Harness Racing Gets Underway

"They're off" is the big sound at Ocean Downs these nights with the opening of the harness meet for 29 nights Thursday (August 10) for the second season of the Eastern Shore Track.

Racing Secretary Dick James said reservations were on tap for 450 horses which is a 100 head increase over last year. Higher purses is given as one reason for the jump with a $2000 pace featured on opening night—a 100 per cent increase above 1949's top.

The opening night feature is a mile-dash and with Major Hal and Highland Ellen entered there is a good chance of beating last year's track record of 2:06 3-5 held jointly by Emalou Hanover and Nora Abbe.

Honors for the Saturday night feature will be handed over to Crisfield which has the feature race named for it in honor of the beauty contest winner who will represent the Chesapeake Bay city in the Fishing Fair. Sponsored by Salisbury Contractor, John A. Vickers, the contest winner will present a trophy to the event winner. This is another of the 14 stake races scheduled for the season.

Band to Present Final Concert

The Harrington High School Band, under the direction of Melvin L. Brobst, will present its final concert for the summer on the lawn by the First National Bank tomorrow evening, at 7:15 p. m.

The concert will mark the third time the band has appeared this summer for outdoor concerts, and each time its program has been enthusiastically received. It is hoped that this presentation will be no exception when members of the organization will be presented as soloists. In case of rain, the program will be given on the second floor of the bank.

The band has thus far earned for and by themselves more than $350 in prizes at parades and concerts, and with it hopes to purchase much needed items which include uniforms for three majorities, a baritone saxophone, and a new pair of cymbals, which are badly needed. For the response thus far the band wishes to thank all persons who have helped to make the summer season a success.

For this Saturday's concert, refreshments will be on sale by Miss Hazel Johnson and will include home-made ice cream, cakes and soft-drinks.

Donald Jarrell Wins in Egg And Poultry Contest

Donald Jarrell, of Harrington, won first place in the poultry and egg judging contest at the Kent-Sussex Fair this year, according to Margaret Webb, Kent County 4-H Club agent. Mary Sue Ross of Clayton and Leonard Greenly of Milford won second and third places, respectively. All three will be awarded scholarships to the 1951 4-H short course.

Donald had the highest score in poultry judging in the state, with 255 points out of a possible 300. Three classes of chickens were judged: one class of Barred Rock laying hens, one class of New Hampshire cockerels and one class of New Hampshire laying hens. Birds were judged on a production or utility basis, for such factors as body capacity (size, weight, depth of body) and conformation, vigor and health, shape of head, brightness of eye, pigmentation, and laying condition in the case of the hens. Donald learned to judge poultry and eggs during the 4-H short course this year at the University of Delaware. He raised 100 broilers this year for a project; last year he had a swine project. He is 16 and has been raised on a general farm, where his parents have a small flock of birds. He belongs to the Harrington Sunshine Club.

Leonard Greenly of Milford had the highest score in the state for the egg grading contest, with 39 points out of a possible 50. Donald Jarrell and Mary Sue Ross placed second and third, respectively. Fifty eggs were graded for weight and exterior quality (cleanliness, shell texture and soundness of shell) only four minutes was allowed to complete the grading. Good eggs were divided into extra large, large, medium and small. Cracked, dirty, poor shelled and tinted eggs were placed in separate containers.

These contests encourage young people to work and learn more about poultry production, by acting as an incentive for effort. The 4-H club program develops leadership and has as its motto to "Learn by Doing."

Richard and Henry Bullock were seriously injured Tuesday morning when their automobile skidded off the Ritchie highway south of Glen Burnie, Md., overturned and caught fire.

Police at Ferndale reported that Richard Bullock, the driver, was admitted to South Baltimore General Hospital with back and possible internal injuries, and that Henry Bullock, his brother, was admitted to the same hospital with neck injuries.

Hospital officials described their condition as "fair."

According to Patrolman James Jacobs, the older brother was able to free himself from the wrecked auto and helped Richard Bullock from behind the wheel. No traffic charges have been placed pending outcome of the driver's injuries, the policeman said.

The fire swept the car before the Earleigh Heights Fire Department reached the scene and extinguished the flames.

Isaac "Ike" Morris was taken to the Delaware Hospital on Thursday morning, where he will undergo an operation.

Miss Fine was married Wed., Aug. 2, to Mr. Smith, son of Mr. and Mrs. Brown Smith, of Harrington, in Trenton. Robert Jester, of Harrington, was best man, while the maid of honor was Doreen Warner, of Trenton. A reception was held at the home of the bride's parents after the wedding. Also attending the ceremony were Mr. and Mrs. Gale Smith, Mr. and Mrs. Brown Smith, Mr. and Mrs. L. B. Harrington, and Miss Elva Reese, all of Harrington, and Mrs. Ethel Welch, of Florida.

Lake and Pond Survey Reaches Halfway Mark

At the halfway mark in the lake and pond survey being conducted by the State Game and Fish Commission, the crew, which has been working in the south central portion of the state, has compiled information on the following lakes and ponds: Blair's, Haven, Silver, Cedar Creek, Waples, and Red Mill.

Work being done on the ponds include sounding, inlet and outlet temperatures and volumes, shore seining to determine relative abundance of fish reproduction, aquatic vegetation study, chemical analysis of the water, and a creel census of the fishermen on the pond.

The creel census shows Silver Lake at Milford to be the most productive so far, although the fish are a little smaller than average. Fishermen in this pond have averaged 1.81 fish per hour. Haven Lake follows with .619; Blair's Pond with a .432 average; Red Mill Pond with .406; Cedar Creek with .395, and Waples Pond with a .154 average.

Blair's Pond has produced the largest bass, an 8 1/2-pounder, caught opening day.

George Hine and John Mazel of Reading, Pa., had a nice catch of two bass, a three-pound chain pickerel, and a two-pound chain pickerel all caught in Blair's Pond Saturday.

The survey crew of Carlos Feteroff and Leroy Manlove have found that 82 per cent of the freshwater fishermen are from out of state.

A further report will be given in the middle of September.

Greenwood School Opens Sept. 6

The Greenwood school announced today that the date for the fall opening of school is Wed., Sept. 6. All children in the district who have not yet registered for school should do so on Aug. 14 and 15 from 10 to 12 a. m. and 1 to 3 p. m. at the school office. Parents of children registering for the first grade should bring the child's birth certificate; and those children transferring from other schools should bring their report cards from the transferring school.

Betts, Jr., of Clearfield, Pa., graduate of Dickinson College, Carlisle, Pa.; commercial subjects, S. S. Albanese, Astoria, N. Y., graduate of New York University, N. Y. The appointment of the instructor of home economics has not been made at this time.

During the summer, nine members of the school staff have matriculated at various colleges and universities for additional work in their subject fields. Mrs. Sadie Hill, 2nd grade teacher, is touring the western part of the United States, and A. F. Grassmyer is spending the entire summer touring the British Isles and Europe.

Major improvements are being made in the school plant. J. W. Clark of Lewes has received the painting contract for the entire elementary building, library, and corridors of the high school building. N. B. Downing of Milford received the contract for new plumbing and heating repairs in the high school building.

Street Signs Are Being Painted

Street signs in Harrington are being painted, an improvement that has attracted considerable attention. Many persons have commented that they are learning the location of streets they never knew existed. Archie Marshall discovered the street at the side of his property was named South Street. "I always thought it was Wampus Street," said Marshall.

Sears Opens Enlarged Store At Dover

An estimated crowd of more than 1700 persons attended the brief ceremony marking the formal opening Tuesday morning of the new Sears, Roebuck and Company store in Dover. By 5:30 Tuesday afternoon a total of 6897 persons had passed through the doors of the new store, according to John J. Koski, manager, who predicted that by closing time on Saturday, he expected the grand total for the week would be in excess of 22,000 persons.

Preparations Underway For Reading Fair

The Reading Fair, one of the largest county fairs in the land, is now being whipped into shape for its 8-day and 7-night run Sun., Sept. 10 to 17.

Always the first to usher in the season of large fairs in Pennsylvania, the Reading exposition perennially offers such exclusive features as the only Grand Circuit harness races in the state, and the only fair-sponsored beauty contest in the Southeastern Pennsylvania region.

It's Grand Circuit horse races, worth $65,400 this year in overall purses, now rank as the number one publicity medium for the fair, while its "Miss Reading Fair" beauty contest annually attracts larger audiences than any other individual attraction.

Twenty-Eight Are Enlisted By Army and Air Force

The Army and Air Force Recruiting Station in Dover has released the information that 28 young men from Kent and Sussex counties were enlisted during the month of July. Twenty-three were from Kent while only five were from Sussex.

They are: Carl Knight, 18; David Hitchcock, 20; Bernard Bruner, 21; Walter Scott, 23; Rudolph Minor, 20; Ralph L. White, 22; Benjamin Davidson, 22; James E. Button, 18, and James E. Lawrence, 25, all of Dover; James P. Purnell, 18; Arthur Spencer, 19; Charles J. Harris, 20, and Francis E. Melvin, 20, of Smyrna; Owen H. Johnson, 19; John P. Carter, 18, and Earl Spencer, 18, of Maryland; John R. Brown, 18, of Clayton; David Boatner, 18, and Carl McNatt, 20, of Wyoming; James R. Wise, 18, of Camden; Harry A. Bryan, 17, of Cheswold; Leon E. Stevens, 18, of Kenton; Cornelius L. Hurd, 19, of Viola; William Lockwood, 20, and Ralph J. Groves, 21, of Milford; James A. Dukes, 19, of Georgetown; David Little, 18, of Greenwood; William Winder, 19, of Laurel.

Both the Army and Air Force are enlisting young men and women between the ages of 17 and 34 from the two counties and are still offering a choice of service for those who enlist. Those young men between the ages of 19 and 25 who have not received their notice for pre-induction physical from selective service are urged to contact the Air Force or Army Recruiting Station at 109 1/2 Lockerman Street, Dover, if they desire to enlist for a choice before being drafted.

preceding the opening of the door, a graphic description of the store was broadcast over crowd, the interior and exterior Radio Station WDOV.

Among the visitors who attended the affair was Gov. Elbert N. Carvel, Mayor William J. Storey, Chief of Police James E. Turner, Ralph Tischer, president of the Dover Chamber of Commerce, Karl Dorzbach, Jr., chairman of the mercantile section of the Dover Chamber of Commerce, L. H. Beers, Mid-Atlantic zone officer, Asia and the various islands in the Far Pacific. As a result, I have been receiving a steadily increasing number of letters suggesting that adequate steps be taken by our military authorities to prepare for any such eventuality. This apprehension here at home undoubtedly stems largely from the apparent fact that we were caught off-guard in Korea. Whether we were or not is still a debatable point, but the fact remains that the absence of American troops on the Korean peninsula at the time war broke out would have probably produced the same result as what we are now facing.

The over-all question of the soundness or unsoundness of our policy in Korea is one which I am not presuming to pass on at this time. It may well be that the United States should have refused to withdraw its troops when it did. On the other hand, however, it can also be said that the United States cannot possibly defend every area in the world that communist aggressors seek to plunder.

The gravest consideration we now face is the question of determining what action can be taken to anticipate any further attacks and to meet these onslaughts when they do come.

Our build-up of troops and supplies in the Pacific area is proceeding steadily and as rapidly as possible. The Soviet leaders and their puppets, particularly the Chinese Communists, are aware of this and may feel that a strike at Formosa now would be most successful. On the other hand, it may be that they would prefer to see the United States and its allies build up large forces in the Far East and then launch an attack somewhere in Europe.

Despite every method used to find out what the communist leaders are really planning, it seems only fair to assume that to some degree at least, we can only guess what will happen next. The President's action in sending his assistant Mr. W. Averell Harriman, to the Far East late last week indicates that extensive efforts are being made to obtain as complete a picture as possible of what is likely to occur in the immediate future. The information obtained as a result of this mission and others will undoubtedly help determine our next decisions. There is no doubt that the situation is grave. We here at home must be prepared to do whatever is necessary in the interest of our security. During all of last week Congress discussed the question of mobilizing our military and economic resources to meet this emergency. New laws can be expected which will empower the President, if necessary, to allocate many of our civilian goods for military purposes. Even so, our high standard of living can, and I am sure will, be maintained. There will be plenty of food, ample necessities, and even some luxuries for everybody. I am confident that most people realize this, and will do everything possible to support our current and future military efforts.

John J. Koski, manager of the local Sears stores, Walter Lander, zone credit manager, and many other dignitaries.

At the conclusion of the simple program, Gov. Carvel performed the traditional rite of cutting the bright red ribbon symbolically to open the new store for business. Minutes later the main floor was flooded with visitors who were eager to obtain their first glimpse of the new retail establishment. More than 150 salespeople were on hand to receive the visitors.

Airplanes Used In Muskrat Survey

Pittman-Robertson Project 7-R was set up specifically to study the marshes of the entire state. Its purpose is to cover systematically all important marsh areas, studying plant and animal relationships and means of improving them.

It is a basic principle of wildlife management that where sufficient food and cover are present all forms of wildlife are able to thrive and maintain good populations. The reduction of food brings about malnutrition, paving the way for outbreaks of disease, and loss of cover brings about a higher incidence of predation. Abnormal losses to disease and predators soon cause a reduction in population.

With the above in mind, it can now be seen why in the marsh study we try to determine the location not only of areas having good food and cover present, but also areas that are capable of supporting stands of good food plants, although they may be at present occupied by species that are of no value to wildlife. But it is not enough merely to locate the good and poor marshes.

Wildlife, and by that is meant muskrats and waterfowl, must also be studied. It is particularly important to determine their distribution and relative abundance throughout the state. Their food habits and preferences, time of mating, and presence or absence of disease and parasites are all important in formulating an intelligent program of marsh management. Also, for the waterfowl, it is important to know at about what time the peak of spring and fall migration occurs and how many remain in Delaware through the summer.

To accomplish the work involved in the specified length of time a variety of methods must be used. Certain portions of the vegetation survey must be done on foot, the rest being done either by use of a boat or a pick-up truck. Much of the information on use by waterfowl and furbearers is also obtained in this manner, and at the same time. Such information as the presence of raccoons, otters, deer and foxes can only be gotten by getting out and walking or wading through the marsh. Engineering surveys also must be done on foot. However, much valuable information on waterfowl and muskrat populations can be obtained just as accurately and much more rapidly and economically by the use of an airplane.

While the airplane has become a standard piece of equipment for waterfowl censusing, its use in muskrat work is comparatively new. Only two other states, New York and Minnesota, have reported successful use of the airplane in counting muskrat houses, and since the methods reported by them are not the same as that used in Delaware, a brief description of the method and results of this work in Delaware will be given.

The airplane is flown over the marsh at an altitude of 500-600 feet as slowly as is safe. This is 65-74 mph., indicated airspeed. Ground speed will be somewhat less since the plane is flown into the wind whenever possible. House counts are made on parallel strips across the area with the observer doing all of the counting while the pilot concentrates on holding course and maintaining safe slow flight. This method has been checked by making both ground and air counts on the same area and has been found to be 86 per cent accurate, i. e. the air count is 86 per cent of the ground count.

In order to compare the economics of ground vs. air counts, careful time was kept for one particular marsh some 78 acres in area. It took two men on foot, while the marsh was frozen, 7 1/2 hours to count the muskrat houses. By using the airplane and an observer who had not seen this particular marsh before, the houses were counted in 35 minutes. In this instance accuracy of the aerial count was 95 per cent.

By this time the reader may be asking, "Who cares how many muskrat houses are in a marsh?" Here's the answer, or rather, two answers:

1. The number of houses present in two marshes of similar type and size gives the relative population of the two marshes. Now it has been established over a period of years that in marshes along the Atlantic Coast, the average population is four muskrats. Thus we can determine not only the population for any one marsh but also for all of the marshes.

2. By going back to the notes on vegetation in the various marshes the relative use by muskrats of each marsh type can be easily ascertained.

Waterfowl work is carried on in much the same manner during the fall and winter. When the spring migration starts another method, called the aerial transect method, is used. The airplane is flown at about 100 feet altitude over a predetermined course. The pilot counts all waterfowl seen on one side for a distance of 1/4 mile, while the observer counts a 1/2 mile strip on the other side. The observer records numbers by species. At the end of the strip the ratio thus obtained is applied to the pilots total, thus giving total population seen, by species. Since four linear miles of transect are equal to one square mile, and we know the total area of waterfowl habitat, it is then a simple matter to compute total population for the state.

Warning—Tomato Late Blight in Sussex County

Within the past two weeks tomato late blight infection has become widespread throughout the county. As most growers will remember, this disease was very destructive back in 1946 when it practically wiped out the tomato crop. The infection is here in our county and the same results may happen in 1950. Here is a quotation taken from Plant Disease Survey Warning Service Report No. 44 dated July 28, 1950, quoting Paul R. Mills Sr., Plant Pathologist in charge of Plant Disease Survey, United States Department of Agriculture:

"I would like to point out that, according to our records, late blight on tomatoes is more widely distributed today than it was on July 28, 1946. Also, it would appear, from the various reports received from various states during the past two weeks, that potentially it is also as destructive, if not more so."

In view of the above report, it is suggested that tomato growers follow a spray or dusting schedule to either prevent or arrest the spread of late blight. Control should consist of weekly applications of spray material preferably 6-3-100 Bordeaux mixture or a fixed copper spray. Complete coverage of the plant with spray material is essential for good control. Dusts are not as satisfactory but may be used if necessary. Copper dusts applied at weekly intervals will help to check the disease. Coverage is also important in applying dust and farmers should cover both the top and bottom of the leaves and inner parts of the plant to obtain satisfactory control. The disease spreads rapidly in wet weather accompanied by cool nights, so these periods necessitate complete control measures.

Modern Grain Drier Installed at Denton

To supplement the many services offered by The Willis & Covell Company, Edward H. Covell, Jr., president of the company, has announced the installation of one of the latest type grain driers.

During this year's wheat harvest, which was prolonged by rain, this machine handled wheat which was too high in moisture to be loaded direct to freight cars, thus enabling farmers to get their crop to market before it was blown down or overrun by grass. This machine is a Berico Grain Drier manufactured by the H. M. Shanzer Co. of San Francisco, Calif. It is fired by a Ray oil burner using 35 gallons of No. 5 oil per hour. The drier has a drying capacity of 300 to 400 bushels per hour.

Grain to be dried is taken into a large steel tank with a capacity of 8000 bushels which feeds the drier. After the grain is dried it is stored in grain bins or loaded to freight cars or bulk grain trucks for delivery to feed manufacturers in New York, Pennsylvania, New Jersey and lower Delaware.

This new drier, along with a new large capacity corn sheller and truck dump installed last year, facilities to unload bulk as well as bagged grain, gives the farmers of this area a prompt and efficient place to deliver their grain the year around.

The Willis & Covell Company extends an invitation to anyone interested in seeing their plant to come by at any time and they will be glad to show them around.

Always Use Signals

"A good driver knows the proper signals and uses them at all times," states Colonel Carey Jarman, Superintendent of the Maryland State Police. The current slogan appearing on State Police Patrol Cars is to remind drivers of this important duty: ALWAYS USE SIGNALS. The State Motor Vehicle Law provides that drivers must give signals either manually or with an approved mechanical device before turning, stopping or slowing. The average motorist, on many occasions, forgets this and as a result often finds himself in a dangerous situation that could have been avoided had he signalled his intentions. Maryland's hand signals are as follows:

Right Turn—Extend hand and arm upward, hold hand still several seconds.

Stop or Slow—Drop hand toward the ground, with palm to rear, hold hand still several seconds.

Give your signal in plenty of time, so that the driver back of you will have ample warning of what you intend to do.

The drivers behind you as well as the drivers coming toward you are not mind readers. Give the proper signal before starting, turning, stopping or slowing; IT IS THE LAWFUL AS WELL AS THE COURTEOUS THING TO DO.

Felton

Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Dill and their guests, Mr. and Mrs. James H. Jones, of Rahway, N. J., are spending this week at Rehoboth.

Mr. and Mrs. B. T. East visited their daughter, Mrs. Edward Morrow, and family, in Philadelphia, Wednesday last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Calvin Warrington were weekend guests of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Russell at St. Michaels, Md.

Several people from Felton attended the Clover Farm picnic Sunday. The pony was awarded to Nelson Wyatt, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Wyatt, of Felton.

Mr. and Mrs. Wade Schaub, of Wilmington, were visitors here Saturday.

Miss Hazel Tinley, of Wilmington, was a weekend guest of her uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Ira DeLong.

Billy DeLong and Russell Rash spent last weekend at Oak Orchard.

Mr. and Mrs. Lou Roushey were in Baltimore for the weekend.

Miss Nellie Hughes left Wednesday of last week, the day after her mother's funeral, for Auburn, Wash., near Seattle, for several months stay with her mother's sister, Mrs. George Knauts, and family.

The Sunday School picnic was held Tuesday at Riverview Beach. The Primary School had their picnic at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Lott Ludlow near town.

"Salvation" was the topic for the sermon by Rev. W. B. Hitchens Sunday morning services in our Methodist Church. This series of sermons have been very helpful and were appreciated by the congregation, as well as the special anthems by the Senior Choir. Services will be as usual next Sunday. After that Rev. Hitchens will have a vacation for two Sundays so that there will be no services on the 20th and 27th.

Among those from Felton who attended the Golden Wedding Anniversary celebration of Mr. and Mrs. D. A. Petry held Aug. 1 at their home in Selbyville were: Mr. and Mrs. Robert Donoway, Mr. and Mrs. Francis Holden, Mr. and Mrs. Lou Roushey, Mr. and Mrs. Reed Hughes, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Moore, Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Dill, Mrs. Paul Layfield, Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence E. Cain, Mr. and Mrs. James Kates, Mrs. H. O. Eaton, Mrs. L. D. Morrow and Mrs. A. C. Bennett.

The farmers in this community are thankful for the nice rain of last week which was needed for the growing crops. Quite a few farmers are having trouble with crows picking their watermelons and cantaloupes, and one farmer has had his cantaloupes carried away by woodchucks.

Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Sherwood, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Sharp of Dover, Mr. and Mrs. Cooper Bostick and daughter, of Ellendale, Mr. and Mrs. Gardner Kersey, Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Kersey of Viola, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Sharp Sr. of Frederica, and Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Bostic of Greenwood, spent Sunday at Riverview Beach. R. W. Bennett, Harry Sipple, Jr. and Woodrow Krouse were in Philadelphia Sunday.

Masten's

Louise Edwards, Hollandsville, spent last week here with Emily Ann Morris.

Edgar Kates Jr. has purchased a new Plymouth.

Leroy Betts spent the weekend with Alvin Jarrell.

Mrs. Lillie Blades and grandson, Joseph Alcorn, attended the picnic given by the Clover Leaf Farm Stores, near Betterton Beach Sunday.

Sunday was an outstanding day for the writer, Alice Minner, as I had the pleasure of hearing a sermon at the Trinity Church, in Harrington, by a former schoolmate, Rev. Robert S. Hodson, a native of Felton.

When I returned home Mr. and Mrs. Edward Koff, now of Wilmington, called on me. Edward was one of my pupils when I taught school in 1908 at a little county school house called "Potash," which was about four miles west of Harrington. A little later I had another surprise when Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Everett, Sparks, Nev., Mr. and Mrs. George Kernell of Westfield, Pa., and Robert Hill, Elmira, N. J. called on me. Mrs. Everett and Mrs. Kernell were the former Misses Mazie and Anna Hill, who attended school at this place when I was the teacher in 1911. As time passes I often wonder what my work as a teacher has accomplished, but when the pupils come back to visit, I guess it was not in vain.

Mr. and Mrs. Amos Minner called on Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Hayes and Mrs. Lydia Morris Sunday afternoon. Mrs. Morris a grand old lady of 92, seems to be in good health.

Frederica

Three observations this week cause us to feel uneasy about the future: (1) News item that chemists can speed up basic life process by making sugar and starch through sun's action on leaves; (2) News item that reactor stations in Idaho and elsewhere are testing the possibility of creating fissionable material faster than it is consumed; (3) Some local merchants doled out sugar in 2 lb. and 5 lb. lots—sometimes in plain paper bags and with secrecy.

The hoarders here and throughout the nation, who are responsible for the run of sugar and other food staples, are more dangerous to us than chemical and physical advances. The advances can be wiped out by human ignorance which is the most potent "Breeder Pile" of fear and panic.

Mrs. Lester L. Carlisle, Sr. accompanied her son, Lester L. Carlisle, Jr., of Wakefield, Mass., to Baltimore. Mr. Carlisle is on a business trip. Prior to leaving for Baltimore he spent a week here.

Mrs. Kate Boone has returned from her sons home near Smyrna. Mrs. Hettie Palmer was a Sunday dinner guest of her grandson, Alton Palmer and family.

Last week Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Wilson spent two days at their Frederica residence. Fredericans are enjoying the renewing of association with Mrs. David E. Wood, wife of the late Frederica pastor who was so beloved by the community. After spending some time here with Mrs. Alonza Morris, Mrs. Wood will go to her daughters in Chicago.

An appreciative congregation heard Rev. John R. Diehl's Sunday morning sermon, "Christ's Appropriation of Unmeasured Devotion."

At the service, the pastor announced the change in the church calendar for August. The mid-week Prayer Fellowship hour of Thursday evening will be discontinued, to be resumed early in September. He suggested that parishioners set aside the hour for private prayers and meditations. This is an aid to the coming conference wide Evangelistic mission in September and October.

No morning service the Sundays of the 13, 20, and 27. Solicitation made by the young people for the Steward's fund resulted in the collection of $90.

Mr. and Mrs. Watson H. Dodd, of East Orange, N. J., were town visitors Wednesday.

Miss S. Helena Case is reported to be improving at Milford Memorial Hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph M. Flanagan have been entertaining Mrs.

Flanagan's mother, Mrs. Mary Stubbs, of Cleo, S. C.

Mrs. I. W. Betts, Sr. returned from Babcock Lake and Albany, N. Y. where she was visiting her son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. I. W. Betts, Jr.

Recent callers at McQueen's Rest Home were: Donald Morrow, of Dover, Mrs. L. D. Morrow of Felton, Mr. and Mrs. Waller of Wilmington. They visited Mr. L. D. Morrow and Mrs. Mae Williams.

The town takes pride in the fact that Miss Leona E. Kelley, a member of the chorus of the Longwood Gardens, open air theatre, appeared with the group when it presented the operetta "Tom Jones."

Frederica Volunteer Fire Company held a fire drill Thursday. It will entertain Kent County Volunteer Firemen's Association, Aug. 16. The Ladies Auxiliary will serve supper at 7:30 p. m., prior to the business meeting.

Frederica baseball club visited Hickman Sunday and won the first game of a double header by a score of 2 to 1. Hickman held a 1 to 0 lead until the sixth inning when Frederica put across 2 runs.

Rain terminated this game and the second of the double header. Jack Moore of Frederica and Walls of Hickman pitched excellent ball, each allowing only four hits in six innings.

Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Dernburger are parents of a son, born Sunday in Milford Memorial Hospital. Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Bostic had dinner Sunday with Arthur M. Melvin, Sr.

Mrs. Arthur M. Melvin returned Monday from Denton where she has been spending three weeks with her son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Melvin Jr. and their two sons.

Miss Elizabeth Jane Gerow has been entertaining Miss Carey, who is a Wheelock College classmate, at the Rehoboth summer home of her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. William W. Wilson. Miss Carey is from Connecticut.

Of Local Interest

Mr. and Mrs. L. H. Rogers spent Friday in Wilmington.

MODESTY—AND HUMOR

We like Frankie Gustine, Birdie Tebbett and Puddin' Head Jones—because we like modesty and a sense of humor.

Gustine, who recently was released after a term of ten years in big league baseball, modestly admits: "I never was much of a hitter, so if I had even a little batting slump, I wasn't much good to a team."

Tebbets, who is a good, dependable catcher, and has been for years, finally was selected to catch in the All-Star Game. "I've always wanted to catch in one of these games," he said, but for years I knew I never had a chance, for I know that I wasn't able to even carry Bill Dickey's glove.

"Puddin' Head" Jones says of his team-mate and room-mate, Del Emnis: "Looks like Del would give me more chances to drive in runs. Instead he comes to bat before me and drives in all the runs." In a recent game, where the Phils won but "Puddin' Head" was at bat four times without a hit, he said to another player who likewise had gone hitless: "Our boys finally drove their pitcher from the mound, and I guess it was because you and I wore him down."

Now that the store has re-stocked on the item, a story may be told to illustrate the folly of glancing at the scare headlines in the newspapers and then selfishly rushing out and trying to buy up all the scarce articles in sight—or under the counter. A man came running into the Collins Clothing Store two weeks ago and said he wanted to buy some overalls—all they had in stock. He was told that many of them would not fit him, but he insisted that he wanted the complete lot. Some of them were of odd sizes and hard to sell and the merchant was glad to get rid of these. After the fellow had carried his purchases away, the puzzled merchant turned to some other customers and asked them if they had any explanation of the fellow's queer behavior. "Here's a newspaper the bird left," said one of them. "Maybe it will give us a clue." It did. Big black type streamed across the top of the front page: "Bernard Baruch Asks For Overall Control."

HARRINGTON—HARNESS HORSE HEAVEN

Any town can become famous, with a good press agent—and, with characteristic modesty, we admit that we are it.

Have you ever heard of Hamtramck or Muskegon? If you live very far from Michigan, the chances are a hundred to one that you haven't—but who hasn't heard of Kalamazoo? And yet they are towns of about the same size, in the same state. The only difference is that Kalamazoo had a press agent in the form of a stove manufacturing company, and stoves were shipped all over America bearing the slogan: "From Kalamazoo to You."

Ozark, Missouri, has been publicized in almost every magazine and daily newspaper in America as "The Oasis In The Drought of Hunger" because a hotel there serves practically every item of food produced in the temperate zone, all you can eat—for 50c. The town has about twelve hundred population and this hotel feeds about twelve hundred daily.

There's an almost-abandoned frontier town in Arizona. In pioneer days so many men met violent deaths there that the town was given the weird name of Tombstone. A weekly newspaper published there is the most famous weekly in America—not because of its merit, but because it bears the appropriate name of "The Tombstone Epitaph."

There's a nice little town between Pennsville and Atlantic City. Its name suggests a gawky, fuzzy-faced, gossinvoiced boy, Elmer. Its citizens were provoked by hundreds of tourists shouting as they passed through the town "Where's Elmer?" Someone in Elmer has wit, wisdom, vision and a keen appreciation of the value of publicity, for now, at each entrance to the town they have erected huge signboards: "HERE'S ELMER!"

New York State has hundreds of cities and towns. Yet, with the exception of New York City; Albany, when Dewey is running; Brooklyn, when its bums are winning and its tree is growing, the most frequently mentioned place in the Empire State is the little town of Goshen—The Hambletonian!

Harrington is well on its way to being known in almost every nook and quite a few crannies of America. We published a brochure, "Hosses, Hosses," which has had a wide circulation, and the famous Clem McCarthy, greatest of all racing commentators and announcers, has bought a number of these little booklets and sent them, with personal cards of greetings to some of the most famous names in America. Quoting from the booklet, Clem televised from Roosevelt Raceway this past Saturday night: "This horse comes from Harrington, Delaware, the horstiest town in all the world. If you can't talk horse language in Harrington, just as well get out of town, for the people won't understand you." That broadcast was heard from coast to coast.

While attending a meeting of Rotary International in Detroit, Mich., recently a man glanced at the badge worn by Cliff Miller: "From Harrington, Delaware," he exclaimed, "the harness horse capital of the world."

We have a restaurant here named "The Bridle Bit." We used a little imagination in our booklet in saying that another restaurant is named "The Oat Bin" and another "The Feed Trough," while one catering almost wholly to the nocturnal trade is named "The Nightmare." Let our restaurants adopt those names and place signs along Route 13.

Then it's up to our commercial and service organizations to place big signs at each entrance to the town, on Route 13 proclaiming: "HARRINGTON — HARNESS HORSE HEAVEN."

Horsemen spend hundreds of thousands of dollars yearly in Harrington. With proper publicity and cooperation, they will spend much more—and tourists from all over will make brief stops to visit the "crazy horse town."

OF FROGS AND MEN

(Suggested by Aesop's Fables)

King Solomon sat all alone Upon his jade and jasper throne And imprecations uttered. His jester told with loud guffaw A moss-grown joke and Sol was raw—"There's nuthin' new," he muttered.

King Solomon was wise, you see: Turn back the page of history, Turn back time's hoary tables Unto the glory that was Greece When Jason sought the Golden Fleece And learn from Aesop's Fables.

A cow stood by a river's brink And slowly waded out to drink, Then paused there to discover Upon an ancient mossy log A badly frightened little frog

Who rushed for home and "muvver." "The biggest beast I ever saw— It's bigger than the devil, maw!" Said maw: "Hallucination! I won our bridge club's highest prize And no one else is half my size— It's downright fabrication.

Was it as big as this?" she cried, And then swelled out her flabby side And durned night ruint her figger; She strained each muscle, tendon, thew As frogs (and politicians) do,

But still the kid yelled "Bigger!" "Was it as big as this?" she yelled; Again she swelled—and swelled—and swelled, Despairing and disgusted, Until the straining taxed her heart, Her re-capped giridle fell apart— And then, by heck, she busted!

Is memory a thing so frail We cannot learn from Aesop's tale What makes a firm foundation? Then heed ye, frogs, and heed ye, men, Things always happen like that when We monkey with I-N-F-L-A-T-I-O-N!

IT'S HOARDING THEY SAY

by Samuel Short, Jr.

Some people say that food is not short Because hoarding is what they want to start. Nylon hosiery, sugar, and soap they start to buy, I need this and that they begin to cry.

There'll be plenty for all and food stuffs to buy. Nylon hosiery, sugar and soap is our standby.

So don't forget when you hear others say I'll buy this and that and more today.

Don't forget our boys who are fighting a war. Who are trying to live and gain a star By living in hell and misery To make our country safe for democracy.

Their time will come when their day is done With the price of freedom and the war is won.

So watch out you, and say to yourself, I'll stop this hoarding and being an elf.

I'll get only what I need and nothing more

I'll help my boy and even help yours And talk to others whenever I can, And show them it's fine for me to be a man.

They drive prices high soon as they begin to buy. This causes dissatisfaction and they want to know why. That is the reason it's too bad to say So don't be a hoarder, be satisfied with what you can get today.

Sussex 4-Hers Make Fair Exhibit

Approximately 300 4-H exhibits were shown at the Kent-Sussex Fair last week by Sussex County 4-H members, according to Sam Gwinn, county 4-H agent. Exhibits were made in all project fields, which included clothing, canning, foods, room improvements, poultry, swine, field crops, dairy and gardening.

Six Sussex County 4-H girls participated in the State Dairy Foods Demonstration Contest. They were: Winnie Calloway and Patty Hitchens Greenwood; Delores Bostick, Ellendale; Emma Lou Trost, Seaford; Betty Lee Cannon, Dublin Hill, and Grace Warrington, Georgetown. Demonstrations were based upon any subject relating to the preparation, manufacture, or use of dairy products in the home. Grace Warrington of Georgetown was selected the individual state winner and will receive a standard American make 17 jewel gold watch as an award for her efforts. Betty Lee Cannon of Dublin Hill, was chosen the third place winner in the state.

Jackie Ray, of Bridgeville, was selected as the state 4-H winner in the National Junior Vegetable Growers Contest. The contest was based upon the number of individual entries, placings won, and a vegetable judging contest. He will be eligible to attend the National Contest held in New Orleans in December.

Martin Johnson, of Laurel, was the second high scoring individual in the State 4-H Dairy Judging Contest. As a result of his score he will be a member of the State 4-H Dairy Judging Team. This team will also include Purnal Friedel, of Kent County, and Lewis Phipps, of New Castle County. These boys will represent Delaware at the Atlantic Rural Exposition in Richmond, Va. this fall.

Ten-Ton Tomato Contest Still Open

Farmers who have three or more acres of tomatoes have been urged to sign up for the 1950 Delaware Ten-Ton Tomato yield contest. Watch your tomatoes. If you think they will give ten tons or more per acre see your county agricultural agent and sign up before August 15.

According to Robert F. Stevens, Delaware Extension Horticulturist, about twenty farmers have entered so far this year. About fifty more entries are expected as yields become more certain.

At the end of the season a certificate will be awarded to all those who reached the ten-ton goal. There are prizes for the three highest producers. Farmers can enter in the class of 3-8 acres, or 8 acres or more.

The only requirements are that fields be in the state of Delaware, all acreage on the farm must be included, and proof of yield presented. There are no entry fees.

The contest is sponsored by the Delaware Ten-Ton Tomato Club in cooperation with the Agricultural Extension Service in Newark. Application blanks are available at all county agents' and canners' and buyers' offices.

Destroy Ragweed Before It Blossoms

It's ragweed season again, and with it comes hay fever and asthma suffering. Ragweed pollen causes 90 per cent of all hay fever cases, so it's best to destroy it now, says Robert F. Stevens, extension horticulturist at the University of Delaware.

Both common and giant ragweed blossom in middle August and on into September. You can prevent the flowers from ripening and shedding their pollen by:

- 1. Pulling the plant up by the roots. 2. Cutting it off close to the ground. 3. Spraying it with a chemical weed killer.

Ragweed is found along roadsides, in vacant lots, in fence rows, and other places where the ground it not often cultivated.

The chemical, 2, 4-D, has proved to be an effective ragweed killer. One spraying will usually do the job. Use about 1 1/2 pounds of acid equivalent 2, 4-D per acre, says Mr. Stevens. For smaller amounts mix according to the directions on the package. This material will also damage shrubs, flowers, and trees. The fine spray drifts with the wind and injures other broadleaved plants. Use 2, 4-D with caution. Some other weed killers which do the job contain ammonium sulfamate, sodium chlorate, or sodium penta-chlorophenate. The local county agent can supply the trade names. Although these materials are contact weed killers like 2, 4-D, they are less dangerous to nearby plants.

WHEELER RADIO STORE NEWS

When I got ready to write this little letter I looked out of the window and saw a large load of slab wood. That was enough to remind me that cool weather is only about 8 weeks off and they had foresight enough to prepare for this time. That reminds me that we have several new and used oil burning heaters and if you are going to be in the market for one it will pay you to stop in and see them.

Some of them have forced draft and they come in mighty handy when that day or night is extra cold. It is no more than what I expected on receiving my mail and opening it I find prices of television sets have advanced about twenty dollars and still looks like they will get another boost in taxes.

I have put out several television sets in the past ten days and they are very satisfactory so if you are waiting for one I would be glad to install one for you. Of course there are several makes on the market probably some names that you have never heard of but rest assured when you get a PHILCO you are getting one we all know is the best.

I am not getting as many as I can sell but I do get my share. So if you want one of these remarkable sets drop in and see me. Many months to pay.

The past few weeks has about depleted our stock of washers, both automatic and wringer types. I have a few automatics that just came in and expecting some new Maytag wringer type any day so if you are in need of a washer now is a good time to make a direct call at Wheeler's and have it delivered.

I again want to call your attention to the fall that is fast creeping up on us and when we are kept in the house more than we are now, that house should be bright and cheerful. That can easily be arranged by having the face of your walls uplifted. A little wall paper of the right shade will really work wonders and then when you sit down you can see how much more cheerful that room looks. Paper isn't expensive and it only takes just a few hours to make this remarkable change. Come in, we are always glad to help you in any way.

We have a few refrigerators left and a mighty few as we have sold many more than I really expected. So if you want one now is the time to get it. Have the promises of some more this coming week. You know Philco and Westinghouse are large manufacturers but their products are in such demand that they cannot keep up with demand. I am telling you this because the public is the buyer and believe me today people look around before buying and that is why we are selling them almost as soon as they arrive.

I haven't said much about the park this year as others are beginning to enjoy and appreciate it and there has been several write ups about it. The summer will soon be over and I am wondering if you have been there to enjoy it. It is a nice place to take the family at no expense whatever as it is all free. There are two good roads leading to and from it also a place to stay if it rains. Talk Peace Not War. We are pushing forward.

Houston

Sunday School at 10 a. m. There is room for all, so come out and enjoy the interesting services. There will not be any preaching services, neither morning or evening, till the first Sunday in September. Rev. and Mrs. Grant are having a vacation.

The official board of the Houston M. E. Church will hold its regular meeting Monday night. All members are requested to be present.

It was decided to hold the annual Sunday School picnic in Wheeler's Park, Harrington, the date to be named later.

Willow Grove

I would like to take this space to apologize publicly to John C. Moore and his wonderful wife who has been confined to the hospital in Wilmington and later brought to the Kent General in Dover. I knew of her illness and of her condition of health from time to time but I failed to note it in my letter from which her friends and relatives may have been kept somewhat posted. At this writing her condition is very good and we hope she will be home with us in the near future.

Mr. and Mrs. M. True Frasher were visitors of Mrs. Frasher's relatives in Ohio recently. It was quite a pleasant trip and much enjoyed.

Master Harry Voshell was with his grandmother, Mrs. Milton Kemp, over the weekend.

Dawson Shulties, Amos Hurd and Hampton Kemp with skipper John Clark from Essington, Pa., tried the salt water fishing Sunday. A nice boat ride and 2 porgies. Better luck next time fellows.

Most of our Sunday School attended the Sunday School picnic held at Garland Lake and everyone seemed to enjoy themselves very much.

W. O. Cabbage is carrying around a very seriously injured left thigh. The injury occurred last Monday evening and was caused by a kick of his horse. The improvement thus far is negligible. William Frasher and wife accompanied by his mother, Annie R. Frasher, attended the services at the London Tract Primitive Baptist Church Sunday. On the way home they visited Alexander F. Meredith at Smyrna and report his condition about as usual except his sight that is now considerably impaired.

We congratulate Mr. and Mrs. Victor Golden upon the birth of an 8 lb. 15 oz. son. Both mother and son are doing fine.

Observations indicate that Robert Valdesere has about completed his new home and we welcome him and his family into our midst.

To her many friends we can report that Mrs. Clara Wessel is improving and we hope it is lasting. One of our former residents, Herbert C. Glanden, is convalescing in the Kent General from an operation for appendicitis.

Mrs. J. Wesley Reynolds and children, Doris and James, of St. Georges, were recent visitors at the home of W. O. Cabbage.

Mr. and Mrs. Herman Seward had a family reunion and dinner Sunday in honor of the marriage of their son, Russell. Most of the family was present.

Rev. and Mrs. Walter Ott, of Baltimore, were Sunday evening guests of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Larrimore.

The farmers are well pleased with the prospects of a good corn and soybean crop.

Even though the game between Farmington and Leipsic was rained out in the fifth inning, the score was tied at 2-2.

Kathy Lord, of Washington, D. C., is spending a two-weeks vacation with Mr. and Mrs. William C. Gray.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard Brick, of Jersey City; Robert Parremore and John Cromwell, of Brooklyn, spent several days with Mr. and Mrs. David Grant in their summer home here.
