Kent & Sussex Meet Will End Sat. Oct. 6; Harness Racing Continues Good

Irene Gallon Pays $66.40 to Win Wednesday Night — Best Time Of Week Recorded at 2:07.4

With a record crowd sending some $95,000 through the windows Saturday night, the Kent & Sussex Racing Association experienced its most successful session in the history of the meet. The fall harness meet here will end Sat., Oct. 6 after having been extended by permission of the Delaware Harness Racing Commission.

Norman Hanover, owned by K. C. K. Stable, Salisbury, and driven by Homer Kelley, paced a mile in 2:07.4 Friday night. The son of Mr. McElwyn-Nimble Hanover competed against a select field of Hi-Adventure, Candy Jean, Shamrock Vic, Miss Inez, and Maxine's Kitty.

Monday night, the same time was made by Windy Law, C. T. Oakley's crack pacer, with Head-pin placing, and Will Bolton showing. The marks of Norman Hanover and Windy Law were the best of the week.

D. Drummond, driving Grattan Strange, was involved in a mixup in the second race Saturday evening. He was taken to Milford Memorial Hospital for emergency treatment after which he returned to the track.

The daily double paid $219.80 Monday night when Fond Memory, driven by C. Oakley and owned by Charles J. Mattingly, proved she was more than just a memory in winning the first race, a classified trot. Conquest driven by J. W. Downing, Machipongo, Va., won the second part of the double.

Hanover Express, 22-year-old bay gelding, owned by W. H. Broach, St. Stephen's Church, Va., and driven by C. Crockett, placed in a trot Tuesday night which was won by Linda Rosecroft, a bobby-sox filly of three. Time was 2:14.3. The veteran campaigner, probably the oldest horse taking an active part on the pari-mutuel tracks, will retire from pari-mutuel tracks after this meet under a ruling by the United States Trotting Association by which horses over 15 years cannot compete. He may race at fairs, however.

Crusade For Freedom Offers Opportunity

To Fight Communism The Crusade for Freedom is offering Americans an opportunity to go to Europe and help fight the propaganda battle personally by presenting their thoughts on the best way to penetrate the "iron curtain" with the truth, according to a statement by William C. Purnell, Maryland head of the crusade organization.

Everyone who wants to personally enter into the battle to help bring freedom to the oppressed people of the communist dominated countries can participate in the movement to get the truth behind the "iron curtain."

"We invite everyone who has a special thought on methods of getting messages through the communist barriers to express those thoughts in writing. Those people who present the most logical thoughts, will be given an opportunity to help put their plans into practice in connection with the Radio Free Europe broadcasts to the satellite countries, or through the Freedom Balloon Barrages," Mr. Purnell stated.

This plan for soliciting ideas on methods of getting the truth behind the "iron curtain" was originated in Greenwood, S. C., and is now being extended nationwide in conjunction with the 1951 Crusade for Freedom campaign.

All written suggestions on how to penetrate the "iron curtain" with the truth should be placed in writing and sent to Crusade for Freedom, care of the Postmaster, or directed to Crusade, Baltimore 1, Md. All suggestions and recommendations should be sent to Crusade headquarters prior to October 15 so that they can be judged.

The best recommendations submitted by Marylanders will be forwarded to New York, and the three persons who submit the most practical suggestions will be given an opportunity to help put their plans into operation.

Business Women's Week

The Harrington B. P. W. Club is asking that on September 27th of Business Women's Week, each member study the Equal Rights Amendment. The National Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs, Inc., after consideration endorsed the Equal Rights Amendment in 1937.

Women's experience, individually and collectively, had proved that certain kinds of legal protection militate against their best interests. Equality in the law of the land was adjudged the solution.

Three state federations have persuaded their legislatures to memorialize Congress to pass this Amendment: New York State in 1945, North Dakota in 1947, Minnesota in 1949.

The federation took an active interest in the formulation of the U. N. Charter, which purposes "respect for human rights and for fundamental freedoms for all, without distinction as to race, sex . . . or religion."

It continues to urge members of Congress to vote on this measure, of such fundamental importance to so many women. Although over a period of years, there has been a gradual improvement in women's status through the passage of state and federal laws, women in some states today are legally, very little better off than they were in 1848.

Milford Boy Saved From River

A young boy rescued from drowning in the Mispillion River near the municipal light plant on Saturday afternoon, walked off after being revived, and his identity was not learned until some hours later. Hero of the rescue was Thomas Tribbett, an employee of the City of Milford, who jumped fully clothed into the river to save the child.

Tribbett was working at the light plant when he heard screams coming from the rear of the plant, which extends along the bank of the river. He ran out the back door, and saw a young boy struggling in the water and a small girl and boy on the bank calling for help.

Seeing that the boy was sinking, Tribbett did not even remove his shoes as he jumped in the river and swam to the spot where he saw the child sink, apparently for the last time. As he reached the spot, Tribbett noticed the child's arm beneath the surface.

Grabbing the arm, Tribbett pulled the boy to shore, but was unable to get him on the bank as he himself was sinking in the soft mud at the shore line.

However, by that time, workmen at the plant arrived and assisted in getting the boy to the shore. He was revived quickly, but during the confusion that followed, managed to disappear with his companions.

It was learned later that the boy was seven-year-old Richard Daugherty, son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Daugherty of Second and North Walnut Streets. The children were playing along the river when Henry toppled over the bank into the stream and was carried out by the current.

Railroad News

Only one more day until everybody comes back on railroad time.

Someone from the race track asked Len Watson the other day which he preferred, "fast" or "slow time." Len had just finished transferring four truck loads of heavy mail bags into train No. 452 and said, "Either one is fast enough for me."

The new time table and book of rules also become effective Sunday.

Train No. 468 from Cape Charles to New York, stopping here at 2:59 a. m. becomes a regular stop on the new time table. This train had always been stopping for mail and many of our racing people who wanted to patronize the railroad were given the brush-off when inquiring about the service, and told they could not buy tickets for it due to it not being a regular stop for passengers. This has now been corrected and we are hoping we can solicit sufficient patronage to subsidiate the change.

Dan Ritchens, Len Watson and Bill Myers heard about some of the big catches being made by a couple other railroad boys now on vacation and decided to gang up and make a real haul. They first tried the Chesapeake Bay side without luck, then shifted to the Delaware side, rented a boat and shoved off without checking time and tide, which "waits for no man." Dan said it was a lot harder getting back as the tide had gone out and they had to drag and carry the boat back.

A lady on the night train to Cape Charles last Tuesday, told the pullman conductor she was trying to get to Norfolk to see her husband who was supposed to sail for Europe Wednesday. While the Elisha Lee was moving through Hampton Roads passing two troop ships coming out, loaded to the gun wales with troops, she became hysterical, knowing one of the thousands waving to her, was her husband but a little too far away to recognize him.

An experience that only that lady and those who have gone through similar circumstances, can appreciate.

Of Local Interest

Mr. and Mrs. Harley Waller have returned home after spending some time in Ocean City, Md. Mr. and Mrs. Ralph H. Waller and Mr. and Mrs. Paul Mumford of Ocean City, Md., are the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Harley Waller.

The Harrington Special School District Parent-Teachers' Association met Tuesday evening at the high school.

Calvin Simpson, president, gave a review of the school building program. He said that the monies voted in the Dec. 10, 1949 referendum of $210,000, supplemented by $129,000 of the state, or $339,000, were in hand. These funds are available to be used in a school building program. He pointed out that the lowest bid on the whole building program was $511,643. This total bid distributed itself as follows: The bid on the 14 classrooms and the cafeteria was $444,564 and on the alterations to the gymnasium-auditorium, $75,709.

It was the sentiment of the meeting that a referendum advertised to be held Oct. 6, be supported and that an active effort be made to procure a vote to permit a bond issue of $134,400. These monies are to be matched by the State with monies to the amount of $201,000. This total of $336,000, added to the amount raised in Dec., 10, 1949, referendum or $339,000 makes a total of $675,000 to be used in the program as planned by the architect, Walter Carlson.

A message from Mr. Carlson indicated that building costs have advanced since the bids of 1950 were opened. The best information of the building market indicated that the cost of the general construction could be about 12 1/2 per cent higher, the electrical contract about 24 per cent higher, and the heating contract 32 per cent higher. In taking the figures in the 1950 bid and adding the above percentages, it was found that the present plan would provide enough money for the building.

The money that is being used now to renovate the 1912 building was a grant to the district by the State of Delaware and in no way makes any inroads on the funds voted at the Dec. 10, 1949, referendum election.

J. C. Messner, superintendent, was asked, "Why the 1912 building is having alterations made to it when it was indicated that the same had been condemned." He said that the building was of value to the district.

That it had been condemned by the State Board of Education for general elementary school purposes and that any parent with any regard for the welfare of his child would desire a grade school and a cafeteria of a different character. He indicated that the self-satisfaction and opposition of those against the referendum would be broken down if only those parents would do their children the kindness of visiting the school and see the need themselves.

The school board and the building commission and the school building program board from Governor Carvel down have given their support to the program as drawn up. To fail now may be more rather than less expensive to the community and may add more miles of travel for the children to a new center that may be the result of a new re-districting.

The Parent-Teacher group was of the opinion that no loyal citizen would oppose a raise of $1.50 per thousand when they realized the benefits to themselves and their community.

The opinion of the group was that good schools are a barometer of good citizens, of progress, and increased values of real estate. Good schools have been and are the signs of democratic living. Good schools were the hope for the support of democracy as presented by those who drew up our Declaration of Independence, the U. S. Constitution and our State Constitution.

Your schools will indicate who you are and what your hope for the future is. Won't you come out and vote for the Bond Issue? Enjoy your community, enjoy of the good things in living.

Asbury Methodist Church Notes

Rally Day will be celebrated in the Sunday School, with Fulton Downing in charge. Missionary work, the theme of the lesson, is more than taking the gospel to new geographic areas; it is also taking Christianity as a living reality to new areas—social, industrial, political, recreational—in which pagan darkness prevails. Those who are at home have ways to make their contribution as well as those who cross the sea. The Sunday School session begins at 10 a. m.

Accidents Down
The number of fatalities resulting from railroad accidents in 1950, crossing accidents, was 73 percent excluding highway-railroad gradeless than in 1900.

Trinity Methodist Church Notes

The wisdom writer centuries ago said "The conscience of a man is the lamp of the Lord, searching the innermost chambers of the being." Jesus spoke of those who love darkness rather than light. Modern authorities, who ought to know, tell us that of those who do not go to church, the real reason most of them give is that of a guilty conscience. Well if all of this is true, then the remedy is not the careful guarding of conscience, but rather the exposing of it. The church seeks not to deepen the wound of a guilty conscience, but to treat and heal it. Our doors are open to the morally sick and to those who are on the way to full recovery.

Senior Class Will Present "Tish" November 15 and 16

When Mary Roberts Rinehart's "Tish" stories first appeared in The Saturday Evening Post they were accorded such great acclaim that America's most gifted female novelist was compelled to write an entire series with the classically humorous "Tish" as the central figure. Now Alice Chadwicke has adapted these popular stories for the theatre and turned them into a gay and joyous modern comedy, which will be presented two nights, Nov. 15 and 16 at 8:15 p. m. in the high school auditorium under the auspices of the Class of '52.

"Tish" is the perennial spinster, loves adventure, and always manages to get herself and her friends into a pack of trouble. Together with her two boon companions, Aggie and Lizzie, she experiences a variety of thrills and embarks on many strange adventures.

Miss Chadwicke has had access to all of the Mary Roberts Rinehart stories of "Tish" and has studied them diligently before making her own special dramatization. The result is a play that is crowded with laughter.

"Parties should be simple," says Evelyn Mills DuVal, Consultant National Council of Family Relations. Whether she referred to the social or the political—they are!

"I'm going to get cleaned up," said a friend Saturday night as he went up to his room to shave and change clothes. Later he went out to the race track—and made good his promise.

Miss Utah became Miss America at the Atlantic City beauty pageant. Miss Indiana won second place, Miss North Carolina, third; Miss Arkansas, fourth; Miss Florida, fifth. The winner is five feet ten and most of the others almost as tall, which leads us to wonder if they're going in for pulchritude or altitude these days.

The jubilation over the dedication of the Delaware Memorial Bridge has barely died away, and a Wilmington organization complains to the City Council that the bridge is "enticing" business away from Delaware, and especially from Wilmington. We question the use of the word "enticing," and believe that "tolling" would have been a better word. However, if the Memorial Bridge is enticing business away from Delaware, can't that same bridge entice business to Delaware? It's a two-way bridge.

A bank at Chester, Pa., has placed a box containing $20 in small change on a desk for the convenience of its customers, who make their own change. The risk they run of losing anything by this method is negligible. We know a fellow by the name of Tom Shell who operates a service station on the northwestern corner of the court square in a southwestern town. There are several dollars in small change on the top of the cash register and when you buy a soft drink you wait on yourself and make your change, because Tom is outside most of the time selling gas and oil. "We've been doing this for over two years," Tom explained, "and haven't lost a penny—there's not a politician within sixty miles of here."

There is a freakish contest held over on the Jersey coast each year, the National Froth-Blowing Contest. Beer is served in a silver cup and the person who can blow the froth off the beer with one breath wins this silver cup, properly engraved. The organization sponsoring the contest is the Loyal Order of the Ugly Mugs. It has a national membership of more than five hundred, including quite a few congressmen from dry states, whose names, at their request, are not made public. The Colonel from Covington entered the contest this year—and won first honors. The papers proclaimed his victory, and when he returned to Harrington, we expected to see the exquisite silver cup he had won. Instead, he had only a tin can, formerly housing the cheapest Maryland beer in the world, although it was properly engraved, proclaiming the Colonel from Covington the champion froth-blower of the world for 1951. When we asked him how he happened to have this tin can instead of the silver cup, he answered: "Well, suh, the beer was served in the rarest silver cup I've ever seen. Just before it came my turn to blow the froth, I took two hookers of good Kentucky Bourbon. Not only did my breath melt the froth—it melted the silver cup—and they gimme this can."

Gelett Burgess, who died last week in California, was well known to many Harrington people, not only through his writings, but as the result of his two visits here.

He was listed in America's "Who's Who," and in the "Who's Who" in the world. His fame was world-wide and the famous columnist, O. O. McIntyre, called him the most versatile genius in all the history of literature. The great Booth Tarkington expressed the same opinion to us when we visited him at Kennebunkport, Me., in 1939. Mr. Tarkington also believed that only two other poets possessed Gelett's nimble wit, Oliver Goldsmith and Oliver Wendell Holmes.

Gelett was the principal speaker at the most widely publicized banquet in all history—with the exception of Belshazzar's Feast. This is no exaggeration. A photograph of the speaker's table, together with the story, appeared in the Rotarian Magazine, which at that time circulated in 81 nations. The Publishers Auxiliary, which goes into practically every newspaper office in America, published the picture on its front page, together with a lengthy story—continued on the inevitable page 4, and the "New York Day By Day" column, the most widely-read column in the world at that time, devoted its entire space to an account of the banquet. Other speakers were Charles B. Driscoll, famous columnist; District Governor George Williams and Frank Kline of Salisbury. J. Harvey Burgess was toastmaster.

And that banquet, the famous Lettuce Banquet, was held right here in Harrington, a Ladies' Night and Inter-City Meeting of the Harrington Rotary Club. Through Gelett Burgess, millions of people all over the earth heard of Harrington, Del., for the first time—and probably the last.

Gelett's second visit to Harrington was in the summer of 1939. He came down at that time to have the Harrington Journal print his little booklet, "Short Words Are Words of Might," originally appearing in Your Life Magazine. This was the history of language, and to prove his point that short words are words of might, the entire booklet is written in words of one syllable, and so cleverly written that no one would ever notice the truckload of monosyllables unless someone called attention to it. Newspaper publishers all over the country bought that booklet to give to their young reporters. The publisher of the Rochester, N. Y., Chronicle sent us an order for a dozen of these booklets, with the explanation: "My young reporters seem to think long words are an indication of wisdom. I want them to know better."

Many Harrington residents have copies of Gelett's "Look Eleven Years Younger," named by the eminent critic, William Lyon Phelps, as the greatest non-fiction book written in the world in 1937.

Gelett, Carrington Burgess and the writer visited Mr. and Mrs. Bankson Holcombe at their beautiful old home, Mordington, overlooking McCauley's Lake. Mrs. Holcombe took us to the basement and showed us the tunnel through which slaves had been smuggled and told us of the legend of the mulatto girl who had committed suicide there. Many persons, she said, claimed to have seen the girl's ghost.

Looking at the lake through Japanese-ivy bordered window on the third floor of Mordington, Gelett exclaimed: "This room was made for the poet Shelley."

At a private dinner at the Swain Hotel one evening, Gelett discovered something new. An epicure, who had lived eleven years in Paris and had dined at practically all the famous eating houses of the world, he pronounced the dessert at Swain's as the most delectable he had ever tasted. He asked them what it was and they told him it was huckleberry pie. He asked for an additional piece of pie to take up to his room and they, of course, smilingly, gave it to him.

When he returned to New York, our story of his visit bore this caption: "He'd Never Seen A Purple Pie!"

A TALE OF TWO TALES

Herbert Hoover's series in Colliers is interesting and refreshing, but the last installment sounds like it should be marked "Paid Political Advertisement." We never thought that the distinguished Mr. Hoover would stoop to bragging—but he brags a lot in this article—and he refers to Bryan as a demagogue.

When President Harding became ill, according to Hoover, the White House physician, Dr. Sawyer, attributed Harding's condition to some bad seafood he had eaten. Hoover summoned a heart specialist, he says, and that specialist pronounced it a heart condition. Mr. Hoover, who does not qualify as a medical authority, places himself in opposition to the President's own physician when he says: "The cause was undoubtedly a heart attack." Why did he thus commit himself? Why not let that rest and, if it can, be forgotten? Newspapermen on that trip give a different story.

"I at once telephoned Secretary Hughes, who arranged that Vice-President Coolidge be sworn in that same night." The newspapers at that time, and many times since, stated that a newspaper publisher at Montpelier, accompanied by a senator from Vermont, found it necessary to drive to Plymouth to notify Coolidge because the latter had no telephone, and when the arrived after dark, the oil lamps were burning in the Coolidge home. They told him of the President's death and suggested that Coolidge's father, a magistrate, swear him in as President. Coolidge doubted the constitutionality of such a move and the three of them went over to a neighboring store to phone to Washington about the validity of such an action.

They were a long time in getting a response to that telephone call. Finally, Coolidge told the merchant he would take a soft drink. The merchant gave it to him and Cal enjoyed his solitary drink. The newspaper man and the senator exchanged glances and finally asked the merchant for two more soft drinks. Twenty minutes later Cal pulled out an old-fashioned purse, fingered around in the small change compartment and came up with a coin, which he placed upon the counter. It was a nickel!

The newspapers of that day were wrong—or Mr. Hoover is wrong.

FREE PRESS SPREADS LIGHT ON DARKNESS OF IGNORANCE

"Your newspaper lights the way to freedom." That is the theme which has been chosen for the 1951 observance of National Newspaper Week.

The choice is a fine one, for the slogan has far-reaching implications.

First of all, it suggests that where there is no light there is darkness. In this case the darkness is ignorance, "a night," someone has said, "without moon or stars."

The National Newspaper Week theme presumes the right to pierce that darkness with the light of information and it presumes at the same time the right to keep that light burning in face of all odds.

For free man has a right to know. If there is a right to know, there must be a right to tell.

The men who made this nation considered the right to tell so important that they wrote it into No. 1 Amendment to our Federal Constitution: "Congress shall make no law . . . abridging freedom of speech and freedom of press."

But the right to tell is more than a privilege, it is a duty.

Elijah Lovejoy, abolitionist editor at Alton, Ill., believed in his right to carry the lamp of the free press and he knew his duty to light it and keep it burning. Three times mobs destroyed his printing presses. While he was protecting his fourth press, Lovejoy was shot to death.

Don Mellet, the Canton, Ohio, publisher, kept the spotlight of publicity focused on the racketeers in his community until they ambushed him and shot him at his own doorstep.

Racketeers, international or smalltime, know the power of the press. That is why they must control that power, why they must black out the light of public information if they are to attain and maintain a grip on the people.

That is why half the population of the world is under some form of censorship today.

That is why Gen. George C. Marshall, Secretary of Defense, said "Americans should keep constantly in mind that no people have lost their liberties so long as their press remained free."

That is why in the interest of world understanding—and hence in the interest of peace—our nation seeks actively to spread throughout the world the freedom of the people to learn the truth.

A free press—a free people.
"Your newspaper lights the way to freedom."
The vital truth of that message is the one thing National Newspaper Week has to sell.

MISSED AMERICA

Girls may look wistfully toward the beauty pageant in Atlantic City and wish that they had been chosen. Be glad that you did not even enter the contest. There is no worthwhile reward.

The winner will receive some money and a few prizes. She will get a few theatrical engagements at decent wages and a few small night club engagements at indecent wages. Then she will go back home and spend the rest of her life in drab surroundings, just like many of the disillusioned youngsters of that master mountebank, Major Bowes, hearing the taunting remarks of the envious: "So the great actress couldn't hold her job!"

The most beautiful girl in America is unknown. She is up at early dawn, doing the housework while her poor, tired, overworked mother is securing a much-needed rest—that is, if the modern version of mother has been able to make it home by daylight.

TO THE PUBLIC AND PATRONS OF THE HARRINGTON SPECIAL SCHOOL DISTRICT

Dear Patrons:

Through the activity of your Board of Education you are enjoying the benefits granted by the State of Delaware through Governor Elbert Carvel and his Board, and the General Assembly, namely:

1. A new fuel oil burning heating plant.
2. Reconditioning of the 1912 building for future library, art and music purposes.

This is an outlay of about $50,000.

Your Board of Education feels that community pride prompts all loyal citizens to come out to the polls and vote FOR THE BOND ISSUE. Since you will want your school to remain a HIGH SCHOOL, you will want it to continue to offer at least the present offerings and benefits to our children. It is a known fact that to fail now will not lessen the tax burdens of the community. It will simply shift them to another administrative group. A combination or a consolidation which may grow out of an imposed redistricting could follow a failure to provide sufficient room to carry on our school and instructional program. We can keep our school progressing if we pull together and do as our neighbors are doing, that is, Vote for THE BOND ISSUE.

The monies voted in the 1949 bond issue election to build the additions, can be used for that purpose and that purpose only. It is essential that the additional money, that is, the $134,400 be forthcoming in order that the building may be completed. Vote for the bond issue ($134,400) and the State of Delaware will give us an additional $201,600. Our total then available will be the money in hand $339,000, plus the monies to be raised now through the vote, and the state grant or the amount of $336,000, making a grand total of $675,000.

VOTE FOR THE BOND ISSUE.

GIVE YOUR COMMUNITY A BOOST.

Sincerely,

Your Board of Education:
Robert L. Nelson, Pres.
H. Hayward Quillen, V. Pres.
T. Brinton Holloway
Ellwood Gruwell
J. C. Messner, Sec'y and Supt.

Fire on Thursday afternoon of last week destroyed the large frame grist mill of R. L. Coulter at Greenwood, threatened several other properties and caused a loss in excess of $25,000.

The laying of the cornerstone of Frederick's new school building took place Saturday afternoon.

From the editorial page—People residing on Dorman Street express fear that there will be much automobile speeding on that street as soon as its new road is completed.

The fears should be allayed. It will be impossible to exceed the 92 miles per hour now made on that street by new drivers.

FRIENDSHIP

By Samuel A. Short Jr.
Harrington, Del.

Friendship is in many a hand-clasp.

When made by a friend you know.

Is like the melody of a song, When you hear it sung sweetly and low.

Is like the grass in the meadow, When kissed by the morning's dew.

Is like the colors of the rainbow, Casting its shadows ever so new.

Friendship is like the fountain of a lifetime.

Coming from its wealth's reservoir.

Is like the moon glow at eventide.

With its silvery rays cast on each shore.

Is like the echo in the morning Falling on the hill's far and wide.

Or in the woodland with its warning Never to be cast aside.

FARM NEWS AND REVIEW

James Postles, who, with his brother, Charles, has some 100 head of Angus cattle on their farm near Frederica.

Postles Switch From Dairying To Beef Cattle

When World War II brought on a labor shortage, James and Charles Postles sold practically all their dairy herd and went into the beef cattle business. Today, the brothers, who live three miles from Frederica and get their mail from Milford, have some 100 head of registered cattle, most of which are Angus of the Bardolier bloodline.

The brothers got their start in 1945 after they had seen the exhibits of beef cattle at the Kent & Sussex Fair here. They started out with a bull from Churn Creek Farm, Worton, Md., and sold him after three years to prevent inbreeding. The present bull won a blue ribbon at the fair several years ago but Postles brothers did not own him at the time. This bull also won a blue ribbon at the Maryland State Fair at Timonium several years ago.

The original herd also had some horned Whitefaces, a few of which remain. Some beef cattle are wintered in a barn and the horned cattle might harm the few dairy cows that remain to provide milk for family use. Many beef cattle winter in the wood where bunkers are filled with hay and silage.

Postles brothers keep the best heifer calves for herd replacements and sell most of the bull calves as steers.

The beef cattle industry requires a minimum of care thus enabling the brothers to carry on their trucking business. Furthermore, beef cattle enable the firm to utilize their permanent pasture of Ladino, alsike, orchard grass, bluegrass, and redtop.

Statement of W. P. Sadier, Market Administrator, On Class I Price to Farmers, October-December

Obedient to the provisions of Federal Order No. 61 of the Secretary of Agriculture regulating prices paid for milk to farmers supplying the Philadelphia area, I have computed and announced, effective for October, November and December, the Class I (fluid) price at $6.44 per hundredweight (13.3 cents per quart) of 4 per cent milk, f. o. b. Philadelphia. This price represents a seasonal increase of 40 cents per hundredweight (considered the equivalent of 1 cent per quart) over the present price. If general economic conditions remain close to levels of the past several months, the producer price will decline by the same amount January 1 and, additional by another 40 cents on April 1, 1952.

This price for the fall quarter of 1951 is only 10 per cent greater than was in effect for the same months of 1950. In comparison, current prices are 15 per cent higher in the case of meat animals; 18 per cent higher in the case of poultry and eggs, and 16 per cent higher in the case of dairy products generally. Latest data from Philadelphia Federal Reserve Bank show average weekly earnings of production workers in Philadelphia, Camden area for July at 12 per cent over the same month of 1950 and the number of persons employed in the same area at 9 per cent over the same month in 1950. Quarterly seasonal changes in the price of milk have long been recognized and utilized in the Philadelphia market, with a difference between the second quarter and the fourth quarter—approximately equivalent to 2 cents per quart.

The level of prices on which this spring-fall change applies is calculated by a price formula in Order No. 61. General economic conditions are reflected through four factors—(1) index of the prices of wholesale commodities, (2) index of the cost of feed, (3) index of prices paid farmers for farm products other than milk, (4) prices paid farmers in the Midwest for milk manufactured into evaporated milk. A fifth factor represents changes in the quantity of milk taken by Philadelphia consumers. Class I sales reported for August by Philadelphia handlers are 3.94 per cent over August a year ago; deliveries from producers reported by handlers are 5.8 per cent above a year ago; the number of producers is 4.4 per cent below a year ago and the deliveries per dairy herd per day are 10.2 per cent above a year ago.

In the changing general economic conditions since 1946 there have been times when the drop in the spring was partially or fully offset; likewise there have been times when the fall rise was offset by a contrary change in general economic conditions. These seasonal price changes arise out of the nature of cows to give birth to calves in the spring with milk flow stimulated by fresh grass. Contrarily, the milk flow declines sharply in the fall and is maintained only by additional feed after frost has killed pasture grasses.

For some time prices to farmers for milk have been unfavorable compared to other farm enterprises, with a resultant swinging away from dairy production nationally and in Pennsylvania as a whole. Against this trend producers in the Philadelphia market are making somewhat more milk than a year ago but at no greater rate of increase than is needed for the present and prospective population of Philadelphia to have "an adequate supply of pure and wholesome milk" in the language of the Agricultural Marketing Agreement Act of 1937.

Pro and Cons on Farm Soybean Storage.

Storing soybeans on the farm can benefit growers, handlers, and consumers. It does so by reducing operating costs for handlers and manufacturers, through congestion at elevators, and reduced price risks.

It helps the farmers, says William E. Tarbell, county agricultural agent, because the price usually goes up a few months after the first harvest glut of the market. Soybean prices have followed this typical pattern every crop year since 1928 or earlier, except in the war years of price control.

Tarbell quotes W. T. McAllister, marketing specialist, on some of the disadvantages of storing. Says McAllister, "Growers must think of disadvantages such as weight shrinkage, mold, or weevil damage, storage and insurance costs, etc. Many farms in Delaware do not have adequate storage suitable for soybeans, and therefore might be better off to sell at harvest time. The government will provide loans at reasonable rates to cover cost of new grain storage however."

On the basis of these pros and cons, farmers should probably look into all the angles of storing before they decide to keep their beans on the farm. Doing so will help the overall soybean picture but might not be profitable for the individual if storage on his farm is not good, Tarbell adds.

Dutch Farm Woman Visits Delaware Farms

Mrs. Carl Spithost, Leeworden, Friesland, Holland, visited Delaware this past week, as the guest of Mrs. Duane Lynn, Milford. Mrs. Lynn was Mrs. Spithost's guest at the Associated Country Women of the World meeting in Holland in 1949.

Mrs. Spithost's husband, a county agricultural agent in Holland, was sent to the U. S. to study agricultural programs at various Land-Grant Colleges. Mrs. Spithost is learning how rural families live in America. She visited in Missouri, Wisconsin, and Maryland before coming to Delaware.

During her stay here, Mrs. Spithost visited New Castle, saw a home demonstration television program, visited a poultry dressing plant, and agricultural extension service meetings.

She expressed interest in the number of automobiles, the amount of new housing construction, and the extent to which women took part in educational and community activities.

State Home Demonstration Council Elects New Officers

Mrs. John S. Farrow, Magnolia, is the new president of the Delaware Home Demonstration Council, announces Miss M. Gertrude Holloway, state home demonstration leader. Mrs. Farrow succeeds Mrs. Charles Z. Dukes, Townsend.

Mrs. Farrow has been a member of the Rising Sun and St. Jones' Home Demonstration Clubs for 21 years. She served as president of the Kent County advisory council and as vice-president of Kent County Federation of Women's Clubs. She is currently serving as state conservation chairman for the Delaware Federation of Women's Clubs. A farm woman, Mrs. Farrow is active in community and church affairs. She says that home demonstration work has helped her to become a more professional homemaker.

Other new officers are: Vice-president, Mrs. Carl Wilson, Newark; secretary, Mrs. Frank Smith, Laurel; treasurer, Mrs. Louis Garyantes, Wilmington. All of these women have held high offices in their county home demonstration councils, or have served on the state council previously.

In discussing program plans for 1952, the new council recommended that emphasis be placed on family life, health, and citizenship. The next meeting of the state council will be held at the university, in February, during Farm and Home Week.

Kitt's Hummock Woman First To Complete "Stop-Fire" Project

Delaware families are taking the final step to wind up the 1951 "Stop Fire Campaign," during National Fire Prevention Week, Oct. 7-13. Miss Louise Whitcomb, of the Delaware agricultural extension service, says the final step is a complete check of co-operating farms to see if the monthly jobs have been done.

The first to request a final check-up by a fireman, was Mrs. George R. Hunt, of Kitt's Hummock, near Dover. Frequent marsh fires make Mrs. Hunt very conscious of the fire hazard, says Miss Whitcomb. The Hunts have an Indian fire fighting kit which is carried on a person's back. This is shared with neighbors in case of fire. The Hunts also have a hand extinguisher inside the home, near the kitchen entrance. It is checked regularly and is ready for use at any time.

The Hunts are one of 600 families cooperating in the "Stop Fire Campaign." Others who would like a local fireman to check their farm for fire hazards during Fire Prevention Week are urged to return their post cards early. Those whose farms are checked will be more sure that fire will not start on their places. A certificate will be given all families who have completed the program satisfactorily, after the check is made.

Satisfaction and Safety With Welders

"The electric welder is fast becoming the handiest tool on farms," says William E. Tarbell. "But they can be about the most dangerous, too, if you aren't careful about selecting, installing and using one," Tarbell adds.

Here is advice from experts in electrical research work. The county agricultural extension office passes the information along. Welders come in many sizes, some of which work fine on rural power lines, but others cause trouble, and may even damage highlines and other electrical equipment. For that reason it's best to ask local power companies if the model chosen will work with present farm power. Welders draw a lot of current, so power has to be adequate. Have circuits checked, and safeguarded. The National Electrical Code has a section specifically about welders.

As for safety tips—never use the welder on wet or damp ground or floors, or while wearing wet shoes. Ground the frame of the welder to the system ground. Always use a welding shield and dark glasses. Wear protective clothing, cuffless trousers, and high shoes. Don't let others watch you work "just for the fun of it." Always wear gloves to protect your hands.

Houston Home Demonstration Club

Mrs. Ruth Buarque and Mrs. Paul Messick presented the topic, "Short Cuts in Sewing" at the September meeting of the Houston Home Demonstration Club held at the home of Mrs. Harvey Marvel. Mrs. Francis Parvis, presided over the group.

Discussion was held on the meeting Thursday night at the fire house where the group is making lamp shades. The next meeting will be on October 18 at the home of Mrs. Pearl Rollison. Mrs. Eleanor Cavanaugh, home demonstration club agent for Kent County, will present "The Market Basket."

English Nursery Rhymes

Old English nursery rhymes, like "Hickory Dickory Dock" still help to keep alive the memory of the Celtic language, spoken long before English in England. Old shepherds still count their sheep with the words "hovars, covra, dik"; instead of eight, nine, ten.

Mar-Del Baseball League

By Pat Knight
Semi-Final Playoffs

Wyoming	2	0	1000
Clayton	2	1	.667
Hickman	1	2	.333
Millsboro	0	2	.000

Sunday's Schedule
Wyoming at Clayton, 2:30 p. m.
Mar-Del All Stars at Milford
Yanks, 8:30 p. m.

Last Sunday's Results
Clayton 15, Hickman 2

Clayton advanced to the Mar-Del League finals last Sunday as they rallied heavily in the 4th and 5th innings to take the deciding game from Hickman, 16 to 2. It was a nip and tuck game for the first three frames but in the 4th Clayton send across 4 runs and added 8 more in the 5th. Bill Newman started for Hickman but gave way to Bill Howlett in the 6th, who halted the Clayton attack. Bob Knight worked the first eight innings with Art Webster coming in to hurl the 9th.

The final playoffs will get underway this Sunday afternoon at Wyoming invades Clayton for the first clash of a two best out of three series. Based on their season's play the final series looms as a toss up. The two clubs split a 2-2 during the regular campaign. Bob Knight tossed a victory over Wyoming in the season opener while Lew Wright was victor in their final meeting. In between Freddie Clemence, veteran Wyoming right-hander, turned back the pennant winners twice.

Knight or Wright will probably get the mound call for Clayton this Sunday with Everett behind the plate. The remainder of their line up will be intact except at second. Hard-hitting Gene Handsberry leaves for service in the Armed Forces this week and his position is expected to be filled by his brother, Rich Handsberry. Clemence or Hiram Godwin will get the mound call for Wyoming with Bill Rash behind the plate. The rest of their line up will be the same as that which carried them through the season.

The second game of the series will be played at Wyoming Sun., Oct. 7.

This Sunday night the Mar-Del League All Stars will again meet the Milford Yanks hoping to make it two straight. In their first meeting the All Stars slugged out a 11-5 victory behind the stellar pitching of Bill Newman and Bob Knight and the hard hitting of the entire team. The Yanks have strengthened their line up for his Sunday and George Brown, who hurled in the Eastern League during the past season, will be on the mound. He hurled a win over a strong Hilldale nine last Sunday night. Cotton Williams, Philadelphia Stars outfielder, will also be in the Yank line up. The cream of the Mar-Del talent will be in action again Sunday. Bill Newman, Freddie Adkins, Jack Moore, Bob Knight, Ray Richards, Lew Wright or Hiram Godwin, will be ready for mound duty. Gene Moore, Bill Rash and Bill Howlett will be behind the plate. Every team will be represented in hopes of making a clean sweep over the Milford clan.

Sulky Slants

By Mrs. Dave (Pat) Smith

They say everyone must have a vacation. Well that's a joke. Never have I been so busy doing what comes naturally. That means taking care of horses.

By the way now I've learned how horses are drawn for positions and races.

I had that experience this past week. And just like our stable I drew the wonderful positions No. 7 and 8 for our friends.

You could hear this one and that one saying: "Couldn't you do better?" Then some were drawn out. After all it's really on the up and up.

I just wanted to see for the track one of those hot days, I decided I would see what goes on, behind the guy that works the track.

So, I rode the drag, the sprinkler and the harrow. Now I never care if the darn track is slow, fast or what have you. That's rough riding.

So Harry, I know now what it means to keep a track in condition. Mr. Goldberg, general manager, asked me if I was going to apply for the job.

On top of all this, the other night I went to the paddock with Dudley Spencer. Well it rained so hard that you couldn't see the first race.

I started out to go to the barn. Of all things, I fell down. Buckets went one way, blankets the other and for me, you can guess what I looked like.

Then Dave had another in the second race. What happens? Dave put me up behind Old Uncle Dudley out there on the track and sends us to the barn.

Dudley took me back ok. I was so afraid I just held on and away we went.

I think I covered the water front in grand style.

They say God takes care of us dumb ones. Only Dudley Spencer could see I couldn't.

Ask Harry Adams, he was right there that night.

This is the dearest place this year. No fun like last summer.

I'll be glad to get down where people are friendly. If we can bring these other horses Dave just got we might be there by Sunday.

The press has been very nice. I have nice friends at the radio station. Here and Buffalo.

Do you know they charge a quarter to park your car here on the grounds. But that don't stop the crowd.

Now next year no trailers on the ground. Mr. Goldberg gave me this information. One trailer camp is very close to barns. On account of fires. Guess they don't figure drinks around.

Oh well I don't like it period, give me Harrington any time. It didn't take Carl Goslin long to pull out. I was really surprised he left too.

They were hunting for fast horses the other day, someone said you could always depend on Carl to help them out.

But you run him off. Guess Carl just got tired of it all.

About the worst shock we received was the death of Frank Woodland. Just the night before we left for Batavia from Saratoga, I shook hands with Frank and asked him where did you get that loud shirt? He said, "You should talk Pat, that shirt you have on reeks to high heaven."

We had a cup of coffee together, laughing he said, "Hope that old Anna Day will be better next year." And wished Dave and I better luck.

We left the next day, next thing he was gone.

He was always so nice to Dave and I. We will really miss him.

Then Fred Greenly, gee I was so sorry to hear about him. His cheery face last winter, over a cup of coffee at the Peoples Restaurant was always so happy.

It's too late now to say we are sorry, but our hearts go out to his family.

Then Uncle Bill Reynolds was next. Dave's brother, Lee, at one time raced his horses. Seems each week brings some kind of grief.

You can't dwell on the past, try and look to a better future.

Now for a little horse news. The invitational trot is coming off next week, tongues are buzzing trying to decide who will win.

Darn Flashy is here and Gratian Volo next to us. Tex has Darn Flashy groom for him. He's the one that married one of the ladies that had the Fashion Shop.

Tex says Darn Flashy should win. Chris Spencer won't be here this year. Someone said Demon Hanover wouldn't be here either.

I hear that Syndicator is still winning. What a horse. Been following the races down there and they too are doing alright. Wish we were there. Believe I'll stay with Mrs. Dyer this winter. I'm

Freedom Crusade Motorcade Visits Harness Races

"The way to fight communism is with truth," said Willard D. Boyce, state vice-chairman of the Crusade for Freedom, in quoting Gen. Lucius D. Clay, originator of the movement, Thursday evening at the Kent & Sussex Raceway harness meets.

The color guard of Walter L. Fox Post No. 2, of the Dover American Legion, took part in the ceremony which included the release of balloons similar to those used to carry messages from western Germany to behind the Iron Curtain.

Continuing, Boyce said the purpose of the Crusade for Freedom was to fight communism by radio from western Europe. This year, he added, the movement hoped to raise 3½ million dollars. Part of the campaign, he said, was to release balloons to carry messages behind the Iron Curtain. This idea was recommended by Drew Pearson, columnist. The balloons are filled with helium gas and they rise to 30,000 feet.

Jacob O. Williams, president of the Kent & Sussex Racing Association and the Kent & Sussex Fair Association, said these associations would be only too happy to land any assistance to the Crusade For Freedom or any other campaign on behalf of the world at large.

Skip Makes a Slip

Miss Gilbert, the teacher, was telling me how Skip Lawson almost went to sleep in her physics class. She noticed him nodding and—since they were discussing electricity—said in a loud voice: "Now maybe MR. LAWSON will explain what electricity is." Skip started up, looked around wildly, and blurted out, "Gee! I used to know, but I forgot."

"What a loss to science!" sighs Miss Gilbert. "No one to this day knows what electricity really is, and here we have a genius who could explain it—but forgot!"

IT CAN'T HAPPEN? RECORD SAYS YES

News Items Point to Press Curbs Being Enforced All Over the World

While Americans sit under the banner of freedom and smugly say "It can't happen here," the press is being successfully stifled in many parts of the world.

The fallacy of the "it can't happen" attitude is this: It couldn't happen in Indo-China, Mexico, Columbia, or Argentina, where the Constitution guarantees freedom of the press.

But it is happening in those places—and in many others.

The American Newspaper Publishers Association has compiled a list of significant news items from all over the world, entitled "It Can't Happen Here," which points out that it did happen where it couldn't—and that it could happen here, in America.

Here are some of the news items:

Papers Censored in Indo-China
AP dispatch from Hanoi, North Vietnam, in part:

Hanoi's newspapers — one French daily and four Vietnamese language dailies—must submit their copy before publication to Vietnam government censors, who wield a blue pencil with a heavy hand.

Lebanon Newspapers Protes
AP dispatch from Cairo, Egypt, Jan. 11:

An Arab News Agency dispatch from Damascus, Syria, said today that all newspapers in neighboring Lebanon suspended publication yesterday in protest against recent arrests of journalists who criticized the government and against existing government press laws.

Ultimas Noticias Fined
AP dispatch from Caracas, Venezuela, May 12:

The newspaper Ultimas Noticias was fined (about $500) today for publishing political news not previously submitted to authorities for approval. The fine was imposed by the civil and political administration of the Federal District Government. It did not specify the objectionable items.

Hobbs

Mrs. J. A. Willoughby very pleasantly entertained the W. S. C. S. at her home last Wednesday evening. After business transactions there were several readings after which delicious refreshments were served.

Members of the Andersontown Hobbs Homemakers Club enjoyed a lovely dinner at the Concord Church House last Thursday. The table was filled with a variety of well prepared food which was appetizing. After the dinner dishes washed and put away, the president, Mrs. Harry Nuttle, opened the meeting with singing followed with business. Miss Spafford talked about the coming rally at Harmony and questioned the ladies about a project for next year. Mrs. Mollie Horsey and Mrs. Ada Vickary were hostesses.

Mrs. Edna Gray, of Greensboro, has been spending several days with Mrs. Frances Bennett.

Mr. and Mrs. F. E. Adams, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Adams and Mrs.

Ida Snowberger motored to Baltimore one Sunday recently. Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Holbrook have been spending several days on a business trip to New Jersey. Mr. and Mrs. Orville Cherry, of Greensboro, spent one evening last week with Mr. and Mrs. F. D. Carpenter.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Lister's little daughter, a patient in Milford Memorial Hospital, is improving. We wish her a speedy convalescence.

Mr. and Mrs. Frenzo Nesta said "bye" to their friends last week and went to their home in Scranton, Pa. We hope for their return to operate the canning plant next year. During their stay while they were managing the Denton canning plant here, they made a favorable impression on our folk.

Mr. and Mrs. L. H. Thomas were last Sunday evening guests of Mr. and Mrs. L. Hopkins, Thomas and family, of Easton.

Nick Henry joined some friends on a boating trip to Cedar Beach last Sunday.

Ralph H. Wooters was a Sunday dinner guest of Mr. and Mrs. John Wooters, of Denton.

E. W. Smith, of Philadelphia, called on Mr. and Mrs. L. H. Thomas Tuesday afternoon of last week. Mr. Smith is master mechanic in the bureau of the water department of Philadelphia.

Forty-two years ago, when he went with the department, there were 47 mechanics and 55 helpers, all of whom have retired or have passed to the Great Beyond.

"Phoney" as he is known to his friends, plans to retire next June. Good luck and many happy years to him are the wishes of his friends. He was a Caroline County boy and one who made good.

Mr. and Mrs. Neil Russell, of Harrington, were last Friday evening guests of Ralph H. Wooters.

WHEELER RADIO STORE NEWS

Have you ever stopped long enough to think how easily a dull dark room can suddenly become bright and cheerful as if it was touched by the magic lamp of Aladdin's time?

This can be accomplished very easily not by magic but by coating your old wall paper or walls with Sunflex paint $1.00 per quart or $3.95 per gallon. We have plenty to choose from and many colors.

Now if it is wall paper you would prefer, don't go any further but drop in Wheeler's and take a look at the many, many patterns we have for all rooms.

If you don't see what you want and desire something more exclusive, take our large sample book and look it over. These you simply cannot resist as some of these patterns are just beautiful and they are a little higher.

A better grade of shoes comes a little higher too but well worth it and that is the case of wall paper as well.

Remember it cost just as much in dollars and cents or labor to put on cheaper paper as it does a better grade.

It is almost time now that we are going to stay in the house more and do more fussing, so brighten up those old rooms and see how quick you will be musing.

World series is just ahead and do you have your ring side tickets?

If you own a Philco or Westinghouse why go any further as it is brought right home to your own hearts desire. Of course these televisions cannot tell you who is going to win but they can bring the game right in front of you so you can see who wins.

There are many, many fine glasses gotten out of their cases and many sold at the park by fans who try to bring these players close enough so they can see what they look like, but when you have a television you throw away your glasses, your gloves, your topcoat and sit in the home in pajamas if you feel like it.

I have just received new prices on TV's and all I can say is—if you want a television and are still holding out for prices, you are never going to have things that you can get to enjoy.

The cost of getting a TV complete aerial and all goes with it is now within reach of any working man. To be on par with your neighbors—pair up and you and he come in pick out the one you like and Oh boy the world is brought direct to you for just a few dollars.

I am sure you remember the story I gave you last week about installing any electric range of the better kind free of charge. This means a saving of seventy-five to a hundred dollars.

This offer is still good for another week or so and then flop goes the hundred back again. Don't you think this is well worth looking into?

These ranges are open for inspection and my, how they remind me of Atlantic City and the beauty pageant, they are simply beautiful.

I haven't mentioned cleaners lately, but so many have been inquiring about them that I do want you to know that we sell Westinghouse upright and cylinder cleaners. We also have some rebuilt used cleaners carrying a full years guarantee.

From the weather man's report while I am writing this, he states that a cool mass is moving eastward and don't you hate to hear about it?

Let me tell you this whether you like it or not, cold weather is coming just the same. I can not cure cold weather like a doctor does illness, but I can really help as we have some of the most heating oil heaters to keep your little tootsies warm. Come in look them over.
