Fire Company to Install Two-Way Radio Set To Aid Civil Defense

Installation and Maintenance Costs To Be Borne by State Civil Defense Department

The Harrington Fire Company Monday night agreed to accept two-way radio equipment from the State Civil Defense Department for use in civil defense. The local company will be a part of a state-wide net of radio communications among volunteer fire companies.

Under the plan, radio equipment will be installed in one truck in each fire company, with installation and maintenance costs borne by the Civil Defense Department.

Truck drivers, and other persons to be designated by Chief Douglas Mills, will study operation of the radio under the guidance of the department.

The cost of the mobile transmitting and receiving equipment will be taken care of by State and matching federal civil defense funds.

There will be a net control station in each county.

According to Col. D. Preston Lee, State Civil Defense Director, the plan would give Delaware firemen a radio network similar to the State Police network, but with a different wave length. It would aid greatly in coverage of all fires, particularly when several companies are called and several fires occur at the same time.

The more it was used in ordinary fires, the better prepared the volunteers would be in a civil defense emergency, he said.

In other fire company business, Recorder Melvin Wyatt revealed that the unit had responded to three alarms, traveled 24 miles, and that there was no loss in March.

The fire company ambulance made nine trips and traveled 455 miles during the month, a report said.

A Parade Committee was appointed as follows: Clyde Tucker, Russell Blades, Albert Price, Tom Brown, C. Douglas Mills, Frank Hendricks, and Pete Hamilton.

The company received membership applications, to be acted on at the next meeting, from the following: Donald Kent, Clarence Welch, Robert Jester, and Delbert Cain.

The fire company held an ambulance school Wednesday, with Dr. Hewitt Smith instructing in the handling of injured persons.

Gallant Oxheart Drops Dead At Local Track

Oxheart will not participate in the spring harness meet here next month; the gallant roan dropped dead because of a heart attack while training Tuesday morning at the Kent & Sussex Raceway.

The seven-year-old pacer was being driven by Johnnie Amato, his trainer and driver, at the time.

The son of Royal Napoleon, well-known in harness racing circles in the East, was owned by David Aboff, of Huntington, L. I. He made his mark of 2:05.2 here as a four-year-old, equalling at the time, the mark for side-wheelers here during pari-mutuel meets.

His lifetime earnings were $20,855.02. Last year, the roan made $4061.50. In 26 starts he won three races, placed twice, and showed twice. However, generally he was in deep and really had to step to win.

Oxheart's most outstanding performance last year was when he won a race for a purse of $4000 last May at Yonkers in 2:05.3, defeating such stellar performers as Valdo Abbe, Green Mountain Boy, Shamrock Thoughts, and Prince Walter. He won a race last August at Ocean Downs in 2:07.3.

"THE MAN OF GALILEE"

The Rev. Paul M. Edris, one of the greatest preachers in Florida, has this to say to Dr. Alexander Cairns, who will deliver his famous lecture, "The Man of Galilee," at the Harrington High School auditorium Wednesday evening:

"The lecture, 'The Man of Galilee,' was one of the grandest things I ever heard in any category. I was thrilled and inspired by it as I have seldom been in my entire experience. When men like Dr. Cairns are no longer on the American platform, an era will have passed. Personally, I cannot help but look with sadness on the apparent trend away from the school of the flowing diction, the beautifully turned phrase, and the sound literary scholarship. His is tops in any way you look at it. I only wish it were possible for me to convey my actual feeling about that masterpiece. Suffice it to say that for one hour I sat in heavenly places."

Leslie Simpson Prepares For Spring Meet

In his first race, four years ago, Harrington's popular Leslie Simpson, was ignominiously thrown off the sulky right in front of the grandstand. He didn't let it get him down, however, and when he donned the silks in later sessions, he won his next three races.

The lean, taciturn reinsman, whose cud of chewing tobacco is as familiar a trademark as is Churchill's cigar, has been training and driving harness horses only five years, yet he has made a name for himself in the sport in the east.

After starting out with Carlton Goslin, he had charge of the Fred Floyd stable. This year, for the first time, he has a public stable with 11 head, most of which will participate in the annual spring harness meet of the Kent & Sussex Racing Association which gets under way Thurs., May 1, for 20 nights of pari-mutuel competition.

Included in the stable are three Simpson horses—Stratton, Ashcroft Hanover, and Bold Venture. The first, a trotter, by Peter Abr, has a mark of 2:10. Last season the diagonally gaited gelding garnered 8 wins, 12 seconds, and 7 thirds in 39 starts. The second, by Spencer Scott, is a nine-year-old trotter with a mark of 2:11.3. The third, Bold Venture, is a freelegged pacer by Spud Hanover. He has a mark of 2:11.2, but hasn't raced in two years.

Simpson says, "I haven't had him too long, but he looks all right and I may start him a couple times during the last part of the meet."

Other stable entries are as follows: Symbol Diane, 5, green pacer, by Symbol Green, brother to Symbol Louis, owned by Ted Daniels, Middletown, superintendent of Delaware Memorial Bridge. She's ready to start, says Simpson.

Wilson, Hanover, 13, 2:11.4, trotter by Sandy Flash, owned by Cabbage Brown, Harrington. He won a race here last fall in 2:12 and another at Batavia in the same time. "People at the track say he looks better than he has ever looked in his life," Simpson sums it up.

Harrington City Directory Puts In Its Appearance

Harrington's new city directory is now being distributed to business houses and residences in the municipality, according to Sam Short Jr., of Chosen Friends Lodge No. 35, Independent Order of Odd Fellows, under whose auspices the book was published.

The 30-page directory should fill a long-felt need in Harrington.

Now that the citizens know their street numbers, it would behoove them to place the numbers on their homes.

Joe Penny, of the lodge, said this week he planned to contact the home-owners about putting the numbers on the curbs and buildings.

"Cavalcade of America" Program to Be Staged At DuPont's Seaford Plant

The world's first plant for the commercial production of nylon will be the scene of a national radio salute to Sussex County and the Delmarva Peninsula Tuesday night, May 27, when the DuPont Company's "Cavalcade of America" program, now in its 17th session on the air, will originate at Seaford. Official host for the broadcast will be Dr. Raymond C. Grills, manager of the Seaford plant, who made the announcement yesterday.

The "Cavalcade" company of approximately 40 persons, including actors, announcers, narrators, musicians, technicians, and production personnel, will be brought from New York for the local show. Top names of the stage, screen, and radio to be cast in featured roles remain to be selected.

The show, to be carried coast-to-coast over the National Broadcasting Company's network, will be presented for a series of audiences of residents of the Delmarva Peninsula. Tickets will be distributed by the Seaford plant and will be available for schools, civic clubs, chambers of commerce, and similar groups.

"Our primary objective in bringing the broadcast to Seaford," said Dr. Grills, "is in tribute to our employees here. We want first to honor and entertain them and their families.

Delaware Democrats will hold their "little" convention for the election of a national convention delegates in Dover on May 17, it was decided Monday night at the meeting of the Democratic State Committee at Dover—where Gov. Elbert N. Carvel was urged by party leaders to run for re-election, but made no announcement.

The date depends on availability of the Field House of the Dover High School. If it is not obtainable for May 17, the convention will be held May 24.

In either case the "little" convention will be the first such convention the Democrats have ever held on a Saturday.

In another action Monday night, the committee allocated the six national convention delegate and six alternate places among the three counties. Sussex will name two delegates and two alternates; Kent one delegate and two alternates; and New Castle County three delegates and two alternates.

Note of Suspense
The meeting took on a note of suspense when Secretary of State Harris B. McDowell, Jr., the state chairman, introduced the first speaker. He told the meeting he hoped the next speaker "would have some important announcement to make." He added that he is satisfied that party members want that man to be their candidate, and that he is confident the independent voters of the state feel just as keenly that they want the present state leadership continued. He then called on Governor Carvel.

But the Governor did not choose to use that opportunity to make an announcement. He said he hopes he would be able to make one soon.

And he declared that "whoever the candidates may be, I will do all in my power to help to elect them. I'll be in there pitching."

The Governor reviewed the accomplishments of his administration and said he felt it has been "a good administration for all of the people of the state."

The big job now, he said, is to get the story of what has been accomplished to the people.

He declared that Delaware probably pays more in state support for education than any other state, providing 90 to 95 percent of operating costs and about 60 percent of building costs.

The Governor asserted that in spite of the huge school and road building programs, the state's income tax, from which it derives a major share of its revenue, is at the same rate it was when his administration came into office. He added that county tax rates in Delaware are among the lowest in the nation.

After the Governor's talk, Mr. McDowell called on Edward R. Hensel, Wilmington Democratic chairman, who led the four subdivision chairmen in urging Gov. Carvel to run again. He declared that his committee members believe Wilmington will give the Democratic Party the same huge plurality given the state ticket in the 1948 election. Committee members are eager to learn who will head the ticket and hope there will be no change, he continued. Mr. Hensel said "the sooner the announcements of candidates are made the better."

New Castle County Chairman G. Lester Daniels said there is a similar feeling in the county.

Carvel, Bayard Praised
And Vernon B. Derricks, the Kent County chairman, predicted that if "Carvel and Bayard head the ticket we cannot be defeated. All we are waiting for is that good news" that the two men will be candidates, he said.

Lt. Gov. Alexis I. duPont Bayard did not attend the meeting.

State Senator R. Allen Cannon, the Sussex chairman, predicted that the people of that county will vote out the last Republican office-holders at the next election.

The state committee instructed the county Democratic committees to meet the issue calls for the election of delegates to the little convention not later than April 19. It recommended that the delegate election be held on May 10. The fixing of filing dates is up to the county committees.

Cpl. John P. Carter, son of Mrs. Bessie E. and the late Clayton C. Carter, of Marydel, recently was awarded the Bronze Star Medal with the letter "V" for heroic achievement in connection with military operations while serving as a member of Company B, 21st Infantry Regiment, 24th Division, stationed near Kumson, Korea. On Oct. 20, 1951, he and two other comrades were trying to rescue some wounded pals when they were pinned down by intense small arms and machine gun fire. Cpl. Carter crawled back through the heavy enemy fire to the command post and brought back additional help. He then led his comrades in an assault upon the enemy, deliberately drawing the entire fire of the hostile troops on himself, thus enabling the wounded to be evacuated successfully.

When he observed that this had been done he moved to a recoilless rifle squad and pointed out enemy machine gun positions by firing into them with his rifle. Although completely exposed while doing this, he repeated the feat until all key emplacements had been destroyed. Cpl. Carter's heroic actions, fearless initiative and selfless devotion to duty reflect the greatest credit on himself and the U. S. Infantry. He is now visiting his mother in Marydel during a 30-day leave. Marydel is mighty proud to have a hero in her midst.

Cpl. Wm. C. Cochran, of Fort Devens, Mass., spent the week-end visiting at the home of his father-in-law, Arthur Newton.

An Open Letter To Parents of High School Boys

There must be many questions in your minds about:

- The effect of current Draft policies on your boy's future:
- Whether he is subject to military service:
- How he can perform services; and,
- How he can continue his schooling—all pertinent questions today.

The Delaware National Guard can supply answers to these questions.

If your son volunteers to enlist in a National Guard unit before he becomes 18½ years of age, he is not subject to induction by the Draft.

As a member of the National Guard, your son will not be called up for duty unless his unit is inducted into Federal Service. He has an opportunity to commence his basic military training while continuing his high school education.

Information on current Selective Service policies, and the advantages of National Guard membership, will be presented at a meeting to be held in your local high school during the next few weeks, to which all students of military age will be invited. I strongly recommend that your son inquire at your high school about this meeting and that he be sure to attend.

Information is available also at Local National Guard Armories every day and evening, Monday through Friday.

I sincerely believe that the Delaware National Guard offers your son a splendid opportunity to serve his country while continuing his education.

Students Attend Play Festival
Twenty-six boys and girls went by bus to Newark to attend the Fri., March 28, session of the Tenth Play Festival of the University of Delaware. During the day they saw six plays presented by high school students, and in the evening they saw four one-act plays produced by Delaware's Little Theatres.

Not only did the trip prove to be an educational and enlightening one, but also a sociable one. Felton students became acquainted with those from Smyrna, Laurel, Dover, and Wilmington. They also saw Teddy Hughes, Lewis Harrington, and Ann Moore, former students of Felton.

Miss Elsie Clark, of the English and drama departments, sponsored this field trip.

Elementary News
The Felton Junior Band participated in the Junior Band Festival at Caesar Rodney School April 1. Other bands participating were Smyrna, Milford, and Caesar Rodney.

Sophomores Sponsor Bake

On Good Friday from 10 to 12 the tenth grade will be at the Harrington office to sell you good thoughts for the Easter weekend.

Each class in turn is volunteering to earn money for the dramatic art department. The class of 1952, this year's senior class, built a basic stage set with the profit from a skating party and a contribution of $15.50 from this year's junior class and $15.50 from this year's senior class.

Now the drama department wants to buy spot and flood light. That is the purpose of holding this bake.

THE RISEN CHRIST

1 Corinthians 15:20 "But now is Christ risen from the dead, and become the first fruits of them that slept."

Today—Friday, over 1900 years ago Jesus was crucified. Then, followed His burial, and the sealing of His tomb. On the third day He arose. To Christians, this latter day, became known as the first day of the week or Sunday, in loving memory and reverence of our risen Lord.

All religious days have a singular atmosphere surrounding them; and no one can help noticing the difference in feeling, which our holy days always bring. This is especially true of Easter. Everything seems to be breaking into newness of life.

Easter gives to the world a faith it needs any day, but more significantly is this true today. "EASTER FAITH" contributes largely to the world's hope for Peace; namely: "The death of the worldly-man and nature in us and the resurrection of a new kind of life in Jesus Christ."

For Christians, Easter is primarily A SYMBOL OF CHRIST'S POWER TO RENEW HUMAN LIFE IN HIS OWN IMAGE.

There are many things in the life of Christ we can not answer. Even the precious resurrection truth, which Easter time always brings to us, takes our intellects along with it up to a certain point, then it leaves it behind; and we are forced to make the full journey by faith.

To the early disciples the Resurrection of Jesus meant proof of His Saviourhood. During the three years prior to His death, He had convinced them of His ability to take care of them in this life. Other great leaders have also done this. But the big question was death. No one had conquered this. But now, He had risen from death. The power was broken. He now, was a real Saviour.

That first Easter morning, Christ became "the first-fruits of them that slept." The Apostle Paul in speaking of Christ as "the firstfruits" was thinking of at least two well known lines of thought. The first is that which is found in the 15th Chapter of Numbers. There, we are told the Sacred Loaves used in the Temple are always made from the first portion of the dough. Christ by His death showed His complete consecration onto God, and by His resurrection became the first portion, leading all the rest in time. In the second line of reasoning Paul knew that the first fruits of the ground are a pledge and promise of the harvest. Jesus, by coming forth from the ground, now had become a guarantee or promise for the future resurrection of all Christians. This becomes in a sense Paul's reductio ad absurdum to the claim of the Corinthians that the resurrection was false.

To pursue Paul's reasoning a little further, we find his argument runs from all die in Adam to all live through Jesus Christ. His grace flows down the ages like a healing stream:

"His Cross takes us up to the grave;
His Resurrection takes us through the vail of death and into eternity."

We die and rise with Christ by: (a) crucifying our evil dispositions; (b) getting rid of unworthy desires; (c) losing a grasping spirit; malice and anger; (d) refusing to slander others or tell falsehoods.

One who has risen with Christ, will be found manifesting the following virtues:

- Compassion
- Kindness
- Lowliness
- Meekness
- Patience
- Forbearing one another
- Forgiving each other

Love, which binds everything together in perfect harmony.

So this Easter, 1952, may we remember that:
"Now is Christ risen from the dead,
and become the firstfruits of them that slept."

He is a Saviour in life; and a Saviour in death.

—Rev. Daniel T. Pritchard

The Greatness of Dawn
By Samuel A. Short Jr.

In the morning with the rising of the sun,
With darkness of the night being drawn.

For with the day daylight will come,
That's! The Greatness of Dawn.

Then the frogs in the pond with voices stilled,
With the beasts of the forest traveling on.

It gives a feeling of security filled,
That's! The Greatness of Dawn.

Then we hear an echo falling by the wayside,
The tread of feet with firm muscles brawn.

The rising of the sun the darkness to hide
That's! The Greatness of Dawn.

We can sing the praises of each daily chore,
With our youth from sunset till dawn

By spreading joy of thy sweetest name galore.
That's! The Greatness of Dawn.

That's! The Greatness of Dawn.

That's! The Greatness of Dawn.

That's! The Greatness of Dawn.

That's! The Greatness of Dawn.

"THE RISEN LORD"
J. Harry Wright

In darkness Mary came alone
To the tomb where Christ was laid;
An angel had rolled away the stone,
Mary's heart was sore afraid.
As Mary wept with grief and fear,
"Why weepest thou?" angels said;
She said, "They've taken my Lord from here,
And I know not where He's laid!"

At sunrise, Jesus spoke to her,
She knew Him not at the start,
But wept beside the sepulchre,
Revealing an aching heart.

"Why weepest thou? Whom seekest thou?"
Said Jesus, at break of day;
"Sir, tell me, where His body lies now,
And I will take Him away."

Jesus said, "Mary!"—All was well,
She saw her Master and Lord,
"Touch me not," said He,—"go and tell
My brethren of one accord!"

Mary obeyed the Master's word,
She ran from the sepulchre,
To tell, with joy, she'd seen the Lord,
Who'd spoken these things to her.

To Pilate, Herod, Christ's crowned head
Was disgraced on Calvary;
To Annas, Saiaphas, Christ was

as dead
As the day He died on a tree.
But Mary's words reveal the faith
Of the first Christian community;
Jesus was victor over death,
And would reign eternally.
Down through the ages ever since,
Christ appears to all His own.
To the eyes of the soul, not to eyes of sense,
Is the risen Master known.

Inside the Bookmobile

By a Bookworm
I've just come back from a visit to the bookmobile. Joyce D'Neal was standing waiting for the truck to pull in. Then Mrs. I. Riley came in, and a new customer, Roland Stayton, of the jewelry store. Mrs. William Shaw and Mrs. Agatha Noble arrived just after, so as that happened in a matter of ten minutes, the librarian was kept busy.

In looking over the shelves I saw "Little Princesses," by Marion Crawford, governess of the now Queen of England and her sister, Princess Elizabeth. This ran in a serial in one of the magazines as did "I Live Again," by Ileana, Princess of Romania, which was on the shelves also. "Your Dream House—How to Build it for Less than $3500," by Hubbard Cobb. Some might be interested in that. I took out "Vain Shadow" a romantic biography of the discoverer of the Amazon, by Hartzell Spence. In this case, the name, Hartzell Spence, sold me the book, for didn't he write "Excuse My Dust?" "I Married an Arab," by Mary Winifred Bushakra; "Calm Yourself," by Fenwick L. Holmes, a book on the magic key to serenity, psychoanalysis, complex and inferiority, etc. This should be interesting reading. The other selection was, "Tongue of the Prophets," by Robert St. John, radio commentator and top-flight foreign correspondent to the United States from London, Paris and the fighting fronts. This is a true-life story of Eliezer Ben Yehuda, who spent a lifetime reviving a language which had been dead for 2000 years.

I only hope that I can scrape enough time to finish reading these four books before next bookmobile date rolls around, Tuesday afternoon, April 22.

I enjoyed reading "Yankee Lawyer," the autobiography of Ephraim Tutt, last week. While this book is not a new one, it was written in 1943, and certainly is worth reading. J. Harvey Burgess said he had read the autobiography, in short form, in the Saturday Evening Post, but that he wished to read the book, so I took it out for him for the next two weeks.

This book is filled with incidents in the life of Tutt that make for enjoyable reading. I especially got a kick out of the time when he was attending Harvard. Living across from Tutt was a queer bird named Angus McGillicuddy who had graduated with the class of '57 and from the Law School in '60 and had remained a hearty perennial among students ever since, having absorbed practically all the University had to offer and was studying Phoenician inscription, a half hours course given once a week. He had taken a number of degrees including A. B., M. A., Ph. D., LL. D., D. D., S. B., etc. When asked what he was doing at Harvard still, he said he was having a good time. His folk lost their money when he was a boy and a great uncle put aside a certain amount in trust, the income to be paid as long as he pursued studies at Harvard. When he finished there, it was to go to the Massachusetts Humane Society. After being at Harvard for 30 years, the Humane Society made a fuss and tried to get the money, but the court withheld McGillicuddy, so once a week he

Albert E. Fisher Finds Interest In Angus Cattle

Albert E. Fisher, who lives on Route 3, between Harrington and Vernon, is interested in raising Angus cattle. At present, however, he is just feeling his way along until he determines whether or not he wishes to major in the beef or breeding department.

At the start, he purchased two registered cows, bred, a heifer, and a bull, eligible for papers, from a Hartly outfit. When the cows calved, Fisher sold the progeny for beef. The cows were bred to the bull after which the male was sold.

The cows calved two heifers and the heifer, purchased from Hartly, had a bull calf. The original cows were then sold. The Hartly heifer was then beefed for family use.

Thus, Fisher now has two heifers, a bull calf, and a heifer calf.

U. S. Spring Pig Crop Down; Maryland Expects Increase Careful Management Will Pay

The number of sows farmers expect to farrow in the spring of 1952 is down 8 per cent from last year for the country as a whole, but Maryland farmers expect 4 per cent more farrowings, according to the Maryland-Delaware Crop and Livestock Reporting Service, at College Park, Md.

Pork prices this spring have been lower than expected, due to a heavy pig crop in the fall of 1951 and full storages, which forced pork onto the fresh market. But University of Maryland extension swine specialist Malcolm H. Kerr expects pork prices in the summer and fall to improve, in view of the national decrease in spring farrowings.

In Maryland, well-established pig farmers have kept up production, while some smaller producers have lowered production or dropped out, Kerr reports.

"Whether the market is up or down," he points out, "there is no doubt that good management practices will pay off."

Here is a list of practices Kerr recommends for efficient pork production with spring litters:

1. At 5 to 7 days, if the litter is on concrete or wooden floors, put some fresh sod in the pen for the little pigs to root in—this will prevent anemia.

2. Supplement the sow's milk by starting creep feeding at 2 to 3 weeks of age. Use either a complete pig feed, cracked or shelled corn or an oatmeal feed.

3. Castrate boar pigs at 2 to 4 weeks. This will increase their growth rate, and will get you a better market value at sale time.

4. Move the sow and litter to pasture as a shelter. Cover crop pastures should do well now, but wait for more growth on legume pastures.

5. Vaccinate at 6 to 9 weeks of age. Ask your veterinarian about the new vaccines.

6. Wean at 8 weeks.

7. Provide an adequate ration to push pigs for an early August market.

8. Earnotch pigs from different litters to make it easy to select the fastest growing pigs from large litters for breeding replacements.

Not a Murder in a Carload "Body-deadener" is a term used in automotive plants—not for murder—but for a black asphalt coating. This material, which has a sound-deadening effect, is sprayed or brushed onto the floor pans and doors of a car, as well as under the sows and trunk lids.

George Simpson, Houston, chairman of the Delaware Bankers' Association agricultural committee, announced the main topics and speakers for the Farm Credit Clinic, University of Delaware April 18. Says Simpson, "The program this year concentrates on land appraisal as a basis for farm financing, and land values and the economics outlook for agriculture. Outstanding authorities from Virginia and New York will talk to the group taking part in the fourth annual clinic."

Time to Spray For Spittlebugs

It's time to be on the lookout for spittlebugs and to spray them if they show up in clover or alfalfa fields. Spraying with toxaphene, methoxychlor or benzene hexachloride will control the pesky little yellow insects that reduce legume hay yields, says T. L. Bissell, extension entomologist at the University of Maryland.

The first spittlebugs hatched about the first of April and will continue to increase for several weeks, Bissell says. He suggests close inspection of hay fields to time the control spray.

Look closely at the plants. The bugs will begin feeding on the crowns of the plants, making little masses of spittle or froth.

Don't spray before the bugs begin to hatch, but for best results time the spray before the crop is more than 6 inches high.

If you've never sprayed before, Bissell suggests leaving several unsprayed portions in the field so that you can see for yourself the difference that spraying makes.

Complete directions on when to spray, what materials to use, and how to get best results are contained in University of Maryland Extension Service Fact Sheet 41, "Spittlebug Control on Clover and Alfalfa." You can obtain a copy from your county agent or the Bulletin Room, Symons Hall, University of Maryland, College Park, Md.

Tennessean Will Judge Angus Cattle at Fair

Joe Keefeauver, of Jonesboro, Tenn., one of the most outstanding breeders and judges of Aberdeen-Angus cattle in the nation, will judge the black animals at the Kent & Sussex Fair during the week of July 21.

This show is the earliest in the Angus show circuit, and has always had outstanding judges, and it is, therefore, considered the best, if not the only, place in the East to start show cattle, said John S. Laughlin, Land's End Farm, Queenstown, Md., chairman of the Show Committee of the Eastern Shore Aberdeen-Angus Association which is sponsoring the Angus division at the fair.

Last year there were 14 exhibitors in the division, from Delaware, Maryland, and New Jersey. Expressing the hope of increasing the number of entries this year, Mr. Laughlin added that four entries were already assured.

A feature of the fair will be the Angus luncheon, under the management of Mr. and Mrs. Charles P. Stokes and Mr. and Mrs. Clifton M. Miller, of Chester, on Governor's Day, Thursday, July 24. Gov. Carvel and other state officials usually attend the luncheon.

The Show Committee also includes in addition to Chairman Laughlin, the following: Howard Anderson, Wimberly Farm, Princess Anne; James M. Corrigan, Fair Promise Farm, Betterton, Md.; W. J. Dufendach, Rose Hill Farm, Houston; James B. Lingle, Wye Plantation, Queenstown, Md.; Carl L'Orange, Wye River Farm, Queenstown, Md.; William A. McGregor Jr., Alan McGregor & Son, Worton, Md.; and Russell L. West, fieldman-secretary, Maryland Aberdeen-Angus Association, Frederick, Md.

Selecting Poultry For Disease Diagnosis

Poultrymen can help the veterinarians in a diagnosis laboratory come up with the right answer to their disease problems. Drs. H. R. Baker and Daniel S. Jaquette of the State Board of Agriculture, give points to remember when bringing birds to laboratories for diagnosis:

1. Birds should be representative of the disease in the flock. The rest of the flock will be treated for the disease found in the sample birds.

2. Submit five birds if possible. Dead birds, if they are not decomposed, should be included. 3. Birds should be carried in a cardboard box, or other container with ventilation. Overheated birds will show symptoms like those of respiratory diseases. Birds carried in feed bags are bumped and bruised, and often so covered with feed that many symptoms or lesions are covered up. Tying the birds' legs together causes symptoms of lameness and paralysis not normally present.

4. A complete history should accompany the birds. This history should include breed, age, length of sickness, daily mortality, and number of birds in the flock affected; previous vaccinations, and dates of vaccination; any previous medication, dates used and kind used. Any symptoms noticed by the owner are also helpful. Help the diagnostic laboratories help you by following these suggestions.

Farm Front News

Spring Best Time To Study Drainage

Spring is the best time to get an over-all view of the farm's drainage pattern, advises Ray W. Carpenter, extension agricultural engineer at the University of Maryland.

At this season, he says, "It's easy to see the trouble spots and determine what to do." Open ditches have their place in drainage, but avoid them if you can, suggests the university engineer. They waste land, cost money to maintain, must be bridged to cross with machinery and are a nuisance to farm around.

Tile and labor cost more than in the days when tiling was common practice throughout Maryland. However, he says, in terms of a bushel of grain or a can of milk, tiling today cost about the same as it did 75 years ago. It's possible to save money by planning installations carefully. For example, extremely heavy, pasty clay soils are better with a lacing of frequent dead furrows for quick surface runoff than they are with tile drainage. The herring-bone system of tile layout is adapted to flat uniformly wet level areas.

Most mistakes in tile drainage are made in locating the tile to correct hillside seepage spots, according to Carpenter. Here the tile should be laid almost on a contour, above the water out-crops to intercept the higher water table at a ground depth of at least 24 inches, and preferably 30 inches.

Such intercepting lines remove the water before it has a chance to do surface damage. Too often tile lines for this purpose are laid up and down the slope.

Kenneth Aiken Accepts Post With D. A. B. A.

Ellwood Gruwell, president, announces that on Monday evening, March 31, the directors of the Kent County unit of the Delaware Artificial Breeders' Association accepted with regret the resignation of Maurice Adams, of Harrington, who has been the manager and technician for the local unit for the past 2 or 3 years. Mr. Adams has built up the association by doing an excellent job.

The board then hired Kenneth Aiken as manager and technician. Mr. Aiken gave excellent promise in his training period under Delmar J. Young, extension dairyman at the University of Delaware, and also during the field training under the direction of Mr. Adams.

He lives at 209 Hanley street. His telephone number is Harrington 8725 and is not listed in the directory.

There are now two circuits under the supervision of the Kent County directors. Circuit No. 1 extends from Dover along Route 8 south to the Sussex County line. This is Mr. Aiken's territory.

Circuit No. 2 extends along Route 8 north to Blackbird Creek north of Smyrna and into New Castle County.

Lloyd McNatt, of Smyrna, is manager and technician for this No. 2 Circuit. He has been technician in this territory since November and is doing a fine job.

The directors of the Kent County unit are: Ellwood Gruwell, Felton; W. Edgar Dill, Goldsboro, Md.; Francis Thomas, Maryland, Md.; Henry Kozicki, Clayton; Robert L. Nelson, Harrington; George C. Simpson, Houston; George Robbins, Mil-

Higher Corn Yield, Less Cost, Leaflet Tells How

"It costs just as much to plow, harrow, plant and cultivate to grow 25 bushels of corn per acre as it does to grow 100 bushels," says Claude E. Phillips, agronomist with the Delaware Agricultural Extension Service.

"The man, tractor and machine labor, plus seed, will cost about $25 per acre. If the yield is only 30 bushels per acre, the cost per bushel is 83 cents. Twenty dollars worth of fertilizer can usually increase the yield enough to cut cost per bushel to 45 cents. Think of the increased profit!"

"Fertilizer for 100 Bushels of Corn" is a Delaware extension service leaflet, written by Phillips. It is based on results of fertilization practices used by Delaware farmers in the Five-Acre Corn Yield Contest the last few years.

Recommendations are given for fertilization of ground formerly in ladino, alfalfa, or crimson clover; vetch; red clover; lespedeza; and bare or stubble ground. Recommendations are adjusted for using stable manure, poultry manure, or no manure.

County extension offices in Georgetown, Dover, and Newark have free copies of "Fertilizer for 100 Bushels of Corn," EF 27. Copies will also be sent from the Bulletin Mailing Room, Wolf Hall, Newark, upon request.

Tomato Varieties Show Promise

Improved Garden State and Step 68 were the most outstanding in trials of 15 different tomato varieties by the University of Delaware last year. Bill Tarbell, Kent County agricultural agent, reports that Improved Garden State produced 20.6 tons of marketable fruit. Step 68 produced 19.5 tons. The best strain of Rutgers produced 15.8 tons in the trials throughout the state. Stokesross No. 3 and 4, Jefferson, and Geneva No. 7 also produced yields superior to Rutgers. The largest fruits of the 15 varieties were produced by Improved Garden State.

The tomatoes were treated alike, grown in single row plots 45 feet long, with plants spaced three feet by five feet. A 5-10-10 fertilizer was applied at 1200 pounds per acre before the plants were set. Later, all the trial plants were side dressed with 300 pounds per acre of 5-10-10.

The russet hue is repeated in the hand-hooked rugs on the floor.

According to statisticians, surveys show that men have a preference for cool colors over warm ones. Blue is first choice in about 45 percent of all instances, with red and purple following—about equal in preference. Green, yellow and orange are next in line.

An Easter program will be rendered at the church here Sunday evening at 7 o'clock. A hearty welcome awaits all who come.

Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Butler and children were last Saturday evening guests of Mr. and Mrs. Russell Stevens and family, rural Denton. City to Accept Deed For Streets In Manor

The City of Harrington will accept the deed for the streets in Harrington Manor, it was revealed at the monthly meeting of the City Council Monday night.

The group authorized the city attorney, Howard Lynch, to accept the document from the owners of the land, J. Gordon Smith, of Dover, and Mrs. Elizabeth Shaw, of Harrington.

Councilman Charles Peck Sr. said one of the significances of the move would be that the City could build streets on its own instead of private property. The City intends to surface two blocks of Shaw Avenue in the Manor.

The Council also voted to put up a light between 316 and 320 Dorman Street.

Arnold Gilstad, 56 Clark Street, requested an alley in the rear of his home, but the Council deferred action.

William M. Cain, of 106 Hanley St., is serving with Marine Fighter Squadron 225 aboard the aircraft carrier USS Midway as aircraft maintenance repairman. In addition to operating as a fighter squadron, the unit has the distinction of being the only Marine close air support squadron in the Mediterranean trained for tactical support of ground troops.

Pvt. William A. McWilliams Jr., whose parents live at 43 E. Division St., Dover, recently graduated from the Far East Command Chemical School at Camp Gifu, Japan. McWilliams attended the University of Delaware.

Cpl. John F. Myers Jr., of Bowers Beach, has re-enlisted for six years in the paratroopers. A Korean veteran, Cpl. Myers made two combat jumps. The son of John F. Myers, formerly chief of police of Harrington, he recently married a Kentuckian.

Trinity Methodist Church Notes

As we come up to Easter Day once again on Sunday, the Greek philosophy of Immortality plus the Hebrew conception of the resurrection, loom large in our thinking; and yet possibly Paul's way of putting it, expresses more succinctly that part of our Christian faith. You will remember St. Paul's statement is: that just as we have a physical body here, so in the life beyond death we shall have a spiritual body. All services will be at the usual hours, namely:

9:45 A. M. Sunday School, with a class of your age group.

11 A. M. The Morning Worship. Our Junior Choir will render special Easter anthems. There will be baptisms and reception of new members.

6:30 P. M. Martha Gruwell will lead the youth meeting in the Church Annex.

7:30 P. M. Our Sunday School Easter program.

Wednesday Evening: The regular monthly meeting of the M. Y. F.

Thursday Evening: Rehearsal of choirs.

Thurs., May 15: Peninsula Annual Conference convenes in Wilmington.

CHRYSLER FirePower is so much more than HORSEPOWER

- + It's worth remembering that today's Chrysler V-8 is not a "warmed-over" engine, but basically brand new... the first truly new type engine of modern times. It does, indeed, open new horsepower potentials, but what it can mean to you goes way beyond just that...
- + FirePower is also a better-built engine throughout. It doesn't require premium fuel. It runs with less waste, less heat, less wear, less carbon deposit than other type engines can do. More of your gasoline's energy is turned into actual road power, greater reserve for passing and top speeds when needed...
- + FirePower gives your gasoline a better place to work... the first hemispherical combustion chamber in a stock-car engine. It makes possible more power from every drop of gas. You feel it the minute you open up a Chrysler, in greater accelerating power than you've ever had at your command...
- + Why not drive this revolutionary new-type engine, and feel its wonderful difference for yourself? Let your Chrysler dealer show you how much more than horsepower your money can buy in the engine Chrysler has designed from scratch to do an engine's job better, longer, and more efficiently than previous engines can hope to do!

THE PEOPLES BANK

Want a lot of mileage for your money?

WE'LL admit that the price tags of automobiles—all automobiles—are not what they used to be.

But it's just as true today as ever before that some price tags are lower than others, and some cars cost less to own than others.

So let's see how a Buick SPECIAL fits into the picture.

Take first cost. If you put the price tag of this Buick against price tags of cars that have always been tagged as belonging in "the low-priced field"—you'll find that, in actual dollars, a Buick's surprisingly close to these cars of lesser size and horsepower.

But that's just the beginning.

What you're getting here is Buick quality—this SPECIAL comes down the same assembly line as SUPERS and ROADMASTERS.

Its heft tells you it has extra sturdiness in frame and structure.

Its Fireball Engine delivers extra power. It is an eight, a valve-in-head, with high compression, and the miles you can get from a gallon of gas make it a thrifty performer.

You get Buick's Million Dollar Ride, which protects you—and the car—from jars and jolts.

Even the tires are bigger—which, any tire man will tell you, lengthens their wear.

And if you pay a bit extra for Dynaflo Drive* you're easing the strain on the engine, the rear end, the tires—and eliminating clutch-repair bills.

So when we talk about "mileage for your money" we're talking about the miles you'll get from your car—including the unused miles that are what you have to sell when you trade it in.

Maybe that's why Buick's doing so well in the present market. Why not come in and see what a great car this is for you?

Equipment, accessories, trim and models are subject to change without notice. Wheel Covers standard on ROADMASTERS, optional at extra cost on other Series. White sidewalls optional at extra cost when available. *Standard on ROADMASTERS, optional at extra cost on other Series.

A must visitor out to the track is little Joe Stewart. He is the three-year-old grandson of Mrs. Calloway of the Bridle Bit. When they walk a horse out you can bet your boots, little Joe is on the end of the lead shank. He was so tired out Tuesday evening he was hanging on his daddy's back with his little eyes almost closed. So little man, you had a busy day. The beautiful goat that visited everybody's stable did this past week. He was owned by Harry Craig. Booty, those were the best apples I ever ate. Think I had more than the horses did. Mr. Burgess Sr. chatting with everyone out at the Wonder Bar. Who could be nicer than he. Mayor Rash, your town is beautiful with all the trees, flowers and shrubs. Just ride around Harrington, and see how much interest the folks take in their town. Harold Killen having dinner at the Wonder Bar with his guest. Hasn't Earl Thomas have a pretty place on Clark St. Those horse trucks set the place off. To me that street is really beautiful. Has anyone ever peeped at Miss Warrington's back yard. Just a fairy land of flowers. For me I have a flower box of oats growing outdoors, under our tack room window. Would you know every horse that comes close wants to stop and eat green growing oats. Bobby Hobbs brought me out some plants which I planted. I love flowers. During the races I have plenty around under our awning. Was out to (Clutch) Killen's to see about a baby goose. Old Jake is just too mean to take to the races. When I was painting our wheels on the cart sometime ago, and he silently came up behind me and pinched me. That was the last straw. I pulled Jake's shoes off and turned him out. But he still is my Jake. George Tatman, our milk man, just told me that he will have charge again this year of the head and saddle pad numbers so glad, for he is loads of fun in the paddock. George, do you still have that cap of all colors? George Dumont, who trains Reese Harrington's horses, says they are doing fine. Well pleased so far. Vinal Kirby has traded Don Way Direct to Mr. Blades, in Seaford, for One Day, a pacer 4 years old. She won 2 or 3 races last year. The amount involved was undisclosed. This mare was formerly in Ellis Myer's stable. Carl Goslin out watching the horses and to see Symbol Louis. Earl Thomas, Britt Holloway and Paul Vineyard, along with others attended the matinee races in Keller, Va., Wednesday afternoon.
