Storm Damage at the O. M. Bohannon Farm

Apparently unperturbed, the White Leghorns survey the ruins of their former domicile. Some of the galvanized sheeting of the roof was blown 1-4 mile. The wooden portion of the roof was blown 300 feet; a manure spreader, 40 feet.

The limbs of this huge maple, in front of the O. M. Bohannon home, north of Masten's corner, were crudely amputated Sunday evening by a cyclone. Most other shade trees, at the side and back of the farm house, were uprooted.

Cyclone Dips In For Visit at Bohannon Farm, Damaging Trees and Buildings Sunday

However, Damage to Home and Livestock Is Negligible; "Twister" Was Part of Heavy Rainstorm Which Flooded Streets and Gave Us More Water Than We Will Need

The highlight of the "blackberry" storm in this area was the antics of a "twister" which did extensive damage to fruit and shade trees and outbuildings on the farm of O. M. Bohannon a mile north of Masten's Corner at 9:40 p. m. Sunday.

Accompanied by a rainfall of record portions, the "twister" uprooted numerous pear and apple trees, in near-by orchards and pastures, and maple trees adjacent to the farm house. In some instances, the trunk of the tree was twisted off, leaving only the stump.

The wind moved a manure spreader 40 feet. The cyclone blew in the 12 x 12 foot door of a barn, and hurled the wooden portion of the roof 300 feet into a pasture. The galvanized portion of the roof was scattered over several acres, wrapped around pear trees and fences and, in one case, blown a quarter of a mile to the edge of the woods.

Besides the damage to the barn, a poultry house was completely demolished by the wind, with no damage to the White Leghorns. In fact, said Mr. Bohannon, the loss of one of three ducklings in a coop, was the only fatality among the livestock. Fortunately, he had turned his dairy cattle out to pasture the night before.

Damage to the farm house was confined to a couple twisted porch posts and a broken eave spout.

When the storm hit, Mrs. Bohannon thought the accompanying noise of destruction was from hail. Mr. Bohannon said he took a look and decided to head for the cellar, but the wind had passed. The farmer told The Journal reporter he believed the "twister" merely dipped into his place and that it raised again over the woods and was gone in ten seconds. Mr. Bohannon and C. H. Burgess, the reporter, thought the damage from the storm was frightening, but not as awful as they had seen in southeast Missouri where, strange as it seems, they had both lived.

The cyclone traveled east. A State Highway Department crew was called out Sunday night when the wind uprooted a large tree and sprawled it across Route 113 at Magnolia.

Railroad News

John Lucas, 85-year-old retired engineman, came down from Wilmington this week to visit some of his old friends. Lukie, as he was known among his buddies, worked out of Harrington for many years, hauling D57 and 58 to Rehoboth. He is still remembered as a regular guy and a good railroader. He was telling us that 37 cars were then a big train and that the only brakes they had were the hand brakes.

Track Foreman Wilbur Fletcher is trying to trim up the grass and hedge along Railroad Avenue but finds it difficult because of the large amount of liquor bottles deposited there. Patrolman Walter Voss informed us he would be glad to co-operate in trying to break up the practice.

In line with our move to reduce the smoke nuisance in the town, Charley Machimer and Bill Chase, plumbers, are installing an oil-burning furnace in Harrington tower, replacing the coal burner.

The Town Council of Viola has written Supt. Lingenfelter requesting the relocation of the crossing at the south end of town so traffic to and from Route 13 can move straight over the crossing, eliminating two right-angle turns. The Council asked that the crossing be equipped with automatic crossing gates and that the Main Street crossing be equipped with flasher-light warning signals to provide 24-hour protection in lieu of a part-time watchman. The railroad, the State Highway Department, and the town are co-operating to tie this improvement in with the present construction under way in widening the blacktopping the highway along the east side of the rail-

The Delaware Power and Light Company has filed new rate schedules with the Public Service Commission of Delaware to increase its rates for electric service in Kent and Sussex Counties. If the rates are approved, the increase in the cost of electric light and power to the customers of the Company will be approximately 10 per cent, beginning with the July bills.

"The price for electric service must of necessity reflect the increased costs of materials, labor and taxes," explained George Nelson, vice-president of Delaware Power & Light Company. "Our operating costs and taxes, like those of other businesses, have greatly increased in the past few years. Construction costs for necessary expansion to meet customers' demands for more electric service have also risen tremendously. During the last six years the company has expanded in Kent and Sussex Counties $6,798,000 for new facilities. After the retirement of facilities no longer useful, the investment in fixed capital has increased $5,072,000 in this same period."

Nelson also pointed out that money to build generating units and distribution lines must largely be borrowed from investors who expect a fair return on their investment.

Gov. Elbert N. Carvel announced Saturday he would be a candidate for reelection in November.

In his keynote address to delegates attending the Democratic "Little Convention" in the Carvel concluded a summation of Democratic achievements during his past four years in office by stating:

"In order to complete the work at hand and to fight for the welfare of an even greater Delaware, I am resolved to seek the Democratic nomination for governor, and if successful, to wage an aggressive campaign for my election."

There is no doubt in any quarter that Gov. Carvel will be nominated to succeed himself, when Democratic delegates meet again in Dover in August for their state convention.

Only One Mentioned
Although there has been considerable discussion about candidates for other posts, no one but Gov. Carvel has been mentioned as the party's standard bearer in the fall elections.

Throughout the state in recent months, leaders of his party have endorsed the governor as a candidate to succeed himself, and have constantly urged him to make his decision to run again, which at one point Gov. Carvel appeared unwilling to do.

Reviews Party Record
In his keynote address Saturday, Gov. Carvel reviewed first the record of the national administration. He then traced in detail his gradual involvement in public life, which began while he was a Sussex County businessman.

He was sharply critical of earlier Republican administrations which he said had failed to keep step with the development of events, and had left the state's physical equipment in a rundown condition.

Governor Carvel said he determined to enter public life after being named in 1941 to serve on a federal grand jury called to investigate vote frauds in the 1940 election.

First Elected in 1944
He said he began to work with the Democratic Party, and in 1944 was elected lieutenant-governor.

"Here I was able to observe the operations of Republican administration, and I found that although that administration was pleasant and sociable, it had little consideration for the needs of the people of the state.

"Delaware was bursting at the seams, and yet little consideration was given to the need for expanding facilities and services," the governor asserted, adding that "education was going down hill, teachers were underpaid, schools were crowded to the breaking point, roads were wearing out or becoming incapable of bearing increasing traffic loads, institutions were hopelessly overcrowded, and generally the world was making progress, but the Republican administration was marking time and utterly failing to meet many of their responsibilities to the people."

Claims Pledges Fulfilled
Gov. Carvel said his administration "has succeeded in carrying out over 80 per cent of the promises made" in the Democratic platform of 1948.

The governor then listed the achievements of the Democratic Party during the past four years. Among these Gov. Carvel declared, were:

The completion of a major part of a $35,000,000 school building program.

The increase of teachers' salaries from between 40 and 57 per cent.

An improved program for handicapped children, and the provision of equal educational opportunities to all children of the state regardless of race, creed, or color.

Ellis Myer Leading Driver As Harness Meet Closes

Ellis Myer garnered honors as leading driver as the spring harness meet of the Kent and Sussex Racing Association wound up a comparatively successful meeting Saturday night.

Mr. Myer was presented a gold wristwatch by the racing association, with Jack Walters, runner-up, also being awarded a wristwatch. Emil Adams was the third leading driver.

Sing Song had the best time of the meet, on the pace, at 2:06.2, with Jim Gallon making a similar mark for the best time on the trot.

T. Brinton Holloway, general manager and secretary of the racing association, said the meet was a comparatively favorable one. Mutuels handle, he explained, totaled $948,614, for 18 nights, against $961,642 for 17½ nights last spring, for a decrease of approximately 4 per cent. Average nightly handle last spring was approximately $56,500, as compared with $52,500 this past meet.

Mr. Holloway gave the following reasons for the slight decrease in receipts this spring, as compared with last spring. They were as follows:

1. The determining factor was the weather. Because of wet tracks, racing was canceled three nights, with one of these sessions being on the traditionally profitable Saturday night during the middle of the meet. Furthermore, the nights were unseasonably cool, cutting down attendance and cooling the ardor of the bettors.

2. A slump in the broiler industry, with a sympathy slump in allied industries.

3. Competition from Yonkers and Rosecroft raceways for horses and bettors.

The general manager added that two canceled sessions of the spring meet would be added to the fall meet which starts Sept. 4.

Commenting on a rumor that "there would be no spring meet here next year," Mr. Holloway said the decision was always made by the racing association in the fall. He added that application for racing dates had to be made to the Delaware Harness Racing Commission before Jan. 1, 1952.

$193 Cash Taken In School Theft

Using a pickax, looters ripped through the eight-inch brick rear wall of the office safe in Caesar Rodney School sometime early Saturday morning and made away with $193, overlooking or ignoring only three pennies.

The vault is about six feet deep, eight feet wide, and 10 feet high. The intruders, hacking from within a closet with which the back of the safe forms a common wall, opened a hole sufficiently large to crawl through.

Of the money stolen, $116 was from the sale of tickets for the school's fourth annual music festival which was held the previous Wednesday night for the benefit of the music department and the Caesar Rodney recreational program. The total receipts were about $400 but the rest had previously been deposited in bank.

The remainder of the loot comprises $15 in small change belonging to the cafeteria, $7 in receipts from the junior prom, which was held Friday night, and $55 belonging to the accounts of various school organizations. The fact that practically all tickets for the prom had been purchased in advance and deposited in bank accounted for the smallness of the amount in the safe from that source. All the money in the vault had been turned in Friday afternoon.

The burglary was committed sometime between 1:30 a. m., when the custodian left the building, and 7 a. m., when the building was reopened, Dr. W. B. Simpson, superintendent, said. Until about midnight the junior prom was in progress.

"MEMORIAL DAY."
J. Harry Wright

How dismal human history would be, if memorials were taken from it! Mankind would decline into savagery, Civilization plunge from its summit.

Great monuments, roads, buildings, special days—Recall the patriots of our nation Who were led by God, in variant ways, To be faithful in their generation.

Memorial Day reminds us again, Of liberty won at terrible cost. America's dead have not died in vain, Our precious freedom shall never be lost.

We lay sweetest flowers on each hallowed spot, Salute those who sleep in patriot's grave; We highly resolve, they'll not be forgot, Our nation's servants, so noble and brave.

We hold high the torch they left us to bear, For their suffering we stand in debt; In liberty's cause, like them we must dare, Our solemn duty we must not forget.

A MEMORIAL
By Samuel A. Short Jr.

Tis Memorial Day we celebrate, With fond remembrance to-day Of country home and state. Tis Memorial day we celebrate, By having the right to give, With treasures of love we live.

Tis Memorial day we celebrate, In thoughts and deeds we've done. Tis said of God our faith we must keep, By giving our all, for freedom to win, To gain our reward by trusting in him, The seeds we've sown we must reap.

Tis Memorial day we celebrate, Not just to-day but every one. The skies above sprinkled with heavenly love, The sun the Moon that lights the way, Smiling on the earth below, Revealing Gods love for us to stay.

Tis Memorial day we celebrate, The trees the flowers in bloom. The clouds the stars in the sky, The meadows of grass we cannot miss, By counting th time of heavily bliss, Each day blessed least we forget.

Conflict in Korea is Not Police Action, Says Donovan

"The next time someone tells me that this is just a police action, it had better be on the telephone where I can't reach them. Otherwise, they might regret the day they were born," writes Fc3 Howard W. Donovan to his mother, Mrs. Mary Day, of Harrington.

Writing from the U. S. S. James C. Owens, Donovan describes some of the activities of the destroyer in early May. He writes: "There was a lot of activity this noon. We got in too close ashore and got hit several times. Only one fire controlman was injured."

Our tribute to Valor

On Memorial Day we see before us an endless panorama of mighty conflicts on many far flung battlefields: Shiloh, Gettysburg, San Juan Hill, Chateau Thierry, St. Mihiel, Guadalcanal, the Great European Invasion of World War II. In all these places and many more, on land and sea and in the skies, Americans have fought heroically for their country.

It is fitting that we remember and honor this vast and gallant company—both the living and the dead—on Memorial Day.

and everyone thinks he leads a charmed life. He was in a radar room when the bulkhead was blown in on him. He was blown out of the room and knocked unconscious. Besides a skinned ankle, he is all right.

"We did have six wounded and two dead. They didn't suffer and for that everyone is glad."

In a postscript, Donovan states that one of the wounded died five minutes after he had been placed on a hospital ship at Pusan. "It seems that the ship could not move fast enough or someone bigger wanted him more," the Harringtonian writes.

Continuing, he says: "Since yesterday, the fire control gang, including me, has been going at a steady pace until tonight. All but one of our heavy machine guns were damaged. We have four operating in proper order. The other one can make a good account for its presence aboard ship. Maybe tomorrow we will have it operating the way it is supposed to."

Weather Bad For Transplanting Tomatoes

Weather conditions during transplanting time have been bad. High winds dried plants out rapidly before rooting had taken place. Some transplants were brittle and bruised easily. Replanting of most fields at least once and sometimes twice has been necessary. Some of the early planted tomatoes developed a white hollow stem. Much of the tissues in these stems are killed. These plants will die or grow very slowly. Replanting is necessary.

SIDEDRESSING — Cool weather has prevented growth of tomatoes. You may want to apply a sidedressing now as well as later on to each side of the row will help the plants to get off to a better start.

INSECT CONTROL — Potato bugs and flea beetles have already started damaging newly set plants. Spray with DDT at 2 lbs. of 50% wettable powder to 100 gallons of water. A 3% DDT dust may be used or a 20-25% calcium arsenate applied after July 1st will be of more value.

First Hay Cutting Means Grass Silage

It's time to make that first cutting of hay. With weather what it has been in Delaware, many Diamond State farmers are planning to put their first cutting in the silo this year.

One of the biggest problems in making grass silage, especially for the first time, is deciding when the crop is dry enough. Edward H. Schabinger, New Castle county agricultural agent has some advice that will help you decide without complicated equipment.

The crop before going through the cutter should be so well wilted that the stems may be twisted without breaking, but the leaves should show no signs of becoming dry, says Schabinger. After chopping, when a handful is squeezed tightly and released, the ball of green material should expand slowly and break into several sections.

If it fluffs up at once and falls apart, the crop is too dry. If juice is squeezed out and the ball remains a compact ball, it is too wet.

Preservatives are another problem. Delmar J. Young, dairy specialist of the Delaware Agricultural Extension Service, has some recommendations for the commonly used preservatives. Amounts are given in pounds to use for each ton of hay.

Agronomy Field Day Set For June 19

The Agronomy Field Day at the University of Maryland Agricultural Experiment Station Park Research Farm at College Park, Md., has been set for June 19. The morning program will feature visits to experimental plots, exhibits, and demonstrations. Calibration of field sprayers for weed and insect control will be the main event in the afternoon. There will also be a follow-up of the pasture renovation work done at the last field day in Aug. 1951.

Among the experimental plots to be shown are: small grain varieties and fertilization tests; forage variety tests; rock phosphate fertilization compared with superphosphate; nitrogen fertilization of bluegrass; weed control in corn; and use of Kriolum in rotation experiment.

Demonstrations and exhibits to be held will be: seed certification; insects affecting field crops; plant diseases; grain drying; and soil testing.

The U. S. Trotting Association has announced adoption of a fool-proof system of identifying harness horses racing at 518 tracks under U. S. T. A. jurisdiction.

The trotting association will embark this week on a program that will result in the "chestnuts" or "night eyes" of every harness horse in the country being photographed.

The "chestnuts" are horny growths located on the inside of each leg and are as effective as fingerprints in providing positive identification. No two are ever alike.

The photographic records will be filed at the association's national headquarters here and duplicates will be made available to member tracks.

In addition to photographing the "chestnuts," U. S. T. A. teams also will take front and side views of every horse and will note for the permanent record distinguishing characteristics such as scars, blemishes, imperfections of conformation etc.

The U. S. T. A. adopted the "chestnut" method after lengthy study of a number of identification systems employed by other racing groups.

Adoption of the new system will protect the public by rendering it impossible for a horse to be "ringed" once his fingerprints are on file with the U. S. T. A.

Approval by Governor Discoll of a bill that permits harness racing tracks to operate for a period not to exceed 50 days has resulted in a change in the dates originally allotted Freehold Raceway, New Jersey's harness track.

Under provisions of the new law, two meetings now will be staged at the Freehold oval. The first opened May 28 and will continue through June 21. The fall meeting will extend from Aug. 7 through Sept. 13.

Mr. and Mrs. Milton Kemp are increasing the size of their home by adding another room in the rear, and Mr. Schuyler is adding a back porch to his new home in our village.

C. M. Cabbage, of Rehoboth, was a local visitor for a short time Sunday having to return hurriedly to the bedside of Mrs. Cabbage's aunt, Edna S. Cooper, of Woodside, who is critically ill.

Mrs. Evelyn B. Taylor is improving we are very glad to report.

Mr. and Mrs. William J. Cabbage and children, of Harrington, were visitors of the former's parents, Sunday afternoon.

We are glad to report that Robert Valdesere's condition shows much improvement. He can move his legs slightly, but has that same long road to travel mentioned last week before he will be able to be around.

We had a nice rain Sunday morning and Sunday night another one just as nice, not that we needed them, we had them anyway. Now there looms grave possibilities of damaged corn fields; already one of our farmers is planting his 26 acre field over again. The wet weather will also hamper the preparation and sowing of the soy bean crop in this area.

"Quo Vadis"

On Tuesday afternoon, May 20, nearly one-half of the high school went to the matinee showing of the famed "Quo Vadis."

From all comments, the picture was much enjoyed.

Here are some comments made by those who attended:

Martha Gruwell: "I thought it was the best picture I had ever seen."

Donald Sapp: "I saw it twice and thought the acting was excellent."

Russell McCreary: "Stupendous!"

Nancy Nelson: "About as good as Hollywood has ever produced."

Pauline Welch: "Peter Ustinov, the actor who played Nero, was the best I have ever seen."

Freshman Hayride

On June 4th, the freshman class is planning a hayride to Trappe Pond as their annual class trip.

For refreshments the group decided on hot dogs, sodas, and marshmallows.

Softball

The Harrington Juniors led a victory over Frederica last Wednesday, May 14. The score was 26-16. It was the first game of the season for the juniors. The pitcher, Mary Evelyn Harrington of the seventh grade, performed very favorably.

What Harrington is Doing For the Child in Art

All children in the Harrington special school are required to take art up to the 6th grade. The 9th, 10th, 11th, and 12th grades take art as an elective.

At all levels the attempt is made to emphasize creative activities: painting, sculpture, and various types of craft work offer directions for creative outlet.

The lower grades are not required to do work of a practical nature, but in the high school classes more and more utilitarian practices are asked of the student.

In as far as possible the student is encouraged to do work that he or she wants to do. Creative exercise should be spontaneous. Unfortunately too often a student has lost his confidence in his own ability; then the art teacher must step in with proper encouragement.

It is many times remarked by students that in art there is "nothing to do," but rather it should be said that some students do not have the courage to try something with materials that are all about them in the art room.

Today a great problem exists in the dependency on "store-bought things." People do not conceive of doing a thing for themselves as they once did. Undoubtedly this quality of doing for oneself is a cornerstone to character. In the Harrington art program we hope to encourage this practice of being self-dependent.

Shop News

Mr. Kish, shop instructor at Harrington, has conducted a busy department this semester.

Among the seniors, Marie Hopkins, Pauline Hutson, and Virginia Black are making cedar chests under Mr. Kish's able instruction while Janet Harrington is making a chest of drawers. Pauline Hutson has also made end-tables.

Jean Smith has been busy building a book shelf and candy bowls.

Herman Zeitler and Robert Larimore have each finished a vanity bench.

Leon Donovan built an octagonal table.

Our junior high school has been busy too. Eugene Wright finished a bedside table; Edward Paskey, a dresser lamp; Elmer Riggan, a writing desk; Owen Gruwell, a walnut book shelf; and Edward Crowsan, a book case.

Billy Fry, a freshman, has completed a checker table and is working on knickknack shelves.

Dr. Shilling, assistant state superintendent of schools, after visiting here, sent a very favorable report to Mr. Messner stating that Billy Fry's table was the nicest work he has seen in the state.

From First to Last?

From first to last - yes, we have gone up the ladder of the 12 grades of Harrington High School and it will soon come to an end. June 5, 1942 will be a date long remembered by the 28 seniors and three service men who will receive the reward of their twelve years of work, the cherished high school diploma. Receiving diplomas will be:

Government Educational Diplomats
 Morton Alvin Melvin, Howard Willis Donovan, William Sipple Cain.

We say from first to last - but really we are just starting at the first, the first or beginning of the long road of the future which lies before us. Whether it will be dark or bright as our class flower, the red rose, is up to us. But to you we say, "Crescimus, We Grow As We Go."

Harrington High turned in its best performances of the season when they defeated Felton by the score of 6-1, Tues. May 13, behind the no-hit pitching of Allen Hickman. Harrington collected a total of eight hits off Wayne Credick, with Wayne Brown connecting 3 hits for 4 times at bat and Bill Bowdle 2 for 3. This gives the team a record of 4 wins, 3 losses and 1 tie, which boosts them into 3rd place in the Kent County race.

Activities

Miss Long's fourth grade collected money for the Junior Red Cross. The money is to send packages to children in other countries. Some people went down town to buy gifts to fill the packages that are going to other countries. The people were: Anne Perry, Dwight Hackett, Jane Hughes, and James McDonald.

Poems

Following are some poems written by Miss Florence Long's fourth grade as a result of their trip to the zoo April 23.

The Zoo
 I saw a camel
 At the zoo,
 He made me laugh
 And some others, too.
 —Francis Tharpe

The Zoo
 I saw a dog and a fox,
 They were in a cage shaped like a box.
 I saw a peacock walking around,
 And as he was walking, he made a sound.
 —Betty Lee Fry

The Zoo
 When I went to the zoo
 One cloudy day,
 I saw a little monkey,
 And watched him play.
 —Anne Perry

The Zoo
 I went over the St. Georges Bridge
 On the way to the zoo.
 I saw a large ostrich
 And a very big kangaroo.
 —Jane Lynn Hughes

The Zoo
 A big turtle, a little turtle
 And some monkeys, too,
 Some big ones and some small ones,
 All over the zoo.
 —Thelma Collins

The Zoo
 I went to the zoo
 And saw a monkey there.
 He made a face at me,
 But I didn't care.
 —Dwight Hackett

DELAWARE CITIZENSHIP CONFERENCE
 Barbara Smith and Edward Lane were elected by the junior class to attend the Delaware Citizenship Conference. Miss Loretta I. Paskey, the instructor of history, attended the conference.

The conference was held Thursday evening, May 22, in the P. S. duPont High School in Wilmington.

Each senior high school of the state was asked to send to the conference two student representatives, preferably from the junior class, so that the inspiration they receive can be available to schools next year.

Two years ago Delaware became one of the states which have developed citizenship conferences. Because of enthusiastic response to this first conference, and the current need of participation of alerted citizens in public affairs, a similar conference was held under the sponsorship of more than 40 civic, educational and service groups. Its purpose is to provide inspiration and training that will develop an increased realization of the need for informed, intelligent, and active citizens in today's world. Four hundred youth and adult representatives from 66 organizations within the sponsoring groups participated in this conference.

Greetings were given by Elbert N. Carvel, governor of Delaware. The keynote address, "Citizenship—A Challenge to Responsible Action," was given by Richard B. Kennan, National Citizenship Commission, the United States Department of Justice.

First Time
 The United States in 1948 became the first nation in history to sweep all Olympic men's swimming and diving events.

Some residents of Stone's Hotel, on Mechanic Street, had to wade to get into the hostelry, though the water was gone in a short time. The storm sewer, in this section of the street, had recently been retiled as a part of the current street and sewer improvement program.

Grease Fires
Grease fires on or near kitchen ranges are ever-present dangers to homemakers, so fire prevention officials advise caution in handling and storing food grease and fats. The experts warn against using water on grease fires. To fight such fires, they recommend using galvanized pails filled with sand or portable fire extinguishers filled with appropriate chemicals.
