Delaware Pace To Highlight Opening Night At Ocean Downs

Officials of Ocean Downs Raceway are planning gala ceremonies for the grand opening of the fifth year pari-mutuel 20-night harness meet Mon. Aug. 10.

Gov. J. Caleb Boggs is expected to be on hand for $1500 Delaware Pace, headliner of the inaugural eight-race card.

The event has drawn bids from no less than 73 crack sidewheelers, including such stars as Mae Forbes (2:03 1-5), brother of world's champion Hi-Lo's Forbes, holder of the track record of 2:03 1-5; L. T. Eden, Stewart's Dream, Buddy York, Keeper's Ace. On My Honor and Raider Hunt.

According to Racing Secretary Jim Lynch, due to arrive for his first year at Ocean Downs after successfully completing the Hilliards, O., meet last week, the Delaware has drawn so many nominations it will probably go in three or four divisions at upped purses.

Governor's Day Highlights Kent & Sussex Fair

Yesterday was Governor's Day at the Kent & Sussex Fair, with three former governors accompanying Gov. Caleb Boggs. The annual Governor's Day is always a highlight of the fair.

The three former state executives in the official party were Walter W. Bacon, Elbert N. Carvel, and John G. Townsend Jr. At noon the governor and his party were entertained at luncheon in the private railroad car of M. H. Lingenfelter, superintendent of the Delmarva Division of the Pennsylvania Railroad.

After witnessing an afternoon program at the fairgrounds, including a livestock parade, the governor's party attended a dinner as guests of the fair association at the fair grounds.

The fair's annual tribute to the volunteer firemen of the peninsula will be a parade at 4 p. m. today on the racetrack. Prizes will be awarded at 9 p. m.

The fair will close tomorrow

Greenwood Man Finds Relatives

Charles Dearman, 40, of near Greenwood, experienced the most thrilling moment of his life when a telephone call came to his home Saturday from a friend he recently met in Durham, N. C., saying he had located two brothers and a sister for him.

Charles was placed in an orphanage in North Carolina as an infant on the death of his mother and from there placed in the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Dearman and raised as his son. When Charles was seven, Mr. and Mrs. Dearman moved near Greenwood.

He never knew he had relatives until he was grown, and finding he had them, he made every effort to find them, but failed until he mentioned the matter to a friend in North Carolina, who located a brother in Durham. Charles is now anxiously awaiting to meet them. They all live in North Carolina.

His last name is Britt. A brother lives in Durham, another in Charlotte, and his sister lives in Greensboro, N. C.

Mr. Dearman talked with brother Saturday who is a truck driver. They plan to meet in Wilmington soon.

The Dearmans live on a farm near Greenwood. They have no children.

Mrs. Nora J. Stubbs

Mrs. Nora Janie Stubbs, 69 widow of Robert H. Stubbs, died Monday night at the home of a son, Temple Stubbs, near Felton with whom she had made her home for the past 26 years.

Born in Maryland, Mrs. Stubbs had lived in Delaware for many years. She is survived by a daughter, Mrs. Carl Rentz, Fred Erica; seven sons, Temple Stubbs, Goldsboro, Md.; Archie Stubbs, Frederica, and Marshall Stubbs, Magnolia; a sister, Mrs. Angie Draper, Wilmington; 22 grandchildren and one great-grandchild.

Funeral services will be held at 1:30 p. m. today at the Berry Funeral Home with the Rev. Ray Kirwan, pastor of the Methodist church, Goldsboro, officiating. Interment will be in Mt. Olive Cemetery, near Sandtown.

Boggs Appoints 2 to State School Board

Gov. J. Caleb Boggs announced Tuesday the appointments of former State Senator Clayton A. Bunting, of Selbyville, and Mrs. Edgar W. Buchanan, of Dover, as members of the State Board of Education for three-year terms ending July 1, 1956.

Mr. Bunting, formerly a member of the State Highway Commission, succeeds William B. Horner, of Laurel, while Mrs. Buchanan, who resigned as a trustee of the Delaware State College in July, 1951, replaces N. Maxson Terry, of Dover, who has been president of the state board.

The Governor in his announcement said he was "especially pleased at the acceptances" of both appointees and added that the six-member board, which includes Francis B. Gebhart, of Smyrna; former U. S. Senator James M. Tunnell, Sr., of Georgetown; J. Ohm Small, of Wilmington, and George Tyler Coulson, of Wilmington, is a "non-partisan board."

The appointment of Mrs. Buchanan wife of a Dover merchant and instructor in economics and Wesley Junior College is believed to mark the first time that a woman has been named to this board.

Mr. Bunting brings a variety of state experience with him to the Board of Education. During the latter part of his four-year term as a state senator he was president pro tem of the upper house. In 1947 he was appointed to the State Highway Commission by former Gov. Walter W. Bacon. Earlier he had been named to the board of trustees of the Delaware State Hospital at Farnhurst to fill an unexpired term. He has served also as a member of the State Buildings and Grounds Commission.

Although his principal business interest for many years has been the development of Bunting's Nurseries, Inc., of which he is president, Mr. Bunting has found the time to be active among the developers of the giant poultry business in the Delmarva Peninsula and he has been a banker, serving as a director of the Baltimore Trust Company in Selbyville.

Mr. Buchanan is a past president of the Delaware State Federation of Women's Clubs and of the Dover Council of the State Society. Last May she was re-elected president of the United Church Women of Delaware. She is a graduate of Meredith College, Raleigh, N. C., and was one time assistant dean of women at that institution.

Local Pony League Players Chosen for All-Star Game

Six players of the local entry in the Pony League have been chosen to take part in an all-star game Tuesday at 8 p. m. in the Milford ball park.

They are as follows: Jackie Sapp, catcher; Jack Porter, pitcher; Leroy Betts, third base; Garey, leftfield, and Snookie Collins, 2d base.

These players were selected from the northern division teams, which includes Harrington, with selections from other teams, by the managers in the group. Teams in the northern division, in which the local entry, sponsored by the Lions Club, is in second place, are also Greenwood, Milford, and Frederica. Teams in the southern division of the league are Bridgeville, Seaford, Georgetown, and Laurel. This group will also be represented in the all-star game.

After the all-star game Tuesday night, the Harrington Lions Club will present each local player with a suitable gift. Fred B. Greenly Jr., president of the club, will make the presentations.

The Harrington Lions Club's Pony League Baseball team played Georgetown Wednesday night, at Georgetown, and won with a score of 4-2. Jimmy Stayton gave five hits.

Seaford will play at Harrington Monday night.

Miss Alava, competing as Miss Newark, won over Pauline E. Goller, Miss Greater Wilmington, Jacqueline Suzanne Hackett, Miss Dover, and Shirley Ann Manlove, Miss Seaford.

The choice of the five judges was popular. A roar went up when her name was announced and several congratulated the judges.

Miss Alava, a June graduate of the University of Delaware, wore an iridescent American Beauty off-the-shoulder evening gown and later a white shirred bathing suit. She played the first movement of Greig's Piano Concerto in A Minor.

Songs in Intermission

Miss Blackwell and Edward Scanlon of Dover sang in intermission. The hotel management donated its Sammy Ferro dance trio from Glen Echo Park and will also be host to the winner for a four-day vacation.

Miss Alava actually is from Bellevue, the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Patroni Alava, 1317 River Road, Wilmington.

A scholarship to Wesley Junior College, Dover, is one of the awards for Miss Alava. Joseph Bancroft & Sons Company of Wilmington will present her with three dresses, and the Gem Hosiery Mills, Georgetown, will give her nylon stockings. All four contestants were presented with trophies.

Bouffant Pink Gown

Miss Goller wore the bouffant pink gown and streamlined bathing suit that helped her win the Wilmington title in May. She performed an interpretive dance. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George H. Goller, Aldan, Pa.

Miss Manlove wore a royal blue bathing suit with white piping around the skirt. Her gown was pale lavender nylon net with a taffeta bodice and a long taffeta sash down the right side. She sang, "All The Things You Are." She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Milton G. Manlove, Seaford.

Sidney L. Trader

Sidney L. Trader, 94, died Thursday, July 23, at the home of his son, Walter Trader, of Viola.

Mr. Trader was a retired farmer and the husband of the late Lena Trader.

He was a member of the Nassawango Tribe 110 Red Men of Snow Hill, Md.

Surviving are: two sons, Walter Trader, Viola; Olin Trader, Snow Hill, Md.; 1 daughter, Mrs. Lillian Pusey, Odgen, Pa.; 2 grandchildren; 1 great grandchild; 3 stepchildren, Margaret Fisher, Boothwyn, Pa.; Mrs. Edna Pilechard, Snow Hill, Md.; King Morris, Salisbury, Md.

Funeral services were held Saturday evening at 8 o'clock at the Berry Funeral Home, Felton with the Rev. Charlie Atkins, retired Methodist Minister officiating. Services were also held at Snow Hill, Md., on Sunday afternoon at 2 p. m. at the Dennis Funeral Home. Interment was at Whatcoat Methodist Cemetery, Snow Hill, Md.

Teen-Agers Held In Robbery of Milford Store

Three teenage boys and a man are awaiting court action and six men paid fines Monday on charges of knowingly receiving stolen goods as a result of swift action by Milford town police in solving a week-end robbery at the W. A. Humes hardware store on North Walnut Street, including recovery of the stolen merchandise.

The chain of events started at 11 o'clock Sunday night when two policemen in a patrol car noticed three youths acting in a suspicious manner near the Humes store. The officers halted the car and as they alighted to question the boys the latter broke into a run.

The officers gave chase with the trail leading through a nearby lumber yard to the banks of the Mispillion River. Two of the boys jumped into the river but did not venture far from the river bank, apparently realizing they were trapped they offered no resistance when the policemen dragged them ashore. One of them had a rifle hidden in a pants leg.

The third youth had fled in the excitement but was picked up a short time later on the Lincoln road. The trio was taken to police headquarters for questioning. Authorities said they had forced entry to the Humes store through a rear window Saturday night and again Sunday night.

Saturday night they took a bicycle and $242 in merchandise, mostly sport watches, rifles, ammunition, and fishing tackle.

Monday they turned peddlers and with the assistance of a "friend," sold the stolen articles to various persons in town. Business was so brisk they decided to return to the store Sunday night and replenish their stock but the police caused a change in plans.

As a result of information secured by the authorities, seven men were taken into custody and given hearings Monday before City Alderman Harley Davidson. One, Edward Waples, 33, was held for court on a charge of helping to dispose of stolen goods.

The following were each fined $10 and costs on charges of knowingly receiving stolen goods: Simpson Sharp, Donald Fleetwood, Byrd Morgan, Otis Rice, and Ralph Stevens. W. M. Bass was fined $25 and costs after police charged he had kept silent regarding a watch purchased from the trio.

Two of the teen-agers, who said they lived at Lincoln, were held under $1,500 bond each while the third, who gave a New York City address, was taken to the Detention Home in Wilmington.

July 12, 1953

Dear Harvey:

After leaving Paris, we spend northeast on an express train to Roubaix, a highly industrialized textile city near the Belgian border. There we spent a week living right in a typical middle class French family. Through these people I was able to go into and visit factories and talk with French working men. They are tremendously interested in the United States and their counterpart, the American worker.

The Americanization of production is all very fine but they've got to Americanize buying power, too, so that the working man can buy himself a few of these luxuries.

The Frenchman has no bathroom, no telephone, no automobile, no television and makes in one month what the American makes in one week. Living is very high and only abnormally low rents permit the worker to scrape by.

"Pie in the sky by and by" are accepted by despairing Frenchmen, who find themselves in a vicious cycle. Never before did I realize so well the axiom that communism's greatest ally is poverty and misery, and that these conditions must be improved if we are to win out in the world struggle.

From Roubaix we took a brief trip to Belgium where the cost of living was lower and the standard of living higher. The Belgians appear tremendously industrious. There is a great deal of building, lots of American cars and other signs that Americans and American products are welcome.

In Brussels it is common to see the natives drinking Coca Cola, whereas in France when the drink was introduced it was regarded almost as a subversive plot to corrupt the Frenchman.

Traveling south from Brussels, we went through quaint Flanders and spent an afternoon at the ancient and historic city of Bruges where there are churches and buildings dating back 9 centuries. There are networks of canals which give the town a Venetian air.

We then moved south through Rheims, Dijon, and over the Swiss border at Valore to Lausanne, a magnificent city commanding the heights overlooking a section of the N. shore of Lake Lemman (Lake Geneva).

Today we took a boat trip eastward to Montreux through the most beautiful scenery imaginable. The water is a gorgeous shade of green and on each side there are steep foothills leading to the more precipitous incunes of the Swiss Alps. At some places the peaks were still snow-capped; everywhere there were beautiful chalets, and even in the steepest places, irrigation systems and beautiful plots of vegetable gardens in a myriad of patterns.

At Montreux we took a Swiss railway car up to Les Rochers de Naye, the Rocks of Naye, some 7000 feet high. At the top the air was crisp and even cold, a strong wind blew, and in the distance we could see the many peaks and the beautiful expanse of Lake Geneva. Never before had I realized how imposing and grandiose nature could be. Words are simply inadequate to describe the beauty and picturesqueness of this wonderful little country. It has to be seen to be truly appreciated.

This brings me up to date. Tomorrow, weather permitting, we move on by boat to Geneva and then, if possible, by motor car over the so-called Napoleon route via Grenoble to Nice and the French Riviera.

So long for now. Best regards to the Rotary Club.

Vegetables to be Planted Now

The planting season is still with us. Here are a few reminders of some things to do in the near future.

Green sprouting broccoli plants may be set out any time now. Try to get them into the ground by August 1. It is a cool weather crop and takes about 80 days from plant setting to harvest.

So we can be enjoying this delicious vegetable in October. Italian Green Sprouting or Calabrese is probably the best known variety and a very good one. Decisio is a newer variety and a little earlier than Calabrese.

General planting distances are 1 1/2 to 2 feet rows. The part used for food is the central head of flower buds.

These should be cut, with 8 to 10 inches of the supporting stalks, before the buds begin to open. When open they display small yellow flowers. Harvest before these show. After the central head is cut, smaller heads will appear in the upper angles between leaves and stem.

These should be harvested at the same stage of development. This crop and cabbage are supposed to have to have a common ancestor, which in its wild, leafy state is found growing near the seacoast in southern and western Europe.

There are some interesting legends that have been handed down regarding this group of plants, which are spoken of as the COLE crops. From the wild forms, there have been developed six well known vegetables. In cabbage, kale and Brussel sprouts the leaves were modified; in cauliflower and broccoli the flower bud clusters and in Kohl-rabi the stalk.

Cabbage plants for the fall crop should be set any time now. Try to get it in the ground by August 1. Good commercial crops are grown on a wide variety of soils from light to heavy clays.

A fertile soil, well supplied with organic matter is more important than the type of soil. Most varieties of late cabbage require about 3 months to mature.

All seasons and Premium Late Flat Dutch are important varieties, which will be ready for use a little earlier than Danish Ballhead and Hollander, excellent for winter storage. Then there is the Savoy with crinkled, crumpled, puckery leaves. Here are Drumhead Savoy and Improved American Savoy, varieties of very high quality.

Least important is the Red Cabbage group, of which the principal variety is Mammouth Rock Red, used for pickling and to add color to salads.

An abundant and steady supply of moisture and nutrients is necessary for to produce rapid growth and good yields. Commercial growers often use as much as a ton of fertilizer per acre of an analysis of 5-10-5 or something similar. This would be 46 pounds for 1000 square feet or 4 1/2 pounds for 100 square feet or, by measure, 5 measuring cups per 100 square feet. Spread this broadcast after the ground has been prepared for planting and rake it in before marking out the rows.

About 3 weeks after the plants are set apply 1-2 pound of nitrate of soda to 100 square feet and repeat this nitrate treatment when cabbages begin to head. Since it is difficult to spread a half-pound of anything over 100 square feet, mix the nitrate with a pound or so of the 5-10-5 fertilizer to increase bulk and make for more uniform distribution.

Sow this between the rows, close to the plants but do not get it on them. The fertilizer recommendations for cabbage will apply equally well to broccoli.

Of course the ground should be kept free of weeds and have a loose soil mulch on the surface. The richer the soil the closer the plants may be set and still produce heads of acceptable size.

A workable distance would be to set the plants 2 feet apart in 3 foot rows. Just prior to harvest time next fall, this column will discuss the best ways of storing for winter use.

Next week—seeding of kale and turnips.

From where I sit ... by Joe Marsh

It's Fine To Be Fooled - Sometimes

Handy Peters entertained for the ladies of the Auxiliary the other night—and had the ladies believing for a while that he's the best marksman ever.

Handy put on a great act. He set up a whole bunch of balloons on a muslin backdrop and then took out his pea-shooter. He shot blindfolded, standing on his head, every which way—and broke a balloon every time!

No wonder Handy impressed the ladies. What they didn't know—till the show's end—was that Buck Mulligan was hiding behind the backdrop improving on Handy's aim with a hatpin.

From where I sit, we all get things "put over" on us now and again. When it's good-natured—fine! But, some folks would like to fool the rest of us into believing it's wrong to enjoy an occasional glass of beer—just because they prefer something else. For real American tolerance and neighborliness these people are simply "off target."

Needlecraft News

If you have been promising daughter all year that you would teach her how to crochet, but her school work has always taken priority, during summer vacation is the time to start. You will have fun as a mother and daughter crocheting team under a shady tree, enjoying many moments of relaxation so necessary in the midst of a sultry day.

CROCHET FOR YOUNG BEGINNERS

For daughter's first crocheting project, give her something that will be quick and easy to do, and something she will enjoy keeping and showing to her friends. Choose a design which will utilize colors (children love colorful things), a not-too-fine crochet hook and a fairly heavy cotton. Let her see each stitch clearly and the method in which it is accomplished. Make a game out of the crocheting lessons by setting a goal each day, increasing the number of stitches to be completed at each session as your crocheting student progresses in ability. Give her a little box or crocheting bag in which to keep her materials. Daughter will derive a sense of importance from having a crochet kit that is her very own.

CROCHETED DOLL CLOTHES

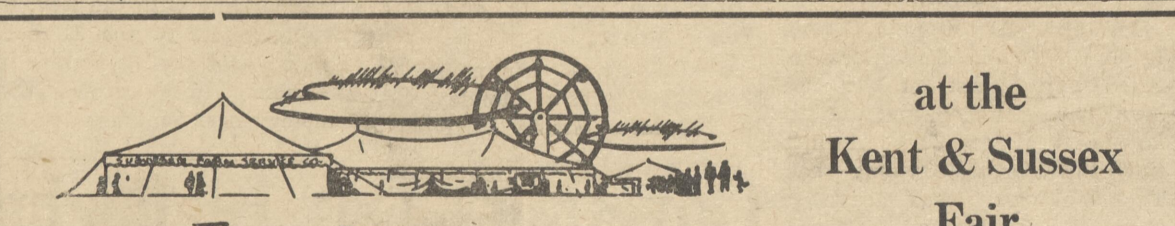

A young girl loves having new clothes for her dolls, and she is especially proud when she has made them herself. This cotton crocheted outfit would be a delightful addition to the wardrobe of an 11-inch doll. And daughter can make it all herself. The dress with petal-like peplum, bonnet, slippers and panties are made of shaded light yellow cotton and trimmed with dark green. A green grosgrain ribbon ties around the waistline. The slip is crinoline hemline binding, easily made by gathering the top and sewing one straight back seam. The one shown here has a narrow edging of lace along the petticoat hemline. If you would like to have the directions for making this PRAIRIE ROSE doll's outfit, send a stamped, self-addressed envelope to the Needlework Department of this paper for Leaflet No. S-224.

WELCOME HOME!

Robert E. Winther, an Army captain and security officer in Korea . . . and a Signal Corps veteran of World War II . . . is now back home in Wilmington.

He's "back home" in his old job, too, as Chief Switchman with the Telephone Company, and, if we do say so, he got a wonderful "Welcome Home" from his buddies in the Telephone Company when he came back.

Actually, in one sense, he has never been away. His new paychecks include the increases he would have received if he had been on his old job all the time.

Practically all telephone people return to telephone work when they are mustered out of the service. That benefits the entire community, because their experience and skill contribute so much to good, dependable telephone service.

Altogether, since the Korean War started, 77 men and women from our Company have left to serve their country, and 39 have already returned. We're proud of them when they go; we remember them while they're away; and we're delighted to see them come back!

Kent Home Doings

By Charlotte L. Swanson
Kent County Home
Demonstration Agent

Chances are, your thoughts for 1954 so far are in terms of canned or frozen foods for your family. Or perhaps you are thinking of remodeling clothes for your children or of redecorating your home next year.

The Kent County Home Demonstration Clubs have already made tentative plans for 1954. The Program Planning Committee, consisting of the vice-presidents of all of the clubs, met on Tuesday, July 21, to look over suggestions from the clubs and to discuss the interests of the members with the Extension Specialists. Although very few clubs were represented that day, most of the clubs had sent their preferences in programs to me, and these were given much consideration. The women who attended are: Alice M. Webb, Millwood; Jennie Salevan, Millwood; Marjorie R. Fry, Happy Homemakers; Millie J. Hutchins, Chestnut Grove; Anna C. Knotts, Leipsic; Katie V. Zartman, Cee-W-Dee; Dulcinea Smith, Canterbury Club; Gladys Kates, Canterbury Club.

Miss M. Gertrude Holloway, Nutrition Specialist, and Miss Louise R. Whitcomb, Home Management Specialist, were also there.

The tentative program includes a great variety of subjects which include all phases of homemaking. The Home Demonstration Club member will, in 1954, learn to make her home happy, efficient, safe and attractive, to prepare new dishes, to sew, and to make herself more attractive, too. You will read more about these later this year and in 1954, too.

If you haven't yet stopped in at the Extension Service Building at the Kent & Sussex Fair, try to do so before the fair is over. In addition to the 4-H Club exhibits, you will see educational exhibits on various phases of agriculture and home economics.

2000 Attend Farm Field Day

Nearly two thousand farmers and farm leaders from Delaware and neighboring states are expected for the annual Farm Field Day Wednesday, at the research station, Georgetown.

Sponsored by the Agricultural Experiment Station, University of Delaware, Farm Field Day is planned to acquaint the public with new developments in plant and animal production. The Georgetown research station is the proving grounds for crops and farming practices in Delaware. A brief speaking program features Romeo E. Short, assistant secretary of agriculture. His topic will be "Our New Challenge," in which he discusses marketing problems facing American agriculture.

Field Day begins at 9:30. The Delaware Poultry Improvement Association will serve a fried chicken luncheon from 12 to 1:30. The station is located on the Georgetown-Laurel road.

Another feature is the 5th annual show of artificially bred dairy heifers, sponsored by the Sussex county unit of the Delaware Artificial Breeders' Cooperative, Inc.

Here are some of the highlights scheduled for August 5:

Two types of hot water poultry heating systems are being compared with each other and with individual coal stoves. The systems are being studied for their effect on broiler growth, feed efficiency, mortality, and cost of operation.

A new tomato variety, bred in Delaware, shows promise of unusually high yields of good quality fruit. Such a tomato could increase farm income without adding extra cost.

Better summer pastures is the aim of several experiments. Field Day will show forage mixtures, fertilizer treatments, irrigation, green manure studies, and supplemental pasture crops. Irrigation will be featured, showing benefits in yield and quality.

Several newer insecticides, such as malathion and parathion, are being tested for control of sap beetles on sweet corn. The work this year studies the best time of application, as well as the best type of insecticide. Sap beetles are becoming a major sweet corn pest.

A cantaloupe that scientists said couldn't be developed is underway. With good resistance to downy mildew and leaf spot, this new cantaloupe crosses a variety from India with Smith's Perfect, Hale's Best, and a high quality California melon. Such a variety should mature with the highest sugar content and best flavor.

Studies indicate that watermelons can be grown closer together than most farmers now raise them. In 1951, watermelons spaced 4 by 10 feet apart produced nearly 24 tons of fruit per acre compared to about 15 tons per acre when planted 10 by 10 feet apart.

FOOD PRESERVATION TIPS OFFERED BY NUTRITIONISTS

This is the season of canning and freezing vegetables from the garden. Many homemakers have questions concerning both methods. Miss M. Gertrude Holloway, Extension nutrition specialist for the University of Delaware, offers several suggestions in answer to letters from homemakers.

Is it necessary to have the gauge on a pressure cooker tested every five years or so, depending upon how much the pressure cooker is used. When the gauge gets out of adjustment, the answer is no. It should be tested every five years or so, depending upon how much the pressure cooker is used. When the gauge gets out of adjustment, the answer is no. It should be tested every five years or so, depending upon how much the pressure cooker is used.

Can a four-quart pressure saucan be used for canning? A four quart pressure saucan is good for canning, if you have a wire rack in the bottom and a pressure gauge. Of course you can do only pint jars in your pressure saucepan. You should follow the same directions you would for a pressure canner.

Is it still necessary to blanch vegetables for freezing? Yes, research shows that if vegetables are to retain quality and flavor over several months' storage, they must be blanched. To avoid over-blanching, do a small amount at a time (about one pound of vegetables to a gallon of water) and start counting the time when you put in the vegetables.

A frozen food record or a chart for keeping an inventory of the foods in the freezer can be obtained from any of the county eastern service offices. A similar canning chart is also available. There are several publications on freezing and canning.

GREEN TOMATOES

Some 40 farmers received instructions Friday in Capital Grange Hall at Dover in the most recent venture in Delaware agriculture—the packing of green tomatoes.

The project got under way on Monday is to last two or three weeks.

Although green tomatoes have been packed in nearby states, this will be the first year that Delaware has attempted it. A 75-foot grading machine has been moved here. After the Delaware season, the machine will be taken to Pennsylvania or New York.

The operator is the newly formed and Delaware-incorporated Scherer-Boyce Co., Inc., of which Moe Scherer, Fort Pierce, Fla., is president; John Moritz, Philadelphia, vice president, and former State Treasurer Willard D. Boyce, Dover, secretary treasurer. The corporation has been buying green tomatoes in Virginia for about a month. It will operate here at the Dave Greene Feed Co., 1102 South State Street, where the grading machine will be located.

The grading machine sizes, washes, and dries the tomatoes for packing in 60-foot wirebound boxes.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Q—I have a National Service Life Insurance term policy, and I've decided to leave my dividend money with the VA to pay premiums that I happen to miss. What will VA do if my term insurance expires and I don't take action to renew and pay the premium myself?

A—At the end of the term period, VA will pay the premium required for renewing your term policy out of your dividend credit—unless you write to VA and request otherwise before the present term expires.

Q—I plan to take my medical interne training under the Korean GI Bill. Will I be paid GI allowance as an on-the-job trainee, or will I get the higher rates paid to full-time classroom students?

A—You will receive the rates paid to those taking full-time your medical internship course must be accredited and approved by the Council on Medical Education and Hospitals of the American Medical Association. Its length also must be approved by the Council. No allowances at all may be paid to veterans in non-approved internships.

Q—A few years ago I received an automobile under VA's program of providing up to $1,600 toward the cost of a car for certain disabled veterans. My car is beginning to show signs of wear, and I wonder if I could get another VA grant to buy a new car.

A—Under the law, you are not entitled to another grant to buy a new car.

Like the microscope... This FEEDING PLAN for High Egg Output is Adjustable!

Just as the microscope is adjusted to focus on the object examined, so you adjust the Beacon Feeding Plan to "focus" it on the special requirements of your layers. The age, breed, season, level of egg production of your layers are all taken into consideration. From the simple chart we supply, you adjust three Beacon Feeds to these requirements.

It's a sensible plan—easy to use—and it has a record of success behind it.

HERE'S THE ROAD to good party-line telephone service

It's the road of simple consideration. Remember the three Rs of party-line courtesy—be Reasonable about how long you talk; be Responsible about the line for emergencies when asked; Replace the receiver gently when you find the line in use.

If you are always courteous on the telephone, you're sure to find your party-line neighbors the same. Happy result: better telephone service for everyone concerned!

Lewes put on a strong finish to keep its Mar-Del Baseball League record perfect at Lewes, Sunday, taking a 3-2 extra-inning decision over Viola. It was Lewes' 11th straight without defeat.

Catcher Bob Sweeney was the big hero. He strode to the plate in the last of the 10th with the score tied, 2-2 and then working the count to 3 and 2 took aim on Viola pitcher Bud Seman's next pitch and belted it for a home run. The blow rewarded Lewes' Cliff Chambers with the pitching verdict as he hurled five-hit ball. Lewes tagged Seman for 10 safeties.

Harrington invaded Henderson to notch a 5-2 victory behind pitcher Charley Blades, who fanned 16 in besting Dick Ridley, of Henderson. Each hurler allowed five hits. Buddy Kimmel went the distance to chalk up a 3-2 win for Frederica over Felton on the former's field, and Harry Barrett was tight in the pinches as he hurled visiting Wyoming to a 9-3 triumph over Ellendale.

SUBURBAN FARM SERVICE CO.

The Suburban Farm Service Co. is one of the leading eastern distributors of anhydrous ammonia—the 82 percent Nitrogen fertilizer. With plants located at Berlin, N. J.; Delmar, Md.; Keller, Va.; Orangeburg, S. C.; Roduco, N. C. and Wilson, N. C., the company serves thousands of independent farmers and farming companies with this new product.

Suburban Hi-N, Suburban Farm Service's trade name for anhydrous ammonia, contains a higher percentage of nitrogen than any other source of nitrogenous fertilizer. It is a liquid under pressure and is handled as such in pressure cylinders. When released into the soil, it becomes a gas.

The fertilizer is ordinarily delivered to the farm in company owned tanks, usually of 500 gallon capacity. In the case of large users, the tanks are often left on the farm and refilled periodically by tank truck delivery. Farmers who live close to one of the company's bulk plants usually pick up their supply of Suburban Hi-N and are given credit for this self-service.

Most farmers prefer to apply Suburban Hi-N when and where they need it with their own equipment. The Suburban Farm Service Co. has made applying equipment available at such a nominal price that a farmer with as little as 30 acres can now afford his own. However, custom application is available for those who wish it.

The company employs experienced personnel to give the new user the simple instructions necessary for applying Suburban Hi-N to its best advantage.

Suburban Hi-N is applied directly to the soil at a depth of four to eleven inches by means of a simple applying unit that attaches to a tractor. The unit consists of a tank connected to small metal tubes attached to the trailing edges of applicator knives that are pulled through the soil by the tractor. The amount of fertilizer applied per acre is regulated by a positive displacement meter pump or by a liquid regulator.

Tractor mounted applicators are generally used for row crops and a trailer unit is used for applying Suburban Hi-N to small grains and pastures such as a pre-plant or side or top-dressing.

Besides containing more than twice as much nitrogen per ton as the next highest source of commercial fertilizer, Suburban Hi-N offers these advantages:

(a) Nitrogen, in the ammonium form, immediately attaches itself to clay particles in the soil as Suburban Hi-N is applied. In this form it is not subject to leaching.

(b) Most young plants use nitrogen in the form of anhydrous ammonia just as readily as they use nitrogen in the nitrate form.

(c) Since anhydrous ammonia is injected below the surface of the soil, it is readily available for plant use—independent of a favorable rainfall to drive it down into the soil. While in the ammonium form and protected from the elements, even a downpour cannot wash it away.

The following is a list of crops in which Suburban Hi-N has been effective in boosting yields and improving all-around crop quality:

|------------------------|----------------|
| corn (field and sweet) | carrots |
| small grains | cauliflower |
| pastures | celery |
| cotton | collards |
| potatoes | cucumbers |
| tomatoes | eggplant |
| beets | kale |
| lima and snap beans | lettuce |
| brussel sprouts | parsley |
| | parsnips |
| cabbage | peppers |
| radishes | rhubarb |
| spinach | onions |
| squash | green peas |

Broiler-Raising Costs Cut 9% With SULFAQUINOXALINE

Savings up to 9% have been shown after continuous feeding of mash containing Sulfaquinoxaline to prevent coccidiosis outbreaks. Every broiler flock is a target for coccidiosis. Birds killed or stunted by this disease reduce profits. That's why Sulfaquinoxaline fed continuously to prevent outbreaks is a must!

In over four years of commercial use, poultry coccidia have shown no resistance to SQ. It is the safest coccidiostat now available—can be fed right up to marketing.

Proved effective in hundreds of millions of birds, SQ is the only agent which combats all five dangerous types of poultry coccidia.

Exposed birds protected by SQ have shown an average market weight 12% above that of unprotected birds. Feed efficiency was 6% greater in the protected flocks.

You can't afford to be without the protection of SQ! Insist on feeds containing Sulfaquinoxaline to prevent coccidiosis outbreaks. Every dealer has, or can get, SQ feeds.

CLASSIFIED ADS

STATE OF KENTUCKY BE IT REMEMBERED that on this 22nd day of July, A. D. 1953, personally came before me, Hilda Fransson, a Notary Public in and for the County and State aforesaid, Robert J. Kelly, President of Kelly Buick, Inc., a corporation of the State of Delaware, the corporation described in and which executed the foregoing Certificate, known to me personally to be such, and he, the said Robert J. Kelly, as he, President, duly executed said Certificate before me and acknowledged that said Certificate was the act and deed of said Corporation; that the signatures of the said President and Secretary to said foregoing Certificate are in the handwriting of the duly elected president and secretary of said Company respectively, and that the seal of said Certificate is the common or corporate seal of said Corporation.

IN MEMORIAM In loving remembrance of a dear Mother and grandmother, Mrs. Georgia Brown, who passed away July 29, 1949. A precious one from us is gone. A voice we loved is stilled. A place is broken in our hearts which never can be filled. Let us think of her today. Sleeping, resting, just away in perfect peace she awaits us all. God took her home, it was his will. Mr. and Mrs. Chipman Minner

IN MEMORIAM In memory of my Mother, Mrs. Georgia Brown, who departed this life July 30, 1949. 4 years have passed since that sad day when God called my Mother away. God took her home, it was His will. Within our hearts we love her still. The old home now is broken, no longer there, we roam, For the hands that rest forever are—the hands that made that home. We think of you in silence, no eyes can see us weep. But many a tear is shed, dear Mother, when your affairs are sleep. The dowers we place upon your grave may wither and decay, But the love for you who sleeps beneath will never fade away. Sadly missed by her children.

Greenwood Please note that there will be no preaching services at Grace Methodist Church during the month of August. The Official Board, according to its usual custom, has granted the minister and his family a vacation. There will be Church School at 9:30 as usual.

Winder Massey, Mrs. Katie Austin, and Mr. and Mrs. J. Burton Case from Harrington; Mr. and Mrs. R. Lee Coulter, Mrs. Annie Hatfield and the Jacob Hatfields from our own town. Some of the guests enjoyed a gab fest while others watched television. Home-made ice cream and cake were served amid many good wishes for the Carters.

Mr. and Mrs. Allison Davis entertained to dinner on Monday evening, Claude Phillips, Agronomist for the University of Delaware, Bill Mitchell, Assistant Agronomist, Bill Henderson, County Agent and Jim Folskey. Mr. and Mrs. R. Lee Coulter had as their guests over the past weekend, Mr. and Mrs. Bayard Duling and Mrs. Edna Patterson from Philadelphia.

Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Mills Miss Eileen Mills and Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Mills occupied a cottage at Rehoboth last week and this week with Mr. and Mrs. Walter Mills and Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Oehlert are enjoying a vacation there.

Mr. and Mrs. Omer Twigg, of Philadelphia, spent last week with Mr. and Mrs. M. T. Uhler and this week they are visiting Mr. and Mrs. Frank Donovan.

Miss Judy Cooper, of Uhlerville, is spending two weeks in Wilmington. On Sunday evening, Mr. and Mrs. R. O. Mai visited with their son, Everett and family, who are spending a week at the Hotel Royalton at Rehoboth Beach.

Some weeks ago, Mr. and Mrs. Mai spent a weekend with Everett and his family at their home at Tenally, N. J. On Sunday afternoon, they all drove up to Bear Mountain which is located in the Catskill Mountains, in New York State. Crowds of people were enjoying swimming in the lovely pool, boating on the beautiful lake, and sun-bathing on the grassy hillsides, much the same as they do at Rehoboth Beach. From there, the Mais drove on up to West Point, where many of our famous military men received their training. It was an interesting and very beautiful trip.

The H. B. Swains, the Arthur Marvel family, and the Medford Calhouns spent Sunday at Trappe Pond.

Word has reached this community that a former beloved resident, Mrs. Rosella Hatfield, has passed away. Death came to her on Sunday, July 26, at the home of her granddaughter, Mrs. Margaret Carter, in Wilmington. She was a wonderful person to know, devoted to her family and friends, with a great love for people everywhere. Her hobby was flowers and one could not talk to her long without sharing her enthusiasms.

Miss Florence Carlisle and Wm. Carlisle, Sr. entertained over the weekend Miss Bessie Cordrey and her niece, Miss Wanda Parker, from Delmar.

Mr. and Mrs. William Carlisle, Jr., entertained Mrs. Carlisle's brother and family, Mr. and Mrs. Lowell Farber, over the weekend. They have returned to Collingswood, N. J., leaving their little daughter, Kay, for a longer visit.

Speaking of baseball, we should be quite proud of our Greenwood youngsters who belong to the Pony League. Greenwood has won 12 out of 14 games played. Now we look forward to the All-Star game which is to be played at Milford, August 4, under lights, at 8:00. Tickets may be obtained from any member of the Kiwanis Club.

The boys from Greenwood who will play on the All-Star team are Denny Cannon, Ronald Cannon, Butch Cahall, Dicky Davis, Bobby Hitchens, John Hamstead, Dicky Reynolds, Eddie Smith and Billy Walters.

Robert K. Jester Jr. has returned after spending a week in Williamsport, Pa., at Lycoming College, where he participated in the training school for new conference officers for the North Eastern Regional Methodist District. Robert Jr. is chairman of Christian Faith for the Peninsula Conference.

The program began with worship service every morning, followed by a group meeting composed of all the new conference officers. The afternoon session was devoted to each officer's specific training. Each evening there was recreation, followed by a devotional service, then a bedtime snack. Before retiring, there were discussion groups in each room to make a summary of the day's work. Bob says it was a very inspiring week.

By the way, we forgot to tell you one important thing about that All-Star Pony League game. The money obtained from the sale of tickets is to be used to take the All-Star team to Washington to see the Senators play the Cleveland Indians. This will be a great day for the youngsters, so let's all get back of this and see that they get their outing.

So many people are inquiring as to the fate of the "Walter P." Bobby reports that he is now mended and safely returned home from Chinotague. No doubt we will soon see him proudly take his place in the line of traffic with Robert Jr. at the wheel. An important meeting will be held in the Fire Hall on Monday evening, August 3, at 8:30 which should be of interest to the whole community. This is for the purpose of setting up a program for plane spotting in the line of home defense. Movies will be shown which demonstrate the essential need for such a program. It is requested that everyone be present who can possibly do so.

Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Hodge, of Dover, were dinner guests of the Lawrence Merediths on Sunday. Callers in the afternoon were Mr. and Mrs. Nelson Meredith.

Woodside William Knowles, of Wilmington, was a Saturday guest of Mr. and Mrs. Lester Gooden. Mr. and Mrs. Paul Slaughter, of Morristown, Pa., spent the weekend with Mr. and Mrs. Arlington Slaughter. Donna Jean Jones returned Sunday after spending several weeks with her uncle and wife, Mr. and Mrs. Homer Schneider, of Wyoming. Master Albert Dager, of Dover, is visiting his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Schneider. Mrs. Hampton Grier and son are spending the week with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. James H. Morris, of Frederica, who are vacationing at Oak Orchard. Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Buckmaster, of Wilmington, spent Sunday with Mrs. Ella Pinder and Miss Bertha Coggage. Mr. and Mrs. John Pratt and children were Tolchester visitors Sunday.

Hobbs Mr. and Mrs. James R. Chaffinch entertained the following persons recently: Mr. and Mrs. William Wunderlich and Mr. and Mrs. Lindsay Clendaniel, of Denton; Mr. and Mrs. G. T. Warwick, of Hillsboro; Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Gorman, of Tuckahoe Neck, and Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Bodenbender, of Easton. Mr. and Mrs. William D. Uhler, of Williston, was a recent guest of Mrs. B. B. Allen. Ralph Wooters attended a family party at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George Fountain, of Denton, recently. Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Merrick, of Florida, spent the weekend with the former's brother, Manning Merrick. The trio visited Rehoboth Sunday afternoon. The Rev. Louis Adams, of New Jersey, visited his sister Mrs. T. H. Tovers, Wednesday of last week. Elmer Butler attended the Farm Bureau picnic at Chambers' Park, Federalsburg, last Wednesday.

Edwin Wright, Denton, was an overnight guest of his cousin, Franklin Perry, Friday. Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Edgell, Greenwood, visited Mr. and Mrs. L. H. Thomas last Thursday. Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Holbrook entertained Mrs. Edna Gray, of Greensboro, last Saturday.

"WHY, SHUCKS," declared Aaron Redfield boastfully, "five years after we're married we'll have a camp on Lake Mallory where we can spend our summer vacations."
Kate's eyes glistened. Most any one else would have regarded Aaron skeptically, amusedly. He wasn't a very bright youth or very handsome. He had made boasts before and fulfilled none of them. But Kate loved him. And love is blind. They were married in September. After a week's honeymoon they began housekeeping in a two-room apartment on Hyde street. "This is nothing to what we're going to have," Aaron boasted. "In a couple of years we'll own our own place in the suburbs."
Aaron worked for the Mid-Week National magazine. He had charge of 50 schoolboys who peddled the publication from house to house. It wasn't much of a job, but it paid him pretty well. He didn't have to work very hard. He had plenty of leisure to dream of what a great man he was going to be when he got his break.
Times got bad. The schoolboys began selling fewer and fewer magazines. Aaron had difficulty in keeping some of them on their routes. His own income was reduced 10, 15 and finally 25 per cent. Every now and then Kate mentioned the camp on Lake Mallory. This bothered him a little. One day he woke up to the fact she had believed him when he made that boast. She had faith in him.
The next day he called a meeting of his boys and gave them a pep talk. They were impressed. They started out with renewed energy. Before the week had passed the number of magazines they sold was increased by half again. Aaron began figuring. In order to save money enough to buy the camp he'd not only have to restore his original income, but double it.
This made him discouraged. He decided to confess to Kate that there wasn't much chance of getting the camp. With this in mind he went home. Kate greeted him at the door. She looked at him closely. And suddenly her eyes began to gleam. She had, she said, spent an hour in the furniture department of a downtown store that afternoon looking at camp furniture. She knew just what she wanted.
Another month passed. Aaron kept postponing his confession. Instead, he continued to give his boys pep talks. He increased their profit by a fraction of a cent per issue. The result was amazing. They sold dozens more copies. Still Aaron knew it was pretty hopeless. He wished that Kate would forget about the camp. But she didn't. She made things worse by telling all her friends about it.
He tried to think of new methods of inspiring ambition in his boys. He advertised for more. That spring he took on an additional 25. This meant more work for himself, longer hours. But it meant, also, a bigger income. Each week he began laying away a bit more in their savings account. Kate was jubilant. She actually began cutting out curtains for the camp windows.
Aaron was desperate. He began working nights. He lost weight. He looked haggard. But the savings account kept growing. At the end of the fourth year of their married life it reached a figure within $500 of the amount they needed for the camp. Aaron worked hard and sacrificed and wore himself ragged saving that $500. But he succeeded. In July of the fifth year they went up to Lake Mallory and bought the camp they had their eyes on. They paid for it spot cash.
The next week they went back to their apartment. There was a letter there for Aaron. It was from Mid-Week, offering him a district managership at a figure that was twice his present salary.
Kate's eyes glistened. She knew, she said, he'd be successful. "Shucks," he declared. "That's nothing! Five years more and I'll be making twice as much."

Judge Appointed For New Court
The first Judge of the newly-created Sussex County Court of Common Pleas will be Isaac D. Short II, Georgetown attorney, it was announced Wednesday by Gov. J. Caleb Boggs.
The Governor also disclosed that he had appointed Andrew D. Christie, of Wilmington, and S. Samuel Arsh, of Silverside Road, as members of the commission for continuous revision of the Delaware Code of 1953.
Mr. Short, who was supported by the Sussex County Bar Association, steps into a $10,000-a-year judicial post which was set up in legislation approved by the 117th General Assembly and signed by the Governor. The appointment is for 12 years.
Mr. Short has been an attorney at Georgetown for the past 21 years. He is the son of the late Rev. Francis Burgette Short, pastor of the Harrison Street Methodist Church in Wilmington for several years, and one-time candidate for Congress on the Prohibition ticket.
A graduate of Brown University, Providence, R. I., in 1928, and the University of Pennsylvania Law School in 1931, Mr. Short worked for a time following his graduation as a clerk in the Georgetown law office of former Chief Justice Daniel L. Layton of the state Supreme Court. He was admitted to the Delaware Bar in 1932, and entered his own practice in that year.
Judge Refuses Injunction On Charge Minors Employed
U. S. District Court Judge Richard S. Rodney Wednesday refused to issue an injunction against any alleged violations of the Fair Labor Standards Act by Walter Gibe of near Smyrna.
The injunction had been asked by the U. S. Department of Labor which charged that Gibe had employed minor children on his Kent County farm in 1951.
Said Judge Rodney: "No evidence being offered of any violation of the law before the month of May, 1951, or since that time, but upon the contrary, there being every indication that the law is attempted to be observed and carried out by the defendant, it is concluded that an injunction should not issue at this time."
"The Court will retain jurisdiction of the case for approximately six months, or until Jan. 1, 1954. If prior to that time it should appear that any other violations of the act have occurred upon the premises of the defendant, the matter may be again presented to this court and an injunction prayed. If at the time indicated no further violations have been suggested, an application may be made for the dismissal of the suit."
During the trial of the case in May it was brought out that two boys, 14 and 13-year-old sons of migratory workers from Georgia, played in the fields while their parents worked and at times were seen helping in the picking of asparagus on the Gibe farm, but without pay.

Charles Taylor Celebrates 92nd Birthday
Charles E. Taylor celebrated his 92nd birthday last Friday.
Mr. Taylor and his wife, who died five months ago, celebrated their 70th wedding anniversary early this year. Mrs. Taylor would have been 90 next month.
Mr. and Mrs. Taylor were very active in the Methodist Protestant Church and its successor, Trinity Methodist Church, many years.
Mr. Taylor has three children, five grandchildren, 12 great grandchildren, and 1 great-great-grandchild.
He enjoyed receiving a shower of cards and gifts.
