The only other contest in the county was that for committee-man in the first of the Eight Representative District, with the incumbent, J. Harold Schabinger, head of the State Bureau of Markets, nosing out James Raughley, 117 to 87, at the wire.

Guido diMarzio Retires To Italy . . . Maybe

After 29 years, Guido diMarzio, laundry foreman for George Sherwin, Inc., garment manufacturer of Harrington, is returning to his native Italy to live in retirement. But he may not remain there—the ties he has established in this country, where he is a citizen, are strong.

DiMarzio left Wednesday, Aug. 20, for New York City to take the Constitution to Naples. By now, he should be approaching the Bay of Naples, with Mt. Vesuvius in the background.

At Naples, DiMarzio will entrain for Rome where he will stop for a couple of days. Then he will go due east to his native city, Pescara, on the Adriatic Sea and in the province of Abruzzi.

In early life DiMarzio, graduate of an Italian university, was a farm director. He came to America in 1923 and secured work in a shirt factory as a presser. In 1933, he accepted a job as foreman in a shirt factory in upper New York state, and later, held the same post in Elizabeth, N. J. Afterward, he worked in Kingston, N. C.

Thirteen years ago he came to Harrington and supervised the pressing operations for the local factory of George Sherwin Inc., and for one, since discontinued, at Parksley, Va.

DiMarzio received his citizenship papers in Brooklyn in 1934.

When asked what he planned to do in retirement in Italy, he replied, "Maybe nothing." He intends to remain in Abruzzi, but if he doesn't like it, he may return to America and live in New Orleans where he has a nephew, Ermanno diMarzio.

"You live 29 years in one place and you come to have an affection for it," explained Guido. "I do not know if I can change my life." Leaning on his elbow, with his head resting on his hand, he continued: "In Italy my friends are almost all dead. The young do not remember me." But in his earlier days in the foreign country he had many friends in many villages.

Felton School To Open Wednesday

Felton schools will reopen Wednesday, at 8:30 a. m., and all teachers will report for a general faculty meeting at 10 a. m. the preceding day, according to Howard E. Henry, supervising principal. The faculty will include two replacements and one additional teacher.

Mrs. Charlotte Brobst will replace Mrs. Lillian Miller as teacher of grades 4 and 5. Alan Jacobs will replace John Bunnell as director of music. Mrs. Cathryn Dill will teach an additional section of the first grade made necessary by increased enrollment.

During the summer the school plant has been renovated, including the refinishing of floors, repairs of screens, installations of new washbaths in the lavatories, plaster and painting repairs. The music room has been equipped with acoustical tile ceiling. An oil-burning unit will replace the coal furnace used for supplying hot water, and the auditorium will be furnished with a new stage curtain and new window drapes. It is hoped that installation of the heating equipment and auditorium furnishings can be completed before the opening day.

Parents of school pupils who have moved into the district requested to register their children at the school office before during the summer months are Sept. 3 to avoid delay in completing enrollment forms. Pupils in grade one who were not registered last spring should present birth certificates.

Lewes Museum To Be Open Labor Day

For the benefit of Labor Day crowds in the Cape Henlopen area the Lewes Zwaanendael Museum will be open to the public Mon. Sept. instead of remaining closed as is customary in the summer season on that day of the week.

The curator, Miss Catharine C. Maull, says the museum will observe its regular weekly schedule that day from 10 a. m. to noon and from 1:30 to 5:30 p. m. Sunday visiting hours are from 12:30 to 5:30 p. m. This schedule will continue through September.

The featured summer exhibit of antique pitchers will remain on view through September. Several new additions to the regular exhibits have been added recently. They include a large sampler made by Elizabeth Paynter about 1815, lent by E. DeWitt Rameil of Brooklyn, N. Y. Mrs. Paynter was an ancestor who lived near Lewes. Mrs. Helene Wolfe Rameil of Brooklyn has lent a silver candle snuffer and tray used by her grandfather, a shepherd Prettyman Houston, a former member of the Delaware Legislature, and a handsome beaded bag made by her grandmother, Ruth Craig Orr Houston about 1845.

Lewes Post, 17, American Legion, has put on exhibition a marble brick fragment from The White House, recently presented to the Post by U. S. Rep. J. Caleb Boggs.

Hundreds of vacationists have visited the Museum during the present summer season to admire the museum's relics pertaining largely to Lewes earliest colonial settlers. The museum occupies the first floor of the Zwaanendael House at the corner of Kings Highway and 3rd Street, dedicated in 1932 as a memorial to the first Dutch settlers who landed at Lewes in 1631. The building is a small adaptation of the town hall of Hoorn, Holland, home of the expedition's leader, David Pietersen de Vries, who first called the Delaware town, "Zwaanendael" meaning vale of swans.

Carvel and Bayard Head Democratic Ticket, With Reed For State Treasurer

Scannel Gets Nod For House at State Convention

A boisterous, enthusiastic and confident Democratic party Tuesday night nominated its slate of candidates for state and national offices after adopting the Party's 1952 platform.

The slate to be put before the voters in November comprises: For Governor: Gov. Elbert N. Carvel of Laurel.

For U. S. Senator: Lieutenant-Governor Alexis I. duPont Bayard of Westover Hills.

For U. S. Representative: Brig. Gen. Joseph J. Scannel, of Wilmington.

For lieutenant governor: Vernon B. Derrickson of Dover.

For state treasurer: Robert H. Reed of West Dover.

For state auditor: Clifford E. Fall of Selbyville.

All the candidates were nominated unanimously and with demonstrations which provided a Delaware version of the noise and antics of the national convention at Chicago.

The only change in the list as compared to early recommendations by sub-divisions of the party was in the choice of the state treasurer candidate.

J. Harry Latchum of Milford, who had been suggested earlier, did not wish to run and the Kent County caucus recommended Mr. Reed, who was nominated.

There was not a contest or a bitter word in any of the convention proceedings Tuesday.

Although the ticket was no surprise to anyone the delegates seemed to enjoy the lengthy nominating and seconding speeches and burst forth each time with applause. After the nomination of Governor Carvel by Robert W. Tunnell of George, director of the Legislative Reference Bureau, the delegates seemed ready to stage a demonstration, but they were held back by the convention chairman, Secretary of State Harris B. McDowell, Jr., who asked that they restrain themselves until after all five candidates were nominated.

Mr. Bayard's name was placed in nomination by J. H. Tyler-McConnell, chairman of the State Highway Department.

The Platform

The Democratic Party Tuesday unanimously adopted its 1952 platform, containing 106 pledges for action—ranging from support of fluoridation of water to enactment of a Fair Employment Practice Law with "effective enforcement provisions."

Among the major planks are pledges to: Reduce the voting age to 18 years.

Democrats Rally Near Hartly

"We've met each challenge as it came up," Gov. Carvel told an audience of some 600 persons Friday evening at a covered dish luncheon at the farm of Mr. and Mrs. Levi Everett, near Hartly.

Elucidating his claim, he pointed to better roads, schools, etc. "We've met the challenges, one by one," he continued. "We've shown the people of the state we can run the state. We've done a better job than the Republicans ever did."

The luncheon was sponsored by the Kent County Democratic Women's Club. Mrs. Belle Everett was chairman and master of ceremonies.

Gov. Carvel was enthusiastic in his praise of the presidential ticket, saying he thought the candidates were the finest in many years. Commenting on Gov. Adlai Stevenson, presidential candidate, he said he was elected to the gubernatorial post by almost 600,000 votes, the greatest majority ever recorded in the state in a similar campaign.

Stevenson, Carvel said, understood the problems of the people and that he was one of the greatest governors in the history of Illinois. "He cleaned up the Republican mess," Gov. Carvel said.

Still pointing to the national picture, Gov. Carvel said, "In 1948 we lost four states to the Dixiecrats. We have all of 'em now. We have a candidate worthy of your support. I know that in Kent County he can get a 2000 majority."

Pointing to the state, the governor continued, "I have never seen a state ticket more capable of expressing itself than the present." He was, undoubtedly, referring to the forensic abilities of the candidates, many of whom were present and gave short talks. Included were Harris B. McDowell, Jr., Secretary of State, who, commenting on the approaching Democratic primary, declared: "Whoever wins, he's the man we'll all support. The Democratic party has always been the party to keep the family fight to its bosom and settle the issue before the general election."

Other speakers were Randolph Hughes, state banking commissioner; U. S. Senator Allen Frear; Lt. Gov. Alexis I. duPont Bayard, candidate for United States senator; Vernon B. Derrickson, chairman of the Kent County Democratic County Committee and candidate for lieutenant governor, and Joseph J. Scannel, candidate for United States representative.

Mrs. Everett also introduced a number of candidates at the county level.

Some 400 Trotters Pacers Expected to Make Good Meet

All indications point to another successful fall meet when harness racing gets under way here next Thursday at the Kent & Sussex Raceway for at least 20 nights of competition under lights.

The opening of the Chesapeake Bay bridge and improved prices in the important broiler industry, augur increased attendance.

T. Brinton Holloway, general manager of the raceway, said Wednesday that some 400 horses, including top pacers and trotters to fill the stables to capacity at race time.

Stables

Following are some stables and horses expected to compete: Eddie Kelley - Shep Rosecroft, Memorial, and Bennie Day; Johnny Belote - Crown Prince, Uptown, and Lawdy Me; Tom Walters - Lord Clinton, Wicomico Ted, a 2-year-old, and Wicomico Shamy; Jack Walters - Chestertown Boy, Jemette Bunter; Louis Floyd, Fred Floyd, Warren Holmes, L. Felton to Play Lewes Nine

The Felton entry in the Maryland League will play Lewes at Felton Sunday at 2:30 p. m. The team will journey to Lewes Monday for a game at the same hour unless Felton participates in the play-offs in its league.

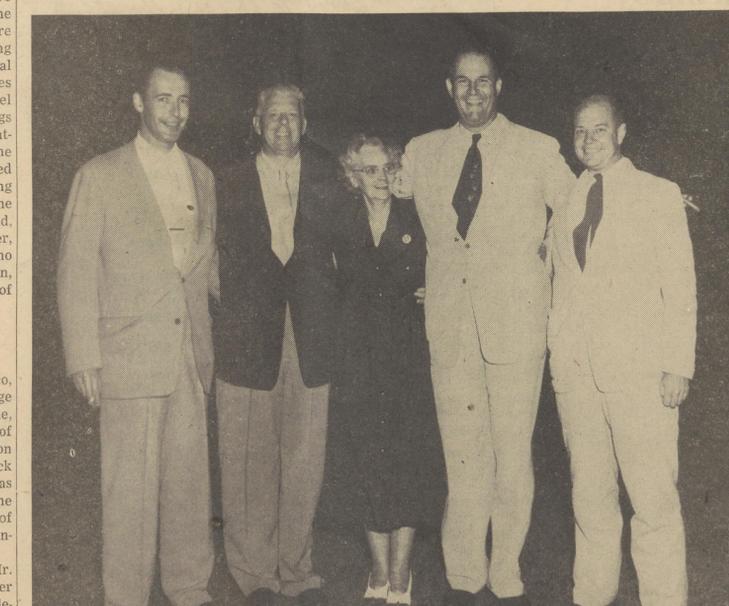

The club will have a banquet Tuesday night. All wives of players, and helpers are invited.

Harrington Wins in Pony League Play-offs

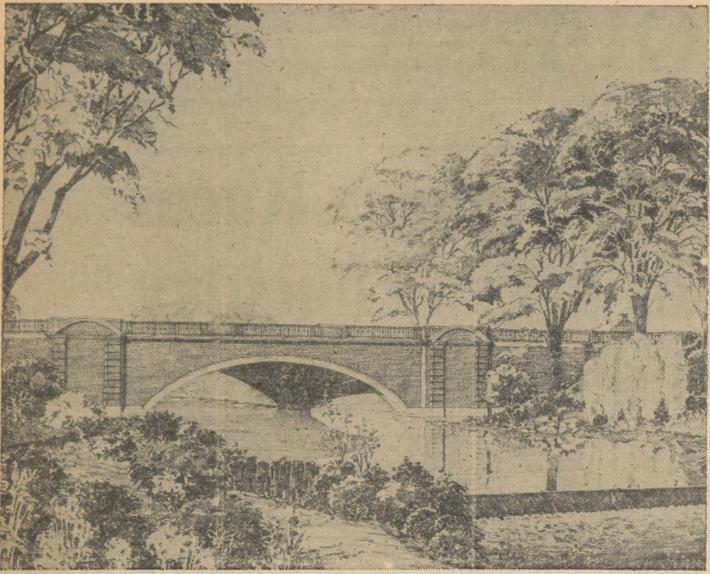

Harrington defeated Greenwood, 5-1, Tuesday night as Pony League play-offs began at Milford ball park under lights. Milford defeated Bridgeville, 3-2. The play-offs are continuing this week. Game time is 7 p. m. for the first game.

Both Tuesday night games were well played. Jack Porter allowed four hits and was never in trouble. Bob Collins and Jim Stayton doubled for the local nine, with the former's blow driving in two runs. D. Cannon was losing pitcher.

The Bridgeville-Milford game went an extra inning. Wiseman pitched 3-hit ball until the 7th inning. Pearson stole home in the 5th to tie the game. Hastings and Steiner tripled for Milford, but Willey, the opposing pitcher, struck out 13.

At a Democratic rally at the home of Mrs. Belle Everett, (center) near Hartly Friday night, we also have the picture of four of the five candidates who will run on the state and national ticket, on the Democratic platform. They are as follows (left to right): Alexis I. duPont Bayard, for U. S. senator; Vernon B. Derrickson, for lieutenant-governor; Gov. Elbert N. Carvel, for re-election, and Joseph J. Scannel, for U. S. representative.

Pictured above is the architect's drawing of the bridge over St. Jones River for the new Court Street dual highway leading from the Legislative Building eastwardly to U. S. Route 13 in Dover. The new bridge will provide for both lanes of the dual highway and will be of concrete construction with a brick facing. The design for the structure is in keeping with the type of architecture used in nearby State buildings. The new bridge will be located just north of the present stone arch structure which will be removed. Plans and specifications for both the new bridge and the dual highway are now being prepared by the State Highway Department.

Provide for a state correctional system.
Increase pension benefits of state employees.
Give the state police a five day week.
Reform the election and registration laws.
Bonus for Korean Vets
The proposal to provide a system to pay a bonus to Korean veterans.
Boost the ceiling for old age assistance from $50 to $75.
Abolish the fee system in county offices.
Create a State Department of Labor and Industrial Relations.
The proposal to provide a system of initiative and referendum would require a constitutional amendment. The plank suggests that the people of the state be given an opportunity, through referendum, to express their will on the matter of bingo, and other public questions, and also to initiate legislation.

The equal opportunity plank, calling for an FEPC law, brought no discussion in the resolution committee nor on the convention floor. The wording says the permits arbitrary exclusion of enforcement provisions guaranteeing employment practices based on qualification, not prejudices. As Democrats, we abhor the idea of second class citizenship as both morally wrong and economically unsound," it states.
The same section of the platform also advocates repeal of two sections of the state law which permit "arbitrary exclusion of members of minority groups from places of public gathering and entertainment."

Teacher Tenure Law
The plank advocating a "sound teacher tenure law" specifies with right of appeal."

The section on highway and roads urges a departure from the "one-fund" system of state finances in effect in Delaware in recent years. It advocates a law restricting the use of gasoline tax revenue to the road improvement program.

The lengthy labor plank, containing nine paragraphs, advocates liberalization of the unemployment compensation and workmen's compensation laws.

The pledge to abolish the fee system would cut out the fees currently being received by the sheriffs and county treasurers of the three counties. These office holders receive the same salaries as certain other county officials but in addition get fees and commissions which make their offices the most lucrative posts in the county governments.

The plank would substitute for the fee system "fair but adequate salaries commensurate with the duties and responsibilities of the offices."

The welfare plank contains seven proposals, including coning all three of the state's training schools under a single supervisory board.

Joseph N. Cotter, from Philadelphia, Pa., a recent graduate of the University of Pennsylvania, instructor of English and French.

Leon E. Donovan, from Milford, who has done advanced work this summer at Peabody College, Nashville, Tenn., is teaching in the Fifth grade.
Mrs. Clara H. West, of Harrington, will teach in the Second grade.
The cafeteria will again be under the management of Miss Hazel L. Johnson. The advanced cost of food makes it necessary to advance prices. The platters have been advanced from 25c to 30c. Sandwiches will be 10c and 15c. The School Board hopes that these moderate advances will meet costs. If possible, should conditions warrant, prices will be adjusted to meet the same. Weekly lunch tickets will be on sale for the convenience of the parents.

For 28 years Edwin L. Smith has served the people of Georgetown. He's a veteran of the postal service, and there isn't a house on his route where his cheery greeting isn't recognized. People can almost set their watches by his coming and going, even when bad weather makes traveling tough.

People in Georgetown have come to depend on Ed's daughter Mildred too. Mrs. Mildred S. Collins isn't with the Post Office, but she is a member of a team that serves the community. She's a Diamond State Telephone operator, with six years' experience to her credit. Like her father, she knows the importance of getting messages through without delay.

It's people like Mildred Collins... alert, reliable people... who make your telephone service so dependable in emergencies, so useful every day of the year.

PUBLIC SERVICE IS TRADITION WITH STEVENSON, DEMOCRATIC NOMINEE

Public Service is a tradition with Governor Adlai E. Stevenson of Illinois, the Democratic nominee for President of the United States.

Stevenson is the fourth member of his family to serve the nation. His great-grandfather, Jesse W. Fell, an Illinois pioneer, was the first man to propose Abraham Lincoln for President. His paternal grandfather and namesake was Vice President during the second Democratic Administration of Grover Cleveland, from 1893 to 1897. Stevenson's father was Secretary of State in Illinois.

The Governor himself began his career in public life in 1933 when he left his law practice in Chicago to come to Washington to serve as a legal counsel in the U. S. Department of Agriculture. Working for the department's Agricultural Adjustment Administration Stevenson soon became intimately familiar with the problems facing farmers, ranchers, dairymen and orchard operators.

With the nation on its way to economic recovery, Stevenson returned to his law practice in Chicago. In the summer of 1941, when another crisis faced America -- and the world, Secretary of the Navy Frank Knox called Adlai Stevenson back to Washington to serve on his staff. From an office adjoining Knox's Stevenson helped mediate labor-management disputes involving Navy work, worked hard to change the Navy tradition relegating almost all Negroes to service as mess boys and represented the Department before the press.

Stevenson's work with the Navy Department earned him the respect of his superiors as well as the press. When the press relations arrangements for the United States delegation to San Francisco Conference of 1945 bogged down, Stevenson was called on to take charge. His work was so successful that he was appointed deputy to Edward E. Stettinius, who headed the American delegation to the meeting of the Preparatory Commission to the United Nations the following August in London.

From service as an appointive government official to campaigning for an elective office was a natural step for Adlai Stevenson. After carrying on a vigorous campaign against the "scandalous and thriftless" Republican State Administration, Stevenson was elected Governor of Illinois by the greatest majority in the State's history -- 572,000 votes.

As Governor of the nine million citizens of Illinois Stevenson has proved himself friendly, witty, informal and hard-working (14 to 16 hours a day). He has been a strong advocate of progressive measures, an effective and utterly honest foe of crime, corruption and favoritism and a great and economical administrator.

Stevenson removed the state police force from political control, placing it under a strict civil service merit system. More than 1,300 patronage employees were dropped from the state payroll. Stevenson moved in quickly on commercial gamblers and the fraudulent use of cigaret stamps.

The Stevenson Administration increased state aid to public schools by $25 million. The state system of mental hospitals and welfare institutions was completely overhauled. Wages of state employees were raised 10 per cent.

While all this was done, the budget went down. In Illinois the state still takes only 3.6 per cent of the people's income, exactly the same amount it took in 1941. Few states can match that record.

Governor Stevenson summed up his philosophy in his first year-end report to the people of Illinois:

"The old adage 'never dissatisfied, always unsatisfied' describes the way I feel. I am sure there is more we can do if we keep everlastingly at it. But I don't propose to achieve a record for economy by neglecting fundamental needs nor by dodging today's problems, and letting them into bigger headaches for future governors.

Guido diMarzio -- He Could See the Woods and the Trees

Guido diMarzio has demonstrated that America is the land of opportunity for those who can see the woods, as well as the trees. In other words, Guido (as he was more familiarly known) could see the overall opportunity in a job as well as the remuneration. When it came to making a choice, Guido chose the opportunity, correctly assuming that compensation would be commensurate with the way he did his work.

A graduate of an Italian university and a farm director, Guido came to America in 1923. Since many Italians were in the garment industry, Guido had little difficulty in getting a job in a shirt factory. While it was different from his previous employment, Guido determined to make good and gave it his all. Later, he became a foreman in other factories throughout the East and came here 13 years ago as a laundry foreman for George Sherwin Inc.

Guido was a perfectionist. He took as much interest in the plant as if it were his own. No 40-hour week for Guido. When it warranted it, Guido was in the plant on Saturday, checking over the boiler and pressing equipment. Before other employees came to work, Guido was on hand, seeing that the machines were ready to go and that each work was arranged for each employee.

His was a problem of production, the goals of which must be ever met. He explained to us recently that, as foreman, he had to understand the temperaments of each worker, most of whom were women, and how to deal with them.

What he was getting paid never worried Guido -- it was the opportunity that counted and he believed, and rightly so, it was up to him to make the most of it. When he started to work for George Sherwin Inc., there was no question of pay. He told us, however, that he got raises from time to time and finally told his employer, George Sherwin, he had enough. What a statement! It is as rare as the most precious gems.

Charles Price Sr., now has the position occupied by Guido. Last week, Guido diMarzio, an American citizen, returned to his native city, Pescara, in the province of Abruzzi, in Italy. He may live there in retirement, and he may return to this country and live in New Orleans where he has a nephew. "After a person has lived 29 years in one place he has an affection for it," he said. But, wherever you are Guido, "Arrivederci e tanti auguri."

PETE PROVINCIAL OF PODUNK

Pete Provincial was born in Podunk. Save for an occasional visit to the nearby county seat of Squeedunk, he had never been away from home. One of the highlights of his drab existence was when he was summoned to Squeedunk to serve on a jury. At last he was recognized! Probably stimulated by this recognition, he decided to go on a trip to broaden his mental horizon. Early one morning he and his family started out to visit some relatives who lived a "right smart piece away," as he expressed it. We never knew just where Pete went on his Odyssey. He may have gone to another part of the country or even to an adjoining state, inasmuch as the state line was only thirty miles away.

On his return he chuckled over the "quare" people he had met in that other land. "Why, them fellers," he said "don't know nuthin' -- they're plum ignorant. They ain't got no good farmin' land, and if they did, they wouldn't know how to farm it. They even look funny. Yes, sir -- give me good old Podunk!"

We have known a lot of Pete Provincials, and some of them were people with plenty of schooling. They go away from home and if the place they visit doesn't conform to the yard-stick of their particular Podunk, they come home, full of criticism. Maybe the people in other sections do look funny to Pete -- but maybe Pete looks funny to them. If they should visit Pete's Podunk, they might think it as sorry place and go back home and proclaim, "I wouldn't give this town for a thousand Podunks. Give me my own good old Hohokus!"

We've known highly intelligent people who visited other states, and coming back home, probably in all sincerity -- or to gain favor with their listeners -- sneered about the other states in the Union. Dear misguided Pete Provincials, let us be your guide and we will take you to every state in the Union, and in any state in the Union we can show you vistas of paradise -- or land so poor two drunken, red-headed Irishman couldn't raise a difficulty on it. Be content, if you will, with your own Podunk, but grant the same boon to Hiram in the Heaven of his own Hohokus.

Recently, the featured article of the Saturday Evening Pole -- it has shrunk -- and advertised on its cover page was something about "I was accused of a sex crime." For years the Pole has carried worlds of murder stories -- and now it claims that it is gaining new readers each week. This we know to be true, but every time the Pole gets a new subscriber, True Stories and True Confessions lose one.

Lincoln and Douglas, history tells us, conducted their campaigns on a high plane, and the same thing may be said of Bryan and McKinley. Both Ike and Adlai would like to conduct this campaign along the same line -- but some of their followers will not have it so, and unless we are badly mistaken, they will throw enough mud to build levees on each side of the Mississippi from its source to its mouth.

New Jet Fuel?

One of the least-known uses of boron compounds and minerals is in connection with jet aircraft engines. Boron powders have been studied by the national advisory committee for aeronautics as possible non-liquid jet fuel for several years. And boron is, of course, eyewash, being the basic element in boric acid.

Malaria Eliminated

Malaria mosquitoes scourged the beautiful Mediterranean island of Cyprus from the dawn of history, but modern insecticides in the years since World War II have completely eliminated the disease.

Part Time Work

To an extent which few people realize, the economic well-being of the nation depends upon men and women and youngsters who are willing and able to work several hours a day or one or two days a week. Government studies published recently show that only about 55 per cent of the more than 60 million people who work in this country are in full-time, year-round jobs; the others are part-time workers or people who work less than 50 weeks a year.

"All my life I've wanted to own a Buick"

POWER STEERING
on the Roadmaster and Super

Power Steering now available on Super as well as Roadmaster--optional at extra cost.

It seems that owning a Buick is something that a lot of folks dream about--plan for--and finally do.

We say that because, so many times, they say so in words like those above.

Those words make us happy, of course--happy to know we sell a car which means so much to those who own it.

But they make us feel just a little bit sad as well--sad to realize all the years of fun such folks have been missing for no good reason at all.

For the fact is this: If you can afford any new car, you can afford a Buick. You can afford the thrill of bossing around that big Fireball 8 Engine that purrs forth a mighty flow of power.

You can afford the gas bills--as any owner of a 1952 Buick will tell you--because that high-compression, valve-in-head marvel gets a lot of miles from a gallon of fuel.

You can afford the extra luxury of a real million dollar ride--the silken smoothness of Dynaflow Drive*--the extra room and comfort and style that have put Buick popularity right up at the top of the list, next to the "low-priced three."

So if you want to own a Buick--there's just one thing to do: Come in--pick the one of your choice-- and let us show you how close the figure that goes on the bill of sale comes to what you'd pay elsewhere.

As we've said before, your first car can be a Buick. Why not take the Big Step right away--today?

*Equipment, accessories, trim and models are subject to change without notice. Standard on Roadmaster, optional at extra cost on other Series.

ROCKY ROAD
by Samuel A. Short Jr.
While you travel down life's road,
That's so smooth and level for you,
Do you ever think of others?
That would like to be with you.
Some have burdens that's heavy to carry,
With other things they have to do.
Or you ever for them sorry?
By being glad it's not you.
When you know you could give contentment,
Don't ever pass them by.
But give them just a little encouragement,
You can do it if you try.
So don't always be a piker,
Thinking you have a heavy load.
Just remember to be of service,
To the traveler of the rocky road.

Grade And House Pullet Separately
Since pullets in each room of the poultry house are best fed and handled as a unit, it will pay to grade and house pullets so that each room contains birds that are reasonably uniform in all respects. Wade Rice, extension poultryman from the University of Maryland, says, "this will keep the egg baskets full in the coming months."

It's important to keep the pullets separated from the older hens, too. "When layers are housed in uniform groups, the feeder can do the best job of management and get the highest production from them," the extension poultryman says.

"To do this," Rice says, "the pullets are selected from the range shelters on the basis of maturity, size and weight, taking enough birds to fill one room at a time. If hens are involved, they should be graded as to whether in lay or molting."

"Throughout the season regular culling to remove any sick or unthrifty bird from the flock is always good business," Rice adds.

Grade And House Pullet Separately

Since pullets in each room of the poultry house are best fed and handled as a unit, it will pay to grade and house pullets so that each room contains birds that are reasonably uniform in all respects. Wade Rice, extension poultryman from the University of Maryland, says, "this will keep the egg baskets full in the coming months."

It's important to keep the pullets separated from the older hens, too. "When layers are housed in uniform groups, the feeder can do the best job of management and get the highest production from them," the extension poultryman says.

"To do this," Rice says, "the pullets are selected from the range shelters on the basis of maturity, size and weight, taking enough birds to fill one room at a time. If hens are involved, they should be graded as to whether in lay or molting."

"Throughout the season regular culling to remove any sick or unthrifty bird from the flock is always good business," Rice adds.

Diamond Horse Farm's Freddy Diamond, one of 2 yearlings waiting to go on sale at the Harrisburg sales in November. The youngster is a half-brother to Freddy Hawk 2:04.1.

Diamond Horse Farm Yearlings Readied For Harrisburg Sale

When Race Caller Genie Anderson gives the word "Go," at the annual fall meet of the Kent & Sussex Racing Association here next Thursday night, the odds are that some of the products of the Diamond Horse Farm at Milton will be in the contest.

This establishment, owned and operated by Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Reed, is one of the few of its kind on the Peninsula boarding and breeding harness horses.

On tap, waiting to go to sale this November at Harrisburg, Pa., are twelve yearlings, all sired by Hot Feet, first and foremost of which is Freddy Diamond, half-brother to Freddy Hawk 2:04.1, out of Annabelle Mitchell. Other yearlings are as follows:

Diamond Girl, out of Pony Girl. The filly is a half-sister to Gamble, April Day, and Duke Harvester.

Hope Diamond, filly, out of Hope Hanover, a half-sister to Collette Hanover 2:00 1-2 by Calumet Chuck. Hope Hanover is a full sister to Mighty Chuck, 2:06.1, and Diamond Feet, who has a mark of 2:14 as a two-year-old.

Diamond Road, out of Holly-wood Hesper, she by Holly-wood Prince.

Allan Diamond, first colt of Betty F. Dale, she by Mr. Abbedale.

Ruth Diamond, out of Ruth Frisco. The yearling is a half-sister to Gypsy Frisco and Diamond Up.

Diamond Eye, out of Isabelle Grattan. He is a half-brother to Mr. Reed, who took a mark at Ocean Downs recently of 2:07.3.

Diamond Horse Farm has 18 brood mares, of which nine are in foal.

The leading sire on the farm is Hot Feet who arrived in April, 1949. He made a mark of 2:04 1-2 as a two-year-old, and won in 2:03 1-4 as a four-year-old on a half-mile track. He is by the great sire, Volomite 3, 2:03 1-4. Hot Feet has already sired three entries in the 2:10 list.

WHEELER RADIO STORE NEWS

Have you thought about how the time is slipping away, in fact, it will soon be time to hibernate again.

No, we cannot hibernate like a bear, but we can make ourselves comfortable during the cold weather which is just ahead. One thing we must have is heat and the more we look toward that end, the more comfortable we will be. Of course there are lots and lots of oil heaters on the market just like lots of shoes, but some are so much, much better than others. When you buy a space oil heater think of Estate, and what does that name spell? Well you all know what without me telling you that you are getting one of the best oil space heaters that money can buy. Then again, we handle the Washington Frogil oil space heaters which are very good. We install any heater we sell right ready to light. If you want a good gas heater that we carry also and no oil tank to take up any space and much less space for heater than is required by oil, we have it.

When we hibernate we certainly do want something that tells us and shows us just what the rest of the world is doing. That brings us up to television and televisions which we have.

Come in, see them in all styles and models. Of course, we carry what we consider the best, Philco, Admiral and Westinghouse.

The televisions are guaranteed by the manufacturers so they must work. We have several orders to install a television if you also wanted to include your name on the list. Do you think prices are going down on televisions that you would like to have? Folks, no they are not although you do hear of prices way down below the cost of manufacturing. Do you want a set of this type? Certainly not. Let us tell you more about television when you drop in to look them over. As you know, we have the complete job done for you including the aerial and you pay a small down payment and the 24 months to pay balance if this length of time is desired.

We have a few more refrigerators left which we want to move so we can have more room for televisions, and now is a mighty good time to buy one. Come in and see what we have.

Our new stock for fall in wallpaper is now rolling thousands of rolls or should be in by time this goes to press. What you are interested in or at least the majority of you are, is price and that we have. Think of buying wallpaper for any room for as little as 25 cents a double roll, yes, I said double roll, and 25 cents a quarter of a dollar. Dollars have shrunk, but wallpaper bargains have increased.

I know a good many of you are wondering how I am going to heat water this winter. Well, all you have to do is pick up your phone and call 541 Harrington and we will put in gas or electric water heater and your troubles along this line will be over. Our gas heaters are the new type, low boys, not the high old types.

DEARBORN-WOOD BROS. CORN PICKER

"Easy On the Ears" HERE'S WHY!

Gentle Snapping—Extra long non-aggressive snapping rolls and a rotary snapping bar are exclusive features of the Dearborn-Wood Bros. Corn Picker. They work gently to get more corn... with practically no butt shelling.

Clean Husking—The big husking bed on this picker does a thorough job of cleaning corn for the crib. The exclusive flexible fingered spiral husking bed feed spreads the ears evenly over the entire bed. Then three steel and three rubber husking rolls whisk away husks and silk... with a minimum of shelling.

Come in soon and ask for a demonstration. You'll be glad you did. Convenient terms available.

Put some prepared mustard on steaks, in ham, and hamburgers before cooking. It adds zest to the dish.

Saving Eggs

Eggs with clean shells keep best. Wipe off soiled spots with a damp cloth, but don't wash eggs until just before you use them. When eggs are first laid, the shells have a film, known as the "bloom" which seals the pores and helps keep out bacteria and odors. Washing removes this protective film.

Different Color Treatment

A distinctive and different effect can be obtained for the exterior of a white-painted house by using shutters on the windows of the upper floor, but not downstairs. The shutters may be white, trimmed with maroon, with the window sash painted white. The lower floor windows—with no shutters—can echo the color by having the sash painted the same maroon.

Part Time Work

To an extent which few people realize, the economic well-being of the nation depends upon men and women and youngsters who are willing and able to work several hours a day or one or two days a week. Government studies published recently show that only about 55 per cent of the more than 60 million people who work in this country are in full-time, year-round jobs; the others are part-time workers or people who work less than 50 weeks a year.

Fish Gets Around

A red salmon which was marked by the United States bureau of fisheries in Alaskan waters in May, and caught 44 days later in a Siberian stream, was found to have traveled 1,300 miles in that short length of time.

May Day

May Day has been celebrated from the earliest times. In Rome, flower-decked processions honored Flora, goddess of flowers. In medieval Europe, people went a-maying carrying branches of trees and flowers and danced around a maypole.

Treating Clothespins

If your clothespins have a tendency to give away long before their time, treat the pins, while new, to make them last longer. Place in a basin of boiling water and washing soda for 30 minutes, rinse in cold water and let them dry in the sun before using.

New Jet Fuel?

One of the least-known uses of boron compounds and minerals is in connection with jet aircraft engines. Boron powders have been studied by the national advisory committee for aeronautics as possible non-liquid jet fuel for several years. And boron is, of course, eyewash, being the basic element in boric acid.

Ultrasonic Therapy

In Europe devices for ultrasonic therapy have been exploited. Exaggerated claims have been made that ultrasonic energy has been of value in the treatment of such afflictions as shingles, sciatica, lumbago, multiple sclerosis and neuralgias.

Embroidery Trick

To embroider initials or small designs on napkins, baste the stamped corners of four napkins together, edge to edge, and center the designs in an embroidery hoop. You can work all four corners this way, without changing hoop until you're ready to work the next four napkins.

Tallest Lighthouse

The tallest lighthouse in the U.S. is at Cape Hatteras, N.C.—194 feet high.

Leather Too Precious

In ancient Rome, you didn't have to look above the ankles of a passerby to tell whether he was a plebeian or a patrician. Fine leather was so precious that the wearing of high shoes was restricted by law to the latter, while the poor had to wear primitive sandals or walk barefoot.

Navigation

Ship captains are advised to hug the Gulf Stream, paralleling the coast along carefully charted seasonal tracks, on their way north from the Gulf. Returning, the best course—except in stormy weather—is a straight line far out to sea that avoids the breasting current, the navy says.

Dark Linens

You'll be seeing dark linens for those smart, good looking dresses which have an expensive simplicity of detail. A good example of this is a black linen sun dress with a bolero, both with organdie insets.

Sulphur

On a Mississippi river barge one is likely to see sulphur in bright yellow brimstone form. Salt-dome caprocks under marshlands of the Gulf Coast of Texas and Louisiana hold deposits of pure sulphur recoverable at low cost.

Biggest Bass Drum

Harvard University has the biggest bass drum on any campus in the U.S. It is eight feet high and travels on a four-wheeled carriage.

New Sandals

Smooth, almost glove-soft leathers are being used in some of the newest sandals being shown currently. They're light and flexible, and their effect on the feet can be easily imagined. Made of such colors as red, oat and gold, they lend a fashionable touch to the casual wardrobe.

Roving Eyes

A "roving eye" doesn't actually move out of position unless, that is, you're a flounder. A fully grown flounder has two eyes on one side of his head and none on the other. When he was a baby, he had an eye on each side, like any normal fish, but he took to lying on one side in the sand until one eye slowly traveled around the back of his head and took up a permanent place next to its brother eye.

Comfy Bed for Boxer

A three-side dog bed for a boxer can be made by cutting the sides and back from pine boards one inch thick and 10 inches wide. Sides should be curved at the opening. To the lumber nail a piece of tempered hardboard, three-sixteenths-inch thick, for a splinter-free, smooth bottom. Bevel all edges of this bed, which is two feet by three feet, and paint it.

Fireplace Accessory

An inexpensive, safe and practical fireplace accessory consists of a galvanized steel coal hod painted, or otherwise decorated, to blend with fireplace surroundings. Galvanized coal hods are made of fireproof materials.

Aztecs Loved Flowers

Despite the cruel and warlike characters of the Aztecs, they loved flowers and wove them into chaplets which they wore in tribute to their gods. Statue of Xochipilli, ancient Aztec god of beautiful, fragrant flowers, was adorned with floral carvings. And the apartments of Montezuma, mighty emperor of the Aztecs, were filled with exquisite cut flowers.

Pictures of the Moon

Samuel Dwight Humphrey secured a series of exposures of the moon at Canadagua, New York, in 1840. He used an ordinary portrait camera. As the moon traveled across the heavens, he made several exposures on one daguerreotype plate. The images were hardly more than a quarter of an inch in diameter, but Humphrey demonstrated that it was possible to record with a camera the moon's disk.

It's in the Tips

The bristles in nylon brushes must have long, fine tips. By holding the brush up to the light, fanning out the nylon and looking closely at the tips, you can observe these. The way a brush will pick up paint and release it is affected by the tips of the bristles. In other words, they govern the smoothness with which paint can be applied. Because of the wearing qualities of nylon, it is not necessary to obtain a long brush. A good 4-inch brush should not have more than 4 1/4" of bristles extending out of the ferrule.

Smallest Symphony City

Charleston, W. Va., is the smallest city in the nation to support a local symphony orchestra.

Fur Seal

The Alaskan fur seal, spending much of its life in the water, does not swim at birth and must learn as a pup. Contrary to the general belief, mother seals do not teach the young to swim.

Heavy Evidence

In Salt Lake City a suspected shoplifter seized by police switched from howls of protest to howls of pain when a flatiron he had stolen slid down the inside of his trouser leg and bounced off his toe.

Wyoming Dairyman And Three Sons Have Close Partnership

Very close partnership has always existed between Milbourn Webb of Wyoming and his three sons. This support and co-operation have paid big dividends. Milbourn, the eldest son, was chosen FFA "Star Farmer" in Delaware for 1951 and Lawrence, next in line, followed in his brother's footsteps by being selected for the honor this year. Thomas, the youngest son, is putting forth every effort to carry on the tradition and is hoping for the coveted honor in 1954.

Mr. Webb started farming for himself in 1934, and over the years has concentrated his efforts developing a good producing herd. All the 24 cows he has now in production have been raised on the farm. Throughout the years he has placed special emphasis on the selection of a production-bred sire.

Mr. Webb diversifies his farming operations by raising swine and some grain, as well as dairy cows. Foremost in his yearly farm plan, however, are provisions for supplying abundant permanent pasture and good quality hay so his dairy herd will have ample home-grown feed throughout the year.

As Mr. Webb's boys have progressed, he encouraged them to take a greater interest in farming through varied projects in their FFA work. Milbourn and Lawrence have had very similar projects consisting of swine, corn, grain, beef cattle and dairy heifers. The boys have purchased dairy animals with the profits from their other projects.

Milbourn, a 1951 high school graduate, spends his full time assisting his father on the farm, and takes a keen interest in the whole operation. He is a good judge of dairy cattle. This was proved when he was awarded top honors in cattle judging when representing his FFA chapter at the Rural Atlantic Exposition in 1951 at Richmond, Virginia.

Lawrence is carrying on a full project schedule. His beef cattle project consists of an Angus cow, one steer and one calf. In the dairy project he is raising a purebred Holstein bull calf.

Besides his animal projects, Lawrence has 8 acres of soybeans, 4 acres of wheat, 4 acres of rye, 6 acres of barley, 6 acres of lespedeza hay, and 6 acres of corn. From the profit of these cash crops, he plans to purchase some dairy animals for his future herd.

Through the efforts of each member of the family, the Webbs which they now live into a good are developing the farm on producing dairy farm. They are active producers of the Pet Milk Company's Dover fluid plant.

Watch For Downy Mildew In Lima Bean Fields

Cool, wet, weather is favorable for the development and spread of downy mildew disease in lima beans, plant pathologists at the University of Maryland report. Drs. L. O. Weaver and C. E. Cox say that this disease can be recognized by the soft white down mold that covers part or all of the pods and other infected areas of the plant. Pods finally turn black and die. Losses are often severe.

The disease can be controlled with dusting or spraying with an effective fungicide, the plant disease specialists say. Dusts are effective as sprays in controlling this disease and since dusts adapted for use on lima beans are usually more available than sprays, dusting may prove to be more practical than spraying. Cox and Weaver recommend a 5 to 10 per cent dust of fixed copper or a 6 percent Zineb dust, when a duster is used. When these materials are used as sprays, use 1 1/2 to 2 pounds of metallic copper per 100 gallons of spray water, or 2 pounds of Zineb per 100 gallons.

The plant pathologists warn against using Bordeaux mixture because it may severely injure lima beans.

The first application of fungicide should be made as soon as downy mildew is reported in the community. So far this year, no downy mildew has been reported in the state. As long as weather is favorable for the development of the disease, applications should be made every week.

Leather Too Precious

In ancient Rome, you didn't have to look above the ankles of a passerby to tell whether he was a plebeian or a patrician. Fine leather was so precious that the wearing of high shoes was restricted by law to the latter, while the poor had to wear primitive sandals or walk barefoot.

BEACON 70/30 FEEDING PLAN

High record hen 337 eggs in 365 days made on Beacon.

This 70/30 feeding is the most effective, most economical plan that Beacon Research has ever discovered for developing pullets capable of high feed intake—essential for heavy egg production.

It's a real economy plan because 70% of inexpensive scratch grain is balanced with only 30% of Beacon "18" Growing Mash. Feed it from the 12th week until birds are housed.

BEEF CATTLE FOR SALE

Have sold out of all cattle on hand and expect a new lot of over 300 head to arrive this week, either Herefords and Angus heifers and steers, which will consist of over 100 head of calves weighing from 300 to 400 pounds. Just right to start now and make 1,000 pound cattle next year.

Also will have over 150 cattle weighing from 400 to 600 pounds. They are just right to keep for breeders or fatten for market in the early winter.

Balance will be cattle weighing from 600 to 900 pounds hat will do for the feed lot this fall.

Anyone interested in good beef cattle to make money on should come and look these cattle over.

I have sold over 3,000 head of these kind of cattle since January 1st, to over 300 satisfied customers, and expect to sell more than that many the balance of this year. So if you have pasture why not buy a few of these good cattle and watch them grow and make money for you? It looks like cattle will be high for a long time to come.

All cattle I handle are treated for shipping fever and delivered free of charge within 100 miles. Will take your dairy and fat cattle in trade and allow you a good price for them.

Also can arrange to pasture at a small cost to you any number you wish to buy.

I have rented the Normandy Farms at Norristown, and have over 400 acres of the finest pastures. They have a four-rail fence and plenty of water and shade. I'm sure your cattle will do good there. Also have over 300 acres pasture to rent here in Chadds Ford. So why wait? Why not come and see some real good cattle that are priced lower than any other cattle of the same quality in the state of Pennsylvania?

There must be a reason why I have sold over 48,000 beef cattle in the last 12 years and last year was the biggest year I ever had.

I expect to receive over 200 cattle each week for the balance of this year and I expect to price them so they will move out in this order.

Viola	4	9	.308

Sunday's Schedule

Wyoming at Harrington
Viola at Frederica
Farmington at Ellendale

Frederica moved into 2nd place in the Mar-Del League race on Sunday, as they turned back Harrington in a free-scoring game, 12 to 5. The setback for Harrington broke up a two-way deadlock for 2nd place and dropped Harrington into fourth place, as Felton was pushed into third place. Farmington nipped Viola, 8 to 6, to send the second division into a three-way deadlock between Viola, Ellendale and Farmington.

Although only one game remains on the schedule for all teams except Felton, the final outcome of the standings is far from settled, with several possibilities in the offing. Wyoming will be the visitors to Harrington this Sunday, Viola goes to Frederica, while Farmington ends the season at Ellendale. Felton has finished and will stand idly by to await the outcome. A victory for Wyoming will give that team a clean slate for the season, something that has never been accomplished in the 13 years of play of the Mar-Del Circuit. A setback to Harrington means definite assignment to the 4th place, while, if they can stop Wyoming, they will go into a 3rd-place tie with Felton, and should Harrington win and Frederica lose, there will be three teams, Felton, Harrington and Frederica, tied for second place. All three second division teams hope to be at their best as they seek to nab 5th place.

Wyoming will probably start Aub Berry against Harrington, seeking his seventh win, while Manager Freddy Clemence is also a strong possibility. Barrett or Riley loom as the Harrington choice. Frederica will call on Ken McClamrock or Buddy Kimmel to do their hurling against Viola, with Jim Postles in reserve. Bill Biddle or Freddie Fear will be set to go for Viola as they bid to strengthen their chance for 5th place. Much rivalry exists between Ellendale and Farmington and both teams will be at full strength as they clash in the season's finale. Tommy Wells or Bobby Niebert will toe the slab for the host, Ellendale nine, while veteran Paul Dean will be the mound choice for Farmington.

Should anyone of the first division clubs end in a tie a single game play-off will be played on Labor Day to decide the play-off positions. The site of this game cannot be decided until after Sunday's results have been posted and if game should be necessary the place where it will be played will be decided by a flip of a coin. The 2 best out of 3 Semi-Finals are scheduled to get underway on September 7th with a game at Wyoming and the 2nd place Club's diamond. The scene will shift to the 3rd and 4th place diamonds for the 2nd game and if a 3rd is necessary it will move back to the 1st or 2nd place Club's field. Following the 2 best out of 3 Semi-Finals a 3 best out of 5 Championship Series will be played.

At Frederica last Sunday the veteran battery, Jim and Charley Postles, were honored by one of the largest crowds of the season. In the pre-game ceremonies with League President Pat Knight as master of ceremonies the two Frederica veterans were presented with a large trophy each by their many friends in appreciation for the fine sportsmanship and co-operation that they have given for over 30 years in making baseball a success at Frederica. Harry Fisher, who with John McBride, another well known Frederica Battery of many years ago, are credited with giving the Postles Brothers their start. Fisher made the presentation of the trophies to the players, both of which responded with a short token of appreciation for being honored by the followers of their team.

Harrington took an early 2 to 0 lead but Frederica moved out in front in the 2nd inning with a 3 run outburst. After the 1st inning Kimmel settled down to hurl two hit ball for Frederica. He gave up 2 runs in the 6th. Jim Postles took the mound in the 7th and although tabbed for 4 hits pitched good ball and gave up only 1 run during his 3 inning turn on the rubber. Frederica found the range in the 4th inning as they drove Charley Riley to cover with Harry Barrett coming to his rescue. Miscues on the part of his teammates proved costly to Riley. Frederica chased over 7 runs in the big 4th frame. Barrett hurled good ball during the last 4 innings and gave up only 2 runs.

Leon Wix was the big gun at the plate for Harrington as he laced out a double and two singles to drive in 3 runs. Teke Gottorf, League leading batter, helps his chances as he singled 3 times for Frederica while Bobby Gibson and Buddy Kimmel each hit safely twice. Harrington's chances were hit a hard blow in the 1st inning when shortstop Billy Morris was hit on the wrist by a Kimmel pitch and forced out of the game. His clever fielding at the shortstop position would probably have been a big help to the losers as several drives went through that slot untouched.

Farmington's 8 to 6 victory over Viola was a see-saw game. Viola scored 1 in the 1st and Farmington went ahead 2 to 1 in the same frame. Viola chased over 3 runs in the 3rd with Farmington scoring once to give the visitors a 4 to 3 lead. Farmington again took the lead in the 4th and 5th 6 to 4 but Viola came back to even the count at 6-6 in the 6th. Two runs in the bottom of the 6th iced down the victory for the host nine as relief hurler Freddie Frear and veteran Paul Dean halted the scoring during the remainder of the game. Bill Biddle started for Viola and after giving up 8 runs on 12 hits gave way to Frear who pitched 1 hit ball the last two innings. Dean was in all the way for the winners. Biddle with 3 for 3, Spike Thomas with a double and single and Thurlow Vanderwend with a double paced the Viola 11 hit attack while Hooper Rust had 3 singles to pave the way for the Farmington triumph.

County Firemen To Hold School At Fairgrounds

The Kent County Fire Chiefs' Association has set Saturday and Sunday, Oct. 11 and 12, as the dates for a fire school at the Kent-Sussex Fair Grounds, at Harrington, the program falling during Fire Prevention Week. A feature will be a public demonstration of firefighting maneuvers, including operation of apparatus, use of ladders, and hose connections, on the opening night.

Chief Ralph H. Boyer, Dover, was named by Chief Douglas Mills, Harrington, president of the association, as chairman of the school committee. The other members of the committee are Thomas Heather, Jr., and Lee Leslie.

The chiefs, meeting at the Hartly firehouse, discussed the plans for the civilian defense radio system for fire companies but took no action. They also authorized the secretary to request of the Motor Vehicle Department instructions on the liability insurance law as it pertains to fire trucks.

President Mills announced committee appointments for the year as follows:

Baker, Fire prevention, Elmer Strimmel, Cheswold, chairman; Elwood Knight and Benjamin Moore, Public relations, Charles Jester, Camden-Wyoming, chairman; T. E. Baker and Russell Hayes, Publicity, H. The next meeting will be held Wednesday night, September 10, at Harrington.

Dickinson Home To Be Restored

The John Dickinson mansion home of the noted Delaware patriot of the Revolutionary period, has been acquired by the state for preservation as an historic site, and will be weather-tightened before winter.

This is the first step toward its eventual complete restoration, according to State Archivist Leon deValinger, Jr.

Mr. deValinger reported that negotiations have been completed to buy the mansion and 13.2 acres of adjoining land, at a meeting of the Advisory Committee to the Public Archives Commission on the John Dickinson Mansion.

The Public Archives Commission had been authorized to obtain the site at a previous meeting of the committee. The mansion is seven miles southeast of Dover on the Kitts Hummock Road.

Mr. deValinger, representing the archives commission, reported that the mansion and a suitable amount of ground had been purchased, as authorized, with funds presented by the historic activities committee of the National Society of Colonial Dames of the State of Delaware.

The mansion, sometimes called "Kingston-Upon-Hull," is a fine example of colonial architecture. It was built in 1740 by Judge Samuel Dickinson, father of John Dickinson. The judge came from Talbot County, Md.

Mr. deValinger is doing additional research work on the background of the mansion.

The historic activities committee of the National Societies of Colonial Dames in the State of Delaware conducted the campaign to raise $25,000 to buy, restore and preserve the mansion. Funds added to the trust from time to time will finance further repair, restoration, maintenance, and use of the mansion for public visits and such other state use as the commission may determine.

Sulphur

On a Mississippi river barge one is likely to see sulphur in bright yellow brimstone form. Salt-dome caprocks under marshlands of the Gulf Coast of Texas and Louisiana hold deposits of pure sulphur recoverable at low cost.

Vitamin A

One serving of carrots, either raw or cooked, will furnish a day's requirement of vitamin A, plus moderate amounts of thiamine, riboflavin, and niacin.

Hoof Beats

Except for a two-year-old trotting filly who sticks strictly to her knitting and her winning, the nation's juvenile harness racing ranks are as wide open this year as they have ever been.

A year ago Duke of Lullwater trotters and Meadow Rice and was lording it over the 2-year-old Thunderclap were splitting 2-year-old pacing honors between them.

But in 12 short months the picture has changed into completely that any one of a dozen in either division—the trotting filly Lively Lady thrust aside—could emerge as the youngster of the year and, depending on his gait, the winter book favorite for either the $100,000 Hambletonian or the $70,000 Little Brown Jug

Lively Lady, a daughter of Nibble Hanover, has won eight straight major Grand Circuit victories. And although she's trounce colts as well as fillies she'll spend most of the remainder of the year battling it out against members of her own sex, including the stakes winner Versatile Hanover.

That leaves a big gap to be filled in the colt world and there is no sign of a dominating factor as yet.

Indeed, no less than five colts Singing Sword, Elby Hanover, Kimberly Kid, Worthy Coburn and Newport Star already have won major stakes or heats of major stakes. And if you throw in the colts and fillies that have finished second you come up with a long list that includes such embryo stars as Bewitch, Fiesta Hanover, Miss Parisway, Lovely Hanover, Vulcan, Isoletta Hanover, Victory's First, Sir Lullwater, Peter Lind and Worthy Aristocrat.

No crop of 2-year-old trotting fillies has ever been as tough as the current group. Lively Lady winner of eight straight major stakes, appears the best of the lot but she has to be on her toes every week to beat off the challenges of Lovely Hanover and Versatile Hanover.

In setting a season's 2-year-old record of 2:05 at the Illinois State Fair last week, Lively Lady followed a torrid 58 4/5 clip down

Knox Hanover, Sonlie, Hillsota, Gosling, Meadow Chief and Bonnie Widow.

It's possible that a single colt will suddenly start showing his heels to the flock before the present Grand Circuit season ends—but the odds are all against it. It looks like big Hambletonian and Jug fields next year.

Only two pacers have ever beaten 1.58 in a race and Frank Ervin, veteran Sedalia, Mo., reinsman, has driven both of them.

Ervin first accomplished the harness racing feat by driving Good Time a mile in 1:57 4/5 at Lexington, Ky., last fall and knocking off a record that had stood for 27 years.

Last week at the Illinois State Fair, Ervin drove the pacer Sampson Hanover an identical mile, defeating Guinea Gold, the Indiana flyer, by a nose at the wire.

No crop of 2-year-old trotting fillies has ever been as tough as the current group.

Lively Lady winner of eight straight major stakes, appears the best of the lot but she has to be on her toes every week to beat off the challenges of Lovely Hanover and Versatile Hanover.

In setting a season's 2-year-old record of 2:05 at the Illinois State Fair last week, Lively Lady followed a torrid 58 4/5 clip down to the half mile pole and then came on to beat out Versatile Hanover, the early pacemaker. The half is believed to be the fastest ever posted by 2-year-old trotting fillies.

Sharp Note, the Hambletonian winner, was still sharp at the Illinois State Fair last week but he couldn't quite reach Hit Song and driver Harry Pownall.

Hit Song, winner of the first Hambletonian heat, beat Sharp Note and Duke of Lullwater three heats in a row in the Review Futurity. Sharp Note was second all three trips while Duke of Lullwater, suffering his first lifetime loss outside of Goshen, N. Y., was 3rd, 5th and 3rd.

When Dudley Hanover threw a pair of two minute miles (1:58 3/5 and 1:59 3/5 at the Grand Circuit's free-for-all stars last week, it marked the fifth and sixth such race efforts recorded by the chestnut flyer from the Hayes Fair Acres Stable of DuQuoin, Ill.

Dudley turned the trick in races on four occasions last year and his two-minute total now stands at seven including a time trial mile of 2:00 flat when he was a 3-year-old.

Ship captains are advised to hug the Gulf Stream, paralleling the coast along carefully charted seasonal tracks, on their way north from the Gulf. Returning, the best course—except in stormy weather—is a straight line far out to sea that avoids the breasting current, the navy says.

May Day has been celebrated from the earliest times. In Rome, flower-decked processions honored Flora, goddess of flowers. In medieval Europe, people went a-maying carrying branches of trees and flowers and danced around a maypole.

The tallest lighthouse in the U.S. is at Cape Hatteras, N.C.—194 feet high.

Part Time Work To an extent which few people realize, the economic well-being of the nation depends upon men and women and youngsters who are willing and able to work several hours a day or one or two days a week. Government studies published recently show that only about 85 percent of the more than 60 million people who work in this country are in full-time, year-round jobs; the others are part-time workers or people who work less than 50 weeks a year.

Eye Care Cost Americans spend approximately 300 million dollars per year for eye-care and spectacles. Dental bills are nearly five times as much, while 10 times as much is spent for tobacco.

Freshen Bread To freshen French or Italian bread or hard rolls, simply let a little cold water run over them a second, then place them in a moderate oven until crisp again. Cool before slicing.

For Chickens Found
New Growth Factor
 An unidentified growth factor for chickens, which may prove to be a new vitamin, has been discovered by University of Maryland and U. S. Department of Agriculture poultry nutrition scientists. Working independently, the University and USDA research workers have succeeded in concentrating what appears to be the same unknown growth factor that promotes more rapid growth in young chickens, even when fed with all known nutrients.

The research of both groups followed similar lines, using animal by-products as sources of the unidentified growth factor. The new findings were announced recently (August 12) at the annual meeting of the Poultry Science Association, Storrs, Conn.

The University of Maryland scientists from College Park began their experiments three years ago, and have succeeded in deriving a concentrate of the unidentified factor which is 340 times as potent as is found in liver products alone. Other sources of the same vitamin land are fish solubles and dried found at the University of Maryland's yeast. Research will continue until the unidentified growth factor is isolated in pure crystalline form. To secure the benefits of the unidentified factor, the Maryland researchers recommend that poultrymen include a minimum of 2 1/2 per cent of fish meal or its equivalent in broiler or breeder rations.

The University of Maryland research workers have also confirmed the presence of still another unidentified growth factor in dried whey products and fermentation solubles.

The USDA scientists, working at the Agricultural Research Center, at Beltsville, Md., have found the new factor in fish meal, fish solubles and meat meal. These animal by-products have been generally recommended for use in feed for growing chickens, although it has been possible, in recent years, to supply all presently recognized nutrients without them. Research at Beltsville justifies the use of animal by-products, but a search for other likely sources of the unidentified factor revealed that it is made by certain microorganisms that may be suitable for commercial development.

Wet, Cool Weather Favorable For Tomato Disease Spread

After a relatively dry growing season, wet weather in August and September may change the disease situation on the tomato crop. Gray leaf spot has been found in Wicomico and Caroline counties in Maryland, according to Dr. L. O. Weaver, Extension plant pathologist at the University of Maryland. This disease coupled with early blight, and possibly late blight, may cause rapid defoliation and serious loss of fruit, Dr. Weaver says. Late blight has not been reported to date.

Defoliation by leaf spot is very rapid on tomato vines loaded with fruit, the plant specialist says, while early blight causes annual defoliation and reduction in yield. Late blight development is favored by cool temperatures and heavy dews, and is a particular threat to tomato fields in western Maryland.

Dr. Weaver advises tomato growers to continue the spray program to protect the plants and fruit from disease organisms. Fact Sheet 27, "Field Control of Tomato Diseases and Insects," lists control measures and can be obtained at the county agent's office.

Zineb fungicides, such as Dithane and Parzate provide control for all foliage and fruit diseases. Manzate, although probably in short supply, has given excellent results against leaf spot, according to Dr. Weaver. Copper fungicides, containing 50 percent fixed copper, and applied at the rate of four pounds in 100 gallons of water, or Bordeaux 6-3-100 are both successful against late blight.

The sprays will not prevent the loss of fruit caused by soil rot or Buckley rot, the plant pathologist points out. These rots develop on the fruit close to the soil surface where soil organisms penetrate the fruit from the ground.

Small Percent Of Delaware Soil Tested

Soil testing is on the increase, according to William H. Mitchell, assistant extension agronomist at the University of Delaware. But, says Mitchell, the total acreage is pitifully small, even though soil testing is a free service of the University.

In 1949, 600 soil samples were tested. This increased to 1,800 in 1950 and to 2,000 in 1951. The increase in samples tested continued, with 2,200 samples tested the first 7 months of this year. These samples, however, cover only a very small fraction of Delaware soil. Only 8 per cent of the total corn acreage of 155,000 acres was tested during 1951. Three percent of the total soybean acreage, 2 percent of the hay acreage, and 2 percent of the pasture acreage was tested. The percentage dropped even lower for fruit and vegetable soils. Here, only 0.04 percent of the soil was tested, soil which represents the highest per acre value of any soil in the state.

"We would like to see more soil tested," says Mitchell. He suggests that farmers get their soil tested now while they are preparing land for fall-seeded crops. It takes little effort and no expense on the part of the farmer to have his soil tested, but it may mean the difference between dollars or cents return from that soil. Why not contact your county agent now for information on taking samples?

Regulations Issued To Prevent Entry Of New Hog Disease

Regulations governing the movement of swine into Maryland have been established by the State Board of Agriculture to prevent the introduction of vesicular exanthema, a highly contagious swine disease, into the state. Vesicular exanthema, while not a new disease, has recently flared up in many parts of the nation. According to Dr. A. L. Brueckner, director of the Live Stock Sanitary Service, University of Maryland, there have been no proven cases in Maryland.

Vesicular exanthema causes decreased appetite, lack of desire to move about, and sometimes lameness. Blisters often appear on the tongue, lips, snout and the region of the feet. Death losses among older hogs are unusually small, but may be high in suckling pigs. The chief economic losses come from loss of weight, or failure to put on weight due to decreased appetite.

The new regulations prohibit the movement into the state of pigs known to have been exposed to the disease, or from an area under quarantine. Hogs consigned to federally inspected slaughter houses or stockyards may enter the state without permit if they originate from a disease-free area. Special permits must be obtained from the Live Stock Sanitary Service, 816 Fidelity Building, Baltimore 1, Md., for pigs coming into the state for breeding, feeding or show purposes. The request to bring pigs in for these purposes must be sent in written form, or telegram, stating the number of pigs, the use for which intended, and the names and addresses of the consigner and consignee. At the present time, permits are not being granted for entry of hogs for show purposes, Dr. Brueckner said.

Shipments of hogs into the state must be made in trucks or railroad cars that have been cleaned and disinfected in an improved manner, and certified by a livestock sanitary official of the state of origin or by the U. S. Department of Agriculture.

Trace Minerals Not A Bangs Cure

Farmers should disregard any advertisements recommending trace minerals as a preventative or cure for brucellosis, says Bill Tarbell, Kent County agent. According to Tarbell, farmers depending on trace minerals to keep their herds free of Bangs are headed for trouble.

In a carefully controlled experiment at Wisconsin, veterinarians fed 41 healthy cows on a practical dairy ration. Nineteen of the cows received trace mineral supplements. All of the animals were infected purposely with the disease after four and one half months. Then they were continued on the same rations for seventeen months. Results of the experiment showed that cows fed the mineral supplement became infected just as easily as cows not receiving the supplement. There was also no difference in the number of cows aborting and recovering. None of the cows had been vaccinated.

Ultrasonic Therapy
 In Europe devices for ultrasonic therapy have been exploited. Exaggerated claims have been made that ultrasonic energy has been of value in the treatment of such afflictions as shingles, sciatica, lumbago, multiple sclerosis and neuralgias.

Rubber Storage Hint
 Don't fold rubber things such as baby sheets and bathing caps when you store them. They'll last much longer if you sprinkle them with talcum powder, roll them and put them away in a box.

Saving Eggs
 Eggs with clean shells keep best. Wipe off soiled spots with a damp cloth, but don't wash eggs until just before you use them. When eggs are first laid, the shells have a film known as the "bloom" which seals the pores and helps keep out bacteria and odors. Washing removes this protective film.

Feltonian and Missouri Foxhounds

R. Edmund Harrington, Felton lumberman, with some of his Missouri foxhounds. These pooches live in a super-doghouse. The tall grass is watergrass which, Harrington says, he has seen only in dog lots.

Edmund Harrington Raises Super Foxhounds

Being "in the doghouse" at the home of R. Edmund Harrington, of Felton, is not so bad when one considers the excellence of the dogs' quarters. Harrington, who also owns harness horses, has ten running foxhounds and seven May pups. Their quarters may be described briefly, as follows:

Their wire pen has a foundation of concrete blocks which goes 20 inches below the surface of the ground to prevent the dogs from digging out. The wire is divided into two parts.

In the pens is a volunteer grass, tall and green, despite the drought, which Harrington calls "watergrass." He says he has observed it only in dog pens.

The doghouse is set up high, owing the dogs to enjoy its ade.

The doghouse has a roof and siding of aluminum. There is a pen with bunks, at each end of the room, with an entrance from each pen to the outside lot.

The dogs inhabiting these quarters are the aristocrats of the foxhound world. The seven May pups mentioned previously are out of three dams and by two dogs. The dogs are by Hi Doctor II and out of a Buzzard Wing female, a breeding very popular in Missouri, though not too many local dogs have these bloodlines.

Said Harrington: "These are strung than most of the local dogs. The latter are Maryland hounds and hunt a little closer to the trail, but do not hunt as far or as long as the Missouri dogs. You can turn these dogs out on almost any hunting ground and, if you give them time, they'll find a fox. They are harder to handle because they are higher strung and more ambitious. When you turn these dogs out, they're gone. That's one reason why I can't hunt with these fellows on the east side of the railroad.

"There, we have many small woods and these dogs can't be caught after they are through hunting such grounds. The local dogs can be caught easily and loaded and taken to another woods. On the west side of the railroad, you can leave the Missouri dogs five or six miles away and they'll come home. On the east side, I can't leave them—too many stone roads, which are dangerous."

Getting back to the three dams of the May pups, Harrington, proprietor of the Felton Lumber Company, explained that two dams were by Baldwin's faultless, a Walker dog that sold for $2000 and paid for himself with a fifty-dollar-stud-fee.

"The third dam, by Ozark Ruff, is one of the best female dogs I have ever had anything

Record Number Of Students at State Schools

The number of public school children will top the record high of last term by more than 2000 students, according to Dr. George R. Miller, Jr., state superintendent.

In announcing that the public schools of the state are rapidly completing plans for the nearly 50,000 children who will be on hand for the opening of the school term, Dr. Miller stated that the rate of increase is expected to be about the same as that evidenced last year.

Although some people were skeptical about the predicted increase last year when it was estimated that approximately 2000 additional students were expected, the actual increase was 2027.

"With these increases came additional problems which the school administrators must solve," Dr. Miller added. Not the least of these include the procurement of an adequate number of teachers and school buildings. The foresight in meeting these problems and the completion of many of our school buildings places Delaware in the enviable position of being ready to accommodate the larger number of children and keeping pace with the need for these classrooms.

In only one or two instances out of 118 school districts may it be necessary to go on half-time session basis to provide for the children. The circumstances involved in the Millside district in which authorizations from the federal government and other agencies had to be secured were beyond our jurisdiction and delayed the completion of plans for more adequate housing in this instance.

Opening for the first time this year will be the William W. M. Henry Comprehensive High School at Dover, an elementary school in the Alexis I. duPont district, and additions to several schools throughout the state. Not included are additions which were completed during the last school term.

Administrators have been busy all summer employing teachers to man the classrooms of the state. At the moment only 9 elementary and 8 secondary school-teacher vacancies exist out of a total staff of approximately 1600 in the state board unit and special district schools. Three elementary principal and one district principal positions remain to be filled.

The William W. M. Henry Comprehensive High School will open in Dover Thursday. Fourteen teachers recruited from seven states have been secured, not including the nurse, cafeteria manager, janitors, or the principal. Approximately 275 to 300 students are expected to attend—coming from the Kent County area. The building was recently completed and contains, in addition to classrooms, home economics rooms, building and trades, auto shops, farm shop, science laboratories, photographic laboratory, very complete are facilities, and an unusual arrangement for counseling, nurse service, and off space.

It marks the first time that a full four-year high school program will be available to colored boys and girls in the Kent County area in one building. Mr.

Taylor, the principal of the high school, stated that the band instruments are available for the immediate inauguration of an instrumental music program. The students will also receive training in physical education and have an opportunity to participate in all of the major sports normally found in high schools in Delaware. The school will cover grades nine through twelve and is designed to serve community needs as well.

The new comprehensive high school does not include a gymnasium. It is anticipated that funds for a gymnasium will be requested of the 1953 General Assembly.

Close integration with the Booker T. Washington School has been established to make some of the facilities of the new school available to students of the former school.

No Faith

"Brethren and sisters, we are gathered together here today to pray for rain," said the preacher. He looked his congregation over a little sadly and went on: "But before we begin I'd like to ask you just one question—where are your umbrellas?"
