

To Build Harness Track Near Wilmington

The Brandywine Raceway Association, Inc., was granted permission Saturday by the Delaware Harness Racing Commission to build a 1,500,000 half-mile track on a 100-acre site known as the Talley farm, along Naaman's Road just east of Concord Pike near Wilmington.

The track is expected to be finished in time to start at least a 20-day racing meet next Aug. 7, the date tentatively set by the commission.

The land has been purchased from Elbie T. Talley, along with another strip of land that will give the track an entrance directly from Concord Pike. The main track lies 300 feet east of Concord Pike.

The association headed by Benjamin F. Shaw II, president of the B. F. Shaw Company of Wilmington, was granted a franchise at a meeting of the racing commission in Dover, with Aug. 7 through 29 assigned as tentative racing dates.

The only other harness track in the state is at the Kent-Sussex Fair Grounds at Harrington.

Since there is no track in Sussex County, it is likely that the harness racing commission will grant 10 additional dates to both Brandywine and Harrington tracks, if requested.

Other City Officials

Three other Wilmingtonians are officials of Brandywine Raceway—Nathan Miller, president of Miller Brothers Furniture Store is vice president; John W. Kane, president of the North American Mutual Insurance Company and owner of Sunshine Park in Tam pa, Fla., is treasurer, and John C. Hazzard, chairman of the Public Service Commission, is secretary.

Mr. Kane said the track will cost an estimated $1,500,000. Bids are being received for the project which will include a grandstand box section, clubhouse and restaurant facilities.

The track is expected to have a seating capacity of 20,000, with parking space for about 9,000 cars.

Plans call for 300 pari-mutuel machines. The barn area will have 600 stalls.

Big Turnouts Expected

Mr. Kane said surveys disclosed a population of about 3,500,000 persons within easy distance of the track. He said it will be about 27 miles from Philadelphia, nine from West Chester, 11 from Chester, and six from Wilmington.

Because of the potential drawing power of the New Castle County track, Mr. Kane estimated that the state will receive between $250,000 and $400,000 in revenue from it annually.

Previous attempts of groups to get a franchise for a harness track in New Castle County have been unsuccessful. There have been proposals for tracks near Claymont and at Middletown.

Recently, a Maryland syndicate, with an option on land near Bear Station, applied for a harness track franchise.

All Rotary Clubs Follow Same Pattern, District Governor Tells Rotarians

"The Rotary Clubs in small towns and in great cities follow the same pattern," said District Governor Bob Adams, of Riverton, N. J., at Tuesday evening's meeting of the Harrington Rotary Club. "Personalities differ, of course, but they are strangely alike in their objectives."

Henry Ford, said Governor Adams, practiced Rotary's creed of "He Profits Most Who Serves Best," and this was tremendously successful from a monetary standpoint. This creed, as practiced by Rotary, has no monetary consideration but is used for the higher purpose of helping others.

Membership in Rotary is in itself a high honor, but unless you give of yourself to Rotary, enthusiastically work for it and attend regularly, you contribute but little to a great organization.

"I am not a speaker," said the modest Adams, "but I could not find in the Rotary Directory where it was necessary for a district governor to be an orator. Mark Twain says if you are ignorant and have a lot of confidence, go right ahead and you will be a success as speaker."

"I do not like the title District Governor. 'We are not governors, but more of guides, a clearing house, you might say, through which material and information from Rotary International are transmitted to the local clubs. It has been said of prospective members: 'It is more important to get Rotary into you than to try to get into a Rotary Club.'"

New Style U.S. Currency Baffles Bank President

HIWATHA, Kas.—Roy Ruth, bank president in the nearby community of Everest, found that counting money can become a problem. Recently he broke open a bundle of $5 bills and carefully counted them. They totaled $500.

As a check, he turned them over to recount. This time he got a total of $550.

Checking, re-checking and turning over each crisp bill carefully, he made a startling discovery:

Six of the notes, fresh from government presses, were $5 denominations on one side, $10 on the opposite.

PHOENIXVILLE, Pa.—The husky military policeman blinked as the little boy, dressed in jeans and a Hopalong Cassidy sweater sauntered to the entrance to the Valley Forge Army Hospital and said politely: "I've come to read for blind patients."

The soldier took the lad to the commanding officer, Eddie Dworck, 11 years old, had hitchhiked from Paoli, 10 miles away, although friends had laughed at his idea of volunteering as a "reader."

The officer didn't laugh. Neither did the blind patients as Eddie read to them from two books he had brought under his arm: biographies of Lou Gehrig and Joe Di Maggio.

Pastor Must Master His Schedule, Duties

DES MOINES—A clergyman must not become "the chore boy of everybody in the community who wants a benediction at a banquet," but the master of his schedule.

This advice was given by the Rev. Dr. Charles E. Tupper, as society professor of applied Christianity at Drake bible college, who also said that a minister must guard his health.

"Some of us drag around with half the power we ought to have because of reduced vitality," he said.

Dr. Tupper addressed the Iowa ministerial institute of Christian (Disciples) churches here. He said that a half-completed daily schedule is depressing, and brings no "sense of victory" or pleasure to achievement.

"There are more demands than we can meet and we must make a choice," he said.

"I am not forgetting the minister's responsibility to the community," Dr. Tupper said, "but he must evaluate his calls on the basis of preference and importance."

Dr. Tupper said his basic thought was to keep alive the "spiritual glow" of clergymen, despite their difficulties, for the sake of the people they serve.

Ladder Success
It's possible to paint a small house entirely from ladders, cut it much easier to work from a plank suspended between two ladders. The foot of a straight ladder should be one quarter as far from the wall as the ladder is high. If the ladder rests on a cement walk, use ladder shoes.

Carton of Ice
Fill empty milk cartons almost to the top with water, seal the pouring spout shut with melted candle drippings or other wax, and freeze in your refrigerator. The frozen cartons keep food and beverages cold on outings when packed in a corrugated box.

Chair Safety
Be conventional when sitting on a chair—to tip and balance a chair on the hind legs not only sets the stage for a tumble but is hard on the floor coverings.

SAFETY is their watchword

Your work has a lot to do with the way you look at things. Take the vonGoerres brothers, for instance. They're much more safety conscious than most of us.

Both Herbert and George are devoted to community service. Both are volunteer firemen. Both are members of volunteer ambulance squads. Day after day, they see how disastrous carelessness can be.

The vonGoerres brothers also serve their communities as telephone men—Herb in Georgetown, George in Seaford.

In these jobs, too, they constantly live with the idea of safety. The Telephone Company knows how important it is. Telephone men and women are taught the safe way to do things. Telephone buildings and equipment are specially designed for safety.

Telephone people know that you can't be of much help to your community when you're laid up. They work hard to do their work safely!

AB Daughters Make Double State Fat Average

Four hundred forty-one 210, that's the difference between the average fat production of daughters of the Artificial Breeders Co-operative and the state fat average.

"We can quickly see why 800 dairymen in the state are taking advantage of the co-operative artificial breeding program," says Delmar J. Young, dairy specialist of the Delaware Agricultural Extension Service.

The October 1 report of the co-operative shows that the 778 daughters of the artificial breeding program in production average 11,101 pounds of milk and 441 pounds of fat (for all breeds). Young compares that to a 360 pound fat average for Dairy Herd Improvement Association (DHIA) herds and the state 210 pounds average.

A breakdown of the AB breed averages is: 93 Guernsey daughters averaging 385 pounds of fat; 585 Holstein daughters averaging 460 pounds fat, and 43 Jersey daughters averaging 385 pounds fat.

Farmers interested in Delaware should contact their county agricultural agent in Newark, Dover, Artificial Breeding Co-operative or Georgetown.

Control Now For Some Orchard Pests

Now is a good time for two orchard chores—dormant spray on peaches and control of apple fire blight and black rot.

The dormant spray on peaches can be applied now or in the spring before buds swell. Fall treatment is preferred, says Dr. L. A. Stearns, entomologist of the Delaware Agricultural Experiment Station. Recommended rates and materials are:

For leaf curl only, use 5 gallons liquid lime sulfur per 100 gallons of water, or 44-100 Bordeaux mixture.

For leaf curl and San Jose scale, use 12 gallons liquid lime sulfur per 100 gallons of water.

For leaf curl, scale insects, and red mite, use a 44-100 Bordeaux mixture and 2 percent superior oil to 3 percent and regular oil to 4 percent.

No spraying should be done when temperatures are below 50° F.

During 1952, apple fire blight and black rot (also called frog leaf spot) diseases were worse than usual. Both have built up to where they limit production of certain apple varieties, says Dr. J. W. Heuberger of the plant pathology department. Black rot usually follows fire blight, so control of both depends on removing dead wood.

Start now, recommends Dr. Heuberger of the plant pathology department. Black rot usually follows fire blight, so control of both depends on removing dead wood.

M. Gwinn, associate short course director, this week.

The five weeks session offers practical training in modern farming methods. There are no entrance requirements, and there is no tuition fee, and it is open to both men and women.

"We plan to offer classes in dairy farming, poultry farming, home fruit and vegetable production, field crops, insect and disease control, and rural community leadership," Gwinn said.

"Meals and housing will be available on the campus, but students who prefer may live at home."

Last year, 39 men and women from Delaware, Maryland, Pennsylvania, and New Jersey completed the course.

Complete information about the Farm Short Course is available from the Short Course Office, Agricultural Hall, University of Delaware, Newark, Del.

4-H Clubs Total Material Achievements

Celebrating National 4-H Achievement Day last Saturday, Nov. 8, caused Delaware 4-H members to take a look at their actual achievements during 1952.

Samuel Gwinn, state 4-H Club leader, released figures on project achievements of the 1,824 members and 145 local volunteer leaders in Delaware 90 4-H Clubs.

Home food production was an important part of the 4-H projects. Members had 389 home gardens, totaling 194 acres. Three hundred and four acres were devoted to field crops and market garden projects. Members raised 74,012 birds in poultry projects, 179 dairy animals, 324 animals in beef, swine, and rabbit projects.

Thirty-six boys took tractor maintenance projects. Five hundred and twenty acres were under soil conservation project care.

Using food in the home in food preparation, freezing, and canning project is another large group. Delaware 4-H girls, and boys, served 6,106 meals, canned 4935 quarts of food, and froze 2,598 quarts.

Clothing projects members made and remodeled 1,470 garments. There were 110 home improvement projects, in which 206 home furnishings items were made. Twenty-four members improved the grounds around their homes and farm.

Members who took part in health projects or programs numbered 768. Safety—in the form of fire and accident prevention—was studied by 1,270 4-H'ers.

Coupled with the actual project work, 4-H'ers took part in judging training and contests, demonstrations, and exhibit work, said Gwinn, making the 1952 project year one of the most successful so far. All three counties had achievement fairs during the fall.

Cornpone and Caviar

By J. HARVEY BURGESS

They're at it again. Beginning in September each year and continuing through April, Baltimore and New Orleans keep jawing about the relative merits of their oysters. I've eaten oysters many times in each of these cities and will go on record as saying that the oysters in both cities are fit for an epileptic or an epileptic—but the best oysters I ever tasted grew away back in the remote hills of Kentucky.

These were wild oysters, not any of your pampered, pallid, domesticated things. Oysters never reach the peak of perfection until they are four years old. In the Chesapeake, in the Chincoteague, in Shelter Island, in the Gulf of Mexico, in Maurice River, oysters are exposed to the tongs and dredgers much of the time and they bring up, along with the four-year-olds, many adolescents—lean, lanky, spindly oysters not more than eight months old. These have neither flavor nor substance. In the Kentucky hills the oysters are accessible only on day in each four years—the day they attain perfection.

Since the ordinary oyster is raised in water, it has a large water content, but as these Kentucky hillbilly oysters are raised far from water, they are mostly meat. What little moisture they possess is obtained by sneaking down to the moonshine stills early in the morning before the revenuers arrive and licking the dew off the moonshiners' barrels. This gives their flesh the delectable flavor of bourbon.

The oyster from the river, the bay or the sea can be opened in a jiffy by an experienced man with a knife, but these hill oysters, with their tough limestone shells, cannot be pried open with the sturdiest, keenest knife devised by man. How, then, can mortal man revel in the ecstasy of this ambrosial tidbit? The explanation is quite simple. Oysters are fatalists. Once each night in four years they creep into a salt cave and salt themselves. Then early in the morning on election day, they roll down the hills, lick an unusually large amount of dew from the moonshiners' barrels—and begin to hiccup. That spells their doom, for the hillmen insert their knives between the shelves when the oyster hiccups.

Ordinarily you would not believe this story—but you have believed others like it during the recent Presidential campaign.

I wish to express my sincere thanks and appreciation for the support given me at the polls Nov. 4th.

Old Dover Newspaper Tells Of Celebrated Murder Case

"Who Killed Miss Albin?" reads a banner head on the front page of the issue of Sat., Feb. 20, 1904, of "The Delawarean," a Dover weekly newspaper.

The newspaper, with a clipping from "The Evening Journal," of Wilmington, of Thurs., April 18, 1929, were lent "The Harrington Journal" by Mrs. Helen Griffith, Whitelysburg Rd., Greensboro.

Getting back to the Albin case, one of Delaware's most sensational murders, additional headings read: "The Most Horrible Murder Ever Committed in Delaware"; "Charged With the Murder Mrs. Powell Says she Was Very Jealous Of Slain Girl"; "One Thousand Persons Attended Miss Albin's Funeral on Sunday Last."

The story of the murder was briefly, as follows: Miss Essie Albin, a domestic, was found murdered in the attic of the home of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Powell on the Hall farm near Bowers Beach, Miss Albin, young and pretty, was employed by the Powells. The body was discovered by Mr. Powell on his return from a trip. There were 107 wounds on it. Mrs. Powell was charged with the murder and lodged in Kent County Jail.

The above is as much as the single yellowed copy of "The Delawarean" relates.

The clipping from "The Evening Journal" gives us the aftermath. Mrs. Powell was sentenced for life but was paroled after serving nearly 20 years. She died in Wilmington General Hospital Tuesday night, April 16, 1929. Mr. Powell died in 1929 in Dover from a broken neck suffered in a fall down stairs at his home on South Governor's Avenue. A savings bank has been talked of for Harrington: It would be a good thing.

The general understanding of the people is that the Fleming cannery will not be operated this year by E. Fleming. The season of 1903 was very unsatisfactory, and the outlook for this year does not encourage the owner to engage in business. The new colored school building is in daily use, and it is a great comfort to the children attending. It was built by Arley Wix, who made a good job for the money received, viz., $550. Col. Theo. Townsend paid him in full for the work last week.

Mr. Wix is building a large barn for Louder Sapp.

The worn-out dirt ought to be hauled from our streets and stone substituted. Then we would be ready for the thaws.

This year is the first time we have been able to use the Viola Community Hall formerly the school house. It has one large room, where there once were two, and a nice kitchen.

The Chestnut Grove Hall, near Dover, is being renovated by the community, which includes our newest club as well as many members of other clubs. Cowgill's eight-sided school house is being renovated, too. The Cowgill's Club has paid for white-washing it and prepared it for the white washing, too.

Let's not forget Oak Grove. They're not resting on the laurels they won for fixing up their hall — they keep right on working to improve it!

1953 Net Farm Income Expected To Be Lower

Net farm income for 1953 will be lower than in 1952, agricultural economists from the University of Maryland predict. They say that farmers will face rising production costs while, in most cases, the prices they receive will continue the same, or may even drop.

General business activity will remain brisk, the University economists explain, because of defense spending by the government. Demand for agricultural products in the year ahead will continue good, supported by high industrial production; full employment, high wages and consumer income.

Maryland farmers will find the greatest hope for 1953 profits in efficient production and marketing. This is always good business, the University's agricultural economists say. But they emphasize the importance of production and marketing efficiency in view of the anticipated cost-price squeeze. Price prospects for individual commodities vary considerably. Here is a summary of the outlook prepared by the University's Department of Agricultural Economics and Marketing.

Milk—Prices for milk and most dairy products are likely to average a little higher next year, but rising production costs will probably keep net profits the same.

Broilers—Demand will remain strong, but prices will be greatly influenced by supply. If production remains about the same, prices should average slightly higher than the relatively low prices prevailing in early 1952. Feed costs will remain higher.

Beef—Prices are expected to remain below 1952 levels, reflecting an anticipated all-time record of 93 million head of cattle on U. S. farms next January.

Eggs—The smaller number of layers on farms should result in lower production and high egg prices during the spring of 1953.

Hogs—Although price increase may be small, profits may improve next year, due to an expected lower cost of corn.

Tobacco—Growers are not likely to receive better prices than in 1952, unless attempts to amend the price support law are successful.

Vegetables—Relatively high prices in 1952 may encourage growers to plant larger acreages in 1953. If weather conditions are favorable, an increased supply may depress prices below 1952 levels.

Group Meetings and Community Halls

The group meetings which we are having during November help Home Demonstration Club members meet people from other clubs and see what they are doing. They also give us a review of the community buildings which the clubs along with other groups in the locality work on.

Our first meeting was at Todd's Community Hall—probably the newest: They have facilities for serving large dinners and for seating large groups, too. The community should be congratulated on the hall itself and on the way they are paying the debt with dinners, etc.

The Millwood Community Hall is not new, but something new's been added! The kitchen has had its face lifted with a new electric range, bright calico curtains, and new linoleum. Three cheers to the Millwood Club for improving what they had.

Houston's Health

Houston's city health department has been working on a budget that amounts to $1.17 a year per citizen. This is better than New Orleans' $2.60 per citizen, but far below Washington, D.C.'s $3.36, San Francisco's $2.69 and Seattle's $1.99. Recommendation: that Houston up its public health budget to about $2.

Excellent Apron

A teary-cloth towel split in half, with seersucker tie-backs sewn on, makes an excellent apron, especially if you like to wipe your hands on your apron when cooking. The teary cloth washes easily and needs no ironing.

Used His Head

On Mt. Shasta, Calif., Mountain Climber Dan O'Neill, 34, slipped and fell on the snowy slope, escaped with only minor cuts and bruises after a 40-m.p.h. head-first slide of nearly a mile, because "I kept my head, used my toes as brakes and steered with my fore-arms."

Highway Cost

On a ton-mile basis, owners of automobiles and light trucks pay more than two and one-half times as much for using the highways as do owners of top-weight trailer-trucks.

Washing Woodwork

Most woodwork can be washed with a detergent or soap and water. To make the woodwork shiny, add two tablespoons of furniture polish to a quart of rinse water; then wipe the surface dry with a soft cloth.

Invisible Coating

A manufacturer has devised an invisible coating you can spray on the insides of windows to prevent fading of drapes, furniture, and floor coverings. Screening out rays of the sun that cause damage, one application is said to last 4 months despite repeated window washing. You can spray it on lamp bulbs, too, to prevent lamp shade fading.

Some Battery

An appliance dealer in Tupelo, Miss., got an urgent order from a customer who wanted "A battery radio that will play spiritual songs and lots of preaching. Please, I don't want none with lots of jazz. If you got one of that kind, please send it to me."

Baltimore Firsts

Baltimore had the first organized Methodist church in the U.S., 1784, and the first Roman Catholic cathedral, 1806.

State Department

The United States Department of State was originally known as the Department of Foreign Affairs.

Two Jobs at Once Now they have concocted a paint-plaster wall-finish combination that lets you paint and plaster in one operation. One coat is said to hold most plaster cracks, fine seams, nail holes, uneven surfaces, and other similar defects. Easy to apply with brush or roller, the finish dries hard and may be washed or even scrubbed repeatedly. It comes in a variety of colors and can be textured with a brush, sponge, or paper.

New Pen A pen writes with ink whenever you fill it with water. It contains a tablet of ink concentrate, and each filling with water dissolves only enough of the tablet to provide a proper ink supply. Result: You never run out of ink, wherever you are. The concentrate is said to last about 18 months and can then be replaced.
