They say everything comes to him who waits. We have waited a long time for the diesel engines, now they are starting to come to the Delmarva division as stated in this column some time ago. Two of the passenger locomotives will arrive this month, two next and three more before the last of August. These are known as the ALCO type manufactured by the American Locomotive Company and since they require boilers for steam heating the passenger cars, they first go to Altoona to have the boilers fitted on.

The freight engines are the Baldwin type and will be delivered to us direct from the plant north of Chester. There will be seven of the passenger and 21 freight engines here before the end of the year. We will try to keep you posted on their performance and how near this program is being met, but you will be able to tell pretty well yourself by the added tones of the fog horns and the decrease in smoke and cinders.

Someone has said, "Where there is smoke there is fire." So when we eliminate the smoke we also eliminate a lot of grass fires along with a lot of other nuisances.

A freight train north through Harrington last week had six dead steam engines from the Norfolk Southern railroad, going to scrap docks to be made into rails and war machinery. On the side of the cab and tanks, someone had written "Diesels Did This To Me," "I Died For Diesels" and "I Kicked Up Too Much Dirt."

You are going to like these little engines for many reasons. They are still going to be known as the "Iron Horse" and they are the answer to keeping the nations transportation rolling along and the main reason we have been able to call Russia's bluff.

The first engine is No. 8473. It left Altoona Wednesday and should be here today or tomorrow.

Daily Vacation Bible School Ends Tonight

Daily Vacation Bible School at the Church of the Nazarene will close this evening with a program presented by the children for the public at 8 o'clock.

D. V. B. S. held this year from 6 to 8 p. m., proved to be very successful with an enrollment of around 65 pupils, with all faiths represented.

A picnic was held for the children yesterday afternoon in Wheeler's Park, with ice cream and peanuts provided by the Bible School.

Lessons for all ages this year centered around the theme, "Becoming Acquainted With God." Beginners were served milk and cookies each evening, and their handwork was making various objects from paper such as doilies and Bible pin-wheels. Primaries, seeing God in growing things, planted beans in a jar where they could see them grow for the two weeks of Bible school, and making colored Bible pictures.

Junior handwork featured the making of wooden-backed nature study books entitled "Seeing God Through Nature," and the making of embroidered handkerchief books. A stand-up map of the Bible World, Bible story puppets, and handkerchief boxes were the very useful handwork articles made by the intermediate girls while the intermediate boys made supply cabinets for the Sunday School rooms.

The faculty this year consisted of the dean, the Rev. George Whetstone; beginner teachers, Miss Shirley Hastings and Miss Mary Lord; primary teachers, Mrs. Evelyn Smith and Miss Jean Jack; junior teachers, Mrs. Charles Day and Charles Jack; intermediate teacher, Mrs. George Whetstone; teachers in charge of the music department, the Misses Ruth and Lucille Clark.

Teachers and pupils alike agree that Bible School this year has been a very enjoyable time of fellowship for all concerned.

With hot weather, Harrington's school building program is progressing nicely, after being set back three weeks by a wet spell, J. C. Messner, superintendent of Harrington schools, said this week.

"The walls are out of the ground to the point where the builders are waiting for the steel floor girders upon which the concrete floor will be poured," Mr. Messner said. He added that Oley Sapp, building supervisor, of Houston, said the girders were in transit from Ohio and should arrive shortly.

The elementary building is scheduled to be constructed in 300 days by John Healey & Sons, the general contractors, of Wilmington.

As to the gymnasium, a part of the overall building program, Mr. Messner said the School Building Program Board, of which Gov. Carvel is chairman, met Friday to discuss the project. The board learned it would cost about twice the present available monies, or $212,000, to construct the building.

The governor suggested the local Board of Education see the State Board of Education for approval of an application for funds to the Legislature which meets next year.

Plans are being formulated to renovate the present building used by pupils in the elementary grades. They call for acoustic ceilings and painting the walls. Initial plans call for placing the commercial, art, and music departments in this building, with other rooms being used as needed.

In another phase of the building program, carpenters are laying floors in the Pierre S. duPont School. Also, a contract has been let to Miller Electric Company, of Salisbury, to install cold cathode lights. This type of fluorescent light, Mr. Messner explained, was guaranteed to burn 15,000 hours to give instantaneous lighting.

Weather Is Warm The Water Is Cold

Capt. Irving Wright, of Bowers Beach, said Sunday that catches of trout were poor for the day. While the weather was extremely hot, he explained, the water out in the bay was so long that cold-water fish, such as ling, were being caught and thrown back in.

Heavy rains, he commented, had flooded freshwater streams so much that occasional carp were being caught in the bay.

The Misses Clendaniel and VonGoerres Visit Bermuda

Friday morning, June 6th, is one of the few industries on the island. Here we watched perfume being made and also saw for the first time "Passion Flowers," which have been regarded for years as depicting the crucifixion of Christ. Next we stopped at Crystal Cave which is a breathtaking underground cavern where the stalactites and stalagmites have formed many unusual formations. There the water underneath the bridge on which we walked was thirty-five feet deep and yet it was so crystal clear that we could see the stones on the bottom. From there we went to Devil's Hole which was a natural aquarium formed in the rocks and there we watched many tropical fish and turtles. Here many of the people were fishing, but anything caught had to be returned to the water. Leaving this, we continued on to St. George where we visited the oldest church on the island, which had very old marble inscriptions, some dating back to 1700. From there we returned to the hotel. We have not mentioned the beautiful coral reefs along the way, the beautiful homes and hotels, the airport, Vincent Astor's home, nor many other interesting sights but everything was so beautiful it would be hard to describe them all. We were deeply impressed by the forests of dead cedar trees which were killed by a blight. These trees standing like dead sentries seemed to cast a hush over everything.

Wednesday morning when we came from breakfast it was raining quite steadily so we went into Hamilton and did our shopping. Wednesday night we listened to the music of the Talbot Brothers who are well-known in Bermuda for their calypso music. Thursday we had planned to take another tour in a glass bottomed boat, but due to the weather this was postponed so we spent the day on the beach. Thursday evening we left the hotel and went to see a play at the Hotel Bermudiana. This play was typically English.

Friday morning realizing our time was growing short, after breakfast we went into town for last minute shopping and purchased waxed passion flowers to bring home with us. We returned to the hotel and packed and spent a little more time on the beach and left the hotel about 3:45. We arrived at the airport, went through British customs again and left beautiful Bermuda at 5:30 p. m. Bermuda time on a Colonial Airliner. We arrived at LaGuardia Field at 9:30 Bermuda time (8:30 p. m. New York time), tired, happy, and with many memories of a beautiful vacation and or never-to-be forgotten birthday, for Jeannette Von Goerres' birthday was the day we sailed, and Doris Clendaniel's birthday the day before we returned.

We were very pleased with our room which also overlooked the ocean. We had a semi-private balcony which, at night-time, afforded us a breath-taking view of the moon on the ocean. Looking straight down from our room we could see the open-terrace and watch the dancing.

Monday afternoon we spent in exploring the hotel and grounds and on the beach. Monday night we attended a cocktail party where we enjoyed listening to calypso songs.

Tuesday morning we took a taxi-tour of the eastern part of the island. This took us around a section, which was called Harrington Sound, to St Georges and from there back to the hotel. Included in this tour were the Aquarium where we saw many odd and beautiful fish, the Museum where we saw many old mementoes of Bermuda, and the Zoo where we saw many animals and birds, including many beautiful tropical birds. Our next stop was at the perfume factory which

World Death Rates Decreasing Through Medical Techniques

NEW YORK, N.Y.—Extensive application of the recent advances in medicine and public health has strikingly improved health conditions throughout the world. Comparing death rates just before and after World War II, they show that in each of 19 countries in both hemispheres the rate has declined by more than eight per cent, and in nine of these countries it has dropped 20 per cent or more.

"Translated into terms of life conservation," statisticians point out, "this means that millions of persons over the world are saved from death each year."

Of marked significance, according to the statisticians, are the declines in mortality recorded in the so-called underdeveloped and poorer sections of the globe. In Japan the death rate fell by 30 per cent, largely as the result of public health measures instituted by the American army of occupation. In Ceylon an anti-malaria campaign was an important factor in markedly lowering the death rate during the post-war years, and in India the death rate has declined by about one fifth between the pre-war and post-war years.

Substantial, though not as dramatic, declines were registered in Puerto Rico, Mexico, Costa Rica, Chile, and Venezuela.

England and Wales experienced a mortality decline of 27%, and the United States, a decline of 23%, but their record is still far above that for Norway which has the lowest death rate in the world.

Recent gains in mortality in the Western nations are credited in large measure to control of the infectious diseases by the wide-spread and effective use of sulpha drugs, penicillin, and other antibiotics.

Major Crime is Committed In U.S. Every 18 Seconds

WASHINGTON, D.C.—Just how bad is the crime situation in the United States? According to the yearly report turned in by Edgar Hoover, director of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, a major crime was committed somewhere in America during every 18 seconds.

The crime volume increased 1.5 per cent for the year and all individual offenses, save one, contributed to the rise. Surprisingly, robbery was the single offense that did not top the preceding year.

Every five minutes in 1951 someone was feloniously assaulted or killed. An average of 146 persons were held up and robbed every day and the stolen car ratio was 468 for every 24 hours.

Hoover's Uniform Crime Reports for 1950 was compiled with the aid of 5,211 police agencies, but federal crimes and others, such as arson and embezzlement, were excluded, making the estimated total a conservative one.

One disturbing element of the statistics pointed out that, although urban crime remained about the same as 1949, rural crime showed an increase of 4.4 per cent. Also alarming was the fact that arrests of males under 21 increased 6.9 per cent. The predominant age among all persons arrested was 21 years.

Police were most efficient recovering stolen autos, returning 92 per cent.

Fire Company Shoots Work In Seeking Danger Source

NEWVILLE, Pa.—Chief John Bender and his firemen have a reputation for getting to the scene when called in a hurry.

One night recently the chief jumped from bed at 4 a.m. to answer an out of town alarm.

By the time he reached the fire station the tall lights of the fire wagon were disappearing up the street. Bender commanded a car and took off in pursuit, catching and passing the truck on the highway.

"Step on it," he remarked to a fellow fireman. "Must be a lulu by the bright glow."

The two vehicles raced through the night until the glow became more distinct, became a line of flame and then a semicircle. The chief flagged the fire truck to a stop.

The eager firemen had been racing toward the moon.

"Pumpkin Pine"

As a furniture wood, pine has been gaining increasing favor. Many pine pieces are being finished to simulate antique or Early American furniture. One of these finishes, known as "pumpkin pine" is a mellow yellow color. One way of obtaining this finish is to apply a blend of orange shellac and light mahogany spirit stain. A final coat of straight orange shellac is applied before the finished surface is rubbed with 4/0 steel wool and waxed to a dull lustre.

Different Color Treatment

A distinctive and different effect can be obtained for the exterior of a white-painted house by using shutters on the windows of the upper floor, but not downstairs. The shutters may be white, trimmed with maroon, with the window sash painted white. The lower floor windows—with no shutters—can echo the color by having the sash painted the same maroon.

Filament Wire

The elements of vacuum tubes used in the latest models of hearing aids are of nickel filament wire, only one-tenth as thick as human hair.

Give It Time

It is advisable to allow three or four days' drying time between exterior paint coats. Paint dries more rapidly in summer and fall, more slowly in spring and winter.

Rock Dust Treatment

A safety procedure regularly followed in U.S. mines is the application of rock dust to prevent explosions. The rock dust, which is powdered limestone, keeps coal dust from becoming combustible.

Milestone Worshipers

One of the religious sects of India worships milestones. For this reason they often swiped the milestones from the Central Indian Railway and enshrined them in their temples.

Pocket Gadget

The silver nutmeg grater was a standard pocket piece of gentlemen two centuries ago. Apparently it was roughly a parallel of the cigarette lighter of today.

What's the big idea of DYNAFLOW DRIVE?

6-passenger Super Convertible.

There are a lot of other good reasons for buying a Buick — its style, its room, its ride, its power, its thrift, its durability—and its price.

When you can get all this—plus Dynaflo Drive — why be a holdout? Come in and give Dynaflo a try today.

Equipment, accessories, trim and models are subject to change without notice. *Standard on Roadmaster, optional at extra cost on other Series.

Pure is true for '52

When better automobiles are built BUICK will build them

THERE are all sorts of "drives" and "shifts" on the market.

Some still operate entirely by hand. Some depend on shifting gears, but do this automatically. Some feed the power through oil, but use a lock-out device at cruising speeds.

But we still think that Dynaflo* is the best of all for this simple reason:

The big idea of Dynaflo Drive is to make life easy for the driver.

In traffic, you can start and stop, slow down, accelerate with complete and infinite smoothness — because no gears have to shift, ever, in Dynaflo Drive. So there's no lurch, buck or bobble. Dynaflo always feeds power with a steady, willing swoop—at 3 miles an hour or 30—or as high as it's legal to go. On hills, you get the same sure, steady, unflinching power-feed for the same reason. No gears ever shift.

On a long day's drive, you can ride with wonderful freedom from tension—your foot relaxed on the throttle — because you always drive through oil.

And at any speed you get a smoother ride, in part because Dynaflo Drive provides such a smooth and gentle linkage between that mighty Fireball 8 Engine and the rest of the chassis.

But this is not all. Our service records show that Dynaflo also makes life easier for your bank account. It saves wear and strain on the engine, banishes the cost of clutch repairs, saves strain on the transmission and even on the rear tires.

Prize-Winning Question Set Belatedly Accepted

BUFFALO, N.Y.—Contest winners are usually surprised when they are awarded prizes, but few could be more startled than was Mrs. Samuel Yochelson of Buffalo.

Mrs. Yochelson received an encyclopedia and a letter through the mail explaining that it was a prize on a radio program.

A panel of experts on a broadcast had failed to correctly identify all of a series of questions she submitted.

Mrs. Yochelson had mailed in the questions in 1939—twelve years ago.

Sunday's Schedule

 Felton at Hickman
 Frederica at Viola
 Ellendale at Farmington

Wyoming and Harrington continued an unbeaten pace in the Mar-Del Circuit over the past week-end although the latter nine had to come from behind in the final inning to nip Farmington 6 to 5. Wyoming topped Ellendale 9 to 2. Felton rolled up their third straight as they downed Frederica 5 to 3 while Viola made it two in a row by scoring heavily against Hickman to win 16 to 1.

Something has to give this coming Sunday as the two unbeaten nines, Harrington and Wyoming clash on the Caesar Rodney diamond for their first get-together this season. Both teams have been playing good ball and hitting the ball at good clip. Lou Hobbs or lefthander Charley Riley loom as the mound hopes that Manager Welch will call on for Harrington while pilot Freddie Clemence at Wyoming will sent out Joe Moultrie or southpaw Aub Berry, who has registered two straight wins.

The meeting between these two clubs may be the break for Felton as they invade Hickman. Felton dropped the season opener to Harrington after a bad first inning and have been unbeatable since behind the steady pitching of Harold Rothmel and Manager Johnny Bunnell. Hickman has been taking their jolts but Manager Jake Cannon expects his team to start rolling any moment. Rothmel will be on the firing line for Felton with Earl Quillen or Willard Thompson working for Hickman as they try to get in the win column.

Ellendale with a well balanced club that has been playing good ball despite their record as they go into Farmington on Sunday. The visitors have a fast fielding nine and some good pitching in Bobby Niebert and Tommy Wells but haven't been getting any breaks. Manager Oscar Draper is rounding out a smooth going combination at Farmington that is bound to give trouble from here on out.

Frederica will be the attraction at Viola in this Sunday's tilt. Viola has made a strong comeback since their opening day lacing at the hands of Wyoming. The addition of several newcomers especially Nicky Rodriguez and Alvin Thomas, former CR tossers, has added power that has been paying off. The return of their veteran hurler, Bill Biddle, has bolstered the Viola hopes. Buddy Kimmel looms as the Frederica mound choice although Roy Kemp will be ready. Frederica still hopes to add new faces before the deadline on June 30th. Paced by the hitting of Leon Kates, Jim Cabbage and Lou Hobbs the Harrington nine came from behind in the last inning to put over 3 runs to erase a 5 to 3 Farmington lead and went on to win 6 to 5.

Hobbs was relieved by Charley Riley in the final inning. Paul Dean went the route for Farmington and except for the dropping of a fly by Smith in the 9th would have pulled through. Bobby Messick and Hooper Rust with two singles each paced Farmington at the plate.

Heavy hitting by Teddy Michaels, who had a single, double and triple, Johnny Williams, with a single and triple and Harold Bennett with two singles led Wyoming to a 9 to 2 victory over Ellendale. Harold Betts was the big gun for the host nine as he laced out two doubles while Wilson Jones, Gil Darby, and Roland Marker had two singles each with Dave Burton breaking in with a double. Aub Berry, Wyoming southpaw, went the route to chalk up his second straight win while Bobby Niebert, the loser, and Tommy Wells split the work for Ellendale.

Viola hit the ball hard and often to score an easy win over Hickman 16 to 1. Ken Walls was driven to cover early in the 2nd inning with Earl Quillen coming in to finish up and pitch good ball. Bill Biddle celebrated his return to the Viola line-up after serving in the Armed Forces for the past two years to hurl 3 hit ball and coast to an easy triumph behind steady play on the part of his teammates. Nick Rodriguez laced out a triple and two doubles, Buck Semans had a double and two singles, Vanderwende duplicated the feat while Snyder had 3 one base raps. Dale Palmer, Cal O'Day and Carl Parker accounted for the three Hickman safeties. Viola scored 9 runs in the first two innings to build up a heavy lead at the start.

Harold Rothmel bested Frederica's Burry Kimmel in a tight mound duel on the latter's diamond at the Felton tossers registered their third straight win to move into 3rd place, one-half game behind the pace setting co-leaders, Wyoming and Harrington. Felton was on the winning end of a 5 to 3 score as Rothmel tossed a three hitter and fanned 14. Kimmel was touched for 8 bingles as he set down 11 on strikes. Bobby Voshell, Felton infielder, gave the Frederica hurler the most trouble as he laced out two doubles and a single to drive in 3 runs. Al Gottorf, Widdoes and Boone accounted for the three Frederica safeties.

Chicks Make Best Use Of Antibiotics

Young chicks, up to three weeks old, seem to make the best use of antibiotics added to their rations.

The value of antibiotics in rations of adult birds is still rather doubtful.

Delaware research and that done in other states agrees on these facts, says T. D. Rannels, of the University of Delaware animal and poultry industry department. Rannels says that after three weeks the amount of extra growth from antibiotics often stops completely when a chick weighs about two pounds at seven weeks. With poor rations the decline is more gradual.

But good management and sanitation are still needed, you can't use antibiotics as a substitute, the University cautions.

Not all rations to which antibiotics are added give a growth response. Nor will antibiotics take the place of protein in any ration.

Good rations are still most important. Growth from a poor ration plus antibiotics is never equal to that from a good ration plus antibiotics. In fact, in most cases, poor rations plus the drugs will not equal the growth of a good ration without them.

Line Diagram Aids Cultivator Adjustment

Cultivators, like most other farm machines, require proper adjustment to perform efficiently. With the high speed of the modern tractor, Guy W. Gienger, extension agricultural engineer at the University of Maryland, says that uniformity of spacing and penetration is of paramount importance. Proper adjustment is easy, Gienger points out, if the line-diagram method is used.

For many years, Gienger explains, both implement men and farmers have thought that machines had to be set and adjusted in the fields where they were to be used. This method makes it extremely difficult to obtain accurate a setting as is desirable with modern farming methods using the high speeds available.

In recent years the line-diagram method of setting has been developed and farm machines are being set and adjusted in the farm shops and then taken to the field with a minimum of field adjustments. This new method has allowed the farmer to approach more nearly the uniformity of operation that is so essential. Implement dealers will find the diagram of great value when setting up machines for delivery to farmers.

Mimographed directions for the line diagram method of adjusting cultivators is available from the Department of Agricultural Engineering, University of Maryland, College Park, Md.

Sick Sycamores May Have Blight

Blight (anthracnose) of sycamore trees has been prevalent in Maryland since the middle of May, causing killing and dwarfing of new growth and defoliation, plant pathologists at the University of Maryland report. The same disease also attacks maple and oak trees, although not generally causing as much damage as it does to sycamores. This fungus disease causes brown dead areas to appear along the veins of young leaves. The spots may enlarge to include the whole leaf which soon falls to the ground. In a wet has exceeded that of natural service.

From the 14 cows the Gracies are milking, they now ship about 300 pounds of milk each day.

The Gracies began farming in 1943 as grain and poultry growers. Recently, Mr. Gracie declared, "If only we had started with dairy cows then, I feel we would have been much further ahead. You realize we have just been producing milk since we started to ship to Pet in 1949."

Brogley Builds Economical Shed

As James Brogley, Sr., of Easton, Md., looked at his new machine shed the other day, he said, "This is the first time I have had plenty of room for all of my machinery."

With the help of his son, James, Jr., and his brother, Leon, Mr. Brogley built this bonnet-type shed in about 10 days. Lumber for the building was cut from yellow pine timber on the farm, and hauled to a mill nearby, where it was cut to the correct dimensions.

"Brother Leon" had a power saw which helped greatly in cutting the correct angles and lengths, and hastened the work.

The shed, which is 48 feet long and 20 feet wide, is divided into four sections. One section has a clearance of 10 feet, and is used for such large machinery as a cornpicker, while smaller implements are housed in the other three sections.

The entire building, which was put up at the reasonable cost of about $500, took about 3600 board feet of lumber. The footing was built of three rows of concrete blocks. An aluminum roof completed the structure.

"This machine shed should double the life of my implements," Mr. Brogley states.

A Pet producer since 1933, Mr. Brogley maintains a milking herd of 27 grade Holsteins and grade Gurnseys. He is so enthusiastic about dairying he says, "When I have my own farm, I am going into dairying in a big way, because it provides a regular monthly income," says "Pet Dairy Chats."

Broiler House Construction Bulletin Has Supplement

The Delaware Agricultural Extension Service announces a building plan supplement to their "Broiler House Construction Manual," SCI.

The six-page booklet contains 8-1/2" by 11" plans for four different broiler house construction types, as described in the bulletin published last winter. Earl A. Crouse, extension agricultural engineer, says the plans should help future broiler house builders to select the plan which most closely fits their needs, before ordering large work-size plans.

Copies of the supplement, and or the original bulletin, are available from county agents and by writing to the Bulletin Mailing Room, Agricultural Extension Service, University of Delaware, Newark. The work-size plans (17" by 22") are also available, free of charge to Delaware residents.

The plans included in the supplement are G-1, G-2, G-3.1, and G-5.

FARM NEWS - REVIEW - FORECAST

Angus Field Day Well Attended At Bryan's Manor Farm Saturday

Some 225 enthusiasts attended an Angus field day Saturday at Bryan's Manor Farm near Allen, Md. Presiding was the president of the Eastern Shore Aberdeen-Angus Breeders' Association, Frank S. Bache, of Canton Farm, St. Michaels.

The morning program, conducted in the cattle barn, was as follows: foot trimming, by Mahlon Little, manager of the farm; tattooing, Jim Coyner, eastern representative of the American Aberdeen-Angus Breeders' Association; head clipping, by Mr. Little; castrating, by Jim Corrigan, of Fair Promise Farm, and Howard Anderson, of Wimberley Farms, Princess Anne.

After a buffet lunch, the remainder of the program was held on the shady lawn in front of the historic manor house on the bank of Wicomico Creek.

Al McGregor, of Allen McGregor & Son Farm, Wornton, Md., spoke on breeding and calving records and told the listeners they should have a notebook for temporary records, since it might get soiled when carried into the pens and pastures. Permanent records, he advised, should be transferred from the notebook and kept in the office. Mr. McGregor added that the memory was not to be trusted and that notes should be kept.

Mr. Coyner, who spoke on registration and transfers, said breeders could register the results of artificial insemination if cow and bull are owned by the same owner. He said registration by the national association was slow now but that it would improve in the fall. When applicants, however, desired registration for an animal up for sale the deed could be accomplished promptly.

Mr. Anderson gave a demonstration on halter making.

Dr. Walter Hastings, of Cambridge, who talked on herd management, said the state must test a herd two times, a year apart, before it could be accredited. "Then it must be tested every year to remain on the accredited list. If I had a good herd, I wouldn't wait a year to have it tested," he advised.

Russell West, field man of the Maryland Aberdeen-Angus Breeders' Association, talked on type demonstration and Chilly Peery, manager of Larry McPhail's Glenangus Farm, at Bel Air, Md., talked on fitting and feeding.

When fitting an animal for the showing, Peery said four things were needed: a good individual, feed, a good man to do the job, and a well-balanced ration. Concerning the agitation on the use of nurse cows, Peery pointed out: "It (milk from the nurse cows) is another feed and must be used as such." He explained that it was hard to get an animal to the ninth degree of perfection for the showing and that "you had better give 'em extra milk and every help you can."

Calves intended for the showing should be given special attention from the time they are weaned right up to show time, he advised. If they are too hard, cut down on the corn and add a little oats, he commented, and if they are too soft, cut down on the oats and add corn.

If you have a large herd, a finisher should be hired, Mr. Peery advised. If you have a family-sized herd, you can do it yourself, he concluded.

Joseph M. Vial, University of Maryland specialist in animal husbandry, gave the cattlemen the results of experiments in the use of roughages at Purdue, Kansas, and Michigan. These trials included the use of soybean straw, corn cobs, grass silage, and corn silage. Mr. Vial gave the nod to the last-named. In an experiment at Purdue, he said, cattle gained 2½ pounds daily, at a cost of 15.3c per pound, on an A & D concentrate supplement, salt with a little cobalt, and all the corn silage the cattle wanted.

Pointing to the abundance of roughages, the long pasture season here, he advised the listeners to shoot at a 90 per cent calf crop. As an example of the desirability of Maryland as a beef cattle state, Mr. Vial cited the case of a breeder in the western Farm, Wornton, Md., was on hand with his Busch plate camera. He attends Choate School, Wallingford, Conn. He mentioned that Collie Cove had just started with Angus cattle. Barton was present with his mother, Mrs. H. M. Thomas, and his sister, Elizabeth.

Harry Dukes Sr., of Millville, said broilers in his section were being affected with air sac, a respiratory disease. He said its symptoms resembled those of Newcastle disease and bronchitis and that it has hard to diagnosis.

Delaware Farmers Warned Of Foot And Mouth Disease

With the appearance of foot and mouth disease in Canada several months ago, Delaware livestock owners have been warned to be on guard against the disease by E. S. Biddle, Delaware State Board of Agriculture.

Foot and mouth disease is caused by a virus. It spreads from animal to animal and from herd to herd. It can be carried by persons on their shoes and clothing.

According to Biddle, when animals get the disease, they will have blisters on their tongues, mouths, and on the skin above the toe line on the hoof. There are also blisters on the udders of cows and snouts of pigs. The blisters usually break after 24 to 36 hours.

Fever and "slobbering" of the mouth are early symptoms of foot and mouth disease. The foot infection may cause lameness. Sick animals find it hard to eat and drink. Milk production of dairy cows drops off. Young animals are often killed by this disease, but adult animals rarely die of it.

Because many other diseases have similar symptoms, Biddle advises owners to check with a veterinarian as soon as they suspect hoof and mouth disease.

Trucking Poults To Range Saves Time And Turkeys

For commercial turkey growers, the problem of moving turkey poults from the brooding quarters to range is often quite a problem and entails a lot of heavy lifting of coops or crates. Some poults may be smothered, especially if the poults are moved on a hot day.

A simple way to save a lot of lifting and reduce mortality is to transport the poults to the range in a stake-body truck, says Dr. Morley A. Jull, head of the poultry department of the University of Maryland. While the poults are being loaded on the truck, have a person stand at the front of the body of the truck to prevent the poults from piling up. After the loading is completed, have another person stand at the rear end of the truck. A truck with a floor area of about 70 square feet can accommodate about 200 poults 8 weeks of age if the hauling distance is not too far.

Upon arriving at the range, the rear gate is removed and the person at the front end drives the poults off slowly.

BEEF CATTLE

Arrived this week over 250 head of choice beef cattle, either Angus or Hereford steers or heifers weighing from 300 to 700 lbs. Just right to turn on pasture now and make money on. I have sold over 2,000 of these kind of cattle to over 180 customers this year and there must be a reason and I believe one good reason is that I have the right cattle at the right price.

I have sold over 6,000 of these same kind of cattle last year and they have made money for over 500 customers. It looks like cattle will be a good price for a long time to come. So if you have pasture, why not buy a few of these good light cattle and watch them grow and make money for you.

All cattle I handle are treated for shipping fever and are delivered free of charge within 100 miles. Also will take your dairy and fat cattle in trade and will allow a good price for them.

I have a large number of cattle here on pasture that are sold. I can also arrange at a small cost to pasture any number you wish to buy.

THE TWINKLING STARS

By Samuel A. Short Jr.
The twinkling stars shining brightly above,
Sprinkling the sky with their heavenly love.
Lightening the burden of the darkness of night,
Smiling on the earth for man's delight.
They are there for us all to see,
God put them there for you and me.
Each one has its place and job to do,
Bringing love to all by cheering the blue.
They light the way as heavenly jewels,
With gleaming reflections on garden pools.
Revealing its ripples each star so bright,
With the passing of each cloud on a cloudless night.
They never sleep as we sometimes do,
But keep on shining all night through.
Gods gift to the earth for its yearly employ,
Every living being for their beauty to enjoy.

Sulky Slants

Rosecroft Raceway finished up Wednesday night another big and successful meeting. Sure was glad to see Mr. Jake Williams there with a Hi and a smile as usual. He is sure tops in my book.

Laurel opened Thursday night with a bang. It sure looked like home with all the people from Harrington. Our General Manager Brit Holloway and race caller Genie Anderson were here, also Internal Revenue Collector Ernest Killen and Mrs. Killen, Mr. Book Harrington and Dr. Smith's wife were also spectators.

Well I guess the horses aren't the only ones that have spills, you can even see them among the spectators. (How about it Genie?) Sure is good to see Mrs. Stout back to the races again after all her bad luck at home. She was telling me that her mother is much better and sure hope her health continues so she can stay with us the rest of the summer.

Mr. and Mrs. Ellis Myer and Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Dyer, came over here from Freehold Thursday night for Ellis to race Nancy Sue. Bette Lee said they thought they would move here the latter part of next week for the rest of the meet. It certainly will be good to see Ellis 2nd around the track again. He sure is a character now bet he will miss John and Harry over here not getting to ride the tractor and the water wagon.

Boy they really raced horses here opening night with one race going with in one fifth of a second of the track record. Merit Chief with Jake Foster in the sulky won the first division of the Inaugural Pace a mile in 2:04 3/5. Sing Song was second and Kappy Counsel got the show place.

The second division was won by Steward Lad-J. Arthur with Ethel Lady A close second and Scart in third place. that mile went in 2:07. With everyone shipping from place to place and getting settled there isn't much news but will sure be plenty next week from the way they raced here last night because they are ready and raring to go.
