Farm Front News

Roy Adams, Denton, raises broilers, sells shavings and feed, and raises and feeds beef cattle. Here he is with some Whitefaces in his breeding herd on a farm near Queen Anne, Md.

Shavings Play Prominent Role As Broiler Litter, Says Adams

To Roy Adams, Denton feed dealer and broiler manufacturer, wood shavings are a valuable commodity. He sells around 1250 loads annually for litter in chicken houses. In addition, shavings provide the litter for 225,000 broilers he is now raising. When one considers Adams raises about three batches of birds per year, one can see he is no slouch in this field.

Time was when shavings at a local lumber mill, to a considerable extent at least, were a waste. True, Nuttle Lumber did, and still does, use shavings for all heating purposes, even to firing the kilns, but there was a surplus for the city dump until Adams came along.

When we went to the Adams Feed Company at Oil City, Adams was mowing hay. Not that he had to do it, but, as an employe explained, because he likes to do it. In the office was William Jump, assistant manager, and George Shaffer, who takes care of the broilers, a big job in itself. Incidentally, Shaffer is a son-in-law of Mr. and Mrs. Jennings Cahall, of Harrington.

Jump itemized the advantages of wood shavings as a poultry litter. The Adams shavings were mostly pine and made a soft bedding, he said. The softwood shavings, he added, were highly absorbent and reduced moisture to a minimum. Furthermore, he explained, shavings were cheaper than other litters and were also easier to remove from chicken houses than some other litters.

Jump estimated that 3500 chicks, on a year-around average, used a load of 768 cubic feet of shavings. We went into a huge quonset hut in which there were between 400 and 500 loads of shavings. Adams sells shavings to such concerns as Milford Supply Company, Peck Brothers, Harrington; R. W. Bennett, Felton; O. A. Newton & Son, Bridgeville, and to these Harringtonians—Dorothy Price, Emil Gerardi, Walter Schiff, and Howard Williamson. The owner of a milk farm, near Middletown, bought several loads to use as insulating material for a cold storage house for horse meat.

Adams converts shavings into beef. The litter from his broiler houses is used on his two farms. On one, near Queen Anne, we saw a nice bunch of Whiteface cattle which Adams is using as a breeding herd. Most of these he bought from S. B. Davis, a Journal advertiser of Chadds Ford, Pa. These were on an excellent pasture of lespedeza and grass which had been limed and fertilized with chicken manure. On another pasture, Adams had a bunch of Whiteface stock calves he purchased recently from Jake Rudnick, Dover. This pasture was soon to be turned under and planted to rye. Adams, who started in business at Seaford, and whose parents line near Tower, said he hoped to buy enough additional cattle to have 100 head in all this fall.

Valued Metal
The United States—despite its part in the discovery of the metal and the fact that columbium was named for "Columbia"—is negligible as a source. At peak periods, this nation has accounted for only a few thousand pounds annually, gained in connection with mica, quartz, beryl, and other mining.

Milk Perfect Food
The food in your diet which is most often taken for granted is milk, yet no food is as complete or nearly perfect. It is a veritable gold mine of vitamins and other food nutrients. An added attraction these days, milk has an attractive retail price.

WHEELER RADIO STORE NEWS

You one who has held up so long in getting an electric range on account of the installation charge being so high? It costs around 60 to 75 dollars to have an electric range installed unless you are wired for a range.

Of course it is useless for me to tell you something that you already know and that is the wonderful things that an electric range will do. No smoke especially when you broil under glass and that is just what you do with the new up to date range.

Glance at the stove and the color you behold tells exactly what temperature you have turned on. Then again let me call your attention to the quick elements these ranges now have, only 30 seconds and they are red hot.

Wipe the dust or such from the range after ten years of use and it will look like it did brand new, glistening white. The broiler in an electric range is wonderful and when that man comes home to that dinner then you will reap the benefits of owning one.

Why am I telling you so much about electric ranges? Well I want you to own one and now listen to this and cry with joy. If it costs you 75 dollars or even a hundred dollars to have one of these ranges installed that amount will be paid at our store.

We will arrange for the installation or you yourself can do it. Again if you have an electric range and all it needs is a new one no matter how old. One hundred dollars will be allowed for it.

This offer is only for two weeks so hurry, hurry, hurry and save a hundred. Now cooking troubles are over what about that heating problem? We have several oil space heaters just waiting for a new home so they can be put to work and help you enjoy the comforts of a home.

We have them in sizes from a one room heater to a bungalow, and while speaking of heating we have some gas heaters for a single room such as a bathroom, kitchen or bedroom, and then again we have larger ones to heat a bungalow. Of course they are for bottled or metered gas.

Very nice to have some with forced draft and thermostat. Now we have the kitchen and heating problem settled what about a little pleasure? No not a little a lot.

I am speaking now of the first medium that can be put in your home for all around pleasure for your whole family. What is it? A TV of course.

We have plenty of them to choose from and two of the best, Philco and Westinghouse. We have them now but how long I couldn't say.

Your neighbors are getting them so why not you? Have you thought of your wife lately who is still using that old washer. Why not open up a little and say wifey you have done wonderful with that old washer and saved us many dollars in fact saved enough to buy a new automatic and she will say Oh darling I do love you.

All these items mentioned can be purchased from 30 to 40 dollars down and then a long time to pay the balance. Talk Peace Not War. Let us all pray the right ticket will be drawn.

She trained for six weeks at Hunter's College, New York City. Then she was transferred to Lakehurst, N. J., to become a parachute rigger for three months. She then was transferred to Pensacola Naval Air Station, Fla., as a parachute rigger 3rd class. Seven months was spent at Pensacola, then she was sent to Bronson Falls, Pensacola, Fla. She married Parachute Rigger 1st Class Carl Goodson, July 1944.

The following year her husband was transferred to Chincoteague later to Norfolk for sea duty. They have three children and live near Norfolk, Va.

Lt. Katherine B. Rash, before entering the Navy Katherine was instructor of home economics at the Harrington High School. Lt. Rash is the daughter of Mayor E. B. Rash and the late Bertha Knox Rash. Was graduated from Harrington and received her Bachelor of Science degree from the University of Delaware in 1938.

She enlisted in the WAVES in November 1942 and reported for active duty Dec. 22, 1942, at Naval Training School Northampton, Mass. On March 9, 1943, upon completion of intensive training in communications as a midshipman, she was promoted to an ensign in the U. S. Naval Reserves. Ordered to report to the office of the chief of naval operations, Washington, D. C., she served in communications until she was transferred to Brooklyn Navy Yard, N. Y. She advanced to the rank of lieutenant (equivalent to captain in the Army) in November 1945 and remained on active duty at the close of World War II, transferring to the regular Navy in 1949.

Lt. Rash says, "My eight and one half years in Navy communications has afforded me vast experience. The regimentation has proven a coordinating influence rather than a restriction. The duty has provided unlimited opportunities, educationally and socially, and a deep feeling of personal satisfaction in having contributed to the nation's welfare."

She is still on duty at the Brooklyn Navy Yard and married to Capt. W. E. Riley, U. S. Army.

Undisputed champion among the nation's 2-year-old trotters, and probable winter book favorite for the 1952 Hambletonian is Walter T. Candler's Duke of Lullwater, a black colt sired by Volomite.

The Duke has gone to the post in 16 heats this year and has won 14 times while placing second on the other two occasions. He has earned $59,270 for his Decatur, Ga., owner to become the biggest money-winning 2-year-old the harness racing sport has ever known.

The Volomite colt, trained and driven by young Johnny Simpson, has knocked off the $35,000 Horsemanship, $32,000 Castleton, $21,000 Greyhound, $16,000 American National and $15,000 Reading Futurity. His only loss came in the $10,000 Tompkins Memorial in which he was upset by Hit Song, his most consistent challenger.

Duke of Lullwater will make one more start, at Lexington, Ky., and then owner Candler will have to go shopping for a new trainer since Simpson is giving up his present campaign to take huge public stable at the end of over as general manager of The Hanover Shoe Farms, Hanover.

LEARN TO READ THEM

Turn the Pages, Little Son; You'll Live in Their Shadow

I read my daily newspaper and toss it on the floor. My two-year-old son comes toddling into the room and sits down to play with the pages. As he turns them folds them, and listens curiously to the rustling of the paper, I find myself filled with meditation, with wonder.

I find myself speculating about the future of my son—and the effect of the newspaper. Now it is only a toy to him. But in a few short years he will be reading it; he will be studying its contents in search of knowledge and truth.

If you could understand, my son, what could I tell you about that mighty instrument of communication that you hold so casually in your tiny hands?

Will you learn to read it and understand, analyze, interpret? To call the facts from the propaganda and apply them effectively to your own life?

There is so much I could say, my son. I could tell you, first of the great sociological knowledge to be gleaned from your newspaper. I could tell you that only by reading of the actions of the individuals and groups who make up our own particular culture, and of the reactions of others, can we assure ourselves of right from the wrong, of the acceptable from the non-acceptable.

Then, my son, I could tell you of the great value of the newspaper in the teaching of government. This is vitally important, and is perhaps the outstanding influence in our keeping democracy alive.

And finally, my son, I would warn you that the newspaper tells all, and that the decisions are yours in separating truth from falacy in the quotations of men. I would beg of you to read all that the newspaper has to offer. I would ask you to read, and be affected by accounts of the goriness and horrors of preliminary wars in other corners of this

Table Tennis Legend

Table tennis originated about 1880. According to one legend it was invented by a group of British army officers stationed in India. Fretting because the rainy weather kept them from enjoying their regular tennis, these officers—so the story goes—piled some books across the center of a large table, fashioned some balls out of cotton batting and proceeded to adapt their favorite pastime to table-top conditions. The name table tennis became more or less official in 1926 with the organization of the International Table Tennis federation.

Detectives Arrest Man For Assault

State Police detectives at Dover, who have been investigating the circumstances of a fight at a Camden-Wyoming dance hall, Saturday night, Tuesday arrested Joseph Andrew Hawkins, 18, of Smyrna, on a charge of felonious assault.

Hawkins was held in $2000 bail by Magistrate Maurice W. Carrow, of Camden-Wyoming, pending the outcome of injuries suffered by David Faulkner, 25, of Dover, October 3 was fixed as the date of the defendant's appearance in the Court of Common Pleas.

Faulkner, whose home in on White Oak Road, is in Delaware Hospital, Wilmington, with a fracture of the skull. His condition is reported to be fairly good. Authorities charge that Hawkins struck Faulkner with a softdrink bottle in the dance hall free-for-all, which occurred as the climax of an argument over a minor automobile mishap.

Faulkner reportedly refused treatment at Kent General Hospital after the fight, but Sunday was obliged to summon a physician who ordered him to the hospital.
