

Nancy Sue Paces in 2:04.4 Best Time of Meet Which Ends Tomorrow Night

Mark Is Also Best Made By Sidwheeler in Pari-Mutuel Racing Here — Meet Is Success

Nancy Sue, bay mare owned by James Robbins and Warren Miller, of Port Norris, N. J., and driven by Ellis Myer, paced a mile in 2:04.4 Tuesday night for the best time of the current harness meet of the Kent & Sussex Racing Association here.

The time, a record for the McElwyn Abbe-Ketchum side-wheeler, was also the best time made by a pacer in pari-mutuel racing here. Previous mark, for a similar performance, was 2:05.2, held by pacers Rena Grattan and Onheart, among others.

In winning the seventh Tuesday evening, Nancy Sue scored an upset to defeat Captain Eddie, a 3-5 favorite. The highly touted Billy Direct horse, with a mark of 2:05.3 this year, gained the lead on the backstretch in the first lap but was nosed out at the wire by Nancy Sue in a Garrison finish. What was most remarkable about the performance of the victor was that she previously had won only one race this season in 20 performances. She returned $14.10, $4.00, and $2.80.

In a race, the all-time pacing mark here is 2:02 1/4, made by Guy The Tramp at the fair in July, 1934. This is also the best time ever registered on the track in a race at either gait. However, Henry Volo, in a time trial, paced in 2:01.1 last year at the fair.

The trotting mark, all-time, is 2:02.3, made in the spring meet by Hadley Hanover. The best mark on the trot, in a pari-mutuel race, is 2:05.2, made by Belina Hanover.

Individual records are falling right and left in the current meet which ends tomorrow night. Windy Law, owned and driven by C. T. Oakley, of Roanoke Rapids, N. C., made his mark of 2:07.2 Saturday night in the Pleasanton & Edgell Pace. The 4-year-old gelding has won four of his last five starts. The same night, Lou's Girl, owned by Steve's Chicks, Selbyville, made her record of 2:06.3. J. Stokley was the driver.

Three horses and their drivers were involved in a collision Wednesday evening at the 3/4 pole turn in the second lap of the ninth race. There were no casualties. The accident took place when Doctor Counsel, driven by E. Oliver, ran to the rail. Nellie Martin, driver, C. Sims, and Henry Grattan, driver, C. Carter, were also in the resulting mix-up.

Chosen Friends Lodge No. 35

I. O. O. F.

Chosen Friends Lodge No. 35 of Harrington met last Thursday evening in its Lodge Hall and started making plans for fall and winter work of the organization. New officers nominated for this term are as follows: Joe Penny, Nobel Grand; Maurice Skinner, Vice-Grand; George Tattman, treasurer; Paul Porter and Robert Nelson Jr., financial secretary, and W. R. Wechtenhiser, recording secretary.

W. R. Wechtenhiser and his staff went to Felton Monday evening and installed the members of Felton Lodge in their respective office. His staff will go to Dover this Thursday evening and install the members of their lodge.

City Council Agrees On Sidewalk Width At Harrington Manor

The City Council agreed on the width of sidewalks at Harrington Manor at its October meeting Monday night.

Beginning at the property line, the sidewalk will be five feet wide. Between the sidewalk and the curb will be three feet for light poles. One foot will be allowed for the curb.

The Council also decided to write the Highway Department about water standing beside Delaware 14 on Vernon Road. Some $235 was collected in fines in September.

Vote Tomorrow For Bond Issue In School Poll

The Harrington Special School District and its Parent-Teachers' Association is interested in having all patrons and friends of education study the relation of the school to the community.

1. All persons are interested in the growth of our district.
2. The dual-highway will attract more rather than less people to Harrington.
3. An attractive school is a satisfaction to any community.
4. Schools are measured by their service to the community. This service is aided by proper buildings and equipment.
5. Communities are measured by their service to the school.
6. The Memorial Bridge has increased traffic on the through-highway routes, and the Chesapeake Bay Bridge will increase it further.
7. Increased traffic will bring more people to use and enjoy our community and possibly choose to live here.
8. Give your boys and girls the same privilege as those in the neighboring communities enjoy, namely:
 - a. Attractive and safe classrooms;
 - b. Good and sanitary cafeteria and kitchen facilities;
 - c. Improved play, athletic and health facilities—showers, etc.

VOTE FOR THE $134,400 BOND ISSUE and the State will provide $201,600. This is almost two dollars for every one we provide.

Bond Issue Election at the Harrington School Building from 1 p. m. to 8 p. m., Sat., Oct. 6, 1951.

Rotary and Lions Join B. P. W. in Sponsoring Harrington Youth Center

The Rotary and Lions Club of Harrington have joined with the Business and Professional Women's Club in sponsoring the Harrington Youth Center.

Three members from each club met to organize as a standing committee to direct the Youth Center. Mrs. Blanche Cahall was elected chairman; Francis McKee of the Lions, vice-chairman, and Rev. Robert VanCleave of Rotary, treasurer. Other members are: Miss Grace Wanda Quillen and Mrs. Harold McDonald of B. P. W., Jehu Camper and Kessler Farrow of the Lions, and Walter Meyer and W. C. Miller of Rotary.

Mrs. James Moore was engaged to act as director of the Youth Center to coordinate and plan activities for the young people. The three sponsoring clubs will continue to regulate the policy of the center and to chaperone each evening that the center is open.

Plans were made to open the center in early October—the date to be announced later. A drive for funds to finance the center for this coming year will take place in October.

Of Local Interest

Mrs. N. J. Harrington has returned after visiting in Philadelphia. Mr. and Mrs. Allan Klapp are spending three weeks in California.

TO OUR READERS

With increases, and prospective increases, in costs of publication, THE HARRINGTON JOURNAL has no choice but to raise the price of its newspaper. Beginning Nov. 1, THE HARRINGTON JOURNAL will be $2.50 per year on the Delmarva Peninsula, and $3 per year elsewhere, and 6c per single copy. Between now and Nov. 1, however, all persons on the peninsula may get the newspaper three years for $5. This applies to renewals, as well as to new subscriptions.

Wages, newsprint, postage, and the cost of the things we buy have all gone up sharply, and are going up. Everything is going up and we must keep in step, or else. . . .

W. S. C. S. of Asbury Church

The Women's Society of Christian Service of Asbury Methodist Church met in Collins Hall Tuesday evening with Mrs. Charles Greenhaugh, president, in the chair.

A beautiful worship center — "The Earth is the Lord's" — was presented by Mrs. Mark Willey, vice-president of the society, who presented a very interesting program on that subject assisted by Mrs. B. Norman Hopkins, Mrs. Roy Porter, Mrs. Howard Wagner and Mrs. W. W. Sharp. Mrs. C. Fred Wilson, secretary of spiritual life, led the devotionals.

Announcement of the Dover District W. S. C. S. meeting in Wesley Church, Dover, Nov. 6, was made, and also plans were made to entertain the societies of surrounding churches Nov. 5, at 2 p. m. at a tea to introduce Miss Lydia Gerhart, field representative of the Women's Division of Christian Service, who will be spending the week in Dover district.

Marvels

Our local farmers are just about finished with their field beans. All report a fair turnout. A few squirrels have been killed this week. The hunters say they are mighty scarce.

Ralph Colbourne has purchased a new tractor.

Mrs. Annie Porter has been on the sick list. She is able to be out again.

Bud Hurd is a patient in the Milford Memorial Hospital.

Mrs. Winslow Knapp visited relatives in Wilmington the past weekend.

Mrs. William Hayes, of Houston, spent Tuesday with her daughter, Mrs. Harry Hill.

These early morning risers claim they saw a touch of frost a few mornings last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Herman Johnson, of Milford, were visitors of this community Sunday.

Housewives have had nice weather the past week to do their fall house cleaning.

The farmers are now sowing their cover crops for next year, much of it being rye.

Wayne Morris, Beverly Tyler To Visit Harrington

Wayne Morris and Beverly Tyler, movie stars, will visit Harrington Monday afternoon in a Delaware tour of Calvacade of Stars, according to Reese B. Harrington, operator of Reese Theatre. The tour will mark the inauguration of a Movietime U. S. A. nation-wide theatre participation.

After being welcomed by Gov. Elbert N. Carvel and a luncheon at Dover, the tour will arrive at the outskirts of Harrington at 2:30 p. m., where the cavalcade will be met by Mayor E. B. Rash and representatives of civic organizations and escorted to the Harrington public schools where Mr. Rash will extend an official invitation.

The tour will then visit other Delaware towns Monday and Tuesday.

Morris, a native of Los Angeles, recently appeared in "The Big Gusher" and "Yellow Fin." Other pictures he has appeared in in recent years are: "A Kiss in the Dark," "The Younger Brothers," "The House Across the Street," "Johnny One Eye," "The Tougher They Land," and "Stage to Tucson."

Miss Tyler, a native of Scranton, Pa., has appeared in "The Green Years," "My Brother Talks to Horses," and "The Fireball," among other pictures.

National Officers Of J. O. U. A. Mechanics To Attend Dinner

Roy Dare, Arthur Bowman, and Thomas Scaife, of the national council office, of Philadelphia, and members of the state board, will be among the honored guests at a dinner to be given by Harrington Council No. 4, Junior Order United American Mechanics, at 7 p. m., Thurs., Oct. 11, at the firehouse.

Persons to whom invitations have been extended, should inform George Swain whether or not they plan to attend. Swain said there would be subjects of interest to the individual and the community presented at the dinner which is to be served by the Ladies Auxiliary of the Harrington Fire Company.

Bank Advisory Board Named

Six appointments to the State Bank Advisory Board were announced Tuesday by the office of Gov. Elbert N. Carvel at Dover, through Secretary of State Harris B. McDowell, Jr.

The board, created by an act of the 1951 General Assembly, comprises the state bank commissioner as chairman, and six members who are executive officers of banking organizations or persons with experience in the business of banking and trust companies in the state.

All of the appointments became effective Tuesday. Three are for a two-year term, and three for a four-year term.

Named to serve for two years are: George T. Reed, Jr., of Milford, treasurer of the Milford Trust Company, and president of the Delaware Bankers Association; J. K. Garrigues of 1102 Westover Road, Westover Hills, first vice-president of the Delaware Trust Company; and William K. Paton of Dover, president of the Farmers Bank of the State of Delaware.

Four-year terms will be served by J. Roscoe Elliott of Laurel, president of the Peoples National Bank of Laurel; William S. Potter of Centerville, Wilmington attorney and a member of the board of directors of the Wilmington Trust Company, and Willard Springer, Jr., of Rockland, president of the Industrial Trust Company.

Randolph Hughes of Dover was appointed state bank commissioner several weeks ago.

The Bank Advisory Board was created to assist the bank commissioner in all banking matters.

Gives Bankers Aid
It can offer advice and assistance in the interpretation of banking laws, recommend changes in the banking laws, handle any unusual banking practices that may arise, and discuss all banking problems of the state.

The act provides that no more than three members of the board shall be of the same political party. Mr. Reed, Mr. Garrigues and Mr. Paton are the Republican members, and Mr. Potter, Mr. Springer, and Mr. Elliott the Democratic appointees.

The law also provides that no more than three members may be from any one county in the state, and that the board shall meet with the state bank commissioner at least quarterly.

Race Horse Killed On Highway

Sigrid's Girl, owned by J. W. Downing, of Machipone, Va., was killed early Thursday morning, Sept. 27, when she escaped from the Kent & Sussex Fairgrounds and collided with a truck on U. S. 13.

Sigrid's Girl was a 3-year-old bay filly, by worthy Boy-Sigrid Harkaway.

Railroad News

Gets 40-year Pin

Charley Derrickson, engineer on HFI, who completed 40 years of service on the 26th of September, was presented a 40 year button by Superintendent Lingenfelter last Monday evening.

Charley started his railroad career as a newsboy on May 15, 1910, selling papers, cigars, etc. on trains between Harrington and Wilmington. As traveling newsboy he made a lot of friends among trainmen who have since passed on. Some of these include conductors, Tom Lewis, Lan Owens, Bill Lodge, Johnny Fleming, Tom Parker and Truss Davis. These boys interceded for Charley when he wanted to get a job firing but was too light as he only weighed 120 lbs. He now weighs 220 and enjoying good health.

During the war, Charley tossed a cigarette from the cab of his engine over the high wire fence at Libby McNeal plant at Houston, to a young German prisoner who displayed a deep interest in the engine and shifting movements being made along side the enclosure. This was the beginning of a wonderful friendship that is still carried on and going a long way toward establishing desired foreign relations. The boy was Hinz Becker and according to recent letters from him at Hanu, Germany, the Pennsylvania Railroad will always be well represented in anything he might have to do with.

In his 40 years service Charley has never had a personal injury of any kind. He says he has had many thrilling experiences, but the greatest was late last Monday evening when Superintendent Lingenfelter climbed up into the cab of his engine at Berlin and presented him with a 40 year button with his name and service dates engraved on the back.

Supt. Lingenfelter and Supervisor of Safety Paul Sipple attended the Harrington district safety meeting held at the Youth Center Monday afternoon.

Ernie Homewood returned to duty Monday after three weeks surf fishing. As in last years jaunt his big catch this year was in vicinity of radar tower where he claims he has a working agreement with the radar operators and the fish themselves, and knows all the time, just where the big ones are.

Some of Ernie's tales are "tall ones" but there was nothing phoney about the 36 lb. rock he came up with last year and the 51 lb. drum last week.

Knowing the complications involved when trying to explain these catches, he has been taking a witness along to verify the catch. Last week Ira Roe was on hand when this 51 lb. channel bass took hold of his light rainbow line somewhere in vicinity of Keybox road and headed for the other side of the ocean.

Pupils of Harrington public schools were in jeopardy Monday afternoon when a fire broke out in the cupola of the elementary building, but there were no casualties. The blaze, confined, for the most part, to the dome and the roof, was extinguished within three-quarters of an hour. While it was difficult to estimate the damages, it was figured that the blaze and water would result in a loss, covered by insurance, $15,000.

Less than an hour before the blaze was discovered, shortly after 3 p. m., pupils of the first three grades, with classrooms on the first floor of the building, had been dismissed at the customary time, 2:20 o'clock, though pupils from the rural areas still remained on the outside waiting for school buses. The second floor had classrooms for two groups each of grades, 4, 5, and 6. However, since the building has been undergoing repairs, the two groups of grade 6 and one group of grade 5 were receiving instruction in the auditorium of the high-school building which is adjoined to the elementary building by an areaway.

While the elementary building was undergoing repairs, there were only three groups using classrooms on the second floor of the elementary building, a two-story brick structure built in 1912. These groups were: two groups of the fourth grade, taught by Mrs. Minnie Slaughter and Mrs. Florence Long, and one group, taught by Mrs. Earle M. Nelson, of the fifth grade.

When the fire was discovered the situation was as follows: Both groups of grade four were receiving instruction in the classroom. The one group of grade five, housed on the same floor, were undergoing an arithmetic examination. Some pupils had finished their examination and were on the playground. Mrs. Nelson had sent a boy to call them back to the classroom when the fire was discovered. The teachers then marched their charges out without mishap, putting into practice their fire drill training. The pupils in the high-school building followed suit.

The fire was discovered by Frank Donaldson, who had been sanding floors in the building. He went upstairs and smelled smoke. In the meanwhile, Supt. J. C. Messner and George Vaapa, instructor in vocational agriculture were in the farm shop in a near-by building. When Vaapa saw the cupola ablaze, Mr. Messner ran to the second floor of the elementary building and, with (Continued on page 10)

"A Place In The Sun" At Reese Theatre

New Hit Launches "Movietime U. S. A." Parade of Hits

With the launching of "Movietime U. S. A." all over the United States with luncheons, personal appearances of Wayne Morris and Beverly Tyler, at Harrington, Mon., Oct. 8, at 2:30 p. m., the management of the Reese Theatre comes forth with the announcement of the coming of the new Paramount sensation, "A Place In The Sun," featuring Montgomery Clift, Elizabeth Taylor and Shelly Winters, Sunday, Monday and Tuesday, Oct. 7, 8, and 9.

"A Place In The Sun" is now playing in all large city theatres, and no bigger picture could bring to the attention of movie fans, "Movietime U. S. A.," celebrating 50 years of motion pictures. "A Place In The Sun" is a completely frank and honest story of youth today . . . it's loves, ambitions and temptations. To miss it is to miss seeing one of the exceptional pictures of the year.

Jean McGinnis Weds Sgt. Dyer

The wedding of Miss Jean McGinnis, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward H. McGinnis of Wyoming, and Sgt. William B. Dyer, U. S. Army, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Dyer, of Harrington, took place Sat., Sept. 22, at 3 p. m., in the Union Methodist Church of near Wyoming. The double ring ceremony was performed by the Rev. John J. Von Hagel, pastor of the church. Mrs. Theodore Hays, of Yeadon, Pa., cousin of the bride, gave vocal solos and the wedding music was played by Melvin Brobst, of Harrington.

The bride wore a white satin gown with fitted bodice, long tight sleeves, and full skirt falling into a cathedral train. Her fingertip veil of French illusion was held by a coronet of seed pearls and rhinestones. She carried a white Bible with a white orchid and streamers.

Miss Jane McGinnis, twin sister of the bride, was maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Mrs. Rodney Short, Dover; Mrs. Sanford R. Wingard, Dover; Mrs. Owen J. Saunders, Wyoming, sisters of the bride, and Miss Patricia Thomas, New York City, cousin of the bridegroom. The maid of honor wore an aqua strapless gown with satin bolera and bodice, full nylon net skirt with matching hat and carried a fan of yellow chrysanthemums. The bridesmaids' dresses were fashioned like that of the maid of honor in shades of blue, orchid, green and shrim, with matching hats. They carried fans of mixed chrysanthemums and pompons.

Miss Cheryl Clark, of Marcus Hook, Pa., cousin of the bridegroom, was flower girl. She wore a dress of rose faille and matching bonnet and carried a basket of mixed chrysanthemums.

Charles Clark, of Marcus Hook, Pa., cousin of the bridegroom, was best man. Ushers were Rodney Short, and Sanford R. Wingard, of Dover; Cpl. Nelson Camper, Milford, and Gilbert Wyatt, of Harrington.

The bride's mother wore a plum crepe dress, black accessories and a corsage of white rosebuds. The bridegroom's mother wore a brown lace dress, brown accessories and a corsage of yellow rosebuds.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the Round Table Club House in Wyoming.

Sgt. and Mrs. Dyer are both graduates of Caesar Rodney High School. After a wedding trip the couple will reside at Fairbanks, Alaska, where Sgt. Dyer is stationed.

Pathfinders Sunday School Class of Asbury Church Hold First Fall Meeting

The Pathfinders Sunday School Class of Asbury Methodist Church held its first meeting of the fall at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Woodrow Holloway with Lester Smith, vice-president, presiding.

There were discussions as how to raise money for the building fund of the church, but no definite plans were made.

The next meeting of the group will be October 26 at the home of Mr. and Mrs. William Taylor with Mrs. C. Elbert Hackett assisting.

Anchor Accessories

To insure the safety of figurines, knock-knacks and breakable accessories on the mantelpiece, bookshelf or table, fasten them down with transparent cellophane tape. The tape won't show and will keep the art objects anchored firmly in place. This is especially useful information if you have small children in the house.

Harrington Legion Auxiliary Meets

The first fall meeting of the Callaway-Kemp-Raughley-Tee Auxiliary Unit met at the Legion Home in Harrington, Tues., Sept. 18, at 8 p. m. with Mrs. Clyde Tucker, president, presiding. WHERE, WE WONDER, IS COW MARSH CHURCH?

In 1936 we were broadcasting over WCAU, Philadelphia, daily, as the Country Editor. We had to interpret world events from the country editor's standpoint—but, even then, there was so much turmoil in the world we had to go back occasionally to the restful country-side to find something wholesome for the jaded nerves of our listeners—if we had any listeners.

Glancing over the teletype, we saw it tick off murder, pilage, rapine, and scandal. We picked up a country paper and read about the annual meeting at Cow Marsh Church, not very far from the forks of the road at some remote place down in Kent County, Delaware. This old church had long ago been abandoned, but the reverence of their fathers and their mothers still with them, many old-timers made an annual pilgrimage back there each year to kneel in the little country church, striving to recapture the faith of their fathers. Then, on Thanksgiving Day, we remembered Cow Marsh Church and thought it a fitting theme for our broadcast—and we recalled a poem we had come across in a country newspaper back in Missouri some twenty or more years before. That little prose-poem was stamped in indelible letters upon our memory—because this country paper had credited us with its authorship. We were not its author. It was much finer than anything we could write.

Our announcer, Hugh Walton, brought in some kind of a hollow tube and a padded hammer and we tapped the hammer against the tube in our effort to simulate a country church bell ringing in the distance. It sounded like Memnon's lute across the years to us, but the sound engineer, Hank Geist, who was in a position to know, exclaimed: "It sounds like a brass band on the Fourth of July!"

Hugh and I experimented, time after time, but Hank yelled: "Too Loud!" Finally, we dragged our sound effects out into the corridor—and again too loud. We dragged it down the corridor and almost closed the door and Hank applauded: "Perfect!" So if, back in 1936, on Thanksgiving Day, you heard the mellow of a country church bell in the distance, maybe you will recall the prose-poem, "The Church at The Forks of The Road":

"There's a little old church at the forks of the road, a landmark dismantled and gray. Where once the warm fires of humanity glowed, there's a column of ashes today. Yes, a little old church at the forks of the road, where grim desolation holds sway, till time with his sickle and tide with his goad shall have swept its last fragments away. And the old congregation now sleeps side by side where the spread of God's acre enthalls—they hear not the roar of humanity's tide—or the plaint when the whip-poorwill calls. This house was the Mecca of sinner and saint in the halcyon days of its youth; from its holy of holies to vestibule quaint they quaffed at the fountain of truth—but the spire in the city hath crowned in its might a greater and grander abode—till only the angels may pause in their flight o'er the church at the forks of the road."

But—where is Cow Marsh Church?

SENTIMENT IN SPORTS?

Years ago Bill Hart, then around forty-four, was the steady influence of the pitching staff of the Little Rock team in the Southern League. Later he became a National League umpire. At that time Jim Delahanty, later to become an outstanding star with Detroit; Joey Connelly, destined to shine as a member of George Stallings' miracle team of Boston Braves, and the incomparable Tris Speaker were members of the Little Rock team.

Bill Hart was our good friend and one day he expressed his opinion of professional baseball: "I wouldn't advise any boy to take up baseball as a career unless he has a lot of natural ability and a real love for the game. No professional player gets the real enjoyment a fellow does when playing for his home town."

That was a long time ago and baseball has changed a lot since then. Until a few years ago it was a sport and frequently the teams in both the minors and the big leagues lost money, but they kept on playing through civic pride. Then the multi-millionaires stepped into the picture and it became a cold, commercial proposition, with some of the owners and managers treating the players like mere chattels. "Win the games and draw the dollars into the treasury—to heck with your arms or your legs—you're being paid for it." That seems to be the pattern of many of the moguls of today.

A few years ago money-mad Frankie Frisch ruined two of the greatest pitchers of modern times, Dizzy and Paul Dean, by pitching them on alternate days down through the September stretch. Last year the Phillies had Jim Konstanty in the pitcher's box 74 times. Jim hasn't been worth much since and never will be.

Just recently Charley Dressen, manager of the Brooklyn Dodgers, used Preacher Roe as a pitcher four times in ten days. Roe had carried the Brooklyn team all season and had compiled a record of twenty-two wins with only two losses, the most phenomenal record in all the history of the National League. As the result of an accident a few years ago, he spent many weeks in a cast. As a result of that accident, he is a frail fellow and should have four or five days rest between games, yet Dressen pitched him with only two days rest, ruined his great record and probably ruined Roe.

On the other side of the picture, we have kindly Burt Shotten, who, as manager of the Dodgers, lost the pennant on the last day in 1950, after coming from far behind. He won the pennant for the same team the year before and pitched Roe in only one game in the World Series against the Yankees. Roe won that game with a shutout, the only game the Dodgers won. Rabid fans yelled for him to pitch Roe again, but he refused because he knew that Roe needed rest.

Good old Charlie Grimm was managing the Chicago Cubs several years ago and his star pitcher, Lon Warneke, suffered a shoulder injury. A few weeks later the Cubs were in the thick of the pennant fight and could have won the championship if Warneke had been in condition. To demands that he pitch Warneke, Grimm responded: "Before I'd ruin that boy's future, I'd rather lose every pennant in the world." He lost the pennant, but won the deep respect of the true American sportsmen, and Lon Warneke remained a great pitcher for several years.

But—kindly old Burt Shotten was fired and now lives in retirement in Florida and Good Old Charlie manages in the minors!

BRUCE AND THE BIBLE

What would you think of a minister who would stand in his pulpit and thus declaim:

"We wonder why the world is in such a terrible condition. It is the old, old story of straying from the narrow path of righteousness, of failing to follow the teachings of Christ, who died upon the cross that we might be saved. Remember Babylon and its fate, remember the money changers driven from the temple by Christ. Let the Bible be your guide in your every action—and then again we shall see peace, blessed peace, throughout the world. The finest potato peeler in all the world is the Pocatello Potato Peeler. It was given to the world by that greatest of inventors, Elmer Stump, who was born in the heart of the famous Idaho potato country. Only after years and years of experience did Elmer's dream reach perfection. So great has become the demand for this superb potato peeler that enormous factories have been built, with assembly line production, in order to supply the demand. My brothers and sisters, I recommend to you that boon to the housewife, the Pocatello Potato Peeler."

Seems like sacrilege, doesn't it? Yet it is not much of an exaggeration of a typical Bruce Barton syndicated article. Bruce, part owner of one of the country's big advertising agencies, in effect, begins an article with a prayer and ends with a commercial for his sponsors.

For years and years Al Horn conducted a bakery in Harrington. He is one of the best bakers in the country and was a splendid citizen, liberal, even generous, in his contributions to this community. Now Al has closed his bakery and moved to Baltimore. The big bakeries squeezed the life out of his business. Thus another triumph for "Free Enterprise!"

HESITATING

By Samuel A. Short, Jr.
Harrington, Del.

When you have a job to do,
And you wonder how to start,
Don't say it can't be done,
Say: I'll try, before this life
you part.

When you have a job to do,
And though it seems so long,
Don't let others do it too.
Say: I'll try, and you'll get along.

Just go at it and do it,
And be repaid in the end.
Take this job you know you can,
It's pour business to it, to attend.

Others may be a little slower,
And their work may be wasting.
Don't be a reaper, be a sower,
Do it, and stop "HESITATING."

Farmington

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Lynch spent Sunday in Philadelphia visiting their daughter and family. Mrs. Anita Conquest spent Sunday night with her sister, Mrs. Margaret East. We are glad to hear Daniel Smith is improving. We hope we will have good weather so the farmers will be able to finish hauling their hay and harvest their corn. They are also busy harvesting peppers. Mrs. Samuel Satterfield visited her sister, Mrs. Annie Booth, Monday afternoon.

Pearl Harbor
Historic Pearl Harbor, five miles from Honolulu harbor, got its name from pearl oysters which formerly bedded there. It is a double estuary of Pearl river, a small stream.

Frederica

Mrs. Hettie Palmer celebrated her 90th birthday Sunday when her guests were Mrs. Lucille Palmer Kelley, her daughter; Mr. and Mrs. Miller and two sons; Mr. and Mrs. William Smith and son, all her grandchildren, and great-grandchildren, of Holmes, Pa. Mrs. Palmer has excellent health and were it not for her failing eyesight she would be able to crochet and knit as she did for many, many years. She attends both the morning and evening church services at Trinity and the mid-week prayer fellowship, cares for her own home and visits with her friends.

Mrs. Donald Langrell and daughter, Carol, were out-of-town visitors over the weekend. Sunday callers of Mrs. I. W. Betts Sr. were Mrs. William A. Humphreys, of Dover; Dr. George W. Wood and Mrs. Wood, of Dover-Camden Road.

Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Van Sant had Mr. and Mrs. Henry Van Sant, of New Jersey, as their Sunday guests.

Sunday guests of Mrs. Mary Burris were Mrs. Amanda Lofland, Mrs. Elmer Dawson and Mrs. Jack Dawson.

Mrs. Alfred Clawson and her mother, Mrs. Ryan, of Lancaster, Pa., were the weekend guests of Mr. and Mrs. John C. Darby. Mrs. Estelle Wilcutts has been spending several months with Mrs. Ryan at her mountain home near Laurelton, Pa.

William Bethards, of Milford, attended church services here Sunday prior to services at the chapel.

Charles Pritchett, of Columbus, N. J., spent the weekend with his brother, Warner Pritchett.

Mrs. Lillie Clark, of Wilmington, was the Sunday guest of her sister, Mrs. Ella Rust.

Mrs. Mary Burris has returned from a visit with Mrs. Eva Pittard, of Georgetown.

Sunday dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Poore were Mr. Poore's mother, Mrs. Alfred Poore, and Mrs. Mildred Legates.

Tuesday guests of Mrs. Lida Stevenson were her children, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Stevenson and two children, of Wilmington.

Mrs. Annie Harrington is visiting in Dover with her daughter-in-law, Mrs. Elizabeth Harrington. Many from town attended the anniversary services at Barratt's Chapel Sunday afternoon.

Mrs. H. J. Dodd attended a luncheon in Wilmington Monday. Again we mention the chicken salad, ham and oyster supper to be held Oct. 17 and 18 at the Community Building. The cause is for the benefit of the town and surrounding area, since the profits therefrom will be added to the truck fund of the Frederica Fire Company. The campaign barometer shows that collections have reached a total of more than $4000. The highest figure on the barometer gives $12,000 as goal. It can be reached through co-operative good will and good giving.

H. J. Dodd is in town for several days. After spending Saturday with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. Hoey Gross, Mr. and Mrs. Horace Culver, of Lewes, and their daughter, Mary Ann, were joined by Mr. and Mrs. D. Grey, of Newark, Sunday. All motored to Philadelphia where they enjoyed a major league ball game.

David Moore Jr., SP of the U. S. Navy, spent the weekend with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. David Moore. Recently Moore's ship, USS Atka, arrived at Boston from Greenland. Mr. and Mrs. William Hammond, of Felton, and Miss Lillian Frazier, of Wilmington, were Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. P. Sheldon Raughley. Arthur Melvin Sr. is spending a few days with his son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Bostic, of Wilmington.

Mr. Thomas will preach at the home coming services of the Weona Methodist Church next Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock. There were 64 present at the Grace Church School last Sunday. We have a class for you if you do not have a church home. If you have none, when were you home last?

The Sunshine Class, of Greenwood Methodist Church will meet with Mr. and Mrs. William L. Lord, near town, Wednesday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Spence spent the weekend with Mrs. B. M. Allen and family at Claymont.

Miss Barbara Humphreys underwent an operation in the Wilmington General Hospital Saturday night. At present she is improving very nicely. Mr. and Mrs. Norman Groves, of Wilmington, were guests of Mrs. Groves' mother and sister, Mrs. W. A. Long and Miss Florence Long, over the weekend.

Now that summer has passed and fall is on its way folks are getting the urge to gather and enjoy friends and usually canasta. On Saturday evening Mr. and Mrs. Clarence E. Ocheltree entertained a group of friends at such a party. Those enjoying the hospitality of the Ocheltrees were Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Coulter, Mr. and Mrs. M. T. Uhler, Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Mills, Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Conaway and Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Kratz.

Mr. and Mrs. Hugh N. Powell returned from a trip to Europe last week and spent a few days here with Mrs. Powell's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Humphreys.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Johnson were weekend guests of Mrs. Johnson's parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Lord. The Firemen's Ladies Auxiliary met last Friday evening with 20 members present. The nominating committee reported that the same officers were elected and will be installed at the next meeting October 26. President, Mrs. Elaine Jones; vice-president, Mrs. Mabel Farrow; secretary, Mrs. Dorothy Chaney; assistant secretary, Miss Margaret Webb; treasurer, Mrs. Loraine Torbert; assistant treasurer, Mrs. Marie Draper. Committees will be appointed at the next meeting. Dues were paid by members present for the year, amount $1.20 and 60 cents for sick and Sunshine. The committees reported on the new kitchen which is shaping up very well and the auxiliary is hoping that it will be completed by November 1.

Mrs. D. P. Nelson, Mr. and Mrs. Pierson Nelson and family, of Philadelphia, were overnight guests of Mr. and Mrs. N. W. Meredith Saturday.

The Home Demonstration Club will meet with Mrs. C. H. Conaway Tuesday. The subject, "The Market Basket." Thirteen club members met with Mrs. N. W. Meredith recently and made trays.

Mrs. Mildred Lofland spent the weekend with Mr. and Mrs. William Smith.

Mrs. Paul Lord is recovering from an attack of gripe.

R. O. Mai is on the sick list. Mr. and Mrs. Sylvester Legates and children, of Millsboro, were Thursday evening dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. John R. Hitchens.

Home Talk

By Eleanor R. Cavanaugh
Two leader training schools were held last week when the leaders made patterns and chose material for their plastic pocket-books. One school was held at the Oak Grove School House and the other was held at the Millwood Community Hall. Those attending the school at Oak Grove were: Mrs. William Sterling, Oak Grove Club; Mrs. George Hunt, St. Jones Club; Mrs. H. C. Debaugh and Mrs. Lemuel Spence, Viola Club; Mrs. Tyson Cohee and Mrs. Ralph Virdin, of Fraziers Club.

Those members attending the school held at Millwood were: Mrs. Mary Martin and Mrs. Anna Lee Taylor, Merry-makers Club; Mrs. I. H. Watt, Mrs. John Lloyd, Mrs. Wade Elliott, Todd's Club; Mrs. Lockin Huth, Mrs. Stella Willis, Mrs. John R. Scott, Happy Homemakers Club; Mrs. William Nelson, Friendly Homemakers Club, Dover; Mrs. Philip R. Jacobs, Mrs. Duane Lynn, Mrs. Bertha P. Donovan, Millwood Club; Mrs. Gladys Kates and Mrs. Dulcinea Smith, from the Canterbury Club; Mrs. J. F. Camper and Mrs. Dewitt Tatman, from the Harrington Club; Mrs. Mae Hayes, Mrs. Pearl Robinson and Mrs. Frances Parvis, from the Houston Club. Three members from the Shawnee Evening Club in Sussex County came too—Mrs. Michael Granerman, Mrs. Cathel Bennett and Mrs. David Brown.

The schools on plastic bags will be held again where they will actually make the pocketbooks. The school at Oak Grove will meet Thurs., Oct. 11, and the school at Millwood will meet Fri., Oct. 12.

Miss Ruth Pearce, extension clothing specialist, is conducting the meeting.

The Oak Grove Club is holding a tea Sunday in its little school house. They are entertaining the teachers and students who attended the school. And of course, all of the Oak Grove Club members will be there.

New Poultry Service Building Started At University

A poultry service building that will mean much to research and teaching was started this last week at the University of Delaware Agricultural Experiment Station, Newark. The announcement was made by E. F. Waller, chairman of the department of animal and poultry industry.

The building will include an incubator room, egg storage rooms, poultry dressing room, offices, classrooms, and a research laboratory. Waller says that the building will mean an expansion in poultry research at the University, especially in the field of marketing. The classrooms will make possible more actual judging practice and laboratory work for poultry students. Before, the inconvenience of transporting birds from the farm to the University proper cut down on such work.

The building will be a story and a half, with a full basement. It is made of concrete blocks with a brick finish. Completion of the building is expected in about six months.

Fair View Farms Has Nice Angus

When George W. Cain, owner of Fair View Farms on the Harrington-Frederica road, started his Angus herd two years ago, he got off on the right foot by purchasing a dandy herd bull, Elgon Eston Quality 8th. As of Sept. 30, the Cain herd consisted of some 45 cows, bulls, and calves.

The herd bull was purchased from Robert Hammond, of Hous-ton, who originally had purchased the sire from John A. Forest, of Church Hill Village, between Harrington and Milford. The bloodline of this bull are tops and go back to Earl Marshall and Revolution of Page on the sire side.

Cain has four cows which he purchased from the Black Watch herd, of Land's End Farm, Queenstown, Md. These are Black Watch Mayflower, Black Watch Mayflower 3d, Black Watch Blossom, and Black Watch Nora. Ralph Coulbourne, of Marvel's Crossroads, is another who has made purchases from Land's End Farm.

Cain last week sold four cows and four heifers to Murray Bag Company, of Selbyville, which is going into the cattle industry primarily to raise beef for the market.

The Fair View Farms Angus run on a permanent pasture of Ladino, orchard grass, alsike, redtop, and bluegrass. In the winter they get silage and lespedeza and alfalfa hay.

Clean Gardens Discourage Pests

A general clean-up of home-gardens and fields can get rid of many insects and plant diseases. Robert F. Stevens, horticultural specialist with the Delaware agricultural extension service, says that clean-ups kill, starve, or put pests under poor conditions so that eventually they die out.

Removing what's left of this year's crop, and plowing the soil discourages common pests like the Mexican bean beetle and the corn borer. Stevens emphasizes that the insects that will live over winter will be the parents for next year's crop of trouble-makers.

Burning crops destroys many insects but this isn't recommended; because proper composting of these materials is just as effective in killing bugs. But particular attention should be given to destroying weeds on the edges of gardens or fields.

Fall plowing is helpful on cultivated lands, and should be done if it won't encourage erosion. Plowing turns up pests that burrow into the soil to live. They are killed by the turning process, or because they can't live exposed to the air and freezing conditions on the top of the ground. Other pests who live just on the surface, are buried so deeply that they can't survive.

Early removal of some crops may starve certain insects. Cleaning up won't eliminate the insect control job next year, but it may simplify it, says Stevens. It's worth the time involved, especially when compared to the time and money which would be needed next summer.

Farm Engineer Says Antennas on Chimneys May Create Fire Hazards

A new fire hazard has been added to the list which A. V. Krewatch, University of Maryland agricultural engineer, suggests you go over during Fire Prevention Week, Oct. 7-13. The new item on the fire hazard list is television antennas attached to chimneys. Mr. Krewatch explains that constant vibration in the wind tends to weaken the mortar in the chimney and may create a fire hazard at the roof line.

"Since we have already started at the top of the house," Mr. Krewatch says, "let's check lightning rod connections, too. Inflammable junk in the attic, or anywhere, for that matter, is just that much more fuel in case of fire. Check the wiring. Repair damaged extension cords and appliances. Make certain circuits are not overloaded, and that the electric safety valves, your fuses, are the proper size. Don't store flammable liquids in the house. And while we're in the basement let's make sure the heating system is safe. Most important of all is a year-around caution about fire, and the things that cause it."

"Now, let's go over the farm buildings and see how many fire hazards we can eliminate. Fire-resistant partitions between hay and livestock are valuable. Roofs and siding of fire-resistant material help prevent the spread of fire. Inspection of wiring, proper size fuses for the wire size used and proper type wiring in farm buildings is important. Putting in wet hay not only results in spoiled hay, but often in fires. Leaky roofs may have the same effect. In addition, lightning rods properly installed with good connections and grounded with lead off lightning protection. If the ground rods don't go down to permanently moist earth, the lightning rod system is worse than none at all.

"After you have eliminated all the fire hazards you can think of," adds Mr. Krewatch, "it's still a good idea to have the correct type of fire extinguishers handy. Know your fire department's phone number. Small fires quickly controlled do little damage."

Greenwood H. S. Has Extension Course

Registrations for University of Delaware Extension courses have exceeded all previous records. Dr. Carl J. Ross, director of university extension, estimates that, by the time all classes get under way, over 2200 persons will be enrolled in extension.

Most of those enrolled will be taking courses for credit. However, there are a number of extension students who are engaged in non-credit work.

Dr. Rees and Gordon Godbey, associate director of university extension, have begun a series of visits to the communities of Kent and Sussex Counties to set up local committees of community leaders to work with the university extension authorities. Such committees have already been established at Georgetown and Selbyville. An extension course, "Speech for the Classroom Teacher," is now in progress at Greenwood High School. Herbert F. Cobby, principal of Greenwood High School, was instrumental in arranging for the speech course.

Dr. Rees and Mr. Godbey ask all persons interested in extension courses to contact the principals and superintendents of their local schools. This applies particularly to residents of Kent and Sussex Counties.

The extension authorities are anxious to enlist the support of business, industrial, and state government leaders in the formation of local community committees for the advancement of extension work.

So Much From So Little With Antibiotics

Antibiotics in animal and poultry feeds are amazing, not only for what they do, but for how little is needed to do it. William E. Tarbell, county agricultural agent, reports that a 19 per cent protein feed with aureomycin added gives as good results as a 21 per cent protein feed.

Experiments show that to get the food value equal of a higher protein feed, only 20 grams of aureomycin per ton of 19 per cent protein feed was needed. Twenty grams is a scant three-fourths of an ounce—about two level tablespoonsful. That's just about as much sugar as you put on your breakfast cereal.

It is still impractical to mix feed and antibiotics in those proportions on the farm. Tarbell says that the U. S. Department of Agriculture, other experiment stations, including the Delaware Agricultural Experiment Station, are doing research in how to use antibiotics.

Scientists are finding out just how much protein can be saved, and in what form aureomycin can be added—in pure crystals or a "part-way" fermentation product. The fermentation produce could be added at the rate of 10 pounds per ton.

Feeds that are vitamin-enriched with antibiotics are one of the biggest agricultural developments of the last decade, Tarbell says. They are already widely used to promote growth, in the poultry industry in Delaware for instance, and in raising pigs for market.

Driving Blind

Nearly one half of the 32,000 deaths that occur each year in traffic accidents are caused mainly by poor visibility. According to a recent survey, in 1950 the worst time for traffic deaths was from six to seven P.M., while the worst time for injuries was from four to five P.M. Fifty-seven per cent of the fatal accidents and 42 per cent of the injury accidents happened in the dark.

Field Day Draws 5000

Delaware's Soil Conservation Field Day was held Thurs., Sept. 27, at the Charles McMahan farm near Hartly was a huge success with an estimated attendance of 5000 persons. Crews of 150 men operating almost 75 different farm implements remade the farm in one day.

The farm was a busy place with on-the-spot broadcasts. The roar of tractors and airplanes seeding barley mingled with the sound of building and the music of the Dover High School band.

At the afternoon program, Gov. Elbert N. Carvel said that the field day is an example of the enterprise that has put Delaware in second place for county farm income in the United States.

Congressman J. Caleb Boggs praised the co-operation of the various agencies, government and private, which made the field day possible. He pointed out that such co-operation makes possible the progress found in free democratic countries. George L. Schuster outlined the development of the Soil Conservation districts and the State Soil Conservation Commission, of which he is chairman.

The farm machinery was a big drawing card. Farmers had an opportunity to compare types of plows, cultipackers, seeders, and many others. Many were interested in deep tillage cultivators which are especially adapted to Delaware soils that have clay sub-soils.

WHERE, WE WONDER, IS COW MARSH CHURCH?

In 1936 we were broadcasting over WCAU, Philadelphia, daily, as the Country Editor. We had to interpret world events from the country editor's standpoint—but, even then, there was so much turmoil in the world we had to go back occasionally to the restful country-side to find something wholesome for the jaded nerves of our listeners—if we had any listeners.

Glancing over the teletype, we saw it tick off murder, pilage, rapine, and scandal. We picked up a country paper and read about the annual meeting at Cow Marsh Church, not very far from the forks of the road at some remote place down in Kent County, Delaware. This old church had long ago been abandoned, but the reverence of their fathers and their mothers still with them, many old-timers made an annual pilgrimage back there each year to kneel in the little country church, striving to recapture the faith of their fathers. Then, on Thanksgiving Day, we remembered Cow Marsh Church and thought it a fitting theme for our broadcast—and we recalled a poem we had come across in a country newspaper back in Missouri some twenty or more years before. That little prose-poem was stamped in indelible letters upon our memory—because this country paper had credited us with its authorship. We were not its author. It was much finer than anything we could write.

Our announcer, Hugh Walton, brought in some kind of a hollow tube and a padded hammer and we tapped the hammer against the tube in our effort to simulate a country church bell ringing in the distance. It sounded like Memnon's lute across the years to us, but the sound engineer, Hank Geist, who was in a position to know, exclaimed: "It sounds like a brass band on the Fourth of July!"

Hugh and I experimented, time after time, but Hank yelled: "Too Loud!" Finally, we dragged our sound effects out into the corridor—and again too loud. We dragged it down the corridor and almost closed the door and Hank applauded: "Perfect!" So if, back in 1936, on Thanksgiving Day, you heard the mellow of a country church bell in the distance, maybe you will recall the prose-poem, "The Church at The Forks of The Road":

"There's a little old church at the forks of the road, a landmark dismantled and gray. Where once the warm fires of humanity glowed, there's a column of ashes today. Yes, a little old church at the forks of the road, where grim desolation holds sway, till time with his sickle and tide with his goad shall have swept its last fragments away. And the old congregation now sleeps side by side where the spread of God's acre enthralled—they hear not the roar of humanity's tide—or the plaint when the whip-will calls. This house was the Mecca of sinner and saint in the halcyon days of its youth; from its holy of holies to vestibule quaint they quaffed at the fountain of truth—but the spire in the city hath crowned in its might a greater and grander abode—till only the angels may pause in their flight o'er the church at the forks of the road."

But—where IS Cow Marsh Church?

SENTIMENT IN SPORTS?

Years ago Bill Hart, then around forty-four, was the steady influence of the pitching staff of the Little Rock team in the Southern League. Later he became a National League umpire. At that time Jim Delahanty, later to become an outstanding star with Detroit; Joey Connelly, destined to shine as a member of George Stallings' miracle team of Boston Braves, and the incomparable Tris Speaker were members of the Little Rock team.

Bill Hart was our good friend and one day he expressed his opinion of professional baseball: "I wouldn't advise any boy to take up baseball as a career unless he has a lot of natural ability and a real love for the game. No professional player gets the real enjoyment a fellow does when playing for his home town."

That was a long time ago and baseball has changed a lot since then. Until a few years ago it was a sport and frequently the teams in both the minors and the big leagues lost money, but they kept on playing through civic pride. Then the multi-millionaires stepped into the picture and it became a cold, commercial proposition, with some of the owners and managers treating the players like mere chattels. "Win the games and draw the dollars into the treasury—to heck with your arms or your legs—you're being paid for it." That seems to be the pattern of many of the moguls of today.

A few years ago money-mad Frankie Frisch ruined two of the greatest pitchers of modern times, Dizzy and Paul Dean, by pitching them on alternate days down through the September stretch. Last year the Phillies had Jim Konstanty in the pitcher's box 74 times. Jim hasn't been worth much since and never will be.

Just recently Charley Dressen, manager of the Brooklyn Dodgers, used Preacher Roe as a pitcher four times in ten days. Roe had carried the Brooklyn team all season and had compiled a record of twenty-two wins with only two losses, the most phenomenal record in all the history of the National League. As the result of an accident a few years ago, he spent many weeks in a cast. As a result of that accident, he is a frail fellow and should have four or five days rest between games, yet Dressen pitched him with only two days rest, ruined his great record and probably ruined Roe.

On the other side of the picture, we have kindly Burt Shotten, who, as manager of the Dodgers, lost the pennant on the last day in 1950, after coming from far behind. He won the pennant for the same team the year before and pitched Roe in only one game in the World Series against the Yankees. Roe won that game with a shutout, the only game the Dodgers won. Rabid fans yelled for him to pitch Roe again, but he refused because he knew that Roe needed rest.

Good old Charlie Grimm was managing the Chicago Cubs several years ago and his star pitcher, Lon Warneke, suffered a shoulder injury. A few weeks later the Cubs were in the thick of the pennant fight and could have won the championship if Warneke had been in condition. To demands that he pitch Warneke, Grimm responded: "Before I'd ruin that boy's future, I'd rather lose every pennant in the world." He lost the pennant, but won the deep respect of the true American sportsmen, and Lon Warneke remained a great pitcher for several years.

But—kindly old Burt Shotten was fired and now lives in retirement in Florida and Good Old Charlie manages in the minors!

BRUCE AND THE BIBLE

What would you think of a minister who would stand in his pulpit and thus declaim:

"We wonder why the world is in such a terrible condition. It is the old, old story of straying from the narrow path of righteousness, of failing to follow the teachings of Christ, who died upon the cross that we might be saved. Remember Babylon and its fate, remember the money changers driven from the temple by Christ. Let the Bible be your guide in your every action—and then again we shall see peace, blessed peace, throughout the world. The finest potato peeler in all the world is the Pocatello Potato Peeler. It was given to the world by that greatest of inventors, Elmer Stump, who was born in the heart of the famous Idaho potato country. Only after years and years of experience did Elmer's dream reach perfection. So great has become the demand for this superb potato peeler that enormous factories have been built, with assembly line production, in order to supply the demand. My brothers and sisters, I recommend to you that you boot to the housewife, the Pocatello Potato Peeler."

Seems like sacrilege, doesn't it? Yet it is not much of an exaggeration of a typical Bruce Barton syndicated article. Bruce, part owner of one of the country's big advertising agencies, in effect, begins an article with a prayer and ends with a commercial for his sponsors.

For years and years Al Horn conducted a bakery in Harrington. He is one of the best bakers in the country and was a splendid citizen, liberal, even generous, in his contributions to this community. Now Al has closed his bakery and moved to Baltimore. The big bakeries squeezed the life out of his business. Thus another triumph for "Free Enterprise?"

HESITATING

By Samuel A. Short, Jr.
Harrington, Del.

When you have a job to do,
And you wonder how to start,
Don't say it can't be done,
Say! I'll try, before this life
you part.

When you have a job to do,
And though it seems so long,
Don't let others do it too.
Say; I'll try, and you'll get along.

Just go at it and do it,
And be repaid in the end.
Take this job you know you can,
It's pour business to it, to attend.

Others may be a little slower,
And their work may be wast-
ing.
Don't be a reaper, be a sower,
Do it, and stop "HESITATING."

Farmington

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Lynch spent Sunday in Philadelphia visiting their daughter and family.

Mrs. Anita Conquest spent Sunday night with her sister, Mrs. Margaret East.

We are glad to hear Daniel Smith is improving.

We hope we will have good weather so the farmers will be able to finish hauling their hay and harvest their corn. They are also busy harvesting peppers.

Mrs. Samuel Satterfield visited her sister, Mrs. Annie Booth, Monday afternoon.

Pearl Harbor
Historic Pearl Harbor, five miles from Honolulu harbor, got its name from pearl oysters which formerly bedded there. It is a double estuary of Pearl river, a small stream.

Frederica

Mrs. Hettie Palmer celebrated her 90th birthday Sunday when her guests were Mrs. Lucille Palmer Kelley, her daughter; Mr. and Mrs. Filler and two sons; Mr. and Mrs. William Smith and son, all her grandchildren, and great-grandchildren, of Holmes, Pa. Mrs. Palmer has excellent health and were it not for her failing eyesight she would be able to crochet and knit as she did for many, many years. She attends both the morning and evening church services at Trinity and the mid-week prayer fellowship, cares for her own home and visits with her friends.

Mrs. Donald Langrell and daughter, Carol, were out-of-town visitors over the weekend.

Sunday callers of Mrs. I. W. Betts Sr. were Mrs. William A. Humphreys, of Dover; Dr. George W. Wood and Mrs. Wood, of Dover-Camden Road.

Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Van Sant had Mr. and Mrs. Henry Van Sant, of New Jersey, as their Sunday guests.

Sunday guests of Mrs. Mary Burris were Mrs. Amanda Lofland, Mrs. Elmer Dawson and Mrs. Jack Dawson.

Mrs. Alfred Clawson and her mother, Mrs. Ryan, of Lancaster, Pa., were the weekend guests of Mr. and Mrs. John C. Darby. Mrs. Estelle Wilcutts has been spending several months with Mrs. Ryan at her mountain home near Laurelton, Pa.

William Bethards, of Milford, attended church services here Sunday prior to services at the chapel.

Charles Pritchett, of Columbus, N. J., spent the weekend with his brother, Warner Pritchett.

Mrs. Lillie Clark, of Wilmington, was the Sunday guest of her sister, Mrs. Ella Rust.

Mrs. Mary Burris has returned from a visit with Mrs. Eva Pittard, of Georgetown.

Sunday dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Poore were Mr. Poore's mother, Mrs. Alfred Poore, and Mrs. Mildred Legates.

Tuesday guests of Mrs. Lida Stevenson were her children, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Stevenson and two children, of Wilmington.

Mrs. Annie Harrington is visiting in Dover with her daughter-in-law, Mrs. Elizabeth Harrington. Many from town attended the anniversary services at Barratt's Chapel Sunday afternoon.

Mrs. H. J. Dodd attended a luncheon in Wilmington Monday. Again we mention the chicken salad, ham and oyster supper to be held Oct. 17 and 18 at the Community Building. The cause is for the benefit of the town and surrounding area, since the profits therefrom will be added to the truck fund of the Frederica Fire Company. The campaign barometer shows that collections have reached a total of more than $4000. The highest figure on the barometer gives $12,000 as goal. It can be reached through co-operative good will and good giving.

H. J. Dodd is in town for several days. After spending Saturday with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. Hoey Gross, Mr. and Mrs. Horace Culver, of Lewes, and their daughter, Mary Ann, were joined by Mr. and Mrs. D. Grey, of Newark, Sunday. All motored to Philadelphia where they enjoyed a major league ball game.

David Moore Jr., SP of the U. S. Navy, spent the weekend with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. David Moore. Recently Moore's ship, USS Atka, arrived at Boston from Greenland.

Mr. and Mrs. William Hammond, of Felton, and Miss Lillian Frazier, of Wilmington, were Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. P. Sheldon Raughley.

Arthur Melvin Sr. is spending a few days with his son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Bostic, of Wilmington.

Home Talk

By Eleanor R. Cavanaugh
Two leader training schools were held last week when the leaders made patterns and choose material for their plastic pocketbooks. One school was held at the Oak Grove School House and the other was held at the Millwood Community Hall. Those attending the school at Oak Grove were: Mrs. William Sterling, Oak Grove Club; Mrs. George Hunt, St. Jones Club; Mrs. H. C. Debaugh and Mrs. Lemuel Spence, Viola Club; Mrs. Tyson Cohee and Mrs. Ralph Virdin, of Fraziers Club.

Those members attending the school held at Millwood were: Mrs. Mary Martin and Mrs. Anna Lee Taylor, Merry-makers Club; Mrs. I. H. Watt, Mrs. John Lloyd, Mrs. Wade Elliott, Todd's Club; Mrs. Locklin Huth, Mrs. Stella Willis, Mrs. John R. Scott, Happy Homemakers Club; Mrs. William Nelson, Friendly Homemakers Club, Dover; Mrs. Philip R. Jacobs, Mrs. Duane Lynn, Mrs. Bertha P. Donovan, Millwood Club; Mrs. Gladys Kates and Mrs. Dulcinea Smith, from the Canterbury Club; Mrs. J. F. Camper and Mrs. Dewitt Tatman, from the Harrington Club; Mrs. Mae Hayes, Mrs. Pearl Robinson and Mrs. Frances Parvis, from the Houston Club. Three members from the Shawnee Evening Club in Sussex County came too—Mrs. Michael Granerman, Mrs. Cathel Bennett and Mrs. David Brown.

The schools on plastic bags will be held again where they will actually make the pocketbooks. The school at Oak Grove will meet Thurs., Oct. 11, and the school at Millwood will meet Fri., Oct. 12.

Miss Ruth Pearce, extension clothing specialist, is conducting the meeting.

The Oak Grove Club is holding a tea Sunday in its little school house. They are entertaining the teachers and students who attended the school. And of course, all of the Oak Grove Club members will be there.

Mix together sugar, flour, cinnamon and nutmeg. Sprinkle ½ cup on bottom of pie shell. Fill shell with apples and pour remaining spices on apples. Mix salt, cream and sugar and pour over apples. Cover with lattice crust. Bake at 450°F. for 40 minutes.

New Poultry Service Building Started At University

A poultry service building that will mean much to research and teaching was started this last week at the University of Delaware Agricultural Experiment Station, Newark. The announcement was made by E. F. Waller, chairman of the department of animal and poultry industry.

The building will include an incubator room, egg storage rooms, poultry dressing room, offices, classrooms, and a research laboratory. Waller says that the building will mean an expansion in poultry research at the University, especially in the field of marketing. The classrooms will make possible more actual judging practice and laboratory work for poultry students. Before, the inconvenience of transporting birds from the farm to the University proper cut down on such work.

The building will be a story and a half, with a full basement. It is made of concrete blocks with a brick finish. Completion of the building is expected in about six months.

Fair View Farms Has Nice Angus

When George W. Cain, owner of Fair View Farms on the Harrington-Frederica road, started his Angus herd two years ago, he got off on the right foot by purchasing a dandy herd bull, Elgon Eston Quality 8th. As of Sept. 30, the Cain herd consisted of some 45 cows, bulls, and calves.

The herd bull was purchased from Robert Hammond, of Houston, who originally had purchased the sire from John A. Forest, of Church Hill Village, between Harrington and Milford. The bloodline of this bull are tops and go back to Earl Marshall and Revolution of Page on the sire side.

Cain has four cows which he purchased from the Black Watch herd, of Land's End Farm, Queenstown, Md. These are Black Watch Mayflower, Black Watch Mayflower 3d, Black Watch Blossom, and Black Watch Nora. Ralph Coulbourne, of Marvel's Crossroads, is another who has made purchases from Land's End Farm.

Cain last week sold four cows and four heifers to Murray Bag Company, of Selbyville, which is going into the cattle industry primarily to raise beef for the market.

The Fair View Farms Angus run on a permanent pasture of Ladino, orchard grass, alsike, redtop, and bluegrass. In the winter they get silage and lespedeza and alfalfa hay.

Clean Gardens Discourage Pests

A general clean-up of home-gardens and fields can get rid of many insects and plant diseases.

Robert F. Stevens, horticultural specialist with the Delaware agricultural extension service, says that clean-ups kill, starve, or put pests under poor conditions so that eventually they die out.

Removing what's left of this year's crop, and plowing the soil discourages common pests like the Mexican bean beetle and the corn borer. Stevens emphasizes that the insects that will live over winter will be the parents for next year's crop of trouble-makers.

Burning crops destroys many insects but this isn't recommended; because proper composting of these materials is just as effective in killing bugs. But particular attention should be given to destroying weeds on the edges of gardens or fields.

Full plowing is helpful on cultivated lands, and should be done if it won't encourage erosion. Plowing turns up pests that burrow into the soil to live. They are killed by the turning process, or because they can't live exposed to the air and freezing conditions on the top of the ground. Other pests who live just on the surface, are buried so deeply that they can't survive.

Early removal of some crops may starve certain insects.

Cleaning up won't eliminate the insect control job next year, but it may simplify it, says Stevens. It's worth the time involved, especially when compared to the time and money which would be needed next summer.

Farm Engineer Says Antennas on Chimneys May Create Fire Hazards

A new fire hazard has been added to the list which A. V. Krewatch, University of Maryland agricultural engineer, suggests you go over during Fire Prevention Week, Oct. 7-13. The new item on the fire hazard list is television antennas attached to chimneys. Mr. Krewatch explains that constant vibration in the wind tends to weaken the mortar in the chimney and may create a fire hazard at the roof line.

"Since we have already started at the top of the house," Mr. Krewatch says, "let's check lightning rod connections, too. Inflammable junk in the attic, or anywhere, for that matter, is just that much more fuel in case of fire. Check the wiring. Repair damaged extension cords and appliances. Make certain circuits are not overloaded, and that the electric safety valves, your fuses, are the proper size. Don't store flammable liquids in the house. And while we're in the basement let's make sure the heating system is safe. Most important of all is a year-around caution about fire, and the things that cause it."

"Now, let's go over the farm buildings and see how many fire hazards we can eliminate. Fire-resistant partitions between hay and livestock are valuable. Roofs and siding of fire-resistant material help prevent the spread of fire. Inspection of wiring, proper size fuses for the wire size used and proper type wiring in farm buildings is important. Putting in wet hay not only results in spoiled hay, but often in fires. Leaky roofs may have the same effect. In addition, lightning rods properly installed with good connections and grounds, or metal roofs bonded and grounded will offer lightning protection. If the ground rods don't go down to permanently moist earth, the lightning rod system is worse than none at all.

"After you have eliminated all the fire hazards you can think of," adds Mr. Krewatch, "it's still a good idea to have the correct type of fire extinguishers handy. Know your fire department's phone number. Small fires quickly controlled do little damage."

Victory Home Demonstration Club

The Victory Home Demonstration Club will meet at the home Mrs. George Hill, at Church Hill Village, near Milford, Thursday evening. The topic presented by Mrs. William Cavanaugh, Kent County home demonstration agent, will be "The Market Basket."

Greenwood H. S. Has Extension Course

Registrations for University of Delaware Extension courses have exceeded all previous records. Dr. Carl J. Ross, director of university extension, estimates that, by the time all classes get under way, over 2200 persons will be enrolled in extension.

Most of those enrolled will be taking courses for credit. However, there are a number of extension students who are engaged in non-credit work.

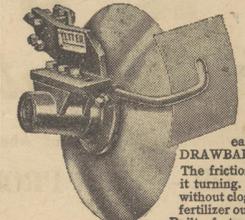

Dr. Rees and Gordon Godbey, associate director of university extension, have begun a series of visits to the communities of Kent and Sussex Counties to set up local committees of community leaders to work with the university extension authorities. Such committees have already been established at Georgetown and Selbyville. An extension course, "Speech for the Classroom Teacher," is now in progress at Greenwood High School. Herbert F. Cobley, principal of Greenwood High School, was instrumental in arranging for the speech course.

Dr. Rees and Mr. Godbey ask all persons interested in extension courses to contact the principals and superintendents of their local schools. This applies particularly to residents of Kent and Sussex Counties.

The extension authorities are anxious to enlist the support of business, industrial, and state government leaders in the formation of local community committees for the advancement of extension work.

Field Day Draws 5000

Delaware's Soil Conservation Field Day was held Thurs., Sept. 27, at the Charles McMahan farm near Hartly was a huge success with an estimated attendance of 5000 persons. Crews of 150 men operating almost 75 different farm implements remade the farm in one day.

The farm was a busy place with on-the-spot broadcasts. The roar of tractors and airplanes seeding barley mingled with the sound of building and the music of the Dover High School band.

At the afternoon program, Gov. Elbert N. Carvel said that the field day is an example of the enterprise that has put Delaware in second place for county farm income in the United States.

Congressman J. Caleb Boggs praised the co-operation of the various agencies, government and private, which made the field day possible. He pointed out that such co-operation makes possible the progress found in free democratic countries. George L. Schuster outlined the development of the Soil Conservation districts and the State Soil Conservation Commission, of which he is chairman.

The farm machinery was a big drawing card. Farmers had an opportunity to compare types of plows, cultipackers, seeders, and many others. Many were interested in deep tillage cultivators which are especially adapted to Delaware soils that have clay sub-soils.

Fair Promise Herd on Pasture

Good Corn Crop Brings Storage Question

With the harvesting of a good corn crop underway in Delaware, farmers begin to wonder about prices and storage.

William E. Tarbell, Kent County agricultural agent, says that corn prices generally drop during harvest. Farmers have more corn for sale than local dealers and millers can handle. This same corn is often sold back to the farmers later, at somewhat higher prices, according to statistics.

Where farmers have good storage facilities, it's often good business to store corn now for sale or feeding later.

A price guarantee of at least $1.70 per bushel for U. S. No. 3 or better is assured to farmers who have approved storage under the PMA program. Details on this may be gotten at the PMA offices in Newark, Dover, or Georgetown.

On the other hand, farmers who must purchase corn to feed later should take advantage of low fall prices and buy now, Tarbell suggests.

Tarbell names two bulletins for farmers who might be interested in building storage space for corn. One is M. C. 56, "Temporary Corn Storage," the other is "Storage of Small Grains and Shelled Corn." Both can be gotten at your county agent's office, Dover, or telephone 2621.

Md. Turkey Producers Meeting, Oct. 11 At Annapolis

Clifford Warring, Production and Marketing Administration, USDA, will be the guest luncheon speaker at the annual meeting of the Maryland Turkey Producers' Association, Oct. 11, at Carvel Hall, Annapolis, Md. He will speak on the "Turkey Outlook."

The meeting will begin at 10 a. m. with a movie and opening remarks by the association president, Samuel T. Royer, Thurmont. Dr. G. F. Combs, professor of poultry nutrition, at the University of Maryland, will review the latest trends in turkey nutrition. Fertility and hatchability problems will be discussed by Dr. C. S. Shaffner, of the state university's poultry department. A business session will close the morning program. Following luncheon the Tilghman Award will be presented to the turkey producer who has made the most significant contribution to the state's turkey industry during the last year.

H. F. Williamson, Williamson and Son Poultry Equipment Salisbury, will talk about "A Better Small Dressing Plant," in the afternoon program.

A former University of California poultry pathologist, and past president of the Poultry Science Association, Dr. W. R. Hinshaw, U. S. Army Chemical Corps Biological Laboratory, Camp Detrick, Frederick, will discuss turkey disease problems.

Three Maryland turkey producers will present a panel discussion of turkey problems at the close of the afternoon session. They are: Ross Smith, Thurmont; Frank M. Kearney, Marlboro, and Presely Taylor, Gambrills.

Purina Farm Holstein Calves Average 310 LBS. at 4 MONTHS

At 4 months, most dairymen's Holstein calves weigh around 250 pounds. Purina Farm calves are not only heavier than average, but have the big frame and stretch you like in a dairy calf. Purina Calf Startena helps make big-framed calves and allows you to do it with a saving in milk, too. In addition, you save up to one-half the cost of feeding milk with Purina Calf Startena. Why not raise a couple of calves this year the Purina way . . . on Purina Calf Startena. Try it. You'll like the saving and do yourself a favor, too.

Fair Promise Farm's Angus Achieve Wide Recognition

Many Delaware Herds Got Their Start From Betterton Herd; Owner Allan Enthusiastic Over "Shore"

By See Aitch Bee

A. R. Allan's Fair Promise Farm, Betterton, Md., has 208 head of the prettiest Angus you ever saw on its 500 rolling acres sloping down to the Chesapeake.

Under the managership of James Corrigan, the Kent County, Md., farm has achieved renown as a breeder of the best. Chief herd sire is Evader of Fair Promise. We saw one of his bull calves, Evader of Fair Promise III, a summer yearling and one of his first crop of calves. Manager Corrigan said: "He is about as close a coupled bull as you will find. Angus men are trying to get them as compact as possible, since the ultimate aim is the table. That's why Angus have won about 90 per cent of the dressed carcass contests at Chicago in the past 45 years."

As we walked toward the show barn we saw Fair Promise Envious Escort, a dandy 2-year-old bull, with Blackcap Revolution breeding on the sire side, and Erianna breeding on the dam side. The juvenile will be shown at the Eastern National Livestock Exposition at Timonium in November. The show is in conjunction with the former Baltimore Fat Stock Show. John Forest, Angus breeder between Harrington and Milford, who visited Betterton with us recently, has some half-sisters to this bull.

Kentucky Fescue 31

The performance of a 13½-acre pasture of Fair Promise Farms is especially worthy of mention. The principal plants in this pasture are Ladino clover and Kentucky fescue 31. The latter, a grass whose site of discovery on a Kentucky hillside is marked by a tablet, is outstanding. Corrigan said, "We've had dry weather for two months; yet the pasture has not burned and has been grazed continuously. In the spring it carried 22 cows and a dozen calves or so. They couldn't keep up with it. About May 1, we increased the number to 56 cows and 44 calves on it for a month. They took it down pretty well, but there was still enough to hold the original 22 cows and their calves."

Corrigan gives much credit to Kentucky fescue 31, explaining that it sent roots down to more than 12 feet in reaching moisture. He added that the land had been limed according to test continuously, with a dozen soil samples being taken on the 13½ acres. Some 500 pounds of 3-12-6 fertilizer were applied to the acre at the start.

20 Heifers Consigned to Sale

Getting back to the cattle, Fair Promise has 20 heifers consigned to the Oct. 19 sale at Bel Air, Md., on the Glenangus Farm, owned by Larry McPhail, formerly of the business section of the Brooklyn Dodgers. The sale will be made of stock from Fair Promise Farm, Glenangus Farms, and MacGregor Farms, Worton, Md.

We went across the road, where we were joined at his home by Mr. Allan, and visited the brood herd on pasture. This herd gets no grain the year around but does get corn ensilage and alfalfa hay in winter. The cattle are out most of December. There is a winter feeding shed almost 400 feet long. This shed is composed of six 60-foot sections. Mr. Allan said, "The cattle do so much better with an open shed than with housing." The shed was covered with aluminum. "On a hot day, it is 10 degrees cooler than under galvanized iron," explained the owner of Fair Promise Farm. Corrigan added that a man could feed the cattle in the shed in a half hour.

Evader of Fair Promise

On the pasture, the calves are creep feed. Tanks provide the water for the cattle on pasture, with the water coming from nine artesian wells.

The pasture contained some notable animals, including Ever Bardolier of Fair Promise, champion bull at the Kent & Sussex Fair last year and a half-brother to a bull owned by John Forest. This is an intensely bred Bardolier bull. Then there was Blakeford Edella, grand champion heifer at the Harrington fair in 1948.

Mr. Allan, also a resident of East Orange, N. J., and one who has more than a speaking acquaintance with Wall Street, was lavish with praise for the Eastern Shore. "I looked for a farm in Lancaster County, Pa., and in Virginia, but have always been happy we came to the Eastern Shore," he said. "It's a garden spot. It is the corn belt of the East. Look at the bay! More fish come out of the Chesapeake than are caught off the Grand Banks of Newfoundland."

Owner Came to Shore in 1940
 The Allans came to the Eastern Shore in 1940, bought a small dairy farm, and built up the place for the beef cattle industry.

Back at the Corrigan home, the manager gave us some facts on the Fair Promise herd. All the cattle, he explained, stem from Earl Marshall, Bardolier, and Bardolier bloodlines. He added that Fair Promise was trying to keep this blood intact.

An Escort bull, now 10 years old, was the original herd sire and a good part of the breeding program was built around him. Three of his sons were grand champions at the Maryland shows and sales. Fair Promise also has two grand champion heifers of shows in Duches County, N. Y., namely, Ruffland's Pridena and Bethel Miss Burgess. Andelot Kate is another worthy name on the Fair Promise herd book. She was grand and supreme champion at Harrington, and champion at the Eastern National at Timonium, Duches County, Md., dam of the Envious Escort bull, was reserve champion at the eastern regional show at Trenton, N. J.

This is to mention just a few. Fair Promise Farm has carefully chosen its breeding stock and although young in years of cattle breeding, it has done an outstanding job with its breeding program. It has sold animals into 14 states and Canada, only recently, Anoka Farms, of Ontario, Canada, selected Evader of Fair Promise 2nd to use in its select herd which has been in operation for more than 25 years. Several Delaware breeders are using Fair Promise herd bulls with outstanding success.

Both Mr. Allan and Mr. Corrigan feel that more of the Eastern Shore territory, rich in ability to grow grass for pasture up to 9 months of the year and a corn crop second only to the corn belt of the Mid-west, should be devoted to cattle raising. Too much corn is sold off the Shore. It would be much more profitable to market this corn through cattle, especially when we are located in the very heart of the large meat consuming area.

283 Miles Underground

Underground development in International Nickel's operating mines advanced approximately sixteen and two-thirds miles during the past year and brought the total length of underground development in these mines to more than two hundred and eighty-three miles, which is considerably greater than the combined underground mileage of the rapid transit subway systems of New York and London.

Harold M. Haswell, a Saratoga Springs resident who has served Saratoga Raceway in varying capacities for nine of its ten seasons, is the track's new racing secretary.

Named this week by Frank L. Wiswall, raceway president, Haswell succeeds the noted Frank Woodland, who died suddenly Sept. 8, just two days before the opening of the Spa fall trots. An assistant to Woodland for the last six years, Haswell has been carrying on in the post since the outset of the meeting.

In accepting the appointment, Haswell gives up one position and prepares to surrender another. He hands over the clerk of course responsibilities to Alwell H. Mead, a fellow Saratogian, and plans to terminate a 19-year teaching career upon selection of a successor.

Meantime, Mead will continue to edit the raceway program as he has done since 1948.

The 39-year-old Haswell, considered one of the sport's rising officials, first joined the raceway family in 1942 to handle the bookkeeping of horsemen's accounts. In 1944, he became clerk and a year later began doubling up as assistant racing secretary.

A keen student of the game since his first days at the track, the new secretary has steadily broadened his harness racing activities. He has judged at the New York State Fair in Syracuse, the Saratoga County Fair at Ballston Spa, the Champlain Valley Exposition at Essex Junction, Vt., and the Rutland Fair at Rutland, Vt. He has been at Essex for five meetings, the last four as presiding judge and during the 1951 meet also served as racing secretary.

But perhaps the man who was born and raised on a farm at Hoosick Falls, just 30 odd miles from Saratoga Springs, is best known in the sport as the co-author with Mead of the Universal Driver Rating System. Introduced by the two high-school teachers in 1948, this percentage system of rating drivers for in-the-money performances in relationship to starts has been adopted by many major tracks across the nation.

Haswell, who began teaching high school pupils in his native Hoosick Falls at the age of 19, has been a prominent member of the Saratoga Springs faculty since 1938. He has headed the mathematics department for nine years and has been a director of the adult education program since 1949. A graduate of Hoosick Falls School and New York College for Teachers at Albany, he is married and is the father of three boys aged seven, eight and eleven.

Corn Picker Fact Sheet Available

The latest University of Maryland Extension Service fact sheet, "Corn Picker Adjustments," has been issued in time to help Maryland farmers harvest a bumper corn crop. Written by Guy W. Gienger, extension agricultural engineer, Fact Sheet 36, is aimed at a safer, easier and more efficient corn harvest.

Several easy-to-read tables give the answers to snapping roller adjustments and husking difficulties. Mr. Gienger tells how to avoid shelling, do a better job of husking, and adjust the entire machine for best results.

"While it's important to do the job easily and thoroughly," Mr. Gienger says, "the most important thing is safety for the operator. Facts show that a properly adjusted machine gives less trouble during the harvesting operation and therefore becomes a safer machine to operate. Accidents just don't happen."

"Each accident, is a result to a set of circumstances of conditions, and so accident prevention consists of developing an awareness of conditions. Actually, instruction and good examples are the best preventive measures. "It would take a book full of 'don'ts' to cover known accident causes," Mr. Gienger concludes, "it takes alertness and a lively imagination to recognize accident-making possibilities."

Fact Sheet 36, "Corn Picker Adjustments," can be obtained from your county agent or by writing the Bulletin Room, Symons Hall, University of Maryland.

Carvel Designates Week For Handicapped

Gov. Elbert N. Carvel has proclaimed Oct. 7-13 as National Employ the Physically Handicapped Week. He has appointed Prof. Raymond W. Heim, director of Delaware State Vocational Education and executive officer of the rehabilitation divisions, as chairman of the Delaware State Committee. Various state organizations and agencies will again comprise the state committee, including the following:

John G. King, director of vocational rehabilitation; John P. Benson, veterans employment officer; Thomas Eagan, service officer for the American Legion; Philip F. Guerke, secretary of the manufacturers section of the Chamber of Commerce; James B. King, service officer for Disabled American Veterans; Douglas MacFarland, of the Delaware Commission for the Blind; Edward A. Mulrooney, veterans' counselor in Delaware State Employment Service; Joseph J. Scannell, manager of Delaware State Employment Service; William B. Steele, special service officer for Veterans Administration; Herbert O. Willis, service officer for the Veterans of Foreign Wars; Leo A. Waters, senior rehabilitation counselor in Vocational Rehabilitation Division, and Gilbert Lewis, chairman of Delaware State Industrial Union Council.

The committee urges all people in the state to lend their cooperation in placing as many physically handicapped persons into employment as possible, and in referring such persons to the proper agencies for service in order that they may become employable.

Mr. Heim stated that case findings clinics will again be held throughout the state according to the following schedule: The Wilmington Office of Rehabilitation, 11 Concord Avenue, and the Delaware State Employment Service, Sixth and Shipley Streets, Wilmington, will be open from 9 a. m. to 4:30 p. m., daily, in the Dover and Georgetown State Employment Service Office, special rehabilitation representatives will be there to interview applicants Thurs., Oct. 11, from 9 a. m. to 4:30 p. m. If handicapped persons are unable to report on any of these days, they are requested to write to the Rehabilitation Office in Wilmington, or any State Employment Office, and representatives will go to their homes.

Mr. Heim again emphasized the fact that handicapped workers, when employed in jobs for which they are best equipped, make reliable, capable, careful, and productive workers. The rehabilitation division, since the program began in 1939, has to date given service and placed in employment almost 30,000 handicapped persons. At the present time, more than 800 persons are in the process of receiving some service through the division. Services provided include medical examinations; medical and surgical treatment; the furnishing of appliances such as artificial arms, legs, braces, and hearing aids; vocational training, and placement.

Mr. Heim stated that, "Finding the handicapped and getting them on a job is one of the major aspects of National Employ the Physically Handicapped Week. Since they represent an important part of our manpower reserves, it is necessary to locate, train, and otherwise prepare and place them on jobs for which they are best fitted."

SCHOOL FIRE

Frank Quillen, played a fire hose on the blaze. 4 Fire Companies Present

The Harrington Volunteer Fire Company and fire companies from Felton, Houston, and Milford answered the alarm and had the blaze out before 4 p. m.

The brick building is comprised of a basement, which contains a cafeteria, two stories, and an attic which was used to store old customs, band uniforms, and odds and ends. The building had classrooms for both elementary school and high-school students until the present high school was built in 1929.

At the height of the flames, a massive, wooden, cupola, located in the center of the roof, disintegrated and collapsed to the roof. A few large timbers that were part of the dome, crashed through the roof and protruded into the attic.

A large section of the building's top level was damaged extensively. Water cascaded down steps and ran along hallways to the basement, entering classrooms and damaging contents and floors.

The fire is believed to have been caused by defective wiring in the cupola or roof, since there were electric conduits in the attic.

New Roof Had Been Installed

Workmen had installed a new roof, and were making repairs to the stairways, and installing hardwood floors. The work on the floors was to have been completed Wednesday. No workmen were in the cupola or attic when the fire was discovered.

Mr. Messner explained that some damage was caused to textbooks but most of the stock was covered with tarpaulins. "One piano got an awful licking," he added. Mr. Messner said work will be started immediately to repair the roof but the cupola will not be replaced.

Gas Masks Used

Firemen had to use gas masks to enter the smoke and flame-filled attic. Some firemen went into the attic up a narrow stairway while others stretched extension ladders to the roof and fought the blaze from the outside. "There was quite a bit of smoke from the asphalt-shingle roof," Horace Hamilton, assistant fire chief, explained. About 30 feet of the roof around the cupola was destroyed before the flames ate their way into the attic.

Eight pieces of fire apparatus from Harrington and the adjoining towns were used in fighting the fire. The school has its own fire hose and hydrant and this was used in addition to the town hydrant nearby.

It was planned, Supt. Messner said, to use the building for the music and art departments in the event a new elementary building was constructed at the northern end of the high-school building.

Whether or not there will be a new building will depend on the outcome of a referendum tomorrow afternoon in which the electorate of Harrington Special School District will vote on a bond issue to raise $134,000 to accompany an appropriation of $201,600 from the state. This money, with $339,000 previously raised, will finance the construction of a 14-room building to house the elementary grades, a cafeteria, gymnasium, and offices.

The pupils in the elementary school went back to school Thursday morning.

TAYLOR-GALLO

The wedding of Miss Edna Mae Taylor, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Melville C. Taylor, of Harrington, and Anthony Eugene Gallo, son of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Gallo, of Farmington, took place Sunday at 2 o'clock at Prospect Church, Vernon, with the Rev. Alden Hopkins, pastor, performing the double ring ceremony.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a white lace and satin ballgown with fitted bodice and long sleeves extending in points over her hands. Her fingertip tulle veil was held in place with a pearl trimmed crown. She carried a white orchid on a prayer book with streamers of white ribbons trimmed in stephanotis.

Miss Doris E. Wright, of Farmington, cousin of the bride, was maid of honor. She wore a gold satin and net gown, ballerina style, and carried a bouquet of bronze and white pompons with matching headdress.

Miss Mildred Gallo and Mrs. Ida Morgan, sisters of the groom, were bridesmaids and wore rose and blue ballerina gowns with headresses to match. Their bouquets were of carnations in colors to match their gowns.

Carmine Gallo, brother of the groom, served as best man. The ushers were Ernest Gallo and Russell Vockel. Gail Pierce, cousin of the bride, was flower girl. She wore a white gown with headress to match and carried a basket of multi-colored flowers.

Charles Taylor, brother of the bride, was ring bearer.

Miss Elaine Smith sang "I Love You Truly," "Because" and "The Lord's Prayer," accompanied by Mrs. Mabel Collison.

Mrs. Taylor, mother of the bride, wore a violet crepe dress with black accessories and an orchid corsage.

Mrs. Gallo, the groom's mother, wore a navy blue dress with black accessories and an orchid corsage.

The grandmothers of the bride, Mrs. C. A. Taylor and Mrs. W. H. Wright, and great-grandmothers, Mrs. Virginia Bennett and Mrs. Charles Taylor, also wore corsages.

A reception was held at the home of the bride after which the couple parted for a wedding trip to Niagara Falls. They will live near Harrington.

Trinity Methodist Church Notes

World-wide Communion and Membership Day are this Sunday. The morning service at 11 a. m. and the evening service at 7:30 will be devoted to both of these privileges. Jesus said, "as oft as ye do this ye do it in remembrance of me."

The Methodist committee on camp activities helps to secure added leadership and facilities to give a program of social, recreational and spiritual service for the men and women in service. Part of the special offering asked for on World-Wide Communion Sunday goes to this committee. Every person should attend some church this Sunday; and every member of Christ's family should be present and participate in the Lord's Supper.

Now that our fall work has started we are looking forward to the resumption of the splendid work of our choirs and M. Y. F., and the beginning of the Usher's Union and the nursery for children every Sunday morning during the morning worship.

Come and avail yourself of the benefits offered by the Sunday School every Sunday at 9:45 a. m. Our youth meet at 6:30 p. m. in the Church Annex.

Tuesday Evening: The regular monthly meeting of the O. U. R. Class.

Thursday Evening: Rehearsal of choirs.

Friday: Methodist Family-life Conference in Chicago. Sunday, October 14. Rally Day.

W. S. C. S. of Trinity Church

At the regular meeting of the W. S. C. S. of Trinity Church, Harrington, Mrs. Ellwood Grubler, president, had charge of the business meeting, at which time Martha Jean Sneath and Joyce Grubler gave very interesting reports of their week's visit at the Girl's School of Missions, at Centerville, last summer.

These two girls were sponsored by the local society. Report on the seminar luncheon disclosed that 264 people were served, with an attendance during the day of more than 300.

Mrs. D. T. Pritchard was in charge of devotions. The worship center showed the flags of the Latin American countries used as a back-ground with an open Bible in the foreground.

The program for the evening was in charge of Mrs. Earl Sylvester who was assisted by Mrs. Oscar Nemesh and Mrs. John H. Potter. The subject was Latin American Welfare, and was presented by means of a travelogue, narrated by Mrs. Sylvester, which called attention to the scenic beauties of Mexico, Central America, South America, and the Island Republics, as well as reference to products of those countries used in our everyday life.

Interspersed in the narrative were references to the economic conditions of these countries, and the work being done through the educational institutions by the Methodist Church and the Women's Society of Christian Service. In Brazil, Mrs. Nemesh told a story of a Brazilian girl, entitled "Cupid Wins a Convert" and in Argentina, Mrs. Potter told a "Woman Pastor" in a story entitled "Jorgalina's Cornerstone." After the travelers returned home several were presented with samples of products, such as coffee, sugar, bananas, rubber, vanilla, tin, and a can of roast-beef from Argentina.

The committee then served refreshments of coffee, cookies and mints.

2nd Seminar WSCS

The second annual seminar of the Women's Society of Christian Service of the Dover District was held Sept. 26, in Trinity Church, Harrington, with the district president, Mrs. Earl Sylvester, presiding. About 300 enthusiastic women were in attendance to preview the approved courses of study of the Women's Division of Christian Service for 1951-52.

Mrs. Harry B. Hygate spoke of the study plans for the year and stressed the need for action after the study courses.

Mrs. Henry Graves presented the book, "The Family, A Christian's Concern," giving suggestions for study and publicity, pointing to the need for spiritual development and well adjusted children through the family.

Miss M. Blanche Price reviewed "Churches for Our Country's Needs," listing a number of books as aids for the course. The importance of the church was emphasized and the question was asked "Does the Church Meet the Needs of the Community?"

A study of program and worship booklets was presented by Mrs. Milton Manlove, giving suggestions for planning the programs to suit the needs of the local church, placing the responsibility of selling the program upon the program chairman.

In the afternoon, Mrs. T. C. Mulligan reviewed the book, "We Americans, North and South," stressing the need of understanding and love. Books, maps and curios were suggested as aids to add interest to the study course, also, publicity through newspapers, posters and radio.

Mrs. W. W. Sharp presented "A Study of the Book of Acts," by E. P. Blair. The spiritual value of this book was emphasized and its influence upon our modern life. We are to share our Christian faith in the simple direct way of the early church. Acts must lead to action.

Dr. O. A. Barkley, superintendent of Dover District, brought greetings and assured the group of his interest, pledging his cooperation for the advancement of the program.

Frear Says Congress Has Taxed Enough, Barring All-Out War

United States Senator J. Allen Frear said today he believes that Congress has applied the maximum taxation possible, barring an all-out war.

In his weekly statement, the senator declared that if revenue produced by current and pending tax legislation is not sufficient to meet our needs, the Government will have to further trim its costs to make up the difference.

The Delaware senator's remarks were made in a course of a general discussion dealing with the impact of the Korea war on the nation during the past nine months. He pointed out that the effect of the mobilization program will probably be felt more keenly in the months immediately ahead as material shortages and allocations force adjustments in the conduct of business and private affairs.

In a reference to the approaching congressional recess, the senator expressed the belief that more numerous visits on the part of congressmen to their native states and districts would be advantageous to obtain the first-hand views of the citizens back home. He added that a number of senators and congressmen are unable to leave the capital as often as they would like because of the time and expense involved in making trips to the areas in which they live.

In concluding his statement, Mr. Frear called for implementation of added reorganization measures before the congressional adjournment, as a means of promoting greater efficiency and economy within the government.
