

Local Lumber & Supply Co. Has Had Colorful Career-- Observes Anniversary

Firm Founded in Early 80's; Now Known is One of Largest Contractors in Lower Delaware

Few firms in this vicinity have the historical background of the Harrington Lumber & Supply Company, an enterprise, which, with its predecessors has played a prominent part in the growth of Harrington since the 80's.

Fulton J. Downing, Manager of Harrington Lumber & Supply Company, which is observing its eighth anniversary under present ownership.

The Harrington Lumber & Supply Company is celebrating its eighth anniversary, the firm having been purchased in Aug., 1942, from I. D. Short, at which time it was known as I. D. Short Lumber Company.

The original firm, located on Mispillion Street between Hanley and Commerce Streets, was started in the early eighties by the late John P. Masten and James A. Smith but later Masten bought out Smith.

On the present site of the Harrington Lumber & Supply Company was the basket factory of O. J. and William H. Franklin. According to W. W. Sharp, one of Harrington's historians, the Franklin brothers came here from New York state where they had been school teachers.

They first had a small factory along the track from the property until recently owned by W. D. Scott. They then moved into town. They invented the Franklin brace basket and employed many workers.

Getting back to the lumber business, Mr. Masten operated the firm until Aug. 1, 1912, when he sold it to Mr. Short, who still operates a similar business at Milford.

Besides selling building materials, the firm is also an agent for Diamond-T trucks. It handles Purina feeds and takes a prominent part in the broiler industry for which it has constructed many houses.

The firm has built residences also for Mrs. MacIntire (now owned by Albert Price); Mr. and Mrs. James Cain, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Willis, Woodside; Burton Smith, Charles Greenhaugh, Mrs. Geneva Sharp, J. William (Dick) Hollis, Milford; a two-apartment house for Mr. and Mrs. Paul J. Robertson, Rehoboth, and Paul Simpson. It also built the Clucky stables on U. S. 13.

Felton V. F. W. To Hold Horse Show Sunday

Members of the Adams-Simpler-Ware Post No. 6009 Veterans of Foreign Wars and its auxiliary are busy making final preparations for their fourth annual horse show which will take place Sunday at Senator Nelson M. Hammond's farm, one mile south of Felton, on U. S. Route 13.

According to Ola Brittingham, Jr. and Mrs. J. Barratt Simpler, chairman and co-chairman of the show, there will be 20 events starting at noon with a pony race. The rest of the events will include hunters, jumpers, three and five-gaited horses, walking horses, and ponies.

Flower Show Next Thursday

The program for the flower show which will be sponsored by the Ever Ready Class of Asbury Methodist Church School next Thursday promises to be one of interest.

A travelogue with moving pictures will be given by Mrs. Fulton Downing and her sister-in-law, Miss Catherine Downing, of Milford. Several musical numbers will be rendered and a children's number, "All Aboard for Blanket Bay," will be given by several tots with Miss Barbara Edwards as soloist.

Approximately 50 classifications of flowers in bloom at this season will be on display. Anyone, regardless of church affiliation, is invited to enter flowers in the show.

Homemade ice cream and cake will be sold at the conclusion of the program. A package table with wrapped gifts will be on sale in charge of Mrs. Jehu Camper and Mrs. Dewitt Tatman.

Bob Roberts Tells Rotarians About Saving Wildlife

Bob Roberts, of the Delaware Wildlife Commission, was the speaker at Tuesday evening's meeting of the Harrington Rotary Club.

Similar organizations in other states have done much to restore the depleted numbers in many game groups. As an illustration, not so many years ago Pennsylvania had practically no deer, but through proper conservation methods the state now has enormous numbers of the animals.

In Delaware particular attention is being paid to the muskrat population in order to reduce the population to such an extent that the natural feeding grounds will support it. Delaware at present has an estimated 600 deer.

In Delaware particular attention is being paid to the muskrat population in order to reduce the population to such an extent that the natural feeding grounds will support it. Delaware at present has an estimated 600 deer.

The commission is trying to induce farmers to plant waste lands to vegetation holding seeds throughout the winter, thus insuring an adequate food supply for the smaller animals and birds.

The federal government appropriates the bulk of the money for this work and the individual states also make contributions--but the ordinary taxpayer doesn't contribute to the total. The government's share of the funds is derived from excise taxes on guns, sporting goods and ammunition, the state's share, for the most part, in the sale of hunting and fishing licenses.

Mr. Roberts illustrated his talk with a twenty-eight-minute reel depicting the care of wild life in the national forests of the United States.

Bob McClain was program chairman for the evening.

Defense Entails Higher Taxes, Says Frear

United States Senator J. Allen Frear said this week that he regretted the necessity to increase federal taxes, but pointed out that defense requirements make such action essential.

In his weekly statement to the press and radio, Senator Frear said he realized how discouraging high federal taxes are to wage earners. "Taxes is an item close to everyone's heart whether he makes a very moderate or very large salary," Mr. Frear continued.

Senator Frear's remarks centered around the current tax legislation now under consideration by the full Senate. The bill, originally intended to provide for a reduction in excise levies, has been revised and now calls for an increase in federal taxes by about 4 and a half billion dollars.

In his discussion of the tax program, Mr. Frear declared that the government should: Endeavor to meet defense costs out of current taxes instead of adding to the national debt;

Provide a balanced system of taxation which makes a fair distribution of the tax burden among the different groups and individuals; Plug loopholes by taxing organizations now exempt, such as co-operatives which operate at a profit;

Eliminate war profiteering. In this connection, the Senator said, "It is inconceivable to me that any American would use this emergency as a basis for amassing excessive profits either out of government contracts or through strictly private enterprises."

Harrington Journal Pace To Highlight Opening Of Harness Meet Tonight

Feature Race Will Be Divided For a $1000-Purse -- Harrington Hardware Feature Tomorrow Night

Such outstanding horses as Blue-jacket, True Hal, Royal Sue, Sally Dean, Flo Napoleon, and Dublin are among the entries for The Harrington Journal Pace, a feature race for a purse of $1000, which will highlight the opening of the fall meet of the Kent & Sussex Racing Association here tonight.

Prospects look good for the 25-night meet, the earliest of all fall meets here. The pacers and trotters have been campaigning during the spring and summer and should be in good shape, with much racing under their surcingle. The performers are not coming unheralded, neither, as many of them have made a name for themselves on the East Coast and particularly on the Maryland circuit.

As The Journal goes to press, some 300 steeds are on the grounds, with more expected. The entry sheet, issued Wednesday, with scratch time and driver changes listed as 6:30 p.m. Thursday, lists these entries:

First Race -- classified trot, one mile, purse $400--Zombie, Chuck McElwyn, Proceed, Adept D, Rebelmite, Royal Blue, Jalapa, Gallant Heart. Also eligible, Spud Etawah, Buddy Boy, Atlantic McElwyn.

Second Race -- classified pace, one mile, purse $400 -- Bright Majesty, Doreen Hanover, Voland, New Deal, True Dust, Brunette H., Private Jeff, Miss Susie. Also eligible, True Peggy.

Third Race -- classified trot, one mile, purse $400 -- Spencer Allen, Roman Scott, Gregory Hanover, Kentucky Lee, Kathy Hanover, Biery Hanover, Joe Spencer, Strastorm. Also eligible, Bunter Hanover.

Fourth Race -- classified pace, one mile, purse $400 -- R. C. Grat-tan, Maryland Maid, Silver Meteor, Guy Simms, Neal Abbe, Defender, Tom O'Brien, Princess Gary. Also eligible, Fuzzy Tail.

Fifth and Seventh Races -- classified pace, purse $1000, The Harrington Journal Pace, two dashes, a mile and a mile and a sixteenth -- Bluejacket, True Hal, Royal Sue, Sally Dean, Flying High, Flo Napoleon, Dublin, Bonnie's Junior.

Sixth Race -- classified trot, one mile, purse $400 -- Draper, Moppit, Sidney Volomite, Guam, Janie Mite, Ruth's Guy, Johnny Brew, Chuck's Widower.

Eighth Race -- classified pace, one mile, purse $400 -- Prince Vonian, Nossidvad, Lovely Miss, Traxler's Princess Direct, Red Parker, Hob Nob, Symbol The Great, Vendome. Also eligible, Ethel Lady and April Day.

Ninth Race -- classified pace, one mile, purse $400 -- Prisco Pat, Flicka B, Gamble, Maxine's Kitty, Belladale, Topsy Scott, Midnight McKay, Governor Bonington. Also eligible, Martybert.

The quality of the performers at the meet here will be unusually high. Included will be Leo Hanover whom Eddie Myer drove to a mark of 2:04.1 at Ocean Downs recently for a Maryland trotting record for the mile. Incidentally, Myer will add to the excitement of the meet with his brilliant "Garrison" finishes. The Bridgeville boy, one of five brothers, all of whom are well known in harness racing, has been one of the top drivers on the Maryland circuit this spring and summer. He is known as a driver who knows how to rate a horse.

Tom Lewis will be back. One of the nation's leading drivers last year and also a top performer in the Maryland circuit this year, the Roxanna reinsman drove Job Stuart a mile and a sixteenth recently, setting a trotting mark of 2:15.2 at Ocean Downs.

Between 300 and 400 horses will be present, according to Racing Secretary George C. Enslin. Looking over the field one concludes that good horses "are thicker than attaches at the meeting of the Delaware legislature." Entries include: Baron Roscroft, Senator Rock, Billy N., Norman Hanover, Frisco Nique, Strastorm, Bold Salute, Dublin, Excell Call, Flying Fortress, Hob Nob, Hedgewood Fingo, Japonica Red, Joe's Run, David Spencer, Martybert, Neal Abbe, Prince Walter, Silver

Mrs. Sara Attix sang a special selection during the Sunday morning service, the number being "Your Rose May Have Thorns," Mrs. Edna Roe, assistant organist, was at the console and played as the prelude, "Meditation." The selection played while the offering was being taken was, "What A Friend We Have In Jesus" written in variation for the Hammond organ.

The lovely vase of mixed flowers placed in the church Sunday by the flower chairman, Mrs. Margaret Farrow, was sent to Mrs. C. F. Johnson, who is in bed suffering with inflammatory rheumatism.

Two Outstanding New Season Screen Hits Coming to New Milford Theatre

Two of the new show seasons top hits are scheduled for patrons of the New Milford Theatre starting today (Thursday).

His distinguished nose tilted at an outrageous angle, Bob Hope impersonates an English Earl in Paramount's laugh happy tenebrous comedy hit "Fancy Pants" now showing at the cool New Milford Friday and Saturday paired with his "Sorrowful Jones" leading lady, lovely Lucille Ball. The irrepressible Robert is said to give the funniest performance of his career.

"Our Very Own" Has Human Interest Plot

The plight of a girl who suddenly learns that she is an adopted child is strikingly treated in "Our Very Own" Samuel Goldwyn's production starring Ann Blyth, Farley Granger and Joan Evans.

Miss Blyth has the key role of a high school girl the oldest of three daughters of the typically American family of the Macaulays. The jealousy of one of her sisters played by Miss Evans leads to the crisis of the story and ensuing difficulties of the adopted girl in adjusting herself to her new status.

Howard Usilton, Mrs. Charles Willis and Mrs. Gertrude Kelley were called to the bed side of Mrs. Josephine Usilton, who is seriously ill at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Carl Haas, of Berwyn, Md.

Hoof Beats

Just a few days ago the nation's press carried a news story to the effect that Ralph Kroening, Milwaukee contractor and ardent horseman, had purchased a two-year-old trotter named Mainliner for $25,000 from S. F. (Sep) Palin of Indianapolis.

This sale not only marked the highest known price to be paid for a standard-bred horse this year, it also marked a turn of events that may prove to be a big loss to the sport of harness racing. With the sale of the juvenile colt by Worthy Boy-Sister Mary, went the last active connection of the veteran Sep Palin with the sport of light harness racing. He still has a colt named, Without Funds, that is not racing. He has already severed his connections with regular racing stables and although he says, "he may buy a colt or two this fall," it is hardly probable that he will ever again return to the turf as an active driver.

It was the canny Hoosier reinsman who drove the immortal Greyhound to a cluster of records and who still at this date holds the honor of giving more horses a "two-minute" record, along with Hugh (Doc) Parrish, than any other sulky pilot, past or present. Palin now says that he is going to Indianapolis and "take it easy for awhile" watching over his rather extensive farm property. Perhaps in his leisure moments he will hark back to his days of glory when he drove such outstanding stars as Winnepet, Star Etawah, Victory Song, Hoot Mon, Chief Abbedale, His Majesty and a host of other top ranking performers and get the itch to return to active participation. Most of his friends say he won't, time will only tell.

No Visual Proof

As is the accepted custom in the world of sports all record performances are presumably recorded on film, at least the Kodak variety.

Harness racing has an exception to this axiom.

When the great Greyhound set his record for the mile for trotters back in 1938 at Lexington, Ky. when he streaked across the line in 1:55 1/4 for a mark that still withstands all assaults, he did it in semidarkness as dusk was settling over the Red Mile. Photographers, as far as is known, were unable to get a picture of the historic feat due to the lowering shades of evening. Only one camera man on the scene, P. W. Moser, a camera and horse hobbyist, now dead, is believed to have snapped the picture but his picture and efforts resulted in a shot that is hardly discernable but at that can be recognized by those who were there as the authentic scene and visual record.

Dual Champion

Barring any error in records, there is only one standardbred horse known to hold a coveted "two-minute" record or better for both gaits of sulky speed, the trot and pace.

This fact was accomplished by Calumet Evelyn, a black mare by Guy Abbey-Marion Scott, generally driven in her appearance by Vic Fleming.

On Sept. 21, 1935 the beautiful lady of the turf trotted against time over the Big Red Mile at Lexington in 2:00. Four days later, attired in hobbles, she won a pacing race in the remarkable time of 1:59 1/4 to enter the "two-minute list" as a sidewheeler.

She was driven to both records by Vic Fleming who also drove the fastest standardbred of all time, Billy Direct, to his world pacing record of 1:55 just three years later over the same track.

Noted Organist To Give Recital At Denton

Music lovers of this vicinity will have an opportunity to hear one of the foremost organists in the country on Mon., Sept. 25, when the Music Committee of First Methodist Church, Denton, presents Dr. Rollo F. Maitland, F. A. G. O., of Philadelphia, in a recital on the Mary Ellen Dunning memorial organ.

Dr. Maitland, organist at the Church of the New Jerusalem, Philadelphia, and head of the organ department of the Philadelphia Musical Academy, is widely known as recitalist, teacher and composer. He appeared in a recital at First Church in Jan., 1949, and delighted the audience which filled the auditorium. Those who heard him at that time are eager to hear him again, and a rare treat is in store for those who were not present then.

The program which Dr. Maitland will present, which will be announced in detail later, includes both classical and modern compositions, some of them old favorites, much loved, and some of them new friends, but all of them lovely. They will display the many possibilities of the organ which Dr. H. A. Brown Dunning, of Baltimore, gave to the church some years ago in memory of his mother.

The hour set for the recital is 8 p. m. daylight time. As the seating capacity of the church is limited to about 275, tickets should be secured in advance if possible. They can be ordered by mail from Mrs. G. H. Rue, Denton.

Men With Dependents May Be Inducted

The state director of selective service, Douglas W. Troll, said last week that on the basis of recent news reports from Washington, it appears quite likely that when the GI Family Allotment Bill becomes law, the President will, if conditions appear to warrant it, lift the ban on the induction of men 19 through 25 with dependents. Troll further declared it seems likely to selective service, that if the Department of Defense wants to raise its military strength to a figure approaching three million men, then veterans of World War II between the ages of 19 and 26 may have to be inducted.

However, the present regulations do not allow the Selective Service system to induct married men, nor does the law permit the induction of veterans who qualify for Class IV-A.

Troll pointed out that there was still misunderstanding among veterans as to whether or not they are required to register. A veteran between the ages of 18 and 25, who may have completed previous service in the armed forces, is still obliged to register with his local Selective Service Board so that he can be classified. Many veterans who were registered under the old Selective Training and Service Act of 1940 which expired in 1947, are under the impression that they are still on file. Under the provisions of the Selective Service law which was passed in 1948, a man who reached his 28th birthday before Aug. 1 of this year is not registered, and therefore would not be in the present files. Such a man today is not required to keep in touch with Selective Service.

Thinking of the Long Pull?

Better Buy Buick!

If that car of yours has put its best days behind it, there's no time like right now to think about starting out afresh with a taut, new, up-to-the-minute motorcar with all its mileage still in it.

And there's no better place in the world to start than with the beauty pictured here, for a variety of reasons.

For one thing, this Buick SPECIAL is a quick-stepping Fireball valve-in-head straight-eight that's priced lower than some sixes.

For another, it's built with typical Buick ruggedness through and through—a husky that can take a lot of years without crying "Uncle!"

Then, too—this high-styled beauty is proving to be one of the most economical Buicks ever built—easy on gas, easy on upkeep, easy on you in its soft, floating, light-handling comfort.

It even comes with Dynaflo Drive* if you like—and Dynaflo means that you will never have to service or replace a friction clutch, and that rear-end or transmission servicing—even engine upkeep—are cut to a minimum.

*Standard on ROADMASTER, optional at extra cost on SUPER and SPECIAL models.

Of course, you can't see all of this in the brief span of a trial drive.

But you can experience the good solid feel of Buick strength beneath you. You can satisfy yourself on the lightness of the controls, the utter smoothness of Dynaflo, the quick surge of Buick's Fireball power.

All such things will tell you that this is a car you'll be glad to live with for a long time to come—and you need only to ask your Buick dealer for a demonstration to see precisely what we mean.

Why not call on him soon to talk about signing up?

The Republicans of Kent County held a meeting in the Richardson Hotel, Dover, last week, and while the War Board was discussing burning questions, a fire broke out, chasing all occupants of the hotel from the building. Spontaneous combustion or friction?

A minister from Lewes was the speaker at a service club meeting at Georgetown last week and despite the ukase from international headquarters of that service club, "Never Discuss Politics," the preacher made a political speech. He choose the hackneyed subject of "Free Enterprise," which is nothing but a Republican campaign subject. We are accustomed to hearing that Crawford Greenwalt, president of the DuPont Co.; J. C. Penney, of the Penney Stores; Richard Mellon, of the Mellon interests, and others of fabulous wealth, have used this subject, but howcome a preacher with a modest salary uses this stereotyped, misinterpretation? We suggest that the preacher stick to his scriptures and talk about Christ driving the money-changers from the temple.

THE SQUEALERS

A communist isn't the most contemptible thing in the world. The poor, half-baked mentality may have been brought up on that diet. The most contemptible vermin crawling upon the face of the earth is a communist who, when he is discovered to be a communist, denounces the ragged red legion and "squeals" upon his associates. Then irresponsible Americans will pay enormous sums to hear him lecture and magazines of misery will pay him well for his paens of perfidy. Pressman, Budenz and the most appropriately named of all, Shakespeare and Kipling notwithstanding, Wittaker Chambers!

Perfidious, parasitical penitents! Had Germany won World War II, hundreds of thousands of so-called Americans would have greeted the invaders with shouts of welcome and claimed all-time allegiance to the hordes of Hitler. By the same token, the "discovered" communists would welcome the vassals of vodka. Don't pay to hear them lecture. Don't pay them for magazine articles—place the whole "kit and bilin" behind the bars—or send them to Russia for the rest of their natural lives, which wouldn't be long.

SANDY, THE SANDPIPER

We admire the sandpiper, that energetic little patrol of the beach. He, of all the creatures we have seen, works most ardently for his living. He is on the beach night and day, grabbing minute particles of marine life to stave off the pangs of hunger. He follows the tide as it recedes and back-tracks with the speed of Mercury before an incoming wave. He is much like Marty Marion when a ball is hit over his head or far in front of him. During the day, he is a Nazimova dancing between the waves; at night, when only the whiteness of his breast is visible, a blur of cotton blown about upon the beach.

We were watching the fascinating sandpiper during a recent sojourn at Cape May. We complimented them to a bystander and he dourly questioned: "What good are they? I've never heard of anybody eating one of them." Evidently Sandy Sandpiper, the sage of all sandpipers, overheard this snide remark, for he turned and withered our companion with a look of scorn. "What good are men?" asked Sandy. "I've never heard of anybody eating one—with the exception of another so-called human being—a loan shark."

We learn from that excellent paper, the State Register of Laurel, that the Jones family is to hold a reunion down in Sussex County. Where are they going to park all their cars? After all, Sussex has only a limited area of square miles.

BUSINESS MEN HAVE CONDUCTED THE BUSINESS OF THE WORLD

A recent speaker before the Harrington Rotary Club said that business men are better qualified than our present so-called statesmen to bring peace to the world!

With a few exceptions, businessmen have ruled the world since the regime of the cavemen—and are ruling it today. Ask any child of school age about Roger Bacon, and he will remain as dumb as an oyster in an off-R month, but he's read about Croesus—and Midas!

Remember the regime of the Rothschilds in Europe—but let's get back home. Beginning with the Grant administration, the most lamentable in all the history of the United States, and up until Theodore Roosevelt's day, business men ruled America. Vanderbilt was given millions of acres along the right-of-ways of his railroads to the Middle West—but he had to contribute to the campaign funds. New England textiles manufacturers were lavish contributors to the same fund, and in exchange for an impassable tariff wall, they ruled the nation. Read Van Wyck Brooks' "New England Indian Summer."

After Theodore Roosevelt, Andrew Carnegie contributed $50,000 to help elect William Howard Taft as president. Just a short time before, Carnegie had paid an agency $1.00 per head for laborers from Poland. These were housed in huts and hundreds of them died as a result of a plague. Later, when the workmen objected to the starvation wages, the Pinkertons rode them down and slaughtered many of them in the strike at Homestead, Pa. After Carnegie had made his contribution to the Taft campaign fund, the talented Richard Lawrence Metcalfe wrote a poem—and it should be remembered—"But Those Who Died at Homestead Paid The Bill."

Business men are business men—come hell and high water—they are business men. Some are on the level, and others invented the pretzel. Statesmen? Some are statesmen, and others are peewees trying to roost in eagles' nests—but good are bad, we'll take them in preference to the business men.

Practically any home in America has a dictionary—just as it has a Bible. About the only time these books are used is when some member of the family is turning through the leaves looking for a stamp or a misplaced letter. Bradley Foster consulted his dictionary almost every day and frequently several times daily. He had been appointed County Superintendent of Schools a short time before and was consulting his dictionary when another teacher entered the office. This teacher had wanted the job of County Superintendent and, in mock surprise, perhaps not unmixed with sarcasm, exclaimed: "What? The County Superintendent of Schools consulting the dictionary?" "That," replied Foster, "probably explains why I am County Superintendent."

Westbrook Pegler calls Walter Winchell a gents'-room journalist and Winchell calls Pegler a louse in the house of journalism. For the first time in our life we agree with both those fellows.

Truthful James—Not from Table Mountain—Accomplishes Greatest Aquatic Feat in All History

The press association flashed this electrifying news all over the world just a few minutes before we went to press. Since the Harrington Journal sponsored James' swim from Cape May to Rehoboth, we are privileged to give our readers the intimate inside story of this epoch-making event:

On Monday morning of the last week, though the tides were strong against him, Truthful James began his historic swim. There were last-minute instructions from his trainers, the Gentleman from Sussex and Humid Horace. Horace urged Truthful James to drink a fifth of Three Feathers before starting, arguing that the feathers would keep him afloat, but James wisely rejected this plea. He did, however, accept the suggestion of the Gentleman from Sussex to write a minute-to-minute description of his epoch-making journey while swimming and took along for this purpose some water colors and water-marked paper.

Following is a play-by-play account of this epic journey, written, with the exception of the last paragraph, while Truthful James was at sea:

"My trainers had groomed me to start the swim Tuesday morning, but Ernest Tubbs started singing on a juke box on Monday and I couldn't stand it—so I plunged into the waters—with the tides against me. The going was rough, but sometime in the night I approached what I knew to be a stretch of beach between Lewes and Rehoboth, and a most offensive scent drove me back into the sea for relief. I could not at the moment determine the source of that offensive smell and, indeed, I am yet uncertain, because there is a fish rendering plant at Lewes and a political meeting was in session at Rehoboth. Someone on the shore was singing 'Irene, Goodnight.'

"I was buffeted about by strong seas and it must have been two or three nights later that I approached a strand of gleaming lights. I thought I must be back at Rehoboth again, for they were still telling Irene goodnight. However, from the jargon of the people on shore I learned that I was just off the coast of Barbadoes Island, on the northern tip of South America.

"Once, far out in the ocean, the waters were calm and the going was easy. Suddenly the waves parted and a fellow wearing a queer looking sort of hat plumped out and grinned at me. 'Davey Jones—straight up from the Locker,' he announced. He had a musical instrument resembling a ukulele and made from a dried flounder with an octopus' tentacles for strings. 'Heard the latest, kid?' he grinned, and began to play and sing 'Irene, Goodnight.'

"Again I swam away. I drifted and drifted, conserving my strength. A long time afterward the tide, or a whimsical eddy, carried me up between narrow banks and just as my feet touched ground I heard someone threatening to meet Irene in his dreams. I was preparing to walk ashore when shadows emerged from deeper shadows and a coarse voice grunted: 'You're not going to set one foot upon dry land until you tell us whether you're going to vote for Cap or Vera.' 'Where in the heck am I?' I asked. 'You are, said a short chunky shadow with an important air, 'in St. Jones River, near Dover, Delaware.'

"I swam away, but as I swam, I learned that Irene still hadn't gone to bed. Out in the main water again, I was tired, very tired, and whether it was dream or delirium I shall never know, but it seemed to me that an "out of tuna fish" was singing 'Irene, Goodnight.'

"On I went for hours and hours. Rehoboth seemed remote and Cape May far away. Finally, a mountainous wave engulfed me. I thought I had seen big waves before, fierce waves, strong waves, but never had I seen one like this. I swam straight up that wave, hour after hour. I'd get pushed back several feet, but I'd regain lost territory and swim straight up again. It was like swimming up a water-spout. After what seemed an eternity to me, although it couldn't have been more than two or three days, I conquered that straight-up wave and was cast ashore. 'Funny looking sucker, ain't he?' said a fellow standing on the bank. 'It ain't a sucker,' said another; 'looks more like a carp.' 'It has to be a sucker,' said the first one, 'for nobody but a sucker could swim up Niagara Falls.'

Letter to the Editor

Correspondents do not always agree on the editorials of the paper they write for, and the editors do not always agree with the writings of the correspondent. But this correspondent noted the editorial of last week's Harrington Journal titled "No Juvenile Delinquents" with more than casual interest.

Today our young people attend educational programs where the subject of delinquency is often raised. On all sides they hear that it should be called "Parent Delinquency." That it is not through any fault of the child, but the parents and the home, when one goes wrong.

Most of us came up with the sting of a good spanking, a hair brush or a paddle and fear of these made us obey our parents. Today these methods are not considered human. Instead we should ask our children to obey, and then beg them when they refuse.

If one commits an error many say the parents and the home are to blame, yet—when an adult does the same thing no one would think of blaming his family or his home for causing him to commit the wrong deed.

The phrase "Spare the Rod and Spoil the Child" could be re-phrased, "Spare the Rod and You May Raise a Delinquent" and still be true. For, the old-fashioned "wood shed" has not produced a generation of adult delinquents, but our modern idea that only "cruel beasts" whip their children, is producing a generation of Juvenile Delinquents.

A more broadminded view on the subject of Juvenile Delinquency is needed instead of the narrow-minded one which exists today. The editorial in last week's Harrington Journal was a fine example of this.

Squint's Drumming For Fair Play!

Squint Miller's mighty proud of the lot he owns that fronts on River Road—one of the prettiest spots around here.

He's been in a stew about it lately, though. Seems that trash-dumpers take one look at his property, stop their car or truck, and out goes a load of rubbish, spilling all over his place and the roadside, too. Wouldn't that make you mad?

Last night Squint dropped by the house. Over a friendly glass of beer, he tells me what he's done. "I put a couple of empty oil drums out there," he says, "with a big sign reading: 'If you must dump trash—use these—I like to keep my property clean!'"

From where I sit, Squint's sign should make any would-be roadside trash-dumpers pretty darned ashamed of themselves. Now and then some folks just have to be reminded that they ought to have as much regard for their neighbors' rights as they do for their own.

KAPITAL KOMENT

Dear Folks:

I promised to tell you a bit of our conflag about these year platforms this week but I specs I'll hafta cut it short sum caus so much be a goin on I kain't keep up with all of it.

Anyhow my naybor sed our folks wuz a goin for a Supreme Court now sense the Democrats had got one vote er sumpin tuk an they haft to have one more to make it good an then he wuz a wonderin if Carvel could find him nuff peopel hear in Delaware to git im that kinder court an whether they'd be de qualitie for such big jobs.

An he sed to that after 4 years of ranglin an fussin with that woman bout this here welfair work Mr. Killoren dun stole her thunder an rit it in our platform. How cum they wouldn't do it afore this? Coars I couldn't help im out any caus I didn't no bout it.

Another thing he talked a site about wuz the educatin of the colored kids, sed we never sed a word bout there skules an had let the Democrats steal the show. I just laffed at im an tole him it didn't make any change in there parents caus they'd vote for us anyhow an our folks need it soz they'd just let the Democrats say what they wuz goin to do an make sum of there folks soar

Also he talked a little bit bout this er labor situshun an who dun what last session an he sed they sure made a monkie out of Ole Jim Evans butt Boss Harvey had him a hand in that to so why blame Uncle Jim.

Say folks I wanta tell you, Mar-the cum home over Labor day an she brung them Sunday Star papers with her. Them whats got the pictures in em bout there convenshun in the field house a while back. Well sir Emmy wuz about when she brung them in an when Emmy seed thatur with Carvel aasetin on the jack's back she nigh had hysterics. I axed her what wuz so funie bout it an she sed "Joe I shur be sprized at you fer axin; kain't you see nuttin funie in that picture?" I loved I didn't an she sed "You can shur tell now who is the biggest jack kain't ye?" I guess it be a fact they had a site of trouble with that Jack an he run true to Democratic form—just as stubborn as he could be an only learns the hard way.

I specs you all heerd them news bout the fire in that old hotel down Dover tother evenin. Well Anernias wuz atalkin bout it to day an he sed our folks wuz a havin a little meetin that same nite in the hotel, sumpin bout that woman be awantin a recount of them votes what beat her. Then he laffed perty hard an I axed him what wuz funie and he tole me they be havin em a hot arguement when they sot fire to the buildin an he heerd one of the fire fitters got to much smoke dont' no if it be smoke from the

The community extends sympathy at this time to Mrs. Vivian Millman in the loss of her mother Monday. Mary Ann Messick, of Milford, spent Monday with Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Messick, of Ellendale. Mr. and Mrs. Chester Brittingham, of Nassau, were Sunday guests of the Frank Vadakins. Mr. and Mrs. Frank Vadakin Jr. were Labor Day visitors. Ray Wooten is working at International Latex, Dover. Miss Jeanette Willey is working as a waitress at the Southern Grill, Milford. Katherine Jones, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Jones, was returned home after spending a week with relatives in Wilmington. Mr. and Mrs. Elwood Lynch were Milford visitors Sunday evening. Mr. and Mrs. Horace Willey and daughter, Jeanette, spent Saturday evening in Milford. Mr. and Mrs. Robert Ellingsworth and daughter, Connie, were Sunday evening guests of Mrs. Chas. Messick. Tom Fleming and Horace Willey enjoyed a clamming trip Sunday. Mr. and Mrs. Leon J. Fleming motored to Harrington Sunday evening. Mrs. Bessie Clark Harrison still remains on the sick list. Frank Schimpf, who is an employee of the Pennsylvania Railroad Co., spent the holidays with his family in Ellendale. The Ellendale firemen responded to a woods fire Monday evening on the farm of Enoch Donovan. Horace Willey and J. Banning, of Milford, motored to Galena, Md., on Labor Day. Mrs. Archie Ellingsworth and small son, Richard, were recent callers in town. A lovely bride was Miss Margaret Sennett, of Ellendale, as she walked down the aisle of the Union Methodist Church Friday evening on the arm of her father to be married to George Grover Knight, of Magnolia. After a honeymoon in New Jersey Mr. and Mrs. Knight will reside in Dover, where both are employed. Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Meredith attended the dance in Milford Saturday evening. Mrs. Joseph Short had her children as guests Sunday. Mr. and Mrs. Robert Ellingsworth have purchased another car.

Thomas Fleming still remains our champion when it comes to clamming. Beach parties and the reopening of school seems to be the main topics this past week of the young group. Willow Grove Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Taylor and daughters, Joyce and Patricia, spent the long weekend holiday with relatives and friends in and around Ashland, Va. Mr. and Mrs. Milton T. Frasher and sons, of Wilmington, were guests of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. M. True Frasher. Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Greenfield and sons, of Hyattsville, Md., were guests of Mrs. Greenfield's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Marion Frasher near our village. Mrs. Annie R. Frasher accompanied her daughter, Mrs. Greenfield, to the latter's home in Hyattsville, where she will spend a few days. M. Meredith Frasher left Tuesday to fill a position with the government at Aberdeen, Md. Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Lemp entertained guests from New York City over the holiday. Mrs. H. H. Smith has added another new car to the growing list of new automobiles around us. W. O. Cabbage and Mrs. Cabbage accompanied by their daughter, Joannetta, and granddaughter, Miss Charlotte Semans, were guests of Mr. and Mrs. J. Wesley Reynolds of St. Georges Sunday. At that time the nucleus of the annual reunion of the Cabbage family was formulated and a definite date for 1951 was set. The members present at this time were in addition to those heretofore mentioned, the Messrs. H. Cabbage Brown and Grover Brown, of Harrington; Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Cabbage, of Rehoboth; Mr. and Mrs. I. Hammond Cabbage and son, Clifford Dorsey Cabbage, of Newark. Other visitors present were: Mr. and Mrs. Byron Moore, of West Grove, Pa.; Mr. Moore being the oldest son of Benjamin Moore of this locality years ago and Mrs. Moore being the former Miss Mary Cameron. Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Swain, of New Castle, were also present. I am just informed that Rev. and Mrs. Walter Ott and family, Baltimore, were neighborhood visitors over the holidays and we would have it understood by all that these grand people are always welcome visitors in our midst at any time. The continued drought is not helping our crops a tiny little bit except the making of hay and enough rain fall has occurred to darken that somewhat. Poultry Tapeworms Are Controlled by Sanitation There is no satisfactory drug for the removal of poultry tapeworms, asserts Silas McHenry, University of Delaware Agricultural Extension Service poultryman, but sanitation measures help prevent its spread. Kamala was at one time considered an effective drug for use against poultry tapeworms, but late research has shown that kamala usually exists only a "shearing" effect, removing only part of the worm, he says. "To prevent the spread of tapeworm disease, the droppings of the fowls should be disposed of in such a way the known intermediate hosts of the parasite, such as beetles, ants, flies, slugs, snails, and earthworms, are kept from eating the eggs or segments of tapeworms passed in the droppings of infested fowls," he suggests. "Poultry should be prevented from eating the intermediate hosts which may be carrying larval stages of tapeworms. Prompt removal of droppings, keeping the yards and houses free of trash, boards, boxes, and other unnecessary objects, and the filling in or lining of damp places near feed and water vessels, which may serve as hiding or breeding places for the intermediate hosts, are valuable preventive measures. The plowing up of pens and seeding them to short-growing vegetation, rather than leaving them in a weedy, fallow condition, helps to reduce the number of ground beetles. If cows will not clean up hay or silage now, Young points out, two things may be wrong. The roughage may be poor or unpalatable, or the animals may be getting enough feed from other sources. "This is a critical time of year," the extension dairyman warns. "Keep a close watch on your herd. Liberal feeding of a good quality roughage now will yield greater returns than feeding it later. It costs money to save feed during this period." Stored Carrots After 30 weeks of storage, nine varieties of carrots contained more carotene, the basic material of vitamin A, than they contained before the storage period started, a recent government study showed.

Prevent Summer Slump In Milk Production Delaware dairy farmers have been advised to take several steps to prevent a summer slump in milk production by Delmar J. Young, Extension Dairyman at the University of Delaware. With pastures in a dried up condition, he recommends a liberal feeding of good quality hay and silage for the rest of the season. "Hay can be fed in a barn manger, or in a portable hay rack outside," says Young. "Several dairymen have been feeding hay in portable racks for some time as insurance against short pastures. Cows will graze on pasture first, but as it gets drier, they look for supplemental feed."

Hoof Beats

Members of the Illinois Harness Racing Commission, headed by E. J. Hayes, DuQuoin, Ill., can well be proud of the fact that their latest innovation requiring each pari-mutuel track under its jurisdiction to conduct at least one race nightly for Illinois owned or bred horses, has proved a definite benefit to horsemen and breeders of the state.

The most recent figures released this week by the commission, covering the current meeting at Sportsman's Park sponsored by Chicago Downs, indicate that Illinois owned or bred standard-breds have more than held their own on total wins and purse accumulation.

After 26 nights of racing at the south side plant Illinois horses have captured 47.7 per cent of the aggregate purses offered and have walked off with 116 wins out of 234 races for a percentage of 49.5 in the victory column. In addition to the wins, state owned or bred pacers and trotters have racked up 114 seconds, 132 thirds and 135 fourth places.

There have been 942 Illinois owned or bred sulky speedsters started out of a total of 1822 horses which figures indicate conclusively that the favored stock is taking advantage of the ruling and profiting thereby.

Envious Record

Wayne (Curly) Smart, Delaware, O. harness reinsman, has perhaps one of the most enviable records of any sulky pilot to have driven so far in the fast soaring Little Brown Jug, pacing classic for the nation's top three-year-old sidewheelers, staged annually at his home town in Ohio.

Since inception of the now famous "Jug" back in 1946 when it was won by Ensign Hanover, who incidentally was driven by Smart, the pipe smoking Buckeye has taken part in all ten heats winning two; second four times, third once and fourth on three occasions. He has never been out of the money.

This year's Little Brown Jug, named after a famous pacer performing at the turn of the century and not in any way connected with the historic football series of Minnesota and Michigan, will be held over the Delaware half-mile track Sept. 21 with an estimated purse of over $60,000, the all-time high in brief Jug history.

Movies

The latest action movie to be produced on harness racing will be ready for distribution about Sept. 15 or shortly thereafter.

It is a 15-minute film produced by the United States Trotting Association in color and sound and based on a clear-cut educational theme to acquaint more people with the sport of harness racing and its thrills.

Find Inactive Thyroids In Shy-Breeding Cows

A high producing cow doesn't pay her way if she doesn't keep up production year after year. A plump beef cow gives tender beef, but she may not have enough calves.

Delmar Young, extension dairyman at the University of Delaware, says that research in Wisconsin on dairy cattle, and in Oklahoma on beef cattle, has found that inactive thyroids may be one of the causes of breeding failures in cattle.

An Oklahoma veterinarian points out, says Mr. Young, that selection of beef cattle has been toward cattle with slowly functioning thyroid glands because they fatten easily.

"Insufficient thyroid secretion may hold back the reproductive system," says Dr. G. T. Easley of Sulphur, Okla.

The Wisconsin people found that 40 of their repeat breeders had inactive thyroids. Although the evidence this caused failures in breeding was not clear cut, more research is being done along that line.

Marydel

Mrs. Helen Brannock has returned home after a two weeks vacation spent at Fenwick Island visiting with Mr. and Mrs. Levi B. Phillips and Mrs. Viola Phillips Brerewood.

A baby daughter, Barbara Susan, was born at the Chestertown Hospital August 22 to Mr. and Mrs. John Godwin, of Churchill. Mrs. Godwin, before her marriage was Miss Helen Teat of Marydel.

J. Clarence Conner, of Wilmington, and granddaughter, Dolores Huetwohl, of Sharon Hill, Pa., were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Ward during the past week.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Mickey and children, Daneen and Billy, have moved to Collins Park, Wilmington. We are sorry to see them leave us.

Mrs. Mary L. Tingle, of Milford, spent a few days visiting with her daughter and family, Mr. and Mrs. Sampson Feyl, of near Marydel.

Your New Social Security Queries Answered

Questions relating to Federal Old-Age and Survivors Insurance will be answered in this paper or by mail. Address all queries to Social Security Administration, Custom House, 6th & King Sts., Wilmington, Delaware.

Q. Is it easier to become fully insured now than before the 1950 amendments?

A. Yes, many people, now 65 or over, may begin to have insurance payments immediately. Newly covered workers are enabled to qualify for benefits much more quickly than before. About 500,000 additional persons may be paid benefits in 1951.

Q. Will any people be able to claim benefits now, although they did not qualify before the law was amended?

A. Yes. A person who is 65 or over on September 1, 1950, needs only 1 1/2 years of employment to be eligible for benefits. He is immediately eligible if he already had that much work under the law.

A wife under 65 may now receive benefits if she has in her care a child who is entitled to child insurance benefits on her husband's wage records.

The divorced former wife of a deceased insured worker may in some cases receive benefits on his record if she is caring for his children.

A child may qualify for monthly benefits on his mother's record more easily under the new law than before.

A dependent husband or widower of a fully and currently insured woman who is entitled to old-age and survivors insurance benefits or who died after August, 1950 is now eligible for insurance payments when he becomes 65.

Q. Suppose a worker died before the amendments were enacted and was not insured. Will his survivors be eligible for benefits under the amendments?

A. No. The old eligibility requirements remain in effect for persons who died before September 1, 1950.

Francis Bacon

In 1624, Francis Bacon wrote, "The Turks have a drink called cava, made of a berry of the same name, as black as soot and of a strong scent. This drink comforteth the brain and heart and helpeth digestion."

Farm Workers' Production Each farm worker now produces enough agricultural products to support himself and more than 13 other persons. In 1920 one farm worker supported himself and nine others.

WHEELER RADIO STORE NEWS

Since I wrote my last little episode, I have installed about a dozen new television sets. All of them have been Philco and the twelve are perfectly pleased. Well why not, when they are PHILCOS? Of course there are several different makes of television sets but ask your neighbor who owns one and they will tell you "buy a Philco by all means and then you will be satisfied."

At this present time I have a few table models, 14 and 16 inch screen on hand and can install one in your home at once. Just call 541 Wheeler's Harrington and you will see your favorite team playing ball the next day if they are on the air. Television sets are as low as $154.95 plus tax. What are you waiting for, lower prices? If so you have waited a little too long as they are going up. Of course some of the obsolete models are low but when you buy a television set, you want the best and that is just what I want you to have so come in and let's talk business.

I have just the little radio that your daughter or son will want to take to college with them and is it smart? Oh boy, when you see one you will say I wish I had one of them for my own self. They play three ways, AC, DC or on battery and they are very small. In fact you can put one in your personal belongings and almost lose it. They come in colors and when they get a little dusty or soiled just wipe them off like you would a piece of glass. Get one for that boy or girl and they will thank you many times over. They are very smart and very good looking.

Have you gotten that automatic washer yet? Really you are missing and giving up a lot of hard labor that is entirely unnecessary when you have an automatic washer. Anyone can turn on a switch and that is all you have to do when you start your automatic going. You don't even have to stop it as it automatically shuts itself off. Not necessary to even get your hands wet.

How many of you have held your breath during the past few hot days and wondered if that old faithful refrigerator would hold out another day? There are many refrigerators today that are on their last legs and I mean last legs because if the unit is bad that means a price of junk only at junk prices. If you trade now while it is running, certainly it is a wise thing to do. You can get, let us say, about $50.00 allowance on a new up to the minute one with a freezer all the way across the top. We have a few now, drop in.

It won't be long now before we will be crawling back in that old arm chair again to sit out another winner, so while setting there why not make the surroundings as pleasant as we can? This can easily be done and you really will feel more like living when your room or rooms are papered in the colors and the patterns you like. Of course we get tired of looking at the same walls, but paper them different and you will want to look at them more often. We have thought about this and have ordered lots of paper to brighten that room up for you.

We have several different makes of gas ranges for your selection and would appreciate serving you gas, bottled or metered. Ask us to install that range for you and we will be pleased to do so. Let's make it a date just say when.

Talk Peace Not War. No doubt but what we will WIN. Adv.

No Delay For Increased Payments Under Social Security

"There will be no delay in getting out the increased insurance benefit payments provided by the amended Social Security Act," declares Roger R. Minker, manager of the Wilmington social security office.

Mr. Minker returned from a three-day conference in Philadelphia, held in connection with the amended act, signed into law by President Truman yesterday.

Fourteen field office managers from the States of New York, Pennsylvania, and Delaware attended the training session.

"At the conference, I learned that the area offices have been working overtime to compute the increased amounts of payment and are ready now to get out the higher benefit checks," says Mr. Minker.

Under a provision of the new law, increased payments will go to everyone now receiving old-age or survivors insurance payments. This is effective September first.

"Cards notifying present beneficiaries of this important provision of the new law are now in the mails," declares Mr. Minker. "The increases will show on the September checks which will reach them early in October," he added.

Payments under the amended law will range from a minimum of $20 for a retired insured worker to $150 maximum for family benefits.

Mr. Minker requests beneficiaries in this locality wait until the receipt of their September checks to find out the exact amount of their individual increased benefit payments.

Under the new law, Mr. Minker says people age 65 or over will be eligible for insurance benefits beginning in September if they have been paid wages of $50 or more in six or more different calendar quarters for work covered by social security. Roughly, this is a year and a half. He estimates that 1500 additional people in this locality will be entitled to immediate payments under this provision. Many of these people had made application before but could not qualify for benefits under the old law. The Wilmington social security office is making every effort to get in touch with those of whom it has record, but asks the cooperation of everyone who may know of such a person. "Tell him, or tell us," says Mr. Minker. "Have him come to our office and file a new application for old-age and survivors insurance benefit payments."

The other provisions of the new law, extending social security coverage to groups of workers and self-employed people heretofore excluded, will go into effect on January first. Mr. Minker estimates that about 22,000 additional people in this locality alone will come under social security at that time under the new social security law.

Plane Spotters Are Organized

All Civil Defense aircraft observation stations in Kent County have now been organized, it has been reported by J. Frank Montague, Ground Observer Corps chief supervisor for the county. New Castle County stations were previously reported as organized by George Weber, chief supervisor for New Castle County.

Mr. Montague was commended by Maj. D. Preston Lee, state director of Civil Defense, for his rapid work in organizing the stations. Mr. Montague was appointed chief supervisor on Aug. 6, and by Sept. 1 he had all stations organized.

Three stations in Sussex County — Bethany Beach, Gumboro, and Frankford, remain to be organized, according to Wilson Atkins, chief supervisor for that county. Those established in Kent and their supervisors are: Harrington, T. B. Holloway — Leipsic, Harvey E. Wilson; Smyrna, Dewilton E. Newcomb; Sandtown, James M. Carroll; Viola, Mrs. Hubert Cabbage and Mrs. Lola Judy; Milford, David S. Hugg; Hartly, Newlin Wood; Dover, Mary B. Reed, and Bowers, Howard Ney.

Mr. Montague also announced that volunteers are still needed to man efficiently the stations on a round-the-clock basis in the event of an emergency, and that interested persons should contact the supervisors nearest their home.

Meanwhile, the first state-wide meeting of civil defense to discuss the Delaware set-up in relation to federal suggestions was called for Sept. 15 in Dover by Major Lee. The federal blueprint, he said at a meeting of the Exchange Club in the Hob Tea Room yesterday, will be issued at the Governors' Conference to be held in Chicago today and tomorrow.

Major Lee also outlined the organization of the state civil defense setup and the progress that has been made to date. Dr. Zenas R. Clark, president, conducted the meeting, the first of the 1950-51 season for the club.

Missing Plane Found With Four Dead

The wreckage of a four-seated "Navion" type plane—definitely identified as the one reported lost Saturday night—was found Wednesday afternoon in a cornfield about three miles south of New Castle. Coroner William Smith Jr. said all of the plane's four occupants had been killed instantly.

The plane, piloted by B. J. Holoman, 53, of Jacksonville, N. C., president of Jacksonville Airport, Inc., was on route from Salisbury, Md., to Teterboro, N. J., when the accident occurred.

The wreckage was discovered by Capt. LeRoy Kirkpatrick and W/O Thomas E. McBride of the Delaware Wing of the Civil Air Patrol, who were flying down the Delaware River at the time.
