Railroad News

A little yellow car will be seen passing through Harrington southward Monday and will be going back the latter part of the week.

This is known as the Sperry rail-test car and will be checking for defective rails while traveling at about 10 to 12 miles per hour.

A gasoline driven generator on the car develops 220 volts with a capacity of 600 amps, which are passed through the rail as the car moves along. The slightest defect in the rail will interrupt the flow of current and cause a needle on the recording meter to swing out of line. At the same time, a little tube riding close to the rail, will automatically spout white chalk water on the rail to indicate the defect to the crews that will be following up changing rail.

Just another step in mechanized safety and efficiency.

Track Supervisor Bernie Siems moved into his new home on Dickerson St. this week from Milford, where he has been obliged to live due to housing shortage here.

This is another indication of railroad efficiency and a contribution to our community. Bernie is the 12th supervisor coming to Harrington in the past 12 years and the first to take time out in his step up the ladder, to provide adequate housing for his family and those to follow him here.

Harvey Burgess and the writer were dinner guests at the Wonder Bar Wednesday evening with Signal Engineer Joe Krylow, of Philadelphia, and Operation Engineer Austin Temple, of the Union Switch & Signal Co., of Pittsburgh.

These men are making a traffic study of train movements on the division to determine the possibilities of improving signal protection over the entire division. At the present time we only have 45 miles of our division equipped with automatic signal protection.

The signal gang has completed the automatic crossing gates at Blackbird and have started installation of the gates at Jimtown crossing at Clayton. This will be the 18th crossing equipped with gates on the Delmarva division in the past four years, everyone of which had been the scene of accidents, several fatal. There has not been a single accident at any of the crossings since gates were installed.

Last Monday evening when train No. 452 was approaching Division Street crossing at Salisbury blowing the whistle and ringing the bell, flasher lights flashing and the watchman standing in the middle of crossing swinging his lamp, a lady drove into the crossing in front of the train, almost striking the watchman. The car was damaged slightly more than the driver, but at the hospital she claimed she did not see the watchman. Gates would have prevented this accident.

The little old Delmarva division has suddenly become an important link in the big chain of transporting armed forces and while the main body of 28th Division troops embarked from Philadelphia, we handled three solid train loads of their guns, tanks, trucks, jeeps, etc. Also 40 or 50 cars in some of our regular trains, together with several extra troop trains.

Gov. Elbert N. Carvel smiles in anticipation as he receives a Missouri country ham from Charles F. Mundy Jr., secretary of the State Board of Agriculture. Mr. Mundy's first experience with a country ham was in a Harrington restaurant. Upon hearing from C. H. Burgess, editor of The Harrington Journal, that Missouri was famous for its country hams, the secretary wrote his friend, Bob Thornburg, secretary of the State Board of Agriculture for Missouri, to send him 12 hams. He received six which had been cured by Morton Tuttle, of Woodland Farm, Prairie Home, Mo. The owners of The Journal received one and gave a slice to Clyde "Maggie" Wyatt, operator of the Community Meat Market, who said it was "really" good. See M. Tuttle's article on the farm pages for information on how to cure and cook Missouri country hams.

Semans Turkeys Ready For Market

Joseph Semans, of Canterbury, now has 600 double-breasted Bronze turkeys, small type, on hand for the holiday markets. He buys his poulters in Kentucky.

Semans, who also raises broilers, aims his turkeys only at the Thanksgiving and Christmas markets and sells them direct to the consumer. He estimates the hens will weigh 12 to 14 pounds, dressed, and the toms, 17 to 20 pounds, dressed.

There has been considerable agitation in the turkey world the past few years to promote consumption of turkeys all the year around. If this became an accepted practice in Delaware, it would please the Canterbury poultryman.

Agriculture Can Influence Rise and Fall of Nations, County Agent Tells Rotary

All-Out Farm Program Must Be Started To Meet Demands of Increasing Population, Says William Henderson

Christmas Program For Harrington Gets Underway

The annual Christmas program for Harrington will be initiated Saturday afternoon, Dec. 1, with a parade. The program this year is being sponsored by the Harrington Better Business Association, the American Legion, the Lions Club, and the Rotary Club.

Details of the parade will be announced later.

Additional details of the Christmas program, as well as the subject of store hours during the holiday season, will be discussed at a meeting this evening at 7:30, at Taylor's Hardware. The public is invited to attend the meeting.

Samuel A. Short Jr., president of the Harrington Better Business Association, has named the following committees for the Christmas program:

Collection of funds—Raymond Giles, Eugene Anderson, Clarence Collins, Claude Cahall, and Harry Boyer.

Santa Claus house — Charles Peck Jr.

Operation of Santa Claus house — Benjamin Emory Jr., and Mrs. Eva Raughley.

Laurel roping and Christmas tree—Edward Taylor.

Decoration of streets — Raymond Giles.

Publicity—C. H. Burgess.

The American Legion will again furnish apples and oranges for the kiddies, while the Lions will furnish baskets for the needy.

History discloses that nations rise or fall with the rise or fall of their agricultural development," said William Henderson, district lieutenant-governor of Kiwanis International and county agent of Sussex County, at Tuesday evening's meeting of the Harrington Rotary Club.

"Inasmuch as most of our food must come from the farm and the population is increasing at a rapid rate, it is obvious that an all-out program must be inaugurated to meet this new responsibility," said Mr. Henderson. "We must have better equipment, and by equipment I do not mean mechanical equipment alone. Machinery can be purchased in any town, but we must be equipped and trained to meet the mental requirements.

"Research tells us the average amount of milk given by each cow in the state, and yet we have figures to prove that many dairy herds produce more than fifty per cent above the general average. Over the state, the average yield of corn is something like 35 bushels per acre, but quite a number of Delaware farmers have produced more than 100 bushels of corn per acre. The same goes for soybeans or any other crop.

"Care in the selection of livestock, in seeds and application means, in many instances, the difference between success and failure."

Before coming to Delaware 10 years ago, Mr. Henderson taught agriculture in Caroline County, Md. At the beginning of his first year there, he reported in August, a month before the opening of the schools, and spent most of that month visiting the farmers in an effort to encourage the farm boys to study agriculture. He was astonished to find that many farmers, even the most successful ones, did not want their sons to become farmers. This condition prevails in almost every section of the country.

"Service clubs," concluded the speaker, "should take the lead in encouraging the boys to stay on the farms. Set aside certain nights as Farmers' Nights and discuss their programs, have an exchange of ideas. My father, and he was not unlike other farmers in our section—or in your section—used to attend a lot of farmers' meetings when I was a boy. Father was not accustomed to expressing himself at these meetings—and most of the others were the same—but after the meeting they would gather in little groups of three or four and strongly condemn what had been said at the meeting. How much better it would have been if they had so expressed themselves at the meeting.

"Farming, under proper conditions, is the most satisfying life of all—and profitable from a financial standpoint. It is our duty to encourage the boys to stay on the farm, to study the latest methods and co-operate with the designated officials of both the state and the national departments of agriculture."

J. Harvey Burgess was program chairman of the evening.

Harrington Hockey Team Ends A Successful Season

By Joann Dumont

The Harrington girls hockey team closed its season Tuesday with a 2-0 victory over Lewes. This made a record of 3 wins, 2 ties and 3 defeats. The Harrington girls plays were all outstanding.

The girls elected Jeanette Sapp as game captain and Mary Lord as co-captain for the season. This honor must have given these girls an extra bit of push because Jeanette scored one of the goals, and Mary, as center halfback, played her best game of the year.

Left wing, Janet Smith and left inner, Jeanette Sapp, tied for scoring honors with 3 goals each. Goalie, Anne Toppin, is the only varsity member who will be lost through graduation.

Felton Seniors Present "Tish" Nov. 15 and 16

The Senior Thespians of Felton High School are proud to be presenting in the Felton School auditorium November 15 and 16 their play "Tish" written by Alice Chadwick.

It is one of the most widely heralded stories made into a screen lined romp that will cause the audience to stand on its feet and cheer.

Lititia Carberry, Tish, is a middle aged spinster, blunt, outspoken and entirely lovable. She is determined to get closer to nature to lead the simpler life. Tish buys a second-hand car and starts from home with her two boon companions, Aggie and Lizzie, but not before Lizzie has had time to wire Tish's young nephew, Charlie Sands, telling him of their destination.

Charlie flies down to the Southwest in his plane and stops off at the Eagle Hotel, some where near the Mexican border.

Lizzie and Aggie come limping into the hotel shortly after Charlie's arrival. Where is Tish? She was sitting alone in the car, determined to repair it when the car started off with her unexpectedly.

Tish arrives in due time, after driving through the plate glass window of Luther Hopkins, across the road. He makes a stormy entrance and demands damages.

Tish refuses to pay him anything, incurring his hostility and the battle is on. Events move fast. When the hotel safe is looted, Tish is certain that she knows where the stolen money is hidden and drags Aggie out with her for the search. The result of the search is that Tish takes Aggie up in the air in Charlie's plane and drops Aggie on the roof of a barn and then soars upward again.

The following day, the newspaper headlines proclaim that a lone female spy has been sighted flying over Mexico and Tish becomes the center of international complications. There is great suspense, and excitement right up until the final curtain.

A teacher of sociology, a Doctor of Philosophy, if you please, at a western university apparently gained little from his education. He was a teacher by day and a burglar by night. He was a lady's man, too. He gave his lady friend a signed statement, detailing various burglaries, so "she would have a hold on him and feel more certain of his affections," the sheriff said. The lady friend got a good hold on the professor and threw him for a loss when she turned the statement over to the sheriff. He should have majored in psychology instead of sociology when he was earning his degrees.

When the holdings of harness horses of the Greenly estate were dispersed at the Harrisburg sale last week, the most prominent stable in this area went out of business. With the sale, the aftermath of the death of Fred B. Greenly Sr., in early September at DuQuoin, Ill., the name of the individual who did more to put Harrington on the map of the harness racing world than anyone else, disappears from the field.

Mr. Greenly bought the best colts and paid well for them. He paid $15,500 for Direct Spangler, and $15,000 for Royal Blood, both of whom were sold in the dispersal sale. The star of the Greenly stable was the late Direct Express, a Billy Direct pacer with a mark of 1:59 3-4. The sidewheeler made a mark of 2:01 at Roosevelt Raceway, a track record at the time, in 1947. In the same year and on the same track, he won the National Pacing Derby, an invitational race, for a purse of $25,000. As a three-year-old in 1946, he never lost a heat.

Two Gaits Farm, Carmel, Ind., and Poplar Hill Farm, Lexington, Ky., famous breeding farms, bought some of the Greenly horses at the sale.

THANKSGIVING

On this truly American holiday we give thanks for the many blessings He has deigned to deliver on us. We give thanks for the strength He has endowed us with, enabling us to preserve those liberties we have inherited. We thank Him for the rich fields and bustling factories that bring us great wealth and comfort. And we thank Him especially for revealing His truth to us, giving the greatest wealth of all.

The increase in production of soybeans on Delaware farms is causing more farms to be posted against hunting, now that the hunting season on rabbits is now open. With many fields of beans still to be combined, farmers are often heard to say, "I'm getting my land posted. Can't afford to have the dogs running through my beans and shattering them to the ground."

He is willing to share his heart, When others have taken your's out.

He'll help you get a new start, While others are roaming about.

He'll put his arm on your shoulder, After others have turned you down.

Help you to cross every boulder, Just the best way he's found.

You'll know at the end of each day, How to start the next one right.

If you'll listen and do his way, Taking his advice both day and night.

Then after your work on earth is done, And you're nearing your journey's end,

You'll find life's much better than some By this honor you've paid to A Friend.

Aberdeen-Angus Assoc. To Meet

It was announced last week that the annual meeting of the Aberdeen-Angus Cattle Association will take place this evening at Easton.

Beginning at 5:45 o'clock with a short business meeting and the election of officers for the coming year, followed by a dinner at 7 o'clock, the meeting will feature discussions led by a number of experts on the subject, "Marketing of Pure Bred Aberdeen Angus Cattle."

Among the notables leading the discussions will be William Schluderman, president of the Eastern National Livestock Association; James Coyner, northeastern representative of the National Aberdeen Angus Association; Kenneth Clark state fieldman for the Maryland Aberdeen Angus Association and W. Tap Bennett, extension manager of the Central Railway of Georgia.

Frank S. Bache, secretary-treasurer of the association pointed out that reservations for the dinner should be made in advance by contacting him at Canton Farm, St. Michaels.

Relatively a new facet of farming in this area, great strides have been taken in recent years, particularly in Delaware and in the Kent-Queen Anne's areas, in the production of cattle, and has been one of the contributing factors to the changing scene of farm life on the shore.

Other officers of the association are: President, Howard H. Anderson, Wimberly Farms, Princess Anne; vice-president, James P. Lingle, Wye Plantation, Queenstown, and assistant treasurer, Miss Mary Straughn, manager, Cedar Point Farms, Easton.

Home Talk

By: Eleanor R. Cavanaugh
The annual Achievement Day was held last Thursday at the Capital Grange Hall in Dover. Over 200 attended the meeting. Mrs. John S. Farrow, president of the Council, presided. Mrs. William Storey, accompanied by Mrs. Clifford Clark, led the group singing. The Rev. John Trader, pastor of the Wesley Methodist Church, Dover, gave the invocation. Mrs. O. B. Williams, Dover, led in the Homemakers Creed and flag salute. After Mrs. Farrow gave her welcome, Mrs. Heyward Grier, of Woodside, gave a combined achievement report of all clubs. Mrs. William Sterling, Dover, gave a report on "Pennies for Friendship."

Everyone enjoyed the two vocal selections by Miss Kathleen Kryger, sophomore at Dover High School and music student at Wesley Junior College.

Mrs. Duane Lynn, Milford, attended the National Council meeting in Lansing, Mich., last summer and gave a report of the meeting to us. Sounds like she had a wonderful time.

After the luncheon, which was served by the Grange women, Mrs. Farrow introduced the new council officers: Mrs. David Greene, Milford, president; Mrs. Philip Jacobs, Milford, vice-president; Mrs. Jehu Camper, Harrington, secretary, and Mrs. Frank McKee, Dover, treasurer.

Mrs. Kenneth Kepler, of Milford, gave us an excellent talk on "China From Within." Mrs. Kepler was a missionary in China for several years and really knows China, inside and out.

Miss Helen Samindinger, an International Farm Youth Exchange student from Delaware, just returned from Germany. She talked to us about her trip. She also introduced a boy from England who is in America on the same type of program. Both students were very interesting.

The Farmington Home Demonstration Club won the prize for having the largest percentage of members present at the meeting.

To make this day a success, the following committees did a grand job: Exhibits, Oak Grove Club; decorations, Happy Homemakers; hostesses, Friendly Homemakers Club, and guest corsages, Cee-W-Dee Club.

The next group meeting to be held this month will be held at the Hartly Fire Hall. The clubs will be Hartly, Cee-W-Dee, Fraziers and St. Jones.

Stout Makes Broilers Pay

Ex-Auto Serviceman Turns Farmer And Makes Good Record With Poultry

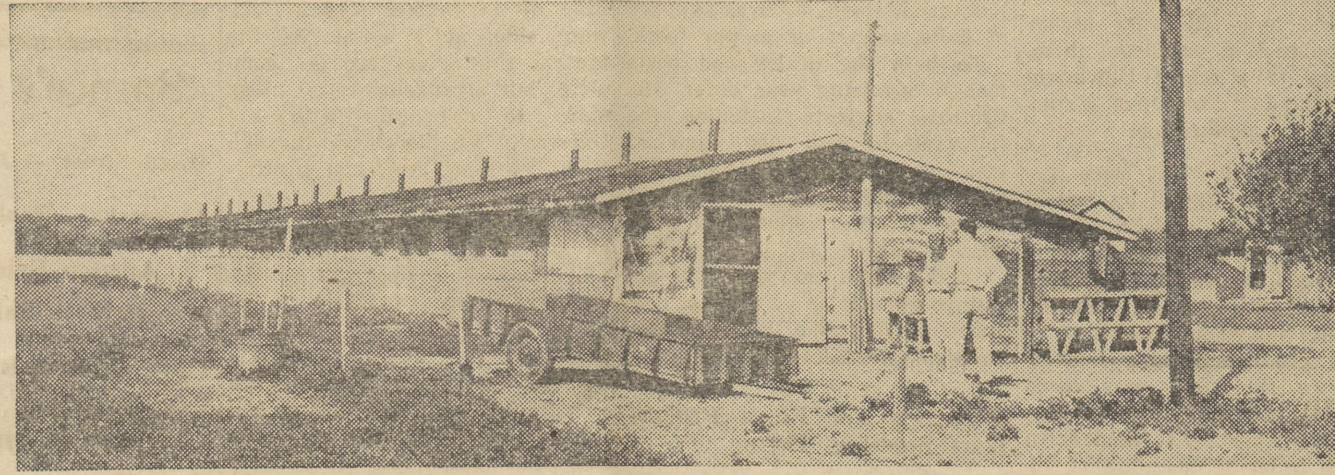

Bridgeville Grower Sets Fine Mark On Feed Efficiency

LIKE many other farm enterprises, the broiler business is often considered a gamble from the time the chick order is placed until the birds are sold. In spite of this uncertainty, many farmers have found broiler production an enterprise which fits well into their farm operations.

It certainly fits well into the farming program of C. A. Stout, of Bridgeville, Delaware. He has been raising broilers under contract for three years. During that time he has raised seven flocks for the Farmer's Supply Service, (local Southern States Agency) at Bridgeville, and has the lowest cost per pound record of any grower on the agency's list.

Stout moved to Bridgeville from Trenton, N. J., three years ago. He had only been in Bridgeville a month before he decided to put in his first flock of broilers. His broiler house is 219 feet long and 24 feet wide. It will hold 8,000 birds. The house is equipped with automatic water fountains and is heated with 16 coal brooders. The capacity of each brooder, according to Stout, is 500 birds. The house also has electric lights for use in fall and winter months. Stout never uses lights at night during the summer because quite often the electrical storms cause the lights to go out and the chicks become frightened and crowd in the corners and many suffocate.

At first Stout raised Barred Rock crosses, but "I never could do very well with them," he said. Then he switched to New Hampshire. "I can't get the weight on them that I could on the crosses," Stout said, "but I get better returns."

This is the broiler house of C. A. Stout, of Bridgeville, Delaware. It is 219 feet long and 24 feet wide and will hold 8,000 birds at a time. The house is equipped with automatic water fountains and is heated with 16 coal brooders. The house also has electric lights for use in the fall and winter months. Stout never uses them during the summer due to violent storms.

The broilers are started off on Southern States Broiler Maker and are kept on it until they are marketed. This is supplemented with Southern States Broiler Pellets when the birds are nine weeks old. Stout feeds his chickens three times daily. He uses a feed carrier that runs on a cable to save labor.

All birds are vaccinated for Newcastle when they are 10 days old. Stout vaccinates with intranasal vaccine. "This is the only method that we have any luck with," he declared.

Recently Stout marketed one of his flocks that was 10 weeks and 1 day old. The per cent of the flock marketed was 93.65; each bird had an average weight of 2.57 pounds and the cost per pound of feed was 24.86 cents. It took 3.18 pounds of feed to realize a pound of gain on each bird. Stout received about $100 profit per 1,000 birds.

All flocks do not do as well as this one, but Stout realizes that it takes efficient production, good management and favorable prices to get maximum returns from any broiler flock.

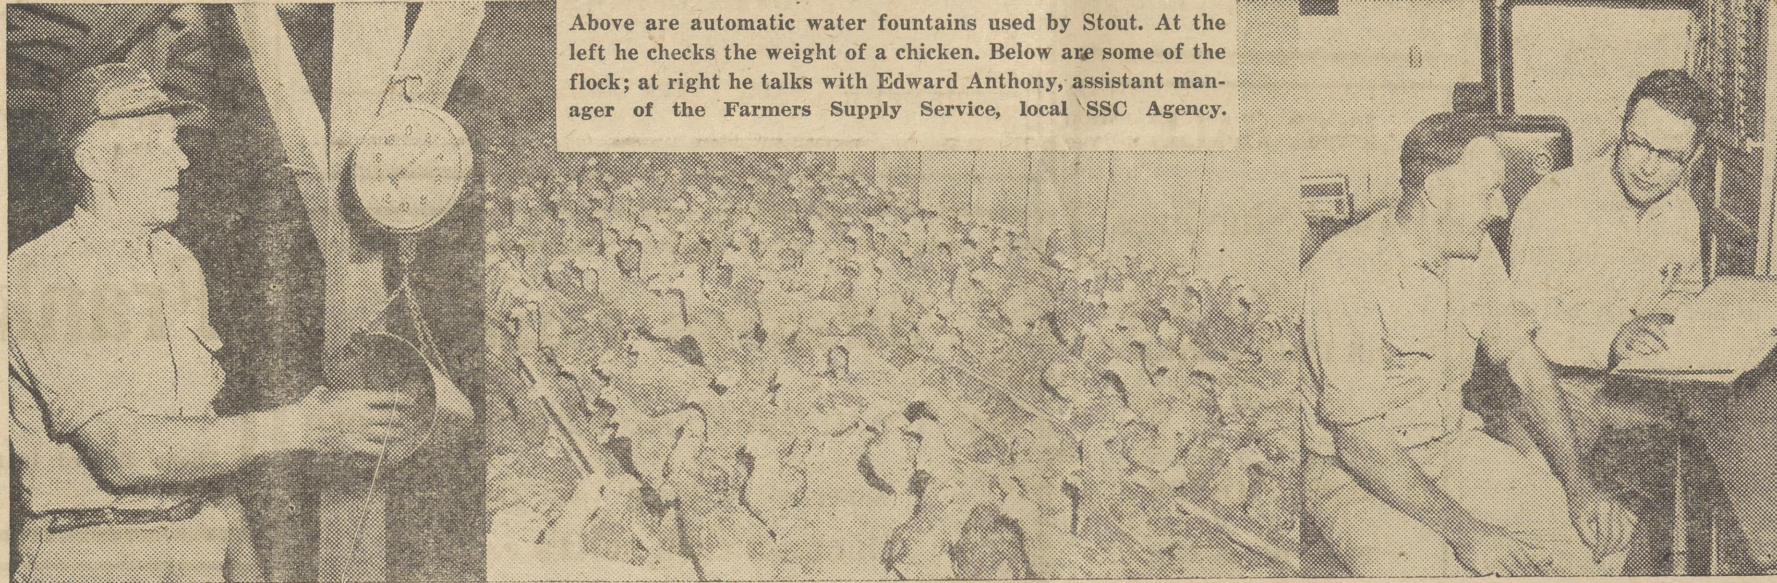

Laundering Accessories

Laundering accessories for both ironers and hand irons include plastic film bags to store dampened clothes in, smooth lintless pressing sponges to dampen "too dry" spots, sprayer tops for bottles to make dampening easy, hangers and fold-away racks to hang freshly ironed articles on.

There are the new open weave cotton mesh bags you can put delicate clothes in for washing. There are new clotheslines of every type and for every need. Non-rust wire clotheslines are best for outdoors. The new nylon lines are good. Clothespins have gone plastic and gay in color. Some have graduated slits to fit various thicknesses or lines. Some have spring clamp closings.

Carvel to Speak At Awards Dinner

Governor Elbert N. Carvel will be the featured speaker at the awards banquet for the Delaware 5-Acre Corn Yield Contest and the Greener Pastures Program, at Dover Tuesday.

The details of the program were announced this week by Claude E. Phillips, chairman of the agronomy department, University of Delaware.

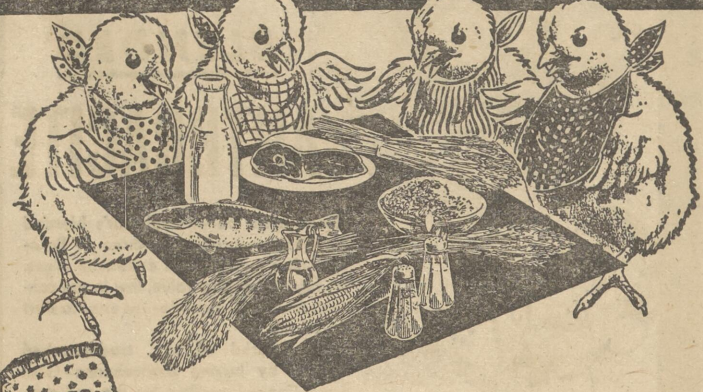

Results of the corn contest, and meaning of the data collected, will be explained by W. H. Mitchell, assistant extension agronomist. Phillips will talk on the Greener Pastures program. The certificates for production of 100 or more bushels of corn per acre will be presented by the county agricultural agents. Victor P. Kohl, president of the Delaware Crop Improvement Association, will award the top county and state prizes for the corn yield contest. The county agricultural agents will also present the Greener Pastures Program certificates. The presentation of the top Greener Pastures trophy will be made by the governor.

The names of the winners are kept secret until that night.

Both the corn yield and greener pastures programs are part of the work done by the Delaware agricultural extension service, county and state staffs. The 5-Acre Corn Yield Contest is sponsored by the Delaware Crop Improvement Association, but carried out in co-operation with the extension specialists and county agents.

HOW WE SUGAR-CURE HAMS

Woodland Farm
Morton Tuttle & Sons
Prairie Home, Cooper County, Mo.

First, I suggest that you get Circular 550, Missouri College of Agriculture, by T. A. Ewing and Flora Carl, from your county agent. This circular has some valuable points on home butchering of pork and beef.

We think the early part of December is the best time to get your butchering done. It is usually cool and dry, but not too cold to freeze the meat.

Select hogs with good thick hams, weighing around 250 lbs. This will give you hams weighing around 20 pounds.

Let hams cool overnight (but NOT freeze) before trimming them. Be sure to leave the hock end long; it will cure better and you can always cut it off.

We put just a little salt on flesh side of ham just before we put on the sugar cure to bring out some moisture.

For A Sugar-Cure We Use
4 tsp. brown sugar, heaping;
2 tsp. black pepper;
2 tsp. red pepper;
1 tsp. saltpeter.
(Use rubber gloves to apply this cure)

Mix this together thoroughly and put about 2 tablespoons of this mixture on each ham, on the flesh side and hock end, and rub in thoroughly. After this has melted into the ham, which usually takes about a half hour, we put the salt on top of this cure. It takes 6 to 8 pounds of salt to cure 100 pounds of pork.

We put this cure on hams, shoulders, bacon, and jowls.

We put our meat on a table after putting on the cure, leaving this cure on the hams and shoulders about 6 weeks, and on bacon and jowls about 2 weeks. Then we hang the meat up and smoke it with hickory smoke. We use a steel barrel to make our fire in, cut one end out of the barrel, but save this end and use it to smother the fire by placing it back over the barrel when the fire gets started to keep in smouldering and not burning. We smoke every other day for about 2 weeks, or until the smoke has made the hams a golden brown.

Then we wrap each ham separately in paper and place in a heavy cloth bag, and hang hock end down. DO NOT let the hams touch each other. (A certified seed corn bag makes a fine meat sack.) DO NOT put in a heavy paper bag—hams will not dry out, but will mold too much.

We use a wooden building to store our hams in. Many of our friends have tried to cure hams in a basement, but they all lost their meat.

Here is a Wonderful Pork Sausage Recipe:
To 20 pounds of sausage meat, take 10 level tablespoons salt; 4 level teaspoons black pepper; 2 scant teaspoons sage; 1 level teaspoon red pepper.

Mix this thoroughly and spread over the meat just before grinding sausage.

This Is The Way We Boil Hams
First, wash all mold off the ham with soap and water and cut the end of the hock off, usually about 2 inches, to get rid of the strong meat.

Place ham in container with skin side up, cover with cold water, using lid that will hold the steam (but NOT pressure). We prefer a wash boiler. Bring rapidly to a boil and then turn heat so that it will boil very slowly.

Rainy Weather Retards Seeding, Says Mrs. Jester

While most winter wheat has been seeded in her area, the rainy weather put some farmers behind the eight-ball, according to Mrs. Willard Jester, who lives on the nine-foot road between Masten's Corner and Hollandsville.

She added that some wheat was still to be seeded. She was quite pleased with the soybean crop, however, saying the price was somewhere around $2.60 per bushel.

New York Buys Nearly Half of Delmarva Broilers

New York State buys nearly 50 per cent of the broilers produced in the Delmarva area, according to a bulletin published by the University of Maryland Agricultural Experiment Station. The bulletin, "Market Area for Delmarva Broilers," summarizes a study made by Harold D. Smith, of the Department of Agricultural Economics and Marketing.

The study shows that 48 per cent of the broilers went to New York, mostly to New York City. Illinois ranked second, buying 10 per cent of the Delmarva output. In all, 37 states buy Delmarva broilers. In this respect, Mr. Smith says that the distribution pattern differs from most perishable agricultural products, and more closely resembles industrial commodities.

Transportation costs play an important part in determining the extent of the market, according to Mr. Smith. This factor is particularly responsible for the trend of the poultry industry to market more eviscerated broilers than in the past. A previous study in 1947 indicated that 6 per cent of the broiler output was eviscerated. The present rate is 11 per cent.

Bulletin A-45, "Market Area for Delmarva Broilers," summarizes the extent of Delmarva broiler markets, the market outlets for live, New York dressed and eviscerated broilers, transportation costs and market demands for birds of various weights.

A copy of this bulletin may be obtained from county agents or from the Bulletin Room, Symons Hall, University of Maryland, College Park, Md.

After boiling about three hours, pierce with meat fork at the thickest place. If you can pierce to the bone reasonably easy, it can be taken up and when cold used to slice and fry.

If desired to be baked, then remove the skin while hot, put in roasting pan with about a quart of the water which ham was boiled, place in 325-degree oven and cook until it pierces quite tender.

We prefer to serve this baked ham in thin slices.
If you prefer to fry your ham without first boiling it, and it is too salty, try slicing it the night before and soaking it in water.

Another way is to put some water on the sliced ham in the skillet, and boil for a few minutes; then pour this water off and fry.

Your for more and better country cured hams in Missouri, I am,
Very truly yours,
Morton Tuttle,
Prairie Home, Missouri

U. of Md. Study Shows Average Farmer Earns 2c A Dozen on Eggs

A study of 135 Maryland poultry farms showed that the average price received for a dozen eggs was only 2 cents higher than the cost of producing them, according to a recent University of Maryland Agricultural Extension Service publication.

Fact Sheet 40, "Get More Money from Your Eggs," by Harold Smith and John Trower, of the department of Agricultural economics and marketing, discusses the important factors in reducing costs and increasing profits.

With production costs increasing since the study was made last year, the authors point out that it is important to hold down costs in order to maintain or increase profits.

According to the study, feed made up 60 per cent of the total costs, labor 21 per cent, flock depreciation 13 per cent, housing and miscellaneous costs 6 per cent. The cost items varied between counties and farms because of differences in size of flock, rate of lay, mortality, feed and labor efficiency.

The authors list the factors in reducing costs and point out how the most efficient producers increased their profits. Copies of Fact Sheet 40, "Get More Money from Your Eggs," can be obtained from your county agent or by writing the Bulletin Room, Symons Hall, University of Maryland, College Park, Md.

Broiler Production Goals

Meeting competition from other areas, and cutting down production costs are what counts in the broiler business. John L. Crothers, Jr., assistant county agricultural agent, lists some ambitious goals for ambitious broiler growers.

1. Have your birds in market condition at less than 12 weeks of age.
2. Acquire a feed efficiency of less than 3 pounds of feed per pound of gain.
3. Aim at a mortality of five per cent or less.

Reaching these goals means a lot of attention to sanitation, use of new drugs proved by research, perhaps the use of antibiotics to speed weight gains, and close attention to feed values. No means of more efficient production should be overlooked, in the face of present low farm selling prices for broilers, Crothers said.

Needs Coal
Japan wants to import 1,635,000 tons of coking coal—most of it from the U.S.—during the fiscal year beginning April 1.

Order Repair Parts Now, Farmers Warned

"While you're cleaning up your far machines for winter storage, take a check of all repair parts needed for next year's growing season."

John L. Crothers, Jr., assistant county agricultural agent, says that this will help you, and speed things up in the production line. Every spring, farm implement dealers are flooded with orders for repair parts. The tight steel situation might make things worse next spring. Go through your machines and make a list of the parts that will need replacing, or repairing. Don't overlook small items, such as supplies of bolts, screws, or mower teeth.

To help the dealer and parts man in servicing your order, Mr. Crothers suggests including the following in your list: name of machine, make, model date of manufacture, or serial number, quantity needed, and part number.

"Order now, so you can get your equipment in shape during the winter months," Crothers concludes.

Research For Farm Profits, Hort Meeting Theme

The Peninsula Horticultural Society's 65th annual meeting will feature research findings that help increase farm profits. Philip Corkran, Rhodesdale, Md., president, announced the meeting dates as Thurs., Fri., Dec. 6 and 7, in Fellowship Hall, Salisbury.

The program will start at 9:30 a. m., and continue until 3:30 p. m., Dec. 7. Vegetable day, Thursday, will feature topics such as new varieties, asparagus production, sweet potatoes on the peninsula, chemical weed control, pest control, and nutrition sprays. Fruit day, Fri., Dec. 7, features new findings in strawberry production, orchard management, pest control and many other interesting topics. Corkran added that the annual banquet is again a part of the program.

The complete program will be available in a few days. Anyone who is not a member of the society, but who is interested in receiving a copy, can write to R. F. Stevens, Box 150, Newark, Del.

DPIA Poultry Tour To Go To Wicomico County, Md.

Delaware poultrymen are invited to a tour of the poultry industry in Wicomico County, Md., Nov. 27. The tour has become an annual affair, sponsored by the Delaware Poultry Improvement Association. Last year, a group of 200 or more people toured poultry producers and processors in Sussex County.

Tentative plans for the tour, as announced by chairman Fred Haas, of Middletown, include visits to hatching-egg producers, broiler growers, and turkey growers. The tour will leave from in front of the Delmar School, Delaware side, at 9 a. m. At the present time plans are not complete, but arrangements are being made to co-operate with the University of Maryland, through P. F. Twining, extension poultryman there.

One particular stop should be of special interest to poultrymen, said Haas. This stop will be the Armour-Chesapeake Farm. The entire output of the farm in front of the modern plant on the grounds—through killing and eviscerating—to cutting up, freezing, and packaging. Watch for further announcements of this tour in your local papers.

Finest coal that money can buy!

BLENDED
ANTHRACITE

Here's a far better coal that's blended for quality—product of three of Pennsylvania's most famous anthracite mines. It's high in heating value, low in ash content. Amazingly flexible—so easy to start and bank.
Be assured of top, trade-marked quality by buying Susquehanna-Glen Lyon Coal—identified by the red-and-yellow "Lion's Head" disks in every ton. You'll be better satisfied—save real money—because it goes further. Order a trial ton of Susquehanna-Glen Lyon Coal.

Sulky Slants

By Mrs. Dave (Pat) Smith

Don't think for one minute we don't have a nice bunch of colts here in training. It's loads of fun watching these youngsters learning the hard way to race. From the looks of them, all the trainers are going very carefully. Everyone a champion unless proved otherwise. Some will race, others turned out. Spring will tell.

Mr. Holloway, our general manager, told me over at the office that half of Harrington was up to Harrisburg to the sale. From the looks of horses, it looks like it.

I hear over the grapevine, (Quote) that Harry Craig will have the Grey Brothers horses this fall.

Carl Rook will have charge of Harry's stable for him. His horses are expected in last of this week.

I thing Johnnie Amato has the largest number of horses so far this fall.

Mickey, hear you will take charge of Fuzzy Tail all by yourself.

Sorry to hear Virginia Holloway being ill in bed. Hurry, Ginny, get well and come back to the office.

They certainly are doing everything possible to have a good track for training. The best thing yet is the way they have enclosed each end of the barns. Another thing, you can ask Harry Littleton for anything and, if possible, Harry will try and get it. Gee, that helps.

Generally I get a lot of news from a visit to Betty Myer's trailer, but even Betty or Rita Dumont didn't know anything. Just give us all time. Not until the holidays are over do things really get going good out here.

Paid a visit over to Mrs. Olive (Ruth) Davis, what a cute little baby. Judy is just like a doll.

Jack Walters busy moving his horses over close to us, and a very good neighbor.

Pop Heller out walking with his horses, and I do mean walking, but they say that's good for your waist line.

And I say, Bridget and Matilda, how's it going? When I asked who was on the other end of her restaurant, Virginia Paskey said, "I'm Bridget."

As I might miss something down town, I'll help Irene Saturday.

Reese standing in front of theatre with a look miles away.

Reese, Mr. Collins and daughter visited out to the track. We enjoy the town people coming out, so don't wait for special invitations.

I think you would really understand what goes on in training quarters if you would come out in the mornings and watch the workouts. I'm sure every trainer would be very nice about it all.

Mrs. Charley Carter has purchased a beautiful new trailer. Nettie, don't you miss that nice little place out at the edge of town?

Sarah did Bobby slip out with Doug. Bad boys!

I really enjoyed my chat with Mr. Burgess Sr. We really have a lot in common. I, too, have traveled and he and I talked over Kansas City and other big towns we had been in. He was so interesting. I could learn plenty from him.

I've been over to visit Mayor Rash's office, but he must be a very busy man. I can't catch him in. Sorry we were gone when you were out to the track. Come back again, Mayor Rash.

Don't let that penny get you down, Mr. Jerreard. Was all in fun.

Isn't it funny, I was over to Mr. Drummond's in Milford, and Jake the II certainly knew me. When these colts are broken, will bring him in. I picked him up, guess he will weight at least 25 lbs. Think I'll wait until after Thanksgiving this year.

I gave Mr. Killen (Clutch) out on Route 13 a pair of Canadian Muscovy ducks. What did I come home with but a week old gosling.

Carl Rook just brought me the cutest pair of bantams.

I think the prettiest Persian kittens I've ever seen are the ones out to Bea and Ralph Smith's. So pretty, in fact, I've ended up with a white one. One ball of fur, and his name, Candy. Dave says he is going to move the horses out, move in the pets.

Mr. and Mrs. Vinal Kirby and daughter were visitors out to the track.

Doug Smith has taken over Dudley Spencer.

Mr. Griffith over to see my colt, Roustabout and visit with Dave.

Thanks for the ride in the new Buick, Mr. Stokley. Everyone was certainly nice when I didn't have any way to get to town while

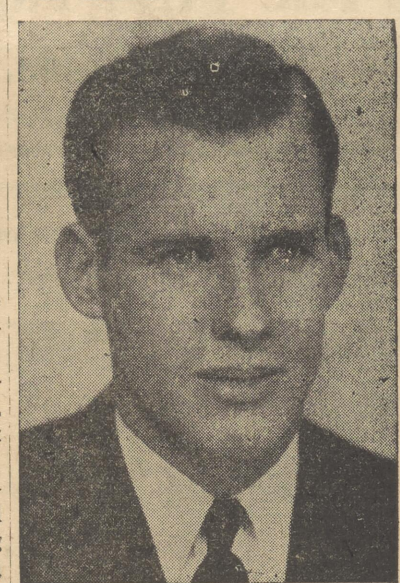

Martha Gruwell Elected President of Honey Bee 4-H Club

Martha Gruwell was elected president at the November meeting of the Honey Bee 4-H Club meeting at the home of Richard Sapp. Other officers elected were: Bertha Belle Jarrell, vice-president; Joyce Gruwell, secretary; Robert Taylor, treasurer; recreation leaders, Bertha Belle Jarrell, and Donald Jarrell; Joann Dickerson, club reporter.

Project pins were awarded to Robert Taylor, Viola Vanderwende, Bertha Belle Jarrell and Owinai Gruwell, who had been in the club for three years, and Joyce Gruwell, who had been in the club seven years.

Billy Vanderwende, who has been president for two consecutive years, will be the junior leader when he becomes 21 years old.

Sam Gwinn New State 4-H Leader

"The Delaware 4-H Club program will again move forward, and be strengthened by the promotion of Samuel M. Gwinn to state 4-H Club leader, with the University of Delaware agricultural extension service. Mr. Gwinn will also serve as acting assistant director of agricultural short courses."

This announcement was made this week by George M. Worri- low, director, Delaware agricultural extension service and experiment station. "This is the first time," said Worri- low, "that the 4-H program has been completely unified and under the leadership of one person."

Simultaneously, the appointment of Claude Adkins, of West Virginia, as new Sussex County 4-H agent to replace Gwinn was announced.

Gwinn has served as 4-H agent in Sussex County for four years. During that time, said Director Worri- low, the 4-H program there has grown in both membership and participation of local leaders.

Dave was at the sale. Sam Short is certainly going places with his music and songs. Good luck, Sam.

And Betty, we do have a Watchem Betty in our stable. That apartment, Mr. Greenberg, is just the ticket. You can see everything that goes on down town. I was watching them work on it from Irene's.

Little Joyce Hopkins spent last Saturday in Wilmington watching a hockey game.

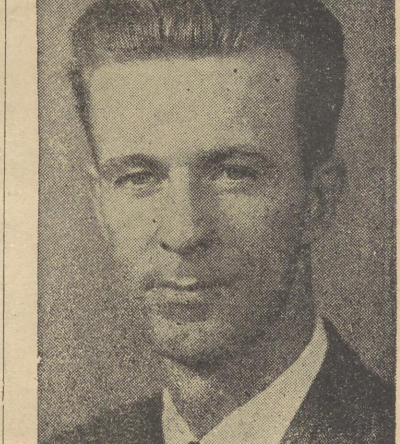

Mr. Knox Sr. tells me Randall is a pretty ill man.

Mr. Wilson was released from the hospital and getting along pretty good now. Last week I made the mistake of saying Mr. Price instead of Wilson.

Carl Goslin has bought Real Maxie in from pasture. Sure looks good. Ole Symbol just as cocky as if he were 5 years old.

Mrs. Harry Stout still visiting her mother in Albany.

A surprise birthday party was given by George Tatman and Clara's aunt for her Saturday. Among the little guests that were present were:
Edward Paskey, Layton Brown, Warren Bader, Irene Gourley, Ruth Walls, Jean Walls, Peggy Moore, Bonnie Tucker, Elizabeth Tatman and Esther Bader.
Clara received many useful gifts. Among the gifts I notice were sweaters, billfold, perfume, blouses, shirts, pins, blue jeans, very cute pins and flower holder, pocketbooks and money.
Little Clara Tatman was old the sum of ten years.
On the lines of Thanksgiving, the table was all set with pink baskets, a pink and white birthday cake with ten candles in pink grace the center of the pretty table. Ice cream turkeys were served along with the cake. After the party at home, Clara's father gave a theatre party at Reese Theatre for all her little guests.
At the last I heard everyone really enjoyed the party.

Local Ladies Send Help To Kansas Flood Area

The members of the Harrington S. D. A. Dorcas Society, being aware of the great need that exists when disaster strikes, acted recently to help those in Kansas who were struck by flood. A call had come for bedding, towels and clothing. This group of helpful ladies sent to Kansas flood relief headquarters: 175 garments, 20 sheets, 13 blankets, and 14 pillow slips. They plan to send more soon. Anyone having sheets, pillow slips, blankets, towels, pillows, or articles of clothing that they could spare for this cause, please contact Mrs. Ellen Biggers, Greensboro, Md.
Here is a little poem that was used in our missionary service last Sabbath which gave us a good idea of what the world of today needs:
"If all the sleeping folk will wake up,
And all the lukewarm folk will fire up,
And all the dishonest folk will confess up,
And all the disgruntled folk will sweeten up,
And all the discouraged folk will cheer up,
And all the depressed folk will look up,
And all the estranged folk will make up,
And all the tithe payers will pay up,
And all the gossipers will shut up,
And all the dry bones will shake up,
And all the true soldiers will stand up,
And all the church members will pray up,
And all the colporteurs will speak up,
And all the ingatherers will gather up,
Then we shall have a revival,
And then we can soon all go up
In blazing clouds of glory!"
