

Rains Flood Fields and Streets And Damage Highways

Lightning Bangs Telephone Poles, Damages Homes

"Too much of a good thing" might well sum up last week's rains which did untold damage, especially to highways, after a dry spell had given farmers much concern.

After agriculture had suffered until damage from drought, torrential rains in this area Friday and early Sunday morning, did some damage when they formed numerous ponds, some knee-deep. These flooded areas were particularly noticeable in the Barratt's Chapel district where some ponds covered acres in area.

Storm damage was particularly noticeable on the highways, particularly on the secondary ones. The worst damage appeared to be in the Magnolia-Camden area where Friday's rains cut deep gullies in the shoulders. Along U. S. 13-A shoulder washouts were numerous, with one literally of cave-in proportions, on the east shoulder a short distance south of Magnolia.

A deep cut was dug by the rushing water in the road shoulder in front of the Magnolia Methodist Church at the northern edge of the town, almost to a point of undermining the highway. One of these cuts required 20 loads of dirt as fill-in.

Much of this dirt came from the pit of Frank Porter, near Marvel's Crossroads, between Harrington and Frederica. Highway maintenance crews worked late Friday repairing the damage. Considerable work still has to be done on secondary roads, particularly in the Barratt's Chapel area.

The heavy downpours did not pass up Harrington. Residents of Stone's Hotel waded out of the hostelry Friday morning. Early Sunday morning, after another downpour, the editor of this newspaper, waded into the hotel as overcast sewers sent water over the sidewalks. West Street was also flooded, as was Delaware Avenue at its intersection with Liberty Street.

A permutation of the weekend storms turned up the previous Tuesday afternoon when lightning, with some wind and rain, did considerable damage on the Harrington-Whitelysburg road at and near the home of Elmer Bullock. Twelve telephone poles were torn down, with the damage being repaired this past Tuesday.

Mrs. Bullock said lightning nearly tore the phone box from its fastenings on the outside of the house. Simultaneously, she said there were electrical flashes inside the house and that plaster was torn off the walls in the dining-room which contained the phone. Some fuses were ejected from the fuse box, on the side of the house, Mrs. Bullock said. At the home of Abe Yoder, the fuse box was blown from the wall.

Ocean Downs Harness Meet Draws Record Attendance

Encouraged by its record-breaking turnout last Saturday when 8850 persons attended a thrill-packed eight-race card, Ocean Downs Raceway looked forward to another week of exciting races, with outstanding events scheduled for Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

The $1500 New York, a 22-class pace, drew 24 nominations, and the field will show such stars as Chestertown Boy, 4-year-old pacing star owned by Phil and William Thompson, of Centreville, Md., a winner of seven races this season, and with a mile mark of 2:04 4/5; Aldene Hanover, Shamrock Sally, Shamrock Mary and Vanguard, and Muggsie B, all from the Stables trained and driven by Joe Hyland and his nephew, Will; Tommy Walter's Dora Woodley's Tom Lewis' Nora Direct, Top Rosecroft and Saunders Hanover.

Friday's feature will be the $2000 California for 18-class pacers. These include Intangible, which won Saturday night in 2:05 2/5 for the second in a row for Johnny Amato; Franklin Hastings' Blue Steel; James M. Davis' Bermuda; Hi-Lo's Forbes and Lou's Girl, both from the well-trained Jim Stokley stable;

Lions Heading Campaign For Funds to Restore Sight Of Harrington Youth

The Harrington Lions Club is heading a campaign for funds to finance operations to restore the eyesight of Donald Feyerabend, 11, who was injured recently when he placed a dynamite cap he had found against a battery. Young Feyerabend, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward N. Feyerabend, Ward Street, also lost some fingers in the incident.

Charles Peck Jr., of the Lions Club, said Wednesday that young Feyerabend was in University Graduate Hospital, Philadelphia, and that with several operations he may recover complete vision in one eye and partial vision in the other.

The Lions Club has set up an emergency fund at The First National Bank for Donald and beseeches persons desiring to aid this worthy cause to make their contributions there.

Trinity and Asbury Methodist Churches have made contributions and other churches have indicated they will do likewise. Civic organizations will hold benefits to raise money for the fund. Details will be available later.

American Legion is giving square dance tonight (Friday) of which proceeds will go toward Feyerabend fund.

The Moose Lodge will sponsor a dance in the near future.

A board of Trustees is being set up for the fund. This will become a permanent board.

SWINE IMPORTATIONS BARRED FROM STATE

Since vesicular exanthema, a contagious disease of swine has been found in many states, Charles F. Mundy Jr., secretary of the State Board of Agriculture, has issued an order barring importation of hogs into the state except on one condition, namely:

The swine must be accompanied by a certificate of health issued and approved by the chief livestock sanitary official of the state of origin, certifying the swine originate from an area in which no vesicular exanthema exists.

Part Time Work

To an extent which few people realize, the economic well-being of the nation depends upon men and women and youngsters who are willing and able to work several hours a day or one or two days a week. Government studies published recently show that only about 55 percent of the more than 60 million people who work in this country are in full-time, year-round jobs; the others are part-time workers or people who work less than 50 weeks a year.

Inside the Bookmobile

by a Bookworm

There were so many new and different books in the bookmobile today that it was hard to make a choice. I finally decided on these four:

"And the Stars Shall Fall," a novel of the life and times of the last Tsaritsa, by True Bowen; "The Foundling," by Francis Cardinal Spellman, a story of a baby left by its mother in a great cathedral in New York and of the man who found it; "Now We Are Free," a novel of the opening of the Ohio country and of Connecticut, and "Windows for the Crown Prince," by Elizabeth Gray Vining, who for four years served as private tutor to the Crown Prince of Japan. All these books sound exciting to me.

This week I am reporting on "The Big Fisherman," by Lloyd C. Douglas, who is one of my favorite authors. It was he who wrote "The Robe" and many, many other books. "The Big Fisherman" is the story of Simon Peter, and Apostle of Jesus. Also interwoven in the story is Fara, half Arabian and half Jewish, girl, later named Esther by Jesus, who rides to Palestine on an errand of vengeance which accounts for the 5000 year feud between the Arabians and the Jews. I recommend it highly.

I found "Singing Hills," by Lillian Craig, very interesting and easy reading. This is a lively account of the Southern Highlanders, of their customs and mountain lore. The many personal incidents make it enjoyable reading. I wanted to call this book to the attention of the Rev. Whetstone for I know he would enjoy it having spent a part of his vacation in the mountains and around the Missions, in the company of the mountaineers.

Next bookmobile date, Tuesday afternoon, Aug. 26.

Son Born To Warringtons

A son, weighing 9 pounds, 4 1/2 ounces, was born to Mr. and Mrs. John Warrington Fri., Aug. 1, at Milford Memorial Hospital. Mrs. Warrington is the former Dorothy Anthony.

The Warringtons also have a daughter, Cheryl, 4.

Sentiment Favors More Frequent Legislative Sessions, Says Lawyer

"There seems to be a trend in favor of having legislatures meet two or three days each month, instead of having the long sessions once each two years," said Cubbage Brown in address before the Harrington Rotary Club Tuesday evening.

Something can be said for both sides, according to Mr. Brown. He cited the dilemma facing Governor Carvel, who is anxious to do something to alleviate the losses of the flood sufferers in the Elsmere section of suburban Wilmington. Governor Carvel would like to appropriate a substantial amount of money to aid these people, but he is not sure of the legality of such a step and has appealed to the attorney general for a ruling. With the legislature in session at a monthly meeting, the problem could be solved within a short time. The 60-day session known since its creation, was necessary in those days because of travel difficulties. Legislators went to Dover at the beginning of the term and remained until the end. But, today, Dover is accessible to anyone in Delaware after no more than an hour's travel. Opponents of the plan say that under the present custom, the newspapers and radio keep the public informed day after day of most of the bills introduced -- and this gives the public an opportunity to register protest or approval of such bills. Under the proposed two-day session, this opportunity would be lacking.

DEFENDERS OF FREEDOM

Joseph Jarrell Callaway, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Callaway, of Harrington, is currently attached to the U. S. Naval Amphibious Base, at Little Creek, Va.

In a letter to W. C. Burgess, associate editor of this newspaper, H. W. Donovan, a member of the crew of USS James C. Owens, a destroyer, says he will have completed a world cruise by the nineteenth of this month. He adds: "My destroyer division has entered the following ports of call. Upon leaving Norfolk on Jan. 22, our first port was Panama City, then on to San Diego,

Calif; Pearl Harbor, Midway Islands, Yokosuka, Japan; Sasebo, Japan; Pusan, Korea; Singapore; Colombo, Ceylon; Ras Tanura, Saudi Arabia; Ade, Port Said, Istanbul, Athens, Naples, Cannes, Gibraltar and now, home. "Upon arrival, I am expecting orders to Treasure Island, Calif., to school for seven months."

Sic. Robert J. Devroy, of Harrington, is one of eight Delaware veterans from the Far East Command who arrived at Camp Stoneman, Calif., Tuesday and started 30-day rotation leaves. Cpl. Earl Waters, 149 N. Queen St., Dover, is another.

No One Remembered
A minister in Haydenville, Mass., celebrating his fiftieth anniversary as a preacher, repeated his first sermon, delivered 50 years before.

Twenty Years Ago

The large new barn on the farm of B. Carroll, on the Dover-Cowgill's Corner road, was destroyed by fire late Wednesday night, including several tons of hay. The loss on the barn and contents will total close to $10,000 with partial insurance.

The many friends of Mrs. Wallace White were shocked and grieved to hear of the drowning of her little daughter, Janet, at Lewes, last Sunday afternoon. Mrs. White formerly lived at Frederica.

William Stafford, 14, of Mr. and Mrs. Anstine Stafford, living between Harrington and Burrsville, was killed Sunday when a horse he was riding suddenly turned from the road into a side field road throwing the boy from the horse's back crushing him against a post at the entrance to the lane. This happened at 6 P. M. and the boy died four hours later.

Resorts throughout lower Delaware yesterday observed what has been known as "Big Thursday." With the possible exception of July 4, this is the biggest day of all at the resorts. Thousands of people thronged the beaches at Oak Orchard, Rehoboth, Broadkill, Cedar, Bethany and Bowers. Big Thursday will be held at Slaughter Beach August 18.

The funeral of Mrs. Jonas Dean, who died suddenly Friday morning, was held at the Nazarene Church Monday afternoon. She is survived by her husband and four small children.

O. C. Passmore has purchased the Norris Adams property on Mechanic Street.

William S. Harris, 75, died Sunday morning. Mr. Harris came to Harrington from Pennsylvania many years ago. He is survived by his wife.

Beniah Anderson, 65, died at his home near town, following a stroke of paralysis suffered the day before while he was in the First National Bank. He is survived by four children, William and Bernard Anderson, Mrs. Mary Williamson, and Miss Myrtle Anderson.

Camper Unopposed For Senator In Democratic Primary

Summit Bridge To Open Today After Repairs

Repairs to Summit Bridge are being rushed to completion and the bridge will open today at 10 a. m. seven weeks ahead of schedule, it was announced this week by U. S. Senator J. Allen Frear, Jr.

Senator Frear was informed of the progress of the work by Col. Walter Kreuger, district engineer of the Army Corps of Engineers at Philadelphia.

The senator at once advised Gov. Elbert N. Carvel of the unexpectedly fast completion of the work of strengthening the bridge.

Closed June 25

The span was closed to traffic suddenly on June 25 when engineers, making a routine check, discovered a weakness in the main abutment on the southern end of the bridge.

Earth was settling away from the abutment, and that part of the bridge was beginning to lean towards the canal.

The bridge is an important link between the Delaware Memorial Bridge and the recently opened Chesapeake Bay Bridge, and is also heavily used by motorists traveling between parts of Delaware and Pennsylvania. At the time the span was ordered closed, it was thought that the repairs would keep it closed until Oct. 1.

More recently, when Senator Frear inspected the repair job on Aug. 1, the work was being carried on 24 hours a day and seven days a week. At that time the job was scheduled to be finished by Sept. 1. Since then the time required to finish the work has been cut in half.

Received Many Letters

Meanwhile, the Senator said, he has been receiving letters from motorists urging that the bridge be reopened as soon as possible.

On learning of the earlier opening date for the bridge, Senator Frear praised Colonel Kreuger and his staff for the fast work being done in getting the traffic artery back into use. He declared that the Army Engineers have cooperated fully with the public in rushing the work, and getting it done far ahead of schedule.

CORRECTION

The Pathfinders Sunday School Class of Asbury Methodist Church will hold its annual picnic at Lewes Beach Sunday evening at 6:30, instead of in the afternoon as reported elsewhere in this paper.

Blaze Destroys Dover Motor Company Quarters

Flames of Undetermined Origin Rage for Four Hours; Fireman Is Hurt; Motorist Discovers Fire

Fire of undetermined origin completely destroyed the building and contents of the Matthews Motor Company in South Dover early Wednesday, with the loss estimated at approximately $200,000.

One Dover fireman was injured fighting the blaze, but returned to duty after treatment by a local physician. Five volunteer fire companies from nearby communities were brought in to help the Robbins Hose Company of Dover.

One car parked in the repair department of the Pontiac agency, one of the oldest auto agencies in Dover—was destroyed by flames, and one other vehicle was driven out of the building by firemen.

There were no new cars in the showroom or garage at the time. The fire was discovered at 4 a. m. by a passing motorist who turned in the alarm. When Dover firemen reached the garage on Governors Avenue and South Street, flames were apparently confined to the southwest corner of the structure.

However, when the fire suddenly broke through the roof over the entire width of the building, firemen estimated that flames had been burning for some time between the ceiling and elevated roof of the concrete-block, brick and wood garage and showroom.

Only Walls Remain

When the blaze was finally brought under control, only a portion of the front and masonry sidewalk remained standing. Fire Chief Ralph H. Boyer called firemen from Camden-Wyoming, Chesold, Little Creek, Magnolia and Leipsic to help.

Some of these companies used their water tanks to good advantage, since hose lines had to be laid two blocks to the nearest fire hydrant.

Everett G. Matthews, vice-president and general manager of the firm, and fire department officials, were unable to determine the cause.

Storm Hit City

A heavy electrical storm passed over the Dover area a short time before the fire was discovered, and the possibility of the building being struck by lightning was considered as a cause, as was also the possibility of a short circuit in wiring.

Two electrically-operated clocks in the building were stopped at 3:40 a. m.

Donovan Retires From Race, Files For Lower House

Jehu Camper was in the clear in his campaign for the Democratic nomination for state senator from the Fourth Senatorial District when Leon Donovan, who was also seeking the nomination, withdrew and filed for representative from the Ninth Representative District. Donovan filed for the post when Hugh Vincent of Farmington, who was also interested in the nomination, withdrew.

Final filing date for the Democratic primary, to be held Sat., Aug. 23, was Wednesday.

Fount Billings, who had filed for the nomination for Levy Court commissioner from the Second Levy Court District, had opposition this week when Fred Greenly also of Harrington, filed for the post.

Henry T. Price has filed for commissioner from the First Levy Court district.

No candidate filed for the Third Levy Court District, nor the Third, Fifth, and Tenth Representative Districts.

Other persons who have filed and their desired offices are as follows:

John P. LeFevre, prothonotary; Sheriff William Paskey, comptroller; Comptroller Wesley Walls, register of wills; Coroner William Fleischauer Jr., coroner; Charles G. Moore, senator from the Second Senatorial District.

W. Jennings Poore, former state senator from Hartly, filed for the post from the Second Senatorial District, to contest Moore.

Robert Pippin, Levy Court commissioner, from Dover, will be unopposed in the nomination for sheriff.

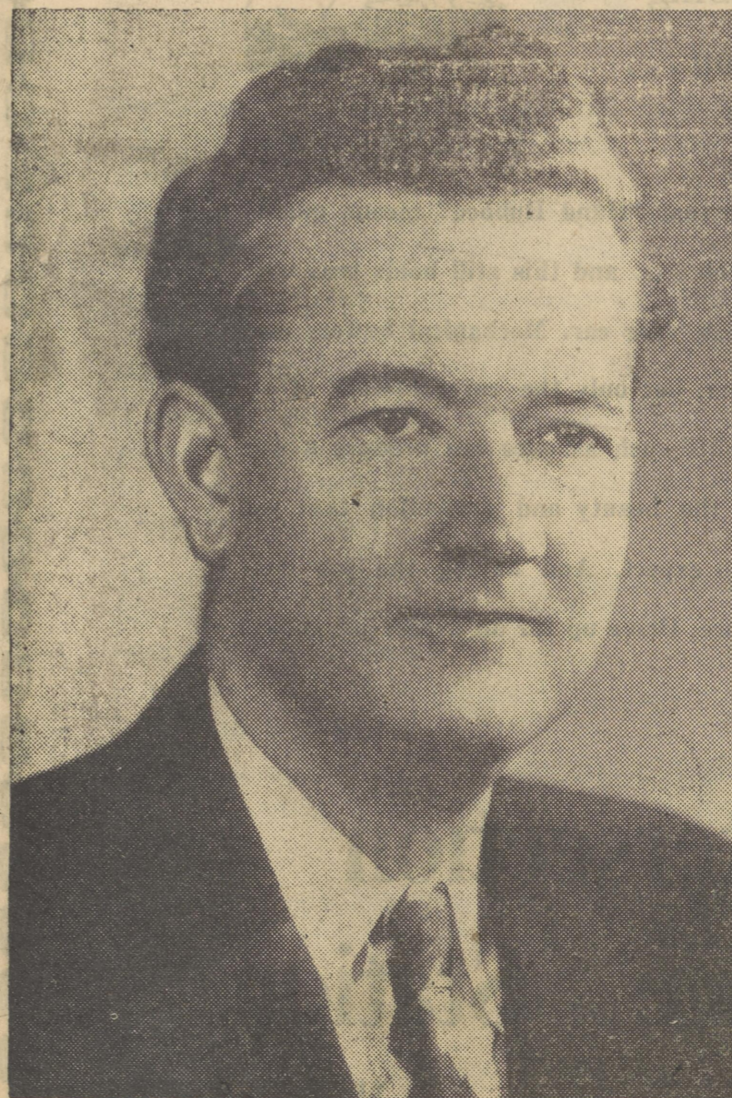

Col. John P. LeFevre, Dover, filed for the Democratic nomination for prothonotary, a post he has held for some months as successor to former Prothonotary James B. Messick, now clerk of the state supreme court.

Colonel LeFevre is a former judge of the Kent County Court of Common Pleas and also of the Juvenile Court for Kent and Sussex Counties when the juvenile court judgeship was part of the Common Pleas Court judge's duties, and is a former commander of the National Guard of Delaware. He is an overseas veteran of World War I and a veteran of the Mexican border incident of 1916.

Appointed by Governor Carvel as prothonotary at the time of the resignation of Mr. Messick, Colonel LeFevre has held the post since May 1.

Sunday's Schedule

Felton at Wyoming
Harrington at Viola
Frederica at Farmington

Heavy rains over the weekend completely erased the Mar-Del League schedule as the result of wet grounds. This will prolong the regular season one week as the games are all important as they will have a bearing on the final outcome of the top four play off berths. Felton has one game remaining when they face the pennant winning and unbeaten Wyoming nine this Sunday on the later's diamond. Currently Felton has a full game lead over the deadlocked Frederica and Harrington nine as a result of picking up a half game as Hickman withdrew which gave the 2nd place Club a forfeit on Sunday. Harrington also has a game remaining with Wyoming while the tilt with Frederica looms big for both teams. All three clubs are going all out to take the 2nd spot as they will not be called upon to meet Wyoming in the Semi-finals.

Playing a top brand of ball for the past few weeks Pilot Johnny Bunnell's Felton tossers will invade Wyoming this Sunday with strong intentions of halting the Wyoming streak which has now reached 11 straight. Harold Rothermel, one of the Circuit's most effective hurlers, will be on the mound for the visitors while Joe Moelner, Donnie Oliver or Aub Berry will get the Wyoming nod from Manager Freddie Clemence. Harrington could meet surprising opposition as they invade Viola this Sunday. Bill Biddle, Viola veteran, had been rounding into shape fast and will oppose the visitors. Charley Riley or Harry Barrett will get the starting role for Harrington.

Frederica makes their final road trip of the regular season as they travel to Farmington on Sunday. This may prove a tough battle for the Frederica nine as Farmington surprise in their last game as an inspired nine upset Harrington in a thriller 5 to 3. They expect to have Bobby Messick in the line-up which seems to do things to the 6th place nine. Paul Dean will do the hurling for the host nine while Frederica will be at full force with Jim Postles, Buddy Kimmel, Ken McClamrock and Roy Kemp set to take the mound. McClamrock looms as the possible starter.

Al Gottorf, Frederica's first baseman, is pacing the Circuit batting parade, with a lofty .467 average. Teddy Michael, Wyoming infielder who has been on the sideline during the past few weeks, is in 2nd place with .435. Leon Wix, Harrington receiver, 3rd with .400. Johnny Williams, Wyoming, is holding down 4th with .395 while Farmington's Tiny Messick is 5th with .370. Johnny Williams is leading with doubles, 5, and home-runs, 2. He is tied with Billy Morris, Harrington in triples with 2 each. Harold Bennett, Wyoming leads in two departments. He has scored 17 runs and has 14 RBI's. Bobby Gibson, Frederica, tops with 4 sacrifices while his teammate, Jay Widdoes, has been hit 4 times by opposing hurlers, Sam Matthews, Harrington, and John Bunnell, Felton pilot, have stolen 9 bases to lead in that department. Wyoming is well out in front in team batting with a .315 average. Harrington is 2nd with .237 while Farmington is 3rd with .269. Wyoming leads in doubles, 24, triples, 7, home-runs, 3 and stolen bases 56. Frederica is leading in sacrifices with 8 while Felton has turned in 9 double-plays.

Aub Berry and Joe Moelner, Wyoming moundsmen, are leading the hurlers with 5.0 and 4.0 records respectively. Harold Rothermel, Felton, is the Circuit's workhorse with a 6.2 record and he has hurled 8 complete games and one in relief.

Rothermel also is high man in strikeouts with 70. Paul Dean, Farmington, has made the most appearances, 10. Dean has given up 68 hits.

Ft. Meade to Represent State In National Semipro Tourney

Fort Meade's powerful GI nine will represent Delaware in the National Semi-Pro Congress Tournament beginning Sunday in Wichita, Kan.

The Soldiers won the Delaware State Tournament last Monday night by trimming the Milford Yanks, 6 to 1, to brush aside their last opposition in the double elimination event. Fort Meade at Milford was scheduled to play Newark A. A. in the first game of the night, but Newark was unable to field a team and forfeited its way out of the tourney. That left it up to GIs and Milford.

Fort Meade finished as the only undefeated team in the tournament. The Army base is in Maryland, but this event was opened to teams from that state because neither Delaware nor Maryland had staged a semi-pro tourney in many years.

Two tremendous home runs by Jim Lemon, former Harrisburg and Oklahoma City slugger, who is the property of the Cleveland Indians, powered the Meade triumph. One came with a runner aboard in the third. Shortstop Spider Wilhelm and Third Baseman Hank Washington also homered for the winners, Washington blasting a terrific drive over the center-field fence in the fourth.

Johnny McElwee pitched a four-hitter for Meade, striking out six and walking two. He received fine support. Ben Hilly, except for the home-run balls, hurled well in defeat. McElwee blanked the Yanks until the seventh, when Jake Drummond walked and Walt Reed and Stan Hicks singled. That was the only scoring chance the Milford team had.

Pat Knight, Dover sportswriter, made individual awards at the conclusion of the game. Washington, a former Kansas City Monarch, was named the tournament's most valuable player. McElwee was the leading pitcher and Bobby Maul of the Milford Yanks the leading hitter.

The Coca-Cola championship trophy was awarded to the Fort Meade team by George Edward Massey, Dover dealer.

Houston

U. S. Senator John J. Williams will speak Sunday evening at the Houston Methodist Church.

Mrs. Susan K. Harrington, third and fourth-grade teacher at the local school, has completed a course in public relations in education, given the last three weeks at Rehoboth by the University of Delaware.

Mrs. Doris Roe Holleger is in Delaware Hospital, in Wilmington, instead of Kent General Hospital, Dover, as reported in last week's letter.

Mrs. Cora Satterfield, Mrs. Merrill Thistlewood, Mrs. Emory Webb, Mr. and Mrs. William Biggs, and Mr. and Mrs. Urie Morris attended the funeral of their uncle, William Cannon Short, at Bridgeville Tuesday afternoon.

A girl was born to Mr. and Mrs. Robert Johnson Saturday morning at Milford Memorial Hospital. The name Shirley Jean has been given her. Mrs. Johnson was the former Mary Ella Collison, of Trainer, Pa. Betty Sapp returned Sunday after spending two weeks at Lewes with Mr. and Mrs. Albert Sapp.

Mr. and Mrs. Merrill Thistlewood, and Mrs. George Thistlewood and daughter, Anna Lee visited the Jack Kennedys at Bear Sunday afternoon. Nancy Thistlewood, who spent the past week with the Kennedys, returned home with Elaine and Kathleen Kennedy.

Cary Smith Sr., a patient at the Veterans Hospital, at Elsmere, was home for the weekend. Mr. and Mrs. Smith, accompanied by the latter's sister, Mrs. Minnie Chism, visited Mr. and Mrs. Glen Lehman at Seaford Sunday. Mr. and Mrs. George Kirkby entertained the former's brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. William Colban, and their children, Mary Jane and William, of New York City, recently.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Wharton celebrated their 51st wedding anniversary last week and invited Mr. and Mrs. George Kirkby to be their Sunday dinner guests at the George Washington Hotel at Ocean City, Md.

Marvels

Mr. and Mrs. Bobby Hill, of Wilmington, spent the weekend with Mr. and Mrs. Harry Hill. Frank Porter and son spent Monday in Rehoboth.

Leon Donovan, of the Marine Corps, is spending some time with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Gove Donovan.

Miss Sarah Taylor is spending a few days with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Taylor.

May Day

May Day has been celebrated from the earliest times. In Rome, flower-decked processions honored Flora, goddess of flowers. In medieval Europe, people went a-maying carrying branches of trees and flowers and danced around a maypole.

BUICK'S POWER STEERING?
It's the big NEWS of the year

THERE is a host of things that endear a ROADMASTER to anyone who loves to drive.

There's the might of its Fireball 8 Engine—most powerful ever put in a Buick.

There's the thrift of its Airpower carburetor—a four-barrel automatic that literally brings increased power right out of thin air.

There's its hushed and luxurious silence—its poised and level ride that cost a million dollars to develop—and the infinite smoothness of its Dynaflo Drive.

But the thing that has brought the most cheers for this big and obedient beauty is Buick's version of Power Steering.*

Gone is the tug of turning, parking, maneuvering in small space.

Power Steering takes over the effort of turning the front wheels—makes it a one-handed operation.

Do you have to learn to drive all over again if you have this new Buick feature?

You definitely do not. On the open road, you have that same sure sense of command that you've always had. Coming out of a curve, you can loosen your grip, and the front wheels right themselves just as they do on every Buick.

But you'll notice this: When you suddenly hit loose dirt or sand—or a stretch of rough road—Power Steering smoothly goes into action—helps take up the jerk—makes control of the wheel easier and driving safer.

Wouldn't you like to try out this newest wonder—on a ROADMASTER or a SUPER? You say the word, and we'll do the rest.

Equipment, accessories, trim and models are subject to change without notice. *Optional at extra cost on Roadmaster and Super only.

FOOLISH HEADLINE READERS AGAIN

Headline readers -- who read the headlines and not the story following -- are the worst misinformed people in the world. To make it more ridiculous, they start dishing out that misinformation.

All over the country the papers have been carrying such headlines as "Truman Defeated in Missouri." Truman was NOT defeated in the recent Missouri primaries. He did announce he was going to vote for J. E. Taylor for United States Senator. Taylor had been a competent state official and an ardent supporter of Truman during the latter's entire political career. If he hadn't voted for Taylor, he would have been an ingrate -- but Truman didn't campaign for anyone. Taylor was defeated -- but the faction with which Truman is allied swept Phil Donnelly to the Democratic nomination for governor by a landslide. That was in the story, but not in the headlines -- so the worst you can give Harry is a 50-50 break.

BULLY FOR BERT!

Two policemen in Bayonne, New Jersey, saw Bert Harris walking along the street, one of his hands bleeding. "I socked a juke box," Bert explained. "I just couldn't stand it any longer, so I socked it, but as it kept on playing, I walked out of the building."

The officers took Harris to a hospital, where seven stitches were necessary to fix the hand. Being sensible people -- and sympathetic -- the hospital people didn't want to charge Bert one cent, but he insisted, we understand, that they accept $2.50.

We are sending Bert Harris a check for $5, at the same time imploring him to sock the juke box with the other fist.

WHY BIG MAGAZINES OPPOSE DEMOCRATS

The big magazines always line up with the Republicans. They have to do this. The big magazine is big business. It's in the business to make money -- and to heck with ethics.

Let's take the Saturday Evening Post. A correction -- you take it -- we do not want it. The Post can't afford to oppose the National Association of Manufacturers, because members of that organization are the sole source of revenue of the Post. Country weeklies receive quite a bit of revenue from the manufacturers, and the metropolitan dailies receive much more, but the dailies and the weeklies do not depend on the manufacturers for their existence, inasmuch as most of their revenue is derived from local advertising.

This is not uttered in a spirit of jest, but without the national advertising, the Saturday Evening Post would not be as big as The Harrington Journal -- in fact, without this source of revenue, it would cease to exist.

Robert Ruark, whose syndicated column appears in some newspapers, had a column the last week under the caption "Today I Am a Grandfather of 10 Puppies." To the people who have read his stuff, is that a revelation?

ARE TRADE UNIONS GETTING TOO BIG?

Once upon a time, as they say in the fairy stories -- but this is not a fairy story -- you could visit any mill town or mining town and see row after row of two-room shacks or three-room shacks, all of the same pattern, clinging to the side of the hills. The occupants of those shacks existed in abject poverty. Eighty years ago when the wages of factory workers in some New England mills were reduced to $3 per week and the laborers, in an effort to combat starvation, tried to organize a union, they were greeted with cries of "Communists!"

Unions were organized -- but in many parts of the country we had strife and blood was spilled. The Pinkertons slaughtered the strikers in Carnegie's Homestead, Pa., mills and when Carnegie gave $50,000 to William Howard Taft's campaign fund, Richard Lawrence Metcalf published a poem in Bryan's "Commoner" -- "But Those Who Died at Homestead Paid The Bill."

Unions flourished, step by step in up-hill progress. Money poured into their coffers -- and then racketeers invaded the Union ranks -- just as they had invaded the ranks of big business years before. If big business had not tried to squeeze the last penny from its semi-slaves, unions would not have been necessary. There are racketeers in Wall Street and in the labor unions, said Owen Wister just after the turn of the century, but inasmuch as Wall Street was the first to start the heinous practice, it must bear most of the blame.

We do not like to see any segment of American life control all of America -- and that goes for industry, the farm block, trade unions. For the progress America has made, all must share credit; for the mess we are in today, all must share blame. The word "compromise" does not seem to be in anyone's vocabulary today. A story illustrating this point came out of England a few years ago:

A capitalist, a trade unionist, a fascist, and a communist were on an ocean liner. It went down a short distance from shore. The four started to swim ashore. The capitalist was the first to sink -- he insisted on taking everything with him. The fascist kept saluting and exhausted his strength -- and he went under. The communist was swimming strongly, but he kept shouting propaganda, swallowed a lot of water, and he went out of sight. The trade unionist was only a few yards from shore -- and then the whistle blew!

Poem of the week --

Diamond are only chunks of coal That stuck to their jobs, you see. If they'd petered out, as most of us do, Where would the diamonds be? It isn't the fact of making a start, It's the sticking that counts, I'll say; It's the fellow that knows not the meaning of fail, But hammers and hammers away. Whenever you think you've come to the end, And you're beaten as bad as can be Remember the diamonds are chunks of coal, That stuck to their jobs you see. Although the tall growing pastures produced more for the entire grazing season, superior beef production was obtained from a bluegrass-timothy-white clover mixture in the early season and from the lespep mixtures during August and September. All mixtures showed a decrease in production during the latter part of the grazing season.

Complete results of the grazing trials are contained in Experiment Station Bulletin 442, "Grass and Legume Combinations for Beef Production." A free copy will be sent Maryland residents on request. Addresses requests to the Bulletin Room, Symons Hall, University of Maryland, College Park, Md.

Trade Districts In Large Cities May Disappear

NEW HAVEN, Conn. -- The "downtown" business districts of American cities may soon become "ghost towns", a Yale University traffic expert says.

"The central business districts of our cities are confronted with problems of transportation which threaten their very existence," warns Theodore M. Matson, director of Yale's bureau of highway traffic.

Matson says a city's business district is dependent on the number of people which can conveniently shop in that area.

"As traffic congestion increases, these business districts become harder and harder to get to," Matson adds.

In a speech on "Yale Interprets the News" over Station WTIC, Hartford, the Yale expert said that merchants in "downtown" areas are losing their customers to accessible suburban shopping centers.

Future Looks Dark

"Nationally-known brands, of course, are sold in all areas -- in business centers as well as in the suburbs," Matson said. "But non-standardized and luxury items tend to remain in downtown shopping districts and for the moment, the central area serves an important function in a community's economy despite the inroads of suburban competition."

He warned, however, that the future looks dark for many of these downtown areas unless traffic congestion is decreased.

Matson said all cities exist largely because of their strategic location on routes of travel and that while transportation alone cannot make a city, a city cannot exist without it.

"Buses, street cars, taxis and subways are all vital to American cities," Matson said, "and when we add the fact that 70 percent of travel to business districts is made by private automobiles, we have genuine congestion."

Districts Must Change

Matson pointed out that congestion is costly and local government are reluctant to make any moves. He doubted, therefore, that really strong measures would be taken to relieve the congestion apparent in more and more downtown areas.

"Central business districts, if they are to survive, must change their functions to serve a growing population with an increasingly specialized line of goods and services," he said in offering one possible answer to the problems of the downtown business man.

Wedding Vow Changes Urged by Minister

COLUMBUS, O. -- Wedding vow changes to stress the positive instead of the negative was urged here by Dr. Roy A. Burkhardt, pastor of First Community church of this city.

He specifically recommended changing the wording of "for richer, for poorer, in sickness and in health," to a thought such as "Will you stand by in all perplexities of life?"

Dr. Burkhardt also advocated that only sacred music be used at wedding ceremonies. He addressed the pastors section of the division of Christian education, national council of churches, at its annual meeting.

Pastor Must Master His Schedule, Duties

DES MOINES -- A clergyman must not become "the chore boy of everybody in the community who wants a benediction at a banquet," but the master of his schedule.

This advice was given by the Rev. Dr. Charles E. Tupper, associate professor of applied Christianity at Drake bible college, who also said that a minister must guard his health.

"Some of us drag around with half the power we ought to have because of reduced vitality," he said.

Dr. Tupper addressed the Iowa ministerial institute of Christian (Disciples) churches here. He said that a half-completed daily schedule is depressing, and brings no "sense of victory" or pleasure in achievement.

"There are more demands than we can meet and we must make a choice," he said. "I am not forgetting the minister's responsibility to the community," Dr. Tupper said, "but he must evaluate his calls on the basis of preference and importance."

Dr. Tupper said his basic thought was to keep alive the "spiritual glow" of clergymen, despite their difficulties, for the sake of the people they serve.

Seventy-Year-Old Tax Payers Are Thankful

More Women Employed

Latest census figures show that more women are employed at pay jobs now than at any other non-war time in our history and almost 50 percent of these women have children.

The Home Town Of the World--Paris, France

WASHINGTON, D. C. -- Students of French politics, and those who have read Dickens' " Tale of Two Cities," know that Parisian paving blocks have at times been riot weapons and barricade material. Few know, however, that these same blocks can keep a baby warm.

This discovery was made by a French friend of Donald William Dresden, author of an article "Paris, Home Town of the World," in a national magazine.

Dresden writes of his friend's desperation during a cold winter. Conventional fuel was expensive and the young father was poor. Around the corner from his apartment, the street was paved with wood blocks.

Policemen not Gendarmes

One night he stealthily filled a sack with the blocks, only to have a policeman catch him. The fuel gatherer protested his baby was cold. The policeman looked the other way.

"Let us hope she will be warm, monsieur," he said. "I have three of my own."

Paris policemen, it is explained, are not gendarmes, as is widely believed. The men with the picturesque stiff blue capes and white clubs are agents de police. Gendarmes keep order in rural areas.

Dresden writes feelingly of the many attractions that Paris has for the outsider as well as for the Parisian, and of the inescapable impression the visitor feels that he is at home in the French capital.

He describes life in an apartment on the left bank -- the Quai St. Michel, near the Rue du Chat Qui Peche -- the "Street of the Cat Who Fishes" -- immortalized by Elliot Paul in "The Last Time I Saw Paris."

Not far from the apartment is St. Germain des Pres and its cafes, the Flore, the Deux-Magots and others, where students, American as well as European, settle the grave affairs of the world at sidewalk tables.

Contrast Without Conflict

Paris' contrast without conflict in architecture and design is emphasized by comparison of the vast Gothic cathedral of Notre Dame de Paris with the lacy spire of the Eiffel Tower and the classic beauty of Les Invalides, housing the tomb of Napoleon.

Dresden tells of enrollment in the Cordon Bleu, Paris' world famous cooking school, after he tasted the disastrous efforts of his maid to prepare a dinner.

Aureomycin Becoming Less Costly to Sick

PEARL RIVER, N. Y. -- One of the antibiotic "wonder drugs", which is used widely for many human and animal diseases, is becoming less expensive for the patient. Since discovery of aureomycin in 1949, there have been several direct price reductions.

New laboratories are marketing the drug under a new low-dosage recommendation which is about half that for similar wide-range antibiotics. This lower dosage will mean substantial savings for the patient.

The new recommendation calls for only four 250 mg. aureomycin capsules per day for an adult, as compared with the old recommendation of eight to 10 per day, for serious bacterial infections.

Two years ago, our scientists, realizing that lower dosages of the drug would be effective, set in motion an extensive research program in our laboratories and in hospitals throughout the country, to gain evidence. Meanwhile, independent reports from all over the world proved conclusively that a lower dosage is in order, a fact which has been recognized and approved by responsible authorities.

Aureomycin, which must be prescribed by a doctor, is indicated in the treatment of over 60 diseases which beset man, including "strep" throat, boils and carbuncles, "virus" pneumonia, tonsillitis, and a number of skin infections.

Saturday Night Bath Now Nothing of Past

NEW YORK -- The Saturday night bath is becoming as outmoded as the horse and buggy despite the fact that most people are keener than ever about personal hygiene.

The Gas Appliance Manufacturers' association, which makes a study of such things, says that the once-a-week dunking is going down the drain in favor of the daily shower or dip in the tub.

Better plumbing, more scientific bath fixtures, improved soaps and most important, automatic hot water, have brought about the bathing revolution. With it have come higher living standards and better health.

Nowadays, the association reports, the average family uses two to four times as much hot water as a family of comparable size 20 years ago. Where a 30-gallon hot-water tank sufficed in 1932, today's household demand tanks of at least 40-gallon storage capacity and they want heaters that heat water fast and keep it hot for bathing even while dishwashing or laundering is going on.

Keeping Paint

If you have small amounts of paint left over and want to keep it for later use, simply covers the paint with paraffin. This keeps the paint from drying out in the bottom of the paint can.

The smallest recognized park in the world is the 25-foot-long, 12-foot-wide Park Revere Park in Somerville, Mass.

America Is Lawless Nation, Reports Criminal Authority

NEW YORK -- America's soaring crime rate is a direct reflection of the state of our national conscience and present-day moral standards. This is the opinion of Dr. Austin H. MacCormick, noted criminologist and professor of criminology at the University of California, reporting on the history of crime in America recently to the "Conference on the Future" arranged in New York by 2500 mutual fire and casualty insurance companies.

"A climate of crime is created by the moral standards of our contemporary officials and citizens, our tolerance of wrongdoing, and our attitude toward law enforcement and the social controls opposed to crime," MacCormick said. "Because of the national lapse in moral standards, MacCormick reported, America today 'has earned the unenviable title of 'the most lawless nation on earth'."

He now has an estimated total of nearly two million major crimes and 15 million minor offenses committed in the United States each year, he said.

He outlined the transition of crime in America from the "need and greed" theory of motivation to present "highly organized criminal syndicates operating on a national level, skillfully integrated and distorting the latest advances in science and communication facilities to their unlawful uses."

A generation or two ago, he said, investigation of the youth caught holding up the corner grocer revealed he wanted the money for food or shelter or to impress his girl friend. "When that thief is captured today, all too often we find he got the gun from a higher-up who was selling him dope and thereby stood to gain from a successful robbery. And this intermediary in turn was being supplied with dope wholesale by a third member of a criminal hierarchy."

"Our present social and economic situation is producing a predominant motivation to crime," MacCormick said. "And today we must face up to the presence of organized crime, committed by predatory racketeers combined in powerful syndicates with a greed for money and a greed for power."

Almost as important as supporting and strengthening our law-enforcement agencies, MacCormick said, "is a national moral renaissance, a return to the moral precepts of our founders, a return on all levels to the old-fashioned principles of teaching and believing in the intrinsic difference between right and wrong."

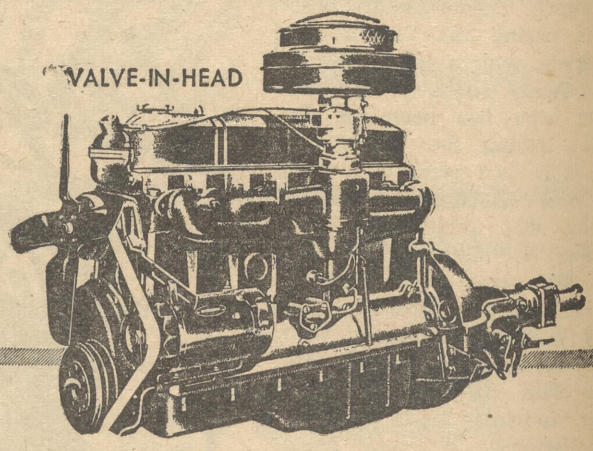

Dr. MacCormick was one of 11 outstanding scientists and educators speaking at the Conference on the Future.

Stain Removal

If you have a tablecloth that has been stained with tea or coffee, remove these stains by rubbing with glycerin and let the cloth stand a few minutes. Then wash as usual with soap and warm water.

Biggest Deed

The world's biggest deed was one executed by the five Indian nations in 1736 for land along the Susquehanna River which conveyed title to an area westward "to the setting of the sun."

a nuisance and a threat to health. The next step is to use an effective fly spray.

For use in the home, the insect control specialist recommends lindane, DDT or pyrethrum sprays.

Pyrethrum sprays may also be used effectively and safely on dairy cattle.

Methoxychlor and lindane sprays are recommended for use in dairy barns.

DDT and crude benzene hexachloride are suggested for other barns.

Heated, Forced Air For Corn Drying

To dry high-moisture shelled corn, Delaware Agricultural Extension specialists recommend heated, forced air. Use of natural air on low-moisture corn is cheap, but expensive on high-moisture corn. If the high-moisture corn is stored in deep bins and natural air is forced through, severe molding occurs. If thin layers of low-moisture corn are dried with natural air, the drying period is three or four times as long as when heated air is used.

Several types of heated air driers are available on the market. The batch drier dries small lots of wet grain or shelled corn in shallow layers. The continuous drier handles a continuous flow of grain.

Agricultural engineers recommend driers using a 5-horsepower electric motor with a fan that can supply 10,000 cubic feet of air a minute. At this air rate, an adequate heater, burning from 4 to 8 gallons of oil an hour, will furnish 13° F. air continuously. Heaters must also be equipped with safety controls to shut off the drier in case the temperature goes to high or in case of power failure.

Brown Rot And Scab Threaten Late Maturing Peaches

Peaches that have bacterial spot, hail injury or are otherwise injured are susceptible to brown rot and scab during periods of high humidity. According to L. O. Weaver, plant pathologist at the University of Maryland specializing in diseases of fruit crops, brown rot and scab are fungus diseases that may develop rapidly in pre-harvest and harvest periods. This is true of both early and late maturing peach varieties, Weaver adds.

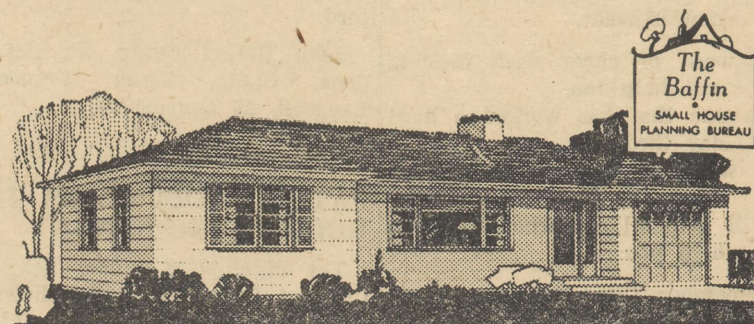

Occasional showers and high humidity provide favorable conditions for brown rot and scab. Some peach trees also have soft and succulent growth which is favorable for the development of brown rot. Weaver reminds peach growers to keep the rapidly growing fruit covered with a sulfur fungicide spray or dust.

Weaver suggests that protection against brown rot should be maintained up to the time of harvest.

Dry wettable sulfur, 5 pounds per 100 gallons of water, can be used. A pure sulfur or a 90-10 sulfur-lime dust may also be used. Weaver says that dusting may be quicker and cause less damage to the trees.

BEEF CATTLE FOR SALE

Have sold out of all cattle on hand and expect a new lot of over 300 head to arrive this week, either Herefords and Angus heifers and steers, which will consist of over 100 head of calves weighing from 300 to 400 pounds. Just right to start now and make 1,000 pound cattle next year.

Also will have over 150 cattle weighing from 400 to 600 pounds. They are just right to keep for breeders or fatten for market in the early winter.

Balance will be cattle weighing from 600 to 900 pounds hat will do for the feed lot this fall.

Anyone interested in good beef cattle to make money on should come and look these cattle over.

I have sold over 3,000 head of these kind of cattle since January 1st, to over 300 satisfied customers, and expect to sell more than that many the balance of this year. So if you have pasture, why not buy a few of these good cattle and watch them grow and make money for you? It looks like cattle will be high for a long time to come.

All cattle I handle are treated for shipping fever and delivered free of charge within 100 miles. Will take your dairy and fat cattle in trade and allow you a good price for them.

Also can arrange to pasture at a small cost to you any number you wish to buy.

I have rented the Normandy Farms at Norristown, and have over 400 acres of the finest pastures. They have a four-rail fence and plenty of water and shade. I'm sure your cattle will do good there. Also have over 300 acres pasture to rent here in Chadds Ford. So why wait? Why not come and see some real good cattle that are priced lower than any other cattle of the same quality in the state of Pennsylvania?

There must be a reason why I have sold over 48,000 beef cattle in the last 12 years and last year was the biggest year I ever had.

I expect to receive over 200 cattle each week for the balance of this year and I expect to price them so they will move out in that order.

U. OF Md. Scientists Find Fertilizing Beef Pastures Increases Production

Tall-growing well-fertilized pasture mixtures make the most productive pasture for Maryland beef cattle, a group of scientists from the University of Maryland Agricultural Experiment Station have found out. Dr. A. W. Burger and E. C. Spurrier, of the Agronomy Department and Dr. J. E. Foster, of the Department of Animal Husbandry, have recently published these findings in a progress report on a series of grazing tests conducted on the University's experiment farm near Upper Marlboro.

The researchers found that tall mixtures containing ladino clover were superior in beef production and dry matter production to mixtures containing shorter grasses, timothy or lespedeza. Top producers were orchard grass-ladino and tall fescue-ladino. Others tested were Kentucky bluegrass, timothy, white clover orchard grass-lespedeza and tall fescue-lespedeza. The forage in mixtures containing ladino clover was higher in protein than that of the lespedeza mixtures.

Fertility level of the soil had a big effect on beef and forage production, the scientists point out. When annual fertilizer applications were increased from 400 to 700 pounds of 0-12-12 per acre, mixtures containing ladino clover Kentucky bluegrass showed marked increases in yield. The orchard grass-ladino clover mixture almost doubled in yield, increasing from about 1.6 tons at the lower level fertility to more than 3.3 tons at the higher level.

Free Soil Testing Available

It doesn't matter whether you own a thousand acres or a few square feet, the important thing is to get your soil tested if you plan to grow a crop. Seedbed preparation time is a good time to do this, especially since free soil tests are run by the University of Delaware agronomy department.

To take soil sample, dig up some soil from 10 or more different places in the field. The more places, the better the sample. Also the test will be of greater value. Be careful to dig no deeper than 6 inches. Mix the soil well, then put one pint into a container. Send the sample to agronomy department, University of Delaware, Newark. Be sure to number and label your sample. In addition, forms giving the field history and stating what is to be grown in the field should be sent in. These forms, available from the agronomy department, county agents, or fertilizer companies, are necessary if you want to have specific recommendations for the crop you plan to grow.

A chemical analysis of the sample tests for calcium, magnesium, aluminum, phosphorus, and potash content. The soil is also tested for acidity or alkalinity. Organic analyses can be made if requested.

Soil experts say that testing the soil and then following the given recommendations is a tremendous stride forward in the preservation of our land.

Importance Of Good Pastures Stressed

"Farmers can learn a lot from each other," says Delmar J. Young, Extension dairy specialist. In fact, farmers may get a lot more out of seeing how something is done by another farmer than by just hearing about it. For this reason, he encourages farmers to visit some of the outstanding pasture programs in the state.

Two examples of good pasture programs are found on the farms of Paul Mitchell, Hockessin; and Fred Samendinger, Newark. Here, in spite of hot, dry weather, cows have plenty of excellent pasture. The permanent pastures are supplemented with sweet Sudan grass. Both farmers feed 1 pound of grain per 5 pounds of milk to their high test breeds. Other farmers, who are low on pasture and who do not have Sudan grass, are feeding 1 pound of grain per 2 or 3 pounds of milk.

Says Young, "These are not the only good pasture programs in the state, but they are examples of what can be done through proper pasture management. The importance of good pasture cannot be stressed enough. After all, pasture is the backbone of the dairy farm."

If you wish to talk over your pasture program, why not contact your county agent or the Extension Service at Newark? They will be glad to help you.

Farmers Make Profit From Sudan Grass

Sudan grass has become a standby on many Delaware dairy farms and has proved to be a real lifesaver during the dry summer months. According to Delmar J. Young, Extension dairy specialist, the Jarrell Brothers of Middletown, through their unique management system, have turned sudan grass into dollars and cents.

The Jarrells have 64 animals grazing on 17 acres of sudan grass. These 17 acres are divided into 4 plots by use of a simple electric fence. Eight acres were seeded around May 15. Cows were turned out on this seeding on July 15. The other 9 acres were seeded May 29 and were ready for grazing by July 30.

The cows are rotated on the different plots. The first two plots were clipped after the cows had grazed them. Now the cows are grazing the two plots made from the later seeding. Soon all four plots will be ready for grazing. The cows can then be rotated from field to field, giving each plot a chance to recover.

The Jarrells report that they get three more cans of milk per day from sudan grass than from good permanent pasture. Farmers interested in seeing an excellent example of profitable pasture management should visit the Jarrell farm, urges Mr. Young.

Farm Building Tax Now Half Of Total Farm Assessment

Tax assessments against farm buildings have been increasing at a more rapid rate than they have on land during the last ten years. Building assessments now represent one-half of the total farm real estate assessment, according to a recent report released by the Maryland Agricultural Experiment Station, Miscellaneous Publication No. 141, "Improving Farm Building Experiment Assessment Techniques."

The use of unit methods in assessing buildings is emphasized in the report, which concludes that dwellings are, in general, assessed more carefully or in greater detail than other farm buildings. Unit costs are being used as basis for assessing farm dwellings in various counties.

However, the findings show that unit cost methods are also used in assessing other farm buildings. In general, new or modern buildings are assessed by the unit method, either on the square foot or cubic foot basis. Older buildings or those in poor condition are often "lump sum" assessed.

Unit assessment methods are used more on modern dairy barns than on other barns. Tobacco barns in the Southern Maryland counties are assessed by both unit methods and the "spot" or "lump sum" method. The latter is generally the basis for bank barn assessments.

The study points out that in some counties assessors continue to depreciate buildings beyond this point. This is a source of inequality in the final assessments.

In the concluding paragraphs the report states that "since buildings are becoming a more important part of farm real estate investment, building assessment procedures should be as consistent as possible in an effort to eliminate resulting inequalities. After unit rates are applied the factors of location, depreciation, and obsolescence need to be carefully considered before assessments are finally determined." Even the technical aids, however, the authors caution that assessors must depend largely on their sound judgement.

With a handshake and a smile thereafter,
A pat on the back with greetings shown.

A prayer in the morning will help a lot,
Will make every day much happier and bright
If done in reverence without a blot.

Will be best for all we know that is right.

A word of cheer each evening will help too,
To one that has worked a hard day through.

It will give one courage even cheer the blue,
Will help all concerned will even help you.

Remember, there is love supreme for one and all,
From our father above we all shall find.

So until we do we'll await his call,

L. M. Hereford Farms Aid Peninsula Beef Cattle Industry

L. M. Hereford Farms, Sudlersville, Md., is one of the many peninsula farms which have gone in for breeding of beef cattle in recent years. This establishment, one of the outstanding breeders of Herefords, or Whitefaces, started in 1948 with 13 heifers and three bulls. "Now we have around 85 head of registered Herefords and about 150 head of grade Herefords," writes Lucian E. Massey, who adds, "we have Domino, Mischief, Triumphant, and Battle Block breeding."

SHORT STORY The Stick-Up By MAUDE NORMAN

THE WIND whipped in the open car window on Rose-Ellen's flushed cheeks. "Serve you right, you little fool," she muttered, "for taking things for granted, but he said he couldn't wait to see me and all the time he was still in love with Kate."

She had always loved Steve Wilson and had started writing to him when Kate was too busy with her other boy friends to bother. Gradually the tone of his letters had changed.

Then when he announced he was coming home, Kate's interest had revived, but Rose-Ellen remained confident she was the one he now cared for. But why, oh why, did she have to be so impulsive and greet him as she had?

Running out to her car as she had and driving wildly through town wasn't helping any. She was approaching the city's outskirts, when as she stopped for a red light the door on her side of the car opened, a hard round object pressed against her side, a voice grated.

"Move over, sister—fast!" Rose-Ellen opened her mouth but a vicious jab turned the intended scream into a gasp. "Keep quiet, sister, and you won't get hurt."

Rose-Ellen had always pictured bandits, if she thought of them at all, as weasel-faced or beef-browed, flashily dressed. This one looked like an ordinary citizen.

A voice grated, "Move over sister—fast." "Say, you're a slick chick," he said. "Why did you get in my car?" "Now, don't tell me you're beautiful but dumb," he mocked. "I got in because I needed a car. I'll tell you the story of my life later. Say, you've been crying, ain't 'cha. What's the matter? Boy friend give you the brush-off?"

FEAR gave courage—and inspiration. "I'm not worrying about him—now," she murmured. "We were always quarreling. He wanted to marry and settle down, but I wanted excitement—adventure. I ran away from him and you came along. Don't you think I should know your name?" "Some call me Dan," he smirked. "You're so dark and romantic looking."

Basking in her admiration, he was alert enough to grasp her hand as she opened her handbag. "Whatcha got in there?" "Nothing but powder and lipstick, and my wallet."

"O.K. It ain't that I don't trustcha, Baby, but I gotta be careful. I don't bet no license." "But I have mine. Pull over and I'll take the wheel. Don't worry, we'll only get a ticket. No tricks," he warned. "Remember, I've got this gun handy."

Rose-Ellen felt the bandit's tense body relax as the trooper handed back her license, then tense again as instead of the expected ticket, a revolver appeared in his hand. She gave a gasp of relief, then heard the trooper's shout as something struck her side and darkness descended.

Rose-Ellen held court the next day with Steve, her parents and Kate her admiring audience. "Thank goodness the bullet just grazed your side," her mother arranged the pillows more comfortably. "and it is high enough that it won't prevent your wearing a bathing suit."

"But you need not have been hurt at all if you hadn't misunderstood when I told Kate I was happy because she told me you loved me," Steve said. "Tell us, Rose-Ellen," Kate asked curiously. "How did you tip that trooper off?"

"Oh," she answered sleepily. "I knew a State Trooper was stationed on that side road just before Route 135 on the alert for speeders. When I was supposed to be fixing my face I wrote 'Help, Bandit' across my driver's license with lip-stick, then coaxed my would-be boy friend to speed past."

'Induced Insanity' Reported at Duke

PINEHURST, N.C.—A case of "induced insanity," a rare behavior phenomenon, was reported here by a Duke University psychiatrist. Dr. Leonard J. Ravitz told the Southern Psychiatric association about a strange case of fraternal twins, one of whom became the "echo" of the other's deluded ideas.

This case of "contagious insanity" has been recorded by Dr. Ravitz's newly announced electronic theory of psychiatry, linked with the solar system. By means of a microvoltmeter Dr. Ravitz measures the changes in a person's emotional disturbance from second to second, from one day to another, and from season to season.

Once, after twin "A" mentioned that he had produced many earth quakes, tornadoes, hurricanes, and floods, "B" thought a while, agreed then asked, "Did you have anything to do with the snowfall 28 inches deep?"

This belief in A's power was clearly induced in B by A's suggestion, Dr. Ravitz said. However B was much more suggestible to A's delusions when B's measurements—"electrical potentials"—were high. As his potentials decreased, B's suggestibility to these delusions decreased despite the fact that A's potentials were high. And A himself behaved much more normally as his potentials decreased.

Bugle Virtuoso Lure to Communists

IN KOREA—A Marine bugle virtuoso is luring the Communists to destruction. At strategic moments, he blows the Chinese call for attack, which brings the enemy running straight into the muzzles of leatherneck guns.

He learned the call, note for oriental note, when his patrol surprised four enemy soldiers, and a Red bugler called for aid. The help came, but was promptly wiped out. Next day, the Marine "field music" did a solo, with equal success. Among the captured: One perplexed Communist bugler, who complained bitterly that someone else was muscling in on his racket.

It has happened again in Magnolia. About five weeks ago our community was hit by such a severe rain storm that it could be classed as flood. At that time people who had spent their life time here said they had never seen anything like it. However, one of the older residents, Mr. William Minner, who has observed his 92nd birthday, recalls a similar storm years ago. Now, in the course of such a short time, another storm, more severe than the previous one, struck our community on Friday and caused much damage. Water entered the Dukas Furniture Store where approximately two thousand dollars worth of furniture was damaged. The highway crewmen worked overtime repairing the washouts on the surrounding roads. The Magnolia Fire Co. has been kept busy pumping water from cellars where, in some cases, water was almost to first floor level.

Those of us who have so recently had these two very unpleasant experiences know something of the feeling of these living in a flood stricken area.

Mrs. Thomas Shalley, Sr. of Mt. Vernon, N. Y. has been visiting her children, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Shalley, Jr. and family.

WHEELER RADIO STORE NEWS

This rainy weather we have been having for the last week or ten days is really bad on you housewives who do your own washing. Drying was almost a thing that just couldn't be done or you were on pins and needles the whole time your clothes were out on the line. This worry can be entirely eliminated whether it is raining blowing or snowing. Your Westinghouse clothes dryer is working for you just the same.

Those lovely colored clothes are held with that color when kept out of the sun. It looks like now a clothes line belongs to the birds. As you well know at times and in a short time my prediction again is the birds will come into their own. Why not let us show you how a Westinghouse Dryer will change your mind also.

September is almost here and that means Labor Day. When Labor Day comes around it is time to be thinking about your home inside and get it prepared for the long nights ahead. Let us install a Philco Admiral or Westinghouse Television and those nights will not be long enough.

Truly you should have one that we are now holding in store for someone, in fact we have about forty, yes, I said forty to choose from.

Anything from a 16 inch table set to a 21 inch console, some open, some closed.

These Televisions carry a 24 hours service.

We have several trade in T. V. some as low as $30.00 small screens is reason so low.

Did you say you wanted a bargain in a brand new refrigerator? Well we have it. Select your own at manufacturers list price and deduct not 10 per cent but 20 per cent from the price. Folks if you need a refrigerator, now is the time to get it. I am trying to make room to display more televisions s reason for this offer.

These refrigerators are not old models with the small ice cube compartment but the ones with a large freezer all the way across the top, and sizes that you need, nines, elevens, and one 13 foot.

Today people go for looks as well as quality and may I say if you have a house for rent or sale you will find it much easier if you have the bare walls furnished like it is inviting. You will find that it was the cheapest way of transferring something old to something new at such a low cost.

We have plenty of just what it takes to make this transformation. That of course is a selection of the right kind of wallpaper or Sunflex satin finish wall paints. Come in and let us help you. We are always glad to show you our line.

When thinking about heating for this winter think of Estate oil heaters and you will be wise. Of course if you need gas floor furnace we also have them and fully automatic, bless me what what will a person have to do in a few years.

Wheeler's Television Center Phone 541 Harrington, Del. Talk Peace Not War Supply the proper material and it will go for.

PRIMARY

The following persons have filed for the Democratic nomination in the primary for representative:

First Representative District, Ernest V. Blendt, Smyrna; Second, Harvey Opdyke, Little Creek; Fourth, Norval D. Bose, Marydel; Sixth, S. Tilden Hughes, Harrington; Seventh, Roland H. Wilkinson, Camden; Eighth, Charles W. Bostick, Felton; Ninth, Leon E. Donovan.

After the filing deadline Wednesday at 6 p. m., E. Y. Williams, secretary of the Kent County Democratic Committee, disclosed that no one had filed for several posts. These, Mr. Williams explained, would be filled by appointment by the committee.

June's Bridegroom Is Luckier Fellow Than Ancient Hubby

CHICAGO—The June bridegroom in America today is a pretty lucky fellow, despite what his bachelor friends may tell him, in the opinion of history research experts.

They believe their findings, arrived at after digging through numerous rare documents and other references on romance, marriage, and wedded bliss, covering a period of thousands of years, will help to make business boom at the nation's marriage license windows during "the month of brides."

For example, Og, the Stone man, had to steal his bride from her family and drag her off in the dead of night to his cave retreat. No one worried about his wedding breakfast even if the bride had never learned how to skin a wild boar and cook it over an open fire. But the modern bridegroom is treated like "visiting royalty" by the family of the bride-to-be which traditionally foots all of the wedding bills.

Prospective husbands of primitive German tribes were required to bring a dowry of worldly goods to their brides, including horses and cattle. Among these Germans, who lived during the latter days of the Roman Empire, "hope chests" and trousseaus were unheard of, and the bride's friends never felt obligated to give her a "shower" of household goods for her new home.

When a Mayan boy married, he had to live with the wife's parents and work for her father for at least five years in order to "pay" for his wife. Only then was the young couple permitted by law to set up housekeeping apart. In contrast, the modern bridegroom is expected to attend only an occasional Sunday dinner at the in-laws' home, and he can find an excuse now and then to evade even that obligation.

Probably the most miserable creature of all about to make that trek to the altar was the cliff dweller of ancient America. When he married he had to live in a house that his wife had built and that belonged to her. The children of the marriage were also regarded as belonging to her and took her name, rather than that of her husband as is the custom today.

Flowers

Flowers form the inspiration for many of the casual full-skirted cottons for warm weather. The shades are delicate and are further accentuated with a touch of velvet at the waist.

Fish Gets Around

A red salmon which was marked by the United States bureau of fisheries in Alaskan waters in May, and caught 44 days later in a Siberian stream, was found to have traveled 1,300 miles in that short length of time.

My Son, My Son!

In Forest Lake, Pa., during an election to decide whether or not the community should ban liquor sales, the dries had a one-vote margin until an absentee ballot arrived from soldier Andrew Kveragas, son of the township's only tavern owner.

Treating Clothespins

If your clothespins have a tendency to give away long before their time, treat the pins, while new, to make them last longer. Place in a basin of boiling water and washing soda for 30 minutes, rinse in cold water and let them dry in the sun before using.

Worshipped Trees

The 15 tribes of Indians who inhabited what is now the Mexican state of Oaxaca believed at the time of the Spanish conquest that they were descended from trees. As a result many trees, particularly large or old ones, were held in veneration.

Hardest Substance

Only diamonds are harder than boron carbides. The latter are often used where resistance to abrasion is desired, as in dies for drawing wire and in jeweled bearings. Boron carbides also have been used increasingly in the past few years in abrasive materials.

Embroidery Trick

To embroider initials or small designs on napkins, baste the stamped corners of four napkins together, edge to edge, and center the designs in an embroidery hoop. You can work all four corners this way, without changing hoop until you're ready to work the next four napkins.
