CARD OF

FERTILIZER

The greatest opportunities for increasing crop yields through fertilization are in grain and forage crops, says William H. Mitchell, assistant agronomist, of the Delaware agricultural extension service.

Nationally, says Mitchell, grain and forage crops receive relatively low fertilization rates today. Increased fertilization on wheat, for instance, would yield 48 million more bushels of wheat in the western states, and would increase average yields here in the East by more than one-third.

These figures come from a national survey made by state and land-grant colleges and agricultural experiment stations, and the U. S. Department of Agriculture. Many other figures on what fertilization can do to improve crop production came from a national survey of fertilizer tests. Some of them that could be applied to Delaware are:

A 30 per cent increase in pasture yields could be had in the merely by using the same high rates of fertilization now used on corn. When much higher rates of fertilization have been combined with improved grasses and legumes, yields have been increased by more than three fold. Production of forage crops could also be increased by using more lime.

Some adjustments could be made in using fertilizer. Highest rates are now being used on potatoes, vegetables, and other specialty crops. On some fields where these crops have been heavily fertilized for several years, reduction could be made in fertilizer, especially in phosphate use. Here Mitchell suggests soil tests as accurate guides for adjusting rates.

WEED

It's not a cure-all, but it does cut production costs and keep down weeds effectively. That's the answer from the U. S. Department of Agriculture.

Studies for the past seven years show that 2, 4-D used as pre-emergence, post-emergence, and lay-by sprays will control weeds, reduce labor, and increase yields. An estimated cost for the three sprays is about $2.25 per acre. Yield increase depends on variety planted, and fertilization and soil type, but experimentally, yields have increased from 10 to 40 bushels per acre with chemical weed control.

Here are some general recommendations for using 2, 4-D, as given by the Delaware Agricultural Extension Service.

On most soil types, pre-emergence treatments of one to two pounds of 2, 4-D per acre will control annual grasses and some broad-leaved weeds. The esters of 2, 4-D are less likely to injure the corn than the amine salts in pre-emergence sprays. Corn on light sandy soils may be injured if the treatment is followed by heavy rains, so watch your long-range weather forecasts.

An over-all post-emergence spray of 1-4 pound of the ester or 1-2 pound of the amine salt per acre is recommended. It should not be done within one week after the leaves unfold, but as soon afterwards as possible. Delay cultivation a few days after treatment.

For more complete instructions on using 2, 4-D on corn, contact your county agricultural agent in Newark, Dover, or Georgetown.

TAPPANNA DRAINAGE SYSTEM

Some 50 landowners on the Tappanna Drainage System which covers an area of about 11,500 acres or about 18 square miles, west of Dover and bounded roughly by Pearson's Corner, Hartly and Maryland, met to consider for a second timesider for a second time, Tues., March 17, what is involved in the formation of a tax ditch under the 1951 Uniform State Drainage Law. About 160 farm landowners would be affected by the organization of such a tax ditch.

Albert Korschak of Hartly was elected chairman of the group of landowners who are interested in improving the drainage problem of this important farm area. Theodore Enns was elected secretary. Bethesda Grange, under Master Charles Maske, has been instrumental in arousing interest in this community service project.

E. H. Talbert, state drainage engineer, and George Vapaa, associate Kent County agricultural agent, were on hand to lead the discussion and to answer questions concerning the operations under the drainage law. Mr. Talbert pointed out that the law provides for state and county assistance on permanent drainage projects, provided that the tax ditches are properly designed, built and maintained, and provided that all people who might be affected are thoroughly informed and are given the opportunity to vote for or against the project. Improving land drainage greatly increases land values, and therefore benefits the community and state as a whole.

Poor drainage is the number one conservation problem in Kent County, and much formerly productive land has been going out of cultivation because it becomes difficult to till. Previously established ditches were permitted to fall into disrepair because no means had been provided to keep community ditches clean and operating efficiently. Old ditch companies had operated in the state until the thirties, when the legislature voted to take over—but failed to provide the means of maintaining such ditches. Recently, it has been recognized that land drainage is essentially a community land owners problem, even though benefits are statewide. The 1951 Drainage Law permits farmers with a common drainage problem to work out the solution of their problem in a fair and equitable manner. Some eleven tax ditches are in the process of reforming in Kent County at the present time.

The 1951 legislature recognized that some uniform means of operating tax ditches was both desirable and necessary. Though the drainage problem is a very different matter on each watershed area, yet the general procedure in protecting individual rights and interests, and in assuring good design, construction, and the means for properly maintaining the drainage system are or can be simplified much as is our highway system and the rules for assuring the safety of its operation.

Felton School News

Members of the boys' and girls' basketball teams and cheer-leading squad were entertained last Thursday by a group of parents in the school cafeteria. Music for dancing was furnished by an orchestra conducted by John Bunnell, and light refreshments were served. Coaches of the organizations represented were honored guests of the occasion.

Jack Corkery, formerly the green devils' coach, is now coaching the lacrosse team at Ohio State University along with other athletic assignments. Coach Corkery will have his team at the University of Delaware on the afternoon of March 26 for a game with the Blue Hens. A number of his former associates and team members are planning to attend the game.

There will be no school on March 26, as all teachers will attend the Kent County Education Association Convention at Caesar Rodney School.

Alan K. Jacobs, formerly Felton's music instructor, is stationed at Camp Atterbury, Ind., for basic training.

The seniors are planning their New York trip and are looking forward to it with pleasure. The seniors are, also, working hard on their yearbook and expect to have it finished shortly.

At the meeting of the Board of School Trustees on Nov. 12, no bids were received on the 1953 School Bond Series. Prospective bidders stated that the 2-1/2 per cent interest limit is too low for today's prevailing bond interest rates. The board will, therefore, advertise the issue again without stipulating a maximum interest which will be acceptable.

The weekly assembly program of the Felton High School was held Wednesday afternoon under the direction of Mr. Bennett, junior high school social studies teacher. Mr. Kerns, physical education director, gave out letters and certificates to the girls' and boys' varsity basketball teams, and certificates to all members of the junior varsity team. After the presentation of letters, a film was shown entitled "Precious Cargo." The film dealt with the safety of children riding on school buses. Mr. Mullins, driver training instructor, gave a talk to supplement the film.

Elementary News
In Mrs. Bessie Dill's room many of the pupils have been absent with the measles. The pupils in Mrs. Brobst's and Mrs. Hughes' rooms are making Easter pictures with water colors. They enjoyed a movie on whaling, while studying this industry.

About seventy-five students from Felton school journeyed on March 20 to the University of Delaware to see their annual Play Festival.

As advertised in the Wilmington papers this week, bids for the 1953 Felton School Bond Series will be received at the school on Thursday, April 2.

The Juniors and Seniors attended a session of the state legislature Wednesday, March 18, where they saw both houses in action and had an audience with Lieutenant Governor Rollins in the governor's chamber. Courtland Dill provided bus transportation. The classes were accompanied by Joseph Kerns, their history teacher, and H. E. Henry, supervising principal.

On April 1, the Business Education Department presents its annual school assembly. This year the theme of the program will be "Applying for that New Job." The various sequences of the performance will be directed along that line. There will be a play presented by the Junior Business Training Class entitled "Wanted." Those participating in this program are Doris Green-Marie Biggs, Jean Short, Phyllis Garey, Loretta Hughes, Ethel Reed, Pauline Krouse, Gertrude Hurd, and Leah Schanding. A musical presentation will be given by the senior secretarial students: Ellen Betts, Doris Ann Cahall, Jean Maris, Betty Stanton, Lenora Hughes, Claire Jester and Phyllis Hrupsa. Jean Ware will also take part.

The F. F. A. steer which was bought in the fall and is being fed by R. W. Bennett is progressing very nicely. At the present time, the steer weight approximately 800 pounds. The rate of gain per day which many times is used to determine successful beef production, has been 2.61.

The Kent County Student Council will meet at Felton on March 30 at 2 o'clock.

Easter vacation will begin Good Friday, April 3, and classes will be resumed Monday, April 14.

The fourth grade has been studying Delaware and making Delaware booklets. Some of them have visited places of interest about which they have studied. They are also making Easter decorations for their room. For the first time in three months, they had perfect attendance.

The boys who have letters from last year are Moore, Turner, Wyatt, Harrington, Fisher, Tribbett, Creadick and Lockwood. Newcomers to the team are Marvin Rothermel, Martin Rothermel, Mack, Williams, Hughes, Green, and O'Day. The Felton baseball schedule is as follows:

April 21, Caesar Rodney, away.
April 23, Bridgeville, at home.
April 24, Milford, away.
May 1, Harrington, away.
May 5, Caesar Rodney, at home.
May 7, Bridgeville, away.
May 8, Greenwood, away.
May 12, Harrington, at home.
May 15, Milford, at home.
May 29, Greenwood, at home.
Last Friday fifty-five students of the sophomore, junior, and senior classes visited Newark to see the annual play festival. Felton participated by presenting "The Trusting Place." This was quite an honor for Felton School, for it was the first play ever taken from Felton. Dr. Reifsnider of Penn State College was the critic.

The contest play was presented Monday to the students of Caesar Rodney High School as an exchange program. Caesar Rodney pupils will present a program at Felton during the latter part of April. The contest play will be presented to Felton students today during the activity period.

Harrington School Notes

Harrington High School was represented by an entry in the eleventh annual Delaware Play Festival, held on March 20 and 21 in Mitchell Hall of the University of Delaware at Newark.

"The Dear Departed," a one-act comedy by Stanley Houghton, was the offering of the Dramatic Club of the local school.

The play concerns the behavior of the two daughters of Abel Merriweather when they mistakenly suppose that their father has died. Greedily they commence to divide the old man's property, only to be bitterly disappointed in the discovery that he is quite vigorously alive—and indeed intending to marry a woman who will care for him without looking forward eagerly to his decease.

Russell McCready took the part of Abel Merriweather, and Pauline Welch and Patsy Baker the parts of his two married daughters, Amelia Slater and Elizabeth Jordan. Merryweather's two sons-in-law, Henry Slater and Ben Jordan, were played by Richard Seely and Robert Larimore. Louisa Howard was Victoria, the Slater's daughter, and the only one in the family genuinely fond of Abel Merriweather.

Eighteen plays were presented at the festival, which was sponsored by the University Dramatic Center of the University of Delaware in cooperation with the Delaware Dramatic Association. Five sessions were required to complete the presentation, three on Friday and two on Saturday. Friday evening was given to community theatres which were competing for prizes. No prizes were offered at the high-school level, but each participating school received a book on some phase of dramatics.

At the conclusion of each group of plays, the critic judge, Prof. Robert D. Reifsnider of Pennsylvania State College, offered a detailed analysis and criticism with a view to aiding directors and actors in improving their techniques in future productions. In his critique Mr. Reifsnider mentioned that two Harrington players, Patsy Baker and Richard Seely, showed more reluctance than actors should to perform a stage kiss. It was not until the end of the session that he learned, to his evident amusement, that Seely was suffering from a case of poison ivy.

Everett Warrington was stage manager for Harrington and also assisted other schools with their settings. Shirley Larimore and Carole Ann Sharp were prompters. Marlene Raughley was in charge of properties. Betty Louise Layton, president of the Dramatic Club, accompanied the group to Newark. "The Dear Departed" was directed by Mrs. Kathleen Pollitt and William E. Miller.

According to present plans, "The Dear Departed" will be given at least two more performances. It is to be presented at Milford High School as a part of the project of the Student Councils of Kent County high schools for exchanging assembly programs, and it is also to be shown in Harrington.

KENT HOME DOINGS

Twenty-one Kent County women attended the first leader training meeting on Textile Painting on March 18. Later, in May, these women will teach in their clubs how to paint designs on fabric, with the use of stencils.

The fabrics can vary from ordinary to monk's cloth, and the finished product from a blouse to draperies. No matter what the end result, the same techniques and principles of design will apply.

Although many of those who attended were sure that they would never be able to make a design, they all returned home that afternoon with an original design and a new appreciation of their own abilities.

Under the direction of Miss Ruth E. Pearce, Clothing Specialist, many of those who were there also cut stencils of their designs.

The second meeting of the class will be on Friday, March 27. Then the designs will be transferred to a piece of fabric by means of the stencils and textile paint, applied with stick, round brushes.

Those women who attended are: Mary Virdin, Dover; Lillie Weber, Dover; Ruth Blechman, Hartly; Sara Jane Blechman, Hartly; Mrs. J. F. Camper, Harrington; Mrs. Fletcher Price, Harrington; Mrs. Arthur Thiel, Harrington; Mrs. Helen Somers, Dover; Mrs. Paris C. Kirby, Hilford; Norma Austin, Milford; Margaret Pollett, Dover; Anne Hynson, Dover; Laura Campbell, Dover; Martha McCoy, Smyrna; Mildred Bodley, Smyrna; Dorothy Hall, Milford; Jessie Huth, Milford; Dorothy Kendall, Dover; Catherine Orvis, Magnolia; Virginia Winkler, Harrington; Madeline Neilsen, Harrington; Margaret L. Kennedy, Dover; Katherine Wilson, Dover.

Cooking Tips

Keep heat low when cooking with cheese. High heat or long cooking makes cheese tough, stringy, or leathery. And when cheese is used in mixtures with egg and milk, too much heat may cause mixtures to curdle.

If you substitute powdered sugar for granulated sugar in whipping cream, the cream won't get watery in the bottom of the dish after it sets awhile.

State Guest Day at Felton Avon Club

Mrs. Joseph Ennis, president of the Delaware State Federation of Women's Clubs, Mrs. W. Harman Money, vice-president New Castle County, and Mrs. Wilson S. Vinyard, vice-president of Kent County were guests of the Avon Club last Wednesday.

Mrs. W. W. Wood, music chairman, presented the program for the afternoon. Sue Dennis, a student of Wesley College, Dover, gave two piano solos—"Valse Caprice" and "Black Key Etude." Sara Gardner, Felton High School student, sang "When You and I Were Young Maggie" and Believe Me, If All Those Endearing Young Charms," accompanied at the piano by Marie Biggs.

Frank Gaca played three selections on the accordion, "Lady of Spain," "Don't Let the Stars Get In Your Eyes," and a composition of his own. Richard Turochy played two selections on the piano, "Awake the Voice Commands" and "Second Prelude." Both young men are students at Wesley College.

The art table was an arrangement of spring flowers and milk glass.

A tea followed the program. Mrs. Gladys Mack and Mrs. John Bunnell served at the tea table.

A short business meeting followed the program. The club voted to sponsor two pupils to Music Camp at Dover in June, and to make the usual contribution to the Easter Seal Campaign. The club accepted the invitation to be the guest of the Round Table Club of Wyoming April 10. The Twentieth Century Club of Smyrna will be invited to be our guests May 6. The club voted to extend invitations to Miss Catherine Coad and Mrs. James Gray to become members. Mrs. Price urged members to attend the National Federation to be held in Washington, D. C., May 25-27, and the Delaware State Federation, which will be held at the University of Delaware June 18 and 19. The Senior Class will be the guest of the club Wednesday, April 1.

NEWCASTLE

Newcastle disease in poultry can evidently spread through the air like the common human cold. Dr. E. F. Waller, chairman of the University of Delaware animal and poultry industry department, reports that University of Wisconsin scientists have uncovered this new way in which Newcastle spreads.

The scientists report that an infected chicken can spread virus in the air for one or two days before actual disease symptoms appear. This is another similarity to the common cold. When the birds were infected with Newcastle, virus appeared in the air exhaled by the chickens as early as the third day after the infection.

Healthy chickens were definitely infected by letting them breathe a mixture of virus and air. But the researchers found that strains of virus may not act the same when taken through the air as when they are injected into the bird. Some strains that were highly infectious when injected into the muscles, were not as severe when spread through the air.

Newcastle disease is one of the most prevalent in Delaware, says Dr. Waller, and is found as a complication in many cases of chronic respiratory disease. This new-found avenue of infection will help researchers determine what control methods are most effective.

Thomas F. Darling

Thomas F. Darling, 46, who operated a barbershop in Camden, died Sunday afternoon from a heart attack at his home in Camden.

Chosen Friends Lodge No. 35

Grand Master Wilson Figgs and staff from Hebron Lodge, Seaford, made their official visit to Chosen Friends Lodge of Harrington last Thursday evening.

The Grand Master made a very fine talk at the meeting and asked the lodge to try to keep enough new members joining the lodge to maintain the present membership of ones that would want to or may drop out at any time during the year.

He said he could not tell anyone just how to go about the job of securing new members, as everyone had to be handled differently and he said that any member that believed in his Almighty God and true Odd Fellow ship would make a good member any time for the lodge.

The Georgetown Dart Ball team then came on the scene and walloped our boys by a score that made us think we should have a little more practice before we undertook to play any more dart games.

The refreshment committee served shrimp cocktail and hot dogs.

1953 Chevrolet Advance-Design Trucks do more work for less money!

 Advanced Loadmaster engine—standard equipment on 5000 and 6000 Series heavy-duty and forward-control models, optional on 4000 Series heavy-duty trucks.

more braking power!

 Now, heavier, stronger, more durable frames increase rigidity, add to ruggedness and give more stamina than ever to all 1953 Chevrolet trucks.

more economy!
 The new stamina of Chevrolet trucks, plus extra gasoline economy in heavy-duty models with improved Loadmaster engine, reduces hauling costs per ton-mile.

The W. S. C. S. of Grace Church will meet at the home of Mrs. Laura Clifton for its regular meeting. A special program is planned in commemoration of Holy Week. It is entitled, "A Reconciliation."

Six members of the Ladies Auxiliary and six members of the Volunteer Firemen attended the Del-Mar-Va executive meeting in Grace Church, Salisbury, Sunday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Pearson took the sixth grade to Philadelphia by bus Friday. The trip is in the nature of an educational tour and is an annual affair for the sixth graders. They begin to prepare for it when they enter the grade. They form a club and pay dues in order to finance their trip. The children take care of the correspondence concerning reservations etc. for the trip, thereby acquiring valuable knowledge of these practical phases of life.

There are two weeks of intensive work in the class on subjects correlated with the trip. They visited Museum of Natural History, the Museum of Natural Science, Independence Hall, Betsy Ross House, and the Planetarium, where they saw a show entitled "The Reasons for the Seasons." On their return trip, having made reservations, they had dinner at the Del-Mar-Va Restaurant, near Wilmington. A tired, but radiantly happy bunch of youngsters arrived home about 9 o'clock. The chaperones were Mrs. Luther Lyons, Mrs. Bertha Prettyman, Mrs. Byron Wise, Mrs. Wallace, and their teacher, Mrs. Gerald Pearson, and Mr. Pearson.

The George Calhouns of Seaford were Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Pearson. Mr. Calhoun is especially interested in movies and enjoyed the fine collection of films the Pearsons have accumulated. These interesting guests have spent four years in Argentina and have lived in the States of Washington, Wyoming, Florida and Tennessee.

John Carlisle and the Misses Bess and Florence Carlisle were Wednesday visitors in Wilmington. The sophomore and junior classes of Greenwood High drove to Hillsboro High School Monday and participated in the Western Sussex Career Conference. There were group conferences with advisors so that the pupil might get some knowledge of the career in which he was most interested.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry McPherson of Philadelphia, were Sunday guests of the Willard B. Hatfields. Mr. and Mrs. Medford Hatfield and daughter, Deborah, and Mrs. Hatfield's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Culver, all of Claymont, were callers here. They visited Mr. and Mrs. Willard Hatfield and Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Hatfield.

Mrs. E. D. Brasure, president of St. Johnstown Aid, entertained the officers and members of the Aid at her home Thursday evening. Those present were Miss Hazel Tatman, Miss Leila Tatman, Mrs. Arthur Tatman, Miss Elsie Leight, Mrs. June Bostic and Mrs. Leila Willey.

Special congratulations go to Pinky and Bob Jester on their wedding anniversary, March 23. Mr. and Mrs. Robert Jester entertained the Sunshine Class of Greenwood Methodist Church at their home Tuesday, March 17. Twenty-seven members were present. Mrs. Luther Lyons had charge of entertainment and kept everyone having fun with the games.

Mr. and Mrs. Preston Kenton of Milford and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Jester of Greenwood spent Monday evening with the Charles Larrimores at Denton.

E. D. Brasure visited Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Souder of Washington, D. C., the past week-end. He motored over with Nelson Meredith, who visited their daughter, Anne.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Coates of Camden, N. J., and Mr. and Mrs. Grover C. Lord of Harrington spent Sunday afternoon with their sister, Mrs. Matthew Russell. Mr. and Mrs. Neil Russell and small son were Monday afternoon visitors. Mrs. Russell is recovering nicely from an operation performed recently. Her progress is reported slow, but good.

The Ever-Welcome Class of Grace Church held its regular monthly meeting in the form of a covered dish supper at the parsonage Friday evening. A delightful evening was spent with our good hosts, the Dennises. The class now has two projects under way—the beautification of the ground back of the playground, and caps for our choir.

and insist that they "fight with us on this situation and to a finish. We're the ones who got the state to pass legislation to legalize pari-mutuel harness racing. I don't know what's going on, but it looks bad for harness racing for this thing to spread from one end of the state to the other," he commented, referring to the row over racing dates.

Reese B. Harrington then asked, "Is it a fact that part of the rentals for harness racing is absolutely necessary for the progress of the fair?" Mr. Williams answered that the fair association lost approximately $6000 last summer when there was a heat wave. Whereupon Mr. Harrington, referring to the benefit of the rentals to the fair association, said it was vital, then, that the members of the organization protect its rights. "It looks to me like the very foundation of the Kent & Sussex Fair is at stake," he insisted. Tracing the history of the group, he mentioned the names of persons who had toiled to make the fair a success and he prophesied, "I don't believe we will let this heritage, something that was willed to us, leave us."

The fair association president then read a letter he had received from George T. Weymouth, president of Brandywine Racing Association. The gist of the missive was that that group wished to meet with local officials to discuss dates with an open mind. The president said his track wished to race the September dates granted them, since its track would not be ready until that time, but that next year it would be all right with them for Kent & Sussex to race in September. The Wilmington meeting was scheduled for Wednesday evening.

Mr. Williams said the letter sounded good but that "we still don't have anything. We don't want this letter to cause you to let down one minute. It is getting near the end of the Legislature and if we don't get anything done there, or with these (Brandywine) people, we're sunk," he said.

Vernon Derrickson, who said in a recent meeting of the fair directors here, that he had been asked to be a director of the but hadn't been asked to attend Brandywine Racing Association a meeting, and said he had attended his first meeting, with J. Gordon Smith, Monday. He said he told the head of the race group that the Harrington race body was dissatisfied, that he argued for "our cause" and that the letter from Mr. Weymouth was the result. He added he thought Mr. Weymouth was sincere and that he didn't think the Wilmington track would permit Del-Mar-Va to race there if it was in violation of the law.

J. Gordon Smith said, "I'm sure in my mind there'll be no racing up there on Oct. 3," in referring to present plans for Del-Mar-Va to race at Brandywine beginning Sept. 30.

Commenting to a possible solution on racing dates, George Simpson said, "I think there has been a lot of injustice but that it is water over the dam." He suggested a meeting of the three race groups and the harness commission to get the final answer. "I know there's a lot of harsh things been said and there will probably be more, but I think we should sit down and talk it over and face each other," he urged.

SHORT STORY

He Kept At It By DUKE ALLISANT

BASIL DOUGLAS decided to retire when he had $200,000 in the bank. Moreover, he decided to have the $200,000 in the bank by the time he was 35.

Basil was born of poverty-stricken parents. He lived on the outskirts of a great city. Two miles from the Douglas habitation resided one Daniel Van Nuy and family. The Van Nuy's were wealthy.

They lived in luxury. They had motor cars and servants and estates. Basil envied them.

Then one day Basil saw Mr. Van Nuy's. Mr. Van Nuy was nearly 70. He had the gout and a querulous disposition. It wasn't hard to perceive that the old man wasn't enjoying his wealth a great deal.

Basil thought about the matter a lot, and presently he decided that on the interest from $200,000 a man could live in comfort and happiness and not have to work. He decided, too, that it is unwise to spend your whole lifetime trying to acquire this amount. It would be better to acquire it by the time you were 35, then you could have a long time to enjoy it.

And so Basil made his two resolutions. He was 21 then, bright, energetic, ambitious. Moreover, he was possessed of a grim and relentless determination. A stubbornness.

He secured a job as a shipping clerk with an export house. Within two years he was boss shipper. From boss shipper he jumped to manager of the department. From manager he went to assistant superintendent, then to superintendent.

It wasn't easy. He worked nights and Sundays. He conspired in all sorts of ways to bring himself to the attention of his superiors. He labored over plans and schemes for saving the company's money.

Carefully he began to invest his savings. He never speculated. He studied the stock reports and read books on finance. Five years after he invested his first $100 he had $50,000 worth of good stocks and a tidy bank account.

Money makes money. An investment of $50,000 rapidly enlarges itself. Basil never got beyond the job of superintendent at the shipping company, but he didn't have to. He scrimped and saved and invested two-thirds of his salary each year. At 30 he had better than $100,000.

He was still working hard. He never let down. He kept at it and at it and at it. On his 35th birthday he handed in his resignation. His assets totaled $200,001.

Fifty miles from his native town Basil built his home. It was small, modest, beautifully located near a lake. He got a big kick out of it.

A year passed. Work on Basil's house and grounds was finished. The laborers went away. Basil settled down to rest and relax and enjoy life. He bought a lot of books and took up reading, but he wasn't used to concentration of that sort. It required an effort to read. He bought a sailboat and sailed it on the lake, but before long he tired of this too.

Another year slipped by. Basil grew restless, dissatisfied. He was used to a life of work, of activity. Illness weighed heavily on him. He considered establishing himself in some kind of business, but grimly shook his head at the thought.

Gradually, inevitably, trying to enjoy himself in idleness began wearing him down. He was unhappy, discontented. He tried sleeping late mornings, eating rich foods, lounging about the house in dressing gown and slippers. But it was no good. Hollows appeared in his cheeks, circles under his eyes. He became thin, haggard.

And so he kept at it and at it and at it. And when five years had passed, when Basil Douglas was 40, he awoke one morning and couldn't get out of bed.

Three days later, Basil Douglas passed away. He lay in his bed, his face gray against the pillow, his eyes open, staring at the ceiling. Even in death they seemed to glint to hold a challenge, a relentless determination.

Aw, Heck! The San Antonio (Texas) Evening News carried a help-wanted ad for: "Executive Director, from 24 to 40. To sit at desk from 9 to 5 and watch other people work. Must be willing to play golf every other afternoon. Salary over $350 to start. (We don't have this job. We just thought we'd like to see in print what everyone is applying for.)"

Senate Receives Bills On Pension

A series of bills which would enlarge the number of persons receiving compensation under the State Employees' Pension Plan was handed up in the State Senate this week, jointly sponsored by Senators Wilmer F. Williams (R-Roselle) and John E. Reilly (D-Wilmington).

The bill would: Reduce from 25 to 15 the number of years' service required for eligibility for disabled pensions.

Provide for continuation of pension payments to widows and dependent children after the death of pension recipients. The payments would range from 25 per cent of the original pension (to each child, if the widow does not survive) to 100 per cent (to widows with two or more dependent children).

Provide limited credit, in figuring a pension applicant's years of service, for out of state employment where the applicant was covered by a state or federal pension plan.

Provide that interrupted state employment, provided the interruption lasted not longer than five years, be credited in figuring years of service.

Extend these increased benefits to all persons currently receiving pensions, as well as those who may be granted in the future.

Senator Williams also handed up (by request) two bills which would eliminate the possibility of double payment of workmen's compensation in case of employees who suffer both loss of function and disfigurement of any portion of the face and head. The bills would prohibit payment of a pension for disfigurement if one had already been granted for loss of function.

The only other new bill came from Senator Thomas E. Peeney (R-Wilmington). It was a replacement for a House bill which would bar foul-smelling or noisy factories within three miles of the Governor Bacon Health Center. The new bill is aimed only at foul-smelling structures, and stems from a public hearing which turned up the fact that the bill is being asked for in order to keep a menhaden (fish) plant out of Delaware City.

The Senate adopted a resolution commending the Ground Observer Corps observation post at Hartly, which was the subject of a nationwide radio program last fall. The resolution states that the Hartly post "should be an outstanding and shining example to every citizen of the State of Delaware and the nation to encourage our citizenry to participate in this most important endeavor." It was introduced by Senator Jehu F. Camper (D-Harrington).

Delegates from all but one of the companies of the county and eight past presidents attended the session. James Clark, president of the Clayton company, welcomed the other measure which would require volunteer fire companies to submit an audit of state monies received by them, showing how the state appropriations were spent by the different companies.

They pointed out that it would impose upon the fire companies which receive funds from other sources, an impossible task of separating the various receipts and giving a correct accounting of how the state monies are used.

The association approved a plan of paying the two custodians of the Robbins Hose Company, Dover, where the main station of the civil defense radio network for the county is located, $100 a year each as compensation for them in the operation of the radio system in receiving and transmitting of alarms.

It also authorized Paul Smith of Maryland to appoint a committee to request the Kent County Levy Court to provide a small appropriation for expenses of operation and maintenance of the radio network. The committee named comprises the association directors, Roland Parker, of Milford; Hubert Dill, of Magnolia; J. Barratt Simpler of Felton; Thomas Heather of Maryland, and William Davis of Houston.

John Bamberger, Sr., of Cheswood, president of the Delaware Volunteer Firemen's Association, advised that the prospect of federal matching funds for fire companies for purchase of new apparatus appeared remote at present.

John A. Martin of Little Creek, resigned as first vice-president because ill health prevents him from carrying on the duties of the office. Chief Boyer of Dover was advanced from second vice president for the unexpired term of Martin, and Douglas Mills of Harrington, a director, was made second vice president. J. Barratt Simpler of Felton was elected a director in Mills' place. Boyer is a past president of the Kent County Fire Chiefs Association, and Mills is the present president.

Second Assistant Chief George D. Hill, Jr., of Dover announced the fire school for volunteer firemen to be held at the Dover Air Force Base on April 12. Former Chief Thomas E. Baker of Dover reported on the need of an unlisted phone at the Dover firehouse for accessory use in conjunction with the operation of the radio main station. The association voted in favor of the plan, which previously had been approved by the county chief's association of the firemen's association.

Delegates from all but one of the companies of the county and eight past presidents attended the session. James Clark, president of the Clayton company, welcomed the delegates and Assistant Chief Hill, of Dover, responded. Guests included Curtis Ennis of Ellendale, first vice president, and Charles Jones of Elsmere, second vice president, of the state association; and William Kirk of Richardson Park, president of the Delaware Chapter of the American Association of Firemen.

The Citizens Home Company of Smyrna will be host to the April meeting.

the commission or of its sub-committees. Aggregate per diem payments for a year could not exceed the maximum of $300.

Powers of Correction Board Powers of the board would include exclusive jurisdiction over the prisons, farms, workhouses and jails wherein prisoners are committed and it would also embrace prison labor and industry. The board could acquire by lease or purchase all equipment required for the safe-keeping maintenance and betterment of prisoners. It would have the responsibility of carrying out programs of rehabilitation, and it would be given the right to condemn property when this was needed.

Mr. Sapp's bill would empower the proposed board to inspect police lock-ups. It could also appoint a director for the first director who may be a warden with 10 years' experience in a prison with a daily population of at least 250 persons, would have to have a number of qualifications including a college education and a minimum of five years' training and experience in a field of correctional administration.

Under this measure the names of the four present jails would be changed to "correctional institution," with Kent, Sussex, New Castle or Women's Department of the New Castle County Workhouse prefixed. Separate custodial work and training facilities would be provided for "youthful offenders."
