Mayor Rash Says He Does Not Wish to Be Candidate For Re-election

3 Candidates File For 2 Council Posts

Mayor E. B. Rash, in a statement to The Harrington Journal Monday, said he "does not wish to be a candidate for re-election." A mayor and two councilmen will be elected in the municipal election Jan. 13.

A meeting of the electors of Harrington will be held Friday evening, Jan. 9, at 7:30 o'clock for the nomination at large of a mayor for a two-year term, a Councilman from the Third Ward, and one from the First Ward.

J. Edward Taylor, councilman from the Third Ward, has filed for re-election, while Walter Mesick and Wilson Holden have filed for councilman in the First Ward, a post now filled by George Vapaa.

Councilmen are nominated by petition, with ten or more signers, at the citizens meeting. An unlimited number may be nominated from the floor for mayor.

Mayor Rash's statement added he would lend wholesome support to any administration elected and that he observed that the kindness manifested by the people of Harrington had been wonderful.

He said he had served for three years as mayor and he hoped that on some occasions he had done some good and that on others he may have averted errors, the statement read.

"But for any good he had done and, far much more, if he could have accomplished more, he has found abundant reward in the evidence of respect, confidence, and kindness already received from the people of Harrington," the statement concluded.

Corporal Bradley Now In Japan

Youth Center Holds Party

The Youth Center added to the many activities of the holiday season with a Christmas party Saturday, Dec. 20. About 35 of the younger set attended and a few lucky ones had nice prizes to take home.

Those helping to make this possible were: Cahall's Gas Service Co., Stlayton Jewelers, Harry Greenberg, Warrington's Furniture Co., Fisher's Appliances, Inc., National 5 & 10, Silco Cut Price Stores, Inc., and Peck Bros.

The Huber Baking Co. (Sunbeam Bread) gave soft drinks and cakes for the party.

A patrol of local boy scouts, aided by Ronny Moore, did a very good job of decorating the Youth Center—the materials being given by the Pennsylvania Railroad. Some of the railroad men are also giving their time in making repairs and a few changes.

It is planned to have the center open until after midnight on Wednesday, Dec. 31, so make plans to be with your friends to welcome in the New Year.

A telephone has been installed for the convenience of parents to contact the Youth Center. The number is Harrington 8456.

Mr. and Mrs. Ellwood Gruwell and family are spending a few days in Annapolis, Md., where Miss Martha Gruwell is to be in her cousin's wedding Saturday.

MASTER, WHERE SHALL I WORK TODAY?

(Contributed by our Hobbs Correspondent)

Master, where shall I work today? And my love flowed warm and free,
And He pointed out a tiny plot,
And he said: "Tend that for me.
But I answered quickly, "Oh, no, not there!
Not anyone could see;
No matter how well my task was done—
Not that little place for me!
And His voice, when He spoke,
It was not stern,
But he answered me so shy:
"Disciple, search that heart of thine—
Are you working for them or me?
Nazareth was just a little place—
And so was Galilee."
—Author Unknown.

In training at the Kent & Sussex Fairgrounds are four trotters and pacers which cost their owners a total of over $55,000 when purchased at the Harrisburg sale of harness horses in November.

Top price in the lot was $22,500, paid by Howard Lyons for Stonewall Hanover, a two-year-old trotter from Hanover Shoe Farms. Sired by Dean Hanover out of Sweetmie, the juvenile will race the last part of next year in stake races, Lyons said. The bay stallion is staked in the Hambletonian and at Lexington and will be staked in lots of other events. Lyons will train the promising youngster and Paul Vinyard will drive him.

Lyons selected the line-gaited horse from 100 head at Hanover Shoe Farms before the sale. "I thought he would bring $5000 or $6000 at the sale," explained Lyons.

Lyons and Vinyard teamed up to purchase Knight Express, by Knight Dream out of Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Griffith's Helena, who died recently. The pacer cost $8000.

In the stable of Johnnie Amato is Billy's Lady, a pacer, now a two-year-old, that cost her owner, Shriner Manufacturing Company, of Taneytown, Md., $17,000 at the Harrisburg Sale. The filly, consigned by R. T. Morrison, Anderson, Ind., has a mark of 2:03.4, and is by True Chief, 1:59.3, out of Billy Girl by Billy Direct. She will race in stake events.

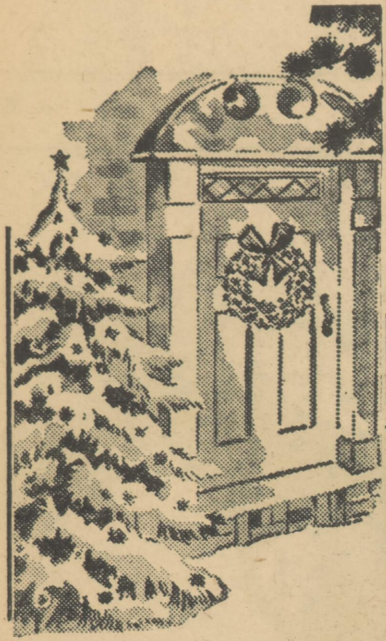

In the same stable is another Shriner purchase, Ichabod Crain, now three, a stallion with a mark of 2:04.1 as a two-year-old. The first foal of Miss Jeanne Crain, by True Chief, was consigned by Craig's Cimaron Ranch, Lemoore, Calif., to the Harrisburg Sale where he brought $7500. The pacer, which took its record in the $19,500 Little Pat Stake at will participate in stake races.

Two other harness horses, purchased at Harrisburg, in the Amato stable, are G. Imour Hanover and Domino. The first, a two-year-old stallion by Hoot Mon, 2:00, was sold at the sale by H. R. Warren & Son, East Moline, Ill., to Sidney M. Wilson, Media, Pa., for $3,200. Amato will race the trotter on the Delaware and Maryland circuit.

Domino is a yearling pacer out of Judkins by Dominion Grattan, 1:59. She was sold at the Harrisburg sale by Bonnie Brae Farms, Carl Batter, Washington, D. C. She is staked in ten events.

Another Christmas is within our horizon and may I ask, "Is it just a day to give and get?"

The wise men at the time of Christ's birth took presents to Him, but not with the intention to carry any home.

Have we forgotten or do we think of Christmas in its real meaning or do we just take it for another day? I am sure not all of us thank the one who gives us the largest or costliest gift.

To my mind a pleasant smile given freely, is the most acceptable of slightly gifts.

To make your Christmas happier and make someone else happy, why not everybody that can, give just one gift to someone other than your family and friends? You might give it to somebody who really needs to be remembered.

This has been a splendid year and only by your interest and dealing with us. The most important element in any business is the sale. For this reason, and many others that come out of our day-to-day dealings, we would like to thank you, and wish you a very merry Christmas.

Dr. Tarumianz, head of the State Hospital at Farnhurst, urges a heavy additional tax on liquor to defray additional expenses at the hospital. What's Doctor "I" trying to do—drive all the liquor dealers crazy?

Thieves robbed a cigarette machine of a considerable amount of money at Dover one night recently. While we do not condone thievery in any form, still turn about is fair play.

In the Journal's school letter last week it was mentioned that the second graders had a perfect attendance record for the month of December, up to that date. Nothing in childhood has changed since Eugene Field wrote the poem "Jest Before Christmas, I'm Good as I Can Be."

ANOTHER CHRISTMAS

Even before October's painted days were on the wane, we began to dream of Christmas, and when November's rains began to fall and the trees were stripped of their golden glory of foliage, we could not believe that "the melancholy days" had come—for soon the clouds would presage snow and over the stainless mantle, hiding, and thus forgiving, all the desecrations of earth, would come Santa Claus!

The snowbirds began to group upon the ground in early December, feeding to guard against the hunger that might assail them when the grass seeds would be covered with snow. Then we began to count the days: "Only two weeks until Christmas—thirteen days—twelve days—eleven days—and then time seemed interminable—the days were so long, so dragging—why didn't they get up and hustle?"

And then—only four days until Christmas! ONLY four days? It seemed an eternity away. With other children, we were sitting on a log down by the "big road," and as we talked of Christmas, childish eyes grew bigger and rounder. We had been good children, especially for the past few weeks—surely the good Saint Nick would not forget us! What would he bring us this time?

We knew, from our brief experience, a few of the little treasures we would have at home—such things as taffy, molasses candy, popcorn balls, nuts, etc. These were home-produced, and we could have them any time, but we would have a bountiful supply at Christmas, and we knew there would come, from some far-off clime, such treasures as oranges and coconuts—Christmas was the only time we ever saw them in our little country town.

All of us attended church services the Sunday before Christmas and we heard them tell us about the Three Wise Men, of the Star of Bethlehem, of the Babe in the Manger. It was natural for us to associate Santa Claus with Christ—and maybe we, as little children, were closer to the truth than we have been since—for in bringing cheer—and happiness—and comfort—and faith into this tragic world, they are strangely alike.

Stockings would be hanging around the fireplace on Christmas Eve, and the smaller children even had two stockings hanging there for their little dog—but the one outstanding event of this sacred season of the year was the Christmas tree. We didn't have small Christmas trees in every home, as they have them today, but one big, glorious Christmas tree for the whole town. It was a great, fragrant cedar, in the county courthouse, so tall that the branches spread out against the high ceiling of the room. Garlanded with treasures, that Christmas tree was the most beautiful sight in all the world. Being children, and hungry for recognition, you may imagine the thrill that came to us when Santa called our names, when we held up our hands, and through the packed room came one of Santa's assistants to deliver the presents to us.

We had no rich people in our town, and very few were poor. We do not recall that in this little town there was any organization formed to see that the children of the poorer families were remembered on Christmas. Such an organization was unnecessary—we were neighbors. There were many warm-hearted people in that town and many, without the knowledge of the others, made it his or her duty to see that the unfortunate ones were not neglected—and as a result the children of the poorer families received many more gifts from the tree than the children of the more prosperous. They left for home that night, hugging their treasured gifts to their breasts—the stars still in their eyes, perhaps the reflection of the one great star of two thousand years ago—the Star of Bethlehem!

Since childhood's days are the only days of unalloyed happiness we are to know here below, let no child be without a bright memory of Christmas. Perhaps only in Gethsemane, has there been in this world of too much bitterness anything as bitter as an forgotten child at Christmas. Poor, disappointed, broken-hearted little children—we can hear their bitter sobs echoing down the years—and often re-echoing in a prison cell.

HORROR STORIES ON CHRISTMAS DAY

(Editor's note: This editorial originally appeared in this paper the week after Christmas, 1949. The Publishers Auxiliary, which goes into practically every newspaper office in America, endorsed the editorial and published it just before Christmas the following year, and urged other papers to endorse the idea.)

Headlines in the Philadelphia Inquirer Christmas morning, 1949: "Father of 4 is Killed by Hit-Run Auto," "Youth Admits Admits Shooting Crying Child in Holdup," "Boy Is Crushed to Death Under Father's Truck," "Girl, 17, Drowns as Car Overtakes," "Battling Brothers Injure 2 Police," "Silent Thief Gets Nurse's Purse," "Fugitive Seized in Strangle Case," "Aged Man Found Beaten in Street," "Girl, 16, Near Death After Home Attack."

Many other crimes were listed, but these are enough to illustrate our point. The Philadelphia Inquirer is a pretty conservative paper, not given to stressing the happenings of the underworld. These stories are the result of routine reporting, and we believe any paper published in a large city anywhere in America recorded a similar list of crimes on that day.

Little children read or hear these stories. What must they think—murder, rapine, pillage on the anniversary of the Christ? "Peace on Earth, Good Will To

How good it is to hear the refrains of the beloved Christmas hymns, coming to us as gentle and soothing echoes of heaven to our souls. They cause our hearts to throb in accord with the universal joy of all good people everywhere. It is with this feeling of rejoicing and good will that we offer you our best Holiday wishes. May your Christmas celebration be one that will be long remembered for its happiness and good cheer... and may the New Year bring to you peace and contentment.

ward Men" must sound like hollow mockery to them.

We suggest that on Christmas Day you omit all mention of crimes. You will find enough wholesome, cheering, faith-restoring copy to fill your biggest edition.

There's the story of the dog, Rex, at a tiny town in Tennessee. For years and years Rex had met the fast train daily and picked up and delivered to his master, the newsdealer of the town, the bundle of newspapers thrown from the train as it screamed by. On Christmas Day, 1948, for the first time in history, this fast train came to a screeching stop at the little town and from the train came the conductor, the engineer, the hostess, with a huge beef bone—lots of meat on it—wrapped with Christmas-decorated paper—and presented it to Rex! The train wailed away through the hills, but a dog with wistful eyes followed its course, and millions of people were happier when they read the story.

Remember the painters in New Jersey, the entire membership of a union of painters, who rushed in and in one day painted the residence, the outbuildings and the fences of an ailing G. I.

A home was destroyed by fire in New Castle, Delaware, and a family was left destitute. A service club started the ball rolling and funds were subscribed to build a home.

For six years three little girls had waded at fast freight train No. 81 of the Illinois Central as it thundered by Dongola, Ill. and at night they waded with flashlights. When trainmen observed that the flashlights were growing dim, they dropped new batteries by the track on the next trip. On December 21, the fast train stopped 20 minutes at Dongola, and the conductor and the engineer walked across the field to the farm home with many presents for the little girls.

Then there is Herbert Sutton. This little citizen of Boys Town, Neb., bet 38 candy bars that North Carolina would beat Notre Dame in their annual football game. The Pi Kappa Alpha fraternity of the University of North Carolina heard of this. 38 candy bars were returned to Herbert and the fraternity voted to finance the trip for the little boy to see North Carolina play Rice Institute at Dallas on January 2.

A little boy in Ohio sold his pet pony to buy a marker for his mother's grave. As soon as this was known, citizens bought the pony from the new owner and returned it to its adoring master—and presented the little boy with a purse of $300.

Let's not forget the farmers of the little community in the Middle West. They came from far and near with tractors—planted, cared for and harvested the crops of an ailing neighbor.

Can we remember the members of a service club in the Northwest? They were building a home for a widow with several small children, across the street from a church. They worked even on Sunday, but knocked off for an hour or two, not wishing to disturb the services. The minister came out—the salt of the earth, and idozed at that—for he had PRACTICAL religion! "Gentlemen," he said, "do not stop your work on account of the services. I am in there merely TALKING about the Lord's work—you are really DOING His work!"

How did we learn about these illustrations of man's humanity to man? By reading these same daily papers.

We hope the publishers of America will omit the mention of tragedy on each Christmas Day—just one day of 365—get out a Murder Special the next day if you must—but keep this one day clean, and we can wake up to believe that we live in a clean, wholesome world, just as we, too, believed when we were children—and that the Star of Bethlehem, too long obscured, still shines in the sky.

UREA IN CATTLE FEED NOT NECESSARY SAYS UNIVERSITY

Using urea in cattle feed supplements, isn't necessary for good performance, and it isn't a magic substance. It has been proven all right to use for beef cattle, but it isn't considered too good for dairy cattle yet, says Dr. Ernest F. Waller, chairman of the University of Delaware animal industry department.

Urea is a cheap source of nitrogen, says Dr. Waller. The benefit of this nitrogen depends on microscopic organisms (bacteria) in the paunch of the ruminants, such as cattle and sheep. These bacteria change the nitrogen in urea to a protein which the animal can use. Non-ruminants, such as hogs and poultry, cannot use urea in that way.

Urea does contain about 6 to 7 times as much potential nitrogen as cottonseed meal, but nothing else of value to the animal, Dr. Waller points out. Other natural protein sources are also good sources of other nutrients. For that reason, you have to add 6 to 7 pounds of corn to 1 pound of urea to make the feeding value equal to the same amount of cottonseed meal.

Urea can also be unpalatable and poisonous when fed in large amounts. It must always be thoroughly mixed and in correct amounts. Another disadvantage of urea is that it is not available to farmers. It can be purchased only by manufacturers for use in mixed feeds at the present time.

STATE DHIA RECORDS TOP ALL PREVIOUS YEARS

George Robbins, Milford, tops state average with 13,751 pounds of milk, 554 of fat.

Every record that could possibly be topped by Delaware dairymen enrolled in the Dairy Herd Improvement Association.

The 96 herds in the DHIA program made the highest state production average in the history of Delaware DHIA work. The record for 1952 is 2,324 cows producing an average of 8,895 pounds of milk and a 367 pound fat average. This is also the first year that the state average has exceeded the national DHIA average, comments Delmar H. Young, dairy specialist of the Delaware Agricultural Extension Service.

George Robbins, Milford, had the top herd. His 15 registered and grade Holsteins average 13,751 pounds of milk and 554 pounds of fat. In order, the rest of the top twelve herds are: Douglas Bennington, Denton, Md.; Tull Brothers, Seaford; B. B. Brinsfield & Sons, Vienna, Md.; Maurice Adams, Harrington; Albert Bryant, Warwick, Md.; Samuel Beachy, Dover; W. Lewis Phipps, Wilmington; Albert Barthelme, Kenton; Merrill Jones, Felton; Edward Harcum, Houston; Robert Schreiner, Kenton. All twelve herds averaged more than 450 pounds of fat. The top five average over 500 pounds of fat. Only three herds exceeded 500 last year, and only one on any previous year.

Kent county herds lead the state in average production, followed by upper New Castle county, Sussex county, and lower New Castle county, respectively. Young said there was very little actual difference between the counties, indicating a leveling off to a point where the quality of dairy farming is about the same throughout the state.

The number of honor roll herds also shows a new state record. New Castle had 25 honor herds, Sussex had 19, and Kent had 18—a state total of 62.

RECORDS HELP FAMILIES LIVE WITHIN MEANS

Managing the home is difficult these days of higher prices and lower money value, says Miss Louise R. Whitcomb, home management specialist of the Delaware Agricultural Extension Service.

Miss Whitcomb emphasizes that keeping a home financial record is one way of making the most of dollars and putting them to their best use.

"Not that putting down figures in a little book can work miracles," she says, "but the study of these figures can show where a family has overspent or discovered some of the spending leaks."

Family account books that are easy to keep are available from all County Extension offices, in Newark, Dover, and Georgetown. The books can be had by writing or calling, for a small amount that covers the cost of printing and handling.

Keeping family records is a family affair, too, Miss Whitcomb points out. There is no better training for children than to let them in on family financial secrets. This makes for better understanding when money requests have to be refused. It means fairer division of money—between necessary items, investments, and recreation, for instance. Talking financial plans over also helps families reach their goals more quickly. Those goals might be farm ownership, a college education through savings or investments, or a family vacation trip.

"It isn't the amount of money as much as the way the money is managed, that helps families get ahead," Miss Whitcomb concludes.

KEEP PULLETS LAYING, GOOD MANAGEMENT, STOCK

High quality stock, and fundamental good poultry management are the bases of keeping pullet production high.

"There is little or nothing revolutionary and new in maintaining pullet production, just the ordinary, fundamental things that should be done as good poultry keepers, and high quality laying stock," advises J. Frank Gordy, poultry specialist of the Delaware Agricultural Extension Service.

Unless you have a flock of topnotch pullets, you don't have any right to expect top production, Gordy points out. If you are not pleased with your present train, now is the time to look around for an improved source of chicks for next year.

Assume you have a flock of good pullets, here's what can be done to get the best possible production from them:

1. Confine them to the laying house.
2. Provide dry, well-ventilated, enough space per bird, enough laying nests, and enough water.
3. Cull constantly.
4. Use lights.

The new Purina Body & Egg Plan proved to a lot of poultrymen last year that they could lower the cost of producing eggs by keeping up body condition. They fed Purina Layena or Purina Lay Chow and scratch grain. Then, once a day, they fed just 6 lbs. per 100 pullets of Purina Booster Checkers. ## Delaware Farm Income Made Record in 1951

By Charles F. Mundy, Jr.
Secretary of State Board of Agriculture

The Delaware farm income for 1951 is the highest on record with gross cash receipts of $112,958,000.00. This figure gave Delaware a rating of fourth in the national standings of states with the highest cash income per farm. California, Arizona and Wyoming ranked first, second and third respectively.

There was a decline of over 1500 farms in Delaware as a comparison of the 1940 and 1950 census figures will show. In 1940 there were 9000 farms in Delaware while the 1950 total was 7443 farms. This high agricultural income was accomplished by a combination of hard work and know how of Delaware farmers on fewer farms.

The Board likes to feel it gave assistance to Delaware farmers in earning this record income by providing technical assistance and advice in marketing farm products, controlling and eradicating contagious diseases of livestock, plants and poultry; enforcing laws and regulations on commercial feeds, seeds and fertilizers.

The State Board of Agriculture is proud of the accomplishments made by various departments during the past year. There were new developments to expand the services in the Poultry Disease, Mastitis and State Laboratories.

A branch laboratory was established at the Georgetown Agricultural Sub-station to better serve the needs of the large Delaware Broiler Industry. Previous to the establishment of a laboratory here, a field pathologist was assigned to Sussex County to help broiler growers with Poultry disease problems. Serious outbreaks of air-sac infection in broiler flocks last fall gave rise to a conference at which the Board of Agriculture, Delaware Poultry Commission and Delaware Agricultural Extension Service discussed means of controlling this disease.

A laboratory fully equipped and staffed with a Veterinarian in the center of the broiler growing district was recommended. The budget of the State Board of Agriculture being insufficient to undertake the construction of a laboratory, the State Extension Service donated space at their Georgetown Sub-station. The Poultry Commission allocated funds for defraying costs of equipment and the Pathologist of the Board of Agriculture was placed in charge to render the diagnostic service.

This fully equipped Branch laboratory has enabled the Board of Agriculture to better combat the disease problems associated with the Delaware broiler industry. This laboratory is close to the disease problems as they arise and broiler growers can take their birds for a quick diagnosis before a disease has gained serious inroads in the flock.

The Board is grateful to the Poultry Commission and Agricultural Extension Service for their splendid co-operation and assistance in making possible this branch laboratory. It is an example of the splendid co-operation between these State agricultural agencies in meeting such problems.

The establishment of a new virology section in the Poultry Disease Laboratory at Dover has expanded the scope of the diagnostic service and made it more beneficial to Delaware Poultrymen. A virologist was employed with the assistance of the Delaware Poultry Commission which agency agreed to pay his salary until July 1, 1953 when he would be paid from the regular budget of the State Board of Agriculture. The Board was aware of the need for virus isolation work in our Poultry Laboratory upon the recommendation of the Head Poultry Pathologist, H. R. Baker.

Many disease cases brought to the Dover Laboratory for diagnosis, in the past, were suspected of virus infection but actual confirmation was impossible through lack of facilities and personnel trained in this work. Samples of diseased tissue had to be taken by our pathologist and sent to the virology laboratory at Beltsville, Maryland. This practice proved time consuming and costly to the Delaware Broiler Grower who was awaiting verification of the disease.

Since so many of the current poultry diseases are of virus origin, the Board can provide through its new virology laboratory, a most helpful supplemental service to the regular Poultry Disease Diagnostic work.

The renovations to our State Laboratory have been completed and the effects of this change are recognized in an increased volume of analytical work. The regulations of the State Laboratory pertaining to guaranteed analysis of feeds, fertilizers and of germination in seeds have been enforced during the past year when necessary. These regulations keep misrepresented feeds, fertilizers and seeds from being sold in Delaware.

At the request of Delaware Hatcherymen and Turkey Breeders, the National Turkey Improvement Plan was approved by the State Board of Agriculture during 1951, to be administered in conjunction with the National Poultry Improvement Plan. Considerable interest has been displayed in producing turkey broilers.

The marketing of dressed poultry from Delaware has created a problem for some time. The efforts of our Poultry Division, Bureau of Markets, to establish a sanitary inspection and grading program among Delaware Poultry Processors, have not been too successful. A uniform pack, processed under sanitary inspection, could be marketed at higher prices and through more market outlets. It is felt, however, that the processors are not yet ready to accept this program.

The Federal grading and inspection service in fresh fruits and vegetables, provided through the Bureau of Markets, has been widely accepted by Delaware farmers. This marketing service has been expanded during 1951, and prospects indicate a continuation of the demand for next year.

The Milk Dealer Bonding Act has been in effect during the past year and Delaware dairymen are now enjoying a measure of financial protection. The Board is proud of the fact that all but a few dealers covered by the law, have complied.

The survey of Delaware dairy farms was continued during the past year with the assistance of State and Federal RMA Funds.

The decline in dairy farms in the state is becoming increasingly apparent. The price of milk is not sufficient for dairy farmers to meet high labor and feed costs. More farmers are changing to other types of enterprises or are selling to real estate firms. The Board has favored an increase in milk prices, for the farmer, to prevent this continued decline.

In 1951, the Mastitis Diagnostic Laboratory was incorporated as a division of the Livestock Sanitation Department and Edward S. Biddle, head of the Mastitis Laboratory was promoted by the Board to the position of Associate Director of Livestock Sanitation. This organizational change, the Board feels, will increase the effectiveness of both departments by bringing their work into closer harmony.

The Mastitis Laboratory was organized to help our dairy farmers detect and control mastitis in their herds. The disease is detected by an analysis of milk samples taken from cows. The extent of the work in this division since its establishment in 1944 was somewhat limited through the lack of field personnel and facilities to do sampling work. Accordingly, by an Act of the 1951 Legislature, sufficient funds were provided to employ a full time field worker and purchase equipment to carry on a larger volume of work.

Changes in personnel of some of our divisions occurred during the past year. J. Harold Schabinger of Felton was appointed Director of the Bureau of Markets on May 1st to fill the vacancy created by the resignation of William G. Bush. Mr. Schabinger is a well known Kent County farmer and is qualified for this position.

He was later placed in charge of the Poultry Branch Laboratory at the Georgetown Sub-Station, and has done a fine job in this capacity.

By Mrs. Dave (Pat) Smith

To start may I say, Merry Christmas to each and every one. And a very happy New Year.

I don't have too much news for our Christmas issue as every one is dashing around doing their Christmas buying. Everywhere I have been there seems to be plenty of Christmas buying going on.

Had coffee with Betty Lee Myer, over to her new trailer, and is it a honey. Caught her in the act of helping her mother to decorate her house. Course I had to stop and chat, and Betty tells me that anyone that would like to send Mr. and Mrs. George Dumont a Christmas card, here is the address: 10 Lake St., Persque Isle, Maine.

You know George you remember had Reese Harrington's horses till he was taken ill. At this writing he is some better. But he is not at his best.

Mrs. Callaway tells me that her grandson has a new pony which of all things he has named Smokey. He is just the type to really enjoy a pony.

Mable Walters dashing into Collin's Men's Shop. Did Dr. Chamberlin know you sneaked out to buy those Christmas gifts? All in fun, Mable.

Mr. Lyons really pleased with his high priced colt. Trots every step of the way. Certainly don't do anything wrong.

And speaking of being busy, Harry Adams is about the busiest guy you have ever seen. Emile, you should be proud of your big brother. He really takes an interest in your stable. And what a nice looking outfit you have.

Mickey and Jim Workman will spend Christmas week with Mickey's family in Clarksburg, W. Va.

Mrs. Jim Hayes and Mr. and Mrs. Pat Hubbard spent the weekend in Baltimore. And speaking of Mrs. Hays, she was surprised at her home in Baltimore with a stork shower last Wednesday.

The Browns have purchased the trailer that Betty and Ellis used to have and remodeled throughout. It looks like new now.

Ann and Curley Rothwell will spend the Christmas holidays in Buffalo, N. Y.

Mayor Rash chatting with everyone in the Acme store. Loads of fun with our Mayor. Always a cheery hello.

Thanks, Booty for the wreath for Smoky Joe's door. But the red ribbon was too much for him, so I had to put it on the office door.

Mrs. Paul Vinyard dashing around town with her hands full of Christmas cards.

Madalyn Tharp, who has the youngsters Hollywood Shop, loaded down with parcels. Were they gifts or parcels that were purchased you were mailing?

Ben Wilson and Sam Kennedy spent Sunday in Mt. Holly. They certainly did no bragging about the training track up there.

Reese tells me that Rosebud colt is coming along fine. The two are in the hands of Mr. Clukey for training. I'm going over to their farm after Christmas and get all the names of who Mr. Clukey has in training. He certainly has a very nice stock farm.

Billy Myer can you keep your mind on your horses, since you have had that new addition to your family? Congratulations to you and Lillian.

George Tatman and daughter shopping for Christmas. Clara is sure getting to be a big girl.

Wonder how many will ride down to Millsboro to see the Christmas display that is known for many miles around? I think there was quite a writeup in the Baltimore American last winter. Dave and I are going down on Christmas Eve—if I don't end up in Norfolk.

You should go over to Sam Shert's store. Gosh is everyone there full of the Christmas spirit. (And I don't mean that kind you drink, either. All in fun, Sam! Dave has nicknamed Sam's cashier, Betty to Watchim's Betty, after the 2-year-old he has in the stable. She really can take a joke good. And anyway Betty has a good word for any one that walks in the door.

Les Simpson tells me that all his family will spend Christmas with him, including Roy, his groom. Says he will have turkey and all the fixin's. Les, you should let me carve the turkey. What a mess that would be.

Just came back from Felton and Mildred and Harold have purchased a number of presents for all the pets. (Plenty of dog and cat food).

Mr. Enslin dashing around to different stables. However, he didn't stop at our stable. Guess he is looking over his horses for the spring.

Had the pleasure of meeting our clerk of the course, Earl Sylvester. As usual Mrs. Thomas stopped everything she was doing to chat. What a gal!

Mr. Holloway all smiles since he has the spacious grounds all topped with gravel. And we all really appreciate it too. Mr. Holloway all the horsemen and their wives wish you and Virginia a Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year.

And that goes for all the readers of the Harrington Journal.

A Merry Christmas to Every one.

Greenwood

The Seaford Symphonic Choir presented its annual Christmas concert at the Layton Theatre on Wednesday evening, Dec. 17, at 8:15. Quite a large number from here attended and enjoyed the program very much. The program is a well-rounded combination of great oratorical classics, traditional hymns, and familiar and unfamiliar carols from many lands. Soloists for the concert were Julia H. Wilson, director of the choir; Pauline Ellingsworth and Mary Coulter, sopranos; William James, baritone; Carol Beard, Jr., and Warren James, tenors.

A family reunion was held on Sunday in honor of Mr. and Mrs.

Willard Hatfield, of Greenwood, who celebrated their fiftieth wedding anniversary. They were married, Dec. 17, 1902, at the home of the bride's parents, near Greenwood, by the Rev. John L. Johnson. Mr. and Mrs. Hatfield have two sons, Wilson Carlisle, of Greenwood and Willard Palmer of Bear. They have one grandson and two granddaughters.

The Ever Welcome Class of Grace Methodist Church held its Christmas party at the home of Miss Ellene Mills, on Friday evening, Dec. 19. Mr. and Mrs. Byard Coulter, of Lewes, former member of the class, were invited guests. Mr. and Mrs. Coulter spent the night with Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Coulter. Little Susan, who has been with her grandparents for ten days returned home with her parents.

Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Uhler, Mr. and Mrs. M. T. Uhler were Sunday dinner guests of Mrs. Lewis Uhler's sister, at Drexel Hill, Pa.

Mrs. Annie Farrow was taken ill on Tuesday night. She is in Milford Memorial Hospital and is not improving.

The Willing Workers Church School Class held its annual Christmas party at the home of Mr. and Mrs. M. T. Uhler on Wednesday evening, December 10. Each member presented a gift to be exchanged among those present. Gifts were presented to the class teacher, Lewis Uhler, class president, Mrs. Walter Mills.

Tuberculosis doesn't stop this young patient from learning to read. When he's well again, he'll be able to go right back to his regular school class. And he knows that he will get well. Modern treatment of TB, the result of years of medical research, has cut deaths from the disease drastically. Proceeds from the Christmas Seal Sale now being conducted by the TB associations throughout the United States are used for medical research and other projects to defeat TB so that some day youngsters like this one won't have to study in a hospital bed.
