The merchandise firm of Wilbur E. Jacobs will have been in business in Harrington 40 years Sunday. In celebration of this event, Mr. Jacobs is conducting an anniversary sale starting Tuesday and ending next Saturday

Mr. Jacobs started a grocery store here Jan. 1, 1910, coming from Burrsville where he had clerked in various stores, including the hardware store of the late Tilghman Harvey, and where he had operated his own store.

His first business place here was at Commerce and Dorman Streets in the property occupied by the grocery of J. Reynolds Kates and The Village Steak Shop. He constructed his present store on Dorman Street in 1934.

In his first store, Mr. Jacobs used to buy and trade for as many as 100 crates of eggs weekly, with oftentimes half this amount coming in Saturday.

This business fell off with the advent of hard roads and because poultrymen started blood-testing their flocks and selling their eggs to hatcheries.

A novel feature of Mr. Jacobs early days in the mercantile trade here was Turkey Jacobs and Joe Parris, of Philadel markets for live birds.

Mr. Jacob who, incidentally, has advertised consecutively in The any other firm, is a member of the Harrington Better Business Association, the Rotary Club, and Trinity Methodist Church.

As state senator, he was chairand almost single-hand put statues of John M. Clayton and Caesar Rodney in Statuary Hall in the Capitol in Washington. Until this feat, Delaware was the only state not represented in the Hall.

Harrington Man Killed In Dispute Over Gun

Argument about the ownership of a 20-gauge shotgun Tuesday night resulted in the death of Berlin Benson, 29, of Harrington, by a charge from the gun. Samuel Benson, 35, of Law's Church, is being held by state police on a charge of murder.

The shooting occurred at Samuel Benson's home. Troopers said the two Bensons were not related. Berlin Benson was killed instant-

Efficiency Stressed For Delaware Poultrymen

Labor efficiency on poultry farms will be more important than ever during 1950, according to Silas L. McHenry, Assistant Extension Poultrymen at the University of Delaware. With high labor costs, the successful farmer must take every means possible to save time and effort-even if it is his own time he's saving.

McHenry points out that poultrymen should think in terms of one man caring for 2,000 to 3,000 laying hens plus pullet replacements; or 20,000 to 30,000 broilers.

A recent survey run on different farms showed a wide variation in the amount of time spent in caring for 1,000 hens. The most efficient poultrymen spent only 21 minutes per day and walked only one-third of a mile. The slowest ones took 2 hours and walked one and onehalf miles per day in caring for 1,000 hens. How does your time compare? The fastest poultrymen made five times more profit per hour than the slowest one. Which do you want to make?

Some of the factors which contribute to high labor efficiency are: 1. Having a definite schedule to follow in caring for the birds.

2. Doing more than one job on each trip to a pen (for examplefeeding, gathering eggs, culling, checking ventilation, stoves, etc.) 3. Reducing the number of times that jobs are done (for examplefeeding grain only once a day to

4. Analyzing your work as you travel; figuring how to cut down on the number of steps. 5. Rearranging the equipment in your pens to reduce the amount of walking (for example-hoppers, nests, fountains).

Hard to believe but -

This Buick costs less than Butter!

MAYBE you never thought of it that and roadability. The gentle cushioning way, since you don't buy butter in 3600-pound lots.

But pound for pound, this prideful Buick Special sells today for less than store-bought butter!

Actually, it costs less per pound than some of the cars in the so-called "lowest price" bracket - less than any other straight-eight on the market.

Now that's a pretty important yardstick.

Because cost-per-pound is a pretty stable measure of a car's merit. It takes skilful engineering, careful buying, efficient manufacturing to keep this figure around the half-dollar mark - and that's where it is on the 1950 Special 4-door Sedan.

The real point, of course, is that this is a Buick at that figure.

way, since you don't buy butter power of Buick 4-wheel coil springing.

Buick room, finish, standing - with a special plus these days in greater maneuverability to help you slip into tight parking spaces and homesize garages. Buick's unmistakable appearance, through gracefully tapering fenders and that new "Buick first," that sturdy, shock-absorbing, triple-purpose bumper-guard grille.

All this at price tags that "sound like a six" and a cost-per-pound right down with the very lowest!

So—if you can afford butter, why not a Buick? Talk to your dealer about itdelivered prices, trade-ins, delivery dates, all the rest—and make your next car a Buick.

TRUTHFUL JAMES

(Not From Table Mountain)

TO THE PUBLISHERS OF AMERICA

In 1947, at the Lima, Ohio, Lions Club, a prominent physician of that city approached me. "You, as a newspaper man, should be able to answer this question," he said. "What St. The firemen made careful ex- with Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Hughes IS news? We see practically nothing in the newspapers but murders, robberies, rapes, horrors, tragedies. Surely there corrective by a small extinguisher Navy, spent Christmas weekend must be somewhere in the world some decent things, some little acts of kindness—but we seldom read about them."

I recalled the Lima physician's words this morning, Christmas morning, 1949, when I began to read the head- to be torn away to get to the day leave with his wife, Dorotha lines in the Philadelphia Inquirer:

"Father of 4 Is Killed by Hit-Run Auto," "Youth Admits Shooting Crying Child in Holdup," "Boy Is Crushed to Death Under Father's Truck," "Girl, 17, Drowns as Car Overturns," "Battling Brothers Injure 2 Police," "Silent Thief Gets Nurse's Purse," "Fugitive Seized in Strangle Case," "Aged Man Found Beaten in Street," "Girl, 16, Near Death After Home Attack."

Many other crimes were listed, but these are enough to the recipient of their knowledge. spent Christmas with his mother, prove the Lima doctor's point. The Philadelphia Inquirer is a substantial paper, not given to stressing the happenings of the underworld. These stories are the result of routine reporting, and we believe any paper published in a large city anywhere in America recorded a similar list of crimes on that day.

And this on Christmas Day, when we are supposed to be observing the birth of the Christ! How can we enter into the spirit of the day when horrors and tragedies drip from the pages of our daily papers?

The Publishers of America: We suggest that on Christmas Day, 1950, you omit all mention of crimes and tragedies. You will find enough wholesome, cheering, faith-restoring tion suggestion that each home copy to fill your biggest edition.

There's the story of the dog, Rex, at a tiny town in Tennessee. For years and years Rex had met the fast train daily and picked up and delivered to his master, the newsdealer of the town, the bundle of papers thrown from the train as it screamed by. On Christmas Day, 1948, for the first time in history, the fast train came to a screeching halt at the little town and from the train came the conductor, the engineer, the hostess, with a huge beef bone-lots of meat on it-wrapped with Christmas decorations-an all for Rex! The train wailed away through the hills, but a dog with wistful eyes followed its course and millions of people were happier when they read the story.

Remember the painters in New Jersey, a whole union of painters , who rushed in and in one day painted the residence, the outbuildings and the fences of an ailing G. I.

A home was destroyed by fire in New Castle, Delaware, and a family was left destitute. A service club started the ball rolling and funds were subscribed to build a new home.

For six years three little girls had waved at fast freight train No. 81 of the Illinois Central as it thundered by Dongola, Illinois, and at night they waved with flashlights. When trainmen observed that the flashlights were growing dim, they dropped new batteries on the next trip. On this December 21, the fast freight stopped twenty minutes at Dongola and the conductor and the engineer walked across the field with many presents for the little girls.

Then there is Herbert Sutton. This little citizen of Boys Town, Nebraska bet 38 candy bars that North Carolina would beat Notre Dame. The Pi Kappa Alpha fraternity of the University of North Carolina heard of this. 38 candy bars were returned to Herbert and the fraternity voted to finance the trip for the little boy to see North Carolina play Rice Institute at Dallas on January 2.

Remember the kid in Ohio who sold his pet pony to buy a marker for his mother's grave. As soon as this was known, citizens bought the pony and returned it to its adoring master—and presented the little boy with a purse of $300.

Let's not forget the farmers of the little community in the Middle West. They came from far and near with tractors, planted, cared for and harvested the crops of an ailing

Can we forget the members of a service club in the fers five suggestions for stimulat-Northwest? They were building a home for a widow with several children, across the street from a church. They worked even on Sunday, but knocked off for an hour or two, not wishing to disturb the services. The parson came out the salt of the earth, and iodized at that—for he had practical religion! "Gentlemen," he said, "do not stop your work on account of the services. I am in there merely TALKING about the Lord's work—you are DOING His work!"

How did I learn about these acts of man's humanity to man? By reading these same daily papers.

But maybe you started something, my good friend out in Lima, Ohio, when you asked me that question in 1947. I

Maybe, through your club and mine, and all the great service clubs of America, the publishers can be persuaded to believe as we believe. I am personally acquainted with hundreds of newspaper people, and although they would be the last to admit it, I know them to be the most tender-hearted by 8 o'clock the next morning. sentimentalists in all the world.

Maybe we can persuade the publishers to omit the mention of tragedy on each recurring Christmas Day—just one tion need less grain than birds day out of 365—and we can wake up to believe that it is a clean, wholesome world, just as we believed when we, too, were children—and that the Star of Bethlehem, too long obscured, still shines in the sky.

Committees Named For Sussex Dairymen's Breeding Meeting

Hammond C. Bennett, Milford; Raymond E. Gordy, Seaford; and Clyde Betts of Milton, were named chairmen of the committees on arrangement, nomination and auditing, respectively, for the annual dinner meeting of the Sussex County Unit of the Delaware Artificial Breeders' Cooperative.

The meeting will be held in the Jones Memorial, Georgetown, on Thursday, January 19th, at 7:00

The committee on arangements will be in charge of preparations for the dinner and the distribution of the tickets. Assisting Mr. Ben nett on this committee is Wm. H Henderson, Georgetown.

Roland J. Marsh, Lewes and Medford Calhoun, Greenwood, will assist Mr. Gordy in preparing nominations for the election of directors which will be held during the business session. Two directors will be elected.

The Auditing Committee will make an audit of the association's books for the year. In addition to Mr. Betts, other members of the committee are Delmar J. Young and W. T. McCallister, both of

1. Use electric lights to stretch the feeding day to 12-14 hours. A time clock is usually set to turn on the lights about 3 or 4 a. m., and turn them off at sunrise. A 40-watt bulb is needed for each 200 ft of floor space.

2. Feed by the clock. Have a regular feeding and management schedule and follow it exactly.

3. Keep mash in hoppers in front of birds at all times—two 8-ft. hoppers or three 5-ft. hoppers per 100 birds. Fill them only half

4. Increase grain feeding in winter. Feed 14 to 16 lbs. grain per 100 leghorns daily and 16 to 18 lbs. grain for heavy breeds, depending upon production. Feed enough grain an hour before sunset so that it will be cleaned up Watch body weight of hens and feed grain accordingly. Meat-type hens kept for hatching egg produc-

bred for egg production only. 5. Use supplements where necessary to increase feed intake. Grit and shell are essential for supplying calcium and digesting feed.

"Meaning, of course, that Val's mad about you and she's willing to wait until you get through analyzing and justify or compensate her shortcomings in your mind."

Hugh gestured indifferently. "Figure it that way, if you like." "Wouldn't it be a shock to you discovered yourself to be rong. I mean, if Val married if you discovered yourself to be wrong. I mean, if Val married someone else right under your

"She won't," said Hugh confidently. "Girls aren't made that way." He stood up. "I haven't been studying psychology and human behavior five years for nothing."

"But if she gets tired of waiting and marries some one else in the meantime, maybe you'll regret it." "Don't be ridiculous. Val won't marry anyone else. I know what I'm doing.

Barry let a fortnight elapse before he again broached the subject of Val. It rankled him, and he felt better to get it off his chest. "Hate to mention it again. Hugh, but Val seems to think you've been neglecting her lately. Can't blame her much, either."

"Cut it!" Hugh looked ugly. "I think you'd better let me tend to my own affairs, Barry. The girl loves me and when I get around to it, I'll marry her. Goodness, can't you understand that a man shouldn't jump into such things!"

"Or a woman either," Barry offered. "I happen to know Val was out with someone else last night." "Good. Comparing the someone else with me will be the best thing in the world for her-and me too.

"A girl in love knows enough to be careful herself." Hugh was annoyed. Blast it, why couldn't Barry mind his own business? Why did he always have to keep worrying about Val. It was plain as day that he didn't understand women. Val knew a good thing when she saw it. She loved him and was willing to wait. She was smart.

VAGUELY HE wondered who the other man could be she was out with. It was sort of amusing in a way. Probably Val had merely told Barry that so Barry would tell him. Childish. Why, even a firstyear psychology student could tell you that was nothing but a feeble attempt on the part of the female to excite jealousy in the man she

Three evenings later Hugh's phone rang. It was Barry. He sounded far away. "Can't hear you." Hugh yelled into the mouthpiece. "Talk louder." "I say," came Barry's voice, more distinctly, "that the thing I warned you against has happened." "What thing?" said Hugh. "About Val. About her marrying someone else right under your nose. She's done it." "I don't believe it," said Hugh, feeling for the first time a queer sensation of alarm. "I saw it happen," said Barry. "I

"Good lord!" Hugh was suddenly very much excited and very con-

"You can't say I didn't warn you," Barry's voice said, growing

"Hey! Hold on a minute, Barry! Are you there! . . . Yes, yes, know you warned me. Guess I was something of a fool. Who was it she married? This is terrible!" "Me," said Barry, very faintly.

Golden Milestone of the

I wentieth Century

... Time now to pause, and contemplate the wonders that have come to pass since the dawn of this Fabulous Twentieth Century . . . when Dad was as young-or younger, than the lad at your side.

... The Fifties have always been Golden Years, as history books will testify. It was in 1752 that Ben Franklin conducted his momentous experiment on the flow of electricity. In the early 1850's, rich deposits of gold were being withdrawn from California ground . . . starting a new era in U.S. and world trade. And the 1950's can bring even greater achievements to a world filled with Peace, Prosperity and Contentment. Our heartfelt greetings and best wishes for a Happy New Year.
