

Proposed Factory Site To Be Surveyed; Building Plans Are Drawn Up

Transaction Underway For Land on U. S. 13 Between The Bridle Bit and Robbin Hood Inn for Ace Manufacturing

Several acres on U. S. 13 between The Bridle Bit and Robbin Hood Inn may wind up as the site of a new plant for Ace Manufacturing Company. Norris Adams said Wednesday that he had several acres and that Jesse Crockett had a small piece, though exact acreage could not be determined until after it was surveyed.

Adams added that the surveying was supposed to be done this week and that the price of the land could not be ascertained until this was done. Fulton Downing, of the Harrington Lumber & Supply Company, declared Wednesday that he was acting as an agent for the manufacturing company in the deal and that a fair compensation had been arrived at.

Furthermore, Downing revealed a blueprint of the proposed garment factory had been drawn up by a Delmar architect.

In the event the contract is consummated, a building 200 feet by 80 feet would be constructed, with the lesser footage fronting on the highway and facing east.

The building would have to be completed by October since the lease of Ace Manufacturing Company for its quarters on Clark Blvd. expires at that time. The new structure would be larger than the present plant and would permit the inclusion of a cutting room. Cutting is now being done in New Jersey.

In the event the plant is constructed, agitation for an enlarged water main to the area would have much to go on since the new structure would be diagonally across the highway from the cutting plant of George Sherwin Inc. The latter firm has made vociferous complaints from time to time about its lack of sufficient water. Also, the Kent & Sussex Fair Association is flirting with the idea of using city water since its own wells have been condemned.

Business men say that a water main directly from the standpipe to the highway could serve the two garment factories, the Fair association and any other industries that might desire to locate on the highway. The area on the highway and the branchline railroad has industrial possibilities. One spokesman for the businessmen said Wednesday that the main should be at least 10 inches in diameter.

Southern States To Hold Annual Meeting July 15

Farmer-members of Southern States Cooperative in the Harrington area will hold their local annual membership meeting, July 11.

This date was set at a recent planning conference attended by the Southern States Advisory Board and Farm Home Advisory Committee for members served by Peck Bros. Farm Supply, Cooperative Agency.

The annual meeting will take place in the Harrington High School at 8:00 p. m. (EDST), according to Earl Knott, chairman of the local Southern States Advisory Board.

Mr. Knott, who presided at the planning conference, said the annual session will include: A Farm Grown Hat contest, election of new members to the local Southern States Board and Committee, and reports on Southern States and local services.

Local Nine Swamps Staytonville

Harrington took a run away game from Staytonville at Staytonville 21 to 3. Tower came up with their second win as they turned back Playtex 8 to 5. The victory moved Tower up into fifth place 1/2 game ahead of Staytonville.

Harrington defeated Houston here Friday night, 5 to 3, thus securing revenge for a defeat administered the previous week by the branchline boys. Wilson again pitched for Houston, with Cubbage and Hitchens twirling for the local nine. The third game of the five game series with Houston will be played tonight at 6:30 o'clock on the high school diamond.

Viola lost its third game of the season Sunday to Farmington on the Farmington diamond 10 to 9. B. Semans started on the mound for Viola and gave up 13 hits, 3 walks, and 10 runs. Very loose fielding led several of the Farmington drives go for hits that generally would have been outs. Semans worked 6 and a third inning and had a very good record of strikeouts as he fanned 11 batters. That runs his total of strike outs to 25 in the 16 innings he has pitched.

Biddle pitched the last 1 and 2/3 innings and only faced 5 men to get his five outs. He fanned two, that is the second time he has done that this season. The first game he worked 4 full innings and only faced 12 men.

Thompson started on the mound and although was hit hard from the start, he stayed until the eighth when three straight hits and an error were good for four runs with nobody out. Sapp pitched the last two innings and gave up 2 hits, a single by A. Chambers and a double to Palmer.

Palmer made his first full game appearance with the Viola squad and was very effective at the plate as he collected 3 hits for 5 trips. Sipple ran close with 3 for 6, while J. Chambers got 2 for 4. A. Chambers and M. Kersey each collected 2 for 5.

T. Messick led the Farmington attack at the plate collecting 3 for 4. J. Bowman got 3 for 5 while Anthony collected 2 for 4. When the game was over the score read like this: Farmington 10 runs, 13 hits, 5 errors, and they left 5 men on the base path. For Viola: 9 runs, 16 hits, 3 errors, and they left 14 men stranded on the bases.

Hoof Beats

Scott Free, a trotter owned by Fred Green, died Friday night soon after crossing the finish line in a race at Laurel Raceway, Laurel, Md. He lost a neck decision to Miss Stuck Up, driven by Charles Wingate, and then collapsed from heart failure. Both Miss Stuck Up and Wingate will be remembered from the recent race meet here.

Duke Harvester, driven by Allen Myer, won a nose decision over Rita Direct in the featured $1000 pace Friday night at Laurel, paying $127 to win. Several of the local boys say "they had him". The brown horse, which raced here, is a 5-year-old owned by Mrs. Zada Banks, of Laurel, Del.

Direct Spangler, br c, by Billy Direct-Helena, by Peter Volo, and McKinney Vic, by Victorious Hal-Helena Ebbs, by Calumet Ebbs, are entered in Frank P. Fox Pacing Stake No. 23 for two-year-old pacers. Both are owned by Fred Greenly. The Fox Stake will be raced at Indianapolis between Sept. 5-10 for $30,000.

Bonnie's Junior broke the track record at Laurel Raceway Tuesday night, pacing a mark of 2:05.3. Driver was T. Lewis. The stallion is owned by Mrs. Edna Wilson, of Georgetown. Biery Hanover, another horse which raced here during the Kent & Sussex meet, paid $113.20 at Laurel Tuesday night, going a 1 1/16 miles in 2:17. Driver and owner is J. Garrow.

Harry "Booty" Morris this week purchased a filly colt, Margaret Star, from Ralph Satterfield at an undisclosed price. The colt is out of Sister Dillon by My Birthday.

"Bats in Belfry"
According to books, "Bats in the belfry" is just an expression. Bats are no more likely to fly into a person's hair than are birds.

The "Home That Dick Built"

New Home of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Bullock

R. Bullock Designs Novel Residence

When the recently completed slag-block, stucco residence of Richard "Dick" Bullock was nearing completion, some wisecracks remarked that all it needed was a couple gasoline pumps to resemble a filling station. It's a different story now, what with the lawns graded and the final touches put on the house, the Bullock home is one of "the latest of the latest."

Bullock did most of the designing for the house, a single-story structure at High and Mispillion Streets, though he got the idea for the sliding doors and closets from a magazine. He likes the doors in closets since they are not difficult to operate if the closets should have something on the floor.

Windows have glazed brick sills. Roof is a 20-year-bonded-built-up one. Entering the ground floor from the front, one sees a long room, half of which is a dining room, with a living room in the remainder. In the latter room is a fireplace that has a novel feature—a mesh metal screen that operates as do window curtains. The screen is to prevent sparks from flying into the room.

From the front room, one enters a hallway running the width of the house. Here one sees a bedroom, nursery, a tile bathroom and kitchen. Next to the kitchen is a utility room. From the utility room or from the dining room one may enter directly into a built-up garage which permits one to enter or leave the car without suffering from inclement weather.

Bullock has a basement under one-third of the house. This harbors a fuel oil furnace to supply hot water heat. Part of the basement will be made into a game room. The cellar may be entered from the ground floor or from the outside.

Wallace Woodford Addresses Rotarians

Although he announced no subject, Hon. J. Wallace Woodford's subject might have been "Pressure Groups" when he addressed the Harrington Rotary Club Tuesday evening of last week.

Mr. Woodford told of a young congressman who was an ardent champion of a bill then before Congress. Both Republicans and Democrats realized that it was a bad bill, but this one young congressman kept fighting for it. When a friend asked him why he fought for such a bad bill, he replied: "I know it's a bad bill, but the pressure groups are after me to support it."

There, said Mr. Woodford, you have the explanation of so much poor legislation—the pressure groups. There are hundreds of these groups, each seeking the enactment of special legislation to benefit its members.

Mr. Woodford also scored fence straddlers, the politicians who try to carry water on both shoulders. To illustrate this point, he told of the candidate for sheriff down in Kentucky. A hot issue in the campaign was the squirrel law, and the candidate's campaign manager had advised him to remain non-committal on the subject. However, the candidate was addressing a huge audience one day when some fellow in the back of the room yelled: "How do you stand on the squirrel law?"

"Ignore the question," whispered the candidate's manager, but the candidate took matters in his own hands. "I'm glad you asked me that question," he answered, "because I want the people to know how I stand on all issues. Half of my friends are in favor of the squirrel law, and half of them are against it—and I'm a man who always sticks by his friends."

Old Wye Church to Be Rededicated

The restoration of Old Wye Church at Wye Mills is expected to attract hundreds of worshippers and visitors interested in early American history to the rededication services to be held Wednesday, July 13, at 12 o'clock.

The same man who supervised the rebirth of Williamsburg, Va., William G. Perry, was the supervising architect for this project and two years of work and study went into the restoration of the building and the old Vestry House.

The structure was first opened in the fall of 1721, nearly 230 years ago, but at that time, it replaced a much earlier building on the same site, believed to have been erected about 1650. This site has been a place of worship for three centuries, making it one of the oldest in the nation.

The many vicissitudes of this church have been carefully portrayed in an exhaustive study by Miss Elizabeth Merritt, of the Maryland Historical Society. Together with a description of the architectural features of the restoration by Mr. Perry, this publication will be ready for distribution at the time of the rededication services.

At its lowest state, according to records, ten years before the Civil War, the roof of Old Wye was falling in and the edifice was used as a cattle stable. In contrast with

This field of shocked barley (or is it oats) resembles a Millet landscape. It is between Harrington and Frederica.

Kent-Sussex Fair Plans Advanced

Plans are rapidly being completed for the annual Kent and Sussex Fair at Harrington, which will open on the night of July 25 and continue, both day and night, the remainder of that week.

Since this is the only fair in Delaware, and the largest fair on the Delmarva Peninsula, it attracts patronage from a wide area and likewise is the annual attraction and entertainment for a large number of persons.

Gain in Applications
General Manager Brinton Holloway reports that judging from the large number of applications received for entry blanks, the exhibits this year will be much larger than ever before and will undoubtedly tax the exhibit space even though that department has been vastly increased during the past year.

All available space for commercial exhibits was disposed of long ago, according to Mr. Holloway, who indicated that these exhibits will be both more numerous and interesting than in past years.

Increases in the purses and the number of harness races are expected to be an attraction for that feature of the fair, especially since there is now stable room on the grounds for more horses than quartered last year.

The harness race program will get under way on the afternoon of Tuesday, July 26, and continue through Wednesday, Thursday, and Friday. There will be the usual program of free acts on the stage in front of the grandstand between the races each afternoon.

Features to Be Retained
All of the features that have regularly proven popular with the patrons of the Kent and Sussex Fair will be retained in the program for this year, according to Mr. Holloway. These include the cattle show, fireman's parade, and display of examples of club work.

Many improvements to both the buildings and the grounds since the 1948 fair will provide added convenience for visitors, it was pointed out by Mr. Holloway.

Referendum to Be Held For Veterans Bonus

Governor Carvel signed the bill approving a referendum for a veterans bonus late Wednesday. The measure was sponsored by Reps. Warren L. Allen (D-Seaford) and Ralph Collison (D-Bridgetown).

It passed the House on May 15 and it provides that on the third Tuesday after its effective date the citizens of the several counties shall indicate by ballot whether they want to pay an immediate cash bonus to veterans of World War II.

The same laws pertaining to general elections will apply. The ballot will be in simple form, containing one question, to wit:

Do you favor the immediate payment of a cash bonus to veterans of World War II by the State of Delaware?

Under the question will be two squares, with the words "Yes" and "No" adjoining.

As he signed the bill Governor Carvel said he was pleased to be able to approve it and said he had held off so as to give those involved with the machinery of the vote as much time as possible to get ready.

The referendum will therefore be held on Tuesday, July 19, and the polls will be open until 6:30 p. m. Daylight Saving Time.

Governor Carvel has told intimates that he will call a special session of the General Assembly if the vote is favorable. Whether he will carry out this intent if the vote is so light as to fail to indicate a reasonable majority of the eligible voters has not been disclosed.

County Courts to Open Monday

The July term of the Kent County courts will be convened Monday but actual operations of the court term will not get underway until Tuesday because of the holiday.

The Grand jury will convene on Tuesday for the purpose of acting upon any cases placed before them. Clerk of the Peace John R. Leverage reports that there are nine cases in the Court of General Sessions that have been continued from previous terms. The regular panel of petit jurors will report for duty on Wednesday and it is expected there will be several jury trials scheduled for that day.

IRRIGATION INEVITABLE

A demonstration of irrigating was given near Seaford this week.

Droughts exact a heavy toll every year in almost all parts of the United States. Some claim that we do not have the general rainfall of several years ago. Forests have been slaughtered for the benefit of the big lumber companies and instead of rainfall seeping into the ground, with trees and decaying leaves as a check, it rushes down and away as soon as it falls.

Many beautiful brooks of a few years ago are dry during the summer and autumn months, their beds a dry mass of gravel. This condition can be overcome by contour farming, but it will take years to restore the former flow of water. In many sections of the country the scarcity of water has caused once lush farm lands to be abandoned in favor of the natural growth of grass for grazing purposes.

The potential population of a country is not based upon the number of acres of tillable land in that country, but upon the amount of annual rainfall. Using this as a yardstick, it is estimated that the United States can support, at the most, 300,000,000.

Irrigation is costly, but so is the yearly loss of crops. Far-seeing farmers will prepare for irrigation now, for it is inevitable.

EVER HEAR OF BLANCHARD RIVER?

Between speaking engagements at Toledo, Ohio, two weeks ago, we ran down to Findlay, Ohio, a city of twenty-five thousand, about 45 miles from Toledo. Something happened in Findlay years ago, something that has brought a lot of pleasure to the world, and we sought in vain for a postcard commemorating the event.

Finally, we began talking to a stranger on the street, lamenting the fact that no such commemorative postcard could be found. "We'll go up to the Chamber of Commerce," he said. "I think you have a good point."

"Why is it," we asked the secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, "that a famous event occurred here and there is no commemorative postcard?"

"Both Maralyn Miller and Marie Dressler came from Findlay," replied the secretary—"and Aimee McPherson lived here for a while."

"We'd soft-pedal the McPherson stuff," we advised him. "She's no asset to your town. Miller and Dressler were great, two of the greatest, but, regrettable as it is, no one will remember them after the passing of two or three generations. However, a boy was born here, lived here, composed a song here, died here and is buried here. That song has lived and will live wherever men gather, a hundred years from now. A proper commemorative card would bring hundreds of song lovers here to see the river he immortalized. Who would have heard of little Bardstown, Kentucky, but for Stephen Collins Foster's 'My Old Kentucky Home'?"

We were pleased to learn that Findlay, Ohio is preparing to do something about this. The Chamber of Commerce, with many of the people of the city cooperating, is going to get a huge boulder upon which will be inscribed the notes of the song. This will be placed at the grave of the composer, on the bank of the river and a little shrine will be made. Then postcards will be made showing the coldly methodical... that river? Maps, made by the... men, list that stream as Blanchard River, but millions of others, sentimentalists all, who have never seen the river, know it as "The Old Mill Stream," for there on the bank of the Blanchard Tell Taylor composed "Down By The Old Mill Stream."

PENINSULA WEATHER

A member of the U. S. Weather Bureau, in an address before one of the Lions Clubs in the Wilmington section a number of years ago, stated that in weather forecasts over the United States as a whole, the bureau had a splendid record for accuracy. "But," he added, "on the Delmarva Peninsula, low lying, with the Chesapeake Bay on one side, the Delaware Bay on the other, with the ocean on the east, we can tell almost next to nothing about the weather. When and if observation points can be set up several miles out in the ocean, then we may be able to forecast with some accuracy."

Verifying the weather man's opinion, Tuesday's Wilmington Morning News had this front page headline: "No Relief Seen as Heat Wave Enters 18th Day in City, State." The Morning News was delivered down-state in the most pleasant weather witnessed here in months.

Along the same line, Gorman Walsh, manager of WDEL, was broadcasting a few years ago: "Weather for Delaware and vicinity, fair and warmer." Just then someone asked Gorm to look out the window. He did so—and snow was swirling about the building.

THE ROCKEFELLER FOUNDATION

Recently we received a copy of the review of work in 1948 of The Rockefeller Foundation. This document, known as the President's Review, was written by Chester I. Barnard, who has been president of the foundation since the retirement of Raymond B. Fosdick in June of last year. It would be enlightening to our readers to get an insight as to how the soul of "Old John D. is still marching on" through the activities of this world-wide philanthropic body.

But the purpose of the Foundation is to serve the welfare of mankind, and it is neither religiously oriented nor nationalistic in a narrow sense. It has served, and is now serving without national, sectarian or racial discrimination throughout the world. The freedom of the Foundation is enhanced, moreover, by a singular combination of circumstances. It does not have to make profits, it seeks no funds, is bound by no traditions, has no alumni, represents no political or religious interests, is not an agency of any government and does not aim to be perpetual. In addition to appropriations from annual income, the Foundation has appropriated to date almost $125,000,000 out of the principal and under the current policy of the Board of Trustees might be allowed to terminate its activities within the lifetime of another generation.

The chartered purpose of the Foundation with its wide scope and its absence of preconceived or specialized interests has in a quite informal and undesigned manner caused the Foundation to become one of the crossroads of the scientific, educational and scholarly world. In 17 countries the Foundation maintains more or less permanent headquarters or research centers. Its officers travel extensively. They are in constant touch with scholars, educators, scientists, statesmen, men of affairs and churchmen everywhere. In search of support or advice, and bringing first-hand knowledge of conditions and problems, a stream of visitors comes to its headquarters from nearly all countries and from nearly all walks of life. This constant seeking of the detached judgment and informal advice that the officers are in a position to give is one of the most valuable by-products of Foundation work and in itself would justify administrative costs incurred in carrying on the direct functions of the Foundation.

"The Foundation's Charter permits the use of income and principal for philanthropic purposes anywhere in the world. In relation to so broad an aim and to the unlimited needs of today, the Foundation's resources, although substantial in themselves, are trivial. Hence the practical necessity of restricting the scope of Foundation activities to manageable limits and of drawing up a program sufficiently concentrated to be effective. If this were not done, the scattering of aid with the consequent large overhead administration would soon dissipate what resources here are. Foundation programs and policies are subject to change, but they have been roughly consistent through fairly long periods.

"In general the policy of the Foundation and, with occasional exceptions, its practice have conformed to the following principles: (1.) The support of the Foundation should be directed to purposes for which it is otherwise difficult to secure funds. (2.) The support should be of an initial or catalytic character, with the idea that what has been demonstrated to be useful should then be carried on by other means. (3.) Current and palliative types of philanthropy should accordingly be left to others, not because they are unimportant, but because the needs they encompass are more generally recognized. Furthermore the resources of this Foundation, and indeed of all similar foundations combined, are insignificant in relation to such needs. Current philanthropy, which is a function of the whole of a society, however, it may be recognized, and of the individuals in that society, requires very general support. (4.) The Foundation therefore selected as its primary interest the promotion of knowledge and its effective application to human interests. The hope is that even comparatively small sums devoted to this field may prove of wide and lasting value. One major realization of such hope is offered by the history of penicillin. The modest sums made available to scientific research helped to develop a therapeutic agent of extraordinary importance. This led indirectly to the discovery of other valuable antibiotics.

"The advancement of knowledge and the promotion of its application, already restricted objectives, still represent too vast a goal. The limited funds available and the desirability of a small administrative organization call for even sharper concentration of interest. Only in the field of public health and in one major experimental agricultural development has it been feasible for The Rockefeller Foundation to make use of its own personnel in carrying out projects receiving financial support. In divisions of the Merical, Natural and Social Sciences and of the Humanities, the Foundation is for the most part a disbursing rather than an operating agency. It gives financial support but leaves the execution of the project to governments, universities and other recognized institutions.

"In this connection a further restriction arises from the paucity of trained talent available throughout the world. This factor is important in determining the kind and extent of Foundation interest in various countries. Some countries afford little occasion for support of scientific research, though perhaps offering opportunity for aid in the application of knowledge in public health or in educational effort. The lack of qualified workers limits the opportunity for support in many important fields of knowledge. We should not be misled by the fact that the word 'research' has now become a slogan to secure public and private funds for activities sometimes more respectable than fruitful. Today deficiencies of truly notable personnel are most crucial in the social sciences and the humanities.

"When we speak of the advancement of knowledge, we sometimes refer only to that well recognized body of fact and theory validated by the application of current scientific methods. And scientific research does indeed produce a knowledge of nature which is on the whole useful for the welfare of mankind although susceptible of misuse. It is, however, not the only kind of knowledge available. Knowledge is wider than science. Everyday matter-of-fact knowledge of specific occurrences, then and there or here and now, is far more important in the enormous tides of human behavior than even scientific knowledge and its application. Billions of transactions take place daily on everyday matter-of-fact knowledge that has no standing in science and is unproven, unprovable or irrelevant to everything but immediate action. Such unscientific knowledge is with us for better or worse, and the generalizations to which it gives rise and the working fictions by which it is expressed are worthy of careful study. The refinement of this kind of knowledge and the elimination from it of what is not true or reliable is an indispensable part of the scholarly work of mankind.

"All this suggests vital problems of priority in Foundation policy. What comes first? What needs constant, what needs exceptional support? How does improving the techniques of language instruction compare with pure research in, say, physical chemistry? Do yellow fever and malaria eradication take precedence over soil conservation and the development of disease-resistant grains? . . . These and analogous fundamental questions go to the roots of the problems of The Rockefeller Foundation because they are root questions of modern society."

KOSTER'S SELECTION HIGHLY CREDITABLE

New Use for 2,4-D
A new angle has developed in the use of 2,4-D to eradicate barberry bushes, the U. S. department of agriculture reports. The bushes are killed by a solution of 2,4-D applied to freshly cut barberry stems. The solution is much stronger than is used in weed killing in lawns or in grain fields.

A meal consisting of an old boot, a discarded shirt, a sack of coal or several tin cans often will quench the appetite of voracious kinds of sharks. Contrary to popular belief, attempts to drive off a shark by blows or splashing "are likely to be futile" if persons in the water are bleeding from injuries.

Good Buy - all around

FRIENDS gather, look over that long bonnet and wish they had as much Fireball life as you have here.

They size up the broad windshield and narrow corner posts — and don't have to be told how these things step up "see-power."

They appraise the smart styling, the roomy interiors, the usability of luggage space — and agree you've made a buy.

But don't stop, please, with letting them look. Invite them in and introduce them to some of the special pleasures you'll know as a Buick owner.

Show them, for instance, how completely different Dynaflo Drive is, with every mile cushioned by flowing oil and none of the rigid harshness of direct-drive cars.

Let them sample the matchless Buick ride, with all four wheels cradled on soft, coil springs and low-pressure tires made still easier-riding by extra-wide rims.

Point out how solid this Buick feels. That's what you get from husky frames, low-swung weight, and power delivered through a torque-tube instead of the rear springs.

For the truth is, this Buick's a bargain on much, much more than you can see.

It's a big buy on the solid goodness a demonstration quickly makes plain. On increasingly favorable delivery dates. On attractive price. On the kind of "deal" your Buick dealer makes.

That's why we keep saying "Better see your Buick dealer — and get that order in promptly!"

BUICK alone has all these features

Silk-smooth DYNAFLOW DRIVE* • FULL-VIEW VISION from enlarged glass area • SWING-EASY DOORS and easy access • "LIVING SPACE" INTERIORS with Deep-Cradle cushions • Buoyant-riding QUADRIFLEX COIL SPRINGING • Lively FIREBALL STRAIGHT-EIGHT POWER with SELF-SETTING VALVE LIFTERS plus HI-POISED ENGINE MOUNTINGS • Low-pressure tires on SAFETY-RIDE RIMS • Cruiser-Line VENTIPORTS • DUREX BEARINGS, main and connecting rods • BODY BY FISHER

Tomato Diseases May Increase

So far this season tomato growers have had very little trouble with diseases, says William E. Tarbell, county agent, who warns, however, that the danger of infection of tomatoes by any one of the four common diseases is increasing. Hot dry weather has prevented the usual rapid spread of these diseases but a wet period of weather would activate them.

Plant diseases cannot be cured, stresses Tarbell, but their spread can be controlled by spraying or dusting at regular intervals. An ounce of prevention in the case of plant diseases is worth plenty to the tomato grower.

Tarbell has received timely spray recommendations from J. W. Heuberger, plant pathologist, and R. F. Stevens, extension horticulturist, both with the Delaware Agricultural Extension Service. They recommend starting of spray or dust treatments at this time, continuing at regular intervals. Spray every ten days or dust every seven days. Preferred materials for this application are Parzate, Dithane 278 or Dithane D-14 plus zinc sulfate. Add an insecticide such as calcium arsenate for potato beetles and hornworms. The schedule for the season usually includes about five sprays or 7 dust applications. The first three applications should be one of the above materials. The remaining applications may be one of the same materials or one of the fixed copper fungicides or Bordeaux mixture 6-3-100. Copper used early in the season tends to cause some injury to the plants.

Tarbell urges growers to watch this paper for timely warnings of late blight in local areas. If infection is general, spraying every seven days and dusting every five days may be necessary if weather prevails.

Lightning Is Nature's Artillery

"Lightning - nature's - artillery - is one of the greatest causes of farm fires," commented William E. Tarbell, county agent, today. "Each year lightning destroys approximately $20,000,000 worth of farm property in the United States, takes the lives of 500 people and injures 1,300 others."

"Farm and rural districts suffer 90 percent of the damage done every year by that fiery menace from the sky. Lightning is one of the greatest single contributors of the country's annual $100,000,000 farm fire loss," he said.

"We can protect our buildings by keeping those hoards of electrical charges from swarming all over them. We can do this by building plenty of roads over which these charges can travel and they must be so made that the charges will use them in preference to walls, roof tops and chimneys.

Our farm structures will be protected if there are enough of these roads," explained County Agent Tarbell.

When an electrical storm approaches, certain precautions are recommended by the National Safety Council to insure safety. Do not get out of doors or remain out during thunderstorms, unless it is necessary. If there is any choice of shelter to enter, choose shelter in the following order:

- a. large metal frame dwelling
- b. dwelling or other building which is protected against lightning
- c. large unprotected building
- d. small unprotected building

Tarbell Lists Destructive Insects

Destructive insects are active on the following crops, advises William E. Tarbell, County Agent and the Department of Entomology of the University of Delaware:

BEANS - Moderate to heavy Mexican bean beetle populations have been noticed in several sections of the state. Fleabeetles and striped cucumber beetles, also, are causing some injury.

CORN - Earworms and borers are damaging tassels that are showing in the whorl. Use 5 per cent DDT dust at 40 pounds per acre.

CUCUMBERS - Striped cucumber beetles are now depositing eggs in the soil at the base of the plants. Protect them from attack by hatching larvae with sprays or dust of rotenone or of methoxychlor.

GENERAL - Adult Japanese Beetles were first observed on June 16. Control with DDT formations, where the treated plants are not to be used as feed for farm animals.

ORNAMENTALS and SHADE TREES - A severe infestation of mealybugs on Japanese holly was reported in Dover. Recommend 40 percent nicotine sulfate, 1 part to 800 parts of water, combined with a white oil emulsion, 1 part to 100 parts of water.

European pine shoot moth adults are now emerging and are laying eggs on new growth. Most effective control is parathion, 2 lbs. 15 percent wet table powder per 100 gallons of water.

WHEAT - Sawfly larvae, joint-worm larvae, and the flax-seed stage of the Hessian fly have been found in plantings near Bear and Wyoming. Usually, these insects are not destructive in Delaware.

NOTE TO USERS OF PARATHION - Failure to follow package label directions, when using parathion, may result in serious illness. The initial complaint is of giddiness, usually accompanied by a contraction of the eye pupils. Two to eight hours later, nausea, abdominal cramps, vomiting, diarrhea, muscular twitching, coma, and convulsions may appear. If any of these symptoms are experienced, call a physician immediately. Atropine is of definite benefit as is the administration of oxygen under slight positive pressure, such as six millimeters of water. (Abstracted from a report prepared by D. O. Hamblin, M. D., Medical Director, American Cyanamid Company.)

Japanese Beetles Have Arrived

Japanese beetles have arrived for their annual vacation in Delaware, although they may not be destructive until the first week in July, says Robert F. Stevens, extension horticulturist for the University of Delaware.

"These pests are usually most active during July and the first half of August, causing especially heavy damage to grapes, raspberries, plums and peaches and roses, although many other flowers, shrubs and vegetables may be infested. The wet season last summer may increase the prevalence of beetles this year.

Stevens advises that Japanese beetles can be controlled effectively with a 5 per cent dust or a spray. The following amounts of 50 per cent DDT wettable powder are needed for the quantity of spray desired: 1-1/2 tablespoons powder for 1 gallon; 3 ounces powder for 10 gallons; and 2 pounds powder for 100 gallons. Spray and dust may be used on all shrubs, flowers and fruits. However, it should not be used on fruit within one month of harvest. Chinese Elms may be injured by DDT, so use lead arsenate on this tree.

During late summer the beetles burrow into the ground, usually in the lawn, and lay eggs.

For grub control, DDT is used at 6 lbs. of 10 percent dust per 1000 square feet (250 lbs. per acre), preferably a dust which does not have an adhesive.

U. S. Sen. Frear's Statement

First, may I say that I appreciate the many written comments which I received following my statement of last week. It is reassuring to know that so many people are following closely the activities of Congress. I hope to have the continued benefit of your opinions in the weeks ahead.

The past week more work was accomplished on the question of re-organization within the Post Office Department and the Government Personnel System. The sub-committee, of which I am chairman, met on Wednesday to discuss bills that we hope to introduce in Congress shortly to carry out this reorganization. The plan, as so many of you already know, follows along the lines of the Hoover Commission recommendations. Re-organization of our Executive Branch of Government is intended to promote greater efficiency. I am confident we shall succeed in this effort.

On Friday of last week, a Post Office and Civil Service Sub-committee, of which I am a member, approved two bills relative to the employment of Veterans. One of these, Senate Bill 660, as amended, would give qualified veterans preference over Federal employees with less than 15 years service when a reduction in civilian personnel is made. Another Senate Bill, 1937 as amended, with this sub-committee approved would amend the Veterans Preference Act of 1944 so that when personnel reductions occur it would still retain in Federal Service qualified employees, who have a disability of 60 per-cent or over.

Another measure which has been under Committee consideration for several months is one to readjust postal rates in order to provide additional revenue for the Post Office Department, now operating with a 500 Million Dollar deficit. The sub-committee, considering this bill met again on Thursday to discuss the measure and to receive additional suggestions from interested persons as to its contents.

Members of the Ten-Ton Tomato Club Committee are: Frederick Haas, St. Georges, chairman; J. Walter Ake, Camden, treasurer; Robert F. Stevens, Newark, Secretary; William Tarbell, Dover; Harvey Cole, Middletown; Edward Schabinger, Newark; E. P. Brasher, Newark; Clinton Hastings, Bridgeville; Lee Noble, Cannon; William Sloan, Georgetown; Gilbert Perry, Middletown.

On July 11, the committee will meet with tomato buyers to discuss the 1949 tomato program and efforts of the Club to improve the marketing situation.

Members of the Junior Division committee are: Miss Jean Lee, Newark; John Herholdt, Dover; George Bringham, Viola; W. We are striving to reach the fairest possible solution to this question. I feel that some increase in postal rates is both necessary and warranted. Lengthy public hearings have already been held on the bill during which we heard the views of many businessmen and those of the Postmaster General, Mr. Jesse Donaldson and his staff.

Incidentally, I should like to point out that the legislative process by which bills are acted upon is often a lengthy procedure. Much of the study and discussion takes place within the particular committee to which the measure is assigned after it is introduced.

This process takes time, particularly so when you stop to realize that the number of bills introduced at each session runs sometimes into the thousands. I mention this fact because so many persons have written asking why action on a particular bill requires so many weeks.

The matter of principal interest before the full senate this week is again that of Labor legislation, specifically the Thomas Bill. Two important questions on the bill are those of plant seizure and injunction. The ramification of these two points is far too broad to discuss here. The Senate hopes for agreement on this issue, which is one of the most controversial to be raised so far.

The Senate has passed some half a dozen amendments to the original Thomas Bill. These amendments require both unions and management to bargain in good faith, require both to file annual financial statements, and guarantee freedom of speech to employees short of threats or promises of reward. In addition an amendment retaining the non-communist affidavit requirement and extending it to employers has also passed.

I am hopeful that the labor question can be resolved within another week. Congress still has other important matters to consider at this session and we are anxious to proceed as rapidly as possible.

Tomato Club Launches Contest

Delaware's Ten-Ton Tomato Club has launched its 1939 contest, it has been disclosed by the committee which this past week approved rules for the contest.

As in 1948, the contest is open and free to all Delaware growers who produce three or more acres of tomatoes. All tomatoes grown on any one farm and the total acreage produced by the grower must be entered with the exception of acreage which may be used in 4-H or F. F. A. projects.

Growers having three to eight acres of tomatoes will be included in one group, and those having more than eight acres in another group. Prizes will be awarded the three growers making the highest yields in each group. All persons entered in the contest will be given certificates of membership in the Delaware Ten-Ton Tomato Club. Enrollment in the contest must be made through county agricultural agents, by August 15. Rules of the contest are also available from county agents.

Of 45 farmers enrolled in the contest last year, ten qualified with ten or more tons of tomatoes to the acre. This year, the Ten-Ton committee will emphasize among growers better production and harvesting practices. With the cooperation of the Agricultural Extension Service, the Bureau of Markets, and the State Board of Agriculture, more stress will be placed on picking of quality tomatoes, while on the production side stress will be made on the fact that large yields are accompanied by high quality.

Members of the Ten-Ton Tomato Club Committee are: Frederick Haas, St. Georges, chairman; J. Walter Ake, Camden, treasurer; Robert F. Stevens, Newark, Secretary; William Tarbell, Dover; Harvey Cole, Middletown; Edward Schabinger, Newark; E. P. ## Eggs, Chicks Donated To Poultry Contestants

Over 3,500 day-old chicks and nearly 2,000 eggs are being donated by Delaware hatcheries and hatching egg producers to the 105 boys and girls enrolled as contestants in the Junior Division of the Chicken of-Tomorrow program for Delaware.

According to the Junior Division committee, the contest will officially get under way for the Delaware youth between June 28 and July 5. Most of the chicks will be delivered on June 28 and 29.

Cash prizes totalling $100 will be awarded the winners; $25 first prize; others of $20, $15, $10 and six additional awards of $5 each. The first place winner will also receive a trophy from the Delaware Poultry Improvement Association.

Hatcherymen and flock owners have donated enough eggs and chicks to make available as an outright gift to each boy and girl, the 50 chicks required as an official entry. Five of the contestants are using chicks from their own sources. Barred Rock-New Hampshire Crosses, New Hampshire and Indian River Crosses are the kinds of chicks available from hatcherymen, and as far as possible they will be given out as choices have been indicated by the various contestants.

The eggs are being hatched under the supervision of the University of Delaware's Poultry Dept., in machines at the University Farm. All chicks will be wing-banded; this will be in charge of George Bringham, chief poultry inspector with the State Board of Agriculture.
