

Three Deaths Result From Auto-Trailer Wreck At Milford Saturday

The third death resulting from a collision between a runaway trailer and an automobile last Saturday in Milford, occurred early Tuesday when 11-year-old Alberta Finney died in the Milford Memorial Hospital from injuries received in the crash.

Her death brought to five the number of persons killed on Delaware highways this year—three more than during the corresponding period last year.

Others killed in the Milford crash were Garfield A. Mosley, 67, of near Dover, who was killed instantly, and Alberta's sister, Geraldine Finney, 10, who died in the Milford hospital several hours after the crash.

Three other persons in Mosley's car are still in the hospital. They are Mrs. Lulu Mosley, wife of the driver, whose condition is "fair," and Larry Finney, 18-month-old brother of the two girls who were killed, and Dewey Price, 45, of Frederica, whose conditions are good.

The accident in which Mosley and the two Finney children were killed and the three other persons injured, occurred when the king pin connecting a tractor and trailer operated by Grover C. Donovan, 26, of RD 3, Milford, broke. The trailer ran free and into the car driven by Mosley. Donovan had been driving south and Mosley north, at the time of the freak accident.

The Finney girls were the foster children of Mr. Price and his wife, Maude, and were under the supervision of the State Department of Public Welfare. Mr. and Mrs. Price were friends of the Mosleys.

Mr. Mosley, minister of a Seventh Day Adventist Church near Milford, was driving Mr. Price and the Finney children home from the service. Mrs. Price had left for home in another automobile.

Brazilians Are Vigorous, Myer Tells Rotary

Of all the people of South America, the people of Brazil are the most vigorous, said Fred Myer, teacher of agriculture in the Harrington High School, at Tuesday evening's meeting of the Harrington Rotary Club. Mr. Myer, under the Point Four program, spent considerable time in Brazil as technician in the agricultural department.

Some of the citizens of Brazil hold down not only one job, but two jobs—and in addition spend hours studying books at night. Mr. Myer found most of them very cooperative, and appreciative of the work the United States is doing there.

Brazil's hugeness alone, combined with the industry of its people, marks it as one of the important nations of the future, and what its people think about us will be increasingly important. Enormous sections of the country have never been seen by white men, but men comparable to the pioneers in the early days of our own West, are pushing back the frontiers.

As a whole, the technicians sent to Brazil by the United States are efficient men, men of tact, and these create a splendid impression. Others, however, evidently someone's "cousins," were sent down although they had scant qualifications and practically no interest in their work.

Inasmuch as he is not a Rotarian, Mr. Myer did not look for Rotary emblems, but he remembered seeing one outside Sao Paulo. (Note: The 1947-48 Official Directory of Rotary International lists 181 Rotary Clubs in Brazil.)

Melvin Brobst was program chairman of the evening. Cliff Miller, Howard Williams and J. Harvey Burgess were appointed by President Gruwell as a committee to nominate officers for the coming Rotary year.

H. H. S. Five Splits Even

Harrington High stopped Caesar Rodney here last week, 39-38, with Harrington girls also racking up a victory by a one-point margin.

However, the local quintet dropped its second game to Bridgeville, Tuesday evening, 67-35, for Harrington's fourth setback in six games.

On the other hand, Wayne Creadick, downstate scoring leader, boosted his lead with 22 points as he paced Felton High to a 54-43 victory over Caesar Rodney's Riders at Felton. The win was Felton's sixth against three defeats. Caesar Rodney's record now reads 2-5.

W. D. Jolly Found Guilty Of Slaying Wife, Former Resident Near Burrsville

William David Jolly, 35-year-old father of seven children, was convicted of first degree murder in Superior Court Wednesday in the ice pick slaying of his wife, Hazel, 33, last October 4. The jury recommended mercy.

Mrs. Jolly before her marriage lived near Burrsville.

The jury of seven women and five men deliberated for two hours and fifteen minutes before reaching a decision. They went into the jury chambers at 3:35 p. m. and returned at 5:50 p. m.

The mercy recommendation gives the court the right to impose a sentence of life imprisonment. Without such recommendation, hanging would have been mandatory.

In his charge to the jury, Resident Judge Charles S. Richards told the members they had five possible verdicts they could reach: First degree murder; second degree murder; manslaughter, acquittal because of insanity, or acquittal.

Thus came to a close the three-day trial of the man who attempted to commit suicide by knifing himself after killing his wife.

No Motion for New Trial

There was no motion on the part of the defense for a new trial. Deputy Atty. Gen. Bove who heard the verdict, asked for a sentence, although he mentioned that the court would probably want time to study the jury's mercy recommendation. He was assured that the court wanted time for this study by Judge Richards.

Although the court may impose the sentence of life imprisonment, the judges are not obligated to accept the mercy recommendation. Sitting with Judge Richards during the trial were Judges Charles L. Terry, Jr., and Caleb R. Layton III. Judge Richards thanked the jury members for the patient and careful manner in which they listened "in this long and rather tedious case."

He also complimented court-appointed Attorney John M. Bader. "You have done your while duty and you have done it efficiently and carefully," said Judge Richards to the defense attorney.

Summation of the case to the jury was presented for the state by Chief Deputy Atty. Gen. Vincent A. Theisen and Mr. Bove. Mr. Bove sought to convince the jury there was no pathological intoxication on the part of the victim as claimed by the defense.

Mrs. Catherine M. Taylor

Mrs. Catherine M. Taylor, 89, of Harrington, wife of Charles E. Taylor, died Tuesday morning of a heart attack.

The daughter of the late Thomas and Elizabeth Bradley, Mrs. Taylor lived in this community most of her life. She was an active member of Trinity Methodist Church of Harrington, the W.S.C.S. Church of the church and taught a Sunday School class until her health failed.

Beside her husband she is survived by two sons, Clarence E. Taylor of Wilmington and C. Arthur Taylor of Harrington, a daughter, Dora Taylor, also of Harrington; five grandchildren, 12 great grandchildren and a great-grandson; also a sister, Mrs. Martha Hudson, of Harrington.

Funeral services were held at the Boyer Funeral Home yesterday, with Rev. Milton R. Elliott pastor of Trinity Methodist Church officiating.

Interment was in Hollywood Cemetery.

BISHOP FITZMAURICE VISITS HARRINGTON

During the past week the Most Rev. Edmond J. Fitzmaurice paid a short visit to Harrington. It was the first time he was here since the tract of land was bought at Dixon and Liberty Streets for the new St. Bernadotte's Church. The Most Reverend Bishop was very well pleased with the progress the men are making on the building. He has been very much interested in their work ever since hearing that the men of the parish were going to do the work themselves. While in Harrington the Bishop also visited the Temporary Chapel the Catholics are using at the present time.

Legion Quintet Wins Three To Hold Lead

The Harrington Legionnaires racked up three victories the past week, to lead the Eastern Shore League in basketball, with 12 wins against two losses. Wins were chalked up against Millsboro, Chincoteague and Dover, with a string of five victories snapped for the capital city aggregation.

Harrington defeated Millsboro at Millsboro Thurs., Jan. 22, 63-49. Chincoteague was defeated by Harrington at Salisbury, Sunday, 74-70.

It was the fourth meeting between Dover and Harrington here Tuesday night, with the series now even at two each. Dover is the only league team to defeat Harrington during the current campaign. There has never been more than four points margin in any game between the two.

With Ed Athey sparking a desperate last-minute rally, Dover nearly turned the trick again Tuesday night until goals by Harrington's Kirk Gallagher and Joe Griffith halted the stubborn Doverites. Athey was high scorer with 25 points, while Gallagher and Griffith combined to net 44 points for the winners.

The schedule calls for Harrington to play at Salisbury Sunday, with a return game here on Monday. Harrington plays Chincoteague at Laurel Wednesday and plays Laurel at Laurel the following night.

New Jet Fuel?

One of the least-known uses of boron compounds and minerals is in connection with jet aircraft engines. Boron powders have been studied by the national advisory committee for aeronautics as possible non-liquid jet fuel for several years. And boron is, of course, eyewash, being the basic element in boric acid.

TUT, TUT, TUT—GIL—AND THIRTY-FIVE YEARS OF TUTS!

In the advertising columns of today's State Register announcement by the new Wilmington Sunday Star states that newspaper "will continue as a Democratic paper." We are glad to welcome one more Delaware newspaper which believes in the Democratic philosophy of government. For many years the State Register had the distinction of being the only one devoted to that philosophy.—State Register, Laurel.

Gilbert Jones, one of our good friends, is the publisher of the State Register, and since he became its publisher some five or six years ago, it has borne the distinction of being a paper of integrity, of intelligence, and of courage—but, Gil, to many people it isn't considered a distinction to be publisher of a Democratic paper in Delaware; it isn't considered a distinction to be a Democrat—it's considered an extinction.

Further, Gil, the State Register never bore for one minute the distinction of being the only Democratic paper in Delaware—it has had the distinction for five or six years of being ONE of the TWO Democratic papers in Delaware.

Thirty-five years ago, a limping Lochinvar from out of the West, we bought The Harrington Journal from the late Frank T. Fleming. We knew that Delaware was a rock-ribbed Republican state—that is, that the Republicans had all the rocks—but in our initial issue we proclaimed: "We are a Democrat—and fond of huckleberry pie"—and, if we omit the huckleberry angle, it has been so declared in the N. W. Ayer Newspaper Annual for thirty-five years: "Journal, Harrington, Delaware; politics—Democratic."

When Mr. Jones bought the State Register and announced, forthright gentleman that he is, that his was a Democratic paper, we welcomed him to our hermitage. Since the Sunday Star was purchased by Alexis Bayard and E. M. Budner it has carried at its masthead the slogan "An Honest Newspaper"—so we do not think it necessary to welcome it into the fold—it's been here all the time.

MIKE AND WHITEY CAN TEACH US A LESSON

Mike, a big collie, has been the official mascot of the Journal office for about two years. Mike takes his duties seriously and spends most of the daylight under the apple tree near the office, greeting each passer-by with a smile and a wag of the tail.

Whitey, too, is a big dog, even bigger than Mike. He's been in Harrington several years and is a well-known man about town in dogdom circles. About a year ago he adopted a member of the Journal family as his master and since then he, too, has been staying around the Journal office. These dogs do not like each other, yet, despite the fact that they will lie for hours within a few feet of each other, there has been only one passage of words between them, right at their first meeting, when Whitey referred to Mike as a "furriner," and Mike responded by calling Whitey an "interloper."

There they lie, hour after hour, day after day, separated by only a few feet, yet completely ignoring each other. People laugh about this. One fellow says the two dogs tolerate each other, another refers to it as an armed truce, while still another calls it a cold war.

But the point is, they never have any trouble. When men and nations don't like each other, they begin to fight—and that settles nothing. Maybe some good day, when men and nations are wiser than they are now, they will learn what these two dogs already know—when you can't get along with others, just let them alone.

BEFORE AND AFTER "TAKING"

Governor Theodore McKelden of Maryland was one of the loudest shouters about the taxes the Democrats had "foisted" upon the country. Now Gov. McKelden asks the Maryland legislature for something like $234,000,000 to run the state. His is by far the biggest budget in the history of the once Free State. In addition, he says the real estate tax in Maryland may reach $11 by 1954. Maryland Democrats are fighting McKelden's tax plan as excessive.

Governor Fine of Pennsylvania was another who hit the Democrats as spenders. Now Fine is striving to add $157,000,000 NEW taxes to the Pennsylvania burden. When you're in, you're "fur;" when you're out, you're "ag'in."

WE LOSE A FRIEND

The late and great columnist, O. O. McIntyre, used to have one-word descriptions of people, and if we should attempt this method of describing A. O. H. Grier, who passed away last week, that one-word description would be "gentle." Other words come to mind, such as sincere, courteous, thoughtful, considerate.

We knew him almost 35 years, first as editor of the old Every Evening and later in the same capacity with the Journal-Every Evening. In all the years we never heard one word of criticism of Herman Grier. He, with Mrs. Grier used to attend some of our banquets in Harrington, and they had many friends here.

In at least one field, he stood unchallenged—his intimate knowledge—and probably of the entire state.

We regret very much to report Gove Donovan was taken to the hospital on Saturday morning and his condition is quite serious. On Sunday morning his wife, Ethel, suffered a stroke and was taken to the hospital. We trust their conditions rapidly improve and that they will be able to return to their home before long. The Donovans have the sympathy of the community for their burdens have been many and heavy to carry, but we know, if they will let him, God will take care of them.

WHEELER RADIO STORE NEWS

If we keep on installing aerials for televisions, you won't be able to count your neighbors who have them.

You know, I call them cobwebs, but today we are able to install a new type of aerial without so many cobwebs. In fact, no guys are necessary. The cost is about the same.

I know a lot of you have fussed and fussed and fussed about those guy wires. Either it makes your house look bad, or lots of time in the way one place or another. So now without so much confusion and with one regulation let us install one of the latest aerials out.

There is going to be a picture for a farm each week in our good old paper the Harrington Journal. I am wondering how many will be taken that don't have television! Count them up and ask them what kind of television they have. Two thirds of them will be Philco, and that is just a guess.

Why am I telling you this? Simply to tell you the most sought-after set today is Philco.

Don't just drop in the store and say I want a Philco television installed tomorrow, as nine times out of ten I couldn't give you the model you wanted. Of course we carry a large stock of television on hand, and our service is now down to a minimum and rarely you will have to wait over a day or so for service.

Televisions can be bought in the budget way and then you pay for it as you use it. Remember the payments come easy as you really get your money's worth.

I have often wondered how a refrigerator could be made to keep food any better or to look prettier, but I have to take my hat off to the prettiest and best refrigerators I have ever seen.

The 1953 models are here and gosh! what a refrigerator to behold! Philco, as you know, is known for quality and not just in this locality, but the world over.

I shipped one to my daughter when she was in Greece, and when they left, selling it was a very easy thing to do as you can buy parts for Philco's even in Greece!

You know, every house needs Westinghouse, and when you see their new line for 1953, you also will say I didn't really know I was so out of date.

In 1953 Philco is making an 18 cu. ft. freezer, and Westinghouse is also making an upright same type. Where is there a better combination?

You know, about two weeks ago, I was thrown out of my car and when I got up they missed me and said that I was up to the house nearby trying to sell them a freezer. I do think a lot of them but in this case it was false. How dry I am! How dry I am! Yes! that is exactly what Westinghouse dryers say when they are ready to be put away!

Folks, you know during the bad days we have been having, also cold, freezing your hands off, is almost a thing of the past with the kitchen today equipped with a Westinghouse dryer. You will place it as one of your most treasured appliances.

Every house needs Westinghouse. Again my prediction. A dryer will be in your home in a very short period of time. Why not now? Leave the clothes lines for the birds.

Bridgeville Man Killed in Wreck

A 21-year-old Bridgeville man was killed early Friday and his companion was injured when their car ran off the road and overturned near Denton.

Leroy R. LeKates, son of Mrs. Florence LeKates, of Delaware Avenue, Bridgeville, was a passenger in the car driven by Donald McCauley, 24, also of Delaware Avenue.

Maryland state police said the car was going toward Delaware on the Denton-Bridgeville road when it failed to make a turn.

LeKates was apparently thrown clear as the car overturned, but fell in the path of the vehicle which rolled on top of him, crushing him.

McCauley, who suffered minor injuries, was taken to the Easton Md., Hospital, where he was treated and held for observation.

The dead youth, who was unmarried and lived with his mother, was a 1951 graduate of Bridgeville High School, where he was active in athletics. He was employed by the H. P. Cannon Corporation, a Bridgeville canning firm.

BEEF CATTLE AND HOGS ON HIGH PRICED LAND

Can beef cattle and hogs pay their way on high priced land? There's no one set answer for every farmer, but Joseph M. Vial, extension specialist at the University of Maryland, is going to summarize the situation at the University of Delaware Farm and Home Week.

"First," says Vial, animal husbandry specialist, "we have to agree that high priced land is land priced high because it is known to produce a profit above operating costs, over a period of years. We're not talking about land next to a large city with high real estate value, or an old mansion on a river, or a piece of land overbuilt with buildings and equipment.

"Labor and feed make up at least 75 per cent of the costs connected with hogs and beef cattle, so we have to consider those first. We have to consider grazing potential, other possible enterprises for the land and the location, and volume of livestock possible. Because over the years, the profit in meat livestock is rather narrow, we have to think in terms of volume.

"And there is a difference between feeder cattle only, or establishing a breeding herd. Feeder cattle are a speculative business, but a breeding herd can be managed like an investment."

Vial will talk on the beef cattle and swine program Thursday, February 12. February 12. Other items that day are marketing tips for the livestock producer, by Kenneth Clark, Queenstown, Md., and a panel discussion on beef cattle feeding and management.

SPITTLEBUGS ARE CROP STEALERS

The yield of 36,000 acres of crop land in Delaware might well depend on the humble spittlebug. Those acres are those devoted to clover and alfalfa, crops that the spittlebug attacks. Such attacks reduce both yield and quality of hay, states Donald MacCreary, of the University of Delaware entomology department.

Farmers have realized in the past few years that the control of insects is often as important in getting a good yield, as is fertilization. Prof. MacCreary has been testing various materials for their effectiveness in controlling spittlebug in Delaware fields, and will give his information at Farm and Home Week at the University on Feb. 12.

In 1952 toxaphene, lindane, and methoxychlor were tested. All proved to be equally and highly effective against spittlebug. Yields for all treated plots, regardless of the insecticide, were higher than for untreated plots. Which insecticide the farmer chooses however, might depend on the season of the year, price, and equipment. For exact details, farmers are invited to attend Farm and Home Week at their University, Feb. 9-12. All programs will be in Agricultural Hall, starting at 10 a. m. daily.

LIMA BEAN VINES GOOD SILAGE?

There are a lot of lima bean vines available in Delaware and a lot of people have been wondering if they make good cattle feed as silage. But little is known about the actual food value of lima bean vine silage. Farmer opinion ranges from good to "of no value," says Dr. Clyde R. Richards, of the University of Delaware Agricultural Experiment Station.

Dr. Richards has been experimenting with lima bean vine silage by running feed trials which compare corn and lima bean silage. The first results of these trials will be announced at the University's Farm and Home Week, on Wednesday, February 11.

With figures on milk production, weight changes, and hay consumption, Dr. Richards will be able to give Delaware farmers and processors a more concrete idea on the food value of lima bean silage. The question is important because of the tremendous amount of vines available as a by-product of the processing industry.

Dr. Richards is an authority in the animal nutrition field. He investigated kinds of hay best for dairy calves, and compared field-cured, barn-cured and hay crop silage for dairy cows while at Cornell University. His advanced degree work was on the digestibility of forages. He also spent nine months in Greece as a lecturer in animal breeding and advisor to an artificial breeding program, before coming to Delaware.

POULTRY PROGRAM FEATURES DISEASE CONTROL, MANAGEMENT

Poultry programs at the University of Delaware Farm and Home Week range from growth stimulants to handling pre-packed chicken for the home economics audience. But the emphasis is on research in the fields of disease and management.

Monday, Feb. 9, is egg production day. Tuesday, Feb. 10, is broiler and turkey day.

Monday morning, T. D. Runnels of the Delaware staff, will talk on antibiotics for laying flocks. Feeding antibiotics to broilers has been proven valuable, but the effects on a laying flock have not been completely shown. The last three years, Prof. Runnels has been running experiments with aureomycin, terramycin, penicillin, and streptomycin. Some definite indications of how antibiotics effect egg production and hatchability have been shown so far, and Runnels will explain these.

Trying to produce top quality hatching eggs all year created a problem of small eggs from fall chicks. A. E. Tomhave, of the University, is conducting research on how artificial lights during the brooding period affect egg size. It is believed, says Tomhave, that one of the reasons for the large number of small eggs from out-of-season pullets is their tendency to reach sexual maturity earlier than spring-hatched pullets, a factor that is affected by light.

The research provided fall chicks with the same light as is naturally available to February or March hatched chicks.

In production so far, the lighted pullets produced 2.6 percent more of their eggs of hatchable size than did the unlighted birds. To find out more of the details of the experiment, and the results, come listen to Prof. Tomhave at 11:30 a. m., Feb. 9.

Monday afternoon, Dr. E. F. Waller discusses blue comb disease. Blue comb is important because it affects pullets just coming into production. Any mortality at this time is a complete loss, and it is usually too late to start producing replacement pullets for the flock. Dr. Waller will summarize information available on blue comb, and explain how the disease affects birds. This should help poultrymen understand what poultry specialists and veterinarians attempt to do with the various treatments that are recommended.

Other items on the egg production program are the relative cost of producing hatching eggs and market eggs, better care of eggs, and the outlook for egg production.

Turning to broilers and turkeys, the February 10th programs start at 10 a. m. with "How Floor Space Needs Affects Profits." Next, David W. Francis, research assistant at the Georgetown Substation, will summarize the results of the continuous heating systems studies at the Substation. This report will be the first on a flock of chickens brooded under a Shendoah hot water brooder heated by a soft coal stoker, and a new type of hot water brooder, oil fired, that incorporates a fin-type pipe used in heating dwellings and factories. These systems will be compared to the coal brooders now widely used in the industry.

Another report on new methods will be made by Karl C. Seeger, on vaccination against New Castle by the spray method. Seeger, an associate research professor at the Georgetown Substation, feels that spray vaccination has many advantages if it can be successfully applied. There would be a tremendous saving in labor and time. Spray vaccination as it appears today may be the next advanced step in the improvements that have marked the attack on New Castle. But Seeger cautions against turning the method loose without a thorough understanding of the pitfalls. To hear Seeger's report on large-scale experiments on spray vaccination, their advantages and disadvantages, come to Farm and Home Week, Feb. 10, at 11 a. m.

Still along the disease line, Dr. M. S. Cover, associate research professor, will discuss chronic respiratory diseases. Dr. Cover is responsible for carrying out much of Delaware's chronic respiratory research, and for coordinating it with that of other states. To help create a thorough understanding of the disease and the present situation, Dr. Cover will include the history of the disease, symptoms, cause and prevalence, and Delaware's part in the U. S. Department of Agriculture plan of study and research.

Other topics on the broiler and turkey program are the place of the small white turkey in Delaware, outlook for 1953, and growth stimulants in broiler feeds.

REESE THEATRE TO HAVE CYCGLORAMA

Giant RCA Synchro-Screen Being Installed.

The Reese-Rialto-Keith Co. states that contracts were signed three weeks ago, for the installation of Cycglorama, combined with presentation on the new Giant R C A SYNCHRO-SCREEN at the Reese Theatre, located at Harrington.

Two methods, now in use, in an effort to achieve the Third Dimension effect, use individual glasses, either red or green, or the later type of polaroid. This method is practically the same as presented by Metro, eighteen years ago, by way of one reel short subjects. Engineers deny that the above methods are the answer to Third Dimension.

CYCGLORAMA is the first step in creating the illusion of depth, and the new RCA SYNCHRO-SCREEN has been chosen to present natural vision, rather than the special individual glasses to each patron.

The optical impression with Cycglorama is that of viewing a "live" scene. When color pictures are shown on the Synchro-Screen, reflected hues appear on the wings and panels. This imparts to the observer a new and dramatic sense of realism.

Engineers are working night and day testing this unusual and new theatrical presentation and big news is sure to come from the Reese Theatre.

For Better Taste

Certain foods taste better and keep better in a can that's coated inside with enamel.

Tibetan Evolution

Tibetans anticipated Darwin by long ago claiming descent from a monkey. This legendary forebear, say Tibetan chronicles, was actually an incarnation of the Compassionate Spirit. He fed his six offspring on sacred grain, with the result that gradually their tails became shorter and they turned into men—the first Tibetans.

Feet Facts

A baby boy's foot averages 3.2 inches long, a baby girl's 3.1.

Sulky Slants

By Mrs. Dave (Pat) Smith

Seems as tho we can't get in too many full weeks anymore without rain. But I guess this is one time of the year for bad weather.

Roland and Rose Herrington have taken on a new groom from Buffalo. Roland says that all his horses are doing very nicely. Even Pete, the pooch, is hitting on all fours. What a spoiled log.

Tom Eldridge tells me he is more than pleased with his horses since he turned them out while he was down home in Alabama. Training better than he ever did before. There is loads of fun with ole Tom around he track.

That sure was a good cup of coffee, Pop Heller. Course ole Tom made it for me while I was waiting for a long distance call in the club house.

Ellis, I ask a silly question and I get a silly answer. I asked whose barn is this? What led I get? John Brown's Mabe it was. I don't know. You were not around tho at the time.

Bobby Hobbs says his new colt is coming along swell. Also says that all of Les Simpson's young charges are responding to their lessons. Wonderful. Course old Shorty thinks they are all champs right now. Some Shorty!

Mr. Dupee says he can't complain, as all his horses are doing ok with weather conditions as they have been.

Jack Walters and his good groom (Friday) Alex working very hard. And the looks of things they will be ready.

And speaking of looks, if that means anything, take a gander at the Bowers Stable and the horses. The whole outfit is a picture. I love to go in there as she will tell you about each one and even bring them out so you can see them.

Then take Mrs. Stokley, she will stop everything and tell you anything you want to know. Never too busy to stop and chat. Oh, yes, their cat that took a few days off to look Harrington over is back safe and sound. And glad at that.

But this is what makes our track so nice and friendly. And we are very proud it has that name all over. From trainers, owners, and grooms.

Course the trainers are all keyed up and you might get any kind of an answer from them. But you don't they will stop and give you any information they can to help.

Polly I hear you sneaked off again for those chickens and dumplings. You better save some next time for me.

Of all things Harold and Mildred Cain have named the new calf Dave. Now I ask you is that good or bad? A little white faced bull calf, too.

Charley Carter strutting around so I take it from that all his stock is well on their way to race somewhere this spring.

Here is a good little one, little Jimmy Hays that has been waiting so long for the new arrival, and even bought boxing gloves for same, now has to change them for a doll. Mrs. Hays presented him with another girl. Better luck next time Jimmy. This now makes three girls for them. New baby daughter and mother are coming along fine. There is not a nicer fellow anywhere than Jimmy. Dave says he's the best neighbor we ever had.

Now for me. I bought a chicken, it gets killed, Joe would not eat, someone dropped another kitten, I gave it away, and the same evening my little Pekinese dog either had a stroke or fell off chair right at evening meal time, so we had to rush her to the vets in Seaford. Had her xrayed, found no broken bones thank goodness. Now this all happened in about three hours. What a night!

But speaking of the animal hospital in Seaford, Dr. Manogues has the most modern animal clinic that you will find anywhere. Really a wonderful place. And if anyone should have to take a pet there, I am sure you will find it has one of the kindest doctors anywhere. His wife told us they will only take in so many so that they can give them personal attention and call each doggie patient by their names. Mrs. Manogue tells me it helps them to respond to their treatment and to get well. He certainly was kind and gentle with my little We Wanna. Just a wonderful clinic for pets.

And thanks to Dr. Locke for sending us there. However at this writing she is still unable to walk. That was my "Day".

I watched the Staytons pull out for California and just wished I could crawl in the trunk compartment and go along. I've been everywhere but California. Some day I'll make that state too.

On my way to get a long-promised lemon pie Mom Stubbs has baked twice for me. So will visit little Jeanie while there. Such a sweet boy and so much wit to him. But he, too, has a temper. A boy wouldn't be a boy if he didn't have one.

Sam Short, what were you trying to do? Or were you just trying to do some remodeling? And Betty, stay out of those old fashioned jelly beans. Save some for me. You don't want to get fat, do you?

Our new seafood store really looks inviting from the outside. Will have to go in and find out if they have lobster tails.

Mr. Wheeler, did you get that piano that Santa ordered for you? You know, a little bird told me all about it and how you could play!

French Give Up Pack of Smokes To Fix Palace

PARIS—The French are cutting down on cigarettes to help raise money for the Palace of Versailles. A special appeal has been made to every citizen to contribute the price of one pack toward the $14,000,000 needed to restore the palace and gardens.

Non-smokers are contributing too, for the French love Versailles and flock to see it from all over the country. On an afternoon jaunt from Paris or a trip from the provinces, they visit the palace and walk in gardens where over 150,000 plants are set out each year. Families spread picnic lunches on the grass, and the children play by the fountains.

Occasionally special attractions are listed among theater notices in the papers. Some Sundays the fountains are playing; on certain evenings they are illuminated while the opera ballet performs by the fountain of Neptune. Or there may be fireworks displays reflected in the Grand Canal.

Built on Marshland After almost total neglect during World War II many repairs are needed in the gardens. The condition of the palace is even more critical.

Built by Louis XIV around his father's hunting lodge on marshland 12 miles from Paris, and with no outside downsports to mar the beauty of its facades, the palace is crumbling within from dampness.

The largest building and most visited historic shrine in the country, Versailles has always been very much a part of French life. Louis XIV, who said bluntly, "I am the state," established there the seat of government, luring nobles to his brilliant court. There they stayed, dependent on him financially and politically.

Cows and Goats Sightseers were freely admitted along with official visitors. Corridors were thronged with princes and ambassadors, servants and peddlers. Cows and goats were brought daily to the doors of those of the nobility who insisted on fresh milk. The public also was allowed in the gardens and came in such numbers that guards had to clear a path for the kingly constitutional.

Five new members were inducted into the club: Burton Satterfield, Luther Hatfield, Walter Schiff, Anthony Gallo, and Elwood Wright.

Charter members present were Kessler Farrow, Jehu Camper, Ernest Killen, Charles Greenhaugh, and Dewitt Tatman. Also present were Frank Sharp, William W. Shaw, and Brinton Holloway, previous charter members who are no longer club members.

Fireplace Accessory An inexpensive, safe and practical fireplace accessory consists of a galvanized steel coal hod painted, or otherwise decorated, to blend with fireplace surroundings. Galvanized coal hods are made of fireproof materials.

TRINITY CHURCH NOTES Rev. Milton Elliott, pastor Sunday School 10:00 a. m.; preaching 11:00 a. m. O. U. R. Class will conduct the 6:30 evening service. There will be special solos and musical selections. The regular evening service is at 7:30, in charge of the pastor.

The W. C. T. U. will meet with Mrs. Milton Elliott Tuesday evening.

Rock Dust Treatment A safety procedure regularly followed in U. S. mines is the application of rock dust on sides and roofs of entries to prevent explosions. The rock dust, which is powdered limestone, keeps coal dust from becoming combustible.

They can better serve farmers in cording to Mr. Peck, was to give Agency employees and managers a better understanding of the cooperative and its supplies so that they can better serve farmers in this area.

No Beauty Barrier

Men do make passes at girls who wear glasses, say teen-agers in a poll reported by the American Optometric Association.

Babies Better Protected

Babies under six months of age may not be wholly immune, but they are better protected against polio than older children because they have as many antibodies in their blood as their mothers, and because they are seldom exposed to the virus.

Antinomianism

Antinomianism is the doctrine that the Gospel or the Christian faith does away with the old moral law, so that the Christian is not bound by it.
