

Kent & Sussex Raceway to Hold September Meet

The Kent & Sussex Raceway will hold a 25-day meet, tentatively scheduled to begin Sept. 8, according to T. Brinton Holloway, general manager of the Kent & Sussex fairgrounds.

The 20-day period, originally allotted to the new Sussex County Raceway, near Georgetown, was shifted to Harrington since the Sussex counties will not be ready to hold a meet this fall. The Kent & Sussex Raceway still has five nights' racing time due to it because of rains which canceled the spring meet in mid-May.

The new Sussex County Raceway, under the direction of Nutter D. Marvel, of Georgetown, was to have opened Sept. 8, under the terms of the charter issued last winter.

There will be no daily doubles at the fall meet here, Holloway said Wednesday. He pointed out that this feature would require a machine. Such a device has been made but it will be given a field test before being put on the market.

The general manager explained that practically the same officials and operating force who took part in the spring meet, would be here in September. The entry list is now open.

Funeral Held For C. K. Griffith

Funeral services for Carroll Kent Griffith, 20, of Harrington, who died Thursday, June 29, in a motorcycle accident, took place Monday at the Boyer Funeral Home. Full military honors were accorded by the Callaway-Kemp-Raughley-Tea Post No. 7, American Legion.

The services were conducted by the Rev. J. Harry Wright, pastor of Asbury Methodist Church. Interment was in Odd Fellows Cemetery, Camden.

The youth was killed instantly when he lost control of the motorcycle which he was driving to Dover for inspection. He skidded off the road and crashed into a pole near here.

Griffith was born in Salem, N. J., the son of Henry Stow and Daisy Grosscutt Griffith. The family lived for several years in Virginia before coming to Harrington about three years ago.

He served for a year in the Air Force, at Lackland Air Base, San Antonio, Tex., and Bolling Field, Washington, D. C. He returned in January and went to work as an auto mechanic in his father's garage at Houston.

Surviving, besides his parents, are a sister, June Daisy Griffith, and a brother, Henry Stow Griffith, both of Harrington.

Chambers Sells Store at Canterbury

Mr. and Mrs. William M. Chambers, of Canterbury, who have operated a general store at U. S. 13 and Viola road for 30 years, have sold the business to Leland G. Price, of Chestertown, Md., and William M. Steele, of Dover.

The sale was effective as of July 1, when Price and Steele assumed operation of the business under the firm name of "Canterbury General Stores, Inc."

Chambers will continue to operate his machine shop and automotive repair business across the road from the store.

Off To Denmark

Miss Margaret Klah of Bridgeville, Delaware is the only colored member of the Christian Friendship Caravan touring Denmark and visiting other European countries this summer under auspices of Youth Argosy.

She is the daughter of the Rev. C. E. Klah, minister of Calvary Methodist Church in Bridgeville.

Royal Blood Wins Acorn Stake

Royal Blood, Fred Greenly's promising filly, took two out of three heats Monday afternoon to win the Acorn Stake for 2-year-old trotting fillies at Historic Track, Goshen. The stake was for $9582.33. Paul Vinyard was the driver.

The daughter of Billy Direct out of Calumet Evelyn, world's champion double-gaited mare, took the first heat in 2:10, and was second when Irish Hal won the second heat in 2:10.4. The Greenly protegee took the third heat in 2:14.

The winner, bought at Harrisburg sale last fall, is a full sister to Marion Direct, also owned by Greenly. She is the first 2-year-old trotter to enter the 2:10 list this year.

Earl Freeman Dies In New York

Earl Freeman, 56, who had been shoeing harness horses at the Kent & Sussex fairgrounds for the past five years, died Monday, June 26, of uremic poisoning in Salamanca Hospital in New York City. He had been in ill health several years. Burial was at Colden, N. Y. Surviving is his widow, Mrs. Ethel Freeman.

Mr. and Mrs. Freeman had to go to Hamburg, N. Y., where Mr. Freeman was to shoe horses and race his colt, My King, a 2-year-old trotter by My Birthday. Mr. Freeman also had Auburn Queen, p. 2:06, a brood mare. He sold Betty F. Dale, a pacer, to Tom Wingate some three years ago.

Mr. Freeman had shod horses 43 years.

"Sure—And What Have I Been Training For?"

Lieutenant Tommie Clarke and Mrs. Clarke, son-in-law and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Cliff Miller, are stationed in Japan. They are located on the southern tip of Kyushu Island at Camp Hakata—which explains nothing. It is only when we mention that this camp is immediately across the channel from the southern tip of Korea, 120 miles away, that it attains significance.

The Millers were worried about the news from the war theatre Sunday morning when the telephone rang and a voice said, "Lieutenant Clarke calling from Japan."

For ten minutes the Millers and the Clarks chatted and the voices from Japan told the parents not to worry. "We're all right—and happy," they said.

When Cliff asked Lieutenant Clarke if he expected to see action, his Irish son-in-law, who was wounded in the Battle of the Bulge, flashed back cheerfully: "Sure—and what do you think I've been doing all this training for?"

John Myers Jr. Uninjured In Plane Crash That Kills Crew

John Myers Jr., son of Chief of Police John Myers Sr. and Mrs. Myers, was uninjured Thurs., June 29, in a plane crash that killed the crew.

Myers, a member of the 11 Airborne Division, and 25 other paratroopers parachuted to safety when a motor of their C-47 caught fire. The Bowers Beach boy, stationed at Camp Campbell, Ky., landed in a tree.

Kent Will Fill Seven Offices

Seven Kent County offices are to be filled at the next general election in addition to three seats in the Levy Court, 10 in the House of Representatives, and three in the State Senate.

The county officials whose terms expire are: Frank P. Walker (R), near Harrington, who is serving his second term as recorder of deeds; John R. Leverage (R), Lynch Heights, who is serving his second term as clerk of the peace; Charles Hanratty (R) Smyrna, who is serving an unexpired term as register in Chancery and clerk of the Orphans Court; Robert A. Saulsbury (D), Harrington, serving his first term as sheriff and not eligible, under the law, for reelection; John R. Rogers, Jr. (R), Frederica, serving his second term as coroner; and Webster Phillips (R), near Dover, serving his second term as county treasurer and receiver of taxes.

The three members of the Levy Court whose terms are expiring are: Ralph W. Wine (R), Woodside; Walter W. Handsberry (D), Leipsic, and Charles G. Moore (D), Hartly.

The three members of the State Senate whose four-year terms are expiring are: E. Paul Burkholder, Dover, first senatorial district; Mrs. Vera G. Davis, Dover, third senatorial district; and Nelson M. Hammond, Felton, fifth senatorial district. They are Republicans. The holdover senators from Kent County are Dudley Crossley, Clayton, second senatorial district, and William O. Cabbage, Wyoming, fourth senatorial district, both Democrats.

The Kent County representatives in the House of Representatives, all of whose terms expire as they are elected for only two years, are: George M. Blendt (D), Smyrna, first representative district; Noble S. Warren (R), Dover, second; Allen J. Cook (D), Kenton, third; Donald G. Carey (D), Dover, fourth; Harry C. Evans (R), Dover, fifth; Paul B. Funeral For Mrs. Alice Cohee

Funeral services for Mrs. Alice Willey Cohee, 89, of Greenwood, took place Sunday afternoon at the Boyer Funeral Home.

The Rev. James O'Neill, of Ellendale, former pastor of Greenwood Methodist Church, of which Mrs. Cohee was a member, conducted the services. Interment was in the family plot at Bridgeville.

Mrs. Cohee, who died Thurs., June 29, in a nursing home here following a long illness, was born near Greenwood, and lived in that vicinity all her life. Her first husband, Harry Willey, died in 1910, and she subsequently married Romey Cohee, who died several years ago. She had no children.

A sister, Mrs. Maggie Anderson, of Federalsburg, Md., survives, in addition to several nephews and nieces.

Burnite Family to Hold Reunion

The annual reunion of the Burnite family, the three sons and three daughters with their families, of the late Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Hyland Burnite, formerly of Felton, is planned for a dinner party soon to be held at the Colonial Dining Room of the Glasgow Arms, Glasgow.

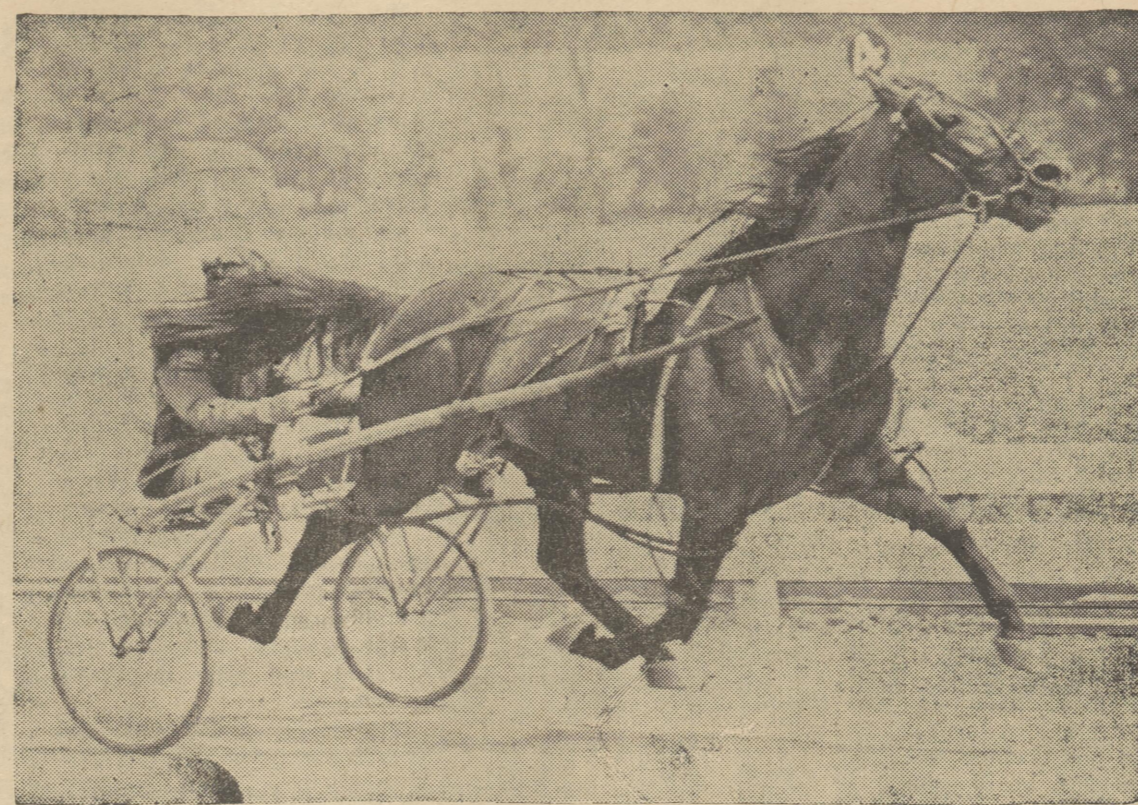

Messrs Lindale and Thomas Bayard, of Denver; James Hyland of Seattle, Mrs. Martha Lewis, of Overbrook, Pa.; Mrs. Clara Kreger and Mrs. Pauline Hall, of Baltimore.

Bayard's daughter, Miss Jean Burnite of Philadelphia; Hyland's daughter, Mrs. Helen Stephens, and husband, Dr. William Stephens, and their two sons, of Carroll Park, Pa.; Pauline's husband, Dr. Harvey Sherwin Hall, and their son, Paul Sherwin Hall, of Baltimore complete the party.

The three Burnite brothers are East spending several weeks with their relatives in Maryland and Pennsylvania.

Relics to Play At Frederica

The Harrington Relics will play Frederica at Frederica, Friday evening, July 7. Game time 6:30.

A snappy action shot of Elliott Hanover 2:05, by Calumet Chuck-Easter Hanover, by Dillon Axworthy, owned by William R. Cundey, Westville, N. J., who will be among the entries at Ocean Downs in August. He will be driven by Charles Knierim.

Legion Auxiliary Installs Officers

Mrs. Frank C. O'Neal, Jr., was installed as president of Callaway-Kemp-Raughley-Tea Unit No. 7, American Legion Auxiliary, by Mrs. George Ehinger, Dover, state auxiliary president, recently at a joint installation with the local Legion post.

Mrs. O'Neil, wife of a World War II veteran has been a member of the five-year-old unit for two years and was secretary the past year. She is a sister of James Callaway, a bomber pilot who lost his life in Romania during the past war and one of the soldiers for whom the Legion post is named, and is also a sister of L. Gooden Callaway who served as post commander for three years.

The new unit president will serve as a delegate to the auxiliary's state convention in Dover, July 14-15 with Mrs. Clarence Raughley, retiring unit president; Mrs. Charles Jerred, and Mrs. William Minner.

Mrs. Raughley was presented with a past president's pin by Mrs. Ehinger. Her son, Harry Raughley, another of the soldiers for whom the post is named, lost his life in Germany where he was a member of the ground forces.

The unit this year supported the cancer drive, March of Dimes, crippled children, CARE book program, Red Cross, and the auxiliary rehabilitation program in the veterans' hospital, and contributed 150 gifts to the Legion auxiliary gift shop at the veterans' hospital.

All the Gold Star Mothers of the community are honorary members of the unit. They are: Mrs. Clarence Raughley, Mrs. Clarence Kemp, Mrs. Loran Callaway, Mrs. Albert Tee, and Mrs. Annie Kelly. They will be honor guests at the Gold Star Mothers' tea at the state convention.

The unit sent two Harrington High School girls to the recent Girl's State. Mrs. Brinton Holloway is the unit's Girls' State chairman and Mrs. Earl Sylvester was on the general planning committee for Girls' State.

Other officers, besides Mrs. O'Neal, who were installed by Mrs. Ehinger are: Mrs. Leonard Taylor, vice-president; Mrs. C. Tharp Harrington, recording secretary; Mrs. William Minner, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Clyde Tucker, treasurer; Mrs. Charles Jerred, historian; Mrs. Charles Peck, chaplain; and Mrs. Joseph Penny, sergeant-at-arms.

Bowers Beach Fishing News

The Ida J. III, Capt. Irving Wright, returned with 400 trout last week, caught by a party of the Pennsylvanians: Mr. and Mrs. Paul R. Smouse, Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Smouse, George Smouse, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Claycomb and family, and Mr. and Mrs. Ellingsworth Shaffer, all of Bedford, and Mr. and Mrs. Lester Koontz, of Everett.

The same boat brought back 150 porgies Monday for ten residents of Jersey Shore, Pa., while Tuesday four fishermen from Bedford and Fishertown, Pa., caught 199 porgies.

Greenwood Kiwanis To Sponsor Ball Game

The Kiwanis Club will sponsor a baseball game tomorrow at 8 p. m. on the high school grounds for the benefit of underprivileged children. Local citizens will play the games on bicycles. Glynn and Leight, experts on wheels, will be an added attraction.

Railroad News

The current issue of Readers Digest says "All the Railroads need is a fair deal."

Secretary of Commerce Sawyer says "The railroads are the backbone of the country, yet they are being slugged insensibly by competitors, subsidized by the tax payers."

Some day the worm will turn. In the meantime the railroads will keep on plugging in a valiant effort to survive these knock-out blows so that they will be available to help win another war. Like "the test of a man" they are bound to win because they are not afraid to fail.

"The test of a man" (The test of a man is the fight that he makes, The grit that he daily shows, The way that he stands on his feet and takes the numerous bumps and blows.

A coward can smile when there's nothing to fear, Or nothing his pathway bars, But it takes a man to stand up and cheer, When the other fellow stars. It isn't the victory after all, It's the fight the brother makes, The man who's back against the wall.

His head erect and takes The blows, still standing his head held high, battered and bleeding and pale, Is the man who will win in the by and by Because he isn't afraid to fail.

The old adage "Don't bite the hand that's feeding you" could well have been changed to: "Don't fight the hand that's beating you" in the recent collision of engine and highway trailer-truck where route 13 crosses the D. M. & V. on the outskirts of Harrington. Thru the carelessness of the driver, the engine was knocked off the track and the crew badly shaken up. The trailer was demolished and the driver trapped in the cab.

Scotty and his crew saw to the driver getting to a doctor and then proceeded to guard the scattered lading until the highway police and the Victor Lynn representative arrived.

The lading consisted of valuable spoils of nylon which curiosity seekers were attempting to confiscate.

Potatoes are still running heavy. We have handled approximately 200 cars per day since the middle of June, all from the Eastern Shore, south of Parkside.

This should continue for two weeks more as they just started digging last week north of Eastville.

Highway construction and resurfacing jobs at Milford, Berlin, Georgetown, Selbyville, and Greenwood gave us 406 cars of stone, slag and cement in June. All this goes to make the D. M. & V. branch the busiest on the peninsula.

The meeting adjourned with refreshments and music on the lawn.

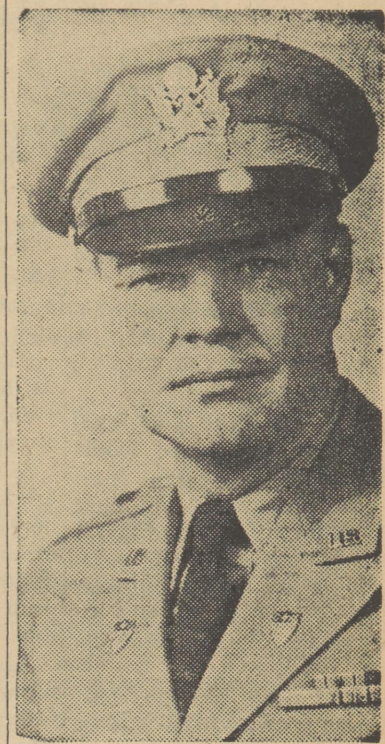

Gimbel's Exhibits Menu Signed By H. J. Ramsdell's Uncle

The signature of the late H. J. Ramsdell, famous correspondent for whom H. J. Ramsdell, of Harrington, was named, was noted recently on an old menu in an exhibit at Gimbel's Department Store, in Philadelphia.

Miss Marian Toohy, a teacher in Philadelphia schools and a niece of Mrs. Ramsdell, wrote that Gimbel's had an exhibit of old menu cards gathered from famous hotels. They dated from 1834 to 1900.

One menu was from the Sherman House, in Washington, and was for a dinner given by a

Brig.-General

J. J. Scannell

2 Made Generals In National Guard

Gov. Elbert N. Carvel announced last week that the federal government has given formal recognition of the ranks of brigadier general recently accorded the Delaware National Guard's two top leaders.

Brig-Gen. Joseph J. Scannell, adjutant general of Delaware, and Brig-Gen. John B. Moore, commanding officer of the guard's 261st anti-aircraft artillery brigade, have been notified that recent promotions by the governor have been ratified by Secretary of the Army Pace.

This means Gen. Scannell, charged with directing and administration of the guard and serving as liaison between the state and federal government is now the youngest adjutant-General in the nation.

The 35-year-old officer, who, in civilian pursuits heads placement for the Delaware Unemployment Compensation Commission, is also among the youngest brigadier-generals in the country's armed forces.

The federal recognition is also a first for Gen. Moore, who directs tactical functions of all guard forces in the state.

General Moore is the first combat command officer in the history of the Delaware National Guard to ever reach general ranks.

The notification was sent to Gov. Carvel by Maj-Gen. Kenneth F. Gramer, chief of the National Guard Bureau in Washington, who made the appointments effective June 1 by the direction of the army secretary.

Edward Duffy Addresses Young Republicans

C. Edward Duffy, chief deputy attorney-general, of Wilmington, was the principal speaker at a meeting of the Active Young Republicans Thursday night at the New Century Club. Warren Charles Moore presided in the absence of Harry D. Quillen.

Robert Yerkes, of Houston, chairman of the Kent County Republican Committee, and Herbert D. Cluley Jr., were well-known guests among the some 125 persons present.

The assembly enjoyed itself, hearing good speeches. A report of the meeting described it as: "No cut-throat talk—just business."

47 Flounder Caught By Pair in Afternoon

What is considered to be a record catch of flounders, or flukes as they are officially known, was made Wednesday afternoon, June 28, by Stanley Hunter of Milford, and Fred Brown of near Milford, out of the Indian River Yacht Basin, near Rehoboth Beach.

In a short time they caught 47 flounders, weighing a total of 67 pounds, the largest being about four pounds.

Old time fishermen state this is a record catch in an afternoon for this kind of fish in these waters.

Firemen Put Out Fire At Home of Arthur Lewis

Harrington firemen quickly extinguished a blaze at the home of Arthur Lewis on Dorman Street early Wednesday evening. The fire was reported to have been caused by a defective wire. Damage was nominal.

To The Correspondents

The Dash
Do not overwork the dash. Usually the comma will do as well. A legitimate use of the dash is to denote an abrupt break in the construction. "He thought of his mother — what a woman she was!"

Dashes are sometimes used for the sake of emphasis to set off parenthetical words. "Dinner—for they dined in the evening now—made a welcome diversion."

The dash may be used for significant pause. "I asked for bread and they gave me—fried chicken."

Use a dash in unfinished sentences. Put quotation marks, if any, outside the dash.

Parentheses
If an entire sentence is enclosed in parentheses, the period should come before the last curve. Thus: "(For additional data see Page 17.)" If only the last words are enclosed, the period should come after the curve. Thus: "He uses many words incorrectly (for example, 'practical' and 'practicable')."

Quotation Marks With Other Punctuation
The period and the comma always stand before end quotation marks as a matter of typography. "On this platform," he said, "I expect to win."

Other punctuation marks should be placed inside the quotation marks if they are part of the quotation and outside if they are not. "The books were studied in this order: First, 'Silas Marner'; second, 'David Copperfield'; third, 'Henry Esmond.'" —Who goes there? he challenged—Have you ever seen Maude Adams in 'Peter Pan'?"

Hoof Beats

Western Harness Racing Association last Saturday closed its 1950 gates upon one of the most successful seasons in its five year history.

Total attendance for the 40 days of racing was 271,938, for a daily average of 6,798. This figure was down but 4 per cent from the 1949 meeting.

The pari-mutuel betting handle soared to $13,494,370, which placed the daily average at $337,359. This lifted the betting figure up 4.5 per cent over last year. The largest single day attendance and handle was on Memorial Day, when 18,334 patrons wagered a total of $744,933. And the largest single race handle was $106,339, also posted for the feature on Memorial Day.

Little Joe O'Brien found his way into the winner's circle more times than any other driver, registering 24 wins. Clint Hodgins was second with 22. Hodgins, due in large part to the great performances of the mare, Proximity, lead the drivers in the amount of money won, his total being $50,370.63. Eddie Cobb, whose stallion, Jerry The First, accounted for the $50,000 Golden West Pace for the second straight year, was second in the money column, with a total of $44,427.50, and Joe O'Brien was third with $43,389.12. Guy Crippen came in fourth with $27,250, and Harry Whitney fifth with $21,189.50.

Outstanding horse of the meeting was Proximity, who made three world records on the trot—the 1 and 1/16 miles in 2:06 and 2/5, the 1 and 1/8 miles in 2:14 and 3/5, and the 1 and 1/4 miles in 2:31 and 2/5. She hung up the latter record in winning the $50,000 Golden West Trot.

The best pacer was Jerry The First. Best two-year-old trotter, Great Hanover, best two-year-old pacer, Fullway. Among the three-year-olds Lord Steward stood out as the trotter, and Mighty Sun as the pacer.

Thirty seven per cent of favorites won, with sixty per cent of odds on favorites finding the charmed circle. Highest price of the meeting was the $93.90 payoff on Royal Comet, and the lowest was listed at $2.60 on both Silk Lace and Great Hanover.

Three trotting world records were set, and one world's pacing mark. On three occasions new track marks were hung out.

Showing how close the finishes were the photo camera was brought into play on no less than 75 times for the win spot, 74 for the place, and 43 for the show, making a record total of 192 times.

Both Brewer's Gallon and Proximity won five races each. The stable of Burdick and Cobb topped the money-winning for a single outfit, totaling $28,750.

The highest daily double payoff was $392.40—Junice K to Pepper Bingen.

The Pasadena Pace was voted the most thrilling race of the entire meeting. Highland Ellen, driven by Guy Crippen won, but five other horses were in the photo, the sixth no more than half a length behind the winner.

Great credit must go to the management for the fine even tenor maintained throughout the meeting. Bernard Kearney and his associates once again performed a splendid job. The officiating, presided over by Chester Jones, Jim Tunney, and A. K. Macomber, was of the best. Arthur McDowell gave the public perfect starts throughout. The racing was uniformly clean and hotly contested.

New Auction Sale

An organization to be known as the Midwest Standardbred Sales Company has entered the field of horse auctions for the impending fall season with a sale to be staged in the fair grounds Coliseum, Springfield, Ill.

The new sales body is headed by Harry Schmoeger, squire of Ankabar Acres, one of the mid-west leading nurseries located at Washington, Ill. Other officers of the newly founded enterprise are Henry (Bud) Knauf, Jr., son of the former president of the United States Trotting Association, who now operates the famed Siskiyon Farm, Ladd, Ill. and Lander Van Gundy, Normal, Ill., a leading figure in Standard-bred circles in Illinois. Knauf holds the office of vice-president, Van Gundy will serve as treasurer.

Dates set for the initial sales ring venture this fall are Oct. 18, 19, 20.

Feminine Touch

Louisville patrons attending Fairgrounds Speedway, the harness track now operating its second year in the land of Blue Grass, get a certain feeling of satisfaction win, lose or draw while wagering on their favorites. Reason—A battery of beautiful gals man the Sellers and Cashiers windows at the Louisville establishment.

New Film

The United States Trotting Association is now in the process of producing a new educational film pertaining to the sport of harness racing. The new and latest celluloid on the age old sport of sulky racing will be ready for distribution.

tion early this fall by any group desiring to use it.

Weaker Sex

In the short four-year history of the Little Brown Jug, famed three-year-old pacing classic staged each year at Delaware, O., there has never been a filly to come out victorious.

The closest a young lady ever came to entering the winner's circle was when His Lady, a fast going hobbler, copped the third heat of the first race back in 1946. Since then no filly has even won a heat.

This year's Jug will be raced over the Buckeye half miler at the Delaware fairgrounds on September 21, marking the fifth staging of the juvenile pacing feature.

Three Times Seven

Robert Morris, four-year-old pacer by Volomite-Miss Morris, owned by George De Vries, Norwalk, Calif., who went a mile in two minutes flat during a time trial at Santa Anita last week, added additional laurels to his famous father's string of accomplishments.

The west coast colt marked the 21st offspring of the Walnut Hall stud to enter the select circle of "miracle miles."

Volomite stands alone as a sire of modern day sulky performers with untold accomplishments in breeding lines, for top drawer stock. His fee is now at $5,000 per service.

Winning Easy

The best answer to the question of whether Proximity, the world record breaking mare, can be beaten in her present form was provided just recently by Bi Shively, former trainer-driver of Rodney.

When asked whether he thought Rodney, in top form, could beat the Verhurst mare by Protector, sage Shively begged off for a moment and then came back thusly, "I believe I could. You take the mare I'll take my car and we'll have it out."

The Harrington Journal
Harrington, Delaware.
Dear Mr. Burgess:

I note in one of the editorials of your issue of Friday, June 23, you charge me with making a political speech at the Delmarva Chicken Festival at Dover. This charge does not square with the facts. I should like to point out that the speech to which you make reference was made during the period of the festival but was made as a part of the reception ceremonies for the replica of the Liberty Bell which was brought to Dover for the purpose of aiding the current Independence Bond Drive. The speech had nothing whatever to do with the Delmarva Chicken Festival. In this connection, I would like to state that I could not conscientiously urge the people to save and economize in order to buy government bonds without at the same time calling attention to what I believe to be the unnecessary and imprudent expenditure of money by the Federal Government. I believe that if you had wanted to be fair (and don't you think that an editor of a newspaper should at least be fair to be worthy of the privilege of editing a newspaper) you would have printed my full statement and not just the part contained in your editorial. Just on the assumption that you did not take the time to read the full statement, I am quoting it for your convenience:

"The Independence Bond Drive is now in progress. It is for each of us to generously and patriotically respond and keep our State high on the roll of honor. We should help to see to it that our Nation shall have sufficient financial resources to adequately prepare for our defense and preserve this great Nation for ourselves and our posterity. But at the same time I believe that the citizens of this Nation have a right to insist and should insist upon a policy of more prudent and economical handling of our Nation's finances. It is high time that official Washington, including the Congress should give more consideration to the taxpayers of the Nation and think less of finding new ways of spending tax money for the purposes of political expediency."

Do you believe the persistent deficit spending policies of the Federal Government are indicative of sound and prudent handling of our Nation's Finances? I do not.

When the inflationary policies of the Federal Government are producing the highest national income in history, do you believe that we should balance the budget, reduce the federal debt, eliminate unnecessary expenditures resulting from "pork barrel" legislation, economize by eliminating duplication and unnecessary personnel in Federal bureaus, and reduce Federal taxes in order that the nation may build up a reserve against another possible war or against an economical crisis in our Country or against both possibilities? I do.

Is it a wise and prudent expenditure of tax money to build new government hospitals and at the same time have another government agency recommend the closing of perfectly good hospitals built and in operation? I think not.

Is it wise and prudent expenditure of tax money to build post offices when they are either not needed or the building of them could well be deferred to such time as their building might help the economy of the Country? I think not.

Is it wise and prudent to spend tax money on river and harbor projects that either are not necessary or could very well be deferred until a later date when carrying out such projects might help the economy of the Country? I think not.

These are just a few examples. Do you think that such expenditures are made for purposes of political expediency? I do. And what about saving a few hundred million dollars each year by adopting the Hoover Commission report? I believe in that too.

With respect to your pusillanimous and fallacious insinuation concerning the printing of ballots in Kent County while I was Secretary of State, I wish to point out that under the laws of the Counties of the State. That is a function of the County Governments. If your ignorance of State Government in other respects is as profound as it is in the matter of ballot printing, I suggest that you take an extensive course in the affairs of the State and County government before editorializing on the duties and acts of public officials in or out of office.

I, of course, have no objection to your criticism of me in your editorial column if you so desire, but I would like to suggest that as as newspapermen you owe it not only to yourself but to your reading public first to ascertain the truth before you editorialize on the conduct of anyone. As far as I am concerned, I am perfectly willing to stand upon my record in any public office I have ever held. If I have made mistakes, and I am sure I have, I have no objections to anyone criticizing me therefor, but I certainly do not appreciate either you or any other newspaperman falsely charging me with improprieties in office of which I am not guilty and which I have always scrupulously avoided. Such is the weapon of a coward.

I hope you will be as zealous to correct the false aspects of your editorial as you were to publish the editorial in question.

Yours very truly,
William J. Storey
(Below is the Harrington Journal editorial referred to above by Mr. Storey):

June 23, 1950

The Voice of One Crying

The purpose of the Delmarva Chicken of Tomorrow Festival at Dover was to promote the poultry industry on the peninsula. We do not believe the festival was any place for a political speech, regardless of party.

However, Dover's Mayor Storey, in a speech managed to get in a dig about the spending policies of the mayor: "But at the same time the national administration. Said I believe that the citizens have a right to insist and should insist upon a policy of more prudent and economical handling of our nation's finances. It is high time that official Washington, including Congress, should give more consideration to the taxpayers and think less of finding new ways of spending tax money for purposes of political expediency."

The mayor was too much of a politician to make specific charges; he didn't want to get in a corner.

We have always heard the cry of: "Reduce taxes, give us the same services as before. Economize." This has always been the spiel of the party not in office. The mayor forgets the abnormally high cost of the ballots in Kent County at the last election when he, as Delaware Secretary of State, was in office. There was a difference of several thousands of dollars in the bids. But who got the order?

speech is mistaken. Actually the speech by the Mayor was made in connection with the replica of the Liberty Bell being set up in Dover and had nothing whatsoever to do with the Chicken Festival. Moreover, since the underlying reason for the Mayor's address was to help sell US Savings Bonds, it was, we believe, quite right and proper for him to make some comments about Federal Government extravagance. After all, when you ask a man to put his savings into an investment you certainly should be able to assure him that the money he invests won't be squandered. So, all things being considered, we doubt if Mayor Storey did anything more than his duty when he commented on the notorious New Deal habit boondoggle projects.

As for the remarks made by the Harrington Journal in regard to Mayor Storey's attitude when he was Secretary of State in connection with the printing of ballots, they are obviously absurd. Mr. Storey had nothing to do with the printing of election ballots. Nor has any Secretary of State ever had any concern with these matters. The printing of ballots for election of state and county officials has always been a county affair. In the case of Kent County, the ballots were ordered by the Levy Court. The outrageous award of the printing contract for ballots in 1948, the last election period, was made by the then Levy Court members. It will not be soon forgotten, either, that this contract went to the highest bidder through a fluke in the wording of the specifications and resulted in the expenditure of about five thousand dollars of Kent County money that could have been saved by the honest award of the contract to the lowest bidder.

That there was a hue and cry about this piece of political chicanery, no one can question. But to pin it on to the Secretary of State is nothing short of ridiculous. The law specifically calls for these matters to be determined by the Levy Court.

We hope, in view of the inaccuracy of the charges made in the Harrington Journal's editorial of last week, that they will apologize to Mayor Storey and clear his record by setting forth publicly the actual facts of the affair.

OUR "APOLOGY"

In an editorial in last week's issue of the Harrington Journal, we criticized Mayor William Storey of Dover for injecting politics into an address he made before the Delmarva Chicken Festival. In this address Mr. Storey took down an ancient musket, much used and much abused, since it has been primed, fired and fouled by almost every Republican speaker since Roosevelt took the public off a diet of apples something like seventeen years ago. He fired salvo after salvo into the middle section of the Democratic administration on its method of spending money.

In the same editorial, we called to Mr. Storey's attention the printing of the election ballots—at an exorbitant price—when his party was in power and he was Secretary of State. We did not intend to convey the impression that Mr. Storey was in any way even remotely responsible for that last moment squeeze-play. We did mean that the party he has served so well—and which, incidentally, has served him so well—was guilty of the same practice for which he condemned the federal government. He chides us of our ignorance of the law in assuming that the Secretary of State had anything to do with the printing of the ballots. Even we, unlettered in law, knew this—but the party he represents was responsible.

Mr. Storey, in a letter to the Delaware State News, an occasionally independent newspaper, summed up the case for the defense, and, frankly, convicted us on one count. We plead guilty—but on that one count alone. More of this a few paragraphs later.

With his stand cleverly and completely outlined, Mr. Storey, able lawyer that he is, rested his case.

Another Richmond in the field! The Delaware State News, evidently not sharing our high opinion of Mr. Storey's presence and probably thinking him not able to fend for himself, girded its loins and garbled its lines and rushed into the fray—all, of course, in an independent sort of way.

It stains with the bar sinister of opportunism the escutcheon of this great moral and religious weekly (unpaid advertisement) known to fame as The Harrington Journal. It levels criticisms at us with the abandon of the participles lavished by Southey in "The Cataract of Lodore" and then suggests that we apologize. To whom should we apologize? The Delaware State News is not the "injured" party.

Several disjointed paragraphs back, we admitted our error on one count—on only one count—we confused bonds and chickens.

We wish we had been correct. Not that we suffer one tiny twinge of conscience, although we regret that we have done anyone an injustice—if we have! We wish Bill had made this address at the Chicken Festival—instead of at a Bond Rally. This was neither the time nor place for target practice. With the nation on the verge of war, this was the time for the stimulus of patriotic fervor—not the time for condemnation of the management of the government whose bonds you were trying to sell.

He would be a poor salesman who would thus proclaim: "Ladies and Gentlemen: I offer for sale the bonds of the duPont Company, the greatest company in the world. While this company stands far above all others, I deem it advisable to inform you that, owing to research, expansion—and humanitarian objectives—I believe this company is spending enormous sums of money above what it should spend."

ANOTHER "COMPLETE INVESTIGATION"

"Inquirer," in a letter to the Sunday Star, says: "I had heard that one person connected with the management of the (Brandywine) Sanatorium daily made bets on races by telephone to Wilmington, and that upon winning, even a small sum, immediately dispatched a man in an automobile to secure his winnings. I wondered if this man paid for the services of this man and also for the use and expense of a state car for the purpose."

We heard the same report about that time, and we heard it from a nurse at the institution—this at a time when gas was rationed. We remember the name of that nurse.

"I also mentioned," continues "Inquirer," "that it was said that on Saturday afternoons it was frequently virtually impossible to get a seat on a bus bound for the Sanatorium due to the number of drunken employes aboard these buses."

We can give exact information on the latter assertion. Not especially on Saturday afternoons, but on all afternoons and evenings immediately following paydays, employes of the Sanatorium would go to Bryce's, a few hundred yards from Price's Corner, and return with suitcases, boxes or sacks of liquor. They would reel or fall into the bus and when the bus approached their quarters to the rear of the Sanatorium, they would yell "All Out for Rum Row!" State Police were called out to quiet them about one o'clock Sunday morning—and this happened more than once.

This condition was known to dozen of people—many of whom died there—but we are pretty sure that some of them survived.

Time after time, it has been said that a "complete investigation" of the Sanatorium was in the offing—but it never happened. We doubt that it will happen.

THE CENSUS CONTROVERSY

The Wilmington papers are puzzled over the results of the recent census. Realizing that the trend is toward the suburban section—and this condition applies in almost every city and town in America—they can't understand why, with many residences and apartments erected there in recent years, the city should lose something like two thousand population within the past ten years.

Many country towns can attribute their loss or lack of appreciable gain in population to the fact that they have no employment for the young people. This explanation does not solve the Wilmington problem, for that city is an industrial center. The answer is the decrease in the size of families. Quite a number of years ago the average family contained five people. Today it is between two and three.

Harvey J. Wadman, high police official of Wilmington, warns newly-weds to refrain from blowing automobile horns when they drive around the city after the ceremony. We do not know where this foolish idea originated. Merely getting married is nothing to blow about.

Speeches having political implications should be delivered at meetings advertised as political meetings. We question the taste and the motive of anyone who delivers such a speech at any other place.

FIRST PERSON SINGULAR—
VERY SINGULAR

I had heard Margaret Whiting over the radio singing such songs as "Now Is The Hour," "A Tree In The Meadow" and "Far-Away Places." She sang beautifully and immediately became one of my favorite singers.

The other night I saw her on television. She sang, in a brassy voice, some silly little thing about "as long as I like you and you like me"—and I don't like Margaret any more. Then the thought came: "I wonder what has become of Annette Hanshaw?" Annette had ideals.

Miss Hanshaw was the featured singer on the greatest program radio has known or will know, the star-studded "Show Boat." Her soft contralto reminded you of bees droning among the apple blossoms. For three consecutive years she was voted America's radio queen. Then taste in music plummeted from the Olympian Hills to the slough of despond—and Lulu Belle, a female Ernest Tubbs, of a tinny "The Corn Is Green" type, ruled for one year of blight.

The then Prince of Wales, later King of England, and now Duke of Windsor, had a standing order for all the recordings Annette Hanshaw ever made.

She left the Maxwell House Coffee people, sponsor of the "Show Boat," to appear on Walter O'Keefe's "Camel Caravan," sponsored by the Camel Cigarette people. She was paid $1400.00 for singing two songs weekly—and $1400.00 was money in those days.

I wrote a little bit of verse about Annette and she was gracious enough to write me a beautiful letter of appreciation, in which she invited me to be her guest at one of her broadcasts.

Months later, I was in New York, waiting for a Greyhound Bus to bring me back to Delaware. Directly across the street was Columbia Playhouse No. 1, and I remembered that this was Thursday night, the night of the Camel Caravan program—but there were no lights in the theatre. Finally, I phoned to Columbia headquarters on Madison Avenue and asked them about the program. "It's at Columbia Playhouse No. 2, west of Broadway, tonight," they explained. "Miss Hanshaw invited me to be her guest at a broadcast," I said. "Did she send you a ticket?" When I told them I had received no ticket, they gave me this advice: "It will be absolutely impossible for you to see the broadcast. The next time a star invites you to be a guest, ask for a ticket. Sorry."

I went to Columbia Playhouse No. 2 and wrote the following note: "Dear Miss Hanshaw: I have been standing in front of Columbia Playhouse No. 1 since 2 o'clock yesterday morning, munching cheese sandwiches and impatiently awaiting the arrival of the Camel Caravan. Can you arrange for me to gain entrance?" I gave the note to an usher and asked him to deliver it to Miss Hanshaw. He looked me over from head to foot—and I didn't like his sneer. "For the love of Mike," I told him, "do you think a fellow my age, with a shape like mine and a face like mine would try to be a stage door Johnny? Give that note to Miss Hanshaw." He went away and returned within a couple of minutes. He was beaming with cordiality. "Right this way," he said, and led the way to a seat in the third row.

Miss Hanshaw sang "Tiny Little Finger Prints—You Mean So Much to Me" and "In The Gloaming" that night. At the conclusion of the broadcast, I was preparing to leave when a man approached me. "Are you Miss Hanshaw's friend?" he asked. I told him I hoped I had that honor, and he said: "Mr. Rose, Miss Hanshaw's manager, wants to see you."

Reggie Rose came and escorted me to Miss Hanshaw's dressing room. Her first words were: "Mr. Burgess, I'm quitting this program pretty soon and I may never be on radio again. They insist that I sing one blues song on each program—to appeal to all kinds of people—and I will not do it. What is your candid opinion?" "You do not have to appeal to all kinds of people," I told her. "You can sing blues songs as well as anyone in the world, but you can sing the kind of songs you sang tonight better than anyone else in the world."

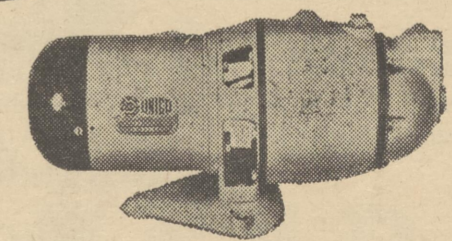

I spent but a few minutes there, because others were anxious to see her. Some weeks later, I read in Nick Kenny's Radio Column in the New York Mirror: "Commended!

Annette Hanshaw's idealistic sentiment for refusing to renew her contract." Later I read that she had been offered contracts over entire networks by five different sponsors, but refused them all.

So America lost one of its sweetest singers, but an American girl refused to sacrifice her ideals for money. Now you may understand why, after hearing Miss Whiting's silly, brassy-voiced song, I don't give a doggone if she does go to "Far-Away Places."

The poem to Annette Hanshaw:

I was not born unto the silk—
For I was raised on buttermilk
And thick cornbread and turnip greens—
Not food, I'll grant, for kings and queens
And folks like that—but what a joy
To any healthy, growing boy!
We used to never sit up late,
But went to bed at half-past eight;
But once I sat up late and heard
Upon the ether waves a bird
Trill merrily beneath the stars,
And all the stinging wounds and scars
Of day were gone, and long, aye, long,
I felt the magic of that song.
Still, she was selling coffee, and
Since childhood's days it had been banned
Within our home—should I be true
To childhood's teachings—or to you,
Caressing voice? I pondered long,
And then this sorceress of song
Enslaved me, and I told our cows:
"Begone, ye bovines; go and browse,
For I—well, I don't give a darn."
And then I broke our wooden churn;
I ordered coffee, black and strong,
And sat up there the whole night long,
Not for another goldarned thing
But just to hear Miss Hanshaw sing!
She's left the coffee folks—since then
I'm drinking buttermilk again!
I'd smoked a pipe nigh all my life
Despite the fact my own good wife
Had talked about "the smelly thing!"
Ah, good old pipes, what joys they bring!
They sort of chase away the blues,
And so I'd just take off my shoes
And put my feet upon the self,
And sit there and enjoy myself!
But one night, in the fragrant gloom,
There stole into my lonely room
The voice of that sweet, trembling thrush—
Across the world there came a hush;
The stars up in the sky were still,
The moon was poised above the hill,
And heaven's bells had ceased to ring—
They'd paused—to hear Miss Hanshaw sing!
She sells a certain cigarette,
This thrush beneath the stars, Annette;
And so, my corn-cob pipe, farewell
To ancient memories—and smell!
I'm smoking now four packs a day
Because they need the dough to pay
That girl to sing; I do my part
Upon the storied shrine of art!
But if these Camel people should—
(Preposterous—as if they would—)
Dismiss this thrush and go along
And leave the world without a song—
I'll get the dishrag down and wipe
The cobwebs from my corn-cob pipe!

Excessive Fees On GI Houses To Be Wiped Out

Veterans Administration and the Federal Housing Administration have taken joint action to eliminate excessive fees and charges in connection with the construction of housing financed with the aid of Government guarantees or insurance under the GI Bill and the National Housing Act, it was announced recently.

Acting under authority recently granted in the Housing Act of 1950, FHA Commissioner Franklin D. Richards and VA Administrator Carl R. Gray, Jr., have established limitations on such charges, effective July 17, 1950. In setting the schedule of maximum fees, both agencies worked closely with Administrator Raymond M. Foley, of the Housing and Home Finance Agency.

The new regulations apply both to construction loans and the permanent financing of new homes with credit aids provided by GI loans guaranteed by VA, or FH insured loans. A certificate will be required from the builder or the lender, and in some cases from both, that no fees in excess of the maximums have been paid or imposed.

The new regulation will apply only to applications for VA's reasonable value or for FHA commitments received in VA or FHA offices or after July 17, 1950. The maximum interest rate on construction money advanced to builders under the schedule is set at five per cent. In addition, the lender making the construction loan will be permitted to charge up to 2 1/2 per cent of amount of the funds advanced as a service charge to cover costs of supervision, making periodic advances, clearance of liens, and other overhead.

Where the lender financing the construction also finances the mortgage loan of the purchaser, no additional service charge in connection with the latter loan is permitted. Where the permanent loan is made by a lender other than the institution advancing the construction loan, a flat fee previously authorized, which may not exceed one per cent, will continue to be allowed.

In addition to the permissible service charge, the builder also may be required to pay certain other miscellaneous expenses, such as recording fees and those paid for appraisals and inspections. In announcing the new fee schedule, Commissioner Richards and Administrator Gray said that excessive charges in connection with loans for FHA and VA financed housing had become a serious problem in some areas of the country. The new restrictions are intended to curb such practices.

4-H Clubs Complete Short Course at U. of D.

Nearly 150 4-H Club members and local volunteer leaders attended the 29th Annual Boys' and Girls' 4-H Club Short Course at the University of Delaware, June 25-28. Along with regular classes in foods, canning, clothing, dairy, vegetables, poultry, swine, and crops, the group had assembly programs and a complete recreation program.

Two state-wide contests were staged during the four-day course. In the tractor operator's contest, open to club members in the tractor maintenance project, Martin Johnson, of Laurel, placed first. He received a small cup, and will represent Delaware in the regional contest at Springfield, Mass. this fall. Billy Cook, of Kenton, placed second; Robert Fleetwood, of Laurel, was third; and Ernest Zippe, of Clayton, was fourth. Twelve 4-H'ers competed. In the state finals of the 4-H public speaking contest, Joanne Beppler, of the Forest Oak 4-H Club was the girl's winner, and Joseph Mitchell, of the White Oak Club was first place boy.

Now's The Time To Enlist, Says Marine

"The young man who enlists today is better off in the event of a national emergency than the man who is drafted," Captain Charles Schultz, Jr., officer in charge of the local Marine Corps Recruiting District, announced today.

Captain Schultz's statement was intended to serve as a reply to numerous inquiries received at his headquarters lately by parents who are worried about their sons entering the service in view of the international situation. "The Marine Corps certainly hopes that the present international situation will not culminate in war," the Captain added, "however, men who do enter the Armed Forces before a war become more experienced, often become better able to take care of themselves in the event of actual combat, and incidentally become better qualified for promotion."

The Marine Corps is still accepting enlistments. Captain Schultz pointed out that the young man who enlists today is entitled to the same opportunities as the man who enlisted two weeks ago, no more and no less. The present international situation has failed to excite the Marines as, for the past 175 years, the Marines are always ready when their nation needs them.

Delaware Water Resources Subject of Study

The first part of an investigation of the water resources of Delaware has just been completed by the U. S. Geological Survey, the University of Delaware Agricultural Experiment Station, and the State Highway Department.

With George M. Worriow, director of the experiment station and M. Allan Wilson, chief engineer of the highway department serving as co-operative officials, the investigation was conducted by W. C. Rasmussen, geologist-in-charge; J. W. Brookhart, geologist; L. B. Haigler, hydraulic engineer, and L. Larsen, hydrolic field assistant.

A report, called "A Reconnaissance of the Geology and Ground Water Resources of Delaware," is now available at the State Highway Office in Dover, and at the University of Delaware in Newark. The agricultural experiment station plans to publish the report and make it available to all interested persons.

According to Director Worriow, the report consists of sections on the geography and geology of Delaware, the principles of hydrology, the occurrence of water in Delaware, discussed by communities and counties; the relation of ground water to problems of highway construction and maintenance, and methods of well construction. It also discusses the possibility of irrigation from wells, the drainage problem, and the chemical quality of Delaware ground waters.

There is no cause for general alarm, says the report. Water facilities on the streams in Delaware, particularly in the Great Circle Area, are almost at capacity. Ground water sources have been overdrawn, or are approaching overdraw in the Newark to New Castle area. Elsewhere in Delaware, water is adequate.

There are indications of sufficient abundance, in places, for the expansion of industry and the development of irrigation from wells. In the wet season, much tillable land is still water logged, and must be drained.

The research has not yet progressed to the point where a statement can be made about the future of Delaware's water supplies. According to Director Worriow, other reports on this increasingly important and complex problem of water resources will follow as the cooperative studies are continued.

The Car that puts your Best Foot forward

WE think you'll agree that the whole story of an automobile isn't told in its power, its room, its styling, even in its ride.

There is the all-important point about what a car does to you—and that's where ROADMASTER really shines.

For you can't slip into this bonny beauty's broad seats without feeling like somebody pretty special.

When you take its neat wheel in your hand—when you cut loose, with a toe-touch, the rich baritone of its big Fireball straight-eight power plant—when you feel the smooth surge of its Dynaflo-cushioned take-off—

Man, then you know you've got a real automobile!

And don't overlook this:

That graceful sweep of chrome along the fender—found on no other car made today—is a mighty eye-catching note of distinction.

Those four Ventiports, too, cause many a head to turn—they mark you unmistakably as the owner of the biggest and best Buick built—a car as fine and rich as any man has need for.

There are a lot of good, solid, dollars-and-cents reasons for making ROADMASTER your choice over any other car:

Its size. The commanding performance of its 152-hp Fireball valve-in-head straight-eight engine. Dynaflo Drive standard. A ride that's quite matchless in its gentle softness. Distinguished styling from bold, protective front end to gleaming "double bubble" taillight.

But if you're ready for a car that's more than just an automobile—if you want one that puts your best foot forward in any company—that's the real reason for seeing your Buick dealer quickly—to talk turkey about a ROADMASTER.

WHEELER RADIO STORE NEWS

Ladies and Gentlemen step right in and see one of the marvels of man. Just wait now and I'll tell you all about it but first let me remind you that it must be getting close to fair time, by the way my mind is leaning.

Well folks you have heard about different refrigerators that are made to defrost itself and so on but I want you to come in and see the only frost-less refrigerator that is made by any company. That refrigerator is a nine cu. foot Westinghouse and is it a dandy.

Now here is the reason I am showing it now before the fair—If you would like to have one the only thing I can do now is take your order. Let me tell you these refrigerators are getting scarcer every day as I said before take a tip from me and buy now or at least place your order. I have a few other models on the floor that I can deliver at once, both Westinghouse and Philco. Which do you say is the best? Well toss a coin and either heads or tails there is as much quality and service in one as the other. Yes of course they are guaranteed 5 years.

Has your gotten that automatic washer yet? If not I surely would like for you to have one. After seeing so many in use, each one we install seems to work and wash better and better. Actually your washing is a pleasure with an automatic. Any one can turn on a switch and to think you don't even have to turn it off.

Of course you don't handle any water at all and you don't even have to rinse your automatic as you do with a regular washer.

Come in let me tell you more about them. Honestly I think every woman should own one.

Fifteen to twenty five dollars down starts the clothes a washing and then about a dollar a week keeps them going.

Of course we have the wringer type if you prefer something costing a little less money and they are good, but the automatic is better.

Right now may I say we have the largest stock of wall paper we have ever had and when you buy your paper from Wheeler's you have plenty to select from and prices vary accordingly to the quality of paper. We have some paper that is washable or water proof for only forty cents a double roll, which of course is only twenty cents per single roll as some advertise.

Last week I was telling you about our dentist Dr. Smith having two Philco air conditioners put in his office. May I say here that he had a new and up-to-date office with the exception of his air conditioning and now he has one of the most up to date dentist offices in the state. Of course we know when you visit him, you too will want us to install a Philco air conditioner for you. No Better. This is just the time now to get that new freezer locker. No waiting as we have them in stock. 6, 7 1/2 and 12 cu. foot larger ones 15 or 30 if desired.

Buy one now and before long it will be paying you a high rate of interest. A word to the wise is sufficient.

Felton's First House Stands

by M. Evelyn Killen

The fire recently, when the barn belonging to former Coroner N. Edgar Smith was struck by lightning, brings to mind that this dwelling house is the first house built in Felton.

We find in the "History of Delaware," this item about Felton, "In 1856, when the railroad was thrown open for traffic, Robert W. Reynolds & Brother had opened a general store, and there was one blacksmith shop and one farm-house.

This "one farm-house" now the home of Mr. Smith and family, was built by Alfred O. Clifton who owned the land south of Main Street. It was built before the brick Methodist Church across the street, the front gable of which bears the date 1860.

Mr. Clifton had four sons; he divided his land into five farms, leaving a farm to each of his sons and his daughter. The "town farm," as it was commonly known, went to Robert Clifton from whose heirs Mr. Smith purchased it in 1944. There were John, the doctor, of Smyrna, and whose widow died only last winter, Jehu, Robert, and Charles. Each son left a son, all of whom are now deceased but Jehu Clifton of Wilmington and who is in the employ of the Pennsylvania Railroad, and who is the only heir who has a Clifton farm.

Since Mr. Smith purchased the house, he has thoroughly repaired and remodeled the property both inside and out, putting on asbestos shingles and other improvements that are modern and up-to-date. It one would have to be told that it is the oldest dwelling in Felton.

Rabies Protection

Officials of the United States public health service say federal studies have produced satisfactory evidence that annual vaccination of dogs is an effective means of controlling rabies in animals and human beings.

Owners who are unable to keep their pets in strict confinement during rabies outbreaks and for a period of six months afterward are advised to protect them by vaccination.

The health service recommends that vaccination be used in conjunction with licensing, quarantine, and elimination of stray and ownerless pets in all localities troubled with rabies.

Diet Kitchens

Hospital diet kitchens are using stainless steel conveyor belts and lifts to carry hot foods to the proper location on each floor.

Formula Rooms

Bumper baby crows have inspired many hospitals to install special all-steel formula rooms, the ultimate in sanitation.

Lee de Forest
It was but a step from what was called the "Edison effect" in Edison's lamp bulb to the radio tube. That step was discovered and invented by a young American scientist, Lee de Forest, who introduced the grid to capture speeding electrons and cause them to build up from a feeble to a strong volume of sound in the first radio tube. From this single invention were evolved many variations to be used for amplifying sound transmission.

Ventilators
In a basementless house provide a little more than two square feet of ventilators for the space below the ground floor for every 25 feet of building circumference.

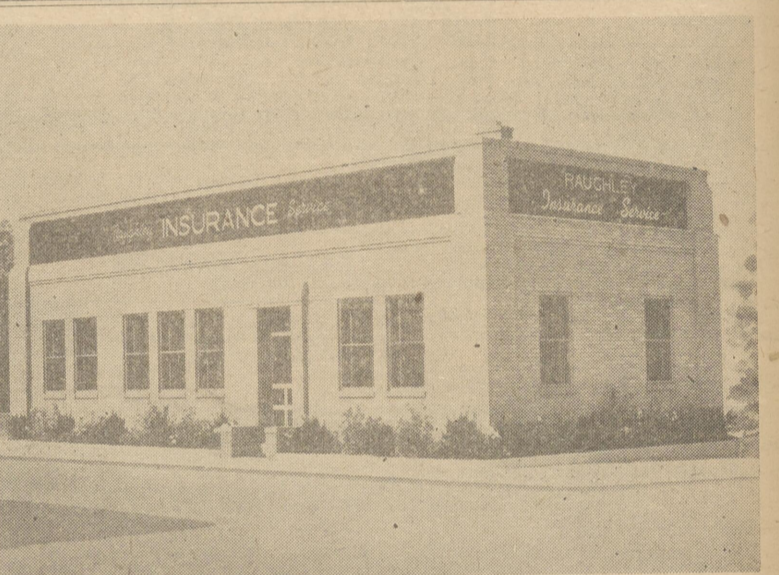

IBET is a theocracy — governed by priests of Lamaism, the state religion. A form of Buddhism, it makes generous use of legend and superstition. The 14th Dalai Lama, now reigning under a regent and council of priests in the lamasery-palace at Lhasa, was installed in 1939.

Durable
Cotton bales which have been stored more than 30 years have been found to be in excellent condition for fabrication into cloth.

Lumber Exports
While U.S. lumber exports in 1948 to the world markets were one half the annual average of the previous five years, exports to Africa and Oceania increased by 50 per cent.
