Clarence W. Shockley's father, the late Bill Bowen, used to visit Wilson's Mill. Every trip a "shinplaster," a piece of paper worth 12½¢.

The mill at this pond burned down and the pond was sometimes called Burnt Mill pond. The dam eventually went out and was never rebuilt. The dam and mill were on Brown's Branch just east of the old Clarence Shockley farm. The head of the pond culminated at the bridge over Brown's Branch on the Marvel's Crossroads-Houston road. If one goes up the branch, one comes to Peckham's Bridge which traverses that portion of Brown's Branch known as Peckham's Branch. This is on the dirt road leading from the Frederica-Harrington nine-foot road to the Harrington-Milford road. Cemetery Branch and Jackson's Ditch are shown on a plat map of Clark's Corners, drawn up in 1824 and owned by Leonard Harrington, as Brown's Branch.

Tharp's Pond

The mills on Brown's Branch, nearer its head, were erected by Ezekiel Riggs, and at his death descended to his son, David, who owned them in 1816, when they consisted of one waterwheel and two pairs of stones and a new sawmill. At the decease of David Riggs, it was selected at the dower property by his widow, who afterwards intermarried with C. L. Sharp, by whom a gristmill was built in 1875. It next came into possession of David Riggs' daughter, Sarah, who was the wife of William Griffith. By Mrs. Griffith the property was devised to her son, David R. Griffith, who owned it until 1884, when it became the property of J. B. Wilson. In 1888 the mill was a three-story building.

The pond has been known as Thistlewood's and Tharp's pond. Leonard Harrington tells of ice skating there 50 years ago with the late B. I. Shaw and others. He tells of breaking through the thin ice and of drying out at the mill. The pond no longer exists since a dam broke many years ago.

Fork Landing

Roughly speaking, the area where Brown's Branch runs into Murderkill Creek is Fork Landing. This was the principal landing on Murderkill Creek. First mention of the landing was made in Scharff's "History of Delaware," which states that in 1816 Levi Lister owned a wharf and granary there, while another wharf was jointly owned by Thomas Sipple and William Tomlinson.

As mentioned before, S. A. Short, who had moved to Fork Landing in 1832, had a store. He also had a vessel and bought and shipped grain. Short's store is still shown on Byle's map of Kent County of 1859.

In 1852 there were here three granaries, two stores, and several dwellings. Two vessels plied weekly between this landing and Philadelphia, carrying grain.

Oak bark for tanning was another cargo carried. The late Elijah Sapp hauled bark with oxen from Whitelysburg to the landing.

Byle's map, published in 1859, shows ten houses of business places at Fork Landing. Names on the map are: J. D. Tomlinson, L. Woodrouse, S. A. Short, Mrs. M. Smith, M. & J. Harrington.

Bark was also hauled by oxen from Vernon on what was known as the Vernon cart road. At the turn of the dirt road at the eastern edge of the Clarence Shockley farm, now owned by Fran Porter, may be seen signs of this old road. It turns to the left and picks its way through the dried beech leaves to where it fords Indian Branch. It crosses the branch, goes through the woods to a field and turns right to skirt the western bank of McColley's pond. At the foot of the pond, the road, no longer visible, passed just west of Mordington place and continued to Fork Landing.

It is not known exactly when the demise of the village of Fork Landing began. Undoubtedly, it began with the coming of the railroad in 1856. Scharff's history mentioned that "occasionally boats of light tonnage used the landing in 1888."

Homer T. Hopkins, of Frederica, says that in the middle nineties he saw the only house inhabited, the one in which Mr. and Mrs. George Thompson now live. Randall Knox, who owns Fork Landing, says that rubble from the buildings have been uncovered in cultivating the fields.

Decayed pilings near the point where Brown's Branch enters the Murderkill are mute evidence of one wharf. Across the road from the Thompson home is a cut in a bank of the Murderkill, evidence of another wharf.

The sun has set on Fork Landing, once a village larger than Clark's Corners (Harrington). A lone fish-hawk flies over the Murderkill. On a black oak, silhouetted in the setting sun, a red-headed woodpecker taps out a requiem for the dying day and for the village that was once Fork Landing.

IN MEMORIAM

In loving memory of my father, William I. Collins, who departed this life 16 years ago yesterday, May 1st, 1933:

I do not need a special day To bring you to my mind; The days I do not think of you Are very hard to find.

Some say time heals a broken heart,

But I know it isn't true— For sixteen long years have passed And my heart still aches for you.

Forget you? No, I never will! I loved you then, I love you still.

Although with you I had to part, You'll live forever in my heart.

Dearly loved and sadly missed by his daughter,

MARTIE COLLINS STUBBS.

Poppy Day Fund Aid Disabled and Children

Chairman, in a talk before a meeting of the local Auxiliary Unit yesterday.

She urged all Auxiliary members to take an active part in the work of Poppy Day, to be observed here Saturday, May 28, in order that the Auxiliary may have sufficient funds for its activities for the welfare of needy veterans and veteran's children during the coming year.

"Poppy Day contributions make up a large part of the financial support for the Auxiliary's rehabilitation and child welfare activities," Mrs. Porter said. "When the Auxiliary finds a veteran or a veteran's family in need, those poppy contributions go into action to provide aid. During the past year aid was supplied to many veterans and to many children in Delaware through the work of the Auxiliary.

"Illness of veterans is one of the major causes of the distress which the Auxiliary relieves with its poppy funds. When the veteran is forced to go to a government hospital for treatment, often his family is left without means of support. Even if he is eligible for compensation, time is required to establish his claim; and a hungry family cannot wait. The Auxiliary must be ready to give emergency aid, and on Poppy Day we invite the public to help us carry out our work of mercy and relief."

Mrs. Penny emphasized that all of the Auxiliary's Poppy Day workers are unpaid volunteers and that all money contributed for the flowers of memory goes into the rehabilitation and child welfare funds, none used for organization overhead.

How the memorial poppy, worn on Poppy Day each year in honor of America's war dead, aids the war's living victims was described by Mrs. Paul Porter, American Legion Auxiliary Rehabilitation

WHEELER RADIO STORE NEWS

Some time ago I was telling you how good Uncle Sam was to us all, and sure enough he is around just when you need him. He now tells us that maybe you are not making quite as much now as you were a few months ago, and maybe you were out of work for a little while and you have used up some of the ready cash that you had saved up for the things you always wanted, so to offset this we can now sell you anything $100.00 or under at our own plan. That is no down payment if necessary; then again, anything above $100.00 only 10 per cent down and the balance as long as 24 months to pay.

Just think of buying a 7 cu. foot box refrigerator, either a Philco or a Westinghouse, by paying only $22.95 down, then about $10.00 per month. Think of the food and ice bill you will save!

Now, if you have an old refrigerator to trade in, we will handle that also which will still cut it down. Come in and let's talk it over, as you will not only save in food, but your electric light bill should be less with a new one. If I keep on, I'm afraid I will be giving it away, but I'll tell you what I am going to do—I am going to give absolutely free a 32-piece dinner set with any refrigerator I sell until my supply of dinner sets runs out.

I have been studying the different things that go to make up the cost of making different products, and I am convinced that prices are going to remain as they now are, especially the larger items. In fact, the basic thing which is coal, is bound to rise again, so that means prices will be just about the same as now or a little higher. I am telling this so if you are holding out from purchasing, thinking prices will go down, I would advise you to buy now.

No, you don't have to pay a big price for a washer, as $12.50 down will put one in your home, and the balance about five dollars per month. If you need a washer, now is the time to get it even if you have an old one. Your laundry will look so much better with a new one.

Mother's Day is just about two weeks off and surely you will want the very best for her on that day to show her how appreciative you are. Lookin our windows for the things any mother would be pleased to own. They are mighty nice.

Yes, we have reduced our ceiling to 30 cents per double roll and we are always trying from time to time to pick up paper that is reasonable. Sometimes when you buy a little paper, it pays to get a better grade, as the finish is better and when you look at it on your wall you will never get tired of it. We are always willing to help you with your selection, and don't fail to ask for any advise we are able to give you.

If there is some special paper you would like to have look over our large sample books and we will be pleased to order for you if we don't have it in stock.

There are many people today who are not using the right thing to clean your new refrigerator, as there are oils and soaps that will surely turn them yellow in time. Now we have a product put out by Philco for nothing but refrigerators or similar things, which absolutely will not turn them yellow, but keep them glistening and polished while this remarkable polish is only 50 cents per can and don't you use anything else if you want your refrigerator to stay glistening white.

You know the frantic last minute rush to get every thing ready to take up at once when you're cooking a big dinner. How'd you like to end all that, with a gas range that lets you do a huge rib-roast or ham and baking and cas-

Pertinent Question The famous psychologist had finished his lecture and was answering questions. A meek little man asked, "Did you say that a good poker player could hold down any kind of executive job?" "That's right," answered the lecturer. "Does that raise a question in your mind?" "Yes," was the reply. "What would a good poker player want with a job?"

When drying garments, if suspicious that the printed colors will bleed, dry garments on a hanger with an old sheet or bath towel run through sleeves and between front and back so that surfaces do not touch.

Dropping a small piece of charcoal into the flower vase will help flowers stay fresher longer and reduce odor from decaying stems.

Ironing a bias-cut skirt with the weave of the cloth minimizes bulging at the seams.

Save soap sippers and when you have quite a few, melt them down by boiling in a little water until all sippers are melted. Simmer away water until liquid is thick to make a lathery shampoo.

Keep baby's silverware, etc. handy by building a drawer under the seat of baby's high chair.

When using concrete for various odd jobs around the house in winter time, a couple pounds of salt added to each sack of cement will prevent freezing.

Two Decades of Jollity The Twenties opened with every joke-writer making almost as good a living out of prohibition jokes as bootleggers in the silliest Amendment. 1921 fetched the flapper, and the mouthings of the fresh young thing assailed you from the mags and the vaude stages. A year later, Eugene O'Neill put some language he had picked up at sea into his hits, and a crack like "go to hell" was getting more attention than chorus gels with no clothes on, or anyway, just a few. The Prince of Wales led a real prince all during 1923, obliging with a fall off his horse on a dull day to land right into some sweating gagwriter's copy.

Harding took the big portfolio in 1924, and Florida began selling land by the karat. You could build a whole comedy that year around a joke about the capitalist who owned a flower pot in Palm Beach. Two years later they were laughing at the people who believed it. Noel Coward gave a worldly, international tone to joke-telling in such a wicked way that you began wondering if your aunt was really nice. The decade reached its cockeyed point in 1926, and Daddy Browning inspired one good joke (unprintable) and a million variations of a sick one.

Cal Coolidge who occasionally spoke up notwithstanding all reports, muttered in 1927 that "I do not choose to run" and lifted mortgages for a mob of grateful jokesters. In 1928, the last year the American people used their pockets, the Chicago mobsters fed the humorists by shooting pedestrians just to sharpen up their marksmanship. It was kind of gory joking, but we were a calloused bunch. We had to be to survive what happened a few months later.

The laughter got good and gruesome in 1929, with all the punch lines dealing with the Wall Street crash. The popular type of yock dealt with the market victims who were suiciding from high places. And it was grim for the merry-makers in 1930, too. Their best sources were apple sellers, flag-pole-sitters and marathon dancers. Poverty had become almost as funny as a slip on a banana peel. Corruption was the 1931 feeder to the wags, and we were all holding our sides over cracks about having the best judges money could buy.

Pres. Hoover's party-plug about "two cars in every garage" came back to haunt him all during 1932 in the form of belly-laughs. And we were all so carefree in 1933 that we saw a hilarious situation in the bank failures. For sheer wit you couldn't top anything that reported a pal's loss of his life's savings... An ugly furrier named Hitler, who ranted like a Saturday Bowery drunk, struck us all as much more comical than Bobby Clark. While we were howling at his 1934 comicallies he ducked off to Austria and assassinated Dolfuss and gave some of us reason to stop laughing. It was better in 1935, when H'wood was the patsy, made so by a comedy called "Boy Meets Girl," when that title became part of the language.

Two sleepers, Maine and Vermont, were the comic inspiration of 1936. These two states were the complete catch of an amiable Kansan named Alf Landon, who had been kidded into pacing a walk-away for FDR... The WPA workers kept comedy coiners off the relief rolls in 1937. You could wot the party by reporting that a man leaning on a shovel wasn't a statue but a WPA toiler. The pickings were very meagre in the joke pits in 1938, but along came Wrong-Way Corrigan to fly West and land in Ireland. The big nugget in 1939 was the sweater girl, which made it a big year for the smirk, too. The sweater girl is getting pretty matronly after ten years but not nearly so matronly as the gag itself.

There's never been a poorer year for wags than 1940. Things were so tough then that the pert paragraphers and radio authors were having fun with Europe's phony war. My, they were sarcastic! A year later, when the blitz came and the Nazi big parade, these amusing characters wished they had kept their silly traps shut. There were no joking matters in 1941. We were in the scrap ourselves in 1942, and out of the 1917 kits came all the old wheezes about draft exemptions. They were pretty beat-up looking, but they helped a lot until the kissers got rid of their gloom.

The military routines got more chipper in 1943. By that time the GIs could get funny over their feed, and the co-ed army, with the Wacs and the Waves, etc., participating, gave the old he-and-she flavor to the yarns from the front. The home front line dealt with stolen kisses in the brownout and how many silk shirts the bus-boys were buying. The whole entertainment world got to giggling over the black market operations in 1944.

WOMAN'S WORLD

Give Your Home 'New Look' With More, Brighter Slipcovers

By Ertta Haley
THE SPRING of the year seems a good time to do something about giving the home a new look.

Three Young Men
SEVENTY-FOUR years ago a kid of 13 saw Aristides win the first Kentucky Derby.

Grantland Rice
His name is Alonzo Stagg, also set at the tender age of 86.

Here are three men who might have the slogan, "Life can begin at any age, but it only warms up in the 80s."

At the same time, Connie Mack is dreaming of his 10th pennant, actively in charge of a ball club that has a chance to win with just a few lucky spins from the wheel of chance.

And with Messrs. Winn and Mack featured entries in racing and baseball, Lonnie Stagg is actively helping young Lonnie, his son, to teach the young men in a Pennsylvania college how to tackle, block, run and throw passes.

Here are three men who can lay claim to a total of 260 years and are not only actively connected with sport, but in two instances, Winn and Mack, with the biggest shows of the year.

This has never happened before. Certainly no two men at the ages of 86 and 88 have played such leading roles in sport, and Stagg, at 86, is probably in better condition than either.

At a party one night in Los Angeles two years ago, I recognized that block that Stagg put on the burly curly-haired, explaining some play, as the big man, then coach of the Green Bay Packers, showed his astonishment, Connie Mack said, "I think I'll leave for my seat before I get killed."

It was Victor Hugo who wrote, in effect—"I feel in myself the future life. I am like a forest that more than once has been cut down. The new shoots are stronger and livelier than ever. My soul is more luminous when my body powers begin to fail. The snows of winter may be on my head, but the sunshine of eternal spring is in my heart."

This is the answer to Winn, Mack and Stagg—"The snows of winter may be on their heads, but the sunshine of eternal spring is in their hearts." They never look behind. They look only to the days and years ahead. The past is dust. It is only tomorrow that matters. This keeps 'em young.

The Big Year
Unless an unexpected jolt arrives at some early date, Messrs. Winn and Mack both figure that 1949 may be the best year either has ever known.

Colonel Winn is certain that his Derby will lure more than 100,000 spectators into his stands, and set a new mark. There seems to be grave doubt in many centers that any Kentucky Derby ever drew 100,000 fans.

Two years ago this doubt was expressed in loud tones. I asked Colonel Winn for the correct figures.

"I'll tell you," he said. "Tell those who doubt the figures that I will be glad to bet $10,000 that we had 100,000 or more spectators, and if they care to take the bet, I'll guarantee to prove it to their complete satisfaction." No one cared to take the bet.

Derby Day at Churchill Downs is beyond description. You can call the place a madhouse and then retire. But for all that, it is a terrific show, due largely to tradition and the showmanship of Colonel Matt Winn. The amazing feature is that so many take their beating, year after year, and come back for more.

So far as competition goes, 1949 has everything it takes to build up interest with the possibility or probability of a big, well-balanced field. The next two weeks will tell us more about this.

In the same way, Connie Mack believes he has a good chance to win the American league flag again. He makes no pennant predictions, but he will explain to you that if one or two things happen, his Athletics will be in front at the finish. He fully expects to be running one-two-three down the stretch in September, and this time he is equipped with reserves to handle bad breaks.

What the Book Says
If you care to know what the Winter Book has to say at this stop on the calendar, here are the latest Derby by quotations—Blue Peter, Capot and Olympia; 4 to 1. Wine list; 10 to 1. Mr. Busher; 12 to 1. Admiral Lea; 15 to 1. Model Cadet, Ocean Drive, Sport Page, Johns Joy, Lovely Nymph, Curandero; 20 to 1. Al Vanderbilt's Stone Age and Palestinian are 40 to 1. Full Speed is 30 to 1.

WOMAN'S WORLD

Give Your Home 'New Look' With More, Brighter Slipcovers

By Ertta Haley
THE SPRING of the year seems a good time to do something about giving the home a new look.

Slipcovers are simple enough to make if you have taken proper measurements of your furniture, and when colors are well chosen and fitting accurate, the home achieves a newness that nothing else, except new furniture, can give it.

You need no longer put off the job of covering the furniture because of lack of fabric selection. All types of new materials are on the market, and coordinated fabrics are sold even in the inexpensive lines.

When covering more than one piece of furniture in a room, take advantage of the coordinated color schemes if you feel a bit shy about what's proper together. Even an amateur can come up with a combination of fabrics which looks professional when the choice of several fabrics is done by professionals.

It's smart, too, to have two sets of slipcovers and drapes, one for winter use, and now, one for summer wear. This gives you a good opportunity to "rest" one set when the other goes into use.

Then, too, it gives you plenty of time to clean or wash one set while still having the furniture covered.

Light Colored Fabrics Are Favored
For warm weather, the sunlight colors are much favored. That doesn't mean that you can not use some brown, navy or even black in the room for slipcovers; it simply implies that the over-all effect is gay and lighthearted as befits the season.

The boxed slipcover with welt seams is the most popular type of cover among professionals, but it may be made at home. The welt which is at the seams may now be attached to the seams before they are sewed together.

In place of fasteners, you may use zippers, which are put on much the same way as they are on dresses and skirts.

In the past, we were advised to cut the material right on the chair, leaving a seam allowance. For those of you who lack this confidence in cutting, patterns are available.

All of these aids will help in making the job of putting together a slipcover as easy as making a pot holder.

Step-by-Step Directions Given For Slipcovering
Many problems are solved, as I've mentioned, if you use a pattern, but if you do not use one, or if you cannot find the type you need, follow these tips.

Lay the fabric on the chair or whatever you are covering and see that the pattern or stripe is properly centered. Decide on the shape by shaping the boxing at the front of the chair. Pin the fabric in place. Work with the right side of the fabric. Every seam is folded three-fourths of an inch so there is enough fabric to be formed into a welt if you are making it of the same material.

Chalk lines where seams come; also chalk the outline of the seat and front bands. Remove fabric and place on the floor where you can check the measurements of the chair against the actual fabric outlines. Cut the seat and allow for seams. Make allowances at the end for all bands and flaps, so they may be tailored neatly in finishing the cover when the seat is joined to the skirt.

Lay the cut material, pinned and basted, on the chair. Measure for the back of the chair and also at the lowest point where the fabric folds into the chair. Chalk the usual lines again; place fabric on floor and check against the original measurements.

Now fit the fabric to the arm and wing of the chair. Check this on the floor as outlined above, and cut a similar piece for the other arm.

Measure, cut and pin a small piece for the sides of the chair. After one side is finished, it may be duplicated for the other side.

For pleats at the corners, allow four inches of material. Hem the skirt and join to the band of the cover with a welt seam.

When hair-dos are simple, your hat takes on more of an ornamental quality. And what could be more provocatively ornamental than the many versions of the bonnet now in the fashion spotlight! Here, for example, is one of the new bonnets, close-fitting and tiny, the better to give the cap-like dash of color above bangs and softly-curled underhair. For utter femininity, there's nothing more effective than a splash of small flowers repeated in a ribbon-backed corsage, and a velvet ribbon tied underneath the chin.

Choose a jacket dress if you want something that doubles for a day at the office or goes shopping as well as one that looks well when going out later in the evening. A flurry of white dots on navy is fresh and crisp always.

Flounces are important in the hemline picture. You'll be seeing more of them, especially on summer print dresses. Dark backgrounds are favored for the lighter colored prints.

Beach wear is destined to take some of its inspiration in velvet. There's now available a rich, luscious velvet that can take a dip without turning a hair, and with a skirt addition, it may be used as a formal at the most formal of occasions.

Frilly petticoats still peek from beneath wide swirling hemlines, so plan to have some easy-washing nylons or cottons in your lingerie plans.

KATHLEEN NORRIS

Play Your Own Role

By Ertta Haley
YESTERDAY I went to see a friend in a state hospital for the insane. She has been there four years. When she first was admitted, on her psychiatrist's advice, her family's heart almost broke.

But now they are all somewhat resigned and, what is sadder, Marjorie is, too. She drifts in the dim half-life of the enormous institution; she talks trivialities; she never asks for her boy and girl any more. The twisted life about her is all that interests her; her weaving, her fitting of blocks into holes in a board, her meals.

Walking away from this place of shadows I felt very sad. For I have known Marjorie since she was a pretty, eager, normal girl. I knew her in her happy early wifehood and proud motherhood. When Mark went away to war I saw with just what gallantry she bore herself, and I saw the dullness and the problems of the postwar half-peace engulf her.

Money Would Have Helped
Nothing has ever been the matter with Marjorie that money could not have cured. No psychologist ever told her that, or anything like it, but it is true. If at any time during the past few years Mark had had a raise; bills could have been paid, luxuries and trips anticipated, friends inspired with envy of the new house, car, fur coat, Marjorie's vapors would have blown away like mist.

Here's the common trouble of trying to live like everyone else. But no woman's problem is like those of her neighbors. The only successful woman today is the one who takes her job as a thing apart and fits herself to it, and it to her resources. If money is short, she doesn't waste it. If living in the city forces too swift a pace upon her, she moves to the country. By what she has and what she plays her part with all the relish of a favorite Hollywood star.

Marjorie never solved her domestic problem. It rode her night and day. High prices, dentist bills, flowers for somebody, a dress she had to have or she simply couldn't go to the dinner, Anne's private school, a waitress in for the company dinner—there was simply no end to it. And all the time this disturbing talk of another war, and Miller being put over Mark in the office, and people trying to get her to buy tickets and patronize sales and contribute to this and that.

Too Much for Her
It was simply too much for her. She began to have hysterical outbursts, and say the children and she and Mark would be better apart. She wouldn't listen to anyone and gave up sleeping almost entirely.

Someone suggested psychiatrist and Marjorie heaped it at. For while, although it didn't accomplish anything, it didn't seem to hurt her. Then the cost of it became a worry added to all the others, and the psychiatrist suggested an institution, where the charges were low—$200 a month—but all treatments included, and less than she was paying him.

Really upset and frightened now, and with good reason, Marjorie went into custody, and she will never come out. And walking home, free and at peace in the spring dusk, my heart ached for her and for the hundreds of other women who work themselves into nervous and emotional disorders, and can't work themselves out.

There was nothing the matter with Marjorie that she could not herself have cured. Simpler meals, earlier hours, no alcohol, new interests, daily walks, and above all, as complete a forgetfulness of self as she could have managed, all would have helped.

Honest facing of the budget, and eliminating the hundred petty extravagances that mount up so maddeningly, would have struck at the very roots of it. A decision to move away, perhaps rent the present house, find smaller quarters in a more modest neighborhood, would have challenged quite unsuspected capabilities in her.

She would presently have come to realize that any life that is full and useful is as good as any other. The President's job—the film star's job, is no more exciting than yours, if you do yours right.

In fact, from what I know of the lives of the sensationally successful and wealthy, your chances of happiness are better than theirs.

So try home cures for the beginnings of nervous trouble, as you would for the everyday physical disorders of measles or cold. Lots of us are tired these days; lots of us are scared; lots of our old securities as a nation appear to be somewhat shaky, and almost none of us have enough money. But even on this basis of apprehension and discomfort, some of us manage to have a good time.

Elevators Found Helpful on Farms

Perform Most of Heavy Lifting, Transport Jobs
On today's electrified farms, elevators perform most of the heavy lifting and short transportation jobs.

It was during the worst of the manpower shortage period that elevators were used most. They answered the demands of older men for mechanical help to replace employees called to service. And they saved the day for younger farmers in helping them save time for more important production tasks.

Farm elevators are either portable or stationary. In general, motors for portable elevators range in size from one-half to one horsepower. Tests made at Idaho state college indicate that an average load of grain can be emptied and cribbed by one man in from six to eight minutes with the aid of a portable elevator.

Elevators also are used for raising or moving a wide variety of farm produce, including hay, loose or sacked grain.

The use of elevators in farm work has been found highly desirable because of the freeing of labor for other tasks and the amount of time saved over the run of a crop year.

Typical injury on fruit from eye-spotted bud moth.

The development of a new and efficient dinitro fungicide and insecticide for orchard use has been announced by the manufacturer, Dow chemical company.

The chemical is the triethanolamine salt of dinitro-sec-butylphenol and is effective against a wide range of fruit pests and diseases.

First used experimentally during the 1942 season, the compound is now ready for commercial use under the trade name DN-289. It is available as a stable, clear solution which contains eight ounces actual dinitro-sec-butylphenol in a each quart and which is readily miscible with water.

DN-289 has shown high efficiency as an insecticide for use in the dormant period against a variety of insects such as the rosy apple aphid, the currant aphid, the black cherry aphid, the mealy plum aphid, eye spotted bud moth, the cherry case-bearer, the pear psylla and oyster shell scale on apple and lilac. It also has given very promising results in control of the San Jose scale, scurfy scale and the eggs of the European red mite.

As a fungicide, DN-289 has been used successfully for the control of sooty blotch on pears.

The amount of the compound required to attain good control ranges from one quart to two quarts in 100 gallons of water. Aphids are controlled with one quart, while two quarts are needed to kill bud moths, case-bearer and the pear psylla. Heavier concentrations may be needed to control oyster shell scale.

Research workers are conducting extensive tests to find other insects and diseases that may be controlled with the chemical.

Latino Clover Produces Better if Bee-Visited

Latino clover on which bees were allowed to work freely produced 40 times as much seed as that from which bees were excluded, according to an experiment conducted by Dr. H. A. Scullen.

From 100 clover seed heads worked by bees he obtained 13,946 seeds, while from 100 heads screened against bees he got out only 365 seeds, or fewer than four seeds per head.

Eggs Will Keep Best With Large End Up

According to leading poultrymen, there is a right and wrong end up for keeping eggs in best condition. The large end of the egg should always be up. The U. S. department of agriculture also says that in packing eggs they should be placed so the large end will be up.

Given in keeping eggs for any length of time in the home refrigerator large end up is the best position.

Spring Meal Salads Should Be Kept Crisp, Always Look Delectable

HAVE YOU ever eaten salads that looked as though they had been pawed over too thoroughly in the making? Or, have they warmed and wilted before reaching the table?

No matter how good the salad originally may have been, if it suffers from either of these faults, no one is going to enjoy it.

The salad should be crisp and neat. Garnish it, yes, but don't over-do it or the salad will lose its much desired freshness.

The ingredients for a salad as well as the plate, bowl or platter on which it's served should be given a thorough chilling in the refrigerator. Save the salad's finishing touches for the very last preparation before serving the meal.

For the heavy meals, your best choice is a cold, crisp tossed salad. This may be made entirely of greens. You may add any of the following ingredients to a simple green salad: sliced or quartered tomatoes; cucumbers, sliced very thin; radishes; green onions; or grapefruit or orange sections.

GREENS WHICH ARE often used in a salad may consist of tender hearts of lettuce, endive, chicory, romaine, celery and watercress. Toss these together with a well-seasoned French dressing made as follows:

French Dressing (Makes 1 quart)
5 tablespoons honey
2 teaspoons salt
1 tablespoon dry mustard
1 tablespoon Worcestershire sauce
Dash of tobacco sauce
1 tablespoon paprika
2 tablespoons tarragon vinegar
1/2 cup distilled vinegar
1 can condensed tomato soup
1 1/2 cups salad oil
1 clove garlic

Mix all ingredients together. Place in a quart jar, store in refrigerator and use as needed. Shake well before using.

Here's a beautiful salad bowl around which you'll enjoy building the whole meal:

1 1/2 cups cottage cheese
Sour cream
French dressing
Marinate fruits in French dressing and chill. Toss together all salad greens in salad bowl and pile cottage cheese which has been mixed with sour cream, in center of greens.

VARIATIONS: Use tomato wedges in place of orange segments. Use pineapple spears and strawberries instead of grapefruit and avocado. Use fresh figs and ripe cherries instead of avocado.

Ham or chicken may be combined with other salad essentials to give you delightful main dish salads for warm days. They're a wonderful idea for using leftovers.

Ham Mousse (Serves 6)
2 tablespoons gelatin
2 1/2 cups bouillon
2 teaspoons grated onion
2 1/2 cups cooked ham, ground
1/2 cup celery, chopped
1/2 cup radishes, sliced
1/2 cup green pepper, chopped
1/2 cup real mayonnaise
Soften gelatin in one-fourth cup cold bouillon. Heat to boiling the remainder of the bouillon and add to gelatin mixture. Chill. When beginning to jell, add onion, ham, celery, radishes and green pepper. Fold in real mayonnaise and pour into a mold. Chill until set. Unmold on platter, garnish with watercress and radish roses. Serve with mustard mayonnaise, made by mixing three-fourths cup of real mayonnaise with one-fourth cup mustard-with-horseradish.

Scoop out cucumbers and fill with tuna fish salad. Serve with potato chips, sliced, hard-cooked eggs and tomato slices.

Fruit salad dessert idea: melon balls, white grapes, strawberries, pineapple spears, peach halves and scoops of sherbet.

Cold meat platters may form the base of a salad. Use summer sausage, liver sausage, baked ham, and sliced tongue for one platter.

Stretch chicken salad and add interesting flavor to it by using with half as much cooked sweetbread.

Have you ever tried serving potato salad in green pepper cups? Garnish with slices of ham and tongue, marinated (in French dressing or salt water) cucumber slices and yellow plum tomatoes.

These cooked vegetables are delectable when served with French dressing: asparagus tips, cauliflower-topped and diced carrots.

Light salad idea for a baby supper: lettuce hearts, tender spinach leaves, watercress, radishes and carrot sticks.

A chilly entree using left-over ham and other salad ingredients is a welcome platter on a warm humid day. It provides vitamins and minerals for pep and zip, and makes delightful eating.

Tarbell Urges Corn Borer Control

The 1949 version of "Operation Corn Borer" is under way throughout Delaware, reports Dr. L. A. Stearns, head of the Entomology Department at the University of Delaware.

A series of postcards, letters and posters has been distributed in farm areas, urging farmers to plow old corn fields before May 10. Since the corn borer overwinters in corn stalks, fields should be plowed by that date, and all corn remnants in feed lots be destroyed before moths emerge.

DDT was the most effective of all insecticides tested against borer in 1948, and is recommended by the entomologists for 1949 borer control.

Delaware's corn crop is valued at more than 4 and half million dollars. Loss from borer is estimated at about 180 thousand dollars.

Results of clean-up operations in 1948 show that in New Castle County where 90 per cent of old fields were plowed under in the spring, only 40 borers were counted per 100 plants. In Sussex County, only 61 per cent of old fields plowed under showed 152 borers per 100 plants.

Specific information on spray recommendations and other corn borer control measures may be obtained from county agricultural agents in Newark, Dover and Georgetown; or from the University of Delaware Agricultural Extension Service, Newark.

Soybean Support Price Announced

C. E. Ocheltree, chairman of the Delaware State PMA Committee, has received word that the support price for 1949 No. 2 soybeans will be at 90 per cent of comparable price as of September 1, 1949. Other grades will be subject to premiums and discounts.

The support price will be through loans and purchase agreements available from harvest through January 31, 1950. The announcement made at this time, Ocheltree says, will give producers ample time to plan for storage needs in order to take advantage of the price stabilizing activity for the 1949 crop.
