

Harness Racing Ends Here With K. & S. Association's Most Successful Meet

T. Walters Is Leading Driver, With J. Stokley Runner-up; Ellis Myer Drives Fastest Heat

The most successful meet in the history of the Kent & Sussex Racing Association closed Saturday night.

Mutuels handle, on the closing night was $108,572, a record. Total handle for the meet was around $1,721,600, also a record.

The success of the meet was attributed to several things. The opening of the Delaware Memorial Bridge made it easier for South Jersey patrons to attend the meet. The economic situation was favorable. Furthermore, the weather, which had been a bugaboo in several meets, was especially favorable, with rain canceling the races for only one night out of 27 nights racing.

At the close of the races Saturday evening, the racing association presented Ellis Myer with a $100 watch for being the driver of the fastest race. Myer drove Nancy Sue a mile in 2:04.4 Tues., Oct. 5. The all-time pacing mark here, made in a race, is 2:02 1/4, made by Guy The Tramp during the Kent & Sussex Fair in July, 1934. Nancy Sue's time in the best ever made by a mare here.

Tommy Walters nosed out J. Stokley by one point to become leading driver of the meet. Walters and Stokley were given $100 watches by the racing association. The breakdown is as follows:

	St.	W.	P.	S.	Pts.
T. Walters	79	13	17	11	126
J. Stokley	54	17	11	7	125

Dover Air Base to Become Major East Coast Terminal Of Air Transport Service

House Appropriations Committee Approves Request For $25,411,100 For Expansion of Base

Dover Air Force Base is to become the major East Coast terminal of the Military Air Transport Service, it was revealed in Washington Monday.

It will replace Westover Field, Mass., which is to be taken over by the Strategic Air Command exclusively for the use of bombers and other heavy military aircraft.

The announcement means that Dover will become one of the major air terminals of the nation.

The House appropriations committee Monday approved an air force request for $25,411,000 for expansion of Dover air force base, after making public testimony given in closed-door sessions that indicated that Dover will become one of the major air terminals for trans-Atlantic operations of the Military Air Transport Service. It will replace Westover Field, Mass., in this role.

Vastness of the Dover development is indicated by the request for $12,000,000 for temporary barracks that will cover 587 acres of land. An additional $2,500,000 was approved for bachelor officers' quarters.

The committee also approved the Air Force's request for $1,630,000 for New Castle Air Base.

Hoof Beats

The fall trots come to an end at Saratoga Raceway Saturday night and indications are that the meeting will go down as the most successful since the record autumn session of 1948.

Round figures covering the first four weeks of the 30-night meet show nightly average of around 2900 in attendance and nearly $100,000 in handle. Comparative 1948 marks for the same period were slightly more than 3000 on the turnstile count and approximately $90,000 at the windows.

Meantime, the current meet is well ahead of last year's weather-marred fall trots.

Duly elated over the banner season enjoyed by Congress Lad, Dr. L. A. Parmenter has purchased a full brother to his star pacer. Trainer Aubrey Rodney is expecting the newcomer any day. He is a yearling and like the four-year-old Lad, he is by Congressional out of the Daystar mare, Sainly Sister. Dr. Parmenter bought him from the New Castle, Ind., breeder, J. S. Jones.

Congress Lad, with scorching miles in 2:03.3 in his last two outs will shoot for his 17th win of the year in Friday night's $2000 Gotham. He has suffered only three defeats since the retired Corinth physician purchased him sight unseen last winter.

Two of the raceway's most popular drivers landed in Saratoga Hospital during the weekend. Lew Howell, 73-year-old veteran from Honesdale, Pa., was rushed there Friday with pneumonia and 28-year-old Bill Whitney of Norwich joined him Sunday following an auto accident in which he suffered multiple fractures and a concussion. As of late Monday, Howell was making good progress toward recovery, but Whitney's condition was listed as only fair.

It took Michael T. Akoury, the North Bennington, Vt., owner-driver until last week to shake a jinx that had kept him out of the winner's circle all season. Then, in a single night, he brought home two winners, including Josella Hanover at $96.10.

Ground Observers Needed For Civil Defense

A test alert for the ground observer corps is scheduled for mid-November, said D. L. Dutton, deputy director of Civil Defense for Delaware, in a plea for support of the recruiting campaign now under way for observers. T. Brinton Holloway is chief ground observer for the Harrington area.

The ground observer corps is composed of non-military personnel who volunteer their service on a part-time basis to observe the movements of aircraft and report all available information obtained by sight or hearing to a designated filter center in order that adequate air raid warnings may be given to our defending air force units.

In a letter to principals of high schools in Delaware, D. Preston Lee, state director of Civil Defense, wrote: "In connection with students it is thought that a youngster might work with an adult on a two-hour daytime observation shift and that the combination of youthful enthusiasm and keen eyesight with the elder's mature judgment might be a happy one."

There are 30 observation posts in Delaware, of which only 23 are manned. Posts are vacant at St. Georges and Taylor's Bridge in New Castle County; at Bowers in Kent County, and at Robbins, Lewes, Bethany Beach, and Frankford in Sussex County.

Persons interested in becoming ground observers in Harrington should contact T. Brinton Holloway, Frank Montague, Box 685, Dover, is area supervisor for Kent County.

Rotarians Have Interesting Programs

Hundreds of boys from all over Delaware spend two weeks at Camp Barnes in Sussex County, Cpl. Hugh T. Collins, director of the camp, told Harrington Rotarians Tuesday evening.

"Most of these are boys who otherwise would not be able to attend a camp," said Corporal Collins. "Some come from broken homes, from homes where the father may be nothing but a drunk or a bum—or where the mother has left the children to fend for themselves. Others come from decent homes where their only "crime" is that they are poor."

A motion picture of the camp activities was shown. The children are taught cleanliness, basketball, baseball, boxing, etc., all closely supervised. There are periods in swimming instruction and each boy must perform certain chores each day. Wholesome food is provided in abundance and most of the boys gained from two to six pounds during the stay at camp.

This camp is sponsored by the Police Chiefs Association of Delaware. Ten boys from Harrington enjoyed the outing this past season.

Walt Myers was program chairman of the evening.

At the previous meeting of the Rotary Club motion pictures of the Chicken of Tomorrow contest were shown. This contest was held in Salisbury and Harrington's entry in the beauty pageant was Miss Louise Gray, sponsored by the Rotary Club. Miss Gray was present at the Rotary meeting, in addition to Mrs. Theodore Harrington, Mrs. William C. Gray, Mrs. Fulton Downing and Mrs. John G. Parks.

The program was in charge of Irvin Hawk, one of the directors of the chicken contest, assisted by Bill Sloan, assistant county agent of Sussex County.

John Parks was program chairman of the evening.

Contract Awarded For Nanticoke Bride

James Julian, Elsmere, has been awarded a contract for the construction of the combined bridges which will be a part of the continuation of the dual highway from Brown's Church, just north of Seaford, to the Maryland State Line.

The contract was awarded by the State Highway Department after bids received on the project were tabulated by the department's engineers, according to an announcement by R. A. Haber, chief engineer.

The project provides for three divided highway bridges of each consisting of two separate bridges to provide a bridge for both the north and south bound traffic at the points where the bridge are located.

The bridges will cross the North Fork of the Nanticoke River and the Nanticoke River proper, both east of Seaford, and Records Pond, which is east of Laurel.

Each bridge will be 34 feet wide and will have a roadway 28 feet in width providing for two lane traffic. A distance of about 40 feet will separate the structures at each point.

The bridges will be placed on reinforced concrete piling with the bridge flooring resting on structural steel beams while the roadway will have concrete slabs for the traffic portion and concrete sidewalks on the side.

The two bridges over the North Fork of the Nanticoke River will be 124 feet and 2 inches in length while the bridges over the Nanticoke River will be 344 feet, 5 inches in length. The bridges over Records Pond will be 194 feet, 2 inches in length.

Proposals on the project were received by the department in two groups with one group providing bids on each set of bridges and the other group providing bids for all of the bridges together. There were no bids filed for the individual construction of the bridges over Records Pond.

There were three bidders for each group of bridges over the Nanticoke River and five for the entire group of bridges in one lot.

James Julian low bid on the entire project of all of the bridges was $1,009,029.95. Completion date for all of the bridges has been fixed by the department as May 31, 1953.

Railroad News

Mrs. M. H. Lingenfelter, superintendent, Women's Aid of the Delmarva division, the Pennsylvania Railroad, announced this week the aid will hold a general meeting at 1:30 p. m., Wednesday, in the Aid Room, PRR Office Building, Cape Charles, Va. Mrs. R. E. Schrack, Mrs. R. W. Windsor and ladies from the consolidated office and train service departments will officiate as hostesses. This will be the initial meeting scheduled for the 1951 fall season.

Mrs. Windsor advised that the entertainment committee and their aides are working diligently on an entertainment which promises to be a gala event. Refreshments will be served and a door-prize awarded at the close of the party.

A railroader, registering at a hotel was asked if he wanted a room with running water, "No," he said, "what do you think I am, a brook trout?"

With the race meet, world series and the canning season over we can ease up a little and devote our time to the less serious problem of winning the war.

Mechanizing MW equipment in the Harrington area is going a long way toward doing just that. A new 1 1/2 ton Ford truck with covered body, heating units and collapsible seats for handling men and material arrived last week with "Harrington, Del." painted on it.

This week Supervisor Bernie Siems received a small bulldozer equipped with blade, scraper and plow.

Bernie has also been using a power tie-tamping machine known as a ballaster for the past three weeks and will continue for at least two more. This machine is now operating on the southward track north of town, raising and tamping 2000 ft. of track each day. Crews mobilized to man this operation are the track gangs of Louis Taylor, at Felton, George McClain at Wyoming, Wilbur Fletcher here at Harrington, Tom Twigg at Greenwood, and Charley Messick from Bridgeville. Two-thirds of the crew of 40 men work ahead of the machine, raising the track and renewing ties. The other ten follow up leveling, spiking and cleaning up.

In addition, this work requires a worktrain delivering ballast, a chartered bus for transporting crews, a temporary block operator at Felton and an MW repairman.

The project represents quite a prosperity item to the town. The engineers are loud in their praise of the improvement in riding where the ballaster has worked.

Freight movement is still heavy with stone for the several highway projects now under way and coal for chicken men preparing for cold weather.

Several new side tracks have been constructed recently and others in the making denote further business.

There were 424 ballots cast for the bond issue, as compared with 23 against.

Robert L. Nelson was election inspector; Ellwood B. Gruwell and H. Hayward Quillen, judges, and T. Brinton Holloway and Archie Feagan, tellers.

The funds from the bond issue, with other monies, will be used to construct a one-story addition to the present school plant consisting of classrooms for the elementary grades, a cafeteria, gymnasium, and offices. There would also be shower rooms and a nurse's office and clinic.

Architect Walter Carlson conferred with the Board of Education Wednesday as to plans. On Oct. 19, the State Board of Education will canvass the votes. If the board approves the vote, the School Building Commission (consisting of the local Board of Education and two members of the state board) will be notified.

Preparations are already underway for the printing and sale of bonds to float the required funds, $134,400. After the sale of bonds, advertisements for bids, on construction of the building, will be placed.

J. C. Messner, superintendent of Harrington public schools, said he did not anticipate building starting before December.

The funds from the bond issue will accompany $201,600 appropriated by the state. These monies will be used with $339,000 previously raised for the project.

The last-named sum was comprised of an appropriation of $129,000 from the state and $210,000 raised from a bond issue voted on Dec. 10, 1949. These funds earmarked for the building program, were found insufficient when the lowest bid was $511,643.

When funds from the bond issue are received a total of $875,000 will be available for the building program.

The additional funds were made necessary by the increase in building costs since the building bids were opened in 1950. Cost of general construction has advanced 12 1/2 per cent; the electrical contract, 24 per cent, and the heating contract, 32 per cent. In taking the figures in the 1950 bid and adding the above percentages, it was found that the present plan would provide enough money for the building.

The bond issue voted on Saturday will increase the school taxes $1.50 per thousand dollars.

With increases, and prospective increases, in costs of publication, THE HARRINGTON JOURNAL has no choice but to raise the price of its newspaper. Cast For "Tish" Selected With November 15 and 16 not too far away Miss Clark, the dramatic director, and the seniors, announce the cast for the senior play "Tish."

Lethia Carberry (Tish) is a middle-aged spinster and entirely lovable. She is possessed of a youthful spirit and craves excitement. Active and alert, she is blunt and outspoken and has a determined will.

Her boon companions, Lizzie, who is built on the roly-poly plan and whose movements are slow and methodical and who tires very easily, and Aggie, who suffers intensely from hay fever and talks with a decided whine, are Kathleen Jester and Mildred Simpson respectively.

Tish's nephew Charlie Sands, spends most of his time getting his aunt out of trouble. Just about everywhere that Tish goes Charlie Sands (Kenneth Richter) goes. Charlie is the male lead.

Ellen Leighton (Margaret Hobbs) is the juvenile female lead. Since her father's death she has been trying to make a go of "The Eagle Hotel." From Luther Hopkins (Samuel Walters) she has borrowed money. Luther's daughter Callie (Eloise Anthony) is Ellen's best friend. Sheriff Sam Pike (Billy Chambers) is always trying to keep his eyes out for bandits, thus attempting in his own way to take care of Ellen.

Among the others in the cast are Bettina Trent (Janet Sylvester) Wesley Andrews (Louis Palmatory), Denby Grimes (Harry Carlisle), Dorice Gaylord (Elsie Schreiber), and Charita, the Mexican maid (Sara Schultz).

Sulky Slants

By Mrs. Dave (Pat) Smith

When you wait and wait for something then can't go. That's something. That's what happened to me. Didn't get to take in the $10,000 trot. I was ill with a cold.

About the worst night of the season cold and bitter so, I had to be content with second hand information.

Ole Steamin' Demon Hanover is some little horse. Harrison Hoyt and Ralph Verhurst were over to visit our stable.

We have always been more or less interested in Proximity as Ralph Verhurst bought her in Pinehurst, N. C., when we were all stabled in same barn.

So we have watched her grow from a (pup) to be what she is today. Mr. Verhurst tells me nothing has changed down in the little town nestled in the pines. But the prices are still sky high.

Where we used to pay $90 per season for the stable, is now $225 per season, November to May. But it's a beautiful place, magnolias, pines, dogwood and roses.

The "Chapel in the Pines," where more old fashioned weddings, I think, are performed there than anywhere else.

Hansons along with the old colored high top driver, more on the gay nineties style. There is as Mr. Verhurst says, you haven't been to Pinehurst unless you visited the "Grey Fox."

That is the swankiest eating place around there, unless the Carolina Hotel. How do I know? I was bookkeeper and cashier for two years.

You'll meet the Rockefellers, Mr. and Mrs. Marshall, Ethel duPont, the Mellows' Dunbar Bostwick, Pete Bostwick, polo player, the Luff's, that own Pinehurst.

That's why I really enjoy getting cards or letters from friends I made down there.

When I get back I'll give Mr. Burgess a picture Mrs. Rockefeller sent me about a month ago, of her outdoor garden in Oyster Bay, L. I.

I see where Gen. and Mrs. Marshall have bought them a home in Leesburg, Va.

Their war-time home was just behind the Grey Fox. I hope to make a short visit down there this fall. So much for Pinehurst.

Mrs. Emil Adams and Emilene were out on the platform we have here for anyone having children to watch the races.

You see you can't bring children here, not to go anywhere near grandstand or betting, or paddock. I couldn't go myself last night, too much cold.

So Grace was telling me next time she comes up here she will bring a fur coat, (longies) and rubbers. Anything to keep warm. However, Mrs. Adams did tell me this, that Emilene's daddy, Emil, saved money by sitting on this side of the track. What do you think, on hot dogs and pop.

Now Emil, I know you better than that. Don't cry over a quarter. I asked Fritz, who works for Emil, if Emilene talked more than she used to. Well Fritz said, just try to keep her still now.

Here is a good one, the other night Emil and I were watching a race Dave was driving in. Of all things, he pulled over almost at finish line to let a horse go in to rail to win.

Well when Dave pulled in with Ole Uncle Dudley Spencer, Emil yelled, "We will have to train you Dave, when you get to Harrington." Dudley Spencer was second.

Sure miss Carl Goslin around. At least I had someone to cry on their shoulder when you can't get a horse in. More power to you down there Carl.

Say, little Billy Carter, how about that old turkey gobbler you are going to have for me? Anyone seeing Harry Adams, tell him for me his old Ford Hotel looks lonesome by the gate.

Only a lonesome dog sits by the door now. No one to pass out cantaloupes while sitting in the blacksmith shop. Oh gosh, I'm in a homesick mood so think I'll stop before I go into a sob story. I want to see Mrs. Britt Holloway, Betty Myers, Ellis Jr. and Dagwood, Mrs. Jimmy Workman and Fuzzy Tail, Dr. Locke and Mr. Kullen.

Heh, Mayor Rash, do something exciting as I never see your name in the paper any more.

I'm going to cover some of these winter conventions so I can hear you speeches.

All this past week horses are going home. I'm ready. It's a miserable cold week here. Crowds hold up good.

Here is a cutie—Pa driving the car while his wife in back in their trailer called, "Pa, go slow, if you pass another trailer, I want to borrow a cup of flour."

To see the cartoon was really funny.

Wayne Morris, Beverly Tyler Visit Here

Wayne Morris and Beverly Tyler, movie stars, visited Harrington Monday afternoon in a Delaware tour of Cavalcade of Stars. The cavalcade, said Reese B. Harrington, operator of Reese Theatre here, started simultaneously in the capitols of all states to mark the golden jubilee of the motion picture industry.

After starting in Dover, the group was met at Center Street and Delaware Avenue by Mayor E. B. Rash and other civic officials, and the Harrington High School Band, directed by Melvin Brobst.

There was a parade to the high school where Mayor Rash welcomed the stars and commented upon his visit to California 40 years ago. Mr. Harrington took over the microphone at the school house and highlighted the purpose of the tour.

Principal speakers were the guests of honor, which included William Bodine a scenario writer who helped write, "I Remember Mamma."

The stars were welcomed in Dover, the starting point of the tour, by Harris B. McDowell, secretary of state, in the absence of Gov. Carvel who was ill. At a luncheon at the Dinner Bell, at Dover, the toastmaster was Wallace Woodford. Mayor Storey, of Dover, was among the speakers.

After touring lower Delaware, early this week, the party wound up in Wilmington.

"I do not ask you to believe this," said Truthful James, not from Table Mountain, "because I would not believe it if I hadn't seen it. It was late at night and I was on my way to my boarding house from a trip downstate. I discovered an old man, a very, very old man, holding a rusty lantern and shining its rays on a creaking sign swinging in front of a little building of some kind.

"Lines of cynicism were deeply creased upon that aged face and he looked strangely familiar, vaguely familiar, like something you've seen in a dream. I knew I had never met him personally, because I guessed his age to be about twenty-four hundred years, give or take a year or two either way, and it turned out that my guess was pretty close to his real age.

"Then I realized why he seemed so familiar—I had seen his pictures in history books and magazines of ancient vintage. Discovering me, he pointed a long, thin finger at the sign swinging above the door: 'Home-Made Antiques, Modern in Every Way, 1951 Models.' The old man turned to me and the cynical look had been replaced by one of sweetness, of kindness, of serenity, of faith—and hope.

"The etchings of age had vanished from his face and he looked not one day over twenty-two hundred years old. 'At last,' he murmured, and there was happiness in his tones, 'My long, long quest has ended,' and Diogones—for Diogones it was—deliberately busted his lantern."

EDUCATION—AND HOSES—OR HOSES—AND EDUCATION

An election was held here Saturday and it was a very important election, one called for the purpose of issuing bonds for the erection of a much-needed school building.

We voted early in the afternoon and the polls remained open until eight o'clock, thus conflicting for a time with harness races at the fair grounds.

The following morning we were up early, because we were deeply interested in the result of the school election. We questioned dozens of people, but no one seemed to know anything about the result of the election.

However, each person we asked told us the daily double winners at the races of the previous night, and at least half the citizens could tell us the names of all the horses in all the races, their drivers and order in which they finished. All day Sunday we tried in vain to find out about the result of the election.

That night we went to a restaurant bearing the appropriate name of "The Bridle Bit" for dinner. At the conclusion of our meal, we noticed Archie Feagan coming out of the dining room. Archie is a teacher and we called him over and asked about the election. "424 for and 23 against," he replied. A man eating rather loudly at an adjoining table pricked up his ears. "$23.00 got you $424! Why in gosh name didn't somebody tip me off?"

Archie Feagan has been an efficient, conscientious and respected member of the Harrington Public School faculty for many years, but for the first time his qualifications to teach in Harrington were questioned—he didn't know who won the daily double.

"THIS IS MY KIND OF TEAM"

(Written Before The World Series)

"My kind of team," said Leo,
The Lip, The Lung, The Spark,
When he'd shipped Marshall-Hudson
For Stanky and for Dark.
The castles built in April
Collapsed as in a dream
As daily losses mounted,
But still he yelled: "My Team!"

The going wasn't pleasant,
The road was steep and rough,
The Giants were but pigmies
And they had lost their stuff!
The clouds were dark and low'ring
Without the faintest gleam
Of hope, but still he shouted:
"This is my kind of team!"

Until one day in August
The going had been bad,
But dog days come in August—
Perhaps the team went mad.
They shone with blinding brilliance,
The Lip poured out a stream
Encouraging, inspiring:
"Come On, Come On—My Team!"

Leo has taught a lesson,
A lesson we should heed—
Let's have faith in our country
In this its hour of need.
Above the highest mountain
Let's hear our eagle scream,
Though thunders roll around it:
"This is OUR kind of team!"

COLLEGE PRESIDENTS—BY REMOTE CONTROL

Just what is the function of a college president? In other days the president of a college was supposed to give practically all of his time in the interest of his school. He was paid to do this and most of them earned far more than they were paid—but, today!

Dr. George Benson, president of Harding College, Searcy, Arkansas, travels all over the country delivering hundreds of speeches annually. With this schedule, he spends but little time at Searcy.

A more blaring example is found in the person of Harold Stassen, who was a good governor of Minnesota and later cast a beguiling look at the office of President of the United States. Failing to muster sufficient strength at the Republican National Convention, he went into the barter business, switched his delegates and became president of the University of Pennsylvania.

However, he spends very little time at presiding. He is hither and yon, here and there—almost to and fro—ripping and yelling politics, making rabid statements and misstatements he cannot prove, quoting alleged private conversations he had with men who cannot refute his charges, because they are deceased.

Mr. Stassen strikes us as almost as rabid and untrustworthy, although much more intelligent, than the world's outstanding muck-raker, Senator McCarthy.

Letter to the Editor Twenty Years Ago

To The Editor:

I think special mention should be made of the superintendent, principal and teachers of the Harrington School, in the most efficient way they performed their duty in leading the hundreds of pupils to safety during the fire, Oct. 2. They were all calm, and were they excited? Who wouldn't be with so many lives depending on them, but not one time did they show their excitement, while they still had their pupils in charge.

I think they are all to be commended and thanked for their noble task.

The fire companies also did a very good job in getting the blaze under control in such short time. Thanks to them.

AIR CASTLES

By Samuel A. Short Jr.
Harrington, Del.

Air Castles are sometimes built,
By people both large and small.
While some are started to be built,
But never are finished at all.

Some are started in childhood,
And followed right on through.
With all their years of lifehood,
Always ever so new.

Some it seems are always finished,
While others are never done at all.

Some at times are always diminished,
By ones that never heed their call.

Some are built on solid foundations,
Some on nothing but sinking sand.
Some give up on their first temptation,
By never seeking solid land.

Background Brings Beauty
In an outstanding living room where treasured eighteenth century paintings and mahogany furniture have an exquisite setting, the walls and woodwork are painted a delicate blue. Deep cushioned divans are upholstered to match. The ceiling is painted a pale gold which is lighter in tone than the sheer gold draperies.

Trinity Methodist Church Notes

No one is without power to contribute to our well-being. Is it not strange that we innocently sometimes hurt ourselves and hurt others? Because the influx of Sunday sight-seers have demoralized their church services, the Cherokee Indians in North Carolina are asking visitors to stay away from their reservation on Sundays. Having this fact brought to our attention, we are wondering if the universal urge to worship God has not been violated many times in ourselves and in others, by the Sunday visitors and touring Christian.

"Rally" will be the key-note in our services this Sunday. You are invited to come. Beginning at 9:45 a. m. the Sunday School will have its usual delightful lesson and fellowship. Then at 11 o'clock the annual Sunday School Rally Day program, with all department taking part. Our Senior Choir will also render special music. Our nursery for children during the morning worship is capably supervised.

Louise Minner is the leader in the youth meeting at 6:30 p. m. in the Church Annex. The pastor will bring a Rally Day message at 7:30 p. m.

Wednesday Evening: The regular monthly business meeting and social of the M. Y. F.

Thursday and also Oct. 25, Nov. 1, 8, and 15, 2 p. m.: Study course taught by Mrs. E. Sylvester, and sponsored by W. S. C. S. on Latin America.

Thursday Evening: Rehearsal of choirs.

Friday, Saturday and Sunday: Annual conference of Peninsula Methodist Youth Fellowship in Wilmington.

Next Sunday: Stewardship Sunday.

Sunday, October 28, 7:30 p. m.: Week of prayer and self denial services sponsored by W. S. C. S. Monday and Tuesday, Nov. 19 and 20; 26-27, Dec. 3-4: Training School for this area of Dover District in Milford.

Our Bank Says "Help Yourself"
People around here need lots of small change these days—what with candy, gum, cigarette and soft drink machines... pay phones... and those penny sales taxes.
Used to put a strain on our bank. Changing money took up a lot of time. Then the Chief Teller Happy Wilson, read about another bank using a "help yourself" change system. The directors decided to see if it would work here.
They set out some big shallow bowls full of nickels, dimes and pennies with a sign saying "MAKE YOUR OWN CHANGE." Works fine.
At the end of the day the totals are never more than a couple of cents under—or over—the right amount.
From where I sit, folks everywhere are pretty much alike, although they may seem different. Farmers and city folks, Republicans and Democrats, those who enjoy a glass of beer occasionally and those who prefer something else—we all usually try to live up to the trust others have in us.

FARM NEWS AND REVIEW

400 Feet of Broiler House

George W. Cain, of Fair View Farms, near town, and one of his broiler houses. This house, heated with coal, contains about 14,000 crossbred birds.

Cain Has Raised Broilers Since 1938

George W. Cain, of Fair View Farms, on the Harrington-Fredonia road, has raised broilers since 1938 and should know what it is about. He raises three batches annually of over 25,000 birds and has been marketing them at the Swift & Company plant at Felton since the black market started in world war II. Cain allows from 1/2 to 3/4 square feet per bird. In one house, about 400 feet long, he now has 14,000 crossbreds about four weeks old. The house is heated with coal. The birds, fed broiler mash, will be marketed between 11 and 12 weeks. In another house, the Harrington broilerman has 11,500 New Hampshire Reds, about six weeks old. He is raising this breed because he feels it is easier to sell when the market is tight. These birds are fed Beacon feeds.

Gives 7 Hints on Pullet Management

Here's a 7 point pullet management program that will help get more eggs from your layers while eggs are bringing good fall prices. Wade Rice, University of Maryland extension poultryman, gives these pointers to make egg production easier and more profitable:

1. House the pullets and hens separately. Grading the pullets for uniformity in size, maturity and quality will make feeding and management more effective.
2. Confine the pullets and hens to the house to control the yolk color. Yolk color and egg flavors may be effected by things a pullet may eat outside.
3. Use efficient feeders and fountains. On feeders, use covers or reels, and guard to prevent feed waste through hens billing feed on the floor. Since 100 hens will drink 7 1/2 gallons of water a day, a constant supply of fresh water is best supplied by an automatic water fountain.
4. Use artificial lighting to insure the layers having a 13-hour day. Light stimulates the glands controlling the sex hormone which controls egg production.
5. Feed for maximum production and maintenance of body weight. This means feeding a good laying mash with a grain mixture and, if desired, pellets at noon. The birds should go to roost with their crops packed with food. For maximum production over a long period, pullets should gradually increase their body weight through the winter months. A drop in feed consumption is a forewarning of a drop in egg production.
6. Cull the flock thoroughly at least 4 times a year. All birds that go out of production or become sick should be removed from the flock at any time to save feed.
7. Prevent introduction of disease into the flock. Keep visitors out of pens, or provide disinfectant pans for their shoes. Screen pigeons, sparrows and other birds out of the house. Disinfect crates carried into the pens. Don't take chances with disease infection.

Wider Tractor Rims Don't Increase Pulling Power

A standard 13-inch tractor rim has just as much pulling power as do wider rims, according to research done at the U. S. Tillage Machinery Laboratory in Alabama.

Tests showed that tires with button-type and bar-type treads on 12, 14, 16, and 18 inch rims showed no gain in pull or efficiency over regular tires. These tests were done in sandy soils.

The engineers who did the research says that for the most drawbar pull and efficiency in dry, loose soil, air pressure should be as low as possible. But tires should not be so low as to make the side walls wrinkle, or the tire slip on the rim.

Actually, these engineers say, lowering the pressure from the recommended 12 pounds to eight, increased pull by 16 per cent. This also improved traction efficiency by 3 per cent, but did wrinkle the side walls.

For the best combination in dry, loose soil, the engineers recommend a tire pressure of 12 pounds, and driving at moderate speeds.

Chickweed in Alfalfa Can Be Controlled by Spraying

Heavy infestations of chickweed in new seedings of alfalfa may ruin the stand during the winter, if the fields are not sprayed, according to Stanley Stabler, University of Maryland Extension agronomist. Chickweed will choke out or shade the alfalfa and may harbor diseases in the heavy moist blanket formed by the weed. Mr. Stabler says that experiences of Maryland farmers indicate that control of the chickweed will result in better stands and higher yields of alfalfa.

"Dinitro oil sprays have given good control in most fields," Mr. Stabler states. "One pound per acre applied after the first killing frost seems to do the least damage to alfalfa and will take care of the worst of the chickweed."

"Almost any type sprayer can be used, but a greater pressure and gallonage should be used than is used for 2, 4, 0. If a 2, 4-D sprayer is used, it should be thoroughly cleaned with ammonia before being used to spray alfalfa."

"If chickweed is greatly outgrowing the alfalfa before frost, it may pay to spray even at the risk of burning some alfalfa leaves. In these severe cases where the early spray is used, it may be necessary to follow with a second application."

"It is very important to correctly calibrate the rate of application to get the proper dosage," Mr. Stabler points out. County agents can give detailed information on this.

You will find that by roasting meat at a low temperature, the meat will be more juicy, there will be less shrinkage of the meat, and you will have nice drippings for gravy. The meats are placed in a shallow uncovered pan, and no water is added. Since a longer time is required for roasting, the meats will be browned without having been seared at a high temperature. Try roasting the meat using this method. I'm sure you'll like it:

Parker Sells Both Milk and Tomatoes

Ask anyone who grows tomatoes, and he'll tell you that 98 acres is a lot of tomatoes. This doesn't bother William "Bill" Parker, however, as he owns and operates his own cannery. His father built and operated the cannery for 19 years, primarily to can his own tomatoes. The canning plant now has been in steady operation for 25 years, with Bill to carry on where his father left off, says Pet Dairy Chats.

"We strive for small production and high quality," Bill states. "The demand for our product has increased through the years, and we now have more orders than we can fill."

The complete canning operation consists of washing, scalding, peeling, inspecting, grading, and finally, canning. Bill says it makes for a better-quality product to inspect and grade the tomatoes after they are skinned, and that is the procedure he follows.

All Parker-canned tomatoes now are sold under the buyer's own label, although the cannery does have its own labels. One hundred per cent of the pick is grown within a radius of ten miles of the cannery.

About half of the tomatoes to be canned this year will be received from farmers in this area. The Rutgers variety of tomato is grown most generally throughout this section. It is a deep, solid tomato of good color and small core.

Tomatoes comprise one of the leading cash crops of the Eastern Shore, and have been through the years. Much labor is required to harvest tomatoes, since some fields are picked as many as six times. Again, Bill is fortunate in having 25 to 40 pickers available for work. He believes he will have an average yield of about 500 baskets per acre this year.

Much labor also is needed even before the tomatoes are ready to be picked. The ground is prepared thoroughly for planting. It is fertilized heavily and top-dressed with applications of 5-10-10 fertilizer. Every 10 days after planting, the field is sprayed with copper sulfate and diathane for blight, DDT for insects, and rotenone for horn worms. "We have had no blighted fruit, and the insects and worms are controlled," Bill reports.

The Parkers are old Pet producers, and William has shipped regularly to Pet since 1945. His herd of 40 cattle is composed of both purebreds and grades, and he is increasing his milk production every year. The Parker farm and cannery are located two miles south of Burtsville.

Bill is a firm believer in a balanced yearly program for his dairy operation. The foundation for his economical milk production is a well-planned and managed pasture program to extend as nearly as possible over the entire year. Each year, he is concentrating on providing a better and more productive permanent pasture for his fine herd of dairy cattle.

Rice Planting

The Oriental planters stand in the mud and set rice plants six to eight inches apart in each direction. The field is kept flooded until the plants are a foot or more tall, then the water is drained off and the crop is hoed. The land then is flooded again, and kept in that condition until ten days before the seed is ripe, a stage indicated by the bending of the heads. It then is reaped by hand, bunched, dried, and the grain removed by pounding the heads across the logs, by driving cattle over them or by drawing through a hatchell.

Rice Hulls

Rice hulls are an excellent abrasive. Their high silica content makes them very desirable in the polishing of castings.

Kibler Has Silage In a Strawstack

A new dairy barn in behind Edward Kibler's new strawstack silo in more ways than one. After he completed his new dairy barn recently, Kibler, who lives near Greensboro, decided to construct some type of temporary silo, says the October issue of Pet Dairy Chats.

Kibler had seen a picture of a temporary silo built of baled straw, and since he had plenty of this material available, he decided to try it.

With Mrs. Kibler's help, he was able to build a silo 12 feet in diameter and 10 feet high in one day. The walls are two bales thick, and placed in a circle.

After the bales had been stacked, the entire outside of the silo was surrounded with hog wire to hold the bales in place. The inside was lined with sisalcraft paper. This silo will hold approximately 20 tons of ensilage.

Ed is undecided about the height of his silo; he says he may increase the height as he fills the silo. He plans to do the filling with the new forage harvester he recently purchased.

"I don't know how this silo will hold up," Ed says, "but it has cost me only about $15. I figure I can get many times the value back in good silage this winter."

University Announces New Broiler House Bulletin

"Broiler House Construction" is a new bulletin just released by the Delaware Agricultural Extension Service. It's a sixteen page bulletin, outlining all details to be considered in building a broiler house in this area. William A. Calvert, agricultural engineer, and A. T. Ringrose, research scientist at the Georgetown sub-station take you from selection of the site, to feeders and feeding space, lights and wiring, and disposal pits.

End framing details, and plans for ventilation systems are included. More complete plans for a whole house can be had. These plans are listed in the bulletin. They were developed at the University of Delaware and are available without cost to Delaware residents.

Say the authors, "Houses for commercial broiler production on the Delmarva Peninsula have developed from small separate buildings to large ones housing 40,000 or more broilers. Refinements in the design and equipment have helped bring about a larger, more profitable production, without additional labor. A house for raising broilers need not be expensive. The majority are built for less than $1.00 per bird."

4-H Dairy Judging Team Places Third

Delaware's 4-H dairy judging team placed third in the regional competition at the Atlantic Rural Exposition. The four boys competed against teams from Virginia, Maryland, and Indiana.

H. Wallace Cook, Jr., of Elkton, was third high individual. David Woodward, Wilmington; Purnell Friedel, Viola, and Robert Whaley, Laurel, placed eighth, eleventh and twelfth, respectively, with their individual scores. Virginia, first place team, had a score of 1693. Delaware chalked up 1637.

Fred O'Neal, Laurel, Delaware's tractor operator's contest winner, placed fifth in the regional contest. He competed against eight other states. His score was 557 compared to the 433 score of the winner. In this contest the lowest score marks the winner.

Delmar Young, extension dairyman, and Sam Gwinn, Sussex County 4-H agent, accompanied the boys to Richmond.

Fire Prevention Week October 7-13

This is the week when all families are urged to stop fires before they start, according to William E. Tarbell, county agent. Fires which destroy valuable property and even lives are so often the cause of careless things that people do, continues Mr. Tarbell. The lighted cigarette or match that is not quite out when thrown away. Smoking near inflammable materials like oily rags, hay or gasoline storage. Or fire may start from electric wiring which may be improperly installed, in need of repair or misused. The electric iron left on when answering the phone or that frayed cord in the living room lamp that you are going to fix but never seem to get around to.

Mr. Tarbell also urges that a housecleaning take place in the attic and basement of your home. An accumulation of old papers, oily cloths, paints, varnishes, etc., makes a wonderful place for a fire to thrive.

Now with fire being started, chimneys are another source of fire hazard. Have these inspected and cleaned before long. Be sure the antennae of your television set has not loosened the mortar holding the bricks. Constant vibration can do this.

These are only a few of the hazards that every family should be conscious of according to Tarbell, not only during fire prevention week, but all the year. It takes but little time and no money to see that fire precautions are carried out and it does mean greater peace of mind to feel that the family is safe.

In case fire does start, be prepared with fire extinguishers in both outbuildings and homes. Be sure extinguishers are in good working condition and filled. Have fire fighting equipment like ladders, rope, buckets, sand, etc., collected in one place where they can be quickly found. And be sure the telephone number of your local fire department is handy where everyone can find it immediately.

Three hundred sixteen families in Kent County have been working on a fire prevention program this year sponsored by the Delaware Safety Council and extension service. By request several of these families are being visited this week by a member of the local fire department who will check on the fire precautions that have been carried out. These families realize that only by removing these fire hazards can fire be prevented and the home made safe.

The November meeting, scheduled Nov. 1, at 8 p. m., in the First National Bank Building, will be a group meeting which will include the Canterbury, Victory, Merry-makers, Farmington and Harrington home demonstration clubs. Mrs. Ruth Pearce, clothing expert, will present "Health and Good Grooming."

Local Vo-Ag Students Attend FFA Convention

Four FFA boys and their vo-ag teacher left Harrington Sunday to attend the national convention of the Future Farmers of America at Kansas City, Mo., this week.

The boys are to represent the state association in a meat judging contest to be held at the same time as the convention. Those on the team are Preston Beauchamp, William Bowdle, Charles Cain and Raymond Welch. A fifth boy, William McDowell, of Greenwood, is traveling with the Harrington group. He received the Northeastern States Regional award for soil and water conservation Wednesday evening.

The Harrington group will judge dressed carcasses of beef, pork, veal and lamb, and will identify some 125 individual retail meat cuts in the contest. The boys will tour a large meat packing plant in Kansas City and will inspect the recent flood damage in the same section of the city. They will also see a large branch house in Columbus, O., on the way, to observe how meats are sold to retailers in large metropolitan areas.

The trip will also include a visit to the Purina Research Farm, west of St. Louis, a visit to the Tom Sawyer House at Hannibal, Mo., of which Mark Twain so ably wrote. The American Royal Livestock Show is a highlight of the trip and much of the FFA convention activities takes place there.

Frank Tempone, of the University of Delaware, completes his practice teaching work at Harrington this week, while Mr. Vappa has the judging team at Kansas City.

Hoof Beats

Aubrey Rodney may have succeeded where Ponce deLeon failed. At least, the Massachusetts-born sulky veteran is doing his best to deepen the mystery surrounding his age.

Rod, who admits to 63, but who may be conservative by anywhere from four to eight years, according to some oldtimers, is currently making a bold bid for the fall driving championship at Saratoga Raceway. With the autumn session fast approaching its Oct. 13 windup, he's winging along with a Universal Driver Rating System average of close to 400, a robust mark that should nail down the title with some to spare.

The amazing part of it all is that Rodney is achieving such success with virtually the same stable that failed him in his efforts to capture the Spa summer crown for the first time in six years. Twenty-nine-year-old Freddy Bach and Garland Garnsey, 43, both beat him out in the final summer standings.

Oddly enough, Rodney has never won a Spa fall crown before. He's come close, but never quite made it. Perhaps the loss of the summer title has spurred him on. Whatever the case, he still seems to be tapping the fountain of youth. If his driving isn't proof, then it should be noted that there are mighty few signs in the Rodney crop of hair.

Frank Angell and Lew Howell, two of the five drivers involved in the spectacular spill at the Allentown, Pa., Fair two weeks ago, have returned to the raceway for the balance of the fall meet. Both were among the four who escaped serious injury in the mishap. Badly hurt was Olin B. Davis of Clayton.

Frank L. Wiswall's rising breeding establishment, Runnymede Farm, will have a consignment of three at the Harrisburg Sale, Nov. 5-9. All yearling colts, they are Irish Ballad, by Peter Song-Molly McGuire; Midnight Dean, by Dean Hanover-Sheila, and Titanmede, by Titan Hanover-May D. Grattan.

TROTS AND DASHES: Tom Lutz and Jim Kennedy, the Buffalo owners who made their debut in the sport this year, plan to winter their stable in the south. . . . All of which is good and "warm" news to their young trainer, Pete Dailey of South Glen Falls. . . . Lorne Tolhurst will leave the Peter Pan Stable at the close of the season and open a public stable. . . . Elwood Waugh seems to have a fine racing prospect in the two-year-old filly, Wilmington Queen, owned by Robert B. Stevens of Greenwich.

Senator Frear Says Allies Should Use Atomic Weapons

United States Senator J. Allen Frear said this week that the United States and its Allies should consider the use of atomic weapons against the Communists in North Korea unless they agree to truce terms promptly.

In his weekly statement, the Senator declared that at present we are involved in a battle of attrition in which from the point of view of manpower the United Nations are at a decided disadvantage. The Delaware lawmaker suggested that the time has come for this country and its allies to issue an ultimatum to the aggressors to the effect that they agree to a cease fire or suffer the consequence of atomic bombings. "Despite our idealism and our hatred of war and destruction," Mr. Frear said, "we must face with grim reality the continued killing and maiming of our most indispensable possessions—young American lives to whose leadership we must look for the welfare of our nation in the years ahead. Our self preservation as individuals and the continuation of the United States as the leader of the world's peace loving nations requires that we force an end to the continuing and damaging blows against us," he added.

In his strongly worded remarks, the senator took note of the risk of all-out war with Russia, but he pointed out that for all practical purposes we are already at war with two of the Soviet's controlled satellites. "And," he went on, "since we are fighting in Korea, itself, the use of superior weapons in that location would be logically justifiable in order to defeat the enemy forces actively engaged against us."

In the present situation, the senator pointed out we are now facing another period of winter operations in a climate which caused heavy casualties from frostbite last year. He expressed confidence, however, that the Department of Defense has taken every step possible to provide our troops with essential clothing and equipment for the expected sub-zero temperatures.

Mr. Frear said it had been difficult for him to contemplate recommending the use of atomic weapons, but he said that after long months of fighting, the expenditure of thousands of lives and billions of dollars, and with no end in sight, under present conditions, "I feel that we cannot defer any longer the use of available destructive powers against the Communist force, if they refuse to halt the fighting under a mutual agreement and permit the restoration of Korea as a free nation."

Kent Prisoner, 63, Held In Slaying Attempts Suicide

Oscar Webb, 63, a murder charge defendant, failed Friday in an asserted attempt to commit suicide at the Kent County jail, Warden Norris B. Garrison revealed Friday night.

Webb, charged with the shotgun slaying of Ralph Barros of Dover at a Little Heaven filling station July 18, slashed his throat in an unguarded moment with a blade from a razor supplied him for his Friday morning shave, Warden Garrison said. He narrowly missed his jugular vein in the suicide attempt, the warden said.

The man was rushed to Kent General Hospital, only a short distance away, for prompt attention to his self-inflicted wound and loss of blood. He is under constant guard at the hospital where his condition is said to be fair.

Webb, who has been quartered alone at the jail, had at no time since his incarceration last July given any sign of taking a rash step, having always been quiet and peaceful, according to the jail warden.

Webb, whose home is at Little Heaven, north of Frederica, was being held at the jail for action of the Kent County grand jury on Oct. 15.

The shooting took place at the filling station leased by Barros from Webb. At the time it was said the two had been arguing over the rental terms of the station.

After the shooting, which took place about 1:30 a. m., Webb drove the approximately 12 miles to the Dover troop of the state police and surrendered.

How does it feel to drive a Buick?

If you think perhaps we're hinting that it would be a good idea for you to try out a Buick—mister, you've never been so right.

It does a lot of things for you and you that will be something new in your driving experience.

Take the way it feels beneath your hands on the wheel—eager and willing and anxious to please.

It spurts when you want to spurt—rolls with effortless momentum when you want to cruise.

When you take a curve, it snugs down to the road with sure-footed confidence.

After you make a turn, the front wheels instinctively seek a straight course. This car seems to guide itself.

When you come to a bumpy stretch, each separate wheel on its own coil spring steps you smoothly along on a level keel.

Then there's power that surges into action at a nudge of your toe—sends your speedometer needle soaring up to any speed the law allows, in a matter of seconds.

And there is also thrift—the gas-saving thrift that comes from a high-compression valve-in-head Fireball Engine found in no other car.

To top all this, there is Dynaflo Drive*—that feeds power in a steady, falterless flow—lets you ride relaxed in busy traffic or on a day-long cross-country drive.

We're willing to stand on the statement that no other car rides, performs or drives like a Buick.

But why take our word for it? Come in—take over one of these lively lovelies—and see for yourself.

NO OTHER CAR PROVIDES ALL THIS:
DYNAFLOW DRIVE* • FIREBALL ENGINE
4-WHEEL COIL SPRINGING • DUAL VENTILATION
PUSH-BAR FOREFRONT • TORQUE-TUBE DRIVE
WHITE-GLOW INSTRUMENTS • DREAMLINE STYLING

WHEELER RADIO STORE NEWS

Races are now over at Kent & Sussex Fair Grounds for 1951, also the world series. Of course you know the Yankees won by a 4 out of 6 games series. Some lost and some won and I want you and yours to win. Buy a Philco television and you won't take any chances but win everytime.

Now that we are closing the doors and looking for the inside comforts instead of outside recreations there is nothing compared with a Philco television with the famous balance beam and true focus.

Nothing can compare with it on any screen. If you don't believe me ask your neighbor, he has one.

Almost everybody enjoys a television and why not when everything worthwhile is brought direct to your home to see and hear.

There is only one thing about television you cannot do and that is talk back to the performers, still you can write and tell them how much you enjoy it.

Television is not so expensive when you consider the many, many programs that you see and enjoy.

Yes football is now here and to see the game as you would like to—see it on a Philco.

There is today a Philco to suit almost any buyer who is looking for a refrigerator.

We have several to select from and now while they are available come in and take your choice. They can be bought as low as $35.00 down and then around 75 weeks to pay the balance.

The refrigerator you buy today will be of a better quality than it will later on especially if critical material is to be rationed much longer.

This of course we expect and glad to do but what I am trying to get across is if you need a refrigerator to replace the old one you now have to drop in and say bring me out a brand new Philco and take my old one as a down payment.

I have often wondered how our mothers ever made out with an old cook stove.

Just to think today the brides do not have the many hardships that their mothers had. You can buy an electric range and set the timer to come on at a certain time when you are out for a visit or otherwise and shut off before you get home. Then when you walk in the house the smell of that roast beef will make any man hungry especially when all you do is open the oven and there is your complete meal ready and done. This of course is accomplished on a Philco electric range. Of course if it is only coffee you want early in the morning, this can be also arranged, just plug the coffee maker in the handy receptacle built in your range, set your timer and then coffee is all ready when you open your eyes. Oh yes you will have to be awakened so how can we do that without a startle from the old electric alarm clock.

Don't blame you at times for throwing or feeling like throwing it out the window.

We have a solution for that too. Philco has built a radio with a built-in timer that turns your favorite music on at your convenient time to get up.

The soft tone of music arouses you without a startle and starts your day off right.

Fortitude

It may not be that I should live
To rise to power and fame;
The challenge is that I should give
That honor of His name.

The Man that lives while others wane
And fade through fading years,
May my life be as He designs,
A life to shine through tears.

The fragrance of His grace appears
In hours of grief and pain;
Alone, I breathe in solitude,
A prayer in His dear name.

He wept that I might feel the pain
Of sins still unforgiven,
Tear from my heart that Idolsin,
And wrest my soul for heaven.

Calm as the early morning breeze,
My soul breathes out a prayer;
Conceal my heart within Thy breast,
That I Thy grace might share.

May I by faith be reconciled
To walk with Thee, whatever,
May be my portion, life or death,
I trust Thee, Lord, in prayer.

Can I forget that fortitude
Of love of priceless worth,
The sacrifice He made for me,
A child of Mother earth.

May I each day so strive to live
That I His name revere,
To manifest in me that love,
The love that shines through tears.

With the oncoming cold weather, folks are putting up their stoves and furnaces.

Sweet potatoes are being harvested by the farmers. They run about $2.50 a bushel.

Special Paints Curb Mildew
Special paints that prevent the growth of mildew are of great importance in food factories. To determine the efficiency of this type of coating, one test was made in a pickle factory. First, the ceiling of a storage room was washed and the mildew present was destroyed with special chemicals. Then, part of the ceiling was painted with two coats of mildew-resistant paint.

Another part was coated with regular paint. Growth of mildew, it was found, was prevented by use of the special paint.

Jack-Of-Trades
Like another basic commodity steel, Masonite Presdwood has applications that are almost universal.

Past Perfect

Shows featuring dwarfs, giants, and wild men were popular for centuries in England, in the days before the regular tenting circus which traveled about in wagons. Jugglers, performing horses, dancing bears, acrobats and ropedancers enlivened county fairs. The displays of skill and daring, including some feats over un-sheathed swords, frequently surpassed anything to be seen under The Big Top today.

Monks and Silk

Two missionary monks of the Justinian era deserve credit for introducing silk-making to the Western World. They hid some silkworm eggs in a hollow bamboo cane while they were visiting China. Later, they smuggled the cane out of the country, despite watchful Chinese custom officials, and took it to Constantinople. There, they taught workmen to hatch the eggs, feed the worms on mulberry leaves until the cocoons were spun and then to unwind and spin the threads.
