

Ocean Downs Begins Racing Tuesday Night

Ocean Downs Raceway, Maryland's swanky resort harness track at Ocean City, will open its big 1951 20-night meet this coming Tuesday, with every indication that the plant will enjoy the most successful season in its history.

The more than 800 trotters and pacers, from top stables from all over the nation, which are due to compete, began to arrive early this week to begin working out over the track, one of the fastest in the East, it was announced by Dick Case, general manager.

A stellar 8-race program has been arranged for the grand opening, by Racing Secretary Dick James, with post-time set for 8:15 p. m. and the daily double closing at 8.

Highlighting the inaugural card will be a $2500 pacing stake event for 3-year-olds with stars such as Bert York, which almost set a world's record here last season and recently set a track record of 2:04.3 at Harrington, competing.

Bert York will be driven by a veteran Eastern Shoreman, Olin Davis, of Clayton, who was the leading driver at Ocean Downs last year.

Other brilliant eligibles for the stake event are Earl Avery's Betty French, a winner all along the Maryland circuit this season; Pat Hunnard's swift Hi-Lo's Forbes; Franklin Hastings' Irma's Boy, driven by Bill Fleming; Mighty Arrow, a 3-year-old star of the Wendell Wathen stable, which took Wathen to some of the victories that made him leading driver at Rosecroft and second top reinsman at Laurel this season; as well as other crack 3-year-old sidewheelers.

Five $2500 events are scheduled for the meet, and the minimum overnight purse schedule totals a rich $6000.

Case reports President James E. Douglas and the other well-known Eastern Shoreman who have invested in the luxurious ocean-breezy resort plant as beaming with optimism and forecasting new betting and attendance records this year.

The roads leading to the track, which is located on route 50, between Berlin and Ocean City, Md., are highly improved this season.

But more important, the boom year for the chicken business and the tight shutdown in gambling will probably result in a record workout for the pari-mutuel betting machines at the track.

Another big factor will be the fact that the resort oval this year will probably have the best programs in its history in view of the top stables which have announced plans to try for the money there.

Among the latest stables which have given notice of their intention to compete are the powerful B. J. Benfield Stable, of Morris, Minn., handled by Mel Harmening, second top driver in the nation last year; the crack Harry Craig stable of upstate New York; Wendell Wathen's crack contingent from Ft. Fairfield, Me.; Harry (Doc) Allen and Billie Hudson, both handlers of large winning stables; Hank Lowden of Ventnor, N. J., one of the most colorful owner-drivers in the sport with an 8-horse star barn; Tom Wingate, with 8 head; Ben Turlington, with a 20-horse stable, and Lewis Floyd with 18.

The meeting will begin with an old-fashioned basket picnic lunch. Tables will be available and coffee will be served.

Harrington Fire Co. Plans Stock Car Races

The Harrington Vol. Fire Co. is holding a stock car race at the fairgrounds in Harrington Saturday evening at 8 o'clock.

These races are sanctioned by the Delaware Stock Car Racing Association. The price of admission is $1.50 with grandstand included. Box seats are now on sale at the firehouse.

Holloway Extolls Fairgrounds' Aid To Community

"Thirty-one families live in trailers on the Kent & Sussex Fairgrounds from November to May," T. Brinton Holloway, general manager of the grounds, told Rotarians Tuesday evening. He was introduced by C. H. Burgess, editor of The Harrington Journal, who was also a guest. Walt Meyer was program chairman.

In extolling the benefit of the fairgrounds, and the events staged there, to the community, Holloway said these families spent their money in Harrington. He cited the money spent by the Kent & Sussex Fair Association, the owner of the grounds, and the Kent & Sussex Racing Association, in purses, premiums, and wages and added that part of this money remained in the community.

In pointing out improvements to the grounds, the general manager mentioned the new water system put in last year and the $10,000-hog barns built two years ago. The latter, he said, was supposed to take care of the exhibits of hogs for two years. Nevertheless, he explained, the number of hogs on exhibits the past two years was so large that some animals had to have makeshift quarters. The entry list was so large this recent fair, that the number of entries per breeder had to be limited.

Holloway said that the race track would probably be rebuilt after the fall meet, since he did not believe there would be enough time to do it before the fall meet opens Sept. 6.

In itemizing the needs of the fairgrounds, he said that special quarters and attention should be given broilers, since this was the largest industry in lower Delaware. He added that improved restrooms and restaurant facilities were also needed.

Fluorine Asked In State Water

The treatment of all available sources of drinking water in Delaware with fluorine as a means of helping to prevent tooth decay in young children will be proposed at the September meeting of the State Dental Society by Dr. J. Paul Winthrop, outgoing chairman of the welfare committee of the society.

The society is already on record as favoring the plan, and it is expected that recommendation, embodying Dr. Winthrop's proposal, will be presented in the form of a resolution to the Wilmington City Council.

Treatment of drinking water is the only means available of preventing, to a certain degree, tooth decay in Delaware children, Dr. Winthrop said.

He pointed out that Delaware water does not contain enough fluorine. Only two towns in Delaware, Newark and Dover, have fluoridation programs, he emphasized.

Dr. Frank H. Hoopes said the suggestion of putting fluorine in the city water supply was made to the Board of Water Commissioners at an informal meeting with representatives of the Dental Society more than three years ago, but was turned down by the commission because of the expense, and fear that it might harm the water.

Since then, however, one city after another throughout the country has started fluoridation programs, Dr. Hoopes said.

Dr. Winthrop also explained the need for "control" in the fluoridation program. Not more than three parts of fluorine can be used for each million parts of water, he said. "You just can't dump a can of fluorine into water; you can't do it haphazardly," he emphasized.

The report of the welfare committee will be presented at a meeting in the Academy of Medicine by Dr. Winthrop, who, although no longer chairman of the committee, served in this capacity while the study was being made. Present chairman of the committee is Dr. Clyde M. Cox, of Newark.

Buffkin, William Andrew Scott v. Eva Kate Scott, and Ruby Manlove v. Lawrence E. Manlove by President Judge Charles S. Richards on grounds of desertion. Decision was reserved by Judge Charles L. Terry, Jr., in the suit of Prunella Clendaniel Loper v. Charles F. Loper.

Governor's Day Featured With Politicians

Who Will Run For Governor, Is Paramount Question At Kent & Sussex Fair

Governor Carvel made two appeals here Governor's Day, asking for sacrifice at home to match the performance of our troops in Korea and for an immediate response to the Red Cross request for funds to aid flood victims in the mid-west.

In an informal talk to several thousand persons of the Kent & Sussex Fair, Governor Carvel asked that "we at home do our part and make every sacrifice that we can for the success of our boys abroad who are fighting so nobly."

Calling attention to the "great floods surging through the country-side in some of our western states," the Governor said, "I urge you today to answer the appeal of the Red Cross to help those persons who have suffered through no fault of their own."

As he addressed the Governor's Day audience for the third time Governor Carvel said, "There shall be no iron curtains in our country so long as we are able to develop and attend such an event as this. Here, we are given the opportunity to exchange ideas and the opportunity to compete with one another."

"This is the American way. The best ideas that we have are made available here to everyone. I congratulate those responsible for helping to make this one of the finest fairs in the United States."

Sharing interest with the official party were the equally traditional visits of scores of political personalities from all parts of Delaware. Their conversations, whether two or three gathered together, had no direct bearing on what will happen in November, 1952, but, as always, were indicative of present trends and reactions.

For example, among the observers from both sides there appeared to be little doubt that Governor Carvel and Lieut. Gov. Alexis I. duPont Bayard would head the Democratic ticket 16 months hence. Running with them, if the talk today means anything, will be State Senator R. Allen Cannon Jr., Seaford, who is president pro tem of the Senate.

The indications were that either Governor Carvel or Senator Cannon would be the nominee for the U. S. Senate seat; that either Governor Carvel or Lt. Gov. Bayard would be the choice for Governor; and that Senator Cannon would be the choice for U. S. Representative.

GOP Picture Scrambled
The Republican picture was seen to be a good deal more scrambled. The talk was that if U. S. Senator John J. Williams of Millsboro, wanted to run again he'll get the nomination without too much trouble. But he is also considered as a candidate for Governor. Should this happen the GOP might lean toward former Atty. Gen. Clair J. Killoran, now chairman of the Republican State Committee, for the Senate.

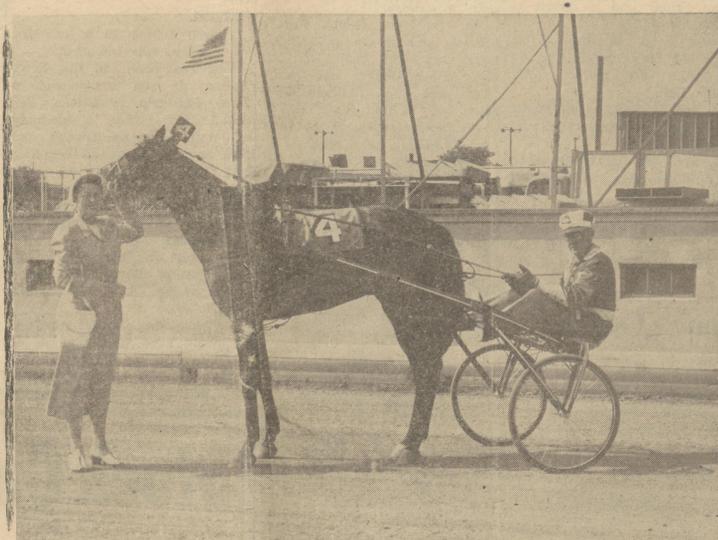

More than likely, Republican observers thought, U. S. Rep. J. Caleb Boggs, now in his third term in Congress, would get the nod for Governor. But there was a surprising amount of support for keeping Mr. Boggs in Congress. Back of this was the feeling that should the Republicans prevail in the Congressional elections, Mr. Boggs would be a strong candidate for an important committee post that could be helpful to the state. There were also those who thought that Mr. Boggs ought to take a crack at the U. S. Senate if Senator Williams refuses to run again.

Another Republican whose candidacy for Governor would attract wide support, judging from the comments today, is Mayor James F. Hearn of Wilmington. Mayor Hearn, elected twice to head the city's government, is well-known throughout the state because of his varied fraternal associations. Whether his health would permit him to make the campaign and to bear up under the exhausting pressure of the Governor's office was the principal concern of those who thought he would make the best race of any of the potential Republican candidates.

Others Discussed
The discussion of a candidate for the GOP nomination as U. S. Representative disclosed a big field. There were plugs, in addition to those for Mr. Boggs, for

Sets World's Record Here

Royal Mist, owned by Franklin Hastings, of Berlin, Md., and driven by Bill Fleming, established a world's record for 2-year-old pacing fillies on a half-mile track in a race Wed., July 25, at the Kent & Sussex County Fair here. Mrs. Hastings is seen holding the filly. The filly set a mark of 2:05. The old record, according to the Trotting and Pacing Guide of the United States Trotting Association, was 2:06.2, made by Floating Dream at Troy, O., last year.

Court Exonerates Harrington Driver In Death of Girl, 14

William James Cabbage, 27, of Harrington, was exonerated on a charge of manslaughter by auto by Trial Magistrate Charles H. Gibson at Cambridge Monday night. Cabbage is the son of State Senator and Mrs. William Cabbage of Wyoming.

Cabbage was accused of causing the death of 14-year-old Audrey Beatrice Jolley of East New Market Saturday afternoon, July 7, when she was struck by a truck operated by the defendant while walking at the intersection of Route 307 with Route 14 outside of town. Her companion, Lillian Slaum, 15, Centerville, Md., was seriously injured in the accident.

However, Cabbage was fined $25 and costs on a reckless driving charge.

The hearing testimony revolved around the point of whether the nine-ton truck of the Penn Dairies Co., Harrington branch, operated by Cabbage, had a defective spring which caused the steering wheel shaft to lock before striking the Jolley girl and her companion, or if the impact of the truck against a telephone pole broke the spring and locked the wheels after the girls were hit.

Four state witnesses said Cabbage was going at a "good gait." Trooper A. H. Peterson testified the truck was traveling at "excessive speed." There were six witnesses for the defense with Herman C. Brown of Dover, as attorney for Cabbage.

Magistrate Gibson said the testimony showed no gross negligence on the part of Cabbage. State's Attorney Calvin L. Brinsfield concurred.

The magistrate found Cabbage guilty of reckless driving because "his own witnesses agreed he was going about 40 miles an hour." He held that this was excessive speed on a narrow, turtleback road with two pedestrians in full view.

The civil suit for damages in the case was settled out of court.

Burks to Rule Harness Races

Andrew L. Burks, of Georgetown, was elected chairman of the Delaware Harness Racing Commission at its reorganization meeting Monday night in Georgetown.

One of his first official acts was to welcome Ralph W. Thompson, of Hartly, recently appointed member of the commission, who succeeded J. Harold Schabinger of Felton, retiring chairman whose term has expired.

Others attending the meeting were Commissioner E. Leland Pleasanton of Odessa, Mr. Schabinger, and J. Ewell Calhoun, executive secretary of the commission.

Mr. Burks announced that the commission will meet soon with Jacob Williams, president of the Kent & Sussex Fair Association, and T. Brinton Holloway, general manager, to discuss plans for the fall harness racing meet at Harrington, beginning Sept. 6.

Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Pope, of Elsmere, were weekend guests of Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Ford.

Concessionaire Arrested at Fair

The music, noise, and laughter of the Kent & Sussex Fair was only a memory after its final closing Saturday night, but for Louis Wolinsky, 22, of Boston, operator of a marble-rolling concession, the melody lingered on.

Police said the weapon, a .38 calibre revolver, was fired by Wolinsky several times Saturday night at Tony Barris, 35, operator of "The Night Spot," a girl show at the fair. They said Wolinsky then struck Barris over the head with the weapon.

The fight was reported to be the outgrowth of an argument which began the preceding night and allegedly involved Ming Toy, a friend of Wolinsky, and one of the principals in Barris' show.

According to police, Wolinsky had decided to close his marble-rolling concession and leave the fair on Friday night. Investigators were told he asked Ming Toy to accompany him, but Barris said that if she left she would not get her pay. A fight ensued, according to state police, and Wolinsky absorbed a beating.

Saturday night, police said, Wolinsky returned to the discussion, but brought the revolver with him. They declared he fired it a number of times and then beat Barris over the head, before leaving the fair grounds.

Barris was taken to the Milford Memorial Hospital, where five stitches were taken in his scalp. He was released after treatment. Wolinsky was arrested Saturday night by state troopers as he was driving north, near Dover, from the fair grounds.

Gruwell Replaces Brown On School Board On Ruling of Attorney-General

Only One Candidate Was Supposed to Be Elected in 1950—Gruwell's Term Runs From 1949 to 1953

Engineman Cleve West on train No. 430 out of Delmar last Wednesday was sounding the whistle long and loud approaching the crossing at Cheriton, Va., fireman, M. L. Leates was ringing the bell and the warning lights at the crossing were flashing when a large truck load of tomatoes moving from east to west, shot out on the crossing directly in front of the train.

This was the second such harrowing experience for Cleve in the past ten months as he was hauling No. 453 last election day, Nov. 7, when a large trailer load of saw logs shot out on the track in front of him. The flying logs and parts of the truck cleaned about everything off the engine, but Cleve and his fireman Enoch Dunn, both of these boys said it gave them a lot of grey hairs and hoped they would not have to go through another experience like it. Well, Cleve probably has acquired a few more grey hairs but he was still at the throttle when the train pulled into Cape Charles with tomatoes smeared all over the engine.

Our enginemen tell us, this takes a lot out of a guy and has a tendency to make him a little gunshy and sends shivers up their spine when approaching crossings. It also takes a lot out of the truck drivers and they are not around to tell us why they would disregard all the warning put there for their safety.

A recent cartoon in the Keystone Motorist magazine showed a driver draped over the front of an engine pilot with parts of his steering gear dangling. His last words were; "I guess I'll have to get a heavier car."

J. Harvey Burgess, Fulton Downing and Mayor Rash were guests of Superintendent Lingenfelder at a luncheon in the business car, "Cape Charles" before assembling in the Governor's parade to the fairgrounds.

Mr. Lingenfelder and his staff were highly appreciative of the courtesies shown them by the fair association and the Harrington people in general. All expressed a desire to come back again during the fall race meet.

When Mr. Lingenfelder shook hands with bridge inspector, Ollie Stokes last week, he asked where and when they had met before? Neither could remember, but the superintendent made it plain that the name and face registered indelibly with him and he left it up to Ollie to dig it out, reminding him that he at one time was located at Clayton engine house.

Ollie went around for a couple of days with a distant deadpan look on his face, just like he has when he is troubled about a drawbridge condition that requires attention. On the third day he approached the writer, radiating happiness and enlightenment and said: "Now I know where I first met our new superintendent. It was at Farnhurst back in 1934 or 35."

Ollie went on talking about a big pile of coal they were handling, when someone asked why either he or Mr. Lingenfelder had to be at Farnhurst. He then told us there was a long sidetrack and storage yard on the north end of the division known as Farnhurst yard where large stock piles of coal had been stored for a pending coal strike. Said he was out there in charge of three derricks loading the coal into cars, when a young fellow came out from the general office to push the job and do the telephoning on how many cars were ready to move, etc.

Ollie said the temperature fell below that for which the young fellow was dressed and his phone was exposed to the weather so Ollie gave him his sheep-lined overcoat to wear that night. He says he remembers now, that fellows name was Lingenfelder.

Is it any wonder the name and face registered when he shook Ollie's hand.

Herman Cabbage Brown is not really a member of the Board of Education of Harrington Special School District, and the term of his predecessor, Ellwood B. Gruwell, will continue until July 1, 1953, or until his term terminated by death, resignation or disqualification, according to an opinion received from H. Albert Young, attorney-general.

The move was made when it was discovered that Mr. Gruwell, elected in 1945 for a four-year term, was not supposed to be a candidate in 1950. Since he did not resign he automatically began a second four-year term in 1949 when no one filed for the office. Consequently, there was only one vacant post in the election of May, 1950, and this went to Hayward Quillen since he received the highest number of votes, 312.

George R. Miller, Jr., State Superintendent of Schools, in a letter to C. H. Burgess, writes: "I am enclosing the information concerning the case of Herman Brown versus Ellwood Gruwell: "Mr. Ellwood B. Gruwell was elected to the Harrington Special School District Board of Education in May 1945 to serve for the 1945-49 term.

"The incumbent of Mr. Ellwood B. Gruwell's name was not filed for the candidacy to the Harrington Special School District Board of Education in 1949, inasmuch as friends who had agreed to take care of the filing neglected to do the same.

"The Harrington Special School District Board of Education appointed Mr. Ellwood B. Gruwell to the supposed vacancy, and re-elected him president of the Board of Education on July 19, 1949, on motion of Mr. Fulton Downing, seconded by Mr. Allen B. Parsons. The motion passed unanimously. The secretary, J. C. Messner, was named and acted as president pro tem, when the above motion was made and passed.

"In the spring of 1950, the Clerk of the Peace, of Dover, Delaware, announced and publicized two vacancies on the Harrington Special School District Board of Education and had ballots . . . printed and delivered for the election on the second Saturday in May 1950.

"The results of the election on May 13, 1950, at from 1:00 to 5:00 p. m., were as follows:

Herman Cabbage Brown	-304
Ellwood B. Gruwell	-298
John Minner	-172
Allen B. Parsons	-203
H. Hayward Quillen	-312"

Had Mr. Gruwell resigned at the end of his term, the Board of Education, in the event there were no nominations for the post, could have appointed his successor. But since he did not resign and since there were no nominations for the post, Mr. Gruwell automatically was entitled to serve another four years, or until 1953. Consequently, there was no vacancy for the Board of Education to fill by appointment.

In a letter to Dr. Miller, Atty.-Gen. Young said he based his opinion on the Dickerson-English case of the Laurel Board of Education. In this case, Harry E. English was elected to the Laurel Board of Education in 1945 for a term of four years. On the date designated for the 1949 election, there were no nominations, and therefore no election for the position then held by Mr. English was held. Mr. Young writes, "It is not clear whether or not Mr. English resigned at the end of his four-year term, but it appears he did not."

Consequently, Mr. English was automatically entitled to serve four more years, or until 1953. Therefore, his name had no place on the ballot in the 1950 election. Dickerson, who had the second highest number of votes in the 1950 election, was not entitled to office, since there was supposed to be only one vacancy and the successful candidate was the one with the most votes.

Frederica

Most of the secondary school pupils of the community are working full time this summer in stores, factories, plants, or restaurants in other towns; some are caring for their younger sisters and brothers while others in the family go to out-of-town employment.

Frederica was well represented at the Kent & Sussex Fair during the past week; the evening performances being the most popular attraction.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Stevenson, with their son and daughter, are spending this week with Mr. Stevenson's mother, Mrs. Lida Stevenson.

The score for the Frederica Baseball Club was a loss and a gain Sunday. The losing score with Wyoming was 7 to 5 while the gaining score was 11 to 6. Clayton now occupies the place which Frederica held for two seasons past—the top place. The Mar-Del League has seemed to shift about in its teams standings rather unexpectedly at times and there has been a constant challenge to all the players. An opportunity, however, remains always to get into the win column and Frederica has been in that place and can do it again.

Mr. and Mrs. William Smith and son, and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Smith, of Holmes, Pa., were the Sunday visitors of Mrs. Hetie Palmer.

Mrs. John Farrell and Mr. Arty, of Philadelphia, are spending a week's vacation with Mrs. Farrell's brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Davidson. Mr. and Mrs. Donald Langrell and daughter, Carol Ann, joined the group for a visit to Rehoboth.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Melvin Jr., of Denton, were Monday callers of Mrs. Alice G. Melvin. Mrs. I. W. Betts Sr. entertained this week Mrs. Helen Roat Broncato and two sons, of Poughkeepsie, N. Y., when they were enroute to West Palm Beach, Fla., to visit Mrs. Broncato's two brothers.

Mr. and Mrs. William W. Wilson, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph C. Gerow and Miss Elizabeth Jane Gerow spent Sunday at the Wilson's summer home at Rehoboth. Mrs. Norman Vinyard spent Monday in Wilmington.

Miss Mary E. B. Melvin, of Wilmington, was the weekend guest of her mother, Mrs. Edith B. Melvin.

Death brought silence to the sounds that sang to others only as birds, but had to Mark L. C. Wilde, a fairland of murmur as he had listened carefully to determine the individual bird call. Mr. Wilde, 76, died last week at the home of State Bank Commissioner John C. Darby and Mrs. Darby, in whose home he and Mrs. Wilde had spent their summers for several years.

He was a nature lover as a child and later specialized in zoology, becoming a well known scientist. Authoring articles on birds and their habits for scientific journals and magazines, being a collector for the Philadelphia Academy of Science, and speaking from the lecture platform were counterparts to Mr. Wilde's early Christian training.

Of English parentage Mr. Wilde was the son of a minister and for many years was Bible class leader in Philadelphia, where he had been active in the Episcopal and Methodist churches.

Mr. and Mrs. Wilde spent their winters at Pitman, N. J. During the several years they summered in Frederica the town folk became generally conscious that this talented, educated gentleman had quietly and courteously become a part of their community—whose citizens gave their respect.

Funeral services were held Sunday afternoon from the home at 2 o'clock with interment at Barratt's Chapel. Besides his wife, Clara Johnson Wilde, he is survived by two sisters, Miss Florence Wilde, of Philadelphia, and Mrs. G. Strauser, of Pittsburgh, Pa.

Monday of this week Lt. Edyth Fisher, of Fort Dix, N. J., was notified of her promotion to captain, Army Nurse Corps. Miss Fisher, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry M. Fisher, town, is a graduate of the local school, the Felton High School and the Delaware Hospital, Wilmington.

During World War II she was stationed for a time in Italy. Besides her service at Fort Dix, she has been stationed at Fort Sam Houston, Tex.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Bishop Jr. and two sons, of Greensboro, were Sunday dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Bishop Sr.

Mrs. J. W. Gordon, of Plymouth, N. C., is improving in health at the residence of her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Hinkley.

Mrs. Sharp L. Wilson and her sister, Mrs. F. Alonza Morris, were weekend guests of their nephew and niece, Mr. and Mrs. James H. Humes, at the Humes' summer place at Bethany Beach.

Trinity Methodist Church Notes

Cervantes, a white back, said "by the street of 'bye and bye' one arrives at the house of 'never'." Therefore, why not start this Sunday to do that which you have been promising yourself for sometime, namely; have the whole family go to church?

Our Sunday School, which meets at 9:45 a. m., has a class of your age group. At 11 o'clock the Lord's Supper will be administered; and at 7:30 p. m. the pastor will preach on "Knowing God"; using Psalm 46:10.

Joyce Gruwell and Martha Jean Sneath, this week are representing the Trinity Church at the Peninsula Conference W. S. C. S. School of Missions for Girls being held at the Methodist Camp near Centreville, Md.

Next week the following-named will represent the Junior Choir of the Trinity Church at said camp: Faye Minner, Jeanne Homewood, Mary Ann Montague, Kathryn L. Smith and Adrianna Potter.

The few showers of rain each day have been very good for the farmers.

Peaches are getting ripe. They average from 50c to 1.00 a basket.

Field beans and tomatoes are being ready for the factories.

Corn ears are plentiful on the stalks. Looks like the farmers will have big crops.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Hill and Junior Minner went clamming last Friday. Junior got 65 and Mr. and Mrs. Hill got 96. On the way home they stopped and picked blackberries.

Huckleberries are pretty plentiful. Harry Hill and wife and Junior Minner got about two twelve quart buckets full.

The hard beating rain last week was a setback to the watermelon and cantaloupe crops.

Mr. and Mrs. Randall Knox were fishing Sunday. They report not catching a fish.

Mrs. Nettie Minner entertained relatives Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. William T. Wilson, of Camden, N. J., were town visitors last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Bob Johnson and children, of Wilmington, spent the weekend with Mr. and Mrs. Harry Hill.

Alex Argo Sr. visited the pony penning races at Chincoteague, Va., last Thursday.

Mrs. Joe Lane and children and Mrs. Jean Argo and son enjoyed a day's visit at Wheeler's Park Friday.

Hughes X-Roads

The Colonel from Covington was talking about a creature who had chiseled him out of 68 cents in a "game of skill" about four years ago: "He is respected—but not respectable."

"New York Is Still Full of Dope," says a headline in the New York Mirror. To anyone who cares to read the stuff written by the Mirror's columnists this headline is unnecessary.

People have asked us why we like to travel about over the country lecturing. We like to lecture because our physician told us to avoid crowds.

A Delaware weekly editor accuses President Truman of using bad "judgment." We suggest that before he accuses Truman of bad judgment he learn to spell judgment without that extra "e."

Citizens of Greenfield, New Hampshire, are amazed because an eighteen-year-old Muscovy drake sat on an egg and six Baldwin apples three weeks. Our belief is that it is merely an example of New England thrift.

A Wilmington column says: "She had some other words, too, but none with the semantic beauty of bellabuzzard." According to our dim intellect, no words containing "buzzard" can possess beauty, semantic or otherwise.

THESE CHANGING TIMES

In days gone by the mother made her own dress. If a few scraps of cloth remained, she made her tiny daughter a dress. Now, the mother makes her tiny daughter a dress, and if a few scraps remain, makes a dress for herself.

In the ballads so popular in the mauve decade the sweethearts pledged their troth in the first verse and one of them died in the second verse. In the ballads of today, the lovers of good music do the dying.

LINDSAY McVEY—SCHOLAR AND MUSICIAN

Lindsay McVey, who passed away last week, was known and liked by hundreds and hundreds of people. Many people knew him as a fraternal organizer, as a civic-minded, progressive citizen of humanitarian impulses—but not a dozen people knew another side of him.

How many people knew that he had one of the finest music libraries in Delaware?

How many people knew that he was an exceptional singer and had been a member of some of the outstanding quartets in Delaware and Maryland?

How many people knew him as one of the best historians in this section, that he read and retained much of the best in literature, and that he could discuss the classics with the ablest scholars? A few people knew this—but very few.

A few days before his death he and others were planning a complete lecture course, bringing to Harrington some of the outstanding lecturers of America.

IT'S COLOSSAL, SUPER-SENSATIONAL

Moving picture advertising doesn't have the pull it had once upon a time because the misguided press agents have run out of superlatives. An ordinary picture would lure such words of praise as great, super, phenomenal, colossal, mastodontine, sensational, from the pens of these agents, and when they had a really great picture they had no words left with which to describe it. As an illustration they called the picture of the Randy Turpin-Ray Robinson fight the Supreme Fight Sensation of All Time!

What about the time an overgrown English middle-weight, Charlie Mitchell, fought the great John L. Sullivan to a thirty-nine-round draw in Chantilly, France, or when a rosy cheeked schoolboy, Young Corbett, knocked out the great Terrible Terry McGovern in two rounds at Hartford, Conn.?

"IT'S YOUR BUSINESS"; LINCOLN'S MESSAGE

An insignificant advertising folder issued by the Ohio Match Company came to us a few days ago. It contained an almost-forgotten message from Abraham Lincoln. We believe it worth reviving—and suspect it would be well for some of the present-day "President haters" to give it careful thought. Here is what Lincoln wrote:

"In all trying positions in which I shall be placed—and doubtless I shall be placed in many such—my reliance will be upon you and the people of the United States; and I wish you to remember, now and forever, that it is your business, and not mine; that if the union of these states and the liberties of this people shall be lost, it is but little to any one man of fifty-two years of age, but a great deal to the thirty millions of people who inhabit these United States, and to their posterity in all coming time.

"It is your business to rise up and preserve the Union and liberty for yourselves, and not for me. I appeal to you again to constantly bear in mind that not with politicians, not with Presidents, not with office-seekers, but with YOU is the question: Shall the Union and shall the liberties of this country be preserved to the latest generations."—State Register, Laurel.

When you all get south of Dover There's a town you'll want to see, It's not so large, and not too small But where you'll like to be.

Made up of friendly people Who stop and chat with you, They make you feel so happy You don't know what to do.

So come, you'll get the habit Of chatting with folks too And others who will come in here Will want to chat with you.

Now sum us up and come and see Just what we folks are like, We want to make you happy And we'll try with all our might.

Our races every Spring and Fall and Kent & Sussex Fair are really unbelievable, until you go out there, You'll find the same warm spirit no matter where you go, a pleasant smile, a lot of fun, and a friendly Hi! Hello!

Letter to the Editor

July 16, 1951 It Happened in Kansas City— The extremely heavy rains recently in the Missouri River watershed and particularly the heavy downpours in Kansas last week caused an unbelievable high water level in the Kaw and Missouri rivers that merge at Kansas City.

The army engineers in charge of flood control had a statement in our Friday morning Kansas City paper assuring us that in spite of the record high water that was coming that the levees would hold and we were not in danger. However, the levees did break about 10 o'clock Friday morning and within two hours the whole industrial district of Kansas City, known as The Bottoms, was under from four to twenty-five feet of swirling water and Kansas City was experiencing the most devastating flood in American history.

Fortunately the retail district and much of our industrial district and all of the better residential districts are on high land and out of reach of the floods. However, the stock yards, second only to Chicago in capacity, and the railroad yards, handling Kansas City's twenty-six trunk railroad lines and the second biggest railroad center were suddenly and completely submerged.

and some finished goods but owing to the complete co-operation of the paper mills, box plants, envelope plants and many others, our service to our dealers will go on uninterrupted. Shipments are proceeding as usual by either railroad or truck. The flood waters have now receded from six to eight feet over the high water level and tomorrow morning, together with the rest of the folks in the affected area, we expect to start the unwholesome job of cleaning several inches of slimy silt out of these warehouses and getting them back in running order. The early estimate of loss in this community was a quarter of a billion dollars. It was later estimated at one-half billion and now they estimate it in excess of three quarters of a billion. This high water is now moving down the Missouri River and St. Louis will soon have the highest water in its history to contend with. We are hoping that dikes and levees will hold.

Many farmers in the Kaw Valley and on down the Missouri Valley and many small concerns in the industrial districts of Topeka and Kansas City have been terribly hard hit and are most deserving of sympathy and help.

This is not Kansas City's first disaster and like in times past these difficult times have greatly increased our determination, enthusiasm and energy to do our job and in a very short time we will be rolling along better and faster than ever.

Since the Town Council forced the merchants of the town to tear down the old sheds from the fronts of their buildings, several of the merchants are trying to make the old building less unsightly by applications of paint. Nearly 3600 seriously disabled veterans have established their right to Federal grants for "wheelchair" homes, Veterans Administration said last week.

The grants were authorized by an Act first passed by Congress in 1948 and later amended, under which V-A defrays 50 per cent of the cost of such homes for eligible veterans up to maximum of $10,000.

Originally, only paralyzed veterans could receive the grant, but the amended law makes eligible all veterans of war or peacetime service since 1898, whose service-connected disabilities result in the loss, or loss of use, of both legs.

V-A is charged with determining that the applicant's disability is one within the scope of the law, that it is medically feasible for the veteran to live in the house, that he has sufficient income to carry the property, and that the particular home selected is adapted to his needs.

The homes incorporate such special features as ramps, instead of steps, doorways wide enough to accommodate a wheelchair, special bathroom fixtures, and exercise rooms equipped in accordance with the needs of the individual.

V-A supplies model plans, specifications and blueprints of such specially-designed homes, which the veteran may use if he wishes.

The grant may be utilized in several ways. The veteran may buy a lot and build a home on it, remodel his present home to suit his needs, or apply the grant against mortgage indebtedness if he already has a suitable home.

As of June 30, 1951, the housing plans of 1890 disabled veterans had been approved in a total sum of $17,046,449.

Of this number, 1552 veterans planned to build new homes, while the remaining 328 will remodel their present homes or pay off indebtedness on special homes already acquired. The construction grants, 1253 of which include purchase of a lot, averaged $9,561 each, and the others, $8,077.

In selecting a place of residence, more of these disabled veterans chose California than any other state. A recent survey of 1536 fully-paid grants showed 263 recipients living in California, 114 in Illinois, 100 in Texas, 99 in New York State, 78 in Massachusetts, 61 in Florida and 59 in Pennsylvania. Every other state except Nevada was represented in the cases surveyed.

Veterans of the Korean fighting qualify for special housing grants on the same basis as other veterans. However, V-A said most of these eligible are undergoing hospitalization and will not be planning their housing needs until they have received the maximum benefit of hospital treatment.

Early Postal Service

Ancient Hammurabi might be called the First Postmaster General. The Babylonian king had a regular "postal service" between towns. His "postmen" were foot-runners; his "letters," clay tablets, addressed and stamped with the official seal of the sender.

Seaford Boy Wins Tractor Operators' Contest at Fair

Fred O'Neal, of Seaford, took first place in the 4-H tractor operators' contest Thursday at the Kent & Sussex County Fair. The contest, held for the first time, required the contestants to operate over an obstacle course, give a demonstration of daily inspection, correct starting of tractors, and a belting test.

Maurice Fields, 4-H Club agent for New Castle County, was in charge of the contest.

Other winners were as follows: second, William Cook, Kenton; third, James Williams, Seaford; fourth, Richard James, Laurel, and fifth, Raymond Lamborn, Newark.

Fast Races Feature Kent & Sussex Fair

Some fast racing featured the harness race program at the Kent and Sussex Fair which was observed as Governor's Day with Gov. Elbert N. Carvel and state officials as special guests.

Split heat winners were recorded in the free-for-all pace which found all five entries only about a length apart at the wire. Mighty Boy, owned and driven by Lloyd James, Cambridge, Md., was in front by a head at the end of the first heat while Cash Kirk, owned by B. T. Benfield, Morris, Minn., and driven by Mel Harmenting, nosed out two other contenders to win the second heat.

Johnny Brew, owned by P. H. Garrow, Denbigh, Va., and driven by Jimmy Garrow, won both heats of the 2:15 trot. By trotting the mile in 2:07.2 to win the first heat, the horse lowered its own time record for the mile.

Because of the large number of entries, the 2:22 pace was divided into two divisions, each at one mile. Honor Direct, owned and driven by Lloyd James, Cambridge, Md., won the first division in 2:07.2, thereby lowering its own record.

Fans were given a real thrill in the second division when Dallas, a 16-year-old horse, owned and driven by W. T. Bolton, Newark, came from a poor fourth position in the back stretch to pace under the wire in front by a nose, and in going the mile in 2:10, clipped four-tenths of a second off of its all time record for the mile. This was the first start for Dallas this year.

Dearborn's Road Maintainer Suits Many Purposes

Dearborn's new road maintainer, exhibited at the Kent & Sussex Fair here last week, is a new low-cost piece of machinery that should find many needs in this area, according to A. I. Mumford, of Phillips Implement Company, of Berlin, Md., one of the firms interested in the exhibit. Bayard V. Wharton, of Milford, is another dealer for the machine.

Mumford believes the road maintainer is ideal for the small township, or hundred as it is known in Delaware, because of the small output of money. He says it could also do the jobs heavier equipment is doing in Delaware, such as grading along the highways.

"Most grading machinery has been on the heavy side," explained Mumford. "Contractors could use it (the Dearborn road maintainer) for small jobs, for little patch-up work. It could move swiftly from job to job and also be used as a secondary snow plow in case of a light snow," Mumford concluded.

Houston

(Too late for last week)

About 130 attended the picnic from Houston Church School at Trappe Pond last Friday. It was a grand day and everyone had a good time.

Millwood Sunday School held its picnic at Lewes Beach last Wednesday, with a good number present. Rev. and Mrs. Louhoff Jr. attended the picnic and on their return spent the evening with Mr. and Mrs. James E. H. Joseph, near Harbeson.

Mrs. Oley F. Sapp spent last week in Wilmington where she was under observation and was X-rayed by a specialist.

Mr. and Mrs. Hummel Sapp and son, Guy, of Wilmington, spent the weekend with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. O. F. Sapp, and Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Jones Sr. at Ellendale, and Saturday evening a surprise dinner was given to Mr. and Mrs. Jones in honor of their 50th wedding anniversary at the home of their son, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Jones Jr.

Mr. and Mrs. Josiah M. Parvis and children and the Misses Ann and Jean returned home Saturday after having spent a week's vacation in Ocean City, N. J.

Little Miss Yvonne Sapp, of

Lewes, is spending a part of this week with Janice Sharp and they attended the Harrington Fair Tuesday.

Jack Kennedy, near Wilmington, spent Sunday with his daughters, Elaine and Kathleen, at the home of their grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Merrill W. Thistlewood.

Mr. and Mrs. Emory Webb and Mrs. Merrill Thistlewood visited Mrs. Jack Kennedy in the State Hospital Wednesday of last week and found her condition greatly improved.

Mrs. Daniel Roe is staying at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Arthur Carlisle, and her condition remains about the same.

FARM NEWS AND REVIEW

John Watson opens the front and back of his broiler houses when it gets hot.

John Watson, of Chincoteague, Va., and Foy Searcy, of Palmyra, Va.—both poultry raisers—realize the importance of keeping mortality low and production up during the summer months, says the July issue of Cooperative Farmers, a Southern States publication.

Watson raises broilers while Searcy has a laying flock.

Keeping mortality low is of particular importance to Watson, and he feels that such loss can be greatly reduced by taking extra care of his birds during periods of extreme heat. His house, which is 240 feet long and about 25 feet wide, has removable windows along the front. "During hot weather I take these out," he said, "and open up the back of the house so as to provide cross ventilation."

The back of the building has hinged sections running the entire length of the house and these can be raised whenever needed. In front of the building is a fenced-in area, with a number of shade trees, into which Watson turns his broilers if they need more air.

The broiler house is equipped with running water so the birds will have an adequate supply at

Tomato Seed Oil and Asparagus Soup From Delaware Products

Ever hear of tomato seed oil? Did you know that dehydrating asparagus butts for a soup base can use most of the 50 per cent waste in the Delaware asparagus industry?

Tomato seed oil can be made by pressing the seeds left after processing tomatoes. Says Professor G. L. Baker, of the Delaware Agricultural Experiment Station, "Tomato seeds, separated from the skin waste, can yield up to 18 per cent oil by heat, more with oil solvents. The oil is very digestible. And the residual seed cake has about 32 to 38 per cent protein, which makes it high in feed value for animals."

Mr. Baker published these facts after working on a survey of what could be done with by-products of Delaware's fruit and vegetable processing industry. "Processing is necessary to stabilize the industry, and by-product uses are necessary to a successful processing industry," Baker stated.

Other possible ways of using plant wastes might be composting plant by-products, using products as a base for growing mushrooms. Leafy wastes might be used for dehydrated poultry feeds.

Wyoming in February repealed its laws prohibiting the sale of yellow margarine. This leaves only 13 states still banning the yellow spread.

Farmers To See Research At Station Field Day

The most irregular field of corn in the state, a new drainage system, the first full crop in the peach variety orchard, and chemical weed control in strawberries and asparagus are just four out of 18 demonstrations that farmers can see at the seventh annual research field day, August 7.

The field day is a regular August feature at the University of Delaware's research station on the Georgetown-Laurel road in the heart of Sussex County. The demonstrations have been prepared by the horticulture, agronomy, entomology, and plant pathology departments of the Delaware Agricultural Experiment Station.

Visitors will see 10 or 12 different varieties of ripe peaches, spacing trials with watermelons, use of fungicides to control cantaloupe diseases, anhydrous ammonia gas used as a side-dressing for corn, control of pepper insects, and other experiments. They'll also have a taste of some of the University's best cantaloupes and watermelons.

The event gets under way at 1:30 p. m. There'll be short talks about the research going on at the station, guided tours of the experimental plots, and then a chance for visitors to talk to the specialists and get detailed information.

Black Watch Herd Represented at Kent-Sussex Fair

M. P. Edwards, farm manager of the 1000-acre Lands End Farm, of Queenstown, Md., was at the fair last week with 3 Angus heifers and two bulls from the Black Watch Herd of 200 head. They didn't do too good, Edwards explained, saying they were a large type that failed to excite much attention from the judges. Nevertheless, they had choice quality and will be worth their weight in diamonds if the beef market acts as it has been doing.

The name of the herd is an appropriate one since the Aberdeen-Angus originated in Scotland, the home of the famous Black Watch Regiment, once referred to as "the ladies from hell."

The owner of Lands End Farm is J. S. Laughlin, a member of one of the families interested in the Jones-Laughlin Steel Corporation. Mr. Laughlin bought the farm and some stock on it four years ago and built it up to its present status.

Farm Manager Edwards explained that the herd of Blackbird, Eileenmere, Blackcap, and Jilt bloodlines, predominately, was a source of breeding stock throughout the country. Bryan's Manor Farm, of Salisbury, bought four Black Watch heifers once at a group sale at Frederick, Md. This spring the farm consigned calves and bulls to a sale in Montgomery, Ala., and they did well.

Edwards figures about 50 per cent of the calf crop is bulls. He retains four or five of the best and sells the rest as steers.

The Black Watch Angus run on two permanent pastures—one with Ladino and orchard grass, mainly, and the other, on White Dutch clover, bluegrass, and orchard grass. Lespedeza is used for temporary pasture.

If you have pullets it is best to keep them out on range with adequate shelters. A bird in the shade is worth two in the hot sun.

$70,500 Bull Heads Chino Farms Herefords at Church Hill

The world's record price for a Hereford bull is $70,500 and this gent—Hillcrest Larry 4th—cuts his capers right here on the Eastern Shore. Furthermore, he was the six millionth Hereford to be registered.

This king of the Hereford world heads a herd of 650 head on the 1800-acre Chino Farms at Church Hill, Md. The farm is owned by Henry Sears, of New York City.

Chino Farms participated in the first showing of Whitefaces at the Kent & Sussex Fair last week, with 3 bulls, 4 steers, and 6 heifers representing the largest contingent in this division. They romped off with the honors, but then that was not difficult as entries in the first showing were sparse.

However, the entry list at the fair will grow, judging from what Elmer Rutter, in charge of the breeding herd, said. He exclaimed that Herefords were increasing on the Eastern Shore and that Chino Farms had made a number of sales to breeders here.

Lynch & Burbage, of Frankford, bought a bull, with J. Edwin Lewis & Son, of Dover, buying two females. Elisha Hickman, also of Frankford, also bought a bull. Rutter says there is a big demand for bulls.

Incidentally, his daughter, Nancy, had a steer, Bingo, which took third place at the fair.

The 13 head at the fair were also in charge of James Reid, an Iowa native who helps in the show barn, and Herdsman James Cooley, a native of Tennessee. The latter was formerly connected with a prominent Tennessee herd until its dispersal.

Reid's chores in the show barn become apparent when on realizes that an outstanding herd such as the Chino Farms Herefords, of Domino and Hazlett bloodlines, takes part in the prominent shows in the East. The Kent County, Md., Whitefaces show at the Maryland State Fair, at Timonium; at fairs at York, Pa.; Springfield, Mass.; Trenton, N. J., and at the Eastern National at Baltimore.

At the local fair the herd had the grand champion steer, a junior yearling, Chino Silver 151, sired by Real Silver Domino out of a Hazlett cow.

Gun Blast Takes Life of Farmer

James Richard Uhler, 60, near Milford, was found dead of a shotgun blast in the head Thursday afternoon, July 26, in the corn field of his farm. State Police of the Dover troop and Coroner William Fleischauer, Jr., held it a suicide.

The investigation by the officials indicated that the man had been brooding over a morals charge, involving two small Milford girls, on which he was recently arrested by Milford police. He was sentenced to six months' imprisonment in Court of Common Pleas at Dover Wednesday and was at liberty under bond pending disposition of an appeal taken by him.

Leaving his home between 8 and 9 o'clock Thursday morning, Uhler failed to appear for lunch and his wife, Mrs. Nellie Uhler, started a search and found him dead in the field about a quarter of a mile from the house. She notified State Police and their investigation indicated he had sat on a crate and pulled the trigger of the single barreled twelve-gauge shotgun with a stick. The man left no note. Uhler, in addition to farming, was an employee in a pickle factory. His farm is about a mile east of Milford.

Plane Crash Kills Dover Photographer

Foster Gerald Lambert, 50-year-old commercial photographer of Dover, was killed instantly at 7:12 o'clock Sunday night when his private plane crashed into the roof of the Floyd Wells Stove Company at Royersford, Pa. The Dover man sole occupant of the craft, was decapitated in the crash.

Lambert, popularly known as "Jerry," was a veteran of 34 years flying. He left Dover Airport sometime before 3 o'clock to visit his sister, Mrs. Marion L. Hudson at Polstown, Pa. He was flying a two-seated Cessna 140.

According to Montgomery County police, the Dover photographer's plane circled low, then nosedived into the roof of the stove factory over the enameling department. It tore a six-foot hole in the roof, then bounced off to the side but not to the ground.

Lambert, an aerial as well as a commercial photographer, had worked for both the Delaware State Police and Dover police and carried a press card issued by the former. Chief of Police Bryson Turner of Royersford said that the motor of the plane seemed to be in good working order and that apparently Lambert lost control of the plane.

An outstanding photographer and an expert flyer, Lambert conducted a studio at his home, 114 Lookerman Street, Dover, with his wife, Mrs. Karlotta Lambert, also a photographer. They were in business under the name of "The Lamberts."

Before going to Dover eight years ago, Lambert had a studio at Elkton, Md., and before that in Washington, D. C. For awhile he had a studio at Rehoboth.

Born at Titusville, Pa., Lambert served as a test pilot for Curtis planes during World War I because he was too young to enter the service. In his early years he spent considerable time in England, France and Italy. He spoke French and Spanish fluently and during part of World War II he went on confidential assignments for the U. S. government in the European area.

Lambert took an active interest in the Aviation Club of Delaware, of which he was a member, and did a great deal in the way of promoting it. He also was a member of the Dover Chamber of Commerce.

There were no witnesses to the crash, but residents of the area were said to have seen Lambert's plane flying at about 100 feet shortly before the crash and said the engine seemed to be working all right.

Señorita Emma Campa Valdez Tops Bevy of Big Top Beauties Coming Soon

It's fair in the air when the intrepid lovelies of the famous 3-ring Campa Brothers Circus get up in the roman rings; the trapezes and the rest of the maze of aerial rigging in the vast dome of the big top. Circus aerialists begin their training near the ground and work up gradually so that when they have become skilled at their hazardous work, they are as much at home at lofty heights as the spectator would be on his front porch.

Scores of pretty girls, performing as aerial daredevils, bareback riders, acrobats, wild west riders and elephant mahouts grace the personnel roster of the big Campa Brothers colossus, and they'll all be in HARRINGTON MONDAY, AUGUST 6 for afternoon and evening presentations at 8 and 8 P. M. on Circus Grounds will be at the Fleming Grove lot.

The Campa Brothers show admits to being second in size in America, but it has no near rival in zoological novelties and in all-around circus appeal. "It has that 'new look' without having lost that fine, old-fashioned circus feeling," is the way an admirer recently described this fast-growing western amusement institution.

E. Y. Williams, Dover, Returns To Democratic Party Position

The "old war horse" of the Democratic Party in Kent County is back in harness in a post with the county committee which he held for 27 years before retiring from it a little more than two years ago.

He is E. Y. Williams, 38, North Governors Avenue, Dover. The position he has resumed is the important one of secretary of the Kent County Democratic Committee.

His return followed the resignation of Judge W. Marion Stevenson, Frederica, who withdrew from the post after his recent appointment as judge of the Kent and Sussex Juvenile Court.

Served as Treasurer
During 20 of the 27 years Mr. Williams served as secretary of the committee, he also held the position of treasurer. He was a member of the committee from 1921 until the formation of the present committee, which started functioning this year. The secretary does not necessarily have to be a committee member.

In accepting reelection to his old duties, "E. Y." in Kent County political circles those initials when spoken mean only Mr. Williams—specified he should have an assistant to serve for him when he might be unable to be on the job. This agreed to, he named Mrs. Beatrice Hubbard as his aide.

Held Levy Court Post
Mr. Williams' first public office was that of a member of the then 10-member Levy Court, to which he was elected in 1917 for a term of four years from the Third Representative District. At that time he had a farm between Kenton and Clayton.

He moved to Dover in 1921 and in that year started his long career as a member of the county committee and about three years later was also made committee secretary. He declined reelection as secretary in 1949 and

Phantom Burglar Search at Dover Ends With Arrest

The alleged "phantom burglar" who had been operating in Dover sporadically for nearly four months was captured by Dover police late Sunday morning as he vainly sought to evade them in a field of high weeds and dense brush.

He is William Masten, 29. He lived in the 300 block of South New Street but, he told police, he had been spending periods in Philadelphia and Atlantic City between his asserted housebreaking forays in Dover. However, he is now in the Kent County jail.

12 Separate Offenses
The police, who said that under questioning the man admitted 12 separate offenses of breaking and entering and larceny, had had Masten under suspicion for some time and Sunday morning they learned he had been seen in a broad expanse of brush and weeds west of New Street, between Bank Lane and Water Street, not far from his home.

Practically all members of the police department joined the daylight search and eventually flushed the hunted "phantom" from the refuge which had given him protection from observation or chase. He made a break for freedom in spite of a warning shot fired into the ground by one officer but submitted without a fight when finally nabbed about 11 a. m., police explained.

Returns From Shore
Masten returned to Dover Saturday night, it was learned, after his last sojourn at Atlantic City where, he told police, he had a job in a restaurant. He had formerly worked in a restaurant in Dover. Police said the man, who simply gave "money" as the reason for his burglaries, has a past record of breaking and entering offenses.

Masten, according to the records, committed the first of his four-month-long series of offenses on March 1 and after that started his come-and-go routine. He said he made his trips back and forth to Dover by bus and hitchhiking.

The list of places to which he is said to have admitted breaking into follows:
Delmarva Diner, South State Street, near the Green, on May 1 and May 13, getting a sum of money on each visit.
The Capital Theatre at South and North Streets on March 6, getting $12.

Visits House 3 Times
Home of Mrs. Frances Clayton, 522 South Governors Avenue, on May 20, allegedly getting $300 belonging to a church fund; June 10, getting a small amount of money, and on June 21, on which visit Mrs. Clayton interrupted his prowling and chased him from the house before he got any loot.
Capitol Cleaners and Launderers, South Governors Avenue, on May 20 from which only a shirt was taken.
Store of Thomas Freeman, South New Street and Bank Lane, close to Masten's home, from which cigarettes and a small amount of money was taken.

Home of Nadine Cheeks, 24 Slaughter Street, where nothing was obtained.
Home of Charles Guy and Thomas Roach, 121 Water Street, on June 17, where the trousers of both men, about $7 in money, and beer from the ice box were taken.
Home of Mrs. Lillian Sockum, 806 North Street, on June 21, getting a gold watch and $13.50.

Flashlight Stolen
Highway Express Lines and County Supply Company, North and West Streets, both on June 22, with a flashlight taken from the former place and nothing from the latter.

Mrs. Clayton Sunday identified Masten as the man she saw in her house and chased on his asserted third visit to her home, police disclosed. It was also learned that Masten had a narrow escape from capture after the Sockum robbery but had too great a headway when observed by patrolling police officers.

State Senator Ernest B. Benger, of Westover Hills; former Chief Deputy Atty-Gen. C. Edward Duffy, of Carcroft; First Assistant City Solicitor Herbert B. Warburton, of Wilmington, who was recently elected president of the National Federation of Young Republicans; and Capt. Edmund N. Carpenter II, of Greenville, former chairman of the Active Young Republicans, Inc., who has been on duty with the armed forces since December. Generally, the political talk centered on the candidates for Governor. Because of the large number of appointments the Governor has to make and for many other reasons his office is the one most sought by both parties. Leaders of the two major parties hope, of course, that they will carry all of the offices, but if they can salvage one in an otherwise beaten cause they want it to be the Governor's office. Thus, as the talk went on in the blazing sun, or in the shade of the welcome trees, the drift was toward the candidates for Governor. If a poll had been taken there would have been little question that on the Democratic side the candidate would be either Governor Carvel or Lieutenant Governor Bayard while the Republicans would be glad to have Mr. Boggs accept.
