DO YOUR SUMMER BAKING NOW

When you're freezing such products as breads, cakes, cookies or pies, bake them in your usual way. Cool them thoroughly on a rack before wrapping. Package just the amount you'd expect to use at one time, and wrap the packages so they will be airtight and moisture proof.

If you're freezing unbaked doughs for yeast breads, add a little more sugar to the dough than usual. The added sugar will give a better frozen product. Prepare the dough in the usual way, letting it rise until doubled in bulk. Push down and shape as desired. Place in a greased pan. Grease the top of the dough wrap and freeze.

Miss Coblenz points out that all cakes freeze well—angel, sponge, butter, fruit cake and gingerbread. Use uncooked butter frostings or the cooked candy-type icings for cakes that go into the freezer. Soft fillings become soggy, and boiled or seven-minute icings may become grainy. After you've iced your cake, freeze it first, then wrap in freezer paper. You may find that after three or four weeks in the freezer, the cake icing is likely to crack.

Here are some tips on freezing pies. Fruit and chiffon pies freeze well, while custard and cream pies may become curdled.

SPARE THE FOLIAGE ON FLOWERING BULBS

Hold back that impulse to cut back the foliage or leaves from your flowering bulbs.

Floriculturist James B. Shanks, University of Maryland, says that as long as the foliage is green, leave it attached to the bulb. These green leaves are the source of next year's pretty, healthy blooms. So let the leaves "ripen" and grow to their full size before cutting.

When the leaves become yellowish brown and lay over, it's time to remove them from the bulbs. You can remedy the unsightly foliage to some extent by planting later perennials such as columbines in front of daffodils and Shasta daisies in front of tulips.

Dr. Shanks also points out that it isn't necessary to remove bulbs from the ground in the summer and replant them later in the fall. That is, unless the plantings become too thick, or you want to transplant the bulbs to a new location. If you do that, make sure that the leaves have ripened before moving the bulbs. Then store the bulbs in a cool, dry place during the summer months. Wrap the bulbs in paper or put them in sand or peat.

If you'd rather, replant the bulbs immediately after digging. Actually, the sooner you get them back in the soil, the less likely the chance of deterioration due to improper storage.

How old are your heifers when they calve? The average U. S. Holstein calves at 28-30 months. Purina Farm heifers calve at 24 months. This proves they were big enough for breeding early.

What's more, these heifers give 4 to 8 months of extra milk (2,000 to 3,000 lbs.) by the time the average heifer is merely ready to calve.

LOOK BEFORE YOU SLEEP

Two horses and one bull, who picked a dirt road near Felton to sleep on, played a part in the reduction of the vital statistics of the quadruped world last Saturday.

The animals, property of Percy Gray, were bedded down on the State Route 281 about 5 a. m. A car driven by Frank Kovach, Jr., 20, of Maryland, came along. Weather conditions at the time, state police said, were "clear and dark," and Kovach did not see the animals.

No clear picture emerged of just what did happen, but when the dust had lifted, the livestock were dead, Kovach injured slightly, and his car damaged considerably. There were no arrests, state police said.

A Lot Of Lettuce Is Always Welcome

David Hoffner Sr., and David Hoffner Jr., are seen in one of their fields of lettuce near Cedar Grove Church, Felton RFD2. The Hoffners, with one exception, are the only ones raising the crop on a commercial scale in Delaware.

David Hoffner Sr., and David Hoffner Jr., of near Cedar Grove Church, Felton RFD., began harvesting ten acres of lettuce this week. They expect to finish about July 4. As far as The Journal knows, the Hoffners, with one exception, are the only ones to raise this comparatively new crop, commercially speaking, in Delaware.

They have ten acres of Penn-lake and Gold Seal Great Lakes varieties of head lettuce which they sell, for the most part, to the Acme markets on the peninsula, and the Layton Wholesale Grocery Company at Dover.

The elder Hoffner has been raising lettuce 35 years, of which eight have been spent in Delaware. Previously, they lived in New Jersey. Mr. Hoffner says the vegetable matures a little earlier here than in New Jersey and that Delaware soil holds water better than Jersey soil.

After the crop is harvested, soybeans will be planted and plowed under, and lettuce will be grown on the same land next year. The Hoffners raise their plants in a hothouse.

They also raise 15 acres of Golden Acre cabbage, ten acres of tomatoes, besides soybeans, and corn on their 302-acre farm, of which 260 acres are tillable.

NEW FABRICS IN MEN'S SUITS, PROS AND CONS

New synthetic fibers in men's suits are making headlines. "Men—or women shopping for men—are asking what to expect from orlon-cotton, or dacron-and-wool, or the more expensive all-dacron suits," says Miss Ruth Pearce, clothing specialist of the Delaware Agricultural Extension Service.

Orlon-and-cotton suits are in the medium-cost range, she explains. This blend makes a suit that holds its crease and resists wrinkles better than all-cotton fabric. But it feels warmer because orlon isn't as absorbent as cotton. Orlon is longer-wearing, however, so it does increase the durability of a light-weight suit. More expensive are the dacron-and-wool suits. Miss Pearce says that a dacron-wool blend is more comfortable than all dacron, because wool has the absorbence which the synthetic fiber lacks. The blend is also easier to tailor, fit, and press, because wool provides "give" or elasticity to the fabric. A point worth considering if the suit might be altered, is that all-dacron suits can be taken in, but not let out. Stitching leaves permanent marks on dacron fabric. Als, dacron is difficult to press at home because it can be permanently damaged by too hot an iron, or too much pressure.

Have you had the urge to buy new fabric lampshades—and then changed your mind when you saw the price tag? With an old frame, new fabric, and patience, twenty-four women set about to make their own at a leader training meeting on May 20. These representatives from Kent County Home Demonstration Clubs met a second time one week later, and you can now see in their homes the lovely shades they have made.

These women, who made their own shades under the supervision of Miss Louise R. Whitcomb, will later teach interested members of their own Home Demonstration Clubs. Does your home need new drapes too? Miss Ruth E. Pearce, clothing specialist, has written a bulletin on "How to Make Draperies." It takes you step by step, with large clear pictures illustrating each different process—from measuring for the amount of material you need to lining and hanging. It also shows you how to make cartridge pleats, how to fasten weights, how to use pleating, how to make a valance and other variations in the standard construction.

Dairy Month
Remember that June is dairy month. Use more dairy foods in all your meals. And remember, that if each person drinks an extra glass of milk a day, there would be no spring surplus. Try it on your family—an extra glass of milk a day during June, the dairy month. There is no food buy that is as good for you, or as valuable for your money.

Questions and Answers

Q. I work on a farm that's owned and operated by my uncle. As a Korean veteran, would I be allowed to take institutional on-farming training under the Korean GI Bill?

A. Under your present arrangement, you would not be permitted to take the training. The law requires that you be assured of control of your farm—either by ownership, lease or some other arrangement—so that you'll be free to put into practice what you learn in school.

Q. I served in the WAC since Korea. I'm planning to go to school under the Korean GI Bill. Would I be permitted to claim my husband as a dependent, in order to get a higher monthly education and training allowance?

A. Under the law, you may claim your husband as a dependent only if he is actually dependent on you. You may not claim him if he is earning a livelihood.

Q. I served in the Commissioned Corps of the U. S. Public Health Service. Would my service entitle me to the educational benefits of the Korean GI Bill?

A. You would be entitled to the benefits so long as you were a Public Health Service officer on active duty since Korea, under detail by proper authority, with any branch of the armed forces.

Q. I am an accountant. I've just been released from service after two years in the Army. Could I take a refresher course in accounting under the Korean G. I. Bill?

A. The Korean GI Bill prohibits veterans from taking courses leading to objectives for which they already are qualified. For that reason, you would not be permitted to take a refresher course in accounting.

Q. I am a disabled World War II veteran, and I'm planning to take vocational training under Public Law 16. Will VA stop my disability compensation payments once I start training and receive subsistence allowances?

A. No. You will continue to receive your compensation payments while you're in training under Public Law 16.

Q. A friend of mine is the widow of a World War II veteran. She has a young daughter. She has been receiving death pension payments from the VA, but she has just been offered a job at a yearly salary above the $2700 income ceiling allowed by law. I know that her payments must stop, but could VA pay a pension to her daughter?

A. Yes. Pension payments could be made to the daughter alone, as though there were no widow—provided the daughter meets eligibility requirements. The payments would be smaller than they were for mother and daughter together.

Q. I am attending school under the Korean GI Bill. Would I be entitled to a GI home loan at the same time that I am making use of my educational benefit?

A. Yes. It's possible to make use of both benefits concurrently if you can repay the GI loan.

Q. I'm thinking of converting my National Service Life Insurance term policy to a permanent plan of endowment insurance. At the end of the endowment period, how may I receive the money?

A. You may receive the proceeds either in a lump sum or in equal monthly installments over a specified period of time. Should you die before you've received all the monthly payments, any unpaid installments would go to your beneficiaries.

Saving Eggs

Eggs with clean shells keep best. Wipe off soiled spots with a damp cloth, but don't wash eggs until just before you use them. When eggs are first laid, the shells have a film known as the "bloom" which seals the pores and helps keep out bacteria and odors. Washing removes this protective film.

More and Better Telephone Service
KENT COUNTY

There's a big story behind the growth and development of telephone service here in Kent County. But there's a bigger, more important story in the way telephone service has increased in value to you and the community.

STILL MORE, STILL BETTER SERVICE—New buildings, new Central Office equipment, more miles of wire and cable lines... all of these have been added to Delaware's telephone system to help make your service better and faster than ever. To meet the telephone needs of this fast-growing state, we spent more than $5,000,000 in Delaware alone during 1952 to expand and improve the service. Another $5,000,000 will be spent for our big 1953 program which is already well under way.

50,000 TELEPHONE CALLS A DAY—Back in 1940, people here in Kent County made some 21,000 local and out-of-town telephone calls every day. Now the figure is 50,000—more than twice as many! Telephone service is becoming more and more an indispensable part of daily life here in Kent County.

8200 NEW TELEPHONES—In 1940 there were 3600 telephones in Kent County. Today there are some 11,800 telephones in this county, more than triple the number! And every day we're adding still more to the total.

TELEPHONE PAYROLL — $400,000
The telephone payroll in Kent County is more than twice as great as in 1940. This year, local telephone men and women will earn more than $400,000. Most of this money will be spent right here in the communities of Kent County... a big aid to local business!

$3,250,000 for LOCAL PURCHASES—Year in and year out, thousands and thousands of dollars are spent right here in Kent County and throughout the state for various types of telephone equipment, building repairs, painting, gasoline, water, gas, power and light, rent, office supplies and other items. This year, we'll spend another $1,000,000 or more in Delaware. In addition, Western Electric, our suppliers, will spend some $2,250,000.

Today your telephone service is faster and more dependable than ever. Your entire telephone system is better equipped than ever to meet both civilian and military needs.

Even so, the telephone job in Kent County is far from finished. Keeping pace with the progress and growth of our busy communities is a tremendous and continuing job.

We cannot slacken our pace. It's our job to furnish you and your neighbors with all the service you need—when and where you want it. You have a right to expect it. We're going to see that you get it.

FARM NEWS - REVIEW - FORECAST

PEPPERS, EGGPLANTS AND CUCUMBERS

Sweet peppers most commonly grown in the garden are Bell peppers. The fruit is green at first, but becomes red at maturity. Set plants now, as soon as possible. Since this vegetable belongs to the same family as tomatoes, the culture is much the same, except that peppers are more closely spaced. Set 2 1/2 feet apart in 3-foot rows. California Wonder and World Beauty are good varieties. Since peppers are over 90 per cent water, they would not be expected to have tremendous food value, but they are excellent sources of Vitamins A and C, which makes them a valuable addition to salads.

Eggplant is another tender crop that should be added to the garden now, as it requires about 4 months to harvest time. A half-dozen plants will supply the average family. Space about 4 feet apart in the row, allowing about the same difference on either side. Eggplants require heavier fertilization than the average crop. A good plan is to dig a hole eight inches deep and place a shovelful of well-rotted manure in the bottom. Fill the hole half-full with topsoil, with which a small handful of 5-10-5 fertilizer should be thoroughly mixed. Then fill the hole level with topsoil, tamp lightly and set the plants. If they seem to be loafing later, apply another handful of fertilizer in a circle 8 inches from the plant and work it in. Black Beauty variety is an old standby. Another good one is Florida High Bush. As the fruits develop they become highly glossy. This is when they are at the peak of perfection for use. Later the surface becomes dull and the fruits are tougher and more fibrous.

Cucumbers are one of the oldest of vegetables. Whether it is practical to grow this crop in your garden will depend on the garden area, because a lot of space is required. Hills should be 4 feet apart. Prepare hills as suggested for egg plant, finally filling so there is a mound 3 inches above ground level; or a furrow may be opened and manure placed along the bottom in a continuous layer. Then fill furrow to form a ridge and plant two seeds every 2 feet. Plant 10 seeds per hill, spaced in a circle on the mound. When the plants are well up, thin to 5 and later to 2 or 3. In the continuous row, thin to 1 plant every 2 feet.

A friend, with limited garden space, uses a half-barrel with the end removed, placed where the "cukes" are to be grown. This he fills full of well-rotted manure, tamping it down. He then works the soil around the barrel into fine tilth and plants 4 hills of cucumbers equally spaced in the ground around the barrel. These hills are thinned to 2 plants. If barrels are not at hand he will take a box, with top and bottom knocked out, to hold the manure, or drive down stakes to make a circular stockade.

Cucumbers are over 95 per cent water. It takes a lot of water to grow a crop by any method. The friend douses his barrel of manure with several buckets of water several times a week and the plant food leached from the manure seeps out into the soil at the base. And do those cucumber plants appreciate it. Try it sometime. You'll be surprised.

Next week — okra, summer squash, pumpkins.

TWO WAYS FOUND TO CONTROL WEEDS IN PEAS

Two practical ways of controlling weeds in peas have been demonstrated in experiments at the University of Maryland Agricultural Experiment Station. High gallonage sprays of amonium DNOSBP and applications of granular cyanamid were both effective in controlling weeds in canning peas.

Three years of research with dinitro weed killer show that this material may be practical under certain weather conditions and that it can be applied after peas have emerged. This material was also used in aerosol and low gallonage sprays, but was considered most effective when applied as a high gallonage spray at the rate of three pints of weed killer per acre.

Granular cyanimid, applied at the rate of 275 pounds per acre for four days after peas were seeded, was considered effective on the basis of one year's results at four locations in the state. This application adds 56 pounds of nitrogen to the soil, making possible an adjustment in fertilizer applications. Granular cyanimid is easy to apply, and the additional nitrogen it supplies usually increases yields, according to horticulturists who conducted the experiment.

Weed control research will be continued this year.

BROILERS SHOULD HAVE SUFFICIENT FLOOR SPACE

Do your broilers have 3-4 square foot of floor space per bird? Is your window space at least equal to one square foot of window to each 14 square feet of floor?

Research and field studies have uncovered facts about facilities that can and should be used to advantage by every poultryman, says Si McHenry, assistant poultry specialist of the Delaware Agricultural Extension Service.

On the average, poultrymen need to supply more floor, feed, and water space. McHenry recommends about 3-4 square foot of floor space per chick.

Use 10 one-gallon water fountains per thousand chicks during the first two weeks and gradually change from these to water troughs. Place the jars on boards about one foot square to prevent spilling and contamination. When you change to troughs, provide four, four-foot automatic troughs per thousand birds.

Make feed easily available from the start. By the seventh or eighth week, you should have 16 five-foot feeders per thousand birds. For good ventilation and light, have one square foot of window per 14 square feet of floor. Aluminum or aluminum painted roofs are recommended in Delaware, because they reflect heat rays in hot weather.

Houston

Next Sunday follows Memorial Day and the services will be appropriate to this memorable occasion. In the evening service, a Memorial Day program will be presented by the Methodist Youth Fellowship and special singing by the children. A poem, "God Save The Flag," will be given by Mrs. Wilbur Jump; "The Meaning of Memorial Day," by Mrs. Florence Scott. Solo by William Davis, and sermon by the pastor. Everyone is invited to attend these services—so come and enjoy them.

The 4-H Club turnout last Sunday morning was quite large. There were about 30 of the Cardinal Club and three of their leaders, Mrs. Frances Parvis, Mrs. Martha Benson and Mrs. Mary Hollis. The Millwood 4-H Club was invited and there were about 15 members and two leaders, Mrs. Charles French and Mrs. Jehu Davis, present, and the minister delivered a wonderful sermon to these young people.

The boys from the Cardinal Club are making plans to form a baseball team, with Chester Benson as their leader, and we hope they will be successful.

Fred Hayes, who had been in Milford Hospital for sometime and underwent an operation, was removed Sunday morning to the Memorial Hospital in Wilmington in the Harrington Fire Co. ambulance. He likes this hospital and seems to be doing fairly well. He will soon undergo a very serious operation. He is under the care of Dr. Glenhull.

Mr. and Mrs. Phillip Cornog of Delaware City were visitors Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Josiah Parvis and family.

Felton School News

Senior examinations will be given June 1 and 2 preceding the departure of this year's graduates for their New York trip. Final examinations for grades seven to eleven will be held June 5, 8, and 9.

Plans are being completed for the annual Faculty-School Trustees' Picnic at Garland Lake the evening of June 1. This event is always enjoyable, although the athletic activities lead to aching muscles the following day. The families of the faculty members and school trustees are included in the festivities.

On the afternoon of June 2, the senior class will leave Felton School on their New York trip. They will travel by Greyhound bus.

Felton High School will have many losses in athletics because of graduation. Only two of the Senior boys, Bill Mack and Bob Wyatt, will be absent from sports next year. Both boys played soccer, basketball, and baseball. Bill Mack was captain of the basketball team.

The girls' athletics will be hit hard by graduation. Hockey: Marilyn Steele, Doris Ann Cahall, Lenora Hughes, Claire Jester, Janet Lee Carroll, Phyllis Hrupsa, Jean Maris, and Betty Stanton; basketball: Marilyn Steele, Doris Ann Cahall, Claire Jester, Jean Maris, and Betsey Butler; baseball: Marilyn Steele, Doris Ann Cahall, Lenora Hughes, Claire Jester, Janet Lee Carroll, Phyllis Hrupsa, Jean Maris, and Betty Stanton.

The Felton High School Band will give its spring concert this evening at 8:15. The band is making good progress under the direction of Bob Arthur. In the program will be featured French horn and baritone duets. There will be ensembles by both the senior and the junior bands with clarinets and trumpets. The main feature of this program will be several numbers by a saxophone quintet. Numbers will be played by flutes as well as the Glee Club and Girls' Chorus.

The Felton Future Farmers of America Chapter held an election of officers for the school year 1953-54. The new officers are as follows: President, Elwood Fisher; vice-president, Elbert Harrington; secretary, Linford Lockwood; treasurer, Robert Cooper; reporter, Joe Hughes; sentinel, Kenneth Fitzgerald. The first and second year ag. boys went on a tour of the Swift Poultry Plant Friday afternoon. This was a very interesting and educational tour.
