

Greener Pastures Contest Won by Lincoln Dairyman

William T. Thompson of Lincoln was named as both the state and Sussex County winner in the greener pastures program Tuesday night at a dinner meeting in Capital Grange Hall, at Dover, with Gov. E. B. White as the principal speaker.

Winners also were announced in the five-acre corn yield contest with H. Wallace Cook as the state and New Castle County winner in that division.

Both the greener pastures and corn yield projects are part of the work done by the Delaware agricultural extension service. The Delaware Crop Improvement Association also co-operated in the corn yield contest.

Other greener pastures winners were: Sussex County—Second, Tall Brothers, Seaford; third, Allison Davis, Greenwood; Kent County—First, Alvin Allen, Camden; second, Merrill Jones, Felton; third, Virgil Pizer, Wyoming; New Castle County—First, Arthur C. Davis, Townsend; second, Peter Zeitler, Newark, and former U. S. Senator C. Douglass Buck of "Buena Vista," near New Castle.

Mr. Cook won the top corn yield contest award with a record of 155 bushels per acre. V. Stallard and W. T. Spitzer of Seaford were first in Sussex with 138 bushels and Pippin Brothers of Wyoming took the Kent County award with 114 bushels.

Governor Carvel presented a silver coffee set to Mr. Thompson at the "Governor's Award" in the greener pastures event. He stressed that farming is more important than ever today, with the emphasis on high production, as farm lands are steadily being reduced by the expansion of housing developments, airports, factories, new roads, and other factors.

He said that Delaware, which now rates second in the nation in income per county, should now advance to first place as a result of its achievements in agriculture.

This was the second annual greener pastures competition with 132 contestants. There were 144 entered in the corn yield contest.

Mr. Thompson, the state pastures winner, had operated a dairy farm near Lincoln for 10 years and has a herd of 20 milk cows. He is president of the Sussex Unit of the Delaware Artificial Breeders Cooperative and a director of the Sussex County Dairy Herd Improvement Association.

George M. Worrlow, director of the agricultural extension service, was the toastmaster. Taking part in the program were: Claude E. Phillips, chairman of the University of Delaware agronomy department; M. H. Mitchell, assistant agronomist; Victor P. Kohl, president of the Delaware Crop Improvement Association; Delmar Young, and the county agents.

Farmington

Miss Doris VonGoerres and Miss Shirley Nicholas spent the weekend home with their parents. They are both in training in the Milford Hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Hughes spent Sunday visiting in Dover. The farmers are having trouble harvesting their fall crops due to the rainy and cold weather.

The school will observe the Thanksgiving holiday by closing Thursday and Friday of this week.

The Home Coming service which was held Sunday afternoon in the Salem Methodist Church, was very well attended.

Irene Hayes, of Norfolk, Va., spent the weekend with her mother, Mrs. Lee Tindall.

Mr. and Mrs. Lester Hatfield attended the dance Friday evening at Seaford.

Several in and near town have had televisions installed recently, Woodrow Draper, Ray Cannon Sr., Alvin Thompson, Raymond McCready, Clyde Wyatt, John Lord and William Willey.

John Bradley is installing a bath in his home.

Wallace H. Smith is working on his property, recently purchased from Dr. William Sullivan's heirs.

Mr. and Mrs. Willis Laughery spent Saturday in Atlantic City, N. J., with other members of the Grange at Harrington.

Mrs. Harry Fisher and family and Miss Ella Bradshaw visited her mother near Seaford.

Miss Lois Hamilton and brother, Lewis, spent the weekend with their grandmother, Mrs. Ebe Hamilton.

Mrs. Lester Hatfield and Mrs. Leon Rust were recent Milford visitors.

Harrington Century Club Notes

The theme of the meeting of the Harrington New Century Club Tuesday afternoon was "Thanksgiving," with Mrs. A. C. Ford, president, presiding.

Mrs. Theodore Harrington and Mrs. John G. Parks gave the secretary and treasurer reports.

The group is sending CARE packages to Korea. Contributions were also made to the Boy Scouts of America.

An invitation to attend the reciprocity meeting at Smyrna New Century Club, Feb. 22, was accepted and also an invitation to attend Trinity Church at the Thanksgiving services.

Mrs. Lyla M. Noyes was elected to membership.

An arrangement of fall berries in a ceramic pitcher, and brass articles were displayed by Mrs. Ernest Raughley and Mrs. George Hanson.

Mrs. S. M. Williams and her committee on program presented the following program:

Mrs. Raughley read a poem, "Simple Gratitude" by Hazel Hartwell Simon; a reading, "Lincoln's Thanksgiving," was given by Mrs. Clukey. "Thanksgiving in Song," by Mrs. Clyde Minner and Mrs. Raughley, accompanied by Mrs. Earl Sylvester. A prayer for Thanksgiving was read by Mrs. Parson, and Miss Elva Reese read "Pennies from Heaven," by Max Winkler.

Legion Auxiliary Collects Gifts For Christmas

The November meeting of the Auxiliary of the American Legion was held at the Legion Home, Tuesday at 8 p. m. Mrs. Clyde Tucker presided over the business session.

Topmost in the schedule for the evening was the collecting of gifts by the unit to be taken to Perry Point Hospital, the VA hospital at Brack-Ex, Delaware State Hospital, Brandywine and Edgewood Sanitoriums where they will be offered, without charge, to our hospitalized veterans, to be used as Christmas gifts to their families at home.

Each member was asked to bring two gifts worth $1 each, for a man, woman or child to the meeting. A collecting point has been arranged, for those unable to attend the meeting and all gifts may be taken to the Cupid Ice Cream store between Nov. 17 to Nov. 24, where they will be on display.

The work of the Christmas Gift Shop is not new, yet each year it is a great thrill to watch veterans in the hospitals do their Christmas shopping from the loaded carts which are pushed, sometimes to their very bedsides.

A quota of over 100 gifts has been set. It is the sincere hope that that number will be grandly topped. Don't forget—two gifts worth $1 each, to be taken to the Cupid Ice Cream store before Nov. 24.

FIRE CALLS

Sunday afternoon—fire in colored school. Slight damage. Monday afternoon—grass fire.

Dash Up Top Rudnick Sale At $1150

Dash Up, a bay filly pacer, foaled in May, 1950, topped the list at $150 in the ninth annual fall sale of standardbred trotters and pacers at the Rudnick Livestock Sales Company at Dover Tuesday.

Purchaser of the Follow Up-Minzy filly was Charles Knieram, agent for C. Charpentier, of Lynbrook, L. I. The pacer, a sister to Pick Up, 2:02, was consigned by Jacob Rudnick, Dover.

A large crowd was in attendance at the sale, to which some 79 head were consigned, with the trading continuing well into the night. Full details of the sale will be published next week.

H. Draper Williams Wins Art Awards

H. Draper Williams, of Harrington, was one of three artists who were winners of the 38th annual exhibition of oils and sculptures which opened Monday night at the Delaware Art Center, Wilmington, and will extend through Dec. 19.

Three equal prizes were offered for presentation by the judges who were: Morris Kantor and Hobson Pittman, noted painters-critics, and Simone Boas, sculptor.

Two prizes were awarded Mr. Williams. "The Wrestlers," a painting chosen by Mr. Kantor and Mr. Pittman as their winner. Mr. Kantor commented on this choice stating: "I like the forms, the representation of the wrestling match, and the color." Mr. Pittman wrote "I feel Hiram Williams is one of our most gifted young painters and should, with tolerance and guidance, go far."

Williams is art instructor at Harrington School.

Study Group of Trinity Methodist Church

The Study Group of Trinity Methodist Church met Thursday in the chapel with a large number in attendance.

Mrs. Pritchard conducted the beautiful devotional service. Mrs. Sylvester made a few remarks regarding the course and presented Rev. D. T. Pritchard, who gave a detailed report on chapter nine, "Adventuring for Christ," he had divided the review into two parts, bringing out important points with splendid explanations.

Part one was followed by a chapter from the book "The Wearer of the Aymara" told by Mrs. H. Clyde Miller.

This was followed by part two of the chapter by Rev. Pritchard. Mrs. George Potter and Mrs. Ernest Raughley played as a duet "The Swallow." After singing by the group, "The Lily of the Valley," delicious refreshments were served.

There will be no study group this week on account of Thanksgiving, but the last meeting will be the following week when chapter ten and eleven will be studied.

Revival at Pilgrim Holiness Church Nov. 22 to Dec. 2

The Rev. A. H. Wilson, of Rensselaer, N. Y., is the engaged evangelist. Rev. Wilson is the second assistant general superintendent of the Pilgrim Holiness Church. He is an able preacher of the word and deeply spiritual. You will want to hear him.

C. J. Bunting and wife are the singers and musicians. They come to us from Albemarle, N. C. You will enjoy the fine music and singing by these talented young people.

Services each evening at 7:30. Sunday 10 a. m., 2:30 and 7 p. m. "Come thou with us and we will do thee good."

A hearty invitation extended to all.

N. C. Police Recapture Kent County Escapee

Floyd Flamer, 20, who walked away from the Kent County Jail on Friday, was recaptured Monday at Raleigh, N. C., according to a telegram received by Warden Norris B. Garrison from police of the southern city.

The telegram said Flamer was being held on a charge of jail escape and that he had waived extradition.

This was Flamer's second escape. Last June he fled the jail but was recaptured within an hour. He is serving a sentence on an automobile theft charge.

Dykes to Head Shore League

Richard Dykes, of Salisbury, was elected president of the Eastern Shore Basketball League Sunday at a meeting of the group here. Dykes will appoint his other officers, such as treasurer, secretary, statistician, etc.

Scheduled to swing into action Mon., Dec. 10, with six entries, the league lineup was reduced to five members when Rehoboth withdrew. It is hoped the vacancy can be filled by game time.

League members this season will include Harrington, Chincoteague, Salisbury, Laurel, and Dover, with the last-named two being new entries. Denton, Federalsburg, and Georgetown, members of the league last year, have not renewed their affiliation with the circuit.

The schedule for the 20-game season will be announced next week.

Harrington defeated Dover, 92 to 51, in a practice game here Monday evening. The Harrington roster was composed of Bob Snowden and Joe Griffith, formerly of the Georgetown team; Jack Dill, Tom Shalley, Bill Betts, Bob Roberts, and Paul Martin.

Mrs. Ella Wroten, of Seaford, is spending several days with Mrs. Sallie Wroten and Mrs. Annie Wilson.

Mrs. William Croll and Mrs. Paul Van Dyke were invited guests to a luncheon at the home of Mrs. August Croll, of Federalsburg, last Wednesday given in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Victor Drummond, of Santa Rosa, Calif., and Mrs. Ella Brockhurst, of Ridgely Park, N. J.

Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Scott entertained at dinner Sunday Mr. and Mrs. Paul Scott and children and Mr. and Mrs. William Scott and daughter.

We are glad to know that Mr. and Mrs. Norris Beauchamp's baby, who was taken to Eastern Hospital last week, is home and getting along nicely.

Mrs. Herman Hignutt Jr. entertained.

Floyd Messick and William Gray, who are working in South Carolina, spent the weekend here with their families.

Mr. and Mrs. Woodrow Passwaters and daughter, Beverly, of Denton, and Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Noble were guests at a turkey dinner Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Wilmer Nagel, of Federalsburg.

Willow Grove

Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Lemp were visitors of relatives and friends in and around New York over the weekend.

H. Holmes Smith was a recent visitor in Washington, D. C.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Wesley Reynolds and family, of Earlsville, Md., were local visitors recently.

J. Wesley Kling is again manufacturing country sausage and scrapple in quantity.

We are very sorry to have lost one of our much respected citizens, Jos. W. Kling Sr.

W. O. Cabbage is confined with an attack of bronchitis.

Our farmers were concerned last summer about the lack of rain. Any way most of the corn was picked and considerable seeding was completed, but much acreage still remains plowed and was partially prepared for seeding, but now (?).

Much of the soybean crop in this area is still in the field and casual observation indicates it was better than average this season, plants vigorous and well set with beans.

Scattered Starlings

The Old World's starlings were introduced into New York in 1890, and for 20 years remained close by, the National Geographic Society observes. Then they began spreading rapidly, settling as far away as Hudson Bay, the Pacific, and Mexico.

Ehringer Tells Rotarians of Clubs Abroad

"I had belonged to Rotary many years, and thought I knew Rotary—until I went to school with other incoming District Governors from all over the world, at Lake Placid, N. Y., early in the year," said George Ehringer, District Governor, at Tuesday evening's meeting of the Harrington Rotary Club.

"We walked, talked and ate Rotary for six days. The Governor from Iceland told of the problems facing his country, and a District Governor from Japan informed us that 57 Rotary Clubs had been formed in his country since the ending of World War II. A District Governor from Germany said: 'Ten new clubs will have been organized in Germany by the time I return.'"

"Rotary is in 83 nations and geographical territories—in every section of the world, with the exception of Russia," said Governor Ehringer, "and while it has a steady growth in America, its growth in the world at large is much more rapid than it is here. A new club is being organized each 32 hours. Why are clubs being organized at such a rapid rate outside the United States? Probably because the other nations have such complex problems; probably because, partially due to the proximity of other nations with age-old hates, they are striving for a solution of their problems, striving to iron out the differences—and they believe that Rotary is one of the best vehicles for this hope."

Governor Ehringer described the man who says: "I am a one-talent man—and I can't do what you ask me to do—but I'm willing to donate five or ten dollars to the cause." Service does not ask your money as much as it asks your time and your objectives. It asks for your leadership and your courage. Elbert Hubbard said: "One courageous, unselfish man in every community can change the course of the world."

To illustrate the fact that bread cast upon the waters will come back to you, buttered on both sides, Governor Ehringer told this story of the most towering figure of our times, Winston Spencer Churchill:

"When Winston Churchill was a little boy, he attended a picnic on a neighboring estate. Many of the little boys, among them Churchill, went swimming. Suddenly there was a cry for help—and the gardener's son swam out and rescued little Churchill from a watery grave. The overjoyed Churchills said to the gardener: 'What can we do to repay you for saving our little boy's life? Anything we can do—we will do.' 'My son,' replied the gardener, 'wants to be a doctor.' 'It will be arranged,' replied the happy parents.

"You will recall that, when negotiations with other nations were in progress, Winston Churchill was stricken with a violent attack of pneumonia and the call went forth for the greatest physician in all the British empire to attend him. That great physician was Sir Alexander Fleming, discoverer of penicillin. He did save Churchill's life, and the irrepressible Winnie said: 'Not often is a man's life saved TWICE by the SAME man.'"

"Where would England be today, where would the world be today—but for the gardener's son?"

"You will recall that, when negotiations with other nations were in progress, Winston Churchill was stricken with a violent attack of pneumonia and the call went forth for the greatest physician in all the British empire to attend him. That great physician was Sir Alexander Fleming, discoverer of penicillin. He did save Churchill's life, and the irrepressible Winnie said: 'Not often is a man's life saved TWICE by the SAME man.'"

Junk Dealer, Bride, 14, Held

Linwood Johnson, 46, Seaford junk dealer, who state police say ran off with a 14-year-old Harrington girl and married her at Bridgeton, N. J., on Nov. 14, was arrested by state police Monday on a charge of violation of the age of consent.

Arraigned before Magistrate L. Gooden Callaway of Harrington, Johnson was placed under $1000 bail for his appearance in court at Georgetown next Monday.

The girl, the former Amy Slater, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Slater, of near Harrington, was released in the custody of her parents. Troopers said Johnson had known the Slater family for six or seven years and at one time had been a neighbor. Police said Johnson was unmarried.

According to troopers, Johnson met Amy Slater at Harrington on Nov. 8 and they left that day for Bridgeton, where they were married Nov. 14 by the Rev. Samuel C. Johnson of Bridgeton. Troopers said Johnson showed them a New Jersey marriage license as proof of the ceremony.

Troopers said the girl, in the application for the license, gave her age as 20. According to state police she could easily have deceived the clerk since she weighs 171 pounds and is 5 feet 8 inches tall.

Johnson and the girl remained in New Jersey until Sunday, police said, then returned to Seaford, spent the night at the Colonial Court Cabins, near Seaford. Johnson was arrested Monday on a warrant sworn out by the girl's father.

Funeral Today For W. Wilson

Wallace Wilson, 43, died early Tuesday evening in Milford Memorial Hospital where he had been committed following an epileptic attack Friday morning in the Harrington business district. During his stay at the hospital, he had suffered several similar attacks.

He is survived by his mother, Mrs. Wellington Wilson, of Seaford, a brother, Fred Wilson, of Seaford; a son, Bruce Wilson; a daughter, Lois Wilson, and his wife, Mrs. Lillian Shultie Wilson. The last-named three survivors reside in Harrington. His father, Wellington Wilson Sr., died in December, 1947.

Mr. Wilson, an electrician, came here with his parents, when he was 16, from Brooklyn, N. Y. He was a veteran of World War II. He was employed by Satterfield & Ryan for many years.

Funeral services will be held at 2 p. m. today from the Boyer Funeral Home, with the Rev. Daniel T. Pritchard, pastor of Trinity Methodist Episcopal Church, officiating. Interment will be in Hollywood Cemetery.

Towel Shopping

The loops of a towel in large measure determine its absorbency. Look for towels with loops which are set reasonably close together and which are fairly long, about one-eighth of an inch. Longer loops make a towel soft and fluffy, but do not make for as good wear since they are apt to catch and pull out.

The B. P. W., Lions, and Rotary Clubs of town, sponsors of the Harrington Youth Center, will conduct a drive for funds this coming week ending Dec. 1. H. Y. C. stickers will be given to anyone contributing a dollar or more. This drive is purely local, one of the few donations that you give which stays entirely in this community. The money will be used for maintenance, replacement of equipment, and for added games needed at the Center.

In conjunction with the drive, an open house will be held at the Youth Center Saturday evening, Dec. 1 from 7 to 9 p. m. The young people themselves will be your hosts and hostesses. We urge you to come in to see the improvements that have been made and the work that still needs to be done.

One of the following solicitors will call at your home sometime next week:

Mrs. Helen Moore, James Cubbage, Mrs. Lillian Camper, Mr. and Mrs. Ben Kates, Mrs. Carolyn Dill, Mrs. Betty Lord, Mrs. June Lekites, Mrs. Mildred Minner, Mrs. Virginia Holloway, Mrs. Douglas Mills, Mrs. Ralph Draper, Mrs. Walter Messick, George Vapaa, Benny Moore, Mrs. Earl Nelson, Mrs. Jane Hendrickson, Mrs. Betty Greenly, Mrs. Jeanne McDonald, Mrs. Clarence Collins, Mrs. Melvin Brobst, Mrs. Angie Potter, Miss Leona Dickraeger, Miss Phyllis Connor, Mrs. Ethel Hunter, Mrs. McVey, Harvey Burgess, Harry Boyer, Mrs. Sam Williams, Madalyn Tharp, Mrs. J. E. Taylor, Mrs. Laura Belle Layton, Mrs. H. O. Banning, Mrs. Tharp Harrington, Mrs. Bernice Stayton, Brinton Holloway, Mrs. Mary Dolby, Mrs. Rosella Humes.

Contributions will be accepted by any B. P. W., Lions or Rotary Club member. Our goal is a dollar per home!

The purpose of the Harrington Youth Center is to create a better environment and co-operation for the youth of Harrington.

In order to do this the Business and Professional Women's Club has united with the Rotary and Lions club as sponsors of this organization.

Sulky Slants

By Mrs. Dave (Pat) Smith

More and more barns are filling up out here at the fair grounds. There are the Myers, Polly Sipe, Harry Stout, D. Ellison, Martin, Mr. Stokley, the Wheatleys, Paul Vineyard, Charley Carter, Happy Gray, Pop Heller, Olin Davis, Charley Sutton, Harry Craig, Doug Smith, (Bobby Hobbs, I wonder?), Carl Goslin, Dupee, Ray Stable, Roland Harrington, Warren Holmes, Peacock, Lyons Stable, Johnnie Amato, Jimmy Workman, Jack Walters, Dumont, Sam Conway, Mr. and Mrs. Bowers will be here later. Henry Clukey's farm is very attractive on Route 13. I know there are more, but just haven't caught up with them. Between now and next week will get the names of the horses and their owners. Right now so many trainers are breaking their colts. They are very busy. It's just like youngsters going to kindergarten, then into school for the first time. Anything can happen and it generally does. It isn't long though, before they are put to the carts, then they are on their way. Some will make the goal, some turned out in the spring. Here's where most all the old horses have had to take over and support the youngsters.

Nowhere at any other track will you find a more reserved colony of people. Everyone at the trailer camp are friendly, but at the same time no one bothers the other. After all that goes a long way to unity at any track.

Here and there you will hear some planning what they will have for Thanksgiving. Most all will be enjoying a big ole turkey. Some will eat out at our restaurants in Harrington. Some will even get to go home. From the looks of apples and carrots around the stables, horses too, will enjoy Thanksgiving.

I see Charley Sutton still has the pet coon that he purchased from Harry Littleton. Sure is some pet too.

Dr. Huber's two new pupils, Paney's girl and Watchem Betty, are going through their schooling very nicely. Dave is very well pleased with them.

Certainly Mrs. Florence Robinson's Nible Son is a sturdy big fellow and very gentle.

There's no one enjoys jogging more than Bobby Hobbs. He is just one that cold weather doesn't seem to bother out here. Bobby, we are glad to have you join the sport.

I hope by now the tragedy that Roland Harrington and his wife experienced in Hamburg have all but faded away. Poor Mira Lee.

Dave and I took a ride Sunday and ended up in Ocean City. The race track down there certainly was something of a ghost track. Very lonesome. And as usual, as we neared Harrington and over on the highway, our track was so alive with lights. To me it's a beautiful sight when the sun goes down and darkness comes on. As I've always said, our red and white barns really stand out.

Wonder now many out here at the track will think to put out a few decorations for Christmas. Let's all put up a little holly.

Heh, Gene Anderson, hear you've gone hunting with a sign on the door. How many?

Was down to visit with Mrs. Greenly a little while this past week. She seems to be real busy with this and that.

I just went by to pay our respects for the burden she will have to carry on as years go by. I will always remember her, for three years ago when I was ill at the track, she knocked on our door, and the most beautiful bouquet I've ever seen. Certainly was a wonderful deed, and did I feel better. I love flowers.

Went by to say hello to Mrs. Harvey Griffith and stayed about all afternoon. Their two year old colt certainly looks good. Wish I could sew like she. She's tops in that line.

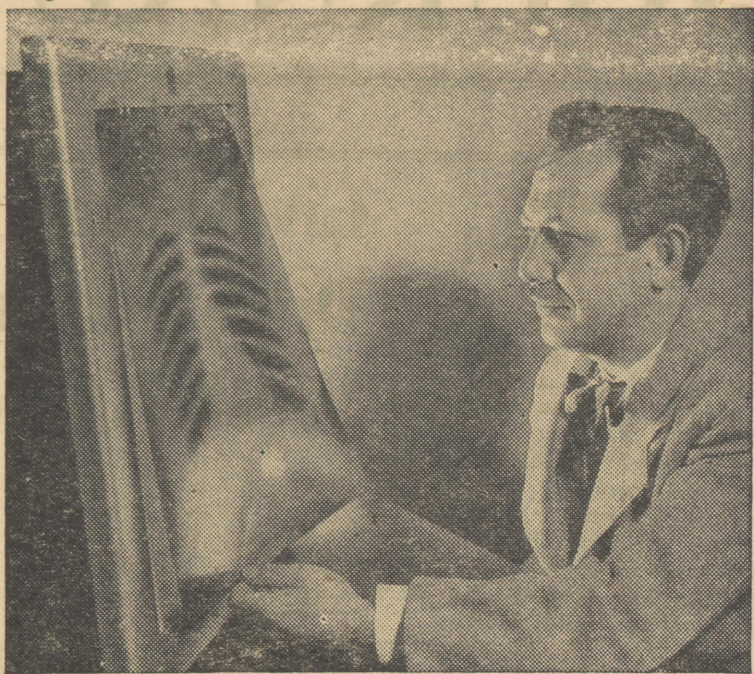

I had two beautiful violets given to me from the greenhouse. Hope they live.

Was invited to the Business Women's Professional Club dinner Monday night and they want me to make this statement out here at the track.

All youngsters are cordially invited to the Harrington Youth Center. We are very grateful to them to extend the invitation to all children here at the track.

Our general manager, Brit Holloway, is in charge of donations from us to help support and get the equipment that will be required to operate the Youth Center. Let's all help. And for the people here at the track, open house will be held for everyone Monday night.

This Negative Could Be Positive

Tuberculosis is a stealthy disease that seldom shows any signs in the early stages when it is easiest to cure. That is why it is so important for adults to get a chest X-ray at least once a year, as advocated by the voluntary tuberculosis associations, because early TB can be detected by means of an X-ray. And TB is easiest to cure when found early. Case finding, health education, rehabilitation, and research are part of the TB control program of the voluntary associations supported solely through the annual sale of Christmas Seals.

Delayed Action
How do astronomers know what is happening in the sky if it takes so long for the light of the stars to reach us? They do not know what is happening in the universe at the present time, but only what was happening when the light started on its journey to us. As telescopes become more powerful and reach out in greater depths of space, we get back farther and farther in time. The most distant objects which can be observed with the 200-inch Hale telescope at Mt. Palomar are so far away that their light (with a speed of 186,000 miles per second) takes about a billion years to reach the Earth.

Crater Hole
A giant meteorite is believed to have struck northern Canada between 3,000 and 15,000 years ago, the National Geographic Society reports. It produced Chubb Crater, a huge earth scar closely resembling craters on the moon.

Frederica

Pupils of the Frederica School had a jolly good time in Dover Monday morning of this week when they went by bus to the Capitol Theatre to witness the play "Jack and the Beanstalk."

Mrs. Frances Farrell, of Philadelphia, spent Sunday with her sister, Mrs. Howard Davidson.

The son of Mr. and Mrs. James Webb is ill.

Tuesday of this week the school children had a Thanksgiving dinner at the school. It was complete in every detail.

Of all the holidays as set forth by the proclamation of the governors of the many states, perhaps none has more nearly the sentiment of perfection to the household than does Thanksgiving. To the rural, urban suburban or city dweller it is perhaps the one holiday to which all look with much the same desires and for most of the same pleasures. During other holiday times, more often than not, there are gifts from a distance, messages from afar, vacation trips and parties; if there are morning and evening church services they are soon forgotten during the festivities of longer duration.

Thanksgiving! The one holiday when those away from home center their love "back home," and those "at home" linger long at table with those they love. Old fashioned grace is restored. Thanks are expressed openly in the gladness of eyes and the glee of voices.

Thanksgiving is not ancient as a holiday. Our country is so young that if recorded historically Thanksgiving might well be termed pre-present generation, while China, having the oldest existing civilization, has not Thanksgiving. America has Thanksgiving! So long as each American keeps it truly in his heart, as well as on his tongue and by his pen his America will be the place of and for it eternally.

Mrs. Lester L. Carlisle Sr. has returned from a visit to Philadelphia.

Frank Oldfield and his parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Oldfield, of Laurel, were recent town guests.

First Lens
Bernard Schmidt, who invented the photographic telescope being used in Palomar Observatory in compiling the world's first definite Sky Atlas, made his first lens before he was in his teens. He did this by grinding and polishing the round bottom of a broken bottle in a saucer of sand, according to the Better Vision Institute. The Schmidt camera on Palomar weighs 36 tons and has a tube 24 feet long and a 72-inch mirror in its breech.

Geared to Need
The requirements for protective coatings vary widely from one industry to another. The makers of air-conditioning equipment have an interior corrosion problem which must be met by a special finish. The specifications for typewriter and business machine finishes include a test to determine abrasion resistance and resistance to perspiration. Nothing will destroy adhesion and general film integrity faster than its becoming saturated with perspiration. The coating must be built especially to resist it.

THE HARRINGTON JOURNAL

Office of Publication, 207 Commerce Street, Harrington, Delaware

Entered as second-class matter August 16, 1946, at the Post Office at Harrington, Delaware, under the Act of March 3, 1879

Ho! hum! Another week and another editorial column to fill. What shall we write about? Sometimes it is difficult to think up something to write about; especially with the deadline breathing on one's neck.

This act is often conducive to the flow of ideas. Oh yes, one should not always take a thing for granted, and this is especially so in the case of reporters and members of the medical profession.

Speaking of death, this brings up another matter. We need a traffic light at the intersection of Clark, Commerce, and Fleming Street.

Now that the skein of ideas is beginning to uncoil, we hear that quite a few robberies have been taking place around Houston and Milford.

Harrington merchants still have difficulty in getting together on anything. At a meeting Friday night some five businessmen showed up (this writer had to attend a meeting in Easton).

This Walt Meyer, fieldman for Pensupreme, is a go-getter. Recently he worked on the fund-raising campaign for the Boy Scouts and now he is taking part in a drive for funds for the Harrington Youth Center.

We would be pleased to hear from anyone in these parts who had an idea for an article for our Christmas edition. Here are a few pointers: the ministers could write an article on the significance of Christmas.

FARM NEWS AND REVIEW

Home Talk

By: Eleanor R. Cavanaugh

Since the end of another year is approaching us, many of the home demonstration clubs are electing new officers. The 1952 club officers of the Cee-W-Dee Club are: President, Mrs. Ernest Cool, Wyoming; vice-president, Mrs. Paul Zartman, Dover; secretary, Mrs. Fred Fifer, Wyoming; treasurer, Mrs. Temple Jump Jr., Magnolia.

The Kenton Home Demonstration Club has also elected new officers. They are: President, Mrs. Paul Palmer, Kenton; vice-president, Mrs. Harry Faulkner, Kenton; secretary, Mrs. Herbert Ruch, Kenton; treasurer, Mrs. Jacob Crossley, Clayton.

The new officers of the Leipsic Home Demonstration Club are: President, Mrs. Harry Hall, Leipsic; vice-president, Mrs. William Maclary, Leipsic; secretary, Mrs. Arthur Rusby, Smyrna; treasurer, Mrs. Noble Jerman, Leipsic.

The Friendly Homemakers Club has new officers too: President, Mrs. John Detlefs; vice-president, Mrs. Claude Outten; secretary, Mrs. Eugene Werner, and treasurer, Mrs. Fred Waski. All of these officers are from Dover.

The last group meeting to be held this month on "Health and Good Grooming" will be at the Todd's Community Hall, near Greenwood Wed., Nov. 28. The Todd's Home Demonstration Club will be hostess to the following clubs: Farmington, Andrewsville and Hickman.

A party cookie project school will be held Monday at the Caesar Rodney High School—Home Economics room. The meeting will start at 8. Miss M. Gertrude Holloway, state home demonstration leader, will demonstrate the making of cookies. Many of them will be suggestions which can be used for the holidays. Everyone is invited to come to the school.

Here's one good holiday cookie recipe:

Light Fruit Cookies

Time: 8-10 minutes. Temp. 375° F.
 1/2 cup shortening
 1 cup sugar
 1 teaspoon lemon extract
 1 teaspoon vanilla
 1 egg
 3/4 cup hot water
 2 1/2 cups sifted flour
 1 teaspoon soda
 1/2 teaspoon salt
 1 cup ground raisins
 1/2 cup chopped nuts
 Cream shortening and sugar together. Add lemon extract and vanilla. Add eggs and beat well. Add hot water, sift flour, soda, and salt together, add, and mix well. Add raisins and nuts. Chill the dough about an hour and a half. Divide dough into four parts, returning the parts not being worked to the refrigerator until ready to be used. Roll each part into a roll about 1 inch in diameter. Cut off pieces about 1 inch long and roll into ball about the size of a walnut. Place on cookie sheet and flatten slightly with the bottom of a glass. Yield: 6 dozen.

Farmington Home Demonstration Club

The Farmington Home Demonstration Club attended Rally Day services at the Dover Grange Hall and received the highest attendance award. They have received this honor six out of seven years. The next meeting date will be Nov. 28, at the Todd's Community Building, a joint meeting with the Hickman, Andrewsville and Todd's Clubs.

Mrs. Eleanor Cavanaugh, home demonstration agent, will be present and discuss "Perfect Grooming."

Veteran Poultry Grower Gives Tips on Technique

Take it from Lloyd T. Rogers, broiler grower can learn a lot and profit by watching trends.

Rogers grows 20,000 New Hampshires at a time in his two old poultry houses near Georgetown. He spends a lot of time watching his flocks for irregularities. "And you learn a lot in 10 years," he said.

Right now, while most Delaware growers are stewing over low prices, he has only one house occupied and the chicks there are just two weeks old.

He emptied his other house in August when the price was about four cents per pound above the average 26-30 cents. Year in, year out, he'll market about 50,000 birds annually.

Some tips from Rogers' book on successful operation:
 He uses coal brooder stoves and in severe weather baby chicks are penned near the stoves for a few days.

Broilers Grow In Lopsided House

Edward Boyd is using all the latest "wrinkles" in raising his broilers at St. Michaels.

He has relied on the most modern design and labor saving devices in a new house he completed in June.

The new house is 50 feet wide and is divided by a feed room. One wing is 76 feet long, and the other is 240 feet long. It is of cinder block construction with an aluminum roof.

The house holds 35,000 chickens—19,000 on the long end and 16,000 on the short end. The house is lopsided in order to fit into a maze of woods, fields and chicken houses.

Mr. Boyd allows his chickens approximately three quarters of a square foot per bird.

He uses bulk feed and automatic feeders as labor, and money-savers. He owns a bulk feed truck. He picks up a load of feed from a local dealer in bulk form—without bags.

This means Mr. Boyd doesn't have to waste time handling 199 pound bags of feed, and he doesn't have to pay so much for feed because it doesn't cost the feed company so much to handle it.

Mr. Boyd and Edwin Wadsworth operate the house. They own the 35,000 chickens in it.

They drive the feed truck right into the feed room. There they pipe feed into four hoppers which feed the four automatic feeders that run into the house.

But they don't depend entirely on the automatic feeders. Three times daily they fill the customarily five-foot feed troughs—four per 1000 chickens—to provide additional feeding space.

Both men wish they had four or six more troughs per 1000 chickens in order to pump more weight on them.

They agree that automatic feeders are all right if the owner is growing the flock. He will keep a close eye on the chickens and find out whether they are "off feed" and sick, or need more feed. Tenants sometimes won't watch closely enough, they said.

The large house is equipped with automatic water cups at the rate of eight per 1000 chicks. These are dug into the litter for the waterers. But they have to put chunks of wood in the cups to keep the chicks from falling in and drowning.

Mr. Boyd and Mr. Wadsworth think the broiler's job is to eat and gain quickly. So they have an electric clock which turns on bright lights, and the automatic feeders for an hour late at night—to put the chickens to work.

His chicks are started on cracked corn, fed in feeder box lids and sprinkled over the mash.

"I never let the chickens get hungry," he said.

Partitions stop drafts but ventilators under the doors permit circulation in hot weather.

Windows run the entire length of the poultry house. They slide up and down, covered with a plastic material. An improvised vent, down low, permits air circulation a few inches above the litter.

He uses old built-up litter. Experiments show that chickens benefit by scratching in it, he said.

Rogers is health conscious. He protects against Newcastle disease by internal live virus vaccination when the birds are 10 days old.

Rats don't enter the feed room. He keeps cats there.

Turkey Meeting Feature Research, Turkey Broilers

The annual Delaware Turkey Growers' meeting, Nov. 30, will have Baker Jones, nationally known turkey broiler raiser, as the feature speaker.

Jones is connected with the East Point Turkey Farm, of Elkton, Va. This farm operated by Chester Housh and Son, has pioneered in the growing of small white turkey broilers, and now is one of the largest single turkey broiler producers in the nation.

Jones was formerly in charge of poultry improvement work in Alabama. He then worked with the U. S. Department of Agriculture, at the Beltsville Research Station. While there he reflected the sun's heat during summer. This helps ward off chick losses through excessive summer heat, they said.

And they said the worst problem confronting them with a wide house is ventilation. Ventilation removes the ammonia fumes from manure, and dries the litter and cools the birds, they said.

They have six four-by-eight-foot roof ventilators on the long side and five on the other. Panels in the ventilators are controlled from downstairs.

Green Manures Vital To Good Crops in Del.

"Green manures and commercial fertilizers are both necessary to getting a good crop yield on most Delaware soils," said Leo J. Cotnoir, of the University of Delaware agronomy department.

Cotnoir talked to the Fertilizer Dealers and Manufacturers Conference last week.

"You have to take the long point of view with green manure crops, you can't get startling results in one year, but they can build up a soil producing 40 bushels of corn per acre, to one that consistently produces 90 bushels higher. They add nitrogen and organic matter, but also have a soil conditioning value which is tremendously important."

A good legume can produce 80 pounds of nitrogen in a season, said Cotnoir. A grass cover crop plowed under needs 100 pounds of a nitrogen fertilizer per acre, or the decomposition of the grass takes available nitrogen away from the next crop.

As to which is more economical, Cotnoir favored the legume, because of the high price of fertilizers, and predicted scarcity of nitrates.

If you have a grass crop, animal manures can add the nitrogen, he said. The animal manure should be added in April or March. It doesn't pay to add phosphorus or potash to a cover crop, except for the very first cover crop on a badly worn out soil to "prime the pump," Cotnoir said.

Old, built-up litter is a controversial subject among broilermen. Chickens on it seem to grow faster, but they are subject to worms, they say.

Baby chicks are penned near the source of heat in order to prevent losses from chilled chicks. There is a central coal heating system. Hot water is moved through two belts of six pipes each in each end. The pipes are 13 inches above the litter, they said.

The central heating unit is located in a separate shed. It serves the new house and two older, smaller houses. Mr. Boyd and Mr. Wadsworth said they would prefer oil now because it is more of a labor-saver even though it is more expensive.

The aluminum roof serves to reflect the sun's heat during summer. This helps ward off chick losses through excessive summer heat, they said.

Another program feature will be a report on turkey research at the Georgetown Agricultural Experimental Sub-station, by Karl Seeger, associate research professor there. Work is now in progress on blackhead control, using Enheptin at various levels, and with continuous and intermittent feedings. Infectious sinusitis is also under study there, and the latest report is expected to be ready by the November 30th meeting.

Angus Herd of Charles D. Dutton Is Sold to John S. Forest

John S. Forest, Angus breeder, told The Journal last Thursday he had purchased the Angus herd of Charles D. Dutton, of Killicoup Farm, near Houston, for more than $10,000.

In the herd, primarily of Roseman, Elba, Erica, Estonia, and Cremona bloodlines, were 15 cows, three bred heifers, seven heifer calves, and a bull with Bandolier, Prideman, and Elgan

Eston Quality breeding.

Dutton told The Journal that he planned to start another herd of registered Angus.

The Sunbeam family is also represented in the Dutton herd. Dutton, a native of Louisiana, gave Alfred Raughley his start in the Angus business a couple years ago when he sold him six heifers by Wineric Cremona.

Chicago-Bound 4-H'ers To Leave Nov. 23

The 21 Maryland 4-H'ers winning trips to the National 4-H Club Congress will depart for Chicago as a delegation today. Mylo S. Downey, state boys club leader, says the youngsters will leave by train from Baltimore on that date immediately after a luncheon and send-off party given in their honor.

Last year Maryland's delegations included 31 club members and it is expected that more winners will be announced this year before National Congress, which will be held Nov. 25-30.

Records submitted by many of the Free State 4-H winners are now in Chicago for a final judging. A number of them may emerge as national or sectional winners and receive additional awards, including $300 scholarships. In 1950 Maryland had eight national scholarship winners and five sectional winners.

Cattle Group Hears Talk On Fine Points of Being An Angus Breeder

"The breeder should be able to identify his cattle," Kenneth Clark, manager of Schludberg & Kurlde's livestock buying station at Wye Mills, said last Thursday night at the annual meeting of the Eastern Shore Aberdeen-Angus Association at Tidewater Inn, Easton. Clark was pinch-hitting for William Schludberg, president of the Eastern National Livestock Association, who was unable to appear.

In a short business meeting, preceding the main event, the following directors were appointed by a nominating committee: Frank Bache, Canton Farm, St. Michaels; James Lingle, Wye Plantation, Queenstown; James Corrigan, Fair Promise Farm, Betterton; C. J. Bryan, Bryan's Manor Farm, Salisbury; Charles Stokes, Fair Hope Farm, Chestertown; Miss Mary Straughn, Cedar Point Farms, Easton; W. J. Duffendach, Roselawn Farm, Housatonic; and Clifton M. Miller, Hinchingham Farm, Chestertown.

Howard H. Anderson, of Wimblerly Farms, Princess Anne, retiring president of the association, presided at both meetings. The new president is Frank S. Bache.

Fine Points in Breeding

Clark, who spoke on "On the Fine Points of Being An Angus Cattle Breeder," told of what he had observed in other herds. In citing an example of knowing your cattle, he recalled a visit to the farm of Carl Rosenfeld, at Ankeny, Ia., in 1930. It was in the middle of winter, he said, and there were between 50 and 60 cows in the barn. All were covered with blankets and none had chains. Mr. Rosenfeld called off the pedigrees of the entire herd from memory. "A good man will know his own cattle; he doesn't have to have a herd book to refer to," said Clark.

In bringing out some of the finer points in showmanship and, incidentally, salesmanship, the former Iowan advised the breeders to "have your cattle gentle and quiet so they can be shown to visitors or possible customers." With his thumbs beneath his vest and a white flower in his lapel, he continued, "Gentling of cattle is a gentle art," he explained, and went on to tell of a visit he made in 1929 to a famous breeder, J. Ernest Kerr, at Harvinstown, Scotland. "Mr. Kerr talked to his cows, scratched 'em, patted 'em." He added that cattle would be gentle and quite if one had the right kind of employes around the barn, and that infinite patience was required. The livestock buyer also declared that it was not hard to train young stuff to be gentle. "Just let their natural curiosity exercise itself," he urged. The cattleman should make no fast or false moves when youngsters come to lick their clothes. To show to the best advantage, good manners are a must in cattle, said Clark.

Cattle Should Be Sorted

Another point in showing cattle to best advantage for buyers was to sort cattle by size and sex, he explained. "In the old country (Scotland) they put cows with bull calves and cows with heifer calves in different fields. They make the best presentation."

Another point in showmanship for sale brought out was as follows:

"Have cattle in good condition for presentation to prospective customers. By good condition, Clark said he didn't mean they should be hog fat in the breeding herd, but that they must have normal breeding flesh. That means a herdsman will have to feed straw to a cow which didn't calve this year, or feed a little grain to the heavy milker, he said.

Know History of the Breed

A sound working knowledge of the history of the breed is essential, Clark commented. One should know how to name cattle and should know the history of the name, he advised. The breeder should understand also some of the background and tradition and from this he should derive a certain amount of satisfaction. Two good books on the subject, Clark explained, were histories of Angus cattle by Sanders and Macdonald.

In elaborating on the advantages of naming cattle, Clark emphasized it was important to name one's cattle correctly, and added that the prospective buyer might not be interested if the cattle were not appropriately named. He explained that the female line puts the name on the line in Angus cattle. Names, he interpolated, should be short, catchy, punchy, and easy to remember.

Pointing to reduced imports of beef from Australia, Mexico, Argentina, and Canada, Clark pointed out that Angus prospects were good and that there was a shortage of good cattle. He explained that choice and prime cattle made up only 8 or 9 percent of the total cattle receipts on the Chicago market and that demand would continue good for the better type. "We shouldn't sell America short on the beef business," he warned.

McGregor Talks on Advertising

In introducing Bill McGregor, of W. A. McGregor & Son, of Worton, Md., Toastmaster Anderson said he and his family had been associated with the very best of Angus cattle on the continent.

Speaking on "On Advertising The Field Bred Herd," McGregor said that advertising and selling were the hardest and most bothersome problems in the business and that the raising, breeding, and management of herds usually followed definite lines.

The Kent County (Md.) breeder pointed out that a certain proportion of the cattle was sold at auction sales and that the number sold at private treaty, or to the individual buyer, depended upon the breeder. The public auction, he explained, was fundamentally a show window, designed to establish price and quality standards.

Switching to advertising, McGregor said, "Most of us come up with the problem of selling the majority of our cattle." He qualified the advantages of advertising in the breed publications. Monthly advertising in such publications was all right for only big herds, he believed, but cattle selling from $400 to $600 warranted only minimum advertising in breed publications. The question of disposing of cattle in the lower brackets might be solved by hustling on the part of the breeder, McGregor thought, but added that on cattle in the $1000 bracket, written advertising was in order.

In giving tips on the writing of an advertisement, the breeder said it should be factual; must not be stereotyped (in other words, it should be original), and it must be short.

At public auctions, McGregor brought up, the seller was faced with another problem. While the promoter putting on the sale furnished a certain amount of advertising, the individual consignor might have to do some personal advertising, he believed.

Then, resorting to an old saw, the McGregor scion said, "It's my opinion that the most effective advertising is word-of-mouth. You must establish yourself as an honest and above-board seller of Angus cattle. You will get a reputation."

Know the Trend in Cattle

Lack of knowledge of the trend in cattle made it difficult for some (breeders) to advertise properly, the cattleman said, before adding that a knowledge of sales and what bloodlines were fashionable was essential.

Getting back to selling at public auction, McGregor urged it was most important that the best animals be consigned so the buyer would get a line on the quality of the whole herd.

He believed there was too much emphasis on public auction sales (where everyone consigns his stock) and pointed out that this might reduce the number of private auction sales (where one or more breeders get up their own sale). The person selling at the public auction, McGregor concluded, might not have had the experience of selling at private treaty and this would be detrimental in the event of hostilities or if the boom period ceases.

West Conducts Symposium

Russell West, fieldman for the Maryland Aberdeen-Angus Breeders Association, conducted a spirited symposium, as follows:

Q. Are high prices (of cattle) detrimental?

A. (West) They discourage the starting breeder.

(McGregor) As long as good beef is hard to get, the prices are justified.

Q. (Charles Stokes) Why do certain families manifest their seniority?

A. (West) Families originated in Scotland for identification. Very few families originated here. We've carried on this naming and you can argue this pro and cin. It always ends in the same thing—nothing. But they have been a means of bidding up prices at auctions. I think we might breed better cattle without them. The Hereford breeders have eliminated the families and they emphasize the individual.

(Clark) Stood up for families. Good breeders mean good quality. When you throw this tradition (of families) over, you are throwing over proven experience. "I think the value of families is infinite."

(West) Richards (Frank Richards, secretary of the national Angus association) takes no stand (on families).

(From the audience) Man is against families. Says present families have only a fraction of the original blood unless it has been bred back in from time to time.

(West) The combination of good families and good individuals and public demand bring the best prices, and we have to go along.

(McGregor) There are only seven Angus families. Most "families" are actually only branches. Became families after some outstanding animal had branch named after her. Must be an outstanding individual, despite the family.

Farmers Advised to Winterize Small Engines

With the approach of cold weather, farmers should give special attention to winterizing the engines on their farms.

According to Guy W. Gienger, associate extension agricultural engineer of the University of Maryland, practically all farmers are familiar with the importance of special winter protection for tractors, trucks, and automobiles that are used throughout the year. Briefly, this means changing oil more frequently, keeping the battery fully charged, and using only anti-freeze of an approved type.

However, Mr. Gienger states, greater attention should be given to winterizing small engines that are not normally used during the cold season. Such engines are found on combines, balers, spray rigs, garden tractors, and even lawn mowers. An engine that runs well today, he warns, may not be in operating condition next spring unless it is properly prepared for winter. This means more that draining the water from the engine and putting it in the shed.

Here, in a nutshell, is how you can winterize an engine: drain the oil and replace with new oil; clean the air cleaner and fill with clean oil; check the spark on spark plugs and breaker points; pour about two ounces of light oil in each spark plug hole; drain the gas tank, carburetor, radiator, and engine block; turn over the engine a few times, with the ignition off, to distribute the light oil around the valves and piston rings.

Additional information on winterizing farm engines can be obtained from county agricultural agents.

Electric Aids Keep Water Running In Wintertime

Exposed water pipes can be protected from freezing by wrapping them with electric heating tape or cable, according to a University of Maryland extension agricultural engineer. A. V. Krewatch points out that water is one of the most important items in maintaining high production in livestock and poultry. He says water can be kept flowing all winter with the help of thermostatically controlled heating aids.

The tape or cable can be attached to or spiralled around pipes and faucets. An automatic thermostatic control will give the greatest economy and efficiency. Kinks and overlapping must be prevented at points where outside wear or injury is likely to occur.

In pumping pits or other small enclosures, light bulbs, heat lamps, or heating cables may be used to prevent freezing of pipes or pumps.

There are electric immersion heaters for poultry fountains, automatic heated drinking cups for feed lots and de-icers for stock watering tanks. All these freeze chasers are designed to keep the farm water system in operation throughout the winter, Mr. Krewatch states.

Nine Year Potato Research Shows Startling Results

Nine years of research on late-planted potatoes has just been summarized by the plant pathology department at the University of Delaware. Dr. J. W. Heuberger, chairman of the department, said that in these nine years they have continuously tested fungicides on late-planted potatoes. Figures show that the yield of plants treated with Bordeaux mixture, fixed copper sprays, and zineb show a significant increase over untreated potatoes. The increase, over the untreated plants, are Bordeaux, 39 per cent; fixed copper, 29 per cent; and zineb (Dithane or Parzate), 66 per cent.

Said Heuberger, these figures show that good yields can be produced on fall potatoes in Delaware, once the disease problem is licked. Perhaps now, he commented, we can bring some of the fall potato acreage back to lower Delaware.

The fact that potatoes were seriously afflicted by late and early blight made them good research tools for screening and testing new fungicides, Heuberger explains. Each new fungicide, in its developmental state, is tested on late potatoes to determine (1) will it control disease? (2) is it safe? (3) will it increase yields?

Cancer Unit To Visit Felton and Bridgeville

The Mobile Cancer Detection Unit from the State Board of Health offers examinations to women 35 years of age and over. Cancer is a threat to any age, but especially between the ages of 35 and 55.

Pain is seldom an early symptom of cancer. Many women die needlessly every year because they didn't see their doctor soon enough. Periodic examinations will make diagnosis possible while treatment can cure.

The Cancer Detection Unit is staffed by a doctor, a nurse, and a clerk. It will be in Felton Mon., Nov. 26 from 10-12 a. m. and 1-3 p. m., and in Bridgeville Thurs., Nov. 29, at the same hours. Appointments can be made by calling Felton 4993 or Bridgeville 5524 or 2911.

Socially Speaking

By Pat Smith

The Women's Professional Club gave its Thanksgiving dinner Monday evening at the Wonder Bar.

The table was very attractive, candles in yellow and flowers decorated the table in fall berries. Everything in the Thanksgiving spirit.

The meeting was opened by hymn 83, "God of Our Fathers."

The dinner consisting of fruit cup, as appetizer; a turkey dinner was served and everything that goes to make a real dinner. Ice cream and coffee being served later.

After the dinner the minutes from the business meeting were read. A vote was taken, to change the date of their next meeting to the second Thursday of each month.

The most interesting talk was given by Phyllis Connor, about her trip to Paris, France, this past summer. To hear her was like traveling right along with her. How she explained each picture, the map, and the folders, was wonderful. Oh if I could only speak French like her. And such a good speaking voice. You wouldn't ever tire listening to her.

She came back with our "Life" magazine, some in French, some English. French menu, which looked alright, but what it said, ask Phyllis. I do know that fillet mignon was 550, so I asked her how much that was. Can you guess, $1.75. Here it would be about $4.50.

I think it would be very interesting for her, at the Youth Center, to give the same talk for the youngsters.

I know everyone at the club meeting along with me really enjoyed it.

There will be a fund drive Dec. 2 for the Youth Center. This is a very worthy cause, and everyone that can help please do so by giving whatever you can.

I want to thank Mrs. Evva Warrington and Janet for the invitation. Thanks Janet for everything.

Those attending were as follows:

Phyllis Connor, Mildred Minner, Edith Smith, Wanda Quillen, Marie Erne, Jeanne McDonald, Marian Moore, Carolyn Dill, Bernice Stayton, Viola Clendaniel, Merle Roth, Mary Hill, June Le-kites, Betty Lord, Rosella Humes, Leona Dickrager, Jeannette de Vroy, Margaret Bly was a guest. Mayor Rash, you should be proud of this club. Certainly an asset to Harrington.

10 More Trips to 4-H Club Congress Awarded

Ten more 4-H Club members in Maryland have been awarded trips to National 4-H Club Congress in Chicago, November 25-30, according to Mylo S. Downey, state boys club leader. This brings the total of Free State youngsters winning trips to the congress to 31. It is expected that more awards will be announced later.

Janice Anzulovic, 17, Berwyn, Prince Georges County, wins a trip to the national event in a special talent contest. A record of her voice was sent to Chicago and as a result she will sing at a breakfast program there November 29.

Joan B. Webber, 18, Elkton, has been named a red ribbon winner in the national health contest. Miss Webber, the Maryland 4-H health champion, also wins a trip to Chicago. Her award was announced previously.

Winning sectional or regional all-expense trips to Chicago are five club members. Their record of 4-H achievement was judged best of several states. Shirley A. Hoff, 17, New Windsor, Carroll County, winner in all-around achievement; Jack MacArthur, 18, Church Hill, Queen Anne County, meat animal winner; Grace McCall, 15, Fulton, Howard County, winner in frozen foods; B. David Patrick, 21, Woodbine, Howard County, soil conservation winner, and Barbara Ann Riggs, 19, Gaithersburg, Montgomery County, dairy achievement winner.

Newly-announced state winners who also receive all-expense trips are Kirk Breeden, 20, Fallston, in Harford County, winner in leadership; Dean Greene, 20, Rocks, Harford County, also a leadership winner; Robert Prigel, 19, Glen Arm, Baltimore County, meat animal winner; John S. Shank, 19, Keedsville, Washington County, winner in achievement.

Pathfinders Sunday School Class of Asbury Church

The Pathfinders Sunday School Class of Asbury Methodist Church will meet Friday evening, Nov. 30, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Peck assisted by Mr. and Mrs. Charles Peck Jr.

James Hopkins In Clubwork

James Hopkins, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Hopkins, of Vernon, presents concrete evidence that participation in clubwork pays off for farm boys.

A senior at Harrington High School and president of the FFA Chapter, James got his start two years ago when he won a Hereford gilt, originally owned by Billy Eliason, of Laws Church, in a drawing held by the Harrington chapter of Future Farmers of America. In time he bred the gilt to a Hereford boar owned by Melvin Algier, of Adamsville, giving Algier a pig from the litter as payment. Another pig, a gilt, was returned to the FFA chapter to raffle off again. James saved eight pigs from the first litter, kept three gilts for breeding, and sold three pigs as barrows.

Later he purchased a Hereford boar pig from a man at Houston for $35. He sold Willard Chev, who lives on the farm back of him, two gilts from the second litter and these now have pigs. The club member now has four sows, a boar and 11 young pigs and figures he has received, roughly speaking, $600 and $700 for his labor.

Hopkins also had other club projects this year. He got between 1100 and 1200 baskets of California Wonder sweet peppers from two acres and estimated his net at $300. He also raised five acres of U. S. 13 hybrid corn which averaged 45 bushels. This will be fed to his hogs.

Three years ago, James had a bit of luck, during the summer, when he tended 15,000 broilers on shares. The houses were located halfway between Harrington and Milford. James commuted from his home to the broiler houses on a motorbike. He made out very well on the deal and put it into an automobile.

Last summer a rented broiler house near Farmington at $25 per thousand birds and put in 5000. Newcastle disease got into his birds, however, and James thought he was lucky to break even.

Sheep Pastures Short; Need Extra Feed

A University of Maryland sheep specialist stated this week that he anticipated considerable trouble from the so-called "pregnancy" disease of sheep unless fall and winter pastures improve before lambing time. J. B. Outhouse, associate professor of animal husbandry, said that pastures have been short because of dry weather and sheep will have a difficult time getting enough to eat during the last months of pregnancy.

"Pregnancy" disease may be a result of nutritional deficiencies, Mr. Outhouse explained, and the pregnant ewe which does not have enough to eat, will draw on her own body reserves to supply the needs of the developing fetus. During the last month of pregnancy, the demands of the growing fetus are so great that she may literally starve herself to death if she doesn't have adequate pastures or supplemental feeds.

Mr. Outhouse says that legume hay is the most satisfactory supplemental roughage for sheep because it is well balanced in proteins, total digestible nutrients, minerals and vitamins. Sheep like silage for its succulence, but corn silage should be fed with legume hay to balance the ration. One or two pounds of hay to 3 or 4 pounds of silage is recommended. Grass silage alone can be used to supplement pasture until lambing time when hay and grain should be added, Mr. Outhouse says.

Starting a month before lambing, Mr. Outhouse suggests adding a half pound daily of grain such as whole shelled corn, barley or oats. After lambing the ewe will need a pound of grain daily to meet the additional requirements of lactation.

Carvel Appoints Commission to Promote Observance of Delaware Day

Observance of Delaware Day Dec. 7 was assured this week when Gov. Elbert N. Carvel announced the appointment of a new commission, with Dr. Harry V. Holloway, Dover, former State Superintendent of Schools, as chairman.

Other Delaware Day Commission members are Prof. Paul Dolan, political science instructor at the University of Delaware, and George T. Macklin, Milford, former principal of Bridgeville schools.

Dr. Holloway will work with Kent County on the observance, while Mr. Dolan will be in charge of New Castle County and Mr. Macklin will supervise the observance in Sussex County.

In a letter mailed to heads of all schools in the state and to leaders of chambers of commerce and service clubs, Dr. Holloway pointed out that Dec. 7, 1787, is the most important date in the history of Delaware.

"Our flag bears this date as a reminder of that fact," he said. "The action of the 30 deputies of the people of Delaware in ratifying the Constitution of the United States made Delaware the first state in the greatest union of states in the history of mankind."

Dr. Holloway pointed out that Gov. Richard C. McMullen approved an act authorizing the appointment of a commission to commemorate Delaware Day on May 15, 1939. Since that time, Dec. 7 of each year has been celebrated by commemorative programs by schools and other organizations. However, it is not listed a legal holiday in the state.

The newly appointed commission chairman pointed out that the Philadelphia Sons of Delaware had observed the day with an annual banquet for nearly 20 years before the adoption of legislation by the state. He said that it was through the initiative of E. Paul Burkholder, a Delaware rural school supervisor at the time, that brought about legal recognition of Dec. 7. Mr. Burkholder was a Pennsylvanian by birth.

Dr. Holloway is calling on all organizations and schools to "arrange a special program in which attention is called to some phases of Delaware history including the significance of this courageous and far-seeing act of our Delaware ancestors."

This year, it is hoped that special window displays in stores; special radio and newspaper features may be tied in with the observance. Since Dec. 7 has significance to veterans' organizations through the fateful attack on Pearl Harbor in 1941, they, too, are invited by Dr. Holloway to join in marking the joint observance.

One-Fourth Farms Use Bottled Gas

Liquefied petroleum gas is now bringing big-city household convenience and easier farming to one-fourth of the nation's farms, according to C. N. Cahall of Cahall's Gas Service Co., local L.P.-Gas dealer. This estimate, Mr. Cahall said, is based on a report issued recently by the Bureau of Agricultural Economics, U. S. Department of Agriculture, following a survey among 6000 crop reporters who use the fuel.

The government study showed that 90 per cent of the farmers who burned L.P.-Gas (also known as butane, propane, bottled and tank gas) in 1949 used it exclusively in their homes, while 7 per cent used it for both household and farm applications. The remaining 3 per cent employed it solely for agricultural purposes.

In farm households, the survey revealed, L.P.-Gas is widely used for cooking, water heating, refrigeration and house heating. Major farm applications among the mentioned in the poll were as a motor fuel, especially for tractor and large stationary engines, and for brooding chickens and dehydrating crops. In a number of states, large quantities are burned to supply power for pumping irrigation water.

Mr. Cahall also said their bottled gas business had doubled in the past five years over the preceding five years and that there was now over 7 1/2 million families in the United States using bottled gas which to him shows a definite trend toward gas.

71st Anniversary and Corner-Stone Laying To Be Observed By Greenwood Methodist Church

The Greenwood Methodist Church will observe its 71st anniversary of the founding of the church Sunday morning at 11 o'clock. The speaker will be the Rev. John L. Johnson, D. D. a former pastor and also a former district superintendent. There will be special music by the two choirs.

At 2:30 p. m. the cornerstone for the educational building will be laid. The building will be used for educational purposes. The first floor will be used for recreation and the second floor will have 11 class rooms. The speaker for the afternoon service will be the Rev. O. A. Bartley, D. D. district superintendent of the Dover District of the Peninsula Conference Methodist Church. Former pastors as well as neighboring ministers will assist in the afternoon cornerstone laying. The ladies of the church will serve lunch at 12:30.

The officials of the Greenwood Methodist Church invite its many friends, as well as former members who have moved away from Greenwood to worship with them this Sunday. Come and meet old friends, as well as new ones.

Farm Loans

It was Napoleon who said "an army marches on it's stomach." Today FOOD — and ever more food — is needed for our armed forces, our defense workers, our allies 'round the world. To meet this insistent demand, the American farmer is expanding his production—with new and improved equipment, new buildings, new methods. For the necessary financing to do this, we cordially invite him to come to us. We know his problems, understand his needs. We are prepared to go "all-out" to arrange the Farm Loan he requires with the PROMPTNESS that the times demand.

Gala Holiday Hits At Reese Theatre

"An American in Paris" to Play Sun., Mon., Tues., Nov. 25, 26, 27

Every effort is being put forth by the management of the Reese Theatre, located at Harrington, to present a two week long holiday festival of new hits.

On Thursday and Friday, Nov. 22 and 23, of this week, a gala Thanksgiving program is being offered. The most sensational picture ever produced "When Worlds Collide," is set for the feature slot, with Joe Sawyer and William Tracy in "As You Were," a side splitting comedy of army life completing the feature presentation. A holiday cartoon carnival is advertised as an extra added attraction.

According to the management, the all family show scheduled for Sat., Nov. 24, is one of the best yet presented.

Metro's greatest musical, "An American in Paris," plays this popular theatre Sunday, Monday and Tuesday, Nov. 25, 26 and 27. While big city theatres are playing this marvelous technicolor hit at advanced prices, Movie Center patrons will see it at REGULAR PRICES.

WHEELER RADIO STORE NEWS

Yes it is Thanksgiving and the last of that word spells Xmas. Do you enjoy giving? Surely it is one of the most precious things we can do.

When giving do you stop to think of the thing you are giving or do you just go and buy the cheapest you can get by with?

To my mind that is not giving but getting rid of something you don't want.

Now is it hard for you to select something that every member of the house will enjoy including yourself. Then let me put you wise and get that Philco television you have heard so much about and remember it isn't ears you need altogether it is eyes as well and oh boy sometimes those eyes are just not large enough to see all you would like to and on a small screen especially so take a tip from me and get that 17 or 20 inch screen and you are bringing in your home things that can only be had by television. I am very glad to be the one in this locality that is offering the TV that is taking the U.S. by storm. Well! Why not? It is a Philco and when you say Philco, you say the best. Just think of getting a 17 inch screen for only $199.95 tax included. How long will this price last? You have three guesses and I'll bet you all three will be wrong.

If you want a television see me now especially before Xmas as I am waiting right now and over sold on about a dozen.

Maybe we all don't like television or we have a near relative or one of our own family who would like a small radio.

Well bless your heart, we have them in almost any size you desire from $19.95 up.

You know a portable for that boy or girl would be one of the nicest things you could give and it will last them many years.

Do you husbands want to give your wife a present that will be a present ten years from now? Then I would suggest an Ironrite. I had just five and two of them are now sold for Xmas, which leaves three. Are you going to be one of the three when Xmas morning comes and your wife will say my dear husband you are the sweetest man on earth. Isn't that nice to hear? I'll say, even if it isn't down deep enough, still an Ironrite is really a thing most every woman wants especially if she does her own ironing and again it will give her more time to do her housework.

Prices are a little higher, extra tax added, but the difference is going to help win the peace which we are all hoping for.

While speaking of ironing, I have gotten the cart before the horse, as you must have your clothes washed before they need ironing. Well to tell you the truth with an automatic washer you do not consider it wash day, but a day of pleasure, as you can sit back read your magazine or sew or do the things you like while the Westinghouse Laundramat or Maytag automatic is churning and saying, My time is your time.

Of course everybody doesn't have running or plenty of hot water. Then of course I would suggest getting a wringer type and those we have also. Come in see the many advantages the newer ones have in fact even shuts themselves off when washing is completed.

I have been telling you about the cold just around the corner. Well as you all know it has not only got to the corner but has taken complete charge. What are you going to do about it? Nothing. But when you get a Washington Frogil oil burner you sit in the house and laugh at the outside.

Let your home be comfortable by installing an oil burner that is good looking as well as a good heater.

Of course this is not a very good time to talk about papering right here at a holiday but a word to the wise is sufficient as another one is not far off. Let's have our homes looking nice and inviting even if the turkey don't talk, it will taste better.

I hope you and yours will have a very pleasant and surprising goodness to its fullness. I personally am very grateful for the return of my daughter, Mildred, and her husband, Bill, from Greece after three long years.

Talk Peace Not War. The blade is above our heads and let each one of us try to keep it there.

Galvanizing is the process by which steel is coated with zinc. Galvanizing makes steel rust and corrosion resistant and gives long life to such necessary household items as ash cans, garbage cans pails and tubs.

"When Fire Was God!"
Proud of producing a fire by rubbing two sticks together, the ancient Babylonians named one of their gods, "Gebil," meaning stick of fire. A far cry indeed from today's convenient book match

Mr. and Mrs. Miller, of Bradford St., were called to Akron, O., to Mrs. Miller's father's funeral who died suddenly.

Guy Bailey was taken to Kent General Hospital Sunday night. We wish him a speedy recovery.

Mr. and Mrs. Silas Layton spent Tuesday with Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Scott.

It is almost time to observe another Thanksgiving Day. This year that which we should be most thankful for is our home and all it stands for in these years of fast changing values. In no other place can we find the mental and physical security that we find within the four walls of our home surrounded by all we love and all who love us. We in our land, have been most blessed for we have not yet lived to see our homes destroyed and our loved ones killed or scattered. Grant that we never shall! But let us not forget those in other lands who have not been so fortunate. Let us this Thanksgiving Day be thankful for our own home, but let us share in some small way, our blessed gift with those whom tragedy and sorrow have not passed by.

Visitors in the Silas Layton home the past week were Mrs. Gus Duerr, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Garrett, Mrs. Allan Garrett, Paul Stoddard, Mrs. Bertha Sapp, Mrs. Ida Harmoning and Garrett Rheil. Really feels like winter has come at last, our lowest was 20 above zero this morning.

Garrett Rheil, of Philadelphia, was a visitor in our town Saturday.

Ellendale

Miss Jeanette Willey visited friends in Harrington Saturday.

Mrs. Howard Wilson is seriously ill in the Delaware Hospital, Wilmington. Mrs. Wilson, before her marriage, was Miss Frances Coverdale, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Coverdale, of Lincoln. Her many friends wish her a speedy recovery.

Mrs. John Coverdale, of Lincoln, visited Mrs. Horace Willey and daughter Jeanette, Friday afternoon.

Frank Vadakin entertained guests on Sunday.

Mrs. Helen Davies, of town, was among the callers of Mrs. Joseph Short this week.

Horace Willey, who received several broken ribs at work Monday, is recuperating at his home on Main Street.

Bowers

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Forrest Sr. entertained at dinner Sunday the following guests, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hadley, of Salem, N. J.; Mr. and Mrs. Spencer Hoffman and Mrs. Luther Hoffman, of Philadelphia.

The Ladies Auxiliary held a bake at the fire house Saturday. The firemen were called out Sunday morning to a brush fire. No damage was done.

The friends of H. E. Jackson were sorry to hear he is in the Kent General Hospital. We are all wishing him a speedy recovery.

Mrs. Anna Banks spent the weekend in Seaford visiting friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Trice and Mr. and Mrs. Donald Wilkins of Milford, called on Mr. and Mrs. John Pleasant Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Purnell Powell, of Rising Sun, called on Mr. and Mrs. William Martin Sunday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Adams and Mrs. Bertha Williams called on Mr. and Mrs. Chester Mullen, of Dover, Sunday afternoon.

Presidential Shopper
Had you been a Washington housewife in the 1840's, you might have found yourself doing your marketing right next to the President of the United States. For, according to the World Book Encyclopedia, William Henry Harrison took his responsibilities as manager of the White House as seriously as his presidential duties. He insisted on doing all the food marketing for the mansion by himself—and, according to reports, was a thrifty shopper with an eye for bargains.

Tough Coal
Anthracite is an older and therefore harder coal than bituminous. The anthracite field is almost wholly confined to a small segment of northeastern Pennsylvania comprising about 480 square miles. In this small area there existed originally an estimated 23 billion tons; 5 billion tons have been mined and consumed. This coal, which is used mainly for house-heating purposes, is marketed in nearby states that lie along the Eastern seaboard. For every ton of anthracite mined each year we mine about 10 tons of bituminous.

Coatings of Synthetic Origin
The great majority of industrial finishes are almost wholly of synthetic origin. Even the natural products, such as vegetable oils, have been taken apart molecule by molecule and put back together again in a fashion that suits the needs of the protective coating technician better than the original substance produced by nature.

Rock of the Ages

Gypsum, a rock which lends itself to plastic manipulation, is one of the oldest of building materials. It was used as a plaster in the pyramid of ancient Egypt. Laws of ancient Rome urged the use of gypsum plaster as a fire-proofing agent. In modern home construction, gypsum is used for sheathing, lath, plaster, prefabricated interior wallboard, and as an insulation and/or vapor barrier when gypsum lath or wallboard is backed with aluminum foil.

Cooking Rice
Perhaps the American housewife should take a quick and simple rice cooking lesson from the Chinese, or the Japanese, or from any of the peoples of the world who cook rice daily as their basic food. The orientals waste neither time, effort, nutrition nor flavor in their quick and easy method of cooking rice. Their rice is perfect every time—white, fluffy, individual grains, with all of the delicious, delicate flavor and rich, wholesome nutrition of the original white rice grains.

Train Wheels
Does part of the wheel of a moving train stand still for a moment as it touches the rails? Yes, if there is no slippage. A point on the rim of the wheel is traveling at twice the train speed when it is on top, and is stationary for an instant when at the bottom in contact with the rail face. A point on the edge of the flange, which extends beyond the rim, is actually moving backwards for a brief period as it passes below the top of the rail.

Eye Strain
How can you tell if your child is suffering from eyestrain? Some of the common indications are: redness of the eye membranes, irritation of the lids, poor appetite, holding of the head in odd positions, fatigue, sickness, and headache, according to the Better Vision Institute. If the child is troubled with eyestrain, he will not "outgrow" it, as some parents think. Corrective measures must be taken, under professional guidance.

Portable Pin Cushion
During vacation time a wise traveler becomes Scotch about packing and luggage space. To conserve valuable room in milady's suitcase, stick needles, pins, and pen points into the thick torn stub end of an empty matchbox. Saves space prevents accidents.

Eye Diseases
An estimated 800,000 people over 40 are losing sight from an eye disease called glaucoma and yet do not know it. To inform these people of their danger, the National Society during 1950 conducted an intensified campaign of public education, stressing the importance of knowing symptoms of eye disease and where to go for treatment.
