Educators Study Public Relations At Rehoboth

Keen interest was shown in public affairs recently at the Rehoboth High School when a panel representing superintendents, principals, teachers, and members of Boards of Education from several towns of the peninsula discussed "The Responsibility of the Superintendent and the Board of Education in the Field of Public Relations."

The discussion was held as part of a course in public relations now being given in Rehoboth by Dr. George W. Wright, extension service of the University of Delaware enrolled.

Teachers taking the course included the following: T. Conover Crouse and Miss Charlotte E. McAllister, Denton; Mrs. Helen M. Conrad and Maurice Hartnett, Dover; Miss Grace E. Hastings, Farmington; Miss Annabelle Breeding, Federalsburg; Mrs. Belle P. Allen, Greenwood; Mrs. Grace B. Howard, Mrs. Minnie P. Slaughter, and Mrs. Mary Dolby, Harrington and Mrs. Susan K. Harrington, Houson. Others attending included: Mrs. Alice Robertson, Magnolia; Mrs. Edith J. Baynum and Mrs. Geraldine G. Pettyjohn, Milford; and Mrs. Elizabeth Cleland, Milton.

Dr. J. A. Vansant, superintendent of Rehoboth School, acted as moderator. T. Conover Crouse, principal of Caroline High School, Denton; Wayne Burton, teacher at Millsboro School; Filmore Clifton, teacher at Bridgeville School; Maurice Hartnett of Dover, Leslie Timmons, principal Millsboro School, took part in presenting topics. The Board of Education members who joined in the discussion as guests of the class were: Ellwood Gruwell, president, Harrington; Samuel S. Fried, president, Rehoboth; Wilis W. Mitchell, Lord Baltimore; John Joseph, Lewes; Mrs. Elizabeth M. Hill, president, Lewes; Ralph L. Swain, president, Georgetown; W. Carl Utz, Georgetown; and Jacob H. Moore, president, Seaford.

Animated discussion among the board members and teachers was stimulated by the topic, "Should Board Meeting Be Open to the Public?" as well as teacher tenure, releasing teachers from contracts at a late date, purchasing of supplies, annual reports, handling complaints to individual board members, and how a board member could judge the quality of his school.

'A Good Man Nowadays Is Hard To Find'

WHILE CIRCUMSTANCES sometimes make it difficult to secure employment in some fields, the following tidbit brought to our attention by Al Dalberg tells quite a story. Read it:

We heard something this week we hadn't heard in years, that old-time poem, "The Hand That Rocks The Cradle Is The Hand That Rules The World." At least the baby-sitters are coming into their own.

Of all our presidents, William Howard Taft and James A. Garfield wore the largest hats and Calvin Coolidge wore the smallest, according to the Haskin Bureau. We are not guilty of the snide suggestion that small hats cost less than large ones -- that sounds too much like Pegler.

A fellow writing for money, especially big money, may follow the policy of the people who make that big money possible day after day -- but occasionally he forgets himself and gives us a fair picture. Robert C. Ruark, who has been cussing high taxes and intimating that the country is spending itself into ruin, was attacked the other night by three teen-age delinquents. Now he says: "You cannot tell me that society is making them bad, because there are less poor people and more opportunities around now than in the history of the country."

MAN WANTED!

WANTED—A man for hard work and rapid promotion; and a man who can find things to be done without the help of a manager and three assistants.

A man who gets to work on time in the morning and does not imperil the lives of others in an attempt to be first out of the office at night.

A man who listens carefully when spoken to and asks only enough questions to insure the accurate carrying out of instructions.

A man who moves quickly and makes as little noise as possible about it.

A man who looks you straight in the eye and tells the truth every time.

A man who does not pity himself for having to work. A man who is neat in appearance.

A man who does not sulk for an hour's overtime in emergencies.

A man who is cheerful, courteous to everyone, and determined to make good.

This man is wanted everywhere. Age or lack of experience does not count. There isn't any limit, except his own ambition, to the number or size of the jobs he can get. He is wanted in every business.

FROM COTTON PATCH TO VICE - PRESIDENT

Senator John J. Sparkman of Alabama, the Democratic nominee for vice-president, symbolizes the opportunity for achievement which America offers to all of its citizens.

The son of an Alabama tenant farmer, Sparkman attended a one-room country school. He is the seventh of eleven children. Sparkman's father borrowed $75 on a cotton crop to send his son his way to the University of Alabama. Sparkman worked his way through college, earning both a law degree and a master's degree. His superior scholarship earned him a Phi Beta Kappa key.

After college Sparkman began practicing law in Huntsville, Ala., and in 1936, in his first try at politics, he was elected congressman from the Eighth Alabama District. He was re-elected to the House five times. In 1946 Sparkman was chosen by the people of Alabama to succeed the late Senator John H. Bankhead in the U. S. Senate.

Sparkman's 15 years of legislative experience have given him a broad knowledge of all the problems confronting the American people.

Senator Sparkman knows and understands agriculture. He fought for the Tennessee Valley Authority, rural electrification and farm tenant loan programs.

He also has supported legislation to improve the nation's school system, including federal aid to education -- without federal interference. He has backed the school lunch program, federal aid in the construction of hospitals and assistance for health centers.

The senator's contribution to housing programs have been widely praised. As chairman of the Senate's Housing subcommittee Sparkman has sponsored almost all the housing legislation passed by Congress during the last four years. He has been a leader in the fight for effective rent control.

The welfare of the small businessman has been of special concern to John Sparkman. He is chairman of the Senate Small Business Committee and wrote the legislation creating the Small Defense Plants Administration, which makes sure that small businessmen get their rightful share of defense contracts.

No News Received From Dyeing Plant Which Considered Local Site

Business Group's Head Has Made Attempts to Secure Additional Information

Despite attempts by the Harrington Better Business Association to contact it, no word has been received from a dyeing plant which recently considered Harrington as a location for the industry, it was revealed this week.

The attempts were made by Samuel A. Short Jr., president of the businessmen's group, to gain additional information after this data has been requested by the City Council to whom the businessmen had appealed for aid at the August meeting of the councilmen. It was understood that additional sewers and an enlarged sewage disposal plant would be required if the plant, which dyes piece goods, located here.

Short said Tuesday he had contacted J. Hubert Denn, of the Delaware Chamber of Commerce, the organization contacted by the industry, and had told him Harringtonians would like to talk with the company. Denn, Short said, told him a company representative would come here. The visit failed to materialize. On a subsequent call to Denn, Short said he was told the president of the dyeing company would come here last week, another visit which failed to materialize. Short added that Denn promised to give him the name of the company so the business men could negotiate direct.

Short also said Tuesday that Col. C. B. Shaffer, of the State Development Department, had written him about the possibility of other companies locating here, since one local businessman had said he would be willing to build and lease a factory.

Highway Dept. Warns On Signs

With the approach of the fall season, when numerous events will be listed to take place, as well as the approach of the coming political campaign, the State Highway Department is calling attention to the existing law concerning the placing of advertising matter along the highways.

In brief the existing regulations provide that the placing of advertising matter on poles, trees or any other place on or along the right of way of a public highway or road is illegal.

The Department is calling attention to a law enacted by the 1939 session of the Legislature which became effective on January 1st, 1940 and still remains in effect. This law directed the State Highway Department to make and enforce regulations for control of outdoor advertising.

Accordingly at that time the Department established regulations provide as follows:

"No permit shall be issued for any advertising of any character to be affixed, placed, painted or posted in any manner whatsoever upon rocks, trees, fences or barricades within fifty feet of the right of way of any public highway."

In some sections of the State in the past a practice has been followed whereby persons place placards on pole lines along, on the right of way. Also it has been noticed that placards and signs have been placed on signs erected by the Department to designate speed limits and directional information.

Maintenance crews of the Department remove these placards whenever they are located in

Billings and Greenly to Vie Saturday for Democratic Nomination for Levy Court

Polls Open From 1 to 7 P. M. (E. D. T.) Here

As far as the Second Levy Court District is concerned, the Kent County Democratic primary election tomorrow afternoon will be lively one, with Fount Billings and Fred B. Greenly coming to grips in a contest for Levy Court Commissioner.

The Levy Court District, which includes the contestants' bailiwick, Harrington, includes the Third, Fourth, Sixth, and Ninth Representative Districts.

Voting hours will be from 1 to 7 P. M. (E. S. T.), with polling place here being the City Hall. Polling place in the lower Ninth is Farmington and in the lower Sixth, at Masten's Corner. The latter district also includes part of Harrington.

There will be no contest for delegates and alternates, to be elected tomorrow, to the Democratic Convention, to be held at Dover Tuesday. However, there will be one contest for committeeman with J. Harold Schabinger, incumbent, and James Raughley will vie for the post in the First of the Eight Representative District.

When the primary election begins tomorrow afternoon, the Democrats will, for the most part, field a full team. This was made possible when Edward Kelley, present president of the Levy Court, filed for re-election from the Third Levy Court District; Emory N. Lynch Jr., filed for representative from the Tenth Representative District; Irving H. Garton filed for representative from the Fifth Representative District, with Carlton Davis filing for representative from the Third Representative District.

WE MISSED IT THIS TIME

A week or two ago we sat before a television set and watched the dedication ceremonies of the bridge across the storied Chesapeake were the dignitaries of both Maryland, and Delaware, among them ex-Governor William Preston Lane, of Maryland, and over the speaker came this, to us, poignant declaration: "A bridge across the Chesapeake-Governor Lane's dream!" Yes, Governor Lane's dream--at last fulfilled!

But Governor Lane had another dream. Maryland's roads, once the best in the Union, had become among the poorest in the Union. He wanted better roads--and the people of Maryland wanted better roads--but roads cost money. A sales tax was imposed to raise money, but when Governor Lane, a candidate for re-election, appeared upon the platform, pennies fell in showers upon the platform, in protest against that sales tax. "Man's inhumanity to man."

"Yes," we sneered, "and that same thing is going to happen to Governor Sid McMath, down in Arkansas. We were down there only two weeks ago. Arkansas' roads were in horrible condition, are in horrible condition, and Governor McMath started to rebuild them. There, as in Maryland roads cost money. In addition, Sid was trying to beat tradition, running for a third term, when only one man in all the history of Arkansas has been able to attain that goal, the great Jeff Davis of one-half century ago. And when Sid is defeated, just because he is Harry Truman's friend, newspapers far, far away from the actual scene, and who know nothing of what is going on behind the scenes, will proclaim this event to a pulsating and palpitating world under this headline: "Truman's Man Defeated in Arkansas."

But stigma and odium cling to us like a jellyfish sticking to an unreachable part of the back, or a small shark darting in and out in the wake of an unsuspecting victim--we failed--miserably failed. Instead of saying "Truman's Man DEFEATED in Arkansas," Wednesday's papers yelled "Truman's Man BEATEN in Arkansas!"

DON'T LET FRUSTRATION GET YOU DOWN

All of us have dreams and frustrations--that is our heritage. Here we'll give you some advice we, ourselves, have never heeded--don't let your dreams run away with you, and don't let your frustration get you down.

Any normal boy will dream of greatness, of wealth, of recognition, position. He knows that by the time he has attained his majority he will have outstripped the comets in their flight. Commencement speakers, painting false pictures of your inevitable success, convince you more than ever that you are the grand genius in whose hands the world's keeping rests. Then you go out into the world and are confronted by the grim wall of fact. Some give up at the loss of the first skirmish, but others form their lines and attack again, but either way, it's always hard work--and its always frustration.

Maybe some other fellows have made more money than you have been able to garner. But stop and consider. Would you be satisfied to have for your every-day associates the people with whom they associate? It would be an un congenial company for you and you could not develop in any way. You are better, equipped, better trained and they might be lost in the company where you are at complete ease. Maybe you have a higher rating in your profession than they have in theirs--and, after all, you chose your profession or business, didn't you? You chose it because you liked it, and because you like it, you are going to succeed--you are succeeding, now. Let the other fellow set his standards--you set yours.

His job may pay more, but would you trade your field for his? Not in a thousand years. You wouldn't be satisfied if you did.

Forget frustration. Let an occasional smile supplant the surliness. Look neither up nor down at any man--just look him in the eye--and make your job a good job.

If we had our life to live over, knowing what we think we know, we would take our own advice.

"I CAN'T SEE A THING I'VE EVER DONE!"

A party said that to us Monday, a party fairly well along in years, but still vigorous and alert--and yet, of all the people we have personally known, this one is listed among the five greatest as a contributor to charity. Hundreds have been helped in times of tress. W mounted the rostrum and thus delivered ourself:

"My dear friend, we never see anything we have done. It's not something in brass or concrete--it's something more enduring than either. Homer, the great Greek poet, begged for bread, and yet, when he died, seven cities claimed him. Homer never knew it--but today he is one of earth's immortals.

"General Billy Mitchell was vilified, condemned and crucified by pen and press and by the political and military nabobs because he went all out in demanding an air force. Later, when restricted brains expanded, Billy's wisdom was recognized, and we have an incomparable air force today largely because of the urgings of General Billy Mitchell. They even named a type of plane in his honor, but Billy didn't see. He was dead.

"There are thousands of similar cases, but we'll take one nearer home. Long, long years ago, two of Wilmington's outstanding business men, George Casey and I. B. Finkelstein, went to bat for a bridge across Delaware River. No one seemed interested, but these two continued the fight year after year. Ike Finkelstein is as active as ever. He has lived to see many of his dreams come true. We doubt that George Casey ever saw the bridge, because he was dying when it was dedicated--but the bridge is there today.

"You haven't seen a thing you've done? That is not for you to judge. It is not a tangible thing, something you can see, something other people can see, something you can sum up on an adding machine--it is something hidden away, deep and lasting, in the heart of man."

Winnowed Wisdom
By Samuel A. Short, Jr.

With modern thoughts guiding human trend,
Reading of the scriptures is one's best friend.
Through ages of the past truthfulness to last,
Brings winnowed wisdom with richness to last.

If you will keep on reading the word of God,
It will feed your soul with treasures sought.
You'll find this there, its blood of Jesus
That you, your soul your saviour has bought.

You'll see for your self that in ages of the past,
He bled and died on the cross alone,
Forsaken by friends who knew him then
But he did it, giving up the Ghost to save his own.

There's never a doubt about this book,
By living it will please the angels above.
So start it today just don't lay it away,
Just win this winnowed wisdom of God today.

Now and Then

(The following poems were written by Harry E. Legates, former representative in the General Assembly. The first poem appeared in The Harrington Journal in 1932.)

Keep Prosperity With Us
Now the convention is over; Ad Stevenson is in Clover.
Ike Eisenhower is not so happy today.

Stevenson is smiling while the Republicans are whining.
For here is what most of them say.

We did not get Taft; we won't vote for Eisenhower;
So Stevenson's got a cinch that is true.

He will wield a big stick, smash the trusts with a lick,
And keep smiling while the Republicans look blue.

Our fine platform was hatched by men who could not be matched.

And if the farmer and labor take a fall,
What can they expect but future regret.

If they expect but future regret,
If they vote for Ike Eisenhower, that's all.

So let's go out and vote with 1932 on our mind
And the suffering our poor people went through.

And the Bonus March on Washington.
Yes, World War I veterans, his applies to you.

But thanks above for F. D. R. who remembered
The great war you all went through.

He gave you the bonus you asked for and many more good things, too.

So why take empty promises from old "Me Too" again,
For he has tried to get in twice and failed.

Now he is trying a third time on Ike Eisenhower's coat-tail.

So let's not only clip the coat, but clip the man as well,
And keep this dear, old U. S. A. of ours, a prosperous place to dwell.

Prosperity Is Just Around The Corner

Prosperity is just around the corner;
That's what all the Hooverites say.

It has never yet approached us Or even leaned our way.

If it stays around the corner,
It will do no one no good;
It will neither fill the stomach
Nor the wood-box full of wood.

If it stays around the corner
As it has in days gone by,
It will neither help the suffering
Nor the men who tell this lie.
'Twill always be around the corner;

'Tis a gag they have to stay,
To get the ignorant voters
On the next election day!
So don't vote for Herbie Hoover.
He will do us all no good;

He will never fill our stomachs
Or our wood-box full of wood!
So let's put up our hardest battle
And elect our men this fall;
Vote for one who will help the people,

FARM NEWS - REVIEW - FORECAST

Should Broilers Be Served Now

The rather sharp upturn in broiler prices have caused a lot of excitement among broiler growers. Some feel that maybe the good old days are back again. They haven't seen prices like 32, 33, and 34 cents for a long time. This raises the question, "should broilers be placed now?"

W. T. McAllister, agricultural economist, of the Delaware agriculture extension service, says that any question of that kind is most difficult to answer. The best that can be done is to look ahead with the best facts available. Here are a few of them.

1. The chronic respiratory disease known as "air sac" is still around. It eased up during the summer months as expected, but more trouble is anticipated in late fall and winter. There is no sure cure or economical preventive for air sac yet. Those that plan to grow broilers this fall or winter must reckon with the ravages of this disease.

2. Broilers started now will be ready for market during the holiday season of November and December. The last three years have shown that this is an extremely unfavorable period for broilers. While prices are not expected to be as unfavorable during this period as in the past, attractive prices should not be expected.

3. A small increase in beef supplies is expected in the late fall. Pork will not be plentiful but in ample supply. The turkey crop is reported to be even larger than last year's record breaking crop.

4. Storage stocks of broilers are large and will tend to depress the market in the immediate future.

5. Feed supplies, while expected to be plentiful, will not be large and feed costs will stay up may even increase slightly. Other costs will remain high, also.

6. Consumer purchasing power will remain high and demand for poultry will be strong. New markets are still being developed.

In light of these facts some may decide that it is unwise to put in broilers at this time. The odds against profit are large. They might use this period to repair their houses and equipment, give the broiler house a thorough cleaning, or plant and harvest fall crops. Many other growers who have no other source of income and plenty of time to give special care to their broilers reason that empty houses return nothing while overhead costs continue. They know that there is always a demand for broilers, and if placements are reasonable, prices can be favorable at any time of the year. Those that do place broilers now should realize that it probably will take better than average ability at broiler raising to make a satisfactory profit this fall and winter. Certainly this is not the time for crowding houses, as low cost production and good quality will be doubly important when broilers placed now are ready for market.

Treat Your Fenceposts To A Long Life

Planning to put up a new fence this fall? If so, chemical wood preservatives are worth considering, say Delaware Agricultural extension specialists.

Treating wood saves time and money. Why? Simply because treated wood resists rot several times longer than untreated wood. The preservative poisons the food supply of decay fungi and repels or kills wood destroying insects.

In the long run, treated posts are 15 cents cheaper than untreated posts. Michigan State forestry specialists figured that a fencepost costs 75 cents, labor for setting and stapling costs 50 cents, or a total of $1.25. If the post rots in five years, it cost 25 cents per year. The treating of a post costs 25 cents extra, but the treated post will last at least three times as long as the untreated post. Therefore the yearly cost of the treated post is only 10 cents as compared with 25 cents for the untreated.

For specific information on chemical wood preservatives see your county agent. He will be glad to tell you how to make your fences last longer.

Trench Silos Solve Storage Problem

Would you like silage for your cattle this winter even though you don't have a permanent silo? Or are you wondering just where you are going to put all the silage you plan to make? In either case, temporary silos will solve your problems, says the Delaware Agricultural Extension Service.

A trench silo is a good substitute for the upright silo. However, there are several things to think about before digging. The trench must be well-drained, must slope to permit driving through it, and must be in a convenient location. Approaches to the trench should be of stone or concrete to permit hauling silage in any weather.

For ease in removing silage, the silo should be no more than 8 feet deep. For ease in packing, it should be not less than 12 feet wide at the bottom. The bottom should have a slight gutter at the sides. If the floor is dirt or stone, it should slope 1 foot in 50 feet, if concrete, 1 foot in 100 feet. The walls should slope outward 1 to 2 feet for each 4 feet rise. In sandy or rocky soils, the trench should be lined with smooth rock or concrete walls.

A trench 8 feet deep, 8 feet wide at the bottom, 12 feet wide at the top, and 70 feet long, will hold 95 tons. A cubic foot of well-packed silage will average 40 pounds.

New Semen Processing Method

A new semen processing method recently developed by British scientists may change the whole cattle breeding picture. According to Delmar J. Young, extension dairy specialist, scientist of British National Institute for Medical Research and the University of Cambridge, have succeeded in storing bull semen for long periods.

Semen, under ordinary storage conditions loses fertility in a few days. With the new method, the semen has been stored as long as 4 months without losing fertility. Semen, stored by the new process was used to inseminate cows after it had been stored varying lengths of time. Ten of twelve cows, inseminated with four-month old semen, did not require rebreeding. The new method freezes the semen to the temperature of dry ice or -79 degrees Centigrade. Sperm cells are protected from concentrated salts by a glycerol-egg yolk mixture.

If frozen semen proves itself under practical conditions, it will make possible more efficient use of outstanding herd sires, says Young. Cows can then be bred with semen from one particular bull according to plans laid out months in advance.

1953 Acreage and Production Goals

Acreage and production goals for 1953 fall-seeded grains to meet all known requirements and provide adequate reserve stocks were announced recently by USDA. The Agricultural Mobilization Committee will carry out the program in Delaware.

According to W. T. McAllister, extension marketing specialist, Delaware acreage and production goals are as follows:

Wheat 55,000 acres, 974,000 bushels; Barley 13,000 acres, 339,000 bushels; Rye 20,000 acres, 284,000 bushels.

Prepare Now For Permanent Pasture Seeding

Now is the time to begin preparing for seeding permanent pasture according to William E. Tarbell, County Agent.

Plow at least three or four weeks before seeding. It is a good practice to turn under Soybeans or some other good green manure crop. Disc the land thoroughly after plowing to control weeds and to prepare a firm seed bed. If possible, use a cultipacker to break up clods and further firm the seed bed.

Apply one ton of ground limestone per acre if the land has not been limed in the past four or five years.

On most soils in the country use the following seed mixture:
Ladino Clover 1 lb.
Alsike Clover 3 lbs.
Orchard Grass 7 lbs.
Meadow Fescue 6 lbs.
Redtop 3 lbs.

Total per acre 20 lbs.
On poorly drained soils substitute 5 lbs. of Reed Canary Grass for the Meadow Fescue.

Seeding should be done from August 20th to September 10th for best results.

Divide the seed and broadcast in to directions at right angles to each other. Cover the seed not more than 1/2 inch on lighter soils and just barely cover it in heavier soils.

Use 400 to 500 pounds of a 3-12-12 fertilizer or its equivalent per acre at seeding time.

The entries in Kent County in the corn yield contest for 1952 are already greater than those of last year. However, the Kent County agent, Bill Tarbell, said that he is looking forward to receiving still more entries between now and early September. The contest is sponsored by the Delaware extension service and the Delaware Crop Improvement Association. Each entry consists of 5 acres of corn and yields are checked by the county agent and an agronomy specialist from the university.

Tarbell said that the recent rains have been very helpful to the corn crop in most sections of the county.

All a farmer has to do to enter the contest is to send a card to County Agent Tarbell at Dover or call his office by telephone, Dover 2621 or 2886.

The information collected from the contestants on their methods of growing corn has given the Agronomy Specialists an abundance of "on the farm facts" impossible to obtain in any other manner. These facts have and will continue to aid in formulating fertilizer and other crop growing recommendations.

Help yourself to better yields of corn by signing up in this year's contest. Remember-entries will be received until early September.

BEEF CATTLE FOR SALE

Have sold out of all cattle on hand and expect a new lot of over 300 head to arrive this week, either Herefords and Angus heifers and steers, which will consist of over 100 head of calves weighing from 300 to 400 pounds. Just right to start now and make 1,000 pound cattle next year.

Also will have over 150 cattle weighing from 400 to 600 pounds. They are just right to keep for breeders or fatten for market in the early winter.

Balance will be cattle weighing from 600 to 900 pounds that will do for the feed lot this fall.

Anyone interested in good beef cattle to make money on should come and look these cattle over.

I have sold over 3,000 head of these kind of cattle since January 1st, to over 300 satisfied customers, and expect to sell more than that many the balance of this year. So if you have pasture, why not buy a few of these good cattle and watch them grow and make money for you? It looks like cattle will be high for a long time to come.

All cattle I handle are treated for shipping fever and delivered free of charge within 100 miles. Will take your dairy and fat cattle in trade and allow you a good price for them.

Also can arrange to pasture at a small cost to you any number you wish to buy.

I have rented the Normandy Farms at Norristown, and have over 400 acres of the finest pastures. They have a four-rail fence and plenty of water and shade. I'm sure your cattle will do good there. Also have over 300 acres pasture to rent here in Chadds Ford. So why wait? Why not come and see some real good cattle that are priced lower than any other cattle of the same quality in the state of Pennsylvania?

There must be a reason why I have sold over 48,000 beef cattle in the last 12 years and last year was the biggest year I ever had.

I expect to receive over 200 cattle each week for the balance of this year and I expect to price them they will move out in that order.

OPS Collects $2,219.00 In State Used Car Overcharge

Ceiling price overcharges totaling $2,219.00 have been recovered from 15 used car dealers in the state during the past six months, it was announced by the Delaware district Office of Price Stabilization this week. According to OPS, the dealers, located in all three counties, made restitution on 36 separate cases. The overcharges ranged from $5 to $200 per car.
 Willard D. Boyce, state OPS director, said that the largest number of overcharges made by any one firm was seven, for a total of $290. Another company, however, was required to refund overcharges totaling $405 on six purchases. Twelve of the dealers were assessed the amount of the overcharge only, since no apparent willfulness was involved. Two others paid an equal amount in damages to the government, while a third was assessed double damages in addition to the restitution.
 Mr. Boyce said that ceiling for used cars are the highest prices that may be charged - and added that it is still the buyer's responsibility to determine if he is getting proper value for the price he pays.

The Air Force is about to buy and expand the Dover Air Force Base.

Brig. Gen. Robert E. L. Eaton last Friday advised U. S. Senator J. Allen Frear, Jr., (D-Del) that the Air Force wants to purchase in fee simple 587 acres of the base, it was learned from Washington.

The 587 acres comprise all of the land at the base that the City of Dover owns.

Remaining portions of the field have been purchased by the Air Force and the Defense Department in previous base expansions during World War II.

Eighty-one and seven-tenths acres of "contiguous land" also will be purchased, General Eaton told the senator.

The new acreage will be used to "enlarge aid transport operation," General Eaton said. The Dover base is under jurisdiction of the Military Air Transport Service and is to become a major overseas terminal.

Total land to be purchased amounts to 668.7 acres.

The general said that in accordance with a law requiring congressional approval for all real estate acquisitions of more than $25,000, the House and Senate Committees on the Armed Forces were notified of the intended purchase.

Committees Most Approve

The House and Senate committees will have to approve the purchase before it can become final. Congress as a whole will not have to act, however.

Dover purchased the land to establish an airport in 1940. Following the raid on Pearl Harbor, the federal government leased the port.

The major buildings and runways on the field are located completely or in part within the Dover-owned portion of the field.

The Key Is Production

The key to our destiny is in our hands. Productive genius, America's not so secret weapon, gives us the highest standard of living in the history of the world and the ability to meet any emergency. Helping in this success story is America's habit of thrift. Part Time Work
To an extent which few people realize, the economic well-being of the nation depends upon men and women and youngsters who are willing and able to work several hours a day or one or two days a week.

Government studies published recently show that only about 55 per cent of the more than 60 million people who work in this country are in full-time, year-round jobs; the others are part-time workers or people who work less than 50 weeks a year.

No One Remembered
A minister in Haydensville, Mass., celebrating his fiftieth anniversary as a preacher, repeated his first sermon, delivered 50 years before.

Crime
A serious crime is committed in this country on the average every 18 seconds.

Travel Dress
Women who like the classic smartness of a sheath dress can find them now made especially for travel. Silk tweed is the material, trim are the collars and cuffs, gray is a good color, and a black organdie bow at the neckline adds smartness.

Safeguards, Adds Beauty
Where structures have exterior sections of redwood or other wood in which beauty of grain is important, newly developed natural stains and finishes are being used with excellent decorative effects and good protective results.

Mar-Del Baseball League

Wyoming	12	0	1,000
Frederica	8	4	.667
Harrington	8	4	.667
Felton	9	5	.643
Viola	4	8	.333
Ellendale	4	9	.308
Farmington	3	9	.250

Sunday's Schedule

Harrington at Frederica
Viola at Farmington

Sunday's results shuffled the Mar-Del League standings with Frederica and Harrington moving back into a 2nd place deadlock as they turned in victories while Felton wound up their regular season by bowing to Wyoming 16 to 6 and skidding to 4th place. Ellendale climbed back into 6th place as Farmington fell to Frederica 9 to 2. Harrington kept pace with Frederica as they nipped Viola 3 to 1 in one of the best games of the afternoon. Wyoming's victory over Felton kept their winning streak intact while the setback halted a 5 game winning streak the losers.

While the regular season has ended several make-up games still will have much bearing on the final standings and play-off positions. This Sunday Frederica will be hosts to Harrington while Viola goes to Farmington. The contest at Frederica is one of the most important of the campaign for both teams. A victory for Frederica would give them 2nd place with one game remaining with Viola to be played on the following Sunday. Harrington still has a contest remaining with the pennant winning Wyoming nine which both teams will be out to cop. Wyoming will be striving to go through the season unbeaten. Should Harrington and Frederica split in their remaining games that will be at full strength for the all important clash. Buddy Kimmel, Jim Postles, and Left-hander Ken McClamrock will be set to toe the mound for Frederica while Harry Barrett, Charley Riley and Jim Cabbage will be primed for Harrington.

In addition to the importance of the game another big feature is to take place as the Frederica nine honors their two veteran players, Jim and Charley Postles. A gala time is planned which will be known as "Postles' Day." Each player will be presented with an award. A souvenir booklet is being prepared while efforts are being made to secure a Band. Both players have been playing on down-state diamonds for more than 30 years. They have always been the sparkplug of any Frederica nine. This year the brilliant hurling of Jim Postles has kept Frederica in the race while the work of his battery-mate, Charley Postles, has been dependable and came through when needed the most. Both players are known throughout lower Delaware for their outstanding play over such a long span of years and one of the largest crowds of the year is expected to be on hand to honor the two Frederica favorites.

In the contest at Farmington both teams will be out to improve or strengthen their positions. Viola is scrapping to nail down 5th place while Farmington is trying to escape the cellar. Sipple or Biddle will do the Viola hurling while Dean looms as the Farmington choice.

Wyoming overcame a 4 to 0 lead held by Felton in the 2nd inning as they drove Manager Johnny Bunnell to cover with a 6 run outburst before he could retire a batter. Harold Rothelmer came to his rescue and worked the remainder of the game. Left-hander Aub Berry kept the 11 Felton hits well scattered after the 2nd inning as he racked up his 6th win without a loss. Drex Cox, Bill Rash and Berry each had three hits for the leaders while Johnny Godwin laced out three singles for Felton.

Frederica pounded two Farmington hurlers, Paul Dean and Ray Dennis for 19 hits to win 9 to 2. Dean worked 7 innings with Dennis finishing up. The game was close until the last 2 frames when Frederica ran over 5 runs. Ken McClamrock toiled 7 frames for Frederica to get credit for the win while Jim Postles hurled hitless ball the last two. Ted Evans and Jay Widdoes had 3 hits including doubles for the victors while Ray Vincent had 2 hits for Farmington.

Harry Barrett bested two Viola hurlers, Freddie Sipple and Buck Semans, as the Harrington nine chalked up a 3 to 1 victory in a well played game. Viola took a 1st inning lead as Semans scored on Allen's double. Harrington went ahead in the 5th as Jim Cabbage doubled with the bases loaded. Allen and Semans had 2 hits each for Viola while Jim Cabbage led the victors with the same number. His two run double was the big blow. Barrett gave up 6 hits while Harrington was checked with 4.

Democrats Meet

At Rehoboth

President Truman and Democratic National Chairman Stephen A. Mitchell have been invited by Governor Carvel to visit Delaware during the fall political campaign.

This announcement was made Friday night just prior to what Democratic leaders claimed to be the largest political rally in several years, when between 3,000 and 3,500 party members in the state turned out for the outdoor meeting on the beach three miles south of Dewey Beach. The crowd predominantly Sussex County Democrats—also included residents from New Castle and Kent Counties.

Addressing the group were: Governor Carvel; Lieutenant Governor Alexis I. duPont Bayard, Brig. Gen. Joseph J. Scannell, Lt. Col. Vernon B. Derrickson, all expected to seek state offices, and several other Democratic leaders. Governor Carvel told reporters in Washington that the President assured him he would come to this state if his schedule permits.
