Two of our folks went clamming Tuesday, the catch was 4 clams. On Wednesday the same two persons Ralph I. Bell and W. O. Cabbage went back again into the same locality, they had better results, Mr. Bell 17, Cabbage 39. Mr. Bell has caught just 18 clams during his life time.

Mr. and Mrs. Lee Curry entertained a number of friends Thursday evening—a watermelon party—Rev. and Mrs. G. Leonard Taylor, Rev. and Mrs. Jones, of Florida, Mr. and Mrs. Maynard Nichols, and several others were present. Everyone spent a very pleasant evening and greatly enjoyed the generous servings of watermelon.

Several of our folks attended the Democratic rally held in the cafeteria of the Dover Schools on Wednesday evening. Everyone seemed to have a pleasant evening, a very good dinner, very well served, and were much enthused by what they heard from the various speakers present. According to the program furnished those present, several important personages were unable to attend.

W. James Cabbage and family, of Harrington, were visitors in our midst Wednesday evening. Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Cabbage and Master Clifford Dorsey Cabbage, of Newark, were local visitors of their relatives here and there Saturday. It was the young Master Cliff's first visit among his relatives and friends in this vicinity.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert G. Semans entertained Mr. and Mrs. W. James Cabbage, of Harrington, at Sunday dinner. Our fishermen of last Sunday tried again this Sunday. They took their mascot along this time, Mr. William Neidig. It worked—169 fish and nice ones too.

Some blight is appearing in our tomatoes and we also observe a rather light setting of fruit in plots nearby. Mr. and Mrs. Clayton Hurd have about completed another step toward the modernizing of their home.

We observe that Mrs. Alice Miner is the correspondent from Masten's. Maybe we better not relate too much, too many ages are involved. However when you have married children and grandchildren ages are a bit difficult to conceal.

Diseases Threaten Truck Crops in Delaware

Diseases on tomatoes, cantaloupes and lima beans are a serious threat to Delaware crops. This was announced by the plant pathology and horticulture departments of the University of Delaware after a survey of crops early in August. J. W. Heuberger, R. S. Cox, R. A. Hyre of plant pathology, and R. F. Stevens, extension horticulturist, made the survey.

The late blight disease on tomatoes was found in the Newark, Smyrna, Middletown, Dover, Camden, Wyoming, Bridgeville, and Laurel areas. All tomato growers are urged to spray or dust their crops from now until harvest. Recommended sprays are Dithane and Bordeaux mixture. A fixed copper dust or Dithane in dust form are advised by the university specialists. Applications should be made every seven days in wet, cool weather, and every ten days in dry weather.

Both downy mildew and macrosporium leaf spot have been found on cantaloupes. If wet, cool weather occurs downy mildew can completely destroy a field within ten days, says Dr. Heuberger. He advises Dithane, Zerlate, or a fixed copper for sprays or dusts. The downy mildew disease is also serious on lima beans. So far it has been found in the Milford, Slaughter Neck, Milton, Rehoboth and Bridgeville areas. Growers are advised to be ready to dust as soon as the disease is found. A ground duster is recommended.

The heavy rains of Aug. 2 and 3 aggravated the situation. Further rains and cool nights will bring about more disease damage, unless growers protect their fields with fungicides until harvest is over. New Drug Controls Blackhead in Turkeys. Enheptin, a new drug developed for the control of blackhead in turkeys, has been effective in controlling this costly disease, according to Silas L. McHenry, assistant extension poultryman. Field and laboratory tests have been conducted by Karl Seeger at the University of Delaware Substation, other colleges, and commercial laboratories. The drug is now available commercially and can be ordered from any feed dealer. Enheptin can be fed continuously as a preventive, or used to treat an outbreak of blackheads. One pound of Enheptin per ton is the recommended rate for continuous feeding. This costs several dollars per ton, but will be profitable where serious losses occur regularly.

For active outbreaks, two pounds of Enheptin per ton of feed is recommended. Feed the drug at this rate for two weeks, then follow with one week of feeding at the one pound rate. Turkeys should have Enheptin for another week after symptoms disappear, for the organism will live in the flock that long.

Enheptin will not cure advanced stages of blackhead and should never be used as a substitute for good management and sanitation, warns Mr. McHenry. Turkey poultis should be given to a poultry specialist for diagnosis if the disease is suspected. Other diseases may be confused with blackhead because of similar symptoms.

Enheptin can be fed with other drugs of control coccidiosis. According to the Food and Drug Administration, feeding of Enheptin must be stopped two weeks before slaughter, however.

Mrs. Ernest Simpson's condition is not up to par just at this time. So Mrs. Bertha Sapp Vienot is going to stay with her for a while. Our community indeed was very sorry to learn Mr. William Chism had passed away Wednesday morning. Mr. and Mrs. William Degnates attended the Laytex picnic given employees at Tolchester Saturday. The bean crop especially the early one seems to be quite profitable, as one hard working up to date farmer reported having realized $100 per acre. Also a tremendous corn crop is predicted all over the country. That is encouraging for the wheat and rye did not amount to much this season.

Miss Doris Sadowski and her room mate, Miss Robbie Stevens, spent the weekend at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Sadowski. Both girls are attending the summer session at the University of Delaware.

Miss "Dudde" Joeger, sister of Mrs. Al Sadowski, Jr., of Hot Springs, N. M., was a guest of Mr. and Mrs. A. Sadowski and daughter, Doris, last week. Dudde was elected a representative of New Mexico for the Girls Nation meeting held in Washington, D. C. Since this was her first trip east, she with the Sadowskis spent an exciting four days together touring.

For the Bathroom: The walls and woodwork of a bathroom will require two quarts to one gallon of paint for each coat—depending upon the size of the room. Gloss or semi-gloss enamel should be used because of the frequent presence of moisture and because of the desirability of washing wall surfaces at intervals.

Mrs. Harold Welker and son, of Lansdale, Pa., spent last week with Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Uher. Mr. Welker joined them for a weekend visit and they returned to Lansdale Sunday evening.
