BIG NEWSPAPERS SUPPORT EISENHOWER

The big daily newspapers are supporting General Eisenhower for the highest office in the land—but is that news? Big business—and daily newspapers are big business—always support the Republican candidate.

Four years ago 65 per cent of the dailies supported Dewey, and only 15 per cent supported Truman—but look what happened. Back in 1936 the publisher of the truly great New York Times—publisher because he happened to marry the boss' daughter—was sure that Alf Landon was a "shoo in," and Landon carried only two states. A hidden reservoir of strength for Stevenson is the fact that the Saturday Evening Post—or Pole—is supporting his opponent.

There is no questioning the power of the press—its accolade or its silence can make or break you; it largely shapes the patterns of our lives, and the destiny of our country—until we consider politics. Frankly, we believe the influence exerted by newspapers in a political campaign is negligible. The combined newspapers of the United States cannot elect a President of the United States.

Once upon a time this condition did not prevail. But now well-informed people—and a large percentage of our people are well-informed—know that editorial writers, being human, do just what the rest of us do, look upon the political picture through the bleared eyes of bias. They know, too, that many bigtown editorial writers do not express their own views, but the views of their bosses, the owners of the papers. Right here in Delaware we knew a brilliant man who wrote Charles Evans Hughes editorials—and voted for Woodrow Wilson!

The Republican and "independent" newspapers seem to be greatly enthused over the reception given General Eisenhower in his speaking tour of the South. Temper your enthusiasm, gentlemen. Ike, as an outstanding military hero, is deserving of that acclaim, and many people came out to see him through curiosity—they had never seen a Republican before.

ROADS—ROLLA—AND ROME

We believe Delaware's road system is equal to any in the United States—or the world. Thirty-five years ago we had one small stretch of highway, the original DuPont Boulevard, down in Sussex. Remember that huge, horrible mudhole between Dover and Smyrna? A lot of people wouldn't dare attempt a trip to Wilmington because they dreaded that piece of road. On Sundays, many Delaware people went over into Maryland just for the thrill of riding over those roads. They were hump-backed roads, but they were hardsurfaced and seemed like perfection to us at that time.

Real road systems were attempted by most states in the period between 1920 and 1925. We went to Missouri in 1923 and at that time they had a mammoth road building program under way. You had to detour most of the time or follow old roads torn up for grading. After a thaw in December, you had to go in low through miles of clay. After a day of travel through, and in, such roads, we came to the pleasant little city of Rolla and put up for the night at a brick hotel near the railroad station.

Eight or ten travelers were gathered around the open fireplace, each with his clothing encrusted with clay. Among them was a resident of New York and he was the greatest looster—and boaster, we've ever heard. He didn't boast about himself, but about New York. It was the greatest state in the Union, with greater roads, greater manufacturing plants, greater farms, greater climate—greater everything than any other place possessed. But its greatest asset was its outstanding men. Any New Yorker was outstanding, he had to be. People born outside that state were unfortunate—but it couldn't be helped. They were destined to nothingness.

By the side of the fireplace at that brick hotel in Rolla, upon a pedestal, stood a statue of Julius Caesar. As the New Yorker continued to brag about the great men produced by his state, that statue of Caesar turned slowly on its pedestal, and gazed at our clay-encrusted clothing from glittering, cavernous eyes and muttered in a sepulchral voice: "I, who have known the sunny days

Of the entrancing Nile;
I, who have known the rapture of
A Cleopatra's smile,
Am doomed to stay in this hotel
And while the years away,
In this hotel where ev'ry man
Resembles Henry Clay.
I've builded east and west beyond
The Tiber's rolling flood.
Although I'm dust, no mortal man
Can say my name is mud.
Does justice live? Then heap down coals
Upon my laureled head—
Take down my bust and put up Rip
VanWinkle's in its stead!"
Then, with another piercing gaze from those mysterious eyes, he turned on his pedestal and again faced the wall.
As you may guess, there were moments of silence, and as you may guess, that silence was broken by the loquacious New Yorker.

"Who is that bird?" he gasped.
"That," we replied, "is Julius Caesar, Julius Caesar, the first great road builder; Julius Caesar—of Rome!"
"Rome," repeated the New Yorker, "Rome, Rome, Rome! Wait just a minute, and his eyes shone with pride and vindication as he continued: "I got it! Rome—that's a Eisenhower, the GOP presidential candidate, the newspapers said, had a smile on his face after his recent tour of Dixie. He, the newspapers said, was pleased with his "response" below the Mason-Dixon Line. He will not be pleased with the response from the South on Nov. 4.

With other Harrington Rotarians, we attended the Ladies' Night at Rehoboth Beach on Tuesday of last week. Before the dinner, we strolled along the boardwalk and gave casual and occasional glances at the beach, where many were bathing. Returning to the business section, we noticed a large sign in a store window: "Bathing Suits Reduced." We don't see how they can do it.

A much used and much distorted expression, used only by millionaires and those who fawn on millionaires, is "Free Enterprise," and the most hackneyed of all bromidic phrases is "Our American Way of Life." There are millions of ways of life in America—maybe that's what makes it so interesting. While we're airing our pet peeves, we get tired of seeing such expressions as these in the papers: "Irish-American, German-American, Italian-American." Such people do not exist—either you're an American or you're something else.

A Wilmington newspaper of last Friday, in describing the Eisenhower special train to Philadelphia, told of some of the Republicans starting for the convention hall, only to get lost. We quote: "Part of the group got steered wrong and walked into a dead end, but, came back good humoredly and obtained better directions." Now isn't that just like them? They always get steered wrong, they always have to come back and ask for additional directions—and they always walk into a dead end.

We notice the operators of fruit and vegetable stands on U. S. 113 are patriotic: most of them have American flags displayed near their establishments.

MEASURING ACHIEVEMENTS

There are many ways to measure the achievements made by the American people during the past 20 years of national Democratic Administrations. But there is no more meaningful way to make such measurements than in human terms. Recently Wallace's Homestead magazine did just that in an editorial commenting on the steamy summer weather in Iowa this year.

"To farm people, and especially to farm women," said the magazine, "it did not seem as hot this year as in 1931 or 1938.

"Why? Ask any farm woman.

"No threshers for extra hot meals. On most farms, the combine has done away with the threshing crew.

"Even if there is extra help to feed, there is an enormous difference between cooking on gas or electricity and over a hot coal stove. Refrigerators and freezers help summer housekeeping, too.

"On many farms, hot water heaters furnish showers at the end of the day, and hot water for household chores at any minute.

"Some of this equipment comes high. Not all farm people have it yet. But in the kitchen, the revolution is almost complete.

"Today, in Iowa, probably 85 percent of the farm kitchens cook with gas or electricity. And 99 percent of the Iowa farm homes now have refrigerators, or home freezers.

The Republican campaign orators are urging the American farmer to let the GOP rescue him from what the call the terrible plight he is now in as a result of 20 years of Democratic Administrations. But it is difficult to see how they can orate hard enough to persuade the farmer that the kerosene lamp is better than electricity or that the coal beats the electric range all hollow.

WE'LL tell you the answer to that one—it's the figures on the price tag.

Maybe it's because a Buick seems so much better and bigger.

Maybe it's because they think Buick has so much more power and room—which is true.

Maybe it is because so many distinguished people own Buicks—which is also a fact.

But the fact remains—if you can afford a new car, you can own a Buick—so let's see what you get.

Carvel Urges Observance of Citizenship Day

Delawareans are urged to join in marking the first observance of Citizenship Day on September 17 in a proclamation issued by Governor Elbert N. Carvel and released yesterday.

The date marks the 165th anniversary of the adoption of the Constitution of the United States and, this year for the first time by Congressional action, will honor those who have become of age or who have been granted the rights of citizenship through naturalization, Gov. Carvel pointed out.

"The date has been proclaimed annually for a number of years as 'Constitution Day', Governor Carvel said, "but I am reliably informed that this was by general practice and not by law. Last February the 82nd Congress passed a resolution which wiped 'I Am An American Day' from the calendar and established Citizenship Day to be marked on September 17. That is now the law of the land and President Truman has proclaimed that date. In my proclamation I am following the steps of President Truman and guided by the wishes of Congress."

Gov. Carvel said that all citizens of the United States "should not lose sight of the great heritage which was given them by their forefathers in establishing a democratic form of government in a Republic of Associated States." He called for the display of national and state flags and observances of the dual celebration by schools, churches and civic groups.

The proclamation follows: "WHEREAS, September 17, 1952, marks the 165th anniversary of the adoption of the Constitution of the United States, which has survived as the fundamental law of the land; and

"WHEREAS, by action of the 82nd Congress of the United States of America, September 17, 1952, shall be known as Citizenship Day, in recognition of all who have come of age or by naturalization, have attained the full status of citizenship; and

"WHEREAS, every American citizen, whether native or foreign born, should reflect on the rights and privileges granted him under the Constitution of the United States, which has become the document of the free throughout the world; and

"WHEREAS, this year, special tribute will be paid to one of Delaware's signers, John Dickinson, whose contribution to our title of The First State is well known; and

"WHEREAS, citizens of the United States of America and especially of Delaware should never lose sight of the great heritage which was given them by their forefathers in establishing a democratic form of government in a Republic of associated states: "NOW, THEREFORE, I, Elbert N. Registration Of Cars Asked

A total of 29,537 motor vehicles with Delaware registrations expiring on September 30th remained to be inspected and have their registrations renewed during this month, according to Harold H. Keller, Motor Vehicle Commissioner.

Mr. Keller made this announcement after tabulating the records of the Department for the period starting last week, and at the same time pointed out that in order for all of the expiring registrations to be taken care of it will be necessary for more than 1,300 to visit the inspection lanes each day the lanes are open this month.

After remarking that the owners of the motor vehicles whose registrations expire this month could have visited the inspection lanes at anytime since July 1st, Mr. Keller stated that the Department can already force a grand rush at the inspection lanes during the latter part of this month.

A total of 33,615 registrations expire on September 30th and of this number 4,078 had been inspected before last week leaving 29,537 to be handled this month.

The record by counties shows the following, Wilmington and New Castle County, 19,806 expirations of which 3,010 have been inspected leaving 16,796 yet to be handled; Kent County 6,894 expirations with 504 already inspected, leaving 6,390 yet to be handled; Sussex County 6,915 expirations with 564 already inspected, leaving 6,351 yet to be handled.

The inspection lanes are located at Eighth Street and Bancroft Parkway in Wilmington, South State Street in Dover and near the railroad station in Gettewtown.

Mrs. Arthur Layton had as her guest the past week, her aunt, Mrs. S. L. Chadwick, of Wilmington.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Dyer returned from Freehold, N. J., and are now home for the duration of the racing season here.

Mr. and Mrs. James Butler, of Maryland, and Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Hobbs, Jr., Mr. Hobbs, of Milbourne, Worthy Matron, and Miss Mary Jarle Hobbs, of Willow Grove, visited Mr. and Mrs. Byron Kemp Sunday.

Rev. and Mrs. D. T. Pritchard, of Oxford, Md., called on Mr. and Mrs. Harry Adkins a day the past week.

DEARBORN-WOOD BROS. CORN PICKER
"Easy On the Ears"
HERE'S WHY!
Gentle Snapping—Extra long non-aggressive snapping rolls and a rotary snapping bar are exclusive features of the Dearborn-Wood Bros. Corn Picker. They work gently to get more corn... with practically no butt shelling.
Clean Husking—The big husking bed on this picker does a thorough job of cleaning corn from the crib. The exclusive flexible fingered spiral husking bed feeds spreads the ears evenly over the entire bed. Then three steel and three rubber husking rolls whisk away husks and silk... with a minimum of shelling.
Come in soon and ask for a demonstration. You'll be glad you did. Convenient terms available.

From where I sit... by Joe Marsh
Narrow Town—Broad Outlook
The wife's cousin Ben, and Belle his bride are back from honeymooning in the Rockies. Took them to dinner last night at the Garden Tavern. Ben told about the trip:
"Went through a town in Idaho that was only 100 feet wide. No kidding! Built into a long, narrow canyon. And it shares those 100 feet with a railroad track that runs right through the hotel!"
"To get gas there we had to park right on the tracks. Suddenly Belle screams—"there's a train coming!" But the gas fellow just laughs and says we were there first. Blamed if the engineer didn't stop the train and wait, too!"
From where I sit, it's a good illustration of how people can learn to "think of the other fellow" so that the community benefits. Railroaders and townspeople, Democrats and Republicans, malted milk fanciers and those who prefer a temperate glass of beer—we all have to share the same space. Let's maintain our neighbor's "right of way."

WHEELER RADIO STORE NEWS

A top representative from the Philco plant was here to see me a few days ago to inform me that televisions, that is Philcos, will be hard to get again in a short time. The prices on the models we have already received and some other models have already gone up and the others remain the same. If you are waiting to purchase one on price, then my answer to you is go deep in that pocket if necessary as you will be saving yourself money later.

many makes on the market, but believe you me, when you buy yourself a Philco you have acted wisely. It is much easier to pick the winners than it is at the races as there is only one winner to pick and that is Philco. The payoff is better than daily doubles, so be a winner, take a tip that never fails to win and that is P-H-I-L-C-O.

Since televisions have come on the market like a house afire, it has also paralyzed the radio industry temporarily. Wh should see it coming? Philco, of course, and they scratched their heads so much that they are almost bald, but they got what they were after, and that is a radio that you can get any place in the world. Then again, think of getting a radio for $19.95, that with a click of a switch you can not only get the regular broadcasting stations, but police calls. You can hear the people talking from planes, and talking to the shore from boats. It is also one of the best things for Civil Defense as it will bring in calls that you cannot get otherwise. To think you need no aerial, just the radio and it starts at $19.95. Who could do it but Philco. They can do almost the impossible.

I know it is hard to believe, but Philco has a radio as I just stated plus a clock to wake you up with a nice soothing tone. Not the harsh "get up John, don't you know it is getting late, for only $29.95. Yes, folks, Philco can do it because they know how and have known for the past 20 years.

I, personally, am proud to display the Philco Authorized Agent sign because I feel that I am passing along to you the best merchandise they make whether it be a television, radio, combination, electric range, refrigerator, freezer or an air conditioner. In fact, anything that bears that stamp with the name Philco you can rest assured that money cannot buy better.

When you have a few minutes, just drop in at Wheeler's or phone 541 Harrington, and ask any questions you like and we will be pleased to give you what information you would like to know on any Philco product we sell.

Philco sells from Philco buyers. Wheeler's Television Center Harrington, Del. Phone 541 Talk Peace, not war. Hills are hard to climb. What do we find at the top?
