

Harness Racing Bill Signed by Governor

Bills permitting a change in the awarding of harness racing dates have become law with the signature of Gov. J. Caleb Boggs.

The harness racing bill was fought over for weeks before a compromise version was passed. It was sponsored by Senator Thomas L. Johnson (R-Rehoboth Beach) the president pro tem.

The senator's successful bill limits harness racing to 20 days in each of the three counties but it permits the Sussex dates to be split, 10 going to Kent and 10 to New Castle. Then, to protect, apparently, the public interest in harness racing, the new law:

Stipulates that licenses to conduct harness racing may be granted only to private stock corporations formed for that purpose.

Provides that such corporations shall have a board of directors comprising at least five members.

Provides that the applicant shall have no office except in the state. Requires that applicants file statements of resources and liabilities at the time of making application.

Prohibits the issue of a license unless the majority of the board of directors and officers are bona fide residents of Delaware.

State Needs Democratic Governor, Says Terry

The country will never improve until we have a Democratic governor and president, Max Terry said Tuesday evening at a covered dish luncheon of the Kent County Democratic Women's Club at the fairgrounds restaurant. About 225 persons were present.

Mr. Terry's term as president of the State Board of Education expired Tuesday night.

"Something very important we should consider," Mr. Terry began, "day after day, until the next election. The country is going from bad to worse and it should have a Democratic governor in Delaware and a Democratic president in Washington."

Continuing, the Dover attorney told the listeners, "we have to have Gov. Carvel back four years from now." He explained Gov. Carvel's efforts to help education and added that Gov. Boggs and the Republicans "have not tried to see how much they could do for education, but how cheap."

The Rev. Robert VanCleaf, pastor of Asbury Methodist Church, gave the invocation, and the Rev. Milton Elliott, pastor of Trinity Methodist Church, gave a prayer. Mayor Ernest Killen was master of ceremonies.

Harrington Injures Finger In Combine Accident

Gary Harrington cut off the tip of a finger Tuesday afternoon on the farm of John Abbott, Jr., near town when the digit was caught in a combine.

He was treated by Dr. W. T. Chipman.

Committee reports here Wednesday evening, in a meeting at the firehouse, on the sixth annual Delmarva Chicken Festival, held here last week, revealed the event was a success in every way.

Reports revealed adequate funds for current expenditures. Publicity wise, it was disclosed that TV stations in Baltimore, Philadelphia, and New York wanted the beauty queens and the cooking queens for programs.

Otis Esham, president of the festival, said he was to take the queens to Washington Thursday for a TV program. Press clippings on the festival were also displayed from the New York Herald-Tribune and the New York Times.

Furthermore, there was a large demand for pictures, for publicity with an extensive inquiry for recipes of the famed Delmarva broiler, the bird behind the festival.

At the close of the meeting, Mr. Esham appointed a committee to select the site for next year's event. Frank Gordy, of Georgetown, was appointed chairman of the committee which was also comprised of the following members: Ernest Matthews, Salisbury; Frank Swain, Nelsonia, Va.; Kenneth Baker, Bridgeville, and Cliff Dryden, Pocomoke City, Md.

Invitations for the 1954 festival have already been received from Harrington, Rehoboth, Seaford, Easton, Salisbury, and Berlin-Ocean City. Incidentally, certain committee members said the Kent and Sussex Fairgrounds was the best site, for the festival, in the history of the event because of the facilities and because all attractions were close together.

Note: Space limitations prevented publication of all the parade winners at the Delmarva Chicken Festival here last week. Following are the names of winners omitted last week.

THE LITTLE FIRE FLY

By Samuel A. Short Jr.
The little fire fly reminds me of a tiny star. That lights my pathway at night. They seem to come from near and far, So noisily while on their flight. I like to watch their golden glow, On wing as they light their way. Hundreds of them they come and go, Always at dusk on a summers day. The stillness of Eve I silently see, Flying upward in Heavenly flights. The little fire fly that will always be, My guide to lofty Heights. Oh! Little Fire Fly keep lighting my way, Until the Stars are finally out. Till my work is done for the day. And I've reached my goal I've set about.

Over the GARDEN WALLS
By Dr. Edgar P. Walls
Department of Horticulture
University of Maryland

In case you haven't included a cold frame in your gardening plans, now would be a good time to build one. They're simple and inexpensive to build, and will enable you to get a couple of weeks head start on the growing season next year.

With a cold frame, you can sow seeds and protect plants until conditions are favorable for them in the open. They can also be used to harden off plants started indoors. Cold frames afford winter protection for plants on the borderline regarding hardiness. Even in very small gardens, you can save money and reap greater satisfaction by growing your own plants.

Here's how you go about building a cold frame:
Locate on a level piece of well drained ground, open to sunshine and protected from north and west winds by buildings or windbreaks of some sort. For convenience it should be near the house and handy to the water supply.

Sawmill lumber an inch in thickness is quite satisfactory for whatever length is desired in multiples of 3 feet. Cross ties, set flush with the walls, should connect the back and front. Placed every 3 feet they add rigidity and make it possible for one person to slide the sash on and off the frame.

If standard sash, 6 by 3 feet, is used to cover the cold frame, construction. For ample head space, the side to the north should be 18 inches high and the south side 12 inches. Ends should be of solid construction. Cover cracks by nailing laths or strips over them. Corner posts may be made of 2 x 4s driven securely into the ground and if the frame is long, an occasional post along the sides will give sufficient support. These should be sawed off to conform to the slope of the frame.

Canvas or unbleached muslin may be used in place of sash. I have grown excellent tomato plants in cloth covered cold frames, gaining about 3 weeks over when it would be safe to sow seed in the open. On nice, warm, sunny days in the spring the cover may be rolled back, but rolled down at night and on windy days. The only heat a cold frame gets is from the sun. Sash admits this to a high degree. Even with sash, it is necessary to open slightly, by sliding down or propping up with a small block for ventilation. Avoid letting cold wind the width should be 5 feet, 11 inches, outside measurement, by blow on the plants.

In making a level site for the cold frame some top soil has to be removed, work up the floor on the bed and fill in several inches of mixture, by measure of one fourth well rotted manure, leaf mold or compost; one fourth sand; and one half top soil from the garden. This is an excellent medium for sowing seed and growing seedlings, and it is a good plan to add several inches of this, even when no top soil has been removed for leveling. Bank earth to a height of about 6 inches outside of frame.

Next week—Suggestions on canning and freezing our garden produce.

JR. BROILER CONTEST UNDERWAY IN DELAWARE

Delaware's Junior Broiler Contest got underway this week. Seven thousand six hundred chicks are starting life under the care of 150 boys and girls. Last year a similar program was known as the Junior Chicken of Tomorrow contest.

The project is designed to create interest among Delaware youth in the state's seventy million dollar broiler industry. It also encourages these young people to learn the newest and best poultry management practices. Each contestant will care for and keep an accurate record on his birds. The event is sponsored by the Delaware Poultry Improvement Association.

Cash prizes will be awarded to test. The first place winner will receive twenty-five dollars and a trophy. The other awards are twenty dollars for second place, fifteen dollars for third, and ten dollars for fourth. The top four winners will also receive certificates of merit. Each contestant will select six cockerels for dressing, displaying and judging in September.

SULFAQUINOXALINE

Can Cut 2.5 Cents From Cost of Raising a Broiler

Savings like these have been shown after continuous feeding of mashes containing Sulfaquinoxaline to prevent coccidiosis outbreaks. Don't think you have to wait to fight coccidiosis until after an outbreak has started. For real savings, head off coccidiosis outbreaks by continuous use of mashes containing Sulfaquinoxaline. Field experience shows production costs have been slashed an average of 2.5 cents per bird by preventive use of SQ.

- Remember these advantages of Sulfaquinoxaline:
- In over four years of commercial use, poultry coccidia have shown no resistance to SQ.
 - SQ is the only drug which combats all five dangerous types of poultry coccidia.
 - It's the safest coccidiosis drug available—can be fed right up to marketing.
 - Cuts mortality from coccidiosis to 2 per cent or less—sharply reduces stunting.
 - Birds protected by SQ show earlier feathering, better shank color, finer finish.
- Insist on feeds containing Sulfaquinoxaline to prevent coccidiosis outbreaks. Every dealer has, or can get, SQ feeds.

Howard Pyle Exhibit on Show At Delaware State Museum

An exhibit dedicated to the celebration of the one-hundredth anniversary of the birth of Howard Pyle, Delaware's greatest artist, was opened last week in the Delaware State Museum. Pyle, who was one of the foremost illustrators and teachers of his craft, was born March 5, 1853, and died in November, 1911, while visiting with his family in Florence, Italy.

Acknowledged as a master of line drawing by such a noted artist as Joseph Pennell, Pyle's works also possessed qualities of strength and imagination, combined with a delicacy of color. The magic of his color made itself especially attractive in the illustrations in Scribner's and Harper's Magazines, as well as in numerous books for children.

Examples of both his pen and ink line drawing and his original water color drawings form part of the current exhibit, which will remain on view in the Museum's No. 1 Building until November 1. Included among the water colors are "Saint Brendan's Island," "The Fairy Morgana," and "The Flying Dutchman," done to illustrate the book entitled "Northfolk Legends of the Sea." "The Dancing Maidens," a pen and ink drawing of great lightness and grace, and "The Banished Peri," are characteristic of his works in this medium. Pyle made over 3000 such illustrations and wrote 14 books.

In addition to some of his drawings and reproductions of his works, there are also displayed various photographs of the artist and other Pyle memorabilia. Included is one of his paint brushes and the key to his studio at 1305 North Franklin Street, Wilmington, by another Delaware illustrator, the late Stanley M. Arthurs.

All of the items displayed in the exhibit are from the personal collection of Miss Gertrude Brinckle, of Wilmington, or from the Historical Society of Delaware. Miss Brinckle, to whom several of the drawings exhibited are inscribed by the artist, was intimately associated with Howard Pyle as his secretary.

The Museum, located at 316 South Governors Avenue in Dover (on alternate U. S. Route 13), is open daily, except Mondays, from 11 a. m. until 5 p. m., and on Sundays from 2 until 5 p. m.

VETERANS ADMINISTRATION QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Q—If I sign up for institutional on-farm training under the Korean GI Bill, how much actual instruction will I get?

A—You will receive a minimum of 200 hours a year of group instruction in school, plus at least 100 hours of individual instruction. A minimum of 50 hours of the individual instruction will be on your own farm.

Q—I'm a widow of a World War II veteran, and I've been getting a pension. However it stopped because I forget to mail in the questionnaire asking about my annual income that VA sent me. Is there any way I can get the payments to start again?

A—You should submit the questionnaire, or other evidence of your annual income to VA. If VA receives this within one year from the date it originally issued the questionnaire, and if your income does not exceed the legal maximum, the pension may be payable from the date of the last payment you received. If more than a year elapses, the payments if otherwise in order will start as of the date VA gets the questionnaire or a new claim.

Q—I understand that with credit controls lifted it's possible to get a 30-year GI loan with no down payment. But I can't find anybody who will lend me the money on those terms. Aren't lenders required to do that, under the law?

A—No. Although such terms are permissible, it's still up to the lender to make his own decision as to the terms of the loan.

Q—I've just been separated from service. I haven't yet applied for the GI term insurance available to Korean veterans. How long will I be covered by the free indemnity that protected me while I was in uniform?

A—The free indemnity protects you for 120 days after your separation from service. If you want the GI term insurance, you must apply to VA for it and pay your first premium within that 120-day period.

Mrs. Arline (Burtelle) Culver
Roy Burtelle

These personable young people—both natives of Seaford—are brother and sister.

They're related in another way, too. Both are members of the telephone family. Roy, a Navy veteran, is a Cable Splicer at Georgetown. Arline is a Repair Service Clerk at the Georgetown Central Office.

There's nothing unusual about this family feeling for telephone service. Among Delaware's more than 1,300 telephone people, you'll find many, many cases where two, three, and even four members of a family have followed each other into this special form of community service. And it is this very spirit of community service, seldom mentioned but always evident, that makes your telephone so dependable in emergencies, so useful all the time.

Another Dandy George heifer, this one for Harold Redden, of Harrington.

I had the privilege of entertaining a couple of farmers from Florida this past week and they were very interested in the type of farming done in this area. Florida farmers usually plant large acreages of one or two crops only.

One of these farmers had 100 acres of cabbage and 60 acres of potatoes. The potatoes he had to plow under and he was able to ship only five carloads of cabbage which brought him $60 less than the cost of the crates and harvesting the crop.

Ellendale

A severe electrical storm accompanied by high winds on Tuesday afternoon blew down several large trees on Main Street near the store of Luther Coverdale. Traffic was stalled for several hours and the town was without electricity.

A shower was held Friday evening in the Ellendale School auditorium for Mr. and Mrs. Robert Neibert, who were married two weeks ago in Denton. Mrs. Neibert is the former Miss Jean Webb. They will reside in the West property on Main Street in Ellendale which was recently vacated by Mrs. Elsie VanKirk.

Norman Prettyman is a patient in the Milford Memorial Hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Abbott, Jr., entertained guests Sunday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. John Green, of Lincoln, and Mrs. E. McNally, of Ellendale, spent Sunday evening with Miss Millie Short.

Mrs. Louise Morris, of Milton, visited Mrs. Jennie Willey Saturday.

The Ellendale W. S. C. S. went to Bridgeville Thursday evening and met at the home of Mrs. Florence Wilson.

Greenwood

There were nineteen members from Greenwood Methodist Church who attended the Convocation service in Philadelphia last Sunday.

The Rev. C. E. Palmer, pastor of Grace Methodist Church is attending Pastor's School at Centreville, Md. this week.

Our Daily Vacation Bible School for the children of the entire community has just closed 114. The youngsters had their picnic at Wheeler Park in Harrington on Friday, and enjoyed every minute of the various amusements.

Many of our residents attended one or more of the programs at the Chicken Festival held in Harrington. It seemed to this reporter, strolling around the ground after the splendid parade on Wednesday evening, that Greenwood had turned out in its entirety. Miss Dolores Lyons and Billy Lord were among the teen-age crowd having a fine time in the grandstand.

The J. Burton Carters were in Wilmington on Thursday and Friday.

The Greenwood Volunteer

Firemen's Association will hold its regular monthly meeting on Friday night.

The Ladies' Auxiliary of the Greenwood Volunteer Fire Co., held its last meeting until September, last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Owens and son, Ralph, of Baltimore, were weekend guests of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Spence.

Mrs. S. S. Wroten is a patient in the Kent General Hospital, Dover. Her son and wife, Mr. and Mrs. S. S. Stewart, of Allentown, Pa., were down to see her on Sunday.

The Alex Sadowski's and their daughter, Doris, left this week on a lovely vacation trip. They will visit their son in Texas and go to Mexico City. We hope they will tell us all about it when they return.

Mrs. Laura Clifton has two of her daughters with her now, Miss Myrtle Clifton from Philadelphia and Mrs. Ford Kesling and daughter, Janie, from Wilmington, Calif. They all spent the weekend with Mr. and Mrs. Sanford Clifton in Lewes.

Mr. and Mrs. Burton Case, of Harrington, dropped in at the Jacob Hatfields for a late Sunday evening snack and some good conversation.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Burton Carter were Sunday dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Brenon Jackson in Seaford. In the afternoon they called on the George Seviars in Blades.
