Ole Kris to Usher In The Holiday Season Tomorrow Afternoon

High School Band to Lead Parade Escorting Ole Kris; City Is Gaily Decorated

Santa Claus is coming to town. Yeah man! He'll be in Harrington tomorrow afternoon, rain or shine. He'll ride with Leonard Harrington, city councilman, in the latter's sleigh, as he has done in past years. If it doesn't snow, the sleigh will be drawn on wheels by Ole Dobbin.

Ole Kris will enter the City's domain at Peoples Service Station on U. S. 13 at 1:45 p. m. and will be the guest of honor in a parade headed by the band of Harrington High School under the direction of Melvin Brobst.

The king of the northland will be escorted to his house adjacent to the Ernest Raughley Insurance Service at Commerce and Fleming Streets where apples and oranges will be given to the kiddies. This fruit, furnished by the American Legion, will be given out every Saturday afternoon until Christmas. On Christmas Eve Santa will distribute bags with candy, fruit, and nuts to the children.

Needy families will again be remembered with baskets of groceries furnished by the Harrington Lions Club.

A Christmas tree will be erected at the corner of the Post-office by Edward Taylor and assistants, while the business district and some outlying sections will be decorated with colored lights and laurel under a committee headed by Raymond Giles.

Santa Claus' hours in town will be from 2 p. m. to 4:30 p. m., and 6:30 p. m. to 8:30 p. m., every Saturday. He will also be here Christmas Eve before he makes his journeys with his reindeers over the roof-tops to distribute presents to all little boys and girls.

Samuel A. Short Jr., chairman of the Christmas program committee, said that prizes would again be awarded for the best-decorated homes. The awards will be $25, $20, $10, and $5. Last year the awards went to Bailey Minner, Horace Quillen, Herman Minner, and Leonard Minner, respectively.

The Christmas program is being sponsored by the Harrington Better Business Association, the American Legion, the Lions Club, and the Rotary Club, with participation also by other civic groups.

A meeting of the Christmas program committee will be held tonight at 8 o'clock at Taylor Hardware Store. All members are requested to be present, especially as it is desired to take their picture for publication in the Christmas edition of The Harrington Journal.

Greenwood Men Wear Millinery To Publicize "Crazy Daze"

Do not be alarmed if you see members of the Greenwood Fire Company going about their business, topped with beautiful millinery creations. It's all part of the general fun and merriment in advance of the hilarious visit of "Crazy Daze" to Greenwood.

The famous comedy success hit is being presented at Greenwood high-school auditorium this evening and tomorrow evening under the auspices of the Greenwood Volunteer Fire Company.

The laughs and fun which these "latest" hats, on the heads of Greenwood businessmen, provoke, are only an indication of what is in store for the large audience expected at the showing of the riotous comedy.

We are looking forward to our investment program Dec. 1. We cordially invite friends to come and meet with us on this Sabbath. It will be interesting to hear some of the plans that were carried out this past summer and how the Lord blessed our efforts for him.

Old Time Horse Trader Passes From the Scene With the Death of I. F. Wyatt

With the death of Isaac Fountain Wyatt, 81, Wed., Nov. 21, at his home on West Street, one of the old-time horse traders disappears from the rapidly changing scene. He had been in poor health for many months.

Mr. Wyatt was born near Masten's Corner and was the son of Isaac and Sara Callaway Wyatt. He is survived by three sisters, Mrs. Mina Kessler and Mrs. Willie Greenlee, both of Harrington, and Mrs. Nora Sheatz, of Atlantic City, and a daughter, Mrs. Beulah MacNeir, of Riverside, N. J.

Funeral services were held at the Boyer Funeral Home Saturday in charge of the Rev. Grier Baker, pastor of Pilgrim Holiness Church. He was buried in Holywood Cemetery.

In his earlier days, Mr. Wyatt was a horse trader. He was particularly interested in trotters and pacers and raced them on the town's first track, at the end of Milby Street, against Sol Sapp, Elbert Saunders, John Sheldrake and others. Years ago, he was frequently seen out in the country with a jog cart. At Masten's Corner, Mr. Wyatt used to race on the Mile Lane, a stretch of road extending from the crossroads a mile toward Harrington.

When he lived in Harrington, the octogenarian took part in sleigh races on Commerce Street from the Trinity Methodist Episcopal Church to the west end of the street.

In his career as a horse trader, he used to work with the late Fountain Billings Sr. He attracted attention with the large ponies he bought for driving purposes.

Chief of Police John Meyers said this week he would issue a warrant for the detention of Floyd Flamer, Negro, on a charge of breaking and entering a Harrington business house, after he is released from the Kent County Jail where he is serving a sentence on an automobile theft charge.

Chief Meyers said Flamer, who escaped from the jail Fri., Nov. 16, and who was recaptured the following Monday in North Carolina, was observed, after his return, with clothing stolen from P & Q Cleaners on the night of the day he escaped from jail. The clothing, two pairs of trousers and a plaid shirt, were identified by Hayward Quillen, owner of the establishment, and Charles Price, an employe.

Flamer also escaped from the county jail last June, but was recaptured within an hour.

Trinity Methodist Church Notes

Prof. Trueblood tells us that "Peace of mind is not found by (a) reading a book about it; or (b) by seeking it directly; but (c) by throwing ourselves into something" that transcends our own age. Why shouldn't that something be the church, especially when you think of the crowd of witnesses which surrounds her now; and that makes up that long procession as it marches down through the ages? Why not resolve to enter that procession now before the old year rolls out?

Come at 7:30 p. m. and hear our Men's Chorus. The pastor will preach on "Life Without—Death Within"; using Ezekiel 24:23. Our young people will have charge of the service.

Doris Black is the leader in the Youth Meeting at 6:30 p. m. in the Church Annex.

C. Kenneth Roper, of Dover, one of the members of that grand organization known as "The Gideons," will speak to us at 11 a. m. Our Senior Choir will sing in this service.

We shall meet you and greet you at 9:45 a. m. when the delightful religious and social hour of the Sunday School begins.

Monday and Tuesday Evening: Last two sessions of our Training School in Milford.

Monday Evening: Loyal Workers Bible Class Christmas party.

Tuesday Evening: The regular monthly meeting of the Women's Society of Christian Service.

Wednesday Evening: The regular monthly meeting and Christmas party of the M. Y. F.

Thursday Evening: Rehearsal of choirs.

Next Sun., Dec. 9: Our 70th anniversary; special services morning and evening.

Man Dies of Burns After Auto Collision

Earwin Price, 25, of Eden, Md., died Monday morning in Milford Memorial Hospital from burns, following an automobile accident early Sunday morning on U. S. 13, just north of town. Price, with three other persons, all of whom were sent to the hospital, was trapped in a blazing automobile when an exploding gasoline tank set the canvas top of their convertible ablaze after a collision.

State police, volunteer firemen, and passing motorists stripped the blazing clothing from the automobile passenger, following the accident, after they first pulled him from the driver's seat of the flaming automobile.

Price, suffering from first, second, and third degree burns of the entire body, also suffered severe lacerations of the scalp.

Others injured in the crash, all passengers in the same car, were: Betty Price, 25, also of Eden, burns of the face and hands; John Franklin Billings, 23, of RD 1, Delmar, lacerations; Rosetta Billings, 18, also of near Delmar, lacerations of the face and possible fracture of the right leg. The two men were taken to the Milford Hospital and the women victims were removed to the Kent General Hospital in Dover.

Two unidentified women riding in the other car involved in the accident, suffered minor burns of the leg but did not require hospital treatment.

State police at Bridgeville said the accident happened two-tenths of a mile north of Harrington on Route 13, with both cars traveling south.

One vehicle, a sedan, was operated by William Walter Rideout, 33, of 110 Yarnall Street, Chester, Pa., was followed by the convertible operated by Billings, traveling at a high rate of speed, state troopers said.

Gas Tank Ripped Open

They explained that the convertible came up behind the sedan and crashed into the rear of it, ripping the gasoline tank of the first car and sending a spray of flaming gas onto the inflammable top of the convertible.

The latter automobile careened off into a field as its occupants tried desperately to get out of the car and escape the flames. All but Price succeeded before they suffered serious burns. Volunteer firemen from Harrington said several persons were beating out the flames in Price's clothing when they arrived.

Rideout and Billings were taken to the hospital in the Harrington ambulance. The two women were removed from the scene by a motorist. Billings was under examination to determine if he suffered a skull-fracture. Firemen reported that both vehicles were demolished. The only person to escape injury in the convertible was William Earl Price, of Millsboro, a relative of the victim and the woman.

Funeral services for Price were held Wednesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Raymond Joseph, of Lowes Cross Roads, near Georgetown. The Rev. James Langrell, pastor of Gumboro Methodist Episcopal Church, officiated. Interment was in Greenwood Cemetery.

Price was the son of Clyde and Mary Handy Price, of Lowes Cross Roads. He was a veteran of World War II. In addition to his parents, he is survived by his widow, Mrs. Betty Blinnings Price, of Eden; two sisters: Mrs. Alice Huffman of Bridgeville, and Mrs. Bonnie Huffman, of Laurel, and four brothers, Wayne, William, Hobert, and Robert, all at home.

H. H. S. Seniors to Present Play This Evening

The senior class of Harrington High School will present its annual play, "It's A Date," a three-act comedy, in the auditorium at 8:01 p. m. today.

The play is based on a date with Austin Farrell. Much confusion develops when he is forced to break a date with Linda and takes her arch rival, Diana Gordon, with whom he had a quarrel that morning. Linda, encouraged by the colored maid, Queenie, and her magic charms, vows never to make another date. Then, other complications set in when Linda encourages Hal Montgomery to run for class president.

There is a surprise ending for all the characters in which Linda upsets the conniving Diana's plans.

The cast of characters are as follows:

Queenie (colored maid) Marie Hopkins; Nadine Wilson (a high school freshman) Joyce O'Neal;

Mary Rogers (a troubled mother) Betty Bradley; Linda Rogers (sixteen) Patsy A. Billings; Kay Phillips (sophisticated seventeen) Shirley Hudson; Ilka Marsh (her friend) Millie A. Minner; Valerie Rogers (Linda's older sister) Ann Toppin; George Rogers (Linda's and Valerie's father) James Hopkins; Hal Montgomery (a forgotten football hero) Maurice Willey; Buz Stevens (a tuba tooter) Jack Carpenter; Diana Gordon (the school siren) Rhea Smith; Austin Farrell (the object of Linda's affection) George Graham; Jay Bishop (the boy who dates Valerie) Donald Sapp; Patsy Fisher (a member of the Dark Secret Club) Elizabeth A. Greenly; Shirley Yeats (another member) Martha Gruwell.

The senior class wishes to announce that tickets are now on sale. They can be obtained from any member of the senior class or may be purchased at the door.

with the Lions Club signifying its willingness to head the support for the movement, J. Edward Taylor, club president, appointed Ernest E. Killen, collector of internal revenue, chairman of a committee, also composed of Charles Peck Jr., and John Walls, to work on the project. This group will solicit representatives from other civic groups to meet with the festival committee in Harrington in a few days to ascertain the community's interest in staging the event at the Kent & Sussex Fairgrounds and the requirements of the project. The festival committee is expected to announce the place and date of the poultry event Tuesday.

Killen, who was approached by the committee, told the Lions, and representatives of some other civic groups present at the meeting, "It looks like Harrington is the most favorable spot this year." Calling the festival "strictly big league," he enumerated the advantages of the fairgrounds and added that some group was needed to head the support of the festival if it came here. "All groups (civic clubs) would have to take a part," he said, as he told of the duties of securing accommodations for the food editors, radio announcers, and legislators who would attend the event.

The revenue collector said the festival group expressed interest in the fairgrounds and liked the idea of staging the parade, a feature of the event, at night on the race track. Heretofore, the parade, has not been held under lights. The sage in the infield at the track was mentioned as an ideal spot for the beauty pageant which accompanies the festival.

While the festival committee does most of the work, with its finance committee soliciting most of the funds, Killen explained that the business district of Harrington must be decorated, and from funds donated by the community.

Mayor E. B. Rash said, "Well, it's all new." He thought community representatives should meet with the festival committee "to see what we are getting into." He declared he would have to wait until the City Council held its regular monthly meeting Monday night to see what part the city would take in backing a festival, but added he did not think it could legally afford financial support to an enterprise held outside the city limits. "Some of these taxpayers keep a close eye on how the money is spent," he explained.

Samuel A. Short Jr., president of the Harrington Better Business Association, believed the merchants would co-operate with the Lions. He said he would like to see the festival come here and that it would be a big boost for the community.

The Delmarva Chicken Festival has been held at Georgetown, Dover, and Salisbury to publicize the peninsula's broiler industry. Features of the event, taking three days, also include chicken cooking contests for juniors and adults, and a beauty queen contest.

The committee in charge of the annual Delmarva Chicken Festival would like to know if Harrington is interested in being host for the event next summer, it was divulged Monday night at the regular meeting of Harrington Lions Club at the Wonder Bar.

FIFTEEN RULES FOR SUCCEEDING IN BUSINESS

1. You could get a discount of 2 per cent on the bills from your supply house by paying them before the 10th of the month, but do not do it; make the supply house wait a month or two for the money. They will appreciate it more and will be sure to remember you if there is a shortage of goods. Furthermore, there's no reason why you should borrow money from the bank when you can use that of your creditors.
2. Close your place during noon hour when you step out for lunch. You can put a sign on the door saying you will be back in 15 or 20 minutes and the customer will wait. He has no business calling on you during noon hour, anyway.
3. If you promise to have a job ready for a customer at a given time, make him wait a little while. He will not wait so long the next time before ordering.
4. If the customer is dissatisfied with the work you do for him, tell him he is all wet. After all, you have been in the business for years and are expert in the field. This old stuff about the customer being always right is a mess of hokey.
5. If you run a meat market, put your thumb on the scale when you weigh an order. After all, the customer expects it and you will not want to disappoint him. Furthermore, he will respect a smart business man.
6. If you sell an item and a customer comes into the store and asks for only one of the item, do not say, "How many?" Just give him one. If he had wanted more, he would have said so.
7. Boost the other merchants in your home town, but if you can buy an item cheaper elsewhere, by all means do it. After all, a penny saved is a penny gained.
8. When the Christmas season approaches, do not keep your place of business open nights. Let your customer buy what he wants in the daytime. You like to have your evenings free, too.
9. Do not keep regular hours in the store; if you feel like going home early, do so. It's your business, isn't it?
10. When you are asked to take part in community work, say you are too busy.
11. Above all, don't advertise. You have been in the same old stall for years and people know it. If they want to know whether or not you have an item, they will come in to see.
12. Do not keep a complete stock. There is little demand for some items and you will be forced to wait a long time for your money. Let the customer go somewhere else for it.
13. If some of your customers are slow in paying, don't dun them for the money. You might antagonize them, causing them to take their trade elsewhere.
14. Work only 40 hours per week. After all, the 40-hour week is an accepted practice nowadays and there is no reason why you should not take advantage of it.
15. Tell your customer, if he inquires as to the state of business, when business is bad. He is sure to feel sorry for you and will help you along.

Waiting for an automobile driver to make a left turn into Delaware Avenue from Clark Street has its disadvantages for the motorists. About 8:30 p. m. Saturday night such a driver had traffic back of him extending onto the railroad track. The alarm at the crossing ran, but the driver held his position, but not for long. The car back of him bumped him forward, to permit a car to get off the crossing, away from an oncoming locomotive. Said the driver of the car which did the bumping: "There's a railroad track back there."

LOOKING AHEAD

By Samuel A. Short, Jr. Harrington, Del.
Be not wise in your own conceit. Be humble in spirit from Heaven above.
For riches of honors is man's one aim,
By looking ahead for God's great love.
There's a Golden Rule for everyone, And a job for us all to do, 'tis said.
It's easy if one lives right, If each day you're looking ahead.
One needs the background of God, To face each set back of life. The unrealized hopes of this earth's sod.
To make them strong in this world's strife.
There's some shifting of duties we find each day, With burdens we bear we sometimes dread.
For progress we make along life's highway, That makes one better while looking ahead.

First-Notice Draft Eligibles, Can Join Navy

Lt. Comdr. J. W. Mason Jr., of the Philadelphia Navy recruiting district announced today, "Men who have received their notice to report for their preinduction physical examination, or who have been examined, but have not yet received their orders to report for induction, still have until Nov. 30 to enlist in the Navy, if they so choose."
This regulation, permitting the enlistment of men into the Navy after they have received their first notices from selective service has been a temporary measure, promulgated to allow young men of military age to choose their branch of service; however, reliable sources indicate that no extensions of this special provision will be made after the deadline, Nov. 30.
For this reason, Lt. Comdr. Mason urges all young men who prefer to serve in the United States Navy to go immediately to their local Navy Recruiting Station in the American Legion Hall, Dover.

Vets Can Collect If Overcharged On Housing

Because of a new law allowing treble damages against those who knowingly overcharge or connive in overcharging a veteran for a home bought with a GI loan, Veterans Administration today again warned veterans, builders, lenders and real estate dealers against the consequences of demanding "side payments" or participating in overcharge deals in connection with such sales.
Under the loan provisions of the GI Bill, any payment for a home over and above VA's appraisal of "reasonable value" is prohibited, and criminal statutes provide fines up to $1000 and prison terms up to one year for willful violation of the law. Veterans who conspire to evade the law also risk permanent loss of their rights under all veterans' laws.

Now, for the first time, Public Law 142, approved September 13, 1951, allows the court to order reimbursement of the veteran by assessing the seller three times the amount of the overcharge, plus costs and attorney's fees.
A veteran who discovers he has been overcharged may bring suit in any Federal District Court against the person or persons responsible, and the treble damages, if awarded, are payable to the veteran.
Where an overpayment is discovered and the veteran fails to institute and prosecute action against the violator within 30 days after discovering the overcharge, the Attorney General is authorized to bring suit in the name of the United States. The Attorney General also may initiate action at the request of the veteran. In such cases one-third of the amount recovered is paid to the veteran and the balance goes into the treasury.
V-A said that any lender who submits a loan to V-A for guaranty while possessing knowledge of a side payment in connection with the sale—even though the payment was made to a third party other than the lender—may be suspended from further participation in the GI loan program. Also, the V-A guaranty issued in connection with the transaction may be invalidated.

In cases where there is any reason for doubt, V-A suggested that lenders obtain a signed statement from the veteran-purchaser that he is making no payment to anyone in excess of the disclosed purchase price.
V-A said veterans should remember that the provision of the GI Bill, stipulating that the selling price to the veteran may not exceed the appraised reasonable value, was placed in the law for their own protection against over-priced properties.
A veteran who seeks to circumvent this provision by making an illegal side payment is only working against his own best interests, V-A added.

FARM NEWS AND REVIEW

The Outlook For Dairying Is Good

Dairy farmers looking ahead are pleased with the prospect of more profitable production in the future. Fluid milk consumption is on the increase—why wouldn't it be with population increasing so fast that there are about 5400 new consumers at the nation's breakfast tables each morning! Estimates are that this rapid population increase will keep on for many years. People are drinking more milk than they did when incomes were lower. This high purchasing power will probably continue since consumer wages should remain high in relation to the cost of milk and milk products they'll buy.

Dairy cow numbers are down; so is milk production. In fact, the first half of 1951 showed a decrease of 750 million pounds from the same period last year. Some milk that ordinarily would be going into manufactured dairy products has had to be diverted into the fluid market.

Yes, the dairy picture looks bright for the dairyman who operates efficiently. Even in good times, there just isn't any room for the inefficient producer. To make the most of good future markets, a dairyman should raise his own well-bred herd replacements, improve his pasture and hay land, feed, manage and cull his herd carefully and make good use of his own time.

Unless farmers grow well-developed herd replacements, their cows will not be big enough to produce all the milk good breeding has built into them. Growing big cows starts with a careful feeding, management and sanitation program during the cow's dry period. Then the calf should be grown rapidly on a ration containing all of the nutrients, vitamins and minerals known to be necessary for fast growth and development. When grown rapidly and properly developed, heifers can be bred at an earlier age and will be in the milking herd making profits for their owner months before those raised in the usual manner. Since they need not rob so much feed from the milking ration to complete their growth, they can produce several thousands of pounds more milk in their first lactations.

Another way that good dairymen can take advantage of the improving outlook for dairying is to breed more cows to freshen during the fall and early winter months. Not only do fall freshening cows produce more milk, but the greatest part of their lactation comes during the period of seasonally high milk prices.

Building for future profits must include a good roughage program. Hay, pasture and other roughages make up almost 75 per cent of a cow's ration during the milking period. Too many farmers spend their valuable time raising the smallest part of the ration, the concentrates, when time and land could be used more profitably producing high quality roughage.

Keeping good cows in the milking herd for a greater number of years is still another way to increase dairy profits. The more years a good cow is kept in the milking herd the higher profits will be because the cost of replacements is spread over a longer period. Cows fed well-balanced rations, and managed properly live longer and produce at a higher rate resulting in a greater life-time profit per cow.

Yes, the dairy outlook seems bright for the efficient farmer who uses his time wisely, and makes sound, long range improvements in his breeding, sanitation, management and feeding programs.

Pathfinders Sunday School Class Notes

The Pathfinders Sunday School Class of Asbury Methodist Church will meet at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Peck Friday evening, Nov. 30. Mr. and Mrs. Charles Peck Jr. will assist them.

Middletown Man Starts Angus Herd

C. M. Cochran Jr., of Middletown, recently got a start in the breeding of registered Angus cattle when he purchased foundation stock, 10 heifers and a bull, from Wye Plantation, Queenstown, Md., according to James R. Lingle, manager of the plantation.

The cattle are from the time-honored Ballinalloch Blackbird, Pride of Aberdeen, Queen Mother, and Duchess of Lady Brook families, and carry a heavy concentration of imported Scotch blood.

Grass Silage Doesn't Equal Corn Silage Feed Value

Grass silage just isn't the same as corn silage. Legume or legume-grass mixtures have more protein, but do not have as much energy value as good corn silage.

John L. Crothers, assistant county agricultural agent, says farmers should remember this if they switch to grass silage. If grass silage is fed heavily, a low protein concentrate should be used, but extra roughage or grain should be fed. This extra feed will boost the energy content of a grass silage feeding program to where it should be, says Crothers. It is also needed to keep up body weight. The grain mixture can be made up entirely of farm grains.

If you want to go heavy on grass silage feeding, Mr. Crothers recommends feeding it after both milkings. Give the cows enough to last two to four hours. If you cut down on silage, boost hay. Then feed the silage shortly after morning milking. Under reduced silage feeding, Crothers advises keeping hay in front of the cows most of the time. Another problem with grass silage is that cows may not like it at first. It is not as palatable as good corn silage, but in time the cows will get used to it.

Delaware 4-Hers Owe Chicago Trips to Industry

Delaware's delegation of 16 state award winners is now in Chicago, representing the Diamond State at the National 4-H Club Congress. All 48 states, Hawaii, Puerto Rico, and 17 foreign countries are represented there. Total attendance of boys and girls and 4-H leaders exceeds the 1600 mark.

These annual trips are made possible by various industrial and commercial organizations. They award trips and scholarships to young people all over the nation. This year's delegates, from their winning project, and the company sponsoring their trip are: Betty Ann Carey, Bridgeville, clothing, Spool Cotton Co.; Norma Jane Adams, Bridgeville, canning, Kerr Glass Manufacturing Corp.; Sealina Bell, Dover, girl's record Montgomery Ward & Co.; Alice Mary Dennison, Yorklyn, dress review, Simplicity Pattern Co.; Beverly Short, Cheswold, food preparation, Nash-Kelvinator Corp.; Joseph Workman, Delmar, garden, Allis-Chalmers Mfg. Co.; Russell Layton, Laurel, poultry, Dearborn Motors Corp.; Robert Whaley, Laurel, tractor maintenance, Standard Oil Company; William Hartzel, Bridgeville, field crops, International Harvester Mfg. Co.; Byron Williams, Dover, farm and home electric, Westinghouse Educational Foundation; William Hawkins, New Castle, home improvements, Sears, Roebuck and Company.

Samuel Gwinn, state 4-H Club leader, and Mrs. Lillian Wilkins, leader of the Bridgeville Live Wires Club, will chaperon the group. Mrs. Wilkins was chosen because of her outstanding 18-year record as a 4-H Club leader. She has had 100 per cent completion of projects in her club for the past three years.

Guard Fruit Trees Against Mice

Now is the time to take a walk through your orchard and for signs of mice. Surface runways, holes, underground burrows and small mounds of fresh earth are good signs that pine and meadow mice are at work.

Thousands of fruit trees in both commercial and home orchards are killed by mice each year, says John L. Crothers, assistant county agricultural agent. As soon as frost kills grass and plants, mice move down to tree roots and trunks.

Young fruit trees, less than 6' in diameter, can be protected by wrapping the trunks with hardware cloth, tar paper, burlap, or magazine covers. Set the material into the ground, down to the top of the tree's root crown. These guards should be at least eight inches high, and about seven inches in diameter.

A clean space extending about 2 feet from the trunk, will help discourage mice.

Trapping will work if you have a small orchard. Place ordinary snap mouse traps in the surface runways. A small bit of apple or a little oatmeal makes good bait. About three or four traps around each tree are needed.

In large orchards, says Crothers, trapping is too much work, and will never do the job. A poison bait program is usually necessary if mice are "extraplentiful."

Hort Meeting Points Up Changes In Chemical Uses

The majority of the speakers at the Peninsula Horticultural Society, Salisbury, Md., Dec. 6-7, will discuss the use of chemicals in harvesting, disease and insect control, and fertilization. Modern chemicals used on the farm are far more complicated and selective in their action than old type insecticides, fungicides, and fertilizers.

Robert F. Stevens, extension horticulturist at the University of Delaware, and secretary of the society, says, "Old type chemicals were made of few materials, and were characterized by general use for many things."

"The new type chemical represents an amazing variety of materials, and is often characterized by one specific use, sometimes for one crop only. This entails much study and work for vegetable and fruit producers. Up-to-date research findings become important as the producers' job becomes more complex."

Some of the talks dealing with chemicals to be given at the meeting are: nutrient foliage sprays; growth substances; potassium, magnesium, and boron utilization by sweet potatoes; asparagus production; weed control; new insecticides for bean beetle control; disease control in tomatoes; reducing nematode damage; use of 2, 4, 5-Tp and other growth substances to control apple drop; and parathion, benzene hexachloride, and dieldrin in Delaware's spray schedule.

W. S. C. S. of Asbury Church to Hold Covered Dish Supper

Tuesday evening, Dec. 4, at 6:30 o'clock, the W. S. C. S. of Asbury Methodist Church will hold a covered dish supper as its annual Christmas party to which every member of the society is urged to attend.

Following the supper a business meeting and a short program will be presented. Every member is asked to bring a gift for a child marked as to the age and sex of the child for which it is intended marked on the package to be sent to the Riddle Memorial Deaconess Home, Wilmington, as has been the custom for several years.

Muskkrat Season To Open Soon

The season on muskrats in Kent and Sussex Counties will open Sat., Dec. 15, and continue until March 10, according to Thomas N. Stayton, chief warden of the Board of Game and Fish Commissioners. The season on otter and mink, throughout the state, will open tomorrow and continue until March 10. The muskrat season in New Castle County will be open a like period, with continuation to March 20 on embanked meadows and marshes.

OPS NEWS

Competition from the Thanksgiving gobbler, together with a number of other factors, have resulted in adequate supplies of all types of fresh meat—beef, veal, pork and lamb.

According to Joseph J. McBryan, regional director of the Office of Price Stabilization, this adequacy includes top grades of round steak and chuck roasts, with more than enough of the other grades of beef and fresh pork.

Meanwhile, meat prices to the housewife continue to drop, and McBryan expects will remain at lower-than-ceiling prices in view of the record number of cattle and hogs on the nation's farms in the feeding lots.

As an indication that cattle supplies are above normal, McBryan cited the four and half per cent drop in a single week in the price of cattle at the Chicago market.

Imports of beef and pork products have increased at record rates also, with beef importations so far this year, already 60 per cent above last year's total.

Pork imports are at record highs, and is one of the reasons for the 20 per cent drop in hog prices in this country within recent months.

Although slightly higher prices for some groceries are forecast, housewives can look forward to lower prices for many canned food, including vegetables, salmon, shrimp, tuna and bonito, peanut oils, and tomatoes in all forms.

Plenty of Meat
OPS foresees plenty of all kinds of meat, with many below ceiling prices. Record number of cattle and hogs this year is given as the principal reason.

Repeat Overcharges
Price control violators paid the U. S. Treasury over $64,000 during October. Some 21,000 price violation cases were pending as of November 1, OPS reported.

To Price Autos
A special OPS order fixing prices of every make of passenger automobile is on its way. Included will be safeguards against forced sales of unwanted extras, OPS said.

To Peg Soap Prices
OPS will peg soaps and detergents at their present low prices, the agency announced this week. Lower tallow ceilings will accompany the order, so as to hold soap prices in line.

Limit Bread Prices
A new ruling by OPS limits baked goods prices to not more than 11 per cent above 1949 levels. Recent price changes for ingredients, some of them down, are reflected in the regulation, it was said.

A Big Job
There are 11 million business establishments in the nation. In administering price controls, OPS deals with most of them.

OPS ANSWERS
The Office of Price Stabilization is a part of your government. It will gladly answer any questions you may have about inflation and price regulations. Send your questions to this newspaper or direct to the OPS Distributive Office at Philadelphia, Pittsburgh, Erie, Camden, Wilmington.

J. I. Can see how retail ceiling prices in the stores can help stabilize my household costs, but just what do the OPS manufacturers' regulations do for the consumer?

A. The numerous ceiling price regulations controlling prices of manufactured goods may be unseen like the foundation of your house. These regulations provide a broad base at the point where prices start. In this way, the ultimate consumer, the store, the wholesaler and the producer himself are assured that the price of all of the things that go into finished articles are stable.

Q. Can you tell me why OPS recently raised the ceiling price on fresh and cured beef briskets?

A. This revision in ceiling prices was made to encourage retailers to continue to sell boneless briskets, which is popularly sold in the form of corned beef. New cutting tests established that briskets cut ceilings did not permit retailers to realize as much on boneless brisket as they did on unbonded briskets. After the price revision, ceilings on these cuts remained about 17 cents a pound lower, deckle on, and 4 cents lower, deckle off, than they were before the October 1 ceiling prices went into effect.

Farm Policy Review Is Anti-Government Expansion

The Farm Family Policy Review conducted in Delaware shows that Delaware farmers are, at present, against expansion in the services of the U. S. Department of Agriculture.

The state report includes the main points of country reports, made by county agricultural mobilization committees. Thirteen community meetings, with a total attendance of 404 persons, were held.

In general, said Ernest S. Matti-ford, chairman of the state agricultural mobilization committee, county reports expressed opposition to: (1) Direct payments to farmers, in order to assure producers adequate returns, and (2) the power of the USDA to acquire lands.

Two county reports, Kent and Sussex, expressed opposition to any expansion in facilities of the USDA at this time, but felt that the various departments should continue as they are.

Cutting Corners

Greener Pastures And Corn Contest Winners Named

Kent County's farmers were in for their share of glory at the state-wide awards dinner on Nov. 20. In the Greener Pastures Contest the Kent winners were: 1st, Alvin Allen, Camden; 2nd, Merrill Jones, Felton; and 3rd, Virgil Pizer, Wyoming. Other participants in the greener pastures program who received an award of "Good" or better are as follows: Excellent rating—Samuel Beachy, Isaac Thomas; very good rating, Robert E. Schreiner, Pippin Bros., Maurice Adams, George Robbins and Walter Massey; good rating, Francis Thomas, William Vanderwende, William Bowdle, W. Fred Rickards and Harvey Warner.

When the spotlight turned to corn, Kent County presented the following ten corn producers for entrance into the "100 Bushel Corn Club." Following each name is the grower's corn yield in bushels: Pippin Bros., 114.9; William Konschak, 112.4; Isaac Thomas, 109.8; N. W. Taylor, 106; Bruce Clark, 105.6; A. Gene Short, 104.8; Robert Sanderson, 104.3; H. Lloyd Jones, 102.2; Allen J. Cook, 101.2; Gooden Darling, 100.5.

Poultry Groups Promote Delaware Chicken To Increase Markets

Two state poultry groups, the State Poultry Commission, and the Delmarva Chicken Festival, Inc., are carrying the story of Delaware chicken to consumers all over the nation.

The Delmarva Chicken Festival, Inc., set up an exhibit at the 36th National Hotel Association meeting in New York City recently. It reached 40,000 people in one day only, during the three-day meet. It featured a model of the world's largest frying pan, and of "Della, the Delaware Chicken." A smaller wing of the exhibit featured a rotisermat—an automatic chicken barbecue device, operated by electricity. Fresh young Delaware chickens were barbecued on this daily, from 10 a. m. to 10 p. m.

Otis Esham, Salisbury, newly elected president of the festival, commented, "The festival directors have been working towards promotional activities other than the annual festival. This is another tangible example of how these activities are being developed. The hotel people were an ideal group to contact, and we hope to use the exhibit to reach other large consumer groups."

The State Poultry Commission co-operated with the Delaware State Grange last week, in furnishing Delaware chickens for the Delaware Day luncheon at the national meeting in Atlantic City, N. J. Background material on Delaware chickens, and recipe leaflets, were also distributed.

Hoof Beats

Harness horsemen from Delaware, Maryland, the Virginias and Washington, D. C., bought 146 head for $127,985 at auction sales conducted in the past three weeks. The sales were staged at Harrisburg, Pa.; Springfield, Ill.; Trenton, N. J., and Indianapolis. The Harrisburg venue was the most successful in harness racing history. A total of 799 head were disposed of for a record-shattering $1,601,000. Top prices were paid by The Hanover Shoe Farms, Hanover, Pa., which got the joint world's champion 3-year-old pacers, Tar Heel and Solicitor for $125,000 and $100,000 respectively.

Paying the top price among horsemen hailing from the four states and Washington, D. C., was Lewis C. Tierney, Charleston, W. Va., who got the brood mare Betsy Babcock for $7600.

BLENDED
ANTHRACITE

Here's a far better coal that's blended for quality—product of three of Pennsylvania's most famous anthracite mines. It's high in heating value, low in ash content. Amazingly flexible—so easy to start and burn.

Be assured of top, trade-marked quality by buying Susquehanna-Glen Lyon Coal—identified by the red-and-yellow "Lion's Head" disks in every ton. You'll be better satisfied—save real money—because it goes further. Order a trial ton of Susquehanna-Glen Lyon Coal.

Again this year, on Dec. 14, the Ladies Auxiliary of the Volunteer Fire Company will give its semi-formal Yuletide dance. Al Green's Cadets will musically arrange their selections to vie with the interchanging varicolored lights, reflecting sparkle on the beautifully gowned ladies, as their escorts lead them under decorative ceiling of stars and mistletoe and glowing walls of holly, pine and cedar. The large Christmas tree, in one corner of the auditorium, will gain attraction from the merrymakers and the table, containing punch bowl and goodies, will bring pleasure alike to dancers and non-dancing onlookers. From where I sit... by Joe Marsh

"Fair and Square"

We've just had a political campaign with everything from a torchlight parade to a neck-and-neck ballot box race.

Rusty Robinson, with no campaign funds, planned his Election Day speech for the Square. Slim McCormick, who owns the Palace movie house, was finishing up his campaign in Pioneer Hall.

Then it began to rain. Rusty's political career was fizzling out in the damp when Slim showed up to say that Robinson people could meet in his theatre—for nothing. "I want to beat Rusty," Slim said, "but certainly not with rain!"

From where I sit, you've got to give Slim credit for acting on his belief that everyone has a right to be heard—just as everyone has a right to his own opinions and tastes. Maybe you like hot coffee, for instance, when you "take a break." Well, my vote goes for a refreshing glass of beer. After all, we're lucky to be living in a free country where we can have our own preferences!

Little courtesies, like lighting the other fellow's cigarette, help to make life happier.

Consideration for the other fellow is the basis of good party-line telephone service, too. If you are always courteous on the telephone, you're sure to find your party-line neighbors the same. Remember the three R's of party-line courtesy — Relinquish the line as soon as possible when you hear others try to use it; Replace the receiver gently when you find the line in use; Regulate your calls so that others may use the line in-between.

WHEELER RADIO STORE NEWS

By the time you are reading this paper it will be in the month that contains the most thought of the day all over the world. With it comes the joy of knowing we can worship the way we feel, speak as we please, go where we please and don't forget buy as we please. Of course there are those who don't consider what they are buying and often get the worst end of the bargain. If you are an easy shopper, always bear in mind manufacturers who have been in business many years and will be many more to come. For instance take the Philco Corp. who started several years ago in a very small way.

Look at them today! One of the fastest growing organizations in the world. Why may I ask? Simply this: The products they manufacture are manufactured not the life of the guarantee which they give, but for many, many years hereafter. For instance take television; why are they at this present writing so hard to get? Simply because so many people have woken up and have their heads high enough to see the wonderful performance these TV's are giving. So there you are. Demand greater than production.

You know Philco not only makes televisions but many products and let me mention refrigerators. They are not just another refrigerator but one that is designed from the floor to the top. In fact such small things as levelers at the floor, and doors that shut so easily. Ice cube trays which eliminates the use of a knife or fork in getting ice cubes loose. These are just minor things not to speak of the refrigerator that takes care of all. In fact there is the compartment with its own door for anything you want to freeze then the larger door which lets you in the main part of refrigerator. In fact I could keep on talking about these remarkable refrigerators for a long time and to bring it to a conclusion call 541 and just say bring me one of those Philco refrigerators soon as you can. Then believe me you will be out of the dog house and you can actually throw it away.

Speaking of throwing away, how much do you throw away? When you do that it is really taking money out of your pocket. Now to stop that taking it out, get a Philco freezer locker and then you will be putting money in your pocket. In fact the dividend a freezer can pay lays entirely with you because the longer you wait the more you lose. Come in and see a freezer that is designed just for you.

A wonderful Xmas for the whole family is inside that freezer.

A few people still want a radio and record player combined. These of course we have and again it is Philco. Why not when it is a real reproduction just as it should be.

Of course I must not forget to mention just another radio for your wife, yourself or your child. You know all you need when you have a good television is a small radio. Well you needn't look any further as I have them that are buying at $19.95. Of course none of them need any aerial or ground as that is all built right in the set. All you do is just plug it in and then look at the name on the radio. What will you see? If you are wise you will read Philco famous for quality the world over.

There are still a few not enjoying the electric facilities that the most of us now have. So for them Philco again is here. The farm pact made by Philco is not a number gone by the board, but any battery set owner will tell you that it is almost worth its weight in gold.

We always carry a full line of batteries for portables as well. What is the name, Philco, and they are swell.

This I am saying now is not for you old folks who still believe in rubbing turpentine or some other leaves on your body to relieve rheumatism, but for the younger generation who throws off the old clothing and takes the new way of living.

Many people get rid of rheumatism or helps at least when they lose their cane or wheelchair breaks down. Teenagers keep it away by sports and dancing and that means music.

What I am trying to get over while you are bathing that sore leg or such, let your boy or girl enjoy themselves with a personal radio. I mean a portable radio, one that will play at home or out in the wide open spaces. Philco makes just such a one and in such beautiful colors that any boy or girl will be proud to own.

I have noticed many of my customers take out their keys, knives, nails, screws, even fish hooks, looking for a penny or a nickel to come in my store to buy or look over the things we have for sale. I have said to myself surely I had a parking space for all these people, but I do not. This I can do for your convenience. The time you spend in our store when it is five minutes or 5 hours, we will have the pennies or nickles waiting for you just help yourself and stay as long as you please.

Talk Peace Not War. We the people are now wakening.
