Trinity Methodist Church Notes

A writer recently said, "Nobody has the right to do wrong. Nobody but a congenial idiot would claim such a right, and nobody but an incorrigible criminal would want to exercise it. Every sane man wants to do what is for his best interests, and every good man wants to do what is for the best interests of others as well." But the rub comes when we ask how does a man know what is right and what is wrong. Can a man's conscience be his guide if he receives no religious education; and is not careful regarding his church privileges? The church always seeks to sensitize the conscience to the will of God.

John Knight In Piano Recital

John Knight, brilliant young Canadian pianist, presented the second concert in the Community Concert Series in the Milford High School Auditorium last Sunday afternoon before a very receptive audience.

Mr. Knight performed a program that belies his 27 years, and was one worthy of a more matured artist. His program, a studied performance of the Scarlatti and Bach period ranged to a complete section devoted exclusively to the works of Chopin, Beethoven, and concluded with compositions of Prokofieff, Rachmaninoff, Alec Templeton, and Frank Liszt.

In this reviewer's opinion, Mr. Knight performed brilliantly in all schools of composition, but he was at his height during the playing of the Appassionata of Beethoven. This sonata, enjoyed by most piano virtuosos, is not performed enough for the delight of audiences. It casts a spell about the artist and audience that is heard only during the performance of this composer's symphonies. In fact, Beethoven's sonatas are often referred to as piano symphonic pieces.

It is to be noted that the piano used at this concert is in the music room of the Milford High School, and has been purchased by the Milford School Board to encourage community concerts, and to help bring good artists to Milford for all to hear.

The next concert by the Milford Community Concerts Association will be the final one for the season, and will take place Sunday afternoon, Feb. 17, and will present the eminent baritone, Edwin Steffe.

Hush-Hush on Paint

In 1881, the English guild of the "painters - steyners" procured a charter from Queen Elizabeth which provided that "No one should use the Art except after seven year's apprenticeship excepting gentlemen exercising the art for recreation or private pleasure." The oaths of all members required them to keep "the secrets of the mystery, and not reveal these same except to apprentices."

THIS IS HOW ROME FELL;
THIS IS HOW WE MIGHT

Of all the many nations that have flourished and then declined or died, none ever received such an exhaustive obituary as ancient Rome did at the hands of Edward Gibbon, the English historian who wrote a monumental work entitled the "Decline and Fall of the Roman Empire," covering the long period after Rome passed her crest and was on the way down.

It is a little disconcerting to note how often one encounters the long almost forgotten Gibbon now days and how many are finding a parallel between the times of which he wrote and the present. The current issue of The Rotarian contains an article in which Gibbon's summary of the causes of Rome's fall are succinctly presented in the following paragraph:

First, the increasing luxury, which enervated the stoic virtues; second, the prevalence of divorce, which undermined the family, which is so vital to any civilization; third, the taxation became so heavy that men in despair declared that it was useless to try to save anything for the future; fourth, the civil wars destroyed the flower of Rome's manhood; and fifth, the quality of citizenship was diluted by the inclusion of slaves and barbarians who felt no thrill of glory when the story of the Eternal City was sung.

Doesn't the "then and now" comparison reach right out and hit you in the eye? We have all the causes of Rome's decline present in present day America, even the civil wars, if one recognizes that class wars can be as destructive in their way as shooting wars between sections of a country. We have no "slaves and barbarians" literally, but we have plenty of immigrants who have not grasped what America stands for and been spiritually assimilated. And we certainly have all the other factors in full measure.

We shall probably hear more about Mr. Gibbon and the books he wrote way back in the eighteenth century, but the big question is: Will we continue to set the stage for some future Gibbon to write another and even grimmer story?

Fall Survey Shows Corn Borers Below 5-Year Average

The annual fall survey of corn borer population shows that the number of corn borers in Maryland is below the five-year average, but higher than 1950 figures. The average number of corn borers per 100 stalks of corn was 66 in the fall of 1951, compared to the five-year average of 79. In 1947 there were 188 borers per 100 stalks; in 1948, 80; 1949, 38; 1950, 24.

Borers were found in 192 of the 230 corn fields inspected. Ten fields were inspected in each of the 23 counties in the state.

The figures for the survey were released by T. L. Bissell, University of Maryland extension entomologist. H. S. McConnell, associate professor of entomology conducted the survey.

Mr. Bissell says that the reasons for the fluctuation are largely unknown, but that one of the reasons is the biological control program of the University and USDA. The biological control program consists of developing and releasing parasites of the corn borer in heavily infested areas. When established, the parasites kill corn borers.

The principal parasite is lydella, a dark-colored fly, somewhat larger than the common housefly. The lydella fly will kill about one third of borers found in the fall survey.

The main method of control that the farmer himself can apply to corn borers is to plow under all corn stalks, or shred them with a stalk shredder before May 1, 1952. When plowing it is important to do a clean job, so that no stalks are exposed which can harbor the borers.

In ten fields in Caroline County, from eight to 244 borers were reported per 100 plants, with an average of 80 borers, as compared with 22 borers in 1950. Queen Annes County reported eight fields, with 12 to 140 borers per 100 plants, or an average of 55, against 16 in 1950.

Good News On Farm Income Tax

In most cases, farmers no longer have to report as income the full sales amount from draft, breeding, or dairy animals. The Revenue Act of 1951 permits such sales to be treated as capital assets.

The new act not only saves money on future taxes, but reduces by 50 per cent income reported on sale of cows in 1948, 1949, and 1950. This means that farmers who reported such sales as income in the past three years may make an amended tax return and file claim for a refund.

Specifications for this new ruling on livestock sales require that after Dec. 31, 1950:

- (1) The animal must have been owned for at least 12 months.
- (2) The animal must have been kept for draft, breeding, or dairy purposes, and not primarily for sale.

Poultry does not come under this livestock ruling. The new act states that for tax years beginning after Dec. 31, 1950, sales of poultry cannot be considered as sales of capital assets.

These new rulings replace all others on sales of livestock. They should save dairymen money, says W. T. McAllister, extension agricultural economist at the University of Delaware. McAllister also pointed out that bulletins explaining the "Farmer's 1951 Income Tax" are now available at all three county agricultural extension offices.

Earl A. Crouse, extension agricultural engineer, will teach the courses.

Students this year may specialize in dairy, poultry, fruits and vegetables, grains and grasses, or general farming; or they can select according to their own needs. Twenty-four different classes will be offered.

Applications for the short course are being accepted. Those interested should write to: Sam Gwinn, Assistant Director, Farm Short Course, University of Delaware, Newark.

Inspiration

Original inspiration of John Keats, the immortal English poet, was his devoted father, an energetic man of lively imagination. According to THE BOOK HOUSE FOR CHILDREN, the elder Keats had great ambitions for the education and future of his sons and did his best to realize them despite his own relatively humble position in society of a livery stable keeper.

'51 Corn Contest Shows Bigger Yield Per Acre

Delaware farmers taking part in the Five-Acre Corn Yield Contest are producing an average of 98.5 bushels per acre. This was the 1951 average yield, an increase of 4 bushels over the 1950 average of 94.2.

The number of contestants raising 100 bushels or more per acre was 69, compared to 50 in 1950.

New Castle County had the biggest average yield increase, from 100.5 to 107.9 bushels. The number of people taking part in New Castle County was also more than in 1950.

In Sussex, the average yield increased about five bushels over 1950. This year's average for the contest in Sussex was 96.2 bushels.

Kent County had a slightly lower average yield, 90.7, and fewer contestants taking part this last year.

Claude E. Phillips, extension agronomist, announced that from the data collected during the two years of the five-acre yield contest, the agronomy department is making a leaflet. This leaflet will give specific recommendations for fertilizing for 100 bushels per acre, based on type of soil and crop rotations.

From where I sit... by Joe Marsh

It's Slim's For An "Honest" Meal

Most people thought Slim Benson would probably go broke when he first started his system of letting customers figure out their own checks over at his big diner on the highway.

Slim trusts them to pay for as much as they eat—you simply tell Sally, his cashier, the amount of your bill. It works, too. Take the other day when Buck Harris told Sally his bill was 35¢.

Now I was right there with Buck and I knew all he had was coffee and pie which comes to a quarter. "How come thirty-five cents?" I asked Buck. "Had an extra cup of java the other day, Joe, and forgot all about it—'til now," he says.

From where I sit, most people are basically honest — and that goes for their opinions, too, even though they may be different than our own. I like a glass of beer with my dinner; you may prefer something else... but we all ought to be allowed to "figure it out" ourselves.

Letter to the Editor

Note: The following letter was turned in to us by Benjamin Knox:

Editor, Morning Call, Paterson, N. J.

Dear Friend:

The Supreme Court of the United States will decide next month, January 1952, if it is legal or illegal to have the Bible read in our public schools.

The book that inspired Shakespeare; the book which inspired Handel, and brought from his soul the music of the Messiah; the book of which Sir Walter Scott said, "There is only one book, The Bible;" and the Book of which the late William Lyon Phelps said, "A knowledge of the Bible without a college education is better than a college education without the knowledge of the Bible. You will learn more about human nature reading the Bible than if you lived all your life on the eastside of New York."

We must have retrogressed as a nation to even have our Supreme Court pass on such a law.

America needs a revival of true religion. We need to find the words that King Josiah found. We need to find the law of God. And when Americans do find this law, and put it into practice, there will come a revival that may even convert the ones who want this book branded illegal.

GREEN PASTURES

By Samuel A. Short Jr.

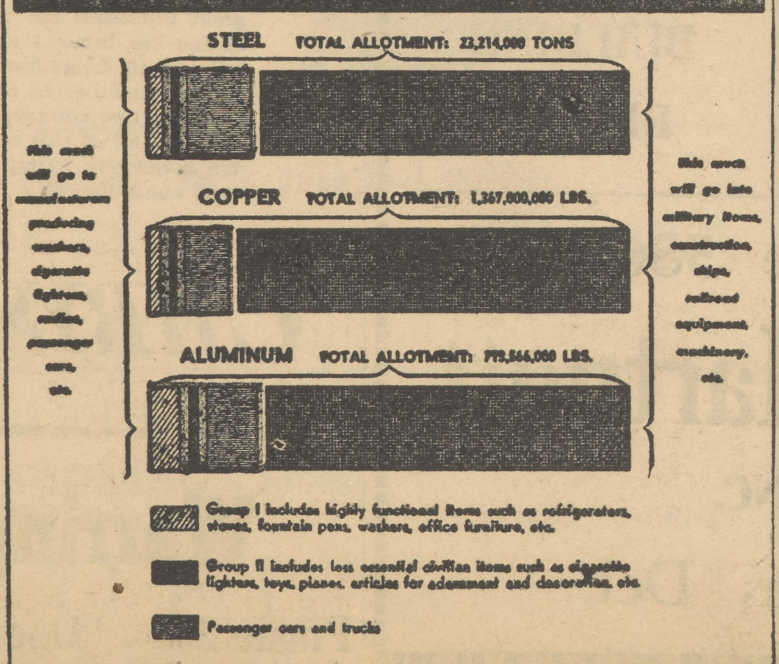

Green pastures are like the sky above,
Like the trees in the forest so tall.
Like the nightingales chanting song of love,
Bringing peaceful rest to each nightfall.

Green Pastures are like the ocean wide,
Like the sea breeze blowing in shore.
Like the roar of each wave on the rising tide,
Bringing echoes of time from the ocean floor.

Green Pastures are like the earth below,
Like its people in harmonious appeal.
In love with one another with radiance aglow,
Keeping in tune with each melodius peal.

Green Pastures are yours for your acceptance,
For yours, and yours, alone on you own free will.
So there is no other one for dependence
But your own, accept it now and let your heart be still.

Home Talk

By: Eleanor R. Cavanaugh

Farm and Home Week is going to be held at the University of Delaware from Jan. 29 to Feb. 1. This is a full week's program for you homemakers and your husbands. All day long programs will be held to interest you. For the women, there will be programs on clothing, home furnishings, cooking, how to make corsages, etc. Why don't you get several women to go together? I know it will be a worthwhile day.

This month, most of the clubs are doing organizational work, such as deciding hostesses for the year, who will be chairmen and which programs the club would like to have this year. The programs the clubs can select are all very interesting. They are: Cake icings and decorations; first aid and home nursing; canning chairs; salads and salad dressings; cloth lampshades, child development; responsibility of citizens; clothing finishes; etched aluminum trays. Other subjects the clubs will have are: Kitchen arrangements; "Colors That Become You"; "Food from Other Lands"; and "Winter Bouquets."

Some of the clubs combine this meeting with an annual luncheon or covered dish supper. The Millwood Homemakers Club and the Oak Grove Club have already had theirs. The Smyrna Club will hold theirs on Jan. 17.

The dates for three leader training meetings have been set but the place they are to be held has not been decided upon yet. On Fri., Jan. 18 and Jan. 25, Miss Louise Whitcomb will conduct a school on canning chairs for those clubs selected that subject. On Tues., Jan. 22, Miss Gertrude Holloway will conduct the school on "Cake Icings and Decorations." Then on Mon., Jan. 28, the "First Aid and Home Nursing School" will be held.

The tart flavor of current jelly and oranges will be a new flavor to an "old standby."

"POTTED DUCK"

1 6-lb. duck
 1½ cups water
 1 orange, quartered
 3 tsp. vinegar
 1 tsp. salt
 ¼ tsp. pepper
 1/3 cup tart jelly
 1 tsp. enriched flour
 3 tsp. water

Cut duck into 8 pieces. Wash, dry. Prick skin well with a fork. Place in hot skillet. Cook over low heat until browned. Pour off fat frequently. Add 1½ cups water, orange, vinegar, salt and pepper. Cover, simmer approximately 1½ hours, turning occasionally. Add jelly, simmer 5 minutes. Place duck in hot serving dish. Mix flour and 3 tsp. water to form paste. Blend with remaining liquid. Cook until thickened, stirring constantly. Pour over duck. Serves 6.

Farmers Told: Changes Made In Personal Income Tax

Several changes are provided in the 1951 federal revenue act which are of importance to farmers in making out their personal returns.

Rates Higher

The rates of tax on the 1951 income are higher than on the previous year's income although the increased rates did not take effect until Nov. 1. The new rates will be combined with the old rates rather than separate rates for 10 months and two months, respectively, of 1951 income.

$600 Exemption

A dependent can now have a gross income up to $600, rather than the previous $500, and still be claimed as an exemption.

Father-Son Agreements

Farmer and son farm business agreements are recognized as normal business arrangements. Income from the operation of the farm can now be divided between two or more partners in the business. This applies even though the partners are members of the same family.

Medical Expenses

Medical expenses of a taxpayer 65 years of age or older are deductible in full, rather than subject to the previous limitation (in excess of 5 per cent of adjusted gross income). If taxpayer and wife are both 65 or older, or if either one is 65 or over, the medical expenses of both are deductible in full. That portion of the taxpayer's medical expenses for dependents in excess of 5 per cent of adjusted gross income can also be claimed as deductions.

Farm Home Separate

The farm home and the rest of the farm real estate can now be handled as two entirely separate properties when the sale of the farm takes place. Land and the farm service buildings (excluding the farm dwelling) sold at a profit will be treated as capital gains and the tax will be approximately one-half of the rate on ordinary income, if you have owned the farm for six months or more.

However, the farm dwelling may be treated differently in case the farm is sold. If the taxpayer has been making the house his principal place of residence, and owned it for six months or more, and if another house of equal or greater value is bought within 12 months, or built within 18 months, there is no tax on a profit from the sale of the farm house. If the sale price of the old residence exceeds the cost of the new residence any gain on the sale is taxable.

Special Rules

Special rules apply where a part of the old or new residence is rented or used for business purposes, or where a taxpayer owns more than one residence at the same time, or where two persons owning the new and old residence are not identical, or where more than one property sold have been the residences of the taxpayer. The value placed on the value of the farm home must be a realistic value and a proper proportion of the value of the farm as a whole. In these cases it is best to consult the local revenue agent.

Growing Crops

Growing crops, when sold with the farm, can now be counted as part of the sale price of the farm, under the following conditions: (1) the land on which the crops are growing must have been owned six months or more; (2) the crop must be unharvested; (3) land and crops must be sold to the same person; (4) expenses in producing the crop cannot be deducted in arriving at capital gain; and (5) the sale occurs in taxable year beginning in 1951.

Taxed as Capital Gain

The sense of the above change means that if a farmer sells his farm in the fall with a crop of corn, soybeans, or tobacco, just ready to harvest, the sale price, including the sale of crops unharvested, would be used in determining capital gain or losses.

See Tax Agent

If a farmer has sold property during the year which can be treated as capital assets subject to capital gain or loss calculation, such as a farm (excluding the farm dwelling), or breeding, draft, and dairy livestock, it is best to consult the local internal revenue agent in reporting such income unless the taxpayer is familiar with the details of the capital gains and loss provisions.

Be On Lookout For Cattle Grubs

It's time to be on the lookout for the first appearance of cattle grubs. Cattle grubs, or warbles, as they are sometimes called, are the maggot stage of heelflies. They cause the loss of untold amounts of leather, meat and milk, and cause cattle a lot of worry and pain.

In damaged hides alone, the loss is estimated to be $2,500,000. One third of all hides are damaged by the grubs.

It is estimated that grubs cause the loss of 20 pounds of meat on each animal slaughtered. This loss represents damaged meat, and weight lost by the cattle due to discomfort caused by the cattle grubs, or the adult heelflies.

T. L. Bissell, extension entomologist at the University of Maryland, tells how the daily milk production of one cow rose 10 pounds within a few days after 80 grubs were extracted from her back.

Since no effective control has yet been found for the adult insect, the heelfly, the time to eradicate the pest is in the winter when cattle grubs appear on the backs of cattle.

The heelflies lay eggs on the hair at the heels of cattle. When the eggs hatch, the tiny worms burrow into the skin and begin a gory migration up through the animals. In seven or eight months the grubs appear as lumps under the skin on the backs of the cattle. There they grow, burrowing a hole in the skin to breathe through.

Here, in brief, is Mr. Bissell's advice for control: Check your cattle especially the younger ones, about once a week, starting now, to see if the lumps have begun to appear on their backs. When you first find grubs, record the date. Then, one month later, begin monthly treatment with a rotenone dust, spray or wash. Your county agent can give you details for best results.

Hoof Beats

Harness horses raced for 94 purses worth $10,000 or more in 1951. That was 13 more than during the record-breaking 1950 season which saw 81 such events contested.

Johnny Simpson and his great 2-year-old trotter Duke of Lullwater were the individual champions according to figures compiled by The United States Trotting Association, parent body of the harness racing sport.

Simpson, Chester, S. C., reinsman who led the nation in both the race and money-winning categories in 1951, accounted for 12 victories in races worth $10,000 or more. Six of those were scored by Duke of Lullwater, owned by Walter T. Candler, Decatur, Ga.

Simpson also notched major wins with undefeatable Ford Hanover, owned by W. H. Strang Jr., Brooklyn, N. Y.; Kimberly Mine, property of Mr. and Mrs. William Hilliards, Lexington, Ky.; Banker and Bernie Hanover, Cleo A. Young, Timmonsville, S. C.; Hattie Song, Ben F. White, Orlando, Fla., and Silent Waters, belonging to Mr. Candler.

Duke of Lullwater, winter book favorite for the 1952 Hambletonian and the sport's leading money-winning 2-year-old with $59,270 to his credit, picked up most of that by knocking off the $35,000 Horseman Stake, $32,000 Castleton, $21,000 Greyhound, $16,000 American-National, $14,000 Reading Futurity and one division of the $15,000 Old Westbury.

Trailing Simpson in the driver column were Benny Schue, Grand Forks, N. D. (10); Del Miller, Meadow Lands, Pa. (9); Frank Ervin, Sedalia, Mo. (8); and Hugh Bell, Marion, O., and Wayne Smart, Delaware, O., six apiece. Schue, driving horses owned by The Hayes Fair Acres Stable, Du Quoin, Ill., copped the $50,000 Roosevelt Two Mile Trot, the $32,000 Golden West Trot and the $25,000 Gotham among others. Those victories were scored behind Pronto Don, Harness Horse of the Year in 1951, who won five events worth $10,000 or more and tied for second place in that category with Bill Cane's pacing star, Good Time.

Three horses won four events valued in excess of $10,000. They were the pacers Gander and Scottish Pence and the trotter Demon Hanover.

Felton School News

The Green Devils travel to Sudlersville today for a return game with Coach Irvin Wagenschour's team. The Green Devils are eager to take them on for they lost the first game in the last few minutes of play by a narrow margin. Sudlersville has been undefeated so far this year. Because of the holidays the Green Devils have not seen action since Dec. 11, when they played Rock Hall. The Harrington game which was to be played Jan. 8 will be played March 4 at Harrington.

Wednesday Major P. Bassele gave an interesting and instructive address before the entire student body on the part which high school pupils can play in the Civil Defense program. He urged students to volunteer for duty as plane spotters and in any other capacity in which they may be requested to serve. Major Bassele is stationed at the University of Delaware as an authority in the state civil defense program. Plans are under way for the talent program to be presented by various members of the faculty and student body headed by Vernon Meier. It is anticipated that unsuspected talent will be uncovered and that the performance will afford much enjoyment to both faculty and student body.

W. S. C. S. of Asbury Methodist Church Notes

Mrs. Charles Greenhaugh presided at the meeting of the W. S. C. S. of Asbury Methodist Church Tuesday evening when a program around a lovely worship center was presented in candlelight by Mrs. Mark Willey emphasizing Epiphany—when the wise men brought gifts to the Savior. Assisting Mrs. Willey in the program were Mrs. Greenhaugh, Mrs. A. B. Parsons, Mrs. Guy Winebrenner and Miss Oda Baker. Mrs. Howard Wagner led the devotions. Interesting reports were given by the department chairmen and announcement was made of two study courses which are being held the next few weeks. On Sunday evening the Rev. R. E. VanCleave will speak on "We Americans, North and South." The Ever Ready Class, during this quarter, is studying the Books of Acts. Definite plans were made for the visitation campaign of the W. S. C. S. All women are urged to listen Wed., Jan. 23, at 2:30 over WDOV, 1410 on your dial, to a radio address by the Rev. Dr. O. A. Bartley, superintendent of Dover District. Dr. Bartley will address all the women of Dover District at that time on the work of the W. S. C. S. and urge every Methodist woman to become a member of the society.

Light Lost In Farm Buildings

Electric lights in barns and outbuildings are too often inefficient because of lack of reflectors, notes A. V. Krewatch, extension agricultural engineer at the University of Maryland. The result, he says, is wasted light because light is absorbed by dark ceiling and wall surfaces. More light for less money is possible with properly shaped porcelain or aluminum reflectors which direct light to the working surfaces. The agricultural engineer advises washing reflector surfaces and lamp bulbs at regular intervals to insure efficient lighting. He says that fluorescent lighting tubes are particularly subject to dust collection which is best removed by washing. Finally, reminds Krewatch, painting ceiling and walls with a light colored reflecting type paint helps a lot in brightening rooms.

Way Back When

Tea-drinking is described by The BOOK HOUSE FOR CHILDREN as "a social custom that arose during the prosperous days of Ancient China when almost every better-class Chinese home had a tea-house in its garden." There, fragrant tea was served, scalding hot, in dainty thimbles of fine, white china, to elegantly-attired ladies carrying scented fans. Although the expression, "a tea," is still used to describe a social gathering of well-dressed ladies in the afternoon, tea-drinking has become popular with nearly all classes in almost every part of the world. Even its use as a cold drink is celebrated in this country during the week of July 13, which has been designated as National Ice Tea Time.

Delayed Action

How do astronomers know what is happening in the sky if it takes so long for the light of the stars to reach us? They do not know what is happening in the universe at the present time, but only what was happening when the light started on its journey to us. As telescopes become more powerful and reach out in greater depths of space, we get back farther and farther in time. The most distant objects which can be observed with the 200-inch Hale telescope at Mt. Palomar are so far away that their light (with a speed of 186,000 miles per second) takes about a billion years to reach the Earth.

Presidential Shopper

Had you been a Washington housewife in the 1840's, you might have found yourself doing your marketing right next to the President of the United States. For, according to the World Book Encyclopedia, William Henry Harrison took his responsibilities as manager of the White House as seriously as his presidential duties. He insisted on doing all the food marketing for the mansion by himself—and, according to reports, was a thrifty shopper with an eye for bargains.

Blaze Destroys Chicken House

A large chicken house on the farm of Allan D. Figgs, on the Galestown Road about two miles west of Seaford, was destroyed by fire Sunday morning, together with 12,000 baby chicks which had just been put in the building the day before. The blaze, of undetermined origin but believed to have started from an over-heated stove, spread rapidly and the structure was doomed when the Seaford Volunteer Fire Department arrived in the scene. The loss to the building, including equipment, is estimated at more than $7000 and the loss on the small chicks at more than $1500. The building was heated by oil stoves and considerable apprehension was felt because of the closeness of the blaze to the large oil storage tank. Fortunately it did not explode.

White's Church

Sandra and Wanda Minner spent last Tuesday with Thelma Rae and Buddy Camper. Mr. and Mrs. Preston Anthony spent Sunday evening with Mr. and Mrs. Merritt Camper and family. Mr. and Mrs. Harry Camper spent Sunday visiting in Preston, Md. Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Vanderwende spent Saturday with Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Vanderwende and son. Mr. and Mrs. Clayton Lord and children spent Sunday afternoon with Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Vanderwende. Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Vanderwende and son were Sunday dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Vanderwende. Mr. and Mrs. Edward Dearth, Henry Schanding and Mr. and Mrs. Marshall Anthony and daughter spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Gerardi and family.

Winter Creates Double Hazard To Shade Trees

Deposits of wet snow and sleet on shade trees may break limbs and weaken trunks, creating a double hazard. Dr. L. O. Weaver, University of Maryland plant pathologist says the hazard of fallen limbs is evident, but that there is another danger not so well known. The exposed wood where limbs have broken off allows disease and decay to get started. If wounds are left untreated, and disease and decay become established, it might mean the end of a valuable and hard-to-replace shade tree.

The remedy, according to Dr. Weaver, is to repair the wound by removing splintered or diseased bark or wood. Make a clean, smooth cut, and coat the exposed surface with a wound dressing. On a large tree, or a tree with extensive damage, a tree surgeon or a specialist on tree care is the man to call in for the job. For details on repairing trees, Dr. Weaver recommends USDA Farmers' Bulletin 1896, "Care of Damaged Shade Trees." While the supply lasts, copies of this bulletin can be requested from the Bulletin Room, Symons Hall, University of Maryland, College Park, Md.

Queer Bird The goat-sucker, or nightjar, is a bird around which a number of old legends have been woven. The ancients believed it sucked goats at night, that the goats immediately "dried up" and lost their sight.

Milton Stomps H. H. S. Five

Milton had an easy time posting its first victory of the basketball season at Milton Tuesday night, trampling Harrington's inexperienced club, 50-23. It was the 1952 opener for both teams. Charley Carey and Graham Dill paced Milton with 28 points between them, more than enough to assure victory. Bob Willey scored eight for the losers. Milton also won the jayvee game, 41-36.
