Democrats Make Clean Sweep Of County Offices While GOP Wins All State Offices

Democrats Gain Control of Senate—In County They Win All Seven Contested Posts and 6 of 10 Seats in House

Despite Republican successes in other parts of the state, the Democratic Party in Kent County received its most sweeping victory in 15 years Tuesday.

The Democrats wrested control from the Republicans in all contested offices and retained control of the post of sheriff. As a result there will be no Republican holding a county office in Kent.

In addition, the Kent Democrats retained six out of 10 seats in the lower house of the General Assembly and picked up one seat in the state Senate.

One of the Democrats' biggest achievements in the voting was winning all three posts on the Kent County Levy Court—the first time in 15 years their party had exclusive control of the important agency.

Even when only two of the three Levy Court districts had compiled their returns Wednesday morning, Robert Yerkes, Kent County GOP chairman, conceded a complete victory to his opponents.

Elected to serve on the Levy Court are:

Robert Pippin, of Dover, First District, with a narrow majority of 14 votes over John M. Roe, Republican; Amos Minner, of Harrington, Second District, a majority of 876 over his opponent, William F. Parker, Harrington Republican; and Edward Kelly of Camden, Third District, a lead of 290 over Republican T. Kersey Walters, Jr. of Felton.

The Democrats also took the offices of clerk of the peace, recorder of deeds, register in chancery and clerk of the Orphans' Court, receiver of taxes and county treasurer, sheriff, and coroner. Unofficial returns showed:

W. Frank Hazel (D-Smyrna) winning the post of clerk of the peace with a majority of 584 over his opponent, John R. Rogers, Jr., (R-Fredricka).

Robert A. Saulsbury the present sheriff (D-Harrington) taking the office of recorder of deeds with a lead of 461 over Harrington Republican William W. Simpson.

Heather Wins
Grafton Heather (D-Hartly) winning the post of register in chancery and clerk of Orphans' Court with a majority of 897 over his GOP rival, R. Maris Pyott, of Camden.

Grier H. Minner (D-Woodside) taking the county treasurer and receiver of taxes post with a majority of 1,323 over Webster Phillips (R-West Dover).

William Paskey (D-Felton) winning the office of sheriff with a lead of 1,103 over the Republican aspirant, Dorsey Hudson, of Viola.

William Fleischauer (D-Farmington) capturing the post of coroner with a majority of 729 over his GOP rival, James P. Muir, of Dover.

Other Democratic office holders in Kent, who keep their posts until 1953 are:

W. Marion Stevenson, of Fredricka, prothonotary; Elwood Kemp, of Smyrna, register of wills; and J. Wesley Walls, of Maryland, comptroller.

Democrats Control Senate

By electing a senator in each of the three counties Tuesday, Delaware Democrats gained control of the Senate at the 1951 General Assembly. Their margin will be nine seats to eight for the Republicans, thus reversing the edge the Republicans held in the 1949 session.

Two senatorial seats won by the Democrats went to Walter Handsberry of Leipsic in the First Senatorial District of Kent County, who defeated Rep. Noble S. Warren of Dover, majority floor leader in the House in 1949, by a margin of 2094 to 1710, according to unofficial tabulation, and to Curtis W. Steen of Millsboro, who won over Jesse F. Jones, also of Millsboro, by a majority of 553 votes.

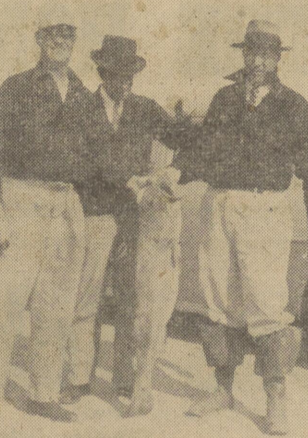

Latham Loses

A close race for Senate seats developed between Rep. John M. Langotham, Republican of Milford, who tallied a 26-vote edge, over former Collector of Internal

Railroad News

The winner and still champion, Ernle Homewood displaying the Rock of Gibraltar he landed near Indian River Inlet recently on some kind of atomic lure made by Guy Ammon of 10 Laurel Avenue, Rehoboth, who, with his son, shown in the picture were present when Ernle hauled the big rock out of the surf after a lively fight.

Some of Ernle's friends who had not seen the fish but heard that it weighed 36 lbs., accused him of shoving a sash weight down its throat. Others who have often listened to his weird exploits of the briny deep agree that it is the prize catch of the year, and that he was lucky to have good witnesses. Ernle says they have not yet heard the real facts which up to this time have been somewhat of a military secret, but they should have known he was not hanging around that radar station for nothing. He says he has been in contact with the big rock a long time waiting for Guy to get the atomic lure tuned up then when the time, the moon and the tide were right, all he needed to do was add another mile of nylon and give it the old heave-ho in the right direction and the self propelled lure met the fish head on.

The rich man employs a butler, a valet, a secretary, a laundress, a cook and a housekeeper; the poor man just gets married.

Wife: Don't you think dear, that a man has more sense after he's married?

Husband: Yes, but it's too late then.

The boys on the extra list have been making every day due to sickness in the regular ranks.

Les Rogers and Jim Truitt are coming along nicely, Fred Warrington, and Bill Jester still holding their own. Pete Wilson also still unable to report.

TAKEN IN: One of the town's self appointed lady supervisors of village morals, accused a workman of drinking because "with her own eyes" she had seen his wheelbarrow standing outside a saloon.

The accused man made no verbal defense, but the same evening he placed his wheelbarrow outside her door and left it there all night.

Fred Bailey, Sr., Louis Taylor, Grover Lord and Wade Mitchell were appointed a committee at the district safety meeting Monday to formulate plans for a Family Night Get-together this month. Watch this column for further details.

The old transportation feud (train versus truck) flared again Tuesday morning when the gladiators put on a real election day dog fight in front of the voting place at Costen, Md. A large GMC truck loaded with saw logs moving south on old Route 13 turned sharply to the left onto the tracks directly in front of train No. 453. The late driver of the truck Fred Barkley, colored, apparently had no more regard for the lives of others than for his own as the flying logs and parts of the truck tore down power lines and narrowly missed upsetting the engine.

Ten Tons of Milk Produced By Cow in Normal Lactation

Ever since Sam Beachy of Dover, began farming, his aim has been to own a cow that would produce ten tons of milk in a normal lactation.

Recently this aim became a reality, when a purebred Holstein cow in his herd completed a 305-day DHIA lactation record of 19,995 pounds of milk with 775.4 pounds of butterfat on twice-a-day milking.

Sam operates his own 42-cow herd, having raised nearly all of the present number. In 1942, he purchased two purebred Holstein heifer calves which later proved to be his foundation cows, as

Bids Too High On School Buildings

Higher costs quoted in the re-adjusted figures compell the Harrington Special School District Board of Education to reject any and all bids presented to date. The original figures in the lowest bid on the grade building and cafeteria were $444,561. This bidder was asked to go to his sub-contractors and ask for and present figures on a diversion of the project placing the cafeteria and kitchen separately from the grade school. Dividing the projects raised the cost $21,422, or made the cost $465,983. The bid on the grade school alone was $399,916 or $60,916 more than the monies ($339,000) which are available. Therefore the rejection of the bid of necessity was inevitable.

The Rev. Wilkins, of Bethesda Church, Middletown, will discuss the new trends in youth work. The Rev. Wilkins, who spent most of the summer working at various conferences on youth work, both national and international, would doubtless have many helpful plans and suggestions for organizing the young people in each community, which at the present time is the church's greatest challenge.

At the afternoon session, Mrs. Mawka, northeastern jurisdictional president, who is a most interesting speaker, will make the address.

Luncheon will be served by the Smyrna organization.

Major Roy Palmer and his Rangers will confer the Sidonian Degree in their usual fine style on a fine class of candidates.

Crash Breaks 2 Gas Pumps, Starting Blaze

A heavy truck careened off U. S. Route 13 near Harrington Sunday night, ran across a service station area, rammed a car, and clipped off a pair of gasoline pumps, starting a flash fire and causing damage of more than $2,450. The accident occurred at the Intersection Service Station, operated by Pat Fry.

No one was hurt in the mishap. However, in other traffic accidents in the state during the weekend, four persons were injured.

State police said the truck, a tractor-trailer, driven by Willis S. Sykes, 32, of Norfolk, Va., was traveling north on Route 13. At a point just north of Harrington, the driver tried to pass another truck headed in the same direction.

Sykes told troopers he pulled to the left to make the pass, saw oncoming traffic was too close, and tried to pull to the right back into his lane.

His tractor-trailer, however, swerved into the yard of a service station operated by George Draper. Standing at the pumps was a car owned by Herman Leuchtenburg, 21, a Marine stationed at Camp Lejeune, N. C. The Marine had left his car while the tank was being filled by an attendant.

The truck, troopers said, roared across the yard, smashed into the car, flung the lighter vehicle against the pumps, and knocked them over. The gasoline was ignited, and flames surged up.

Sykes climbed clear of the truck, police said, and those at the scene fought the blaze with an extinguisher. The Harrington Fire Company was called to help.

The Rev. Wilkins, who spent most of the summer working at various conferences on youth work, both national and international, would doubtless have many helpful plans and suggestions for organizing the young people in each community, which at the present time is the church's greatest challenge.

At the afternoon session, Mrs. Mawka, northeastern jurisdictional president, who is a most interesting speaker, will make the address.

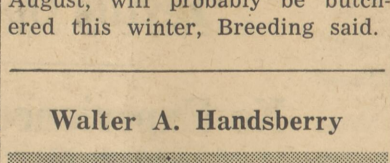

Luncheon will be served by the Smyrna organization.

The Nation Observes National 4-H Achievement Week

This is National 4-H Achievement Week for the nearly two million boys and girls who are members of this outstanding organization.

To be identified with a 4-H Club is a badge of distinction, borne by more than 1600 boys and girls in Delaware last year, of which 400 were from Sussex.

Sam Gwinn, 4-H Club agent, in this county emphasizes that "adults who are concerned for the future of this generation can do no better service than that of encouraging and assisting the 4-H organization by recognizing work well done; by making greater participation possible; and by giving support to the local 4-H leaders who are helping the boys and girls of Sussex in such an outstanding way."

Four-H Clubs represent the largest rural youth organization in the world. Numbering nearly 2,000,000 boys and girls between the ages of 10 and 21 years, they are enrolled in over 85,000 clubs throughout the United States, as well as in Alaska, Hawaii, and Puerto Rico, England, Norway, Sweden, Denmark, Finland, Cuba, British possessions of the Caribbean, Venezuela, Peru, Korea, and other nations also, have 4-H Clubs or similar organizations.

Mr. Gwinn also points out that each 4-H Club member does one or more phases of project work, under supervision of the county extension officer and local volunteer 4-H leaders, that will demonstrate or teach better ways of homemaking and farming.

Four-H boys and girls are practicing democratic procedures and learning in their 4-H Clubs to have a deeper appreciation of the democratic way of life.

Prompt Autopsies Help Check Animal and Poultry Diseases

You can't afford to merely dispose of a dead animal, according to Wm. H. Henderson, Sussex County agricultural agent. "If you don't know why it died, call a vet and find out. It might save you a herd or flock epidemic," he said.

Prompt postmortem examinations of dead birds and animals are a good investment. Veterinarians know that serious diseases often "sneak up" on a herd of livestock or flock of birds, and pick off a single animal before attacking the rest of the herd.

Therefore it's pretty important that you know the cause of any single death immediately. Post-mortem diagnosis may check the further spread of infection, and prevent disastrous outbreaks of such diseases as cholera, anthrax, Newcastle, or tracheitis.

The state veterinarians at the University of Delaware at Newark, and in the Agricultural Building at Dover are always glad to help you out.

Willow Grove

The Grim Reaper has visited our community and has claimed two of our ladies in the past week. We extend the sympathies of this and the surrounding community to the families of the late Mrs. Charlie Shulties, who passed away in the Milford Memorial Hospital, and of Mrs. John T. Wessel, who passed away in a nursing home in Frederica.

These two dear old people had been residents of our community for a long time and were very near to many of us. Mrs. Shulties took a very active part in the local church affairs.

The late Mrs. Charlie Shulties' nephew, Mr. Dawson, attended her funeral from here held at the Berry Funeral Home, Felton.

Some of our ladies, members of the Democratic Women's Club of Kent County were members of the Democratic Caravan on Saturday and report a very enjoyable dinner at the Wonder Bar as well as a very pleasant trip over the county finishing the day at a rally on the Plaza in south Milford, where a real hard shower could indicate the trend would be Democratic.

HOW TO BE AN ACE on Party-Line Telephones

You'll rate tops with your party-line neighbors if you'll follow these two brief suggestions for party-line courtesy:

- 1. When you start to make a call and find the line in use, hang up gently and give the other person a few minutes to finish his call. 2. When, while talking, you realize that your neighbor is waiting to make a call, hang up in a few minutes and free the line.

Little courtesies, yes... but they pay big returns in better service for everyone on the line.

Achievement Day Held In Sussex County

The 22nd Annual Sussex County Achievement Day program was observed in the Jones Memorial Hall Wed., Nov. 1, with approximately 300 representing all 21 clubs in the county in attendance. The principal speaker for the morning was Rev. Kenneth M. Kepler, Presbyterian Minister from Milford, who spoke on "Communism at Work in China." His talk was illustrated by slides he had made during his stay in China as a missionary. Rev. Kepler told how the Communists brought about the Red Government in China and the effect that that movement had had on the Chinese youth. He gave an excellent background of Chinese life which was illustrated with the slides, which also showed the destruction caused by the Communist movement in China.

Mrs. Ed. Krewatch, president of the Sussex County Home Demonstration Council, called the meeting to order and introduced Miss Elizabeth Slotter, supervisor of Music in Sussex County, who led in group singing, with Mrs. Nell Barr, secretary of the State Board of Education, as accompanist. Following lunch, which was served by the ladies of the Midland Grange, a pageant entitled "Mrs. Oglethorpe Makes Her Annual Report" was presented with Mrs. Wm. Stevenson of the Leves-X-Roads Club, as narrator. Fourteen different skits were presented during the pageant, which showed the various accomplishments and special events held during the year. A unique part of the pageant was the monologue given by Mrs. Dale Workman called "Mrs. Simpkins makes her Decision to Vote." The monologue emphasized the importance of women's participation in political affairs of the country. It also showed how one woman was convinced that she had a responsibility as a citizen to keep informed on current problems and by voting for qualified leaders.

During the afternoon program, Mrs. Krewatch asked the group to bow in a moment of silent prayer in memory of Mrs. Eunice Wilson, a member of the Nastau Club who passed away and was being buried Wednesday.

A presentation entitled "All Flags Will Fly" was given by the members of the Omar Home Demonstration Club, with Mrs. Elisha C. Dukes of Selbyville as narrator. The American Flag and the United Nations flag were both used during the ceremony. Other members of the group taking part in the drama included Mrs. Marvel Campbell as "United States," Mrs. Florence Robinson as "United Nations," Mrs. Harold Lynch as "Knowledge," Mrs. M. Durkee as "Faith," Mrs. Wm. Scott as "Tolerance" and Mrs. Charles Houston as "Loyalty."

A background of patriotic music was given throughout the presentation by Mrs. Herbert Calhoun. Solo parts were given by Miss Slotter.

The program closed with Miss Slotter singing the Lords Prayer.

Exhibits on display during the day included woven rugs, cane chairs, slip covered chairs, upholstered chairs and a special group of hand painted articles done by the Millsboro Club. Also on display was the United Nations flag made by the Atlanta Club.

Mrs. Maybelle L. Long, county home demonstration agent, who was general chairman, was assisted by the following clubs: Millsboro Club, Exhibits; Broadcreek Club, Hostesses; Georgetown Club, decorations; Piney Grove Club, guest corsages; Atlanta Club, bulletin board.

Miss M. Gertrude Holloway, state home demonstration leader; Miss Jean Lee, state 4-H leader, and Miss Joanne Oweneel, of the University Extension Service were guests and were introduced during the sessions.

ARMISTICE DAY IN 1950

Today, when war in a far distant country becomes "a police action;" when our youth face training for war in order that our nation may be strong enough to help to maintain peace throughout the world; when world peace, which we so ardently desire, seems to rest on such a precarious footing—it may be wise to give some thought to the lessons of those less complicated times of the First World War—and to the welcome day which marked its conclusion.

Bird in hand that's a Beauty and a Buy!

Now it can be told. This clean-lined, smart-stepping 1950 version is the most popular Buick ever built.

Ever since early in the present year, a value-wise public has been taking them away from us as fast as—or faster than—the great Buick factories could roll them out. Within recent weeks, production and sales have set an all-time record.

Count off the distinguished and time-tried features of this winner and you'll know why.

It has a Very Exclusive Motor—Buick's own high-compression Fireball—which gets its driving power from a combustion chamber found in no other car in the world.

It has the bump-smothering softness of coil springs on all four wheels and a torque-tube drive—a comfort combination that no other car provides.

It has Dynaflo Drive*—which ushered in a whole new concept of effortless travel.

It has a brilliant styling which sets it apart from every other car on the road.

And it has prices which say "buy me" to any motorist who's looking for maximum money's worth.

Isn't it sensible, while these great cars are still coming off the line, to check with your Buick dealer about getting one to call your own?

HIGH HONORS FOR HARRINGTON IN EDUCATIONAL AFFAIRS

We believe no other schools in Delaware have received the recognition the Harrington Public Schools have won in the state-wide educational organizations.

Many times in the past teachers of this school have been elected to head state associations and various departments of those associations, but now we have three serving at the same time.

Harold McDonald is the new president of the Business and Distributive Education teachers of Delaware.

Miss Leona Dickrager is the new president of classroom teachers of Delaware.

Melvin Brobst is the new president of the State Music Teachers.

Since teachers of the Harrington Schools are selected by the Superintendent of the Schools, we must give Superintendent J. C. Messner credit for uncanny ability in the matter of selection—or they have developed in a remarkable degree since coming to Harrington. In either case, the superintendent deserves credit.

Mr. Messner himself just recently retired as president of Delaware Association of School Administrators.

The city administration deserves a bouquet or two for the progressive and efficient way it is conducting its business. Many much-needed improvements are being made on the streets and at the same time the finances of the city are gradually turning their backs to the red line.

TELL IT NOT IN GATH AND HOW ABOUT ASKELSON?

The birds no longer sing. Their litanies have become a dirge. No sunlight brightens the sombre sky—and all is gloom—deep, impenetrable gloom! On a much higher plane, resorting to the necromancy of rhetoric and fine flights of eloquence, great gobs or hunks of gloom.

Why should we, on this otherwise glorious day in autumn, when our whole heart and soul should be attuned to the beauties of nature, lapse into the negative lotus-land of melancholia? The answer is—and our head is bowed when we admit it—the Republicans licked us, and licked us plenty. Now we know how Lazarus felt!

Hark ye! Hear ye not the agonized voice of freedom weeping, as it tells us in tones more plaintive than those with which it shrieked as Kosciusko fell, that the Republicans licked the pants off us and are now clamoring for our under-garments. Borrowing and taking liberties with a phrase from Bill Nye, they flung our vertebrae around the cage and wipe their collective noses upon our clustering hair. There ain't no bum any more, even in Gilead!

We look at horizons far away, but they are bleak, shrouded with the mantle of disaster; then we remember Dr. Russell Conwell's famous lecture, "Acres of Diamonds," and begin to look for comfort closer home. We find it:

Though Taft and Dirksen have won and Tydings joins the yesterdays down Maryland's Memory Lane, Kent County went Democratic in a sweep as clean as the parlor floor when sister is expecting her first beau, we licked 'em in this terrain, and licked 'em plenty—in the territory where the Harrington Journal circulates. This lone paper could not hope to knock off all the apples in the orchards where those independent papers circulate.

We are not sorry to see Tobey, Republican, New Hampshire, win again, because he is a high-minded gentleman and party slavery never blinded him to duty. We are sorry to see Capehart, Republican, Indiana, win again, because he is a bigot, as narrow as an eel—and manufactures juke boxes—and Ernest Tubbs and Roy Acuff sing for juke boxes.

Long years ago, in school, we read John Ruskin's "Sesame and Lillies," and in that masterful essay he spoke of those who "creep, and crawl, and intrude into the fold for their bellies' sake." He must have been talking about politicians. In any event, professional politicians are venal and selfish, but in the recent election our personal peeve is that the Republicans outcrept, outcrawled and out-intruded our Democrats.

Letters--
To The Editor

November 2, 1950

Dear Reader:

The four previous letters dealt with some tools of wildlife management, that is 1) restriction of hunting; 2) stocking; 3) refuges; 4) predator control. These four management methods were actually a concise description of the history of game management, steps which the art has tried, ever seeking the key to game abundance. This same sequence of thinking and doing was the history of management in Europe as well as in America.

More recently we have added still another step in this chain of wildlife improvement evolution—habitat improvement. Habitat improvement is based on logic—facts evident from observation of wildlife environment, yet true to most problems this tool had to go through an evolutionary cycle. In its bare essentials habitat improvement is a management tool which provides game with the same primary requisites required by man, deer, quail, ducks, or fish, that is, food and shelter. All organisms must have these two factors in order to live and reproduce.

The necessity of food cannot be disputed yet some people claim that nature provides sufficiently for her wildlife, even in the face of man's agriculture, burning, grazing, and other destructive practices. This is true in many instances, yet too often the food is abundant only on a portion of the year, too far from cover, of inferior quality, or unavailable to game through competition. Wildlife food plants properly planted insure birds and mammals of a nutritious and adequate food supply.

Shelter or cover reaches its height of complexity in man's society but the problem for a rabbit or quail may be solved by a brush pile, hedgerow, pine stand, or multiflora rose fence. This shelter must remain thick during the bleak winter months, offer escape from enemies, protect from the elements, and protect young. Too often cover which appears adequate in the lush growing season becomes too open during winter, or nesting cover is drowned out during the breeding season, or is situated far from a food supply.

Habitat improvement is designed to remedy the food and cover problem by giving the game an environment where it can live, grow, and reproduce. In many instances it restores insofar as conditions for wild life which man has possible favorable living conditions destroyed through his own struggle for better living.

Other requirements of the environment besides food and cover must be met such as water, dust baths, grit, etc. but these are secondary and usually provided by nature, roads, erosion, or activities of other animals.

The use of habitat improvement must be in conjunction with the other tools of management, it alone will not do the job of maintaining game supplies. Only when supplemented by the best use of the four previously mentioned tools of management can habitat improvement bring its full benefits to bear on game populations. An area of optimum game environment can potentially support good supplies of game, yet the game here may not survive in the face of year around hunting, an excessive predator population, or constant interference by man. But by using all the tools at this command the game manager can do the best known to his profession toward maintaining a sustained game supply.

Perhaps the future holds still another tool which will be used by the game manager, perhaps not. But in any event it will probably only modify existing management implements and tend to regulate man's influence on the land or on the game directly. Some wildlife, such as waterfowl, forest game, wilderness game and furbearers, prospered before the coming of the white men when conditions were relatively undisturbed by him. Other farm wildlife such as rabbits, pheasant and quail didn't prosper until man began to till the soil. They have declined in number when land is tilled too cleanly or when farm lands are abandoned and revert to woodlands. So a wildlife manager tries to maintain or restore the best conditions practical for desirable wildlife varying his approach to fit conditions.

The individual can do his share by conducting himself as a sportsman and conservationist, abiding by the game laws, preaching and practicing habitat improvement. By so doing restocking, predator control, laws, and refuge requirements will be at a minimum. When all tools are employed properly by all interested persons, the game will respond and those who have contributed can enjoy the sense of satisfaction in a job well done.

There are several common misunderstood concepts connected with habitat improvement. The wildlife technician does not promise that this tool of management will phenomenally pyramid game populations as is believed by some amateur and casual conservationists. Wildlife must compete with the dollar. First and justly so the landowner must make his livelihood off the land—game is a by-product with little or no economic value to the landowner. If the soil is fertile the land will support more wildlife, but where the land is very intensively farmed with the resulting decline of cover and available food, game gets pushed out and the potential high game population cannot materialize. Most of our food cover plantings for farm game are of necessity on sub-marginal portions of farms even though better growth could be had on the better soils, but this soil is the only land which can be devoted to wildlife because of economic reasons. The habitat improvement program does not intend to take land out of production or subtract from the farmer's tillable land but rather purposes to utilize waste land, odd field corners, eroded land, or poor soils, this being common sense—best land use policy. Because of these economic considerations this work must be done not intensively on private land but extensively.

Where there is now one rabbit or covey of quail on 20 acres, habitat improvement may improve conditions to one rabbit or covey to 10 acres. Is this not a step forward? At least under these circumstances the game supply is increasing though perhaps not to one quail or rabbit to the acre which is theoretical maximum. Results closer to this ultimate are not possible in many instances but under intensive management higher populations are attainable. So, one must not expect fantastic increase after food and cover improvements are made but tangible results may be seen.

Time is the factor required before the returns of habitat improvement can be seen. Nature does not demonstrate the affects of her work in a year or two but a period of five or ten years will show more clearly the response of the game populations. A farmer who provides food and cover for game on his farm must exercise the same patience he does to reap a crop of fruit from trees he plants, but time and patience will demonstrate the benefits of his labors.

Habitat improvement is the one tool of management which is in the hands of the individual, the others are administered on a federal or state level. This tool is in the hands of the "man with the land." The government can set seasons, bag limits, set up refuges, conduct predator campaigns, and restock game but it is the man with the land who can replace and improve wildlife food and cover.

Editorial Page makes it that much more significant that you favor such.

I do not stand for such and many of my friends and acquaintances are much opposed and will not stand for your paper if that sort of thing is your policy. I do to my best to give you letters have tried in my Felton letters and articles that will help you build up the right sort of publication, notwithstanding items are frequently omitted that I send in my letter.

But maybe you don't wish me to continue, eh?

Sincerely,
M. Evelyn Killen

Mr. C. H. Burgess:
Dear Editor:

To say I was shocked is putting it mildly, I was dumb founded when my attention was called to the "Letter to the Editor" from "Humid Horace in Shack No. 8 on the Dump South of Wilmington," in your last week's Harrington Journal. I wouldn't have believed that the Harrington Journal was that disparate for news as to print such an article from a bum on Wilmington's dump, and too, classifying "beef, pork, lamb, veal, hamburger, chickens, turkeys, hot dogs, vegetables and fruits" as luxuries and heer "necessities of life."

I hadn't read the article through till one of your subscribers called my attention to it. And putting such an article on the

MAN AND LEAF

I looked upon the face of Death today
And it was yellowed like a fallen leaf
Is this the end for him or it?
'Tis hard to say.
But when the leaf parts from its branch
It has another life to lead; so may he!
This leaf, this life, which breaks away from its life setting
May move into new orbits in eternity.

We know the released leaf skitters before any wind, down any forest aisle or city street
Toward some capricious destiny.
If it is not garnered by man
And burned or buried
It may replenish some spot of earth
With something stored up within it
During the long summer days.
It is as if the immobile provincial tree released the leaf as Life, in the larger sense, parts with its members.
The body of the tree may fall decay and vanish, but the leaves it has flung into the freedom of the air have many destinies.

How can it be with man, who, unlike the tree, has been free to move about, view other scenes, enter other conflicts?

When he is released from Life can't it be he is destined to remain where he lies—Obedient to no pulsing wind, no sweeping broom? Is he to be no fuel that burns to nothing on some futile pyre as does the leaf on countless bonfires set by man in his mistaken sense of out door housecleaning?

I watched the death of many leaves today
Many carried with them the bright colorful faces they had turned worldward during the autumn of their lives

Along a wire fence a windrow of tan plane tree leaves lay waiting—For what?
A man with a briefcase, a pale face and squeaking shoes shuffled through them — for what purpose?

His new shoes were covered by the fine leaf dust. He kicked the leaves aside, and walked slowly through the stricken pile as though deriving some deep, inner satisfaction from the contact. Some mysterious service, this! Perhaps a token recognition of man's not too distant kinship with the dust.

In the death of some leaves we see the return to dust most vividly. Leaf dust, as dry leaves disintegrate is not the same organic dust of the earth, but it is of its nap, which most of us fight every day to keep from our persons, clothes and things we use or wish to display.

My thoughts turn back to the face of death on man.
Can his condition be the same as with leaves? (they have not sinned.)
But what's the purpose of death in either? If there's a time and place for everything, why not a time for living, when life can mean the most; when sin's forgiveness or atoned for, when all that's gone before should fit a man or a leaf for a longer stay to fight off the encroaching dust.

Warfarin Rat Poison Effective, Says Local Farmer and Agent

There's new hope ahead for rat control in the form of a drug called warfarin, said assistant County Agent Wm. C. Sloan, today.

Mr. Sloan explains that this new chemical, developed at the University of Wisconsin, kills the rats by causing internal bleeding. It is one of a number of chemicals related to the drug coumatel in sweet clover which causes bleeding in cattle who have eaten spoiled clover.

Warfarin does not require pre-baiting and doesn't cause bait shyness. For effectiveness, combine warfarin with bait such as dry uncooked corn meal, rolled oats, or other cereals or feeds. This must be used for several weeks, because the bleeding process requires time to kill the rodent. Problems of your household or farm pets eating the bait is reduced since substances such as fresh meat, fish waste, or fat drippings need't be used. It is particularly safe to use around chicken houses because chickens are very resistant to the action of warfarin.

If you follow recommended dosages, there is little danger to other animals, and a 100 per cent rat kill is possible.

WHEELER RADIO STORE NEWS

Well election is over whether the ones were elected that you and I wanted or not. We are now stuck with them and lets give them the go ahead sign and not try to retard as everyone has some good in them.

What is on the next list well of course it is Thanksgiving, but the big day of any year is Xmas. Are you getting prepared for it? I am, by trying to build up a stock to supply you with.

There are some items I am unable to get enough of and that is just as you guessed televisions. I am more than pleased to get so many comments on the TV's we are selling. It is nice when people are so pleased that they don't fail to tell you. Of course you must consider the company who makes them. Is there any place in this world that you get such a TV as Philco is building? Now the question is, who are they building them for, you or your neighbor? I hope it is you! Come in and I will explain just how you can get one too.

I have the largest screen available and that is not a 8, 10, 12, 14 1/2, 16, 17, 19, but a twenty inch. Just think of it and not only that but Philco has what no other TV has and that is a tune focus beam.

What about combinations without TV? We have them too, some new, some used, and may I say this, I have already put away several for Xmas. That means when Xmas comes the wise ones will be supplied with just what they want. But are you going to take anything because you put it off? My advice to you is be wise and come in, pay just a little down on what you want and you will be full of happiness when the big day come around, Xmas.

While we are talking about Xmas and radios I want to say that we have several small ones from $17.95 up. If you want to get your son or daughter a portable, I have the most wonderful little portable on the market. It will either play on electric or battery. The best of it all is that it is so small that you can stow it away almost in your hand bag. Is it heavy? Well I should say not. All it requires is a little battery about 2 inches wide, 3 inches long and 1 inch thick, also 2 ordinary flashlight cells. Isn't that remarkable? Seeing it is the best part of all in several colors.

What about that gas range? Did you know we have a large stock of gas ranges and deliver gas either in bottles or metered? Even if we don't sell you a stove we will hook it up for you if you so desire.

This time last year you were shopping around probably for a good electric range or refrigerator. This year I have been able to get a refrigerator, 7, 8, 9, or eleven cu. foot with freezer across the top, you needn't look further as I have them.

Isn't any use of my telling you that we have plenty of wall paper as you know that. But I have just ordered and it will be here by the time you read this. Twenty-five to thirty-five new patterns complete with border to match.

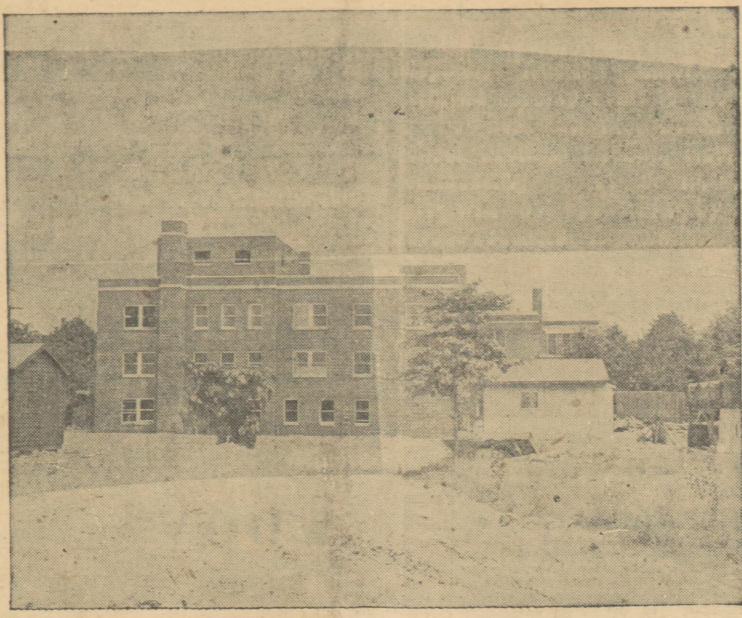

Come in, see these new patterns and you will be surprised also at the low prices.

How about that new Westinghouse Laundromat? Do you think you can go and get one when you want it? No, that is wrong, so why not get yours from us as I have them. Cannot promise any more after these are gone. Ask for what you don't see as we are filled to capacity and I am now planning a new way of displaying our merchandise.

P. R. R. News

The crossing and applied the emergency brake the instant he noticed the truck turn onto the tracks. Cleve and Fireman Enoch Dunn said the sudden impact and bursting of steam and air pipes all around the front and side of the engine added a lot more grey hairs and for a few seconds made them feel as though their number was up.

While this must have been a harrowing experience for the engine crew, Conductor Claude Guthrey and Brakeman Peanuts Sullivan were confronted with the gruesome task of delving into the scattered debris for facts and details to get a hurried report to headquarters. All did a good job under nerve-racking circumstances.

Trinity Methodist Church Notes

Dr. Thomas Mulligan, district superintendent, will give the sermon at the morning services of Trinity Methodist Church celebrating the church's 69th anniversary. The Rev. C. C. Day, of Dundalk, will be the speaker at the evening services. Dr. Day is a former pastor of Trinity.

The Womans Society of Christian Service of Trinity Church, met Tuesday night last, with Mrs. Elwood Gruwell, president, presiding.

The Worship service was in charge of Mrs. D. F. Pritchard, secretary of spiritual life. Mrs. H. C. Miller read a tribute to Mrs. Sarah Jane Creadick, who had been a life long member of the church, and a member of the W. S. C. S. since its inception. Miss Blanche Price reviewed the study book, "The Christian's Vocation," covering the chapters, "My Work," "My Income," and "My Purchases."

Announcement was made of the Harvest Home Service to be held Sun., Nov. 19 and all members urged to send or bring in their gifts of canned goods, to be sent to the Deacons Home and the Mary Todd Gambrill Settlement House in Wilmington.

Century Club Notes

The regular bi-monthly meeting of the Harrington New Century Club was held Tuesday afternoon, with the president, Mrs. A. C. Ford, presiding. Routine business was transacted and the members voted a $5 contribution to the Boy Scouts. Mrs. Elwood Gruwell and her committee, consisting of Mrs. F. S. Bailey, Mrs. J. H. Walker, Mrs. N. C. Adams, Mrs. Blanche Cahall and Mrs. Ella Little, had charge of the program, the subject being "Public Welfare." Mrs. Florence A. Clark, assistant executive director of the State Board of Welfare was the speaker and she gave very interesting facts concerning the functions of the Welfare Board, but talked in particular on the subject as it relates to dependent and neglected children. She stressed the fact that every child is entitled to attention for mental and emotional development, regardless of class, color or creed. Her remarks were timely indeed, since the Mid-Century White House Conference which is to be held in Washington from December 3-7, has for its slogan "A fair chance for a healthy personality for every child."

Miss Barbara Smith and Miss Imogene Welch entertained with three vocal selections.

The next meeting of the club will be held Tuesday, November 21, at 2:30 p. m.

Brinsfields Switch To Dairying

Proir to 1940, Ollie Brinsfield, of Vienna, Md., operated a large truck farm, and his dairying was a meager sideline. Today, 10 years later, he and his two sons are carrying 30 milking animals on their 450-acre farm, and producing all their own roughage, grain and pasture, while truck farming is slipping into their program as a sideline.

Over the period of years, Ollie has been a firm believer in raising good stock. He has made use of a production-bred bull, and has raised all of his own replacements. Proof of this lies in the fact that at this writing he is milking 17 cows and sending 56 cans of milk to Pet Milk Company's, Greensboro plant, where he has continuously shipped for the last 10 years.

Mr. Brinsfield has, through his public-spirited efforts, set a good example for his sons and neighbors.

He has taken a leading part in various farm organizations and civic groups. At the present time he is chairman of the board of the Farm Production and Marketing Administration. For the past 18 years he has been an active member of the Farm Bureau.

Proof of his efforts in civic programs is the fact that he was the second person in Dorchester County to sign up for R. E. A. electric service. He is also one of the long-time members of the Vienna Lions' Club.

Cooch Carries Kent
Mr. Young was defeated by Mr. Cooch in Kent County by 417 votes, and in Sussex County by 76 votes. The three other victorious candidates lost to their Democratic opponents in Sussex County, and in Kent County only Mr. Emerson had a majority.

Ninth District
The Ninth District election was hot and furious, with 1355 ballots being cast from a registration of 1751 names. Some 20 minutes from closing time, a line of prospective voters extended from the polling place, the Firehouse, to the corner of Commerce and Mechanic Streets. While most voters got in, a few were shut out. As predicted, voting here was heavy for an off-year election. In the traditionally Democratic sixth and ninth representative districts, the Democrats secured a majority on all county offices.
