

Delmarva Chicken Festival Opens Here Monday For Three Days at Fairgrounds

For the sixth consecutive year, the Delmarva Chicken Festival will be held on the peninsula where commercial broiler production originally started, and where 24 percent of the nation's broilers are presently grown. Highlights of the program include Junior and Senior cooking contests, selection of the Festival Queen, a chicken fry using the world's largest frying pan (10 feet in diameter), an equipment show displaying the latest in broiler growing machines and appliances, a festival parade and Red Foley's "Grand Old Opry" show as a grand finale. There is no charge.

This year the festival will be held on the Kent-Sussex Fairgrounds on June 22, 23, and 24. Brinton Holloway, general chairman, has named Ernest Killen and George Simpson, both directors of the permanent organization, as vice-chairmen. Mr. Killen will serve as publicity chairman.

Plans are well under way for the development of the festival, which is designed to promote consumption of chicken, the principal agricultural commodity of the peninsula. Scheduled activities are designed to provide entertainment, to publicize the Delmarva poultry industry and to provide new recipes for making chicken even more tasty and popular. Who can resist luscious fried chicken cooked in the huge frying pan by a crew of experienced cooks? Fred Greenly, Jr., Kent County vice-president of the Delaware Poultry Improvement Association, will direct the Harrington Lions Club members in preparing and serving chicken for everyone.

Mrs. Earl White of Bridgeville and her committee have completed arrangements for the National and Junior chicken cooking contests. One hundred men and women from all over the country are eligible to participate in the Senior Contest to be held on Wednesday, June 24. Fifty gas and electric stoves will be set up to accommodate the contestants, who will cook their favorite recipes. Prizes include $500 plus choice of gas or electric range for first place; $300 plus choice of gas or electric range for second place, and a new range for third place. Prizes four through fifteen will be announced later. The contest winner will be crowned by the New York City Poultry Commissioner.

Each contestant will be furnished with one or two "Delmarva" chickens ready to cook; also several kinds of fat, flour, salt and pepper. Contestants will furnish other ingredients and the utensils needed. Recipes will be mailed in advance to the chairman of the contest. Nationally known food experts will judge the prepared dishes on the basis of palatability, appearance and recipe.

Food editors who write for the leading magazines and newspapers in the country will fly to Delaware in order to attend the National Chicken Cooking Contest. Their plane will arrive at the Georgetown Airport at 11:45 a. m. Tuesday, June 23, and depart from the Dover Airport Wednesday afternoon. Their schedule includes visiting the poultry auction at Selbyville; a reception and banquet at the Rehoboth Beach Country Club Tuesday evening; a tour of lower Delaware Wednesday morning and attendance at the National Chicken Cooking Contest. While on the trip, these editors gather newsworthy material to use in their articles, which further publicize Delmarva chicken.

Fifty boys and girls on the Delmarva peninsula between the ages of 10 and 18 years are eligible to participate in the Junior chicken cooking contest. (If they have not won first place in previous contests).

Prizes include the following: 1st place—$50 cash, a choice of either a gas or electric stove, and a trophy from the Poultry and Egg National Board; 2nd place—$40 and a new stove; 3rd place—$30 and a merchandise prize; 4th place—$20 plus merchandise; 5th place—$10 plus merchandise. Dairy Queen Marks 13th Birthday

This is the 13th birthday of the national Dairy Queen organization, it was announced today by Bill Irwin, owner and operator of the local Dairy Queen store here.

It was in 1940 that the first Dairy Queen store was opened in Joliet, Ill. Today there are nearly two thousand member stores throughout the United States, Hawaii, Cuba, Guam, and Alaska.

The Irwins opened their store last month. "Dairy Queen was the first of its kind sold nationally under a uniform brand name," Mr. Irwin said, "and we are proud to be part of the network of stores."

Tomorrow the Harrington Dairy Queen store, on Route 13, will offer a 13 cent special sundae in honor of Dairy Queen's 13th birthday. For the kiddies who have saved 13 Dairy Queen spoons, they will receive a 10 cent cone free.

In error in last week's Journal we reported Dairy Queen celebrating their thirteenth anniversary last Saturday. They will observe the birthday this Saturday.

Storm Damages Raughley's Rye

A violent wind and rain storm, with hail, late Saturday afternoon did considerable damage in the Burrsville and Whiteleysburg area.

Alfred Raughley reports his rye suffered considerably from lodging.

Limbs many of them of large size, were broken from the trees, particularly at the homes of Wallace Redden and Lowell Needles.

Songwriter

Samuel A. Short, Jr.

Short's Song Has Plugger

Getting a song on the Hit Parade is no longer an impossible dream to local tunesmith Samuel A. Short Jr., now known as Delaware's own songwriter who at last has struck luck with one of his songs and his co-writer, Ralph Hymer, 1701 E. 11th St., Newberg, Ore., by having it accepted by one of the best societies for the unknown songwriter, of New York City, the heart of the music industry.

The Mutually Owned Society for Songwriters, Inc., a nationwide organization geared to promote commercial songs by new Irving Berlins, has chosen "The Blue Hen Boogie" as one of its plug songs to be submitted to publishers, recording companies, singers, and bandleaders.

Mr. Short's song was selected by the society's board of review from hundreds of songs by M.O.S.S. members all over the United States. This board is comprised of experts familiar with the stiff requirements of New York publishers, so it may not be long before Mr. Short's song is heard on the radio and the nation's juke boxes. When the board selects a song as "commercial" it gets its start on the road to the Hit Parade.

The Mutually Owned Society for Songwriters, Inc., of 1 E. 42nd St., New York City, is a non-profit organization formed to help songwriters get their words and music published.

Since it's next to impossible for new songwriters to get the publishers' attention, Mr. Short advises his fellow local hopefuls to fet on the M.O.S.S. bandwagon.

Harness Racing Bill Passes Senate and Lower House

The bill to permit the Sussex County harness racing licensee to race its dates in New Castle or Kent Counties slipped through the State Senate Thursday afternoon June 11, by a vote of 12 to five.

The harness racing bill, sponsored by Senators Thomas L. Johnson (R-Rehoboth Beach) and Curtis W. Steen (D-Dagsboro) is designed specifically to legalize holding racing dates which have been awarded to a Sussex County group on the Brandywine Raceway, now under construction north of Wilmington.

Kent Opposes Measure

Knowing this, Kent County interests have been trying to kill this and similar bills because they have charged repeatedly they would have an ultimate bad effect on the Kent and Sussex Racing Association, which operates the track at Harrington. Until this season, the Harrington track has been the only harness track in the state equipped with lights and pari-mutuel machines.

Senator Jehu F. Camper (D-Harrington) led the fight against the bill, and managed to pull all of the minority members with the exception of Senators Steen and John E. Reilly (D-Wilmington) to his side. The Republicans voted for the measure as a bloc. Reading a prepared statement, Senator Camper said in part: "This is the fifth bill which

Would Aid Few Individuals

"This bill would permit Sussex County to transfer its racing dates to either or both of the other two counties, presumably at least, for a monetary consideration and I would like to stress the point that this monetary consideration would be received in Sussex County, as a whole or as a political subdivision, would in no way benefit from this transaction."

Senator Walter Hansberry (D-Leipsic), the minority leader, declared: "I have nothing against the people of Sussex County but I wonder what they have against the people of Kent and New Castle in trying to pass such class legislation."

Senator Reilly, who is minority

Manuel Pack Dies When Storm Destroys Plane Over New Jersey

In London, Sees Coronation by Television

Miss Katherine Downing, of Milford, attended the coronation in London—and witnessed the colorful pageant—over a television set, she told Harrington Rotarians Tuesday evening.

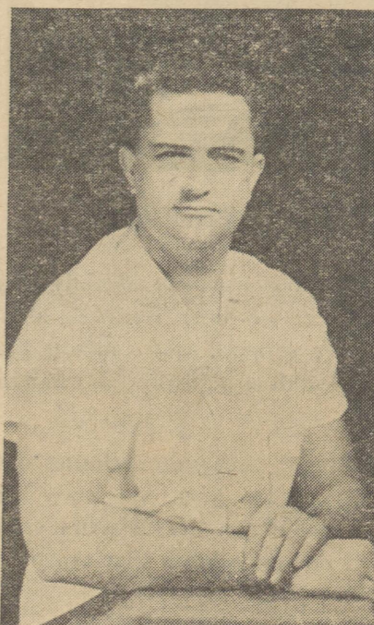

She had arranged for a seat in a vantage point of a large department store, by which the parade would pass. She was seated long before the parade was due, and, with others in the building, viewed the coronation by means of television. Meals were served in the building, and these she described as satisfactory, and at a cost well below that charged in America.

The minute her party landed in the country, she became aware of coronation preparations everywhere. Practically all residences and business houses were decorated with the Union Jack, and many of the more pretentious buildings were decorated with crowns. Scotland, England—everywhere they went—the coronation was the sole topic of conversation. People from the far-flung sections of the British Commonwealth were in attendance—from Canada, Australia, New Zealand, South Africa—and all of them were cheering for their queen, for the wearer of the crown is the tradition binding the segments of the empire together.

Miss Downing marveled at the calmness of the British people in a traffic jam. She was in one such jam that lasted an hour or so. The people sat in their cars during that hour—and uttered no word of protest—just sat and waited for the traffic to be cleared. Although Miss Downing did not make the comparison, we know that such a condition in impatient America, even one lasting only ten or fifteen minutes, would call for honks and hoots, catcalls and curses—and even the flailing of fists.

Miss Downing kissed the Blarney Stone, presumed to impart eloquence to the kisser, and judging from her delivery and choice of words Tuesday evening, we believe it helped her. Millions of reverent lips have caressed the Blarney Stone, and when someone looked askance at one kissing such a dirty stone, she explained that it was clean. See Coronation next Page Col. 5

Services Interceptors in Korea

Fifth Air Force, Korea—Framed by the engine housing of a U. S. Air Force F-86 Sabrejet, with assorted hydraulic and control connections hanging from above, T-Sgt. Robert D. Walls, of Milford, a crew chief with the 51st Fighter-Interceptor Wing in Korea, adjusts a hose fitting in the aircraft's aft section. Completely removable from the rest of the aircraft, the tail section houses the engine and tailpipe of the deadly jet fighter interceptors. It is through the maintenance of well-trained crew chiefs such as Sergeant Walls, that pilots of the Sabrejets have been able to keep their aircraft in the skies over North Korea, destroying MIG-15s that attempt to attack fighter bombers escorted by the Sabres. Since the start of the Korean conflict, the sleek, swept-wing Sabrejets have destroyed 687 of the Russian-built MIG warplanes.

A 45 year old Milford businessman and head of the Civil Air Patrol Squadron there was killed Saturday when his light plane was blown to pieces by a thunderhead over New Jersey.

He is Manuel (Manny) Pack, vice-president of the Rodney Feed Company, who was on his way to a New York University alumni reunion in New York City. CAP officials said the plane was torn apart by winds. Wreckage was strewn over a wide area south of Millville. There was no evidence of fire.

Meanwhile, aircraft of the Civil Air Patrol's Delaware Wing continued to search the waters north of Lewes for a plane which disappeared with four persons aboard on a flight from Washington, D. C. to Salisbury, Md., late Friday. A piece of metal thought to be part of the craft was picked up at Broadkill Beach Sunday.

Pack's body was found in the woods, pinned in the fuselage of his red and silver Beechcraft Bonanza.

He left the Georgetown Airport at 3:04 p. m. Saturday, planning to fly to Teterboro, N. J., and go on to his reunion there. He contacted the Rehoboth Airport at 3:20 p. m., and said he was within 25 minutes of Millville.

The airport instructed him to climb to 9,000 feet, go on instrument flying, and contact the Millville Airport. He was not heard from again.

CAP officials said it was known he ran into a thunderstorm, and said he probably got caught in an air turbulence, "which can twist a plane apart." Rivets were ripped from the fuselage, and the wings torn into fragments three feet long. The tail assembly was lopped off as if by an axe, according to Capt. Al Uber of the Millville CAP.

Funeral services were held Tuesday at the Berry Funeral Home, Milford, with interment in Montefiore Cemetery, Long Island City, N. Y.

Mr. Pack, a native of Long Island City, had been in the feed business in Milford since about 1946. He was instrumental in forming the Milford CAP squadron.

Officials of the CAP said he had been a licensed pilot for about 15 years, but had only recently qualified for instrument flying.

He is survived by his wife, Sara; four children, Elaine, 22; Richard, 13; Linda, 11 and David, 7; his mother, Mrs. Gussie Pack, of Miami, Fla., and four brothers Harry Pack, president of the feed company in Milford; David and Louis Pack, Milford, and Michael Pack, Lakewood, N. J.

The Washington plane thought to have crashed into the sea off Lewes was piloted by George Ackerman, Washington real estate broker. Also aboard were Miss Sara Mitchell, secretary to U. S. Rep. Hugh Quincy Alexander (D-NC); George Yost, a salesman for the Ackerman firm, and Miss Romaine Saunders, 19, an employee in the Interior Department.

Capt. Alvin Thawley, a member of the Delaware National Guard who flew jet planes in the Korean conflict, sighted what is believed to have been a wing tip of a plane on the Boadkill Beach at 4:30 p. m. Sunday.

Crews of searchers hurried to the beach and picked up the piece of aluminum seven feet long and about six inches wide. The search for the Washington plane was called off at darkness. CAP wings from Delaware, New Jersey, Maryland, Pennsylvania, and the District of Columbia joined in the search Saturday afternoon. Although not alerted with the others, CAP units in Virginia joined also. These airmen were assisted by the Coast Guard, Delaware and Maryland State Police and the Delaware Air National Guard.

A Delaware CAP official said pattern of the plane's flight could take it in the direction toward Broadkill Beach.

The searching parties were alerted by Westover Field to look for the Craft Sunday afternoon. The Navion, carrying the serial number 3585H on its wing tips, left Washington at 6:07 p. m., Friday after filing a flight plan calling for arrival at Salisbury, Md., at 7:30 p. m.

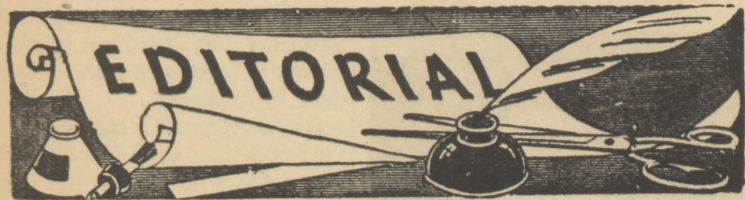

A resident near Salisbury reported seeing a plane answering the description of the missing craft passing overhead with its motor sputtering about 8 p. m. Friday.

STATE PRINTING IS CHEAP ENOUGH

From time to time, through the press and, occasionally from some apparently uninformed observer, we hear squawks about "state printing costing too much."

It has been our experience, however, that state printing does not cost too much. If anything, it costs too little.

State printing is not, as a rule, not much more than a "fill-in", that is, work to take up the slack periods.

We bid on some 16 items from the Secretary of State's office recently, and were awarded four. The advertisement for bids was placed in several newspapers.

As we recall, we lost one order by 25 cents; another by $1.50, and still a third, by $6 or $7. That is what we call close bidding.

The profit is so small, in many cases, that printers are oftentimes disinclined to submit bids. This happened to us on legislative printing two years ago.

DEATH ON OUR HIGHWAYS

Four persons were killed on U.S. Route 13 south of town last week. Four more were killed on the same highway, near the same spot, in early May.

This means more police, more radars, police in unmarked cars, revocation of drivers' licenses for fewer offenses.

What A Line

by Ethel M. Hunter

Speaking of gardens and everything that goes with them, I saw one this past week that topped them all.

ous. I might run up again later on. I did ask him when they would be ripe.

As you know, tomatoes at one time were not considered good to eat, but since have been found to be helpful when balancing diets, so you can serve them many ways.

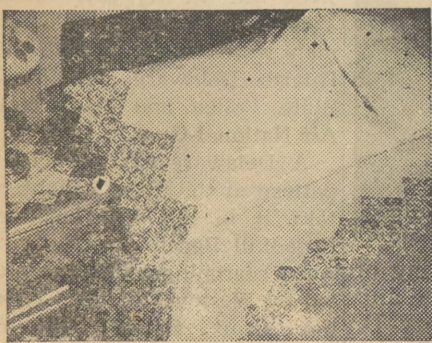

Tomatoes Stuffed With Corn

Scoop out the center of nice size tomatoes, fill with corn cut fresh from the cob which has been seasoned to taste, salt, pepper, etc.

Nice, I'll say!

Peep from the cold ground below. Then warmer days of rain and shine, Brought their stems to radiant flower; whip, said he had been accused of working with the Republican party—of working with Senator Peeney (Senator Thomas E. Peeney, Wilmington Republican). I think we owe our allegiance to the people."

Senator E. Cowgill Barnard R-Woodside, a Kent Countian, said he wanted to be "very sure that the Kent Racing Association gets a fair break."

"I have been reliably informed," he added, "that the Kent group has gotten a square deal. I've also been informed—and I think reliably so—that the majority of the Kent Association is behind this bill and that Kent has been granted the dates they originally asked for."

The important change embodied in the bill would permit the Sussex County license—to race its dates in either or both of the other counties.

30-Day Limit Provided

The limit on days of harness racing in any county would be increased from 20 to 30 to handle the Sussex County dates in either Kent or New Castle Counties.

Another provision of the bill would open the books of any harness racing corporation to the harness racing commission. It would require any such corporation to be made up of five Delaware residents, and require its offices to be located within the state.

Working until nearly 11 o'clock Wednesday night, the House of Representatives passed after an argument lasting 30 minutes the bill which will permit 30 days of racing at the Brandywine Raceway in northwestern Brandywine Hundred. The vote was 23 to 4.

The lower chamber passed nine other bills and a resolution endorsing the Bricker Resolution in Congress on the making of treaties and executive agreements.

In approving the harness racing measure, sponsored by Senator Thomas L. Johnson (R-both Beach) the House knocked down two amendments, one of which was proposed by Speaker F. Albert Jones (R-Claymont) and would have limited racing at this oval to 20 days.

Mr. Jones, discussing his amendment, said that the people of Brandywine Hundred whom he represents are opposed to an extension of racing at the new track which is located near the intersection of the Concord Pike and Naaman's Road.

Fox Opposes Bill Also speaking against Senator Johnson's bill was S. Marston Fox of the Council of Civic Associations of Brandywine Hundred who read from a statement of which mimeographed copies had been circulated to the members of the house.

According to Mr. Fox, there is "vigorous opposition in Brandywine Hundred to any extension of time allotted for harness racing at the Brandywine Hundred Track beyond the 20 days provided in the present law."

"Over 20 civic associations and about 600 persons acting as individuals have objected to this proposed extension of time."

The track is located in an area known as 'area of intensive growth' by the Regional Planning Commission of New Castle County. The effect of the track's operation will be to lower the value of residential properties now existing or undergoing rapid development. A long meet annually will affect the character of the neighborhood, as it develops, far more than a short meet."

J. W. Elliot Dies

John Wesley Elliott, 74, husband of Mary A. Elliott, died at his home yesterday after a lengthy illness. He was a produce farmer and lived around this community for the past 70 years.

Beside his wife, he is survived by his two daughters, Mrs. Clarence Ocheltree, of Greenwood, and Mrs. Mart Uhler, of Bridgeville; also a very near nephew, Clifford Elliott, of Milton, whom he raised, a granddaughter, Mrs. Vernon Metzner, and a great grandson, Edwin Metzner, of Seaford; two brothers, Brinkley Elliott, of Milford, and Samuel Elliott, of Salisbury, Md.

Funeral services will be held Sunday at 2 o'clock at the Fleischauer Funeral Home, Greenwood. Interment will be in the St. Johnstown Cemetery, the Rev. E.C. Thomas officiating. Friends may call at the funeral home Saturday night.

FATHER'S DAY

"Around Father's Day I get a big kick out of opening the presents my kids have picked out for me. And I get to thinking about how much those tousle-headed youngsters mean to me. One thing I'm mighty glad of is the way I've planned for their future by saving regularly. Pretty soon I'll have enough to send them to college in style. And they'll never have to worry about when my working days are over."

Drop in tomorrow to talk over the various savings plans to fit your income and your family's needs.

George W. Hitchens Celebrates 93rd Birthday

Born shortly before Lincoln was elected President, George W. Hitchens, who spent most of his life farming near Felton, was given a surprise birthday party Sunday in observance of his 93rd birthday on Saturday.

About 100 persons, relatives and friends—most of them from Delaware—attended the party, held at the home of Mrs. Ida M. Johns, a daughter, on East Hinkley Avenue, Ridley Park, Pa., with whom Mr. Hitchens now lives.

Born in Church Hill, Md., Mr. Hitchens moved to Delaware as a young man and spent most of his life farming near Felton. Mr. Hitchens, who is keenly aware of local and national developments, is principally interested in seeing members of his family and hearing of their activities and in keeping abreast of the times through television.

We hear a lot of favorable comment on the new store along our main street, run by Cliff Hammond. Competition is the life of trade and any growth is good for our community. That is as it should be. In the few years that we have been back, we have seen a good florist shop and a good drug store established, and lately a good funeral home. Many new homes have been built and many new faces are seen on our streets. We look forward to a good future.

Greenwood

Unseasonably cool weather seems to be in order around Greenwood for the past week, and so much rain has boosted the weed growth. The farmers are getting anxious to see more of those hot nights "when you can hear the corn grow." I have heard only one whipporwill this year, and when I was a little girl (a great many years ago), we could hear any number of them call every evening just at dusk.

The Children's Day services at Grace Methodist Church were well attended, and everyone thought the children did very well with their "pieces". The choir gave us two beautiful anthems with Mrs. Mary Coulter and Phillip Holson as soloists.

Our Daily Vacation Bible School for all the children in Greenwood and vicinity is now going on. The teachers report a first-day enrollment of 71 with more expected as they get under way.

Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Hynson were Sunday dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Chester Hynson of Preston, Md.
Mr. and Mrs. Colin C. Bethune have been visiting here again for two weeks with Mrs. Bethune's sister, Mrs. Lawrence Wilson. Colin is Chief Warrant Officer in the Navy and is stationed at Newport, Rhode Island.

Delaware Drive Started To Aid Suffering Koreans

Delaware's drive to aid the suffering civilians in Korea will be built around the theme "Let's all help carry the load," inspired by the oil painting of Brig. Gen. Norman M. Lack, who is serving as chairman of the Aid to Korea Committee.

Gen. Lack has captured in oil American GI's and their great admiration for the Korean people. He depicts an unknown American soldier, somewhere in Korea, carrying an aged Korean civilian to safety graphically demonstrating the friendship that has been developed on a "people to people" level, as Gov. J. Caleb Boggs recently expressed it.

Gen. Lack said yesterday that he hopes that all Delawareans will make a contribution to the $5,000,000 fund to be raised nationally, for on a trip to Korea last year, he learned the first hand of the great suffering and need of the people.

"I cannot tell you more than Marquis Childs did in a recent syndicated column he pointed out that the area is overriden with poverty, sickness and misery...the wretched state which the war has brought to Korea. Every day there is a suicide, every there are persons driven insane by the very chore of keeping alive against hopeless odds. Many die of hunger and many die of disease."

Gen. Lack pointed out that 10,000,000 are homeless, and the number of dead, both civilian and military, is placed near the three million mark during the three years that the war has raged up and down within this tired country's boundaries.

"The American-Korean Foundation is trying to do," Gen. Lack pointed out, "is to make a token contribution toward the rehabilitation of these people; to provide medicine for the sick; homes for orphaned children and widows. It is estimated that complete rehabilitation will cost well over a billion dollars. These immediate steps are necessary to keep people alive and to give them hope for better days ahead."

Gen. Lack pointed out that contributions may be mailed directly by interested individuals. They can address them to "Aid to Korea," Box 2506, Union Street Station, Wilmington, Delaware.

Local committees are expected to be formed and the campaign will follow closely along those of the national organization. Tentative termination date of the drive has been set for Saturday, June 20, but the committee will accept donations beyond that date.

Plans Started For Program To Control Brucellosis

The State Board of Agriculture, in cooperation with Delaware dairy men and the federal government, has initiated plans for an aggressive program for control of brucellosis (Bang's disease) among dairy herds to conform to regulations of neighboring states and to preserve Delaware's milk export market.

George H. Simpson, Houston, has been named as chairman of a special committee of dairymen to assist the state board in the proposed plan for the eradication of Bang's disease.

He was named at a meeting of board and staff members of the State Board of Agriculture and cattle breeders of the state, the Dairy Herd Improvement Association, the Artificial Breeders Association, county agricultural agents, and the extension service of the University of Delaware.

Delaware dairymen depend on a milk exporting market and they must begin now to prepare to meet the requirements of other states, with a majority of the milk produced in Delaware being shipped in Philadelphia and Camden, New Jersey, it was stressed at the meeting. During the week ended May 11, a total of 1,523,965 pounds of milk was received in the Philadelphia metropolitan area from Delaware producers.

As explained by one authority the situation is this:

In view of neighboring states' proposed regulations and the fact that better than 50 per cent of the milk produced in Delaware is export milk, and the requirements that our dairy herds must meet, they must be protected from neighboring herds, including beef cattle, dairy cattle, goat herds, and swine herds.

In addition, the export market of foundation breeding stock animals and dairy herd replacements, requires that our state regulations coincide as nearly as practicable with the requirements of our neighboring states.

RING TEST PROGRAMS

"Ring test" of milk is one of the steps in the program. This test is used for the purpose of screening and does not replace the agglutination test. Samples would be collected at the milk stations or dairies at the rate of one sample for every three cans of milk followed by testing in the laboratory in Dover by a serologist. A positive reaction would mean a suspicious herd and call for inspection of the entire herd.

The serologist and technicians would be federal employees.

Recommendations of the special committee to the Board of Agriculture for consideration are:

1. That the ring test be put into effect immediately and follow-up blood tests be promoted and carried out following reports of the ring test.
2. That the state be divided into areas, such as hundreds, and that these areas be accredited for brucellosis as soon as they qualify.
3. That all cattle shows and all cattle sales where cattle are sold for herd replacements, and cattle in transit in the state, be inspected by an official of the state livestock sanitation division for the proper health certificates.

Woman Killed When Train Hits Auto

A 49-year-old Selbyville woman was killed in a collision between the automobile in which she was riding and a freight train in Selbyville late Saturday night, while 16 others were injured in motor vehicle accidents in this state over the week-end.

The dead victim was Mrs. Almata Jones, who suffered her fatal injuries when the automobile was dragged 70 feet by a diesel freight engine at 11 p. m. Saturday. She was pronounced dead on arrival at the office of Dr. Robert Long in Frankford from a fractured skull.

Injured in the crash were her husband, John R. Jones, 50, driver of the car; John R. Jones, Jr., 26, a son, and the latter's wife, Adell, 24. The elder Jones suffered fractured ribs and a back injury. He was reported in "fairly good" condition in the Milford Hospital Sunday night. The other two suffered only bruises and scratches.

The accident happened while the freight train was northbound from Franklin City to Harrington. Scene of the crash is a built-up dirt crossing near the H. and H. Poultry Company plant. At a point near the crossing, the tracks parallel the road and the car was keeping pace with the train before the crash.

The 1948 model, four-door sedan was hit in the center, dragged 70 feet along the tracks and demolished before the smashed wreckage was thrown clear of the train. William H. Davis was the engineer with Fireman Joseph W. Mitchell at the controls. Both are from Harrington. Fred Sammons of Georgetown was freight conductor.

Five persons were injured in an accident on the Lewes-Milford road, near Lewes, early Saturday morning. They were James C. Lassiter, 27, of Milford; Irma Robinson, 26, also of Milford, a passenger in Lassiter's car; Arley Derrickson, 64, driver of the other car, and his two passengers, Charles Williams, 26, and Anna B. Williams, 28, both of New York City. All five were treated at the Beebe Hospital in Lewes and later released.

The Walter Hanson Farm

Walter Hanson, former representative from the Ninth District, came in Tuesday and identified the farm depicted on last week's Rural Photo Quiz page as his own. Mr. Hanson has 280 acres on the Harrington-Vernon Road. Mrs. Hanson saw the picture first. The Hanson's grow wheat, corn, soybeans, and some peppers. They milk 21 cows, practically all Holsteins. They have lived on their farm 35 years, settling there in 1918 and purchasing it in 1932. The Hanson's have two girls and three boys, with the oldest in partnership with his father. The Hansons are Harrington Journal subscribers.

ANTIBIOTICS SHOW PROMISE

Experiments carried out at the U.S. Department of Agriculture's Plant Industry Station at Beltsville, Maryland, indicate that bacterial diseases of plants may be controlled in the near future by antibiotic sprays.

In greenhouse experiments and field trials at the station, halo blight, a common bacterial disease of beans, was successfully stamped out by applications of streptomycin sulfate. It remains only to find a means of using the antibiotic in a crude state rather than in its expensive, purified form to make this method of control practical for farm use, say the Beltsville scientists. Recommendations for general use should be ready within the next year or two.

In the Beltsville experiments, streptomycin sulfate was applied to the stems of the plants. The antibiotic was absorbed by the stems and moved upward to nearby leaves in sufficient amounts to protect them from the halo-bright bacteria. No evidence was found that the antibiotic entered the pods, or edible portions of the plants.

Further research on the use of antibiotics in sprays and dusts for control of plant diseases is planned by the USDA scientists.

Swiss and India Students to Vie In Cooking Match

Two International Farm Youth Exchange visitors will be among chicken cooking contestants at the sixth annual Delmarva Chicken Festival next Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday at Harrington, it was revealed today by Mrs. Earl White, Bridgeville, contest chairman.

They are Miss Bethli Wittwer, 23, of Reichenbach, Switzerland, and Lakshmi Sharam, 26, of Miranipur, Muzaffarnagar, Uttar Pradesh, India.

Miss Wittwer is the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Fifer of Vaughan Fox of near Newark. Mr. Fox recently returned from a similar experience in India.

Mr. Sharam expressed a desire to enter several weeks ago. But he wanted to cook curried chicken, India style, but did not know the English names of spices.

Department to Rescue
Mrs. Margaret Osborne of the Kent County Extension Service gave the Delaware State Development Department a list of the spices in Hindi.

Miles L. Frederick, development director, forwarded the list to the embassy of India in Washington. In less than a week, the translation was returned.

Miss Wittwer says that chicken is a delicacy in her country, although more veal is eaten. She plans to prepare young chicken Swiss.
$17,000-a-Year Farm
Mr. Sharam, who operates a 600-acre farm in India, is married and the father of a 2-year-old boy. He said yesterday that more modern methods are being employed in his country. He has two tractors. His farm yields approximately $17,000 a year.

Both will appear at the festival on Wednesday, Monday at 1 p.m., Gov. J. Caleb Boggs and other tri-state officials will help start the festival.

DEFROSTING DATA FOR HOME FREEZERS, REFRIGERATORS

Frost in refrigerators and home freezers is one of the home-maker's concerns in summer. When, how, and even why to defrost differs considerably between the two, according to A. V. Krewatch, Extension agricultural engineer, University of Maryland.

Frost on the evaporator of the refrigerator should never become more than 1-4 inch thick. The thicker the frost, the more it insulates or blankets the evaporator. The cooling effect of the interior of the refrigerator is reduced, no matter how much the motor runs. Thick frost lets the inside of the refrigerator warm up so that foods don't keep too well. Most home refrigerators need defrosting at least once a week—or oftener during the hot summer months when the refrigerator is used more for chilling foods and beverages. For defrosting, Krewatch advises that you follow the directions that come with your refrigerator. Some manufacturers advise quick defrosting with hot water in the ice trays, while others warn against it. Some refrigerators have automatic defrosting.

In contrast to the refrigerators, home freezers or freezer compartments of refrigerators should need defrosting only once or twice a year. Best management calls for removing frost when it is about 1-2 inch thick on large areas of walls or shelves.

A thick coat of frost in the freezer acts as a blanket through which heat must pass—just the same as in your household refrigerator. A thick blanket of frost slows down the rate at which warm foods freeze, says Krewatch. Thick frost is wasteful because it cuts down storage space, also as much electricity is spent holding frost at zero as on the frozen food that should be occupying the space.

Frost can be removed while the freezer is in operating by scraping. Scoop-type tools which catch the frost as it's scraped, are made especially for this job. Some of the new type scrapers are made of plastic. Never scrape with anything sharp enough to damage the freezer walls or the gasket around the opening. If ice forms on the walls of your freezer, instead of frost, very likely the temperature is running too high, or you've been overloading your freezer with warm foods for freezing.

Ice that forms in the freezer is too hard to scrape off so it must be melted. To remove ice, disconnect the freezer and take out the food. Then melt the ice off by running cold water over it if the freezer has a drain. Otherwise, hasten the melting by placing an electric fan so it blows cold air out and warm air in. Remove ice as it loosens and keep sponging up the water as it

OVERHEAD FEED STORAGE

Gravity delivery of feed from overhead storage saves time, work and ground-level storage space problems.

Overhead bins are not always accessible to the bulk delivery truck, but they can be filled by means of a drag conveyor, screw elevator or blower, advises A.V. Krewatch, extension agricultural engineer, at the University of Maryland.

In building an overhead storage, suggests Krewatch, keep in mind that ground feeds form bridges even in steep-sided hoppers. Use of extra large delivery chutes to overcome this difficulty.

He suggests chutes at least 12 by 12 in cross-section, with bin sides flush with the chute edge to avoid a ledge for interfering with the flow of feed.

FORMER MAGISTRATE ENDS LIFE BY SHOOTING
Former Magistrate Matthew

Russell, 80, of Greenwood died at his home Wednesday night of a self-inflicted revolver wound according to state police at Bridgeville. They listed death as suicide.

Mr. Russell, who, they reported, had been in ill health, went to the bathroom. A few minutes later his wife, Mrs. Velma Della Russell, and his daughter, Mrs. Zilda Lloyd, who were in the living room, heard a shot and running to the bathroom found the victim on the floor.

Coroner VOLLIE Gray of Dagsboro investigated with state police.

X Ray Council To Meet in Dover Thursday

The Kent County Council for the Delaware State-Wide Chest X-Ray Survey will meet Thursday, June 25, at 8 p. m. at the Wesley Junior College in Dover.

More than 200 citizens of Kent County attended an X-Ray Survey organization meeting at Capital Grange Hall Monday evening.

John S. Charlton, chairman of the planning committee, announced that Kent County's X-Raying program will begin earlier than anticipated, probably about September 9, and said that it is urgent that county and community planning be started immediately.

A County X-Ray Council was selected, empowered to choose a county chairman who will also act as a vice-president of the statewide survey organization. This council will set up policies and coordinate all local activities in the county.

Mr. Charlton appointed a nominating committee composed of Dr. George R. Miller, Jr., chairman; Vera Davis and Ralph Peters.

Four committees were formed: Public Information, Location Planning, Business, Industry and Labor, and Volunteer Training.

Four speakers presented facts about the survey plans and needs, after a message from Gov. J. Caleb Boggs was delivered by Edward Ewell.

Dean William O. Penrose, president of the Delaware State-Wide Chest X-Ray Survey, Inc., reported on state progress; John S. Charlton described the Coun-

Senator Frear added, "Many of them have not only been outstanding military leaders, but in addition they have qualified themselves as statesmen, diplomats, and administrators as well. SENATOR J ALLEN FREAR

United States Senator J. Allen Frear announced today that he will make five principal appointments to the United States Military and Naval Academies for the class beginning in July, 1954. Three of the appointments are being made for the Military Academy at West Point.

As in the past Mr. Frear will nominate all candidates on the basis of results from a competitive examination to be held in Wilmington and in Dover Mon., July 13.

In his weekly statement, Senator Frear invited all qualified young men from Delaware, interested in taking the examination to contact him for necessary authorization.

To be eligible for entrance, boys must have completed four years of high school, be in good physical condition, and be able to meet academic standards of two schools. They must also be residents of Delaware to be considered for Senator Frear's appointment.

In addition to the five principal candidates, Mr. Frear will also name 15 alternate candidates to be selected in numerical order to succeed principal appointees who fail to meet final physical or mental standards at either West Point or Annapolis.

The Delaware Senator suggested that all prospective applicants become proficient in mathematics before the date of the test.

He also emphasized that appointments to be academics would be made with the expectation that these receiving them will pursue a career in the Armed Forces upon the completion of their course of study.

"In these days," said Senator Frear, "when the defense of the country is so vital, it is important that we have able and desirable young men graduating from Annapolis and West Point who can take their places of military leadership in the years ahead."

"Red" Foley

"Grand Ole Opry" are being provided by the Ralston Purina Company as their contribution in making the Delmarva Festival the biggest of its kind in the country.

Red Foley is one of America's best-known radio and recording artists. Before joining the "Opry" he was a star of another NBC featured program. The National Barn Dance. His phonograph recording of "Chattanooga Shoe Shine Boy" is one of the largest selling records of all times. In addition, Red Foley is noted for his recording of hymns. Rod Brasfield has held the featured male comedy spot on the Grand Ole Opry for more than five years. He is a veteran of show business ranging all the way from Chattanooga tents to stock companies to radio and television.

Time for the festival parade is scheduled at 6, and the entertainment will follow at the conclusion at the fairgrounds at Harrington at 8 P.M.

Charley Blades, Burrsville ace and Johns Hopkins star, put another star in his crown Sunday when he fanned 19 as Harrington defeated Wyoming here, 4-3, at the Moose diamond in a Mar-Del Baseball League game.

Blades' performance was especially brilliant when one considers he had to handle a wet ball in misty weather. His opponent was none less than the well-known Harry Barrett, no slouch himself when it comes to tossing the pill.

Harrington scored twice in the final inning after Wyoming had forged to the lead with a run in their half of the extra session.

Wayne Brown singled to drive in Jim Cabbage, who had tripled, with the winning marker.

Lewes kept its slate clean with a 1-0 shutout at Felton behind the three-hit pitching of Fred McDowell, making his first start for the pacemakers. Harold Rothermel, Felton righthander, allowed only six hits.

Ellendale tripped Henderson, 7-3, in a game halted at five innings by rain. Tommy Wells, former Milford High hurler of no-hit fame, was the winner.

Viola and Frederica were rained out.

Harrington is scheduled to play at Viola Sunday.

Youthful Winner of Broiler Contest Uses Infrared Lamps

Donald C. Davis, an 8th grader, of Poveyville, Maryland, won first place in the junior broiler production contest which the Maryland Poultry Council sponsored recently. The contest, designed to teach young people how to grow good chicks economically, was a 4-H club activity. In competition with 40 Eastern Shore boys and girls, Donald gained first place for his dressed broilers.

To keep the young chicks warm Donald used an infrared 4-lamp unit which was given to him by Eastern Shore Public Service for experimental purposes. Two lamps were automatically controlled by change of temperature in the chicken house. "I turned the other two on or off as needed," said Donald and he added enthusiastically, "the safety and convenience of this infrared heat for brooding beats any of the stoves I ever saw!"

His chicks were sold at 11 weeks at a profit of 23 cents a chick. Furthermore, his parents pointed out that Donald's flock averaged 1/2 pound heavier per bird than their own birds which were sold the same day but were brooded with stoves.

Donald's parents watch the infrared lamp method with keen interest. They say they could sleep better at night if they had infrared lamps instead of the stoves they use. His mother said her chickens caught cold when they were young and had to be given medicine. "But Donald's chicks," she explained, "just crawled under those infrared lamps and baked first one side and then the other. They never had to be doctored at all!"

With the pride of a successful modern chicken farmer, Donald added, "Out of 510 chicks from the hatchery, I sold 506 broilers. I'm keen on infrared. I've ordered 500 more chicks and you can bet I'll raise 'em under infrared lamps."

The jobs that come in cans

The American Can Company hasn't yet worked out a practical container for packing jobs and economic security. We make cans—we do no canning.

But, by making better cans, we have actually created job opportunities in many different fields.

All kinds of things—foods and beverages, paints and varnishes, tobacco and tennis balls—keep better, are more convenient and easier to use when they are packed in the right kind of container.

So, markets for these products expand. Thousands of new, well-paid jobs open up, and incomes climb.

In fact, whole new businesses have been able to get started because a suitable can was developed to hold a product. You probably know of manufacturing plants right in Delaware that owe their existence to the industry.

Creating new jobs is only one example of what America has accomplished in our free, competitive way of doing business. People working together, playing together and living together bring social and economic gains to all.

And such teamwork between our people and our business system promises greater prosperity and more jobs for our future.

MERRYMAKERS HEAR MISS A. CASKIE

The Merrymakers Home Demonstration Club held its regular monthly meeting last Wednesday evening at the home of the president, Mrs. Lester Smith, with Mrs. Charles Greenhaugh as co-hostess.

The following announcements were made by Mrs. Smith:

Short Course at the University of Delaware Wednesday through Saturday; Leader Training School on "Cleaning and Adjusting Sewing Machines," Thurs., June 25, at Caesar Rodney National Home Demonstration Club Convention in Boston, Mass.; Country Training School, "Freezing Meals," July 9, at 1:30, at Caesar Rodney School.

An invitation was read to have the club represented at the meeting in Dover at the Capital Grange of the Chest X-Ray program. Mrs. Joan Winkler will attend this meeting.

The annual club picnic will be held on the regular meeting date in August at 6:30 in Wheeler's Community Park. Members and families are invited to attend.

Miss Alice Caskie, representative of the Delaware League for Planned Parenthood, was the speaker of the evening. She told of the history of the international organization, its purpose and aim, and of the work the league does. There are two clinics, a Child Spacing Clinic and an Infertility Clinic in Wilmington, and a Child Spacing Clinic in each of the following towns: Dover, Georgetown and Seaford.

Miss Caskie stressed the fact that the job of the league is one primarily of education, and its aim is that every woman in the state shall have knowledge of the services that they offer.

Mrs. Herman C. Brown reported on the meeting which she attended recently pertaining to the topic "Cooking the Lesser Known Vegetables."

Mrs. Smith announced that there would be no meeting in July. However, members of the club who have expressed interest in Textile Painting are reminded that an informal meeting to do this work will be held at the home of Mrs. Virginia Winkler on the regular meeting night July 8.

Mrs. George Vapaa and Georgia and Mrs. Charles Peck, Jr., spent a day last week with Mrs. Bessie Stevenson at her cottage in Rehoboth.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Lynam, of Lansing, Mich., are spending a few days with Mrs. Lynam's parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Toppin, before leaving to spend the summer in Rehoboth. VETERANS ADMINISTRATION INFORMATION SERVICE

Questions and Answers

Q—About two years ago, VA asked a veteran to come in for a physical examination on a claim he had filed for disability compensation. He never showed up. Now, he has decided he would like to follow through on his application. Can he do so?

A—He can't follow through on his original claim. His failure to get in touch with VA within one year after he was asked to report for an examination constitutes an abandonment of his claim. In order to get further action, he'll have to file a new application. Should his claim finally be approved, compensation may begin from the date he filed his new application—not his original one.

Q—I am drawing compensation, and I feel that my disability has taken a turn for the worse. Will VA accept a statement to that effect from my private physician, in considering my claim for increased compensation?

Yes. A statement from your private physician may be accepted as evidence, but his findings must be verified by an official VA examination.

Q—If a serviceman dies while on active duty, as of what date do indemnity payments to his beneficiaries begin?

A—Indemnity payments begin as of the date of the death of the serviceman.

Q—I am the widow of a World War I veteran, and I am applying for death pension from the VA. As of what date will the payments be effective, assuming VA approves my claim?

A—If you file your claim within one year from the date of your husband's death, the pension payments will begin as of the day following the date of his death. If you wait longer than one year to file, the effective date will be the date you filed your application.

First Territory
The Louisiana Purchase was the first accession to the territory of the United States.

By Dr. Edgar P. Wells
Department of Horticulture
University of Maryland

This is the last of several articles on the proper stage for harvesting our various garden crops. We've dealt with this topic at some length because use of a vegetable when it is "just right" contributes materially to the satisfaction we derive from it as food. So, in that old quotation "the proof of the pudding is in the eating" we might very well substitute the word vegetable for pudding and it would be equally true.

The Creator has endowed human nature with the natural appetite to nourish one's self and in the satisfying of this has wisely woven pleasure. While the primary purpose of taking food is self-nourishment we are certainly entitled to the utmost in pleasure that can be derived from it. Whether you "eat to live, or live to eat," why not harvest the fruits of your labors at the stage when they will give the greatest satisfaction when they reach the table.

Vegetable soybeans are now grown in many home gardens and are highly nutritious—being rich in protein and fat. They should be harvested as soon as any white or yellowish beans are found in the oldest pods at the base of the plant. They are hard to shell but this is made easy by immersing the pods in boiling water for 5 minutes. Then break in two and the beans will pop out easily when the pod is squeezed. For dry beans, pods should be mature but gathered before beans shatter.

Harvest beets at any time after reaching sufficient size, from 1 inch up to 1 1/2 inches in diameter, before becoming tough and fibrous. In thinning reset plants that are removed.

Sweet corn is the best when the kernel content is at the milk stage.

as shown by the thumb-nail test. Use immediately.

Sprouting broccoli should be cut while the central green head is still compact and before the buds begin to open. After this a number of smaller stalks will develop, bearing smaller heads. Egg plant should be used while the surface is still highly glossy. Collards may be used at any time after leaves reach acceptable size and of course cucumbers may be gathered at any stage of development but before any yellow appears in the green color.

Carrots can be used when from a 1-2 inch to 1 inch in diameter at the upper end. First harvesting may be a thinning process. Leaf lettuce may be harvested whenever plants are large enough but heading varieties should grow to full size to develop a solid head. Parsnips may well be left in the ground all winter and used as needed.

White potatoes can be dug for family use at various stages of maturity but general harvest is made when vines are practically dead. Skin toughness increases toward maturity, improving keeping quality. Harvest turnips whenever they have reached sufficient size. For winter storage sow 10 weeks before average date of first killing frost in the fall.

Next week—How to build a compost pile.

VEGETABLE NEWS NOTES

Here are a few timely notes on vegetable growing problems:

CULTIVATION OF TOMATOES

Cultivation of tomatoes is necessary to control weeds and aerate the soil. A heavy crust may form on the surface and slow growth. However, if the roots are cut off, cultivation may do more harm than good. Use the right type of equipment and spend all the time needed to properly adjust it. As the plants grow older move the cultivators further away from the plants and only an inch or two deep. Be careful! Don't cut your yield by cutting roots.

SIDEDRESSING—Sidedressing of most vegetables is a profitable practice requiring little extra labor and small amounts of fertilizer. Last year E. P. Brasher, head of the horticulture department of the University of Delaware, increased yields of tomatoes by one sidedressing. About 500 pounds of 5-10-5 or 5-10-10 six weeks after transplanting will usually result in good increases in yields. Sidedress vine crops just before vines spread with 400 pounds of 5-10-15 or 4-8-12.

Sidedressing peppers also pays. About 400 pounds of 5-10-10 will stimulate vegetable growth which is certainly needed for good yields. Sweet corn when its knee high needs 100 to 500 pounds of ammonium nitrate. Almost all vegetable crops will benefit from sidedressing after the heavy rainfall this spring.

Cabbage, Cauliflower and Broccoli—Be sure that seed is hot water treated. This treatment helps in the control of black rot disease. If seedling plants become infested with root maggots in the plant bed treat with chlordane 2 or 3 days before transplanting. Use four ounces of 46 per cent chlordane emulsion to 50 gallons of water and pour along the row, at the rate of 1 gallon to 25 or 30 feet of row.

POTATO BLIGHT

Late blight of potatoes was found in Kent County June 5. Cool, wet weather favors the spread of this disease. Be sure to get good coverage of the whole plant when spraying. This will take 125 to 175 gallons of spray per acre.

FOLIAGE SPRAYS

Do foliar nutrition sprays pay? No, a recent circular of the Delaware agricultural experiment station reports on four year tests and shows that vegetables do not absorb enough plant food through foliage sprays to be economically sound.

HOW ANTIBIOTICS WORK

We know antibiotics aid poultry growth, but how?

Harrington Oil & Coal Inc.
For Fuel Oil and Kerosene
Call 344, Night 8672

We know the answer now, says Bill Tarbell, Kent County agricultural agent.

Antibiotics aid poultry growth by giving birds partial protection against harmful bacteria. This is especially true, and especially helpful in the first few weeks after hatching.

The U.S. Department of Agriculture tested chicks in old (previously used for poultry) quarters and new quarters, with and without antibiotics. Chicks raised in new clean quarters and fed a regular diet grew more efficiently than chicks fed an antibiotic in old quarters. And both of those groups grew more efficiently than chicks in old quarters which were not fed antibiotics. But when chicks were moved from new to old quarters at four weeks, the antibiotic stopped, growth slumped temporarily. There was no such slump when the antibiotic was taken from chicks which had been kept in old quarters.

Scientists interpreted this to mean that the antibiotic helps build up resistance to harmful bacteria.

Chicks are partially exposed to bacteria in their environment, and build up a resistance. The antibiotic fed during the first few weeks help the chick, especially in old quarters, while it is adjusting to the harmful bacteria around it. Most poultry producers are unable to start their chicks in new quarters every year. The average producer is raising chicks in houses comparable to the old houses used in the experiment.

SOYBEAN FOR MARYLAND

A new high-yielding soybean variety was announced by the U. S. Department of Agriculture and co-operating state experiment stations today. Named Clark, the new soybean variety has been field tested and found adapted to Maryland and Delaware, as well as some midwest-

Clark has been tested at Belts-

Broiler-Raising Costs Cut 9% With SULFAQUINOXALINE

Savings up to 9% have been shown after continuous feeding of mash containing Sulfaquinoxaline to prevent coccidiosis outbreaks.

Every broiler flock is a target for coccidiosis. Birds killed or stunted by this disease reduce profits. That's why Sulfaquinoxaline fed continuously to prevent outbreaks is a must!

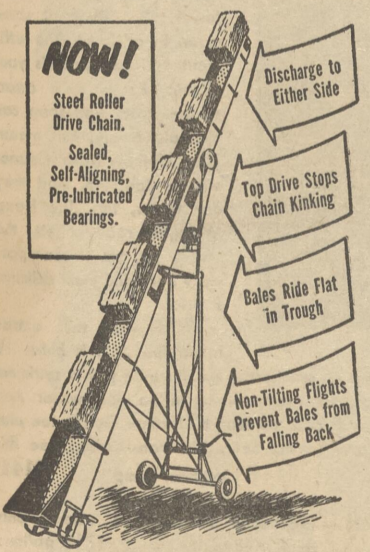

In over four years of commercial use, poultry coccidia have shown no resistance to SQ. It is the safest coccidiostat now available—can be fed right up to marketing.

Proved effective in hundreds of millions of birds, SQ is the only agent which combats all five dangerous types of poultry coccidia. Exposed birds protected by SQ have shown an average market weight 12% above that of unprotected birds. Feed efficiency was 6% greater in the protected flocks.

You can't afford to be without the protection of SQ! Insist on feeds containing Sulfaquinoxaline to prevent coccidiosis outbreaks. Every dealer has, or can get, SQ feeds.

FARM NEWS - REVIEW - FORECAST

SPRAYING CUTS TOMATO DISEASE LOSSES

Spraying tomatoes with some of the new organic compounds is the best assurance against crop losses from the common diseases, says George Vapaa, associate Kent County agent.

He points out that spraying is a preventative measure, not a cure, so growers should not wait until the disease appears before spraying. Fred Fifer, of Wyoming; Bill Richardson, of Lebanon; Parker and Hughes, of Burrsville, and Walker Millfin, of Dover, are some Kent County farmers who regularly follow preventive spray programs. They say (or quote just one farmer) that it helps both quality and yield. And the increase in yield in bad years more than makes up for the loss of yield from sprayer damage.

George Vapaa advises that plants be sprayed about 30 days after the first blossoms appear, which is about July 1, in Delaware. Applications should be made every 7 to 10 days after, depending on the weather and the disease situation. In wet weather more frequent spraying is necessary.

Chemicals are now available for spraying tomatoes for early blight, septoria leaf spot, gray leaf spot late blight and anthracnose fruit rot. Sprays are usually more effective than dusts, because they stick to the plant better. But if fields are wet, dusts may be the only thing that can be applied effectively.

The Delaware agricultural extension service recommends any of the following fungicides: Dithane D-14 plus zinc sulfate (2 qts.-34 lb.); liquid Parzate plus zinc sulfate (2 qts.-34 lb.); the thane Z-78 (2 lbs.); Parzate (2 lbs.); or Manzate (2 lbs.). The figures after each material are the amounts to use for each 100 gallons of water. For dusting, use any of the following: Parzate (3 per cent), Dithane Z-78 (6 per cent), or a fixed copper (5-7 per cent) actual copper.

FARM PRICE-COST SQUEEZE

Maryland farmers can look forward to generally lower prices for farm products in the remainder of 1953, according to agricultural economists at the University of Maryland. In their mid-year price trend and marketing prospect report issued this week, they point out that farmers' costs are expected to remain high, resulting in lowered net income.

Although some commodities may bring better prices than last year, the average of all commodities is expected to be lower.

Continued full employment, high wages and consumer income tend to keep domestic demand high, but declining exports are not expected to pick up to previous levels. Larger supplies of most farm commodities, along with reduced exports have contributed to a general decline in farm prices.

The index of prices received by farmers dropped 11 per cent between April 15, 1952, and the same date this year, while the index of prices paid by farmers dropped only 3.5 per cent during the same period.

The decline in Maryland was due mainly to a drop of 34 per cent in the price of beef cattle and 27 per cent in the price of calves. Other major Maryland commodities with prices below last year's are: milk, down 8 per cent; corn, 14 per cent; wheat, 12 per cent; and potatoes, 16 per cent.

Prices of some farm commodities which are less abundant than last year are averaging higher. Farm prices of hogs is up 22 per cent; eggs, 18 per cent; apples, 35 per cent; and soybeans, 4 per cent.

The report on price trends and market prospects for the second half of 1953 covers milk, poultry and eggs, livestock, fruits and vegetables for both processing and fresh market. A copy may be secured by writing Bulletin Room, Extension Service, University of Maryland, College Park, Md.

SEED WATERWAYS

Heavy rainfall this spring has done a lot of damage to some cornfields, starting gullies in natural depressions in the fields. These young gullies can be stopped now-the sooner the better-with simple conservation practices, according to Charles P. Ellington, assistant extension soil conservationist at the University of Maryland.

He suggests broadcasting annual ryegrass or sudan grass in the washed areas. Seeding can be done by hand. If ryegrass is used, the ground doesn't need to be worked after seeding but it would be advisable to cultivate before seeding to insure a better stand. If sudan grass is planted, sow before cultivating the area. Corn or other grain can be used. The main idea, according to Ellington, is to get a quick-growing cover on the land, establishing a temporary sodded waterway.

After seeding is made, lift the cultivators when passing over the depression where washing started. This will leave the eroded ground with a protective cover to prevent further washing.

These are just temporary measures, Ellington points out. But they will help this year. He suggests that farmers secure assistance from their local soil conservation district in planning permanent conservation practices.

CLEAN GRAIN EMPHASIZED

Stricter enforcement of Food and Drug Administration rulings will make grain buyers more discriminating this year.

That prediction comes from Donald MacCreary, entomologist of the Delaware Agricultural Extension Service. The grain industry has joined with the U. S. Department of Agriculture in advocating higher quality grain and better grain storage. Shipments of unclean grain are subject to seizure and may be classified as unfit.

The first on the farm step is to clean up sources of infestation. That should be done now, before crops are harvested. Even a few kernels left from last year can harbor enough insects to start a serious infestation.

McCreary suggests cleaning bins to remove all bits of grain and dust from corners and cracks. Then spray walls and floors with insecticides. The U. S. Department of Agriculture recommends DDT or methoxychlor wettable powder sprays at 1-2 percent applied at the rate of 2 gallons per 1,000 square feet. Or pyrethrum or allethrin emulsion sprays at 0.5 percent concentration, at 2 gallons per 1,000 square feet.

Clean-up should reach all surrounding areas. Feed rooms, small pockets of grain left in machinery, and spilled grain around the buildings should be cleaned up and sprayed.

For further protection, check bins for openings, or leaks where moisture could enter and start rot. Seal all possible entrances for rats and mice. Clean up old lumber and trash piles around the farm which might harbor rodents.

FOLIAR NUTRITION SPRAYS DO THEY HELP VEGETABLES?

Can vegetable growers increase yields with foliar nutrient sprays?

No, is the answer from the University of Delaware agricultural experiment station. Research in the department of horticulture indicates little or no benefit to vegetable crops where applications of standard fertilizer were used before planting. Some sprays even decreased yields on tomatoes and potatoes.

The results show that vegetables do not absorb enough plant food through foliage sprays, to make it a practical form of applying fertilizer. This is particularly true for plants requiring large amounts of nitrogen and potash, says E. P. Brasher, chairman of the horticulture department.

"We do believe that foliage sprays may help under certain conditions. When soil nutrition has been removed by leaching or is absorbed by the crop, urea sprays may be helpful," says Brasher.

Various sprays were studied between 1949 and 1952 at the University Farm and at the research substation at Georgetown. They were used on tomatoes, lima beans, cantaloupes, cucumbers, and potatoes. The results of the study are given in a new leaflet, just published by the experiment station. Circular 26, "Foliar Nutrition Sprays, Do They Help Vegetables," is available from the county agricultural agents or from the Bulletin Mailing Room, Agricultural Hall-at the University at Newark.

Heard About the Electric Weather Predictor?
Squint Smith built up quite a reputation last month by predicting the weather. What he said usually came true.
It got so that folks would sit around his little Antique Shop just to get his opinion.
Last Monday, though, he said he didn't know what the weather was going to be like next day. That surprised us and when we asked what happened, Squint said, "Slipped up on my electric bill and was turned off. I'll get to my radio again tomorrow though." Squint had been getting the weather over the radio—just like anyone else!
From where I sit, that's the way it goes with some "experts." They often don't have any more inside information than you can get for yourself. Like those who "know" cider is the only thirst-quencher after a day's work. Far as I'm concerned, I'll take a temperate glass of beer. But—I won't try to "predict" your choice for you.
