

Much Criticism of Consular Service Is Unfair, Heisler Tells Local Rotarians

Consuls Are Judged on Performance Alone, Says Man Who Served in Africa and Europe

"Much of the criticism of our consular service is very unfair and it distresses me to know that unfortunates are allowed to enter into such criticism of able and conscientious men who have had to give up their homes and shift from one part of the world to another in behalf of their country," said Rotarian Charles Heisler at Tuesday evening's meeting of the Harrington Rotary Club.

"You must have the equivalent of a university education to apply for a position in this service, and frequently you have to have a year's additional schooling before you are accepted. You must be able to act quickly, to think clearly in times of crises—and you must be a writer of ability, capable of expressing your thoughts clearly on a moment's notice. Many men, despite all this education, cannot make the grade," continued the speaker.

Like all other men new in the service, Mr. Heisler had hopes that he would be sent to London, Paris or Berlin—but they sent him to South Africa. When you enter the service you must agree to go anywhere your country sends you, and he enjoyed his service in South Africa with the exception of the dinners given by the two big Chinese clubs. You attend these dinners as a matter of courtesy and diplomacy—but the 15-course dinner was a problem to Mr. Heisler. They started off with bird's-nest soup mixed with chicken soup, but until this day the other 14 courses remain a mystery, because the Chinese spoke but little English and no one could tell him what he was eating.

Years ago politics entered into the appointment to the consular service and as a result there was considerable inefficiency. That condition was remedied long ago and changes in the national administration does not touch this service. You are judged on performance alone. The lower in rank are checked by the higher and the higher are checked by special committees made up of men of long service. Your performance is on file at all times and you have the privilege of examining those files. If your record is poor, you have the opportunity to try to improve it—and if you cannot do this, you are dismissed.

Among other places Mr. Heisler served over a period of one-third of a century were Warsaw, Poland; Lithuania, the Free City of Danzig, Bermuda, Tunisia and Newcastle on Tyne, England, where he terminated his career. Most pleasant of all his assignments was Tunisia. "Many tragic events, crises in almost every form occurred from time to time, but there were many humorous situations, many pleasant incidents. The troublesome ones I do not recall—I remember only the humorous and the pleasant," concluded the speaker.

Sulky Slants

By Mrs. Dave (Pat) Smith

Sam Conway has five head in his stable. One for Calvin Adams, one for Benny Rash and three of his own. So far so good, Sam says. Les Simpson has added another to his stable which now gives him 7 head. His latest is Symbol Diane, owned by Ted Daniel, an undertaker in Middletown. He is also the State Commissioner on the new Delaware and New Jersey bridge.

I want to retract a little news I put in last week. Through Mrs. Ralph Bowers, Mr. and Mrs. Cardell, of Hamburg, were really invited here by her. It was she who took them over to Mrs. Griffith's so they could take different pictures for her to put in the Harness Horse.

The Bohemia Stable is in the midst of heavy training, getting ready for early spring meet.

Henry Scott a visitor to Charley Sutton Stable. Mr. Scott says he will be glad when the new bridge is completed between here and Washington, D. C.

Now Harry Littleton, I see you have taken on something more than working the track. Gee, I didn't know you could run so fast. Did you catch that colt you were chasing? Do you remember the pig fount gave me always being out? How you used to chase it for me.

Jimmy Workman along with Fred Sargent attended the sale in Elizabeth City, N. C. Lil, his wife, spent a few days with Kay and Harry Craig while Fred was gone to the sale.

Julian Young has Arch Bunter and Cardinal Lincoln and reports his horses are doing all he asks of them. Delores and the two babies out for a walk enjoying the sunshine.

The Ray stable, doing what everyone else doing just marking time.

Ellis Myer about the busiest one around here. But never too busy to stop and chat.

Polly Sipe hurrying around town, and I do mean hurrying. Polly, I bet I can guess.

I wonder if Carl Goslin really likes the filling-station business? He has a nice station out on the highway. I'll bet two to one when the man say's go Carl will have another horse to race. Will I be right Carl?

Reese and his wife out watching his horses on the track every morning. And don't Pal enjoy his new station wagon?

Pop Heller taking his daily dozen, walking his horse. How much have you lost Pop? Any way you are really faithful with that walk. Does the horse make you look good or does the man make the horse look good? It's all in fun Pop.

Well there's nothing new in our stable. Our horses are just jogging 6 and 7 miles every day getting legged up and ready to turn Feb. 1. For me I really worked for the first time at the stable this year and I nearly died. Think I need a lot of jogging. Think I'm slipping, getting soft.

No. Mr. Jerread, for a nickle I won't sweep the floor. Very nice of you to offer me the broom. No fooling, it's nice to walk in and have some fun at your newsstand.

Glad to hear Mr. Knox is able to be back at the bank once in a while.

Mr. Burgess Sr. strolling down town greeting everyone a happy good morning. Gooden Callaway enjoying a cup of coffee at Irene's.

Well I made the trip to see "Student Price" and after seeing it for the third time it still was wonderful. About the only time I ever made Philadelphia that the weather was really good enough to walk around and enjoy it.

I think the nicest thing that has happened to me is, I have been made a member of the Harrington Business & Professional Women's Club. I wouldn't take anything for my membership.

Heh: Mayor Rash, where have you been? I never see you downtown anymore.

Billy Myer has purchased Mr. Browner for himself. Lillian and Billy have purchased the home behind the racetrack. In time they will have a beautiful place with plenty of stable room.

Mr. Miller out every morning at the track jogging. Seems to really enjoy it.

Alton Downes' drugstore seems to be the horsemen's favorite place to spin their yarns. After all wasn't he a horseman himself at one time?

A surprise going away party was given at the Wonder Bar for Ralph Smith, by Mary Hill, Gale Grover and Dottie Eickerson. Rather a cute way to get him to the banquet room, so Bea tells me was; Helen asked them to go in to see something in the room.

So when Ralph and Bea walk in to this dark room the lights were flashed on and everyone began singing, "For He's a Jolly Good Fellow." Sandwiches, drinks, were served. (Course that could be any kind of drinks.) With all the information I can get they just raised holy H---. All in all just plain all around good time.

I think everyone going away to the army should have all the fun they can. A little bird told me their singing sounded like a bunch of hillbillies. Could it have been that bad?

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Dyer entertained with a turkey dinner with all the trimmings last Sunday, for Mr. and Mrs. George Enslin, C. O. Ellison and wife, also Ellis and Betty Myer and little Ellis Jr. While talking about Ellis Jr., I would love to have printed what that little tike will say. But I know it would be censored here. But he is right at that stage to repeat anything he hears.

Booty Morris is back in the horse biz again just as I said he would be sometime ago. He has purchased a 2-yr-old filly from Johnny Amato. This filly sold at the Elizabeth City, N. C., horse sale. Booty has changed her name from Afton Jean to Evelyn Jean. This is another one added to the George Dumont stable. Now don't you know, this filly will have plenty of carrots and apples. Booty, this will help heal the space that was left vacant by Gallant Heart.

Harry Littleton, what was that remark that Ellis Jr. made about your hog pen, over in Crowley's restaurant? Course you didn't edge him on did you? Well, that's one time I enjoyed my coffee. Poor Betty! Then I asked where he was going, and, for your information, said he was taking off like a big-bird.

Jimmy Creed going to West-Bury, L. I., to get Joe Hyland's horses and taking them to Cordele, Ga., and for the pleasure trip, Bobby Hobbs went along.

Mr. Enslin has been elected to be the race secretary for the spring and fall meets here.

Another thing Mr. Holloway gave out to me was, if you are out of the money you pay no interest fees. That is the way it is in Hamburg too. That helps a lot.

Mr. Jewell has been removed from the Milford Hospital to Dover. Mrs. Jewell tells me he isn't doing to good. Up till his illness he was employed by Mr. Lyons. I'm sure Mrs. Jewell would appreciate any of the horsemen going over to visit him when he can have visitors, or maybe a get well card.

The Wilmington sportswriters and broadcasters held a banquet at the DuPont Country Club Monday evening. Among those attending were, Jake Williams, A. B. Parsons, Arnold Gilstad, C. T. Harrington, Allen Cannon, R. E. Harrington, T. B. Holloway, J. H. Holloway, Carrington Burgess, Essel Farlow. Mr. Holloway, our general manager, said that everyone had a wonderful time.

About the same crowd will go to Reading, Pa., for the Central Fair Board meeting starting Wednesday and lasting four days. Will get more on this when Mr. Holloway comes back from the trip.

Of all things, I became ill when I could have gone to my first dinner as a member of the Women's Business Club. I was so sorry I couldn't make it.

Now for a little relaxation myself, I'm headed for Lewes to sit and watch the bay. I would love to be able to live by the sea. And still I'm afraid of water.

Harold Bruner and son, David, who has the Army and Navy store in Milford, were visitors to the track to see the horses. Little David asked his father, why don't they sell some of those horses they have too many.

Mrs. Florence Robinson, for your information, your Nibble's Son is coming along fine. Since I send you The Harrington Journal up there in Albion, thought you would like to see his name in print. Dave says he is coming along very good.

Retia and George Dumont had as their guests over the weekend, Mr. and Mrs. Johnnie Belote.

Charlotte Stout's mother still in the hospital in Albany, N. Y. Her return will be indefinite.

There are certainly plenty of railbirds out here every day to watch the bang tails, some taking their first lessons, others going on to try to make the big time. I know all the horsemen enjoy the interest that is being taken in the horses this year. It reminds me of Pinchurst. That is the way it is down there. Plenty of spectators.

I have a couple good kittens I would like to get a good home for. If any would be interested you can find them at barn No. 3.

As usual, I made Felton this past week and, in good faith, I was just going to pay Mildred and Harold a visit. So what happens? I end up eating all I possibly could hold of chicken and dumplings. Then Dave comes home with some good homemade sausage. Our visit really paid off. Sure was good though, Mildred.

Officer Voss sitting in his car, without a care, or could he be watching to see if I would put in a penny which I generally don't have. I've been pretty lucky lately. No tickets.

Mr. Wilson tells me he is feeling much better now. Everyone is glad for you, Mr. Wilson.

Carl Goslin's new filling station seems to be doing very nicely. Who do you suppose is over there already, his two grandchildren, of course. And he is so lucky to have Jimmy to help him when he isn't on the Bond Bread route. Wonder if you will be like Booty, Carl, and come up with another horse?

For the second time in a few months gas tanks have been knocked down in front of the Intersection Service Station. Saturday night a car of sailors was going north on Route 13 when a Burrsville resident, going north, decided to turn left at the station, owned by Orville Fry, the same time the sailors were passing. They collided, knocking over the gas tank. Both drivers were fined, but nobody was injured.

Make Coatings Tough

Paint coatings are tested carefully before they are marketed. One test reveals their ability to resist impact. A trigger on a special device trips a heavy weight, sending it crashing down on the coated panel and severely denting it. Subsequently, the effect of shock on the flexibility and adhesion of the paint sample can be measured.

"Out of thin air" comes the HIGHEST HORSEPOWER in Buick history

NOTE FROM YOUR BUICK DEALER:
Presented here is the story of a great new engine development, as told by the men who did the job. We reprint the story here in its entirety — as we couldn't beat it if we tried.

No, we didn't have to build a new engine. We took Buick's valve-in-head Fireball Engine—which makes the most of high compression. We drew on 12 patient years of Buick carburetion research.

And we came up with more might, more miles, from gas—right out of thin air, in more ways than one.

When you talk about "miles per gallon" you think of fuel, because that's what you buy. But air's free—and for every gallon of gasoline, a busy engine can gulp more than 8,000 gallons of air.

The problem is to deliver air in the right proportions, throughout the full range of speeds at which you drive.

A carburetor—big enough to supply the air needed at full throttle—can be wasteful in stop-and-go driving. A carburetor sized for thrift in city traffic literally smothers your engine when you really give it the gun.

So Buick engineers developed the Airpower carburetor—a four-barrel automatic—and here's how it works.

Loading along, two barrels are working, two stay closed. And you get a low-speed thrift and smoothness that's out of this world. As you pick up speed, the "stand-bys" come into play—feeding not just more gas, but more air too—so you keep getting maximum power from each drop of fuel.

You have 170 effortless horsepower when you need it—a tremendous reserve ready to go into instant action at the nudge of your toe.

You have the satisfaction of knowing that you get this power with a frugal use of gas. At 40 you use less gas than you formerly used at 30.

That's the story of Airpower carburetion in facts and figures straight from the factory. But statistics can't tell you the breath-taking joy of heading for new horizons in a great-powered new ROADMASTER.

When can you do that? Better come in soon. Lots of other folks are flocking into our showroom these days to see the greatest array of new Buicks we've had in years.

Equipment, accessories, trim and models are subject to change without notice.

NEWS FROM ABROAD

In one week we received letters or post cards from Italy, Spain, and Cuba.

Writing from Pisa, famous for its Leaning Tower, is our friend, Giovanni Biagi. Writing in good English, Giovanni tells us he is now married and has a son, Benedetto. We met Biagi when we were stationed in Pisa in the Air Corps in late 1944 and early 1945, and have mentioned him several times in these columns.

He writes, "I receive 'The Harrington Journal' regularly and I thank you much for your nice gift. The first thing I read in each issue is the editorial which I find very interesting."

Giovanni sent us a picture of the wedding party at dinner. On the tables are those straw-covered fiascos of vino.

A letter from Spain, written by one Kennedy, offers to write a weekly letter for us on the said Kennedy's European travels. The spiel and a map of the proposed itinerary are printed on the lining of the envelope, made of thin paper. If the idea works for Kennedy, we would like to try it.

Frank Satrappe sends us a post card from Havana, Cuba, where he is spending a little vacation. Pete Oakie, of Georgetown, is with him. Frank, who covers Delaware selling auto tools, writes: "Belle signorine." Any GI who has been in Italy, knows what that means.

In our opinion and, undoubtedly, in the opinion of the postoffice, one of the most constructive bits of work performed by the City of Harrington, has been the completion of a project by which every Harrington residence, place of business has been given a street address. It will now be up to the owners of the homes and business addresses to put up the street numbers.

Persons desiring to know their street numbers may check the lists at the City Hall, or at the Postoffice. The postal authorities assisted in making the list. The Harrington Journal will, as soon as possible, get a copy of the list.

In the near future, instead of defining addresses as being, for example, "on Clark Boulevard across from the Harrington Motor Company," we shall give the exact street and number where we deem it necessary.

The new list should eliminate confusion and some discrepancies in street numbers.

May we repeat, numbers should be posted immediately—this practice will go a long way in helping someone find an address.

We carried an editorial item recently on releases, those bits of information sent by someone desirous of having them published. Though, in many cases, they are a headache, many of them are newsworthy and we like to get them.

Those releases deemed unworthy of publication, or left out for space reasons, as many are, are used for copy paper. In fact, this article is being written on the back of a release. After all, the paper is of much better quality than that used as copy paper by most metropolitan dailies.

We read the other day where the editor of one weekly newspaper cut up his releases and made scratch pads from them. To waste is to sin.

Zoning for Kent

Although the Legislature has been unable to limit the agenda of this special session—as we think it should have done—we have to recognize a good new bill when it appears. Some we have already noted. We now take pleasure in noting another one: the proposed amendment to the State Constitution to permit zoning in Kent County outside of incorporated towns.

All Delaware cities and towns already have power to zone themselves if they wish to do so. A good many of them do—even in the two lower counties which so far are not legally equipped for rural zoning. Dover has had zoning for a long time and wouldn't do without it. So has Milford, straddling the Kent-Sussex line. But no longer can a town be smug and self-sufficient within its borders. To an important extent a town is known, these days, by the suburbs it keeps. The ordinary observer doesn't know or care where the corporate town ends and the suburbs begin. All he knows is that a town's attractiveness can be sadly blighted by a surrounding ring of unsightly growth.

By the same token the highways of Delaware in many sections are undergoing a "strip development" that does not always add to the attractiveness of the countryside. Some of these new dwellings, stores, and service stations are neat, well-built, set well apart from each other, and well back from the right-of-way, with their own "service roads" paralleling the highway. But too often we see close-built cabins or even neat small houses set spang alongside the traffic stream. These are the developments likely to become roadside slums, endangering children and dogs, slowing up traffic on the highways they border, and sinking in market value.

Back in 1949, when zoning was proposed for all the counties, opposition came from Kent and Sussex. Even when the bill was restricted to New Castle County, several Kent and Sussex senators voted against it the first time it came up. They changed their minds and the amendment got its first passage, which last spring was followed by final passage and enactment.

Good zoning is good for the whole state, urban and rural. It is going forward on the Eastern Shore as well as in New Castle County. Now we'd like to see Kent show Sussex the way to this kind of progress.—Journal-Every Evening (Wilmington)

What's What With White-Feathered Broilers

Delaware broiler growers are buying all the white-feathered meat-type chicks they can get, and interest in the white breeds is increasing all over the peninsula. The University of Delaware Farm and Home Week has lined up two top speakers who can give growers more information on the performance of white meat-type birds.

John L. Crothers Jr., asst. county agricultural agent, announces that Don C. Warren of the USDA regional poultry breeding project, and C. W. Hess, director of the National Poultry Improvement Plan will be on the Jan. 29 and Jan. 31 programs, respectively.

Warren is now stationed in Indiana, and is in charge of two large-scale poultry breeding projects, in the corn belt and in the South. He also directs a turkey breeding project in the West, and the Central Testing Station in Indiana, where poultry breeding stocks are compared. He has received the Borden Research, and the Poultry Science Association Award for his work. His talk will give the meat and egg performance of the whites in the projects so far.

C. W. Hess, as director of the Poultry Improvement Plan, has contact with the performance of white-feathered birds in the national plans meat production performance tests, in the state breeder tests, and the Chicken-of-Tomorrow Contest. He will compare results from the various breeds crossbreeds as to meat performance.

Hess has worked in poultry breeding research at the University of Maryland, University of New Hampshire, and with the USDA.

Group Aberdeen-Angus Bull Show Best In National Western History

In an Aberdeen-Angus bull show which was termed by two veteran cattle judges as the best in the history of the breed at the National Western Stock Show in Denver, Kansas, Illinois, and Colorado breeders saw their group entries capture top honors. The judges, Arch Ginther of Harlowton, Mont., and James Kreycik of Wood Lake, Neb., agreed that even though it only had been four years since a previous assignment found them placing the pens of Aberdeen-Angus bulls at Denver, the 1952 show presented a remarkable achievement in improved quality and numbers of the groups offered.

A Kansas Dottie breeding establishment returned this year after participating strongly for top honors last year to win the grand championship of the groups of five bulls. Blackpost Ranch of Olathe, Kan., owned by S. E. Fifield, secured the purple ribbon on five extremely uniform bulls, all sired by Black Pride of Blackpost 8th. They pushed to first place in the class of five bulls sired before September 1, 1950, followed by an entry of George Althaus and Sons, Sublette, Ill. Sire of the Althaus bulls was Queen Mother's Royal Lad.

Reserve championship honors of the five-bull competition went to Tim and Ferne Pierce of West Woodlawn Farms, Creston, Ill., on their first place group of five bulls calved between September 1 and December 31, 1950. West Woodlawn was the largest exhibitor in the classes of three and five bulls. They were heard from again in the smaller classification when their group of three thick, beefy Angus bulls, showing smoothness and plenty of bone along with uniformity, won their class.

L. B. Pierce of Creston, Ill., faced extremely keen competition in the class of three bulls calved before September 1, 1950. There were 21 pens of Doddies in this outstanding class with a high proportion of typy Blacks so much sought after by both farmer and rancher alike. Quality ran deep in this three-bull class and the judges deliberated carefully before reaching their final decision which placed the purple rosette in the hands of Mr. Pierce who won the same honors last year at Denver. Runner-up in this class was the pen exhibited by Simon Angus Farms of Madison, Kan.

Second to the West Woodlawn entry in the youngest class of three bulls was the pen shown by William Van Page and Wickwire Farms, Jackson, Mich. For the first time there was an opportunity for Aberdeen-Angus breeders to see carlot competition. While only two carloads of bulls were exhibited, visitors to the 1952 Denver show saw this as another milestone in the Westward expansion of the Blacks. Frank Duffy of Longmont, Col., won top honors with a blocky set of Angus bull calves sired by Black Bandolier D. 15th. In second place was Frank Neville, Loveland, Col., with a carlot of bull calves by three different sires, Bandolier of Loveland, Bandolier of Bondo, and Elba's Bandolier E. K. 2nd.

The following states were represented with Angus entries in the pen and carlot division: Illinois, Kansas, Iowa, Colorado, Wyoming, Michigan, Minnesota, and Missouri.

Worrilow Invites Delawareans to Farm and Home Week, At U. of D.

George M. Worrilow, director of the Delaware Agricultural Extension Service and Experiment Station, today issued a special invitation to all Delawareans, to attend the University's annual Farm and Home Week. Farm and Home Week dates are next Tues., Jan. 29, through Fri., Feb. 1.

Said Worrilow, "There is always a better way to approach our problems and opportunities—be they problems of all-out food production or opportunities to live amicably with line-fence neighbors, or neighbors in other parts of the world."

"The program for your 1952 Farm and Home Week is aimed at helping Delaware farmers and homemakers find that better way. Nationally known authorities; Delaware farmers, homemakers, and youth; and the University staff will talk on current trends and problems and predictions and opportunities for the future.

"Home economics program will be offered each day. In agriculture, Tuesday will be egg production, tomato production and vegetable production day. On Wednesday, dairying and fruit and vegetable production are scheduled. Broiler, and fruit and vegetable production take the spotlight on Thursday. On Friday, corn and turkey production will be the topics. Each day, outstanding speakers will address the general sessions."

Tuesday, the Honorable Elbert N. Carvel, governor of the State of Delaware, and President John A. Perkins of the University, will tell about the state and university agricultural programs.

Clarence A. Fulmer, principal of Wilmington High School, known for his knowledge of world affairs, will talk on "The World Today and What We Can Do About It."

Dr. Herrell DeGraff, Babcock Memorial professor of food economics, Cornell University, will talk on "Food and People" Thursday morning.

"How Mature Are We?" is Dr. Jerome Kay's general session topic for Friday morning. Dr. Kay is clinical director of the Governor Bacon Health Center at Delaware City, and has done outstanding work in the psychiatric field. He was mentioned in the most recent issue of "Who's Who in Medicine."

Farm Forestry Class At Short Course By Popular Demand

The announcement of a new farm forestry class in the Farm Short Course was made this week by E. P. Brasher, chairman of the horticulture department at the University of Delaware.

Said Brasher, "Previous short course students requested such a course in the suggestion questionnaires they filled out for us. So this year the State Forestry Department and the University are co-operating to make it possible."

"Farm woodlands, especially in the southern part of the state, could become an excellent source of income to farm families with better knowledge of forestry, and better management practices."

The course will cover practical farm woodland management, identification of woods and trees, and the uses for woods found in this area. There will be two lectures and one laboratory period a week. One lecture and the laboratory period will be taught by W. S. Tabor, state forester. The University entomology and plant pathology departments will give the other lecture period to give practical methods of controlling forest insects and diseases.

Charles Harrison 65 Years On Same Farm

"I wouldn't be satisfied to live anywhere else except right here on this farm," Charles Harrison of Trappe, Md., recently remarked.

He has lived on the same farm 66 years. This 50-acre farm is situated on the Landing Neck Road between Easton and Trappe.

Mr. Harrison employs good farming methods to build up the fertility of the soil. Each spring a 5-10-10 fertilizer is applied to the permanent pasture. Mr. Harrison follows a three-year rotation of corn, wheat and clover, and also grows a small field of alfalfa.

He sees it that his pasture is clipped two or three times a year to keep down the weeds.

Charles has six Guernsey cattle. For 17 years he has shipped milk to Pet, and nowhere else.

Mr. Harrison is especially proud of his quality record, as he does have been on the quality honor roll for the past two years.

"I cool the milk the year around in water, and do not mix night's and morning's milk," he states.

Another good procedure which Mr. Harrison follows is the wiping of the cows' flanks, teats and udders with a damp cloth just before milking.

Charles uses plenty of straw, also, which helps to keep the cows well-bedded, and consequently, much cleaner.

His stable and milk house are kept clean and orderly, too.

Mr. Harrison thinks a lot of his all-purpose, two-wheeled cart, and said he couldn't get along without it, as it is much handier than other wagons. He uses it to haul wood, manure, corn, and in fact, anything that can be hauled. His father also owned it for several years. Not many such carts are in existence today, as the tractor rapidly is replacing "Old Dobbin," says Pet Dairy Chats.

Felton School News

Mr. Bunnell is taking approximately 50 students and teachers to the Academy of Music in Philadelphia Jan. 30 to see the Ballet Russe de Monte Carlo.

O.B. William Jr., Makes Electricity Pay Off

Electrically minded O. Bryan Williams Jr., 17, of Dover, has made the effective use of electricity pay off. State winner in the 4-H Farm and Home Electric program, this young electrician has found easier and better ways of putting electric power to work. Byron began his electric project three years ago by making a portable bench light. He increased his project, installing a system of signal bells between house and garage. With guidance from his mother, he arranged the kitchen appliances, installing outlets, an exhaust fan, fluorescent lights, garbage disposal unit, and a swinging door.

The time saved in walking is two-thirds of that formerly consumed. He has helped in teaching and preparing exhibits to make his club a progressive one. In recognition, Westinghouse Educational Foundation presented Byron with a trip to the 30th National 4-H Club Congress in Chicago in November.

In the Grinding Tests that Won it the Motor Trend Magazine Award, Chrysler proved itself the Best Engineered Car in America

- CHRYSLER SURPASSED ALL OTHERS WHEN MOTOR TREND TESTED FOR:
- ★ Average Braking Distance in Feet
  - ★ Ton Miles per Gallon
  - ★ Average Acceleration in Seconds
  - ★ Acceleration Over Standing 1/4 Mile in Seconds
  - ★ Average Top Speed in M.P.H.
  - ★ Maximum Road Horsepower
  - ★ Pounds per Road Horsepower
  - ★ Maximum Torque in Lbs.-Ft.
  - ★ Maximum Brake Mean Effective Pressure
  - ★ First in Total Points

15 different American stock automobiles—equipped as you buy them—were driven by Motor Trend Magazine as hard as steel and rubber can be driven. In these actual road tests of efficiency and performance, measured by the most accurate instruments obtainable, Chrysler proved itself superior to all others. In 13 tests Chrysler was first in 7—tied in 2, making a total of 9 out of 13... and first in total points!

Only by taking an engine to the limit of its potential, only by turning the corners at high speeds, applying brakes for emergency stops, torturing body, springs and shock absorbers, can you learn just what performance you can expect from the make of car you drive. The results of the Motor Trend tests were conclusive... as Chrysler, again, proved itself the one best car in America.

The Motor Trend Award, like numerous other honors today's Chrysler has won, is both a proof of and a tribute to Chrysler's magnificent Fire-Power engine and master engineering. Each demonstrates why, among men and women who know automobiles... Chrysler is always the first choice.

BURGLARS

at Dover some time before 1:30 a. m. last Friday.
Stephen J. McInerney, manager of the agency, said entrance was gained to the agency building by breaking a window in the rear. Then locks of the sliding garage-type doors were smashed.
It is believed the thieves then loaded the 500-pound safe in the rear of an automobile of the agency, along with the machinery taken.
The thieves were apparently frightened off, but had time to make a getaway. Piled up near where the car was was an adding machine and typewriters, all ready to be loaded into the automobile.
McInerney estimated that in addition to the car, the most valuable article taken, a lathe, shop tools, and other articles were taken.
Troopers discovered the robbery at 1:30 a. m. when they saw an open door at the agency.
The safe was recovered by state police Saturday in a city dump along South Little Creek road, east of Dover. The $66 cash which the safe had contained was gone but the records and other papers had been scattered about and were retrieved. The car, stolen at the same time as the safe, is still missing.
Thieves failed to get in the safe at the Holt Oil Company plant on the South Little Creek Road near the location of the old ball park at Dover.
Earl Alford, manager, said the intruders rolled the safe from the office of the company into a back room and smashed it at will with heavy hammers. The tumblers and the dial were damaged, but the door was not opened. There was about $50 in the safe. Thieves gained entrance to the office by breaking a front door lock.

LICENSES

license will, among other things, show the name, address, color of hair and eyes, weight, height, sex, date of birth and signature. This space provided on the chauffeur's license for pasting a photo.
According to Harold H. Keller, motor vehicle commissioner, the department has now mailed applications to holders of these licenses whose birthdays occur between now and Feb. 10. The new license is for two years instead of one year, as in the past, and the fee is $2.50.
Keller again pointed out that the annual licenses now in effect do not expire until May 31 of this year and will be honored until that time but the holders of these licenses whose birthdays occur before May 31 will have their new licenses post-dated to the date of their birthday.
Persons desiring to make application for permanent licenses will have to file that application at least 30 days before the date of their birth or wait until after their new license is issued before making this application.
This rule is necessary, according to Keller, because of the investigations needed before a permanent license can be issued. Applications for a permanent license can only be made in person at one of the branch offices of the department.

Different Color Treatment

A distinctive and different effect can be obtained for the exterior of a white-painted house by using shutters on the windows of the upper floor, but not downstairs. The shutters may be white, trimmed with maroon, with the window sash painted white. The lower floor windows—with no shutters—can echo the color by having the sash painted the same maroon.

Takes Room from Doldrums

A bright color—vermillion, for instance—draws your eye when it's used in the decoration of a room. A dull one, such as a deep tone of red, stays quietly in its place. The brilliant colors which provide positive accents of color are sometimes needed to give life to an otherwise dull room.

Varied Usage

Peat, youngest offspring in the soil scale, is the first stage in the transformation of vegetation to coal. When dried and pressed it can be burned, and is therefore used for fuel in many countries, especially in Europe. In the U.S.A., peat is dug and processed on a commercial scale in 19 states. We use it for soil improvement, plant-feeding, an ingredient in fertilizers, and for insulating needs.
