The Role of Water in Plants

If we attempted to name the most important single factor in the successful growing of any group of plants, whether vegetables in the garden, flowers around the home grounds or grass on the lawn, we should probably put water on the top of the list. In nature, of course, there are also many other factors such as temperature, light, plant food, etc., all of which are inter-related and work together as a well-coordinated team to bring about the final resulting plant. Some of these are beyond our control, but most of us can do something toward insuring crops having a sufficient amount of moisture when needed.

Investors and successful growers all agree that approximately an inch of rainfall, or its equivalent, is required every week or 10 days, even in humid regions such as Maryland, during normal summer weather and on average soils, to maintain uninterrupted growth of such vegetables. This inch of water figures out to a little over 27,000 gallons or about 110 tons of water per acre. Sounds like a lot of water and it is. Our concern as gardeners is to devise ways and means of approaching this volume.

Our average annual rainfall is probably sufficient if we do a good job of conserving it. Certainly we should make every effort to store and hold as much of the water that falls during times of abundant rainfall and have it for use in drier periods. This means storing in the soil, of course. At this point it would be easy to get off on our favorite topic of filling the surface soil to a depth of 8 inches or more with organic matter. This, of course, must be replenished at every opportunity because it is constantly breaking down, becoming humus and continually being used up by crop plants. But we do want to emphasize how it greatly increases the water holding capacity of soils, holding it in much the same way as a sponge holds water. I have heard the statement by one authority that if we did the best we could possibly do toward conserving moisture in regions where we have from 40 to 50 inches of rainfall per year, we would have sufficient to grow crops in most years.

In addition to keeping up the supply of organic matter by applications of manure, compost, peat moss and green manuring crops, a great deal of moisture may be conserved by proper methods of tillage. The writer once lived in a part of the country where there was no rainfall from May to November. But for the other 6 months there was an abundance. I grew a satisfactory garden of the various kinds of vegetables usually grown, without irrigation. My next door neighbor had an equally good garden with irrigation. After thorough preparation in the spring, I kept a loose soil layer or dust mulch on the surface which prevented most of the surface evaporation of the soil moisture.

Let's check over the various ways that soil moisture may get away. Surface evaporation is one. Unless the surface mulch is maintained water will rise from the lower depths of the soil to the surface and escape as vapor. In some soils rainwater may penetrate so deeply that it does not again rise to the surface between the small openings between soil particles which act as fine cakes. At high temperatures surface evaporation is speeded up, as it also is in windy weather. If the surface is too compact there will be surface run-off. Plenty of organic matter and proper tillage will modify the loss considerably.

Why is water so important? Since the quantity of water in most vegetables when harvested in the green state is about 90 percent, some more, some less, we must realize it as an important constituent. The various plant food elements, found naturally in soils or added in fertilizers can only be taken up by plant roots when they go in solution in the soil water. When these travel up the plant stem and are incorporated into tissues in the various plant organs, considerable water is given off from the leaves in the form of vapor, this being called transpiration. The amount of water used by plants in their development is tremendous. It has been determined that in order for a pound of dry matter to be produced, about 300 pounds of water traverses the plant in this way. This adds up to something like 350 tons of water per acre for the average farm crop.

If you have an adequate water supply, irrigation can save failure in drought. Expensive equipment is not needed. A lawn sprinkler may do good service. Trenches between rows can carry water. Canvas hose where water seeps through are useful. But be sure to wet the soil down to 4, or better, 6 inches. Light sprinklings do little good. A good soaking does.

COMPOST PILES AID TO GARDEN

Compost piles, which can be built largely of waste materials, provide a good source of humus for the garden, says associate county agent, George K. Vapaa. Humus helps the soil hold more moisture and makes it easier to work.

Suitable materials for the compost pile include grass clippings, leaves, weeds, discarded plant remains from the garden if they are not diseased, sod, soil, sawdust, and animal manures.

Locate the compost pile where it is screened by a building, or some plant growth. As the materials become available put them in layers on the ground, keeping the top of the pile lower in the middle than the sides to catch and hold rainwater.

From time to time apply a layer of animal manure and for each 6-inch thickness of compost spread 1 pint of garden fertilizer for each 50 square feet of compost. A handful of lime can be scattered over each layer to good effect. To add nitrogen, put on nitrate of soda or sulphate of ammonia.

Composts can be started at any time of the year, but the process of decay slows up in cold weather. In dry spells add water to the pile. Mix the materials in the heap occasionally, and allow it to rot thoroughly before applying it to the garden.

OLD, NEW OAT VARIETIES RECOMMENDED FOR DELAWARE

Several varieties of oats were recommended this week for Delaware farmers. Variety trials have been conducted for a number of years by the Agricultural Experiment Station, University of Delaware, and the results are announced by Claude E. Phillips, chairman of the agronomy department at the University.

Phillips says the Forkedear variety of winter oats has given the best yields over a period of years. He adds that Lee variety is almost equal to Forkedear and generally does well throughout Delaware.

Oats are especially good for poultry and dairy cattle, Phillips points out. He believes it will pay farmers to put in more acreage this fall for their own use, good many farmers now raise oats in this state—some getting yields as high as 85 bushels per acre.

Three new varieties tested by the Experiment Station are Arlington, Atlantic, and Le Conte. These have done well in tests, but the seed supply is somewhat limited. Fulgrain, an old variety, is not recommended for local use. This variety is liable to winter kill during severe weather.

Winter oats do best if planted about Oct. 1, but may be planted until Oct. 10 in New Castle County and Oct. 15 in Sussex County. Oats should be seeded at the rate of 2 to 2 1/2 bushels per acre.

The grade of fertilizer to use depends on fertility before planting. For soils where manure or legume crops have not been plowed under recently, a 5-10-10 fertilizer is recommended at 400 pounds per acre. Or use 8-16-16 at 350 pounds per acre. Very fertile soils and those manured recently need only 2 or 3 percent nitrogen.

BANG'S DISEASE TO BE SUBJECT OF MEETING

Bang's Disease, or Brucellosis, will be the subject of a general farmers' meeting to be held at the Caesar Rodney School on Monday, Sept. 28, at 8 p.m. This problem is of great importance to dairymen, since Bang's Disease can be responsible for undulant fever in humans. The city milk markets are changing their requirements to insist that all milk come from Bang's-free herds.

The State Board of Agriculture is co-operating with the Agricultural Extension Service of the University of Delaware to present the program which will cover the new ring tests, various plans for getting an accredited herd, and a film which explains the importance of controlling Bang's Disease. The Woodside 4-H Dairy Club under the leadership of Mr. and Mrs. G. Wallace Caulk has initiated the demand for the meeting. The members, at their last regular meeting, found that they need more information on Bang's Disease, and feel that other people want to know about it.

Bang's Disease is a community problem. Everyone must work to eliminate it, as has been done with tuberculosis and hoof and mouth disease. It is highly contagious and can put a dairyman out of business very quickly if it gets a start. The new ring test to detect the presence of the disease in herds is one means of discovering the trouble quickly. It can be made at the milk plant and is quite sensitive. If the ring test shows trouble in your herd, every animal can be given a blood test to determine which animals are affected. No charge is made for any of these tests.

Further information can be obtained from the State Board of Agriculture at Dover, your local veterinarian, the milk plants or the county agent.

Does your farm or home driveway invite accidents?

It does if weeds, bushes, or other obstructions prevent drivers from seeing passing traffic on the main highway, says county agent, William E. Tarbell. He says this also means that traffic on the highway cannot see farm vehicles about to enter the road.

Tarbell suggests that farmers use the following method to figure the "sight distance" necessary for safety:

Park your car in the driveway with the front bumper 10 feet from the edge of the highway. Mark off a distance of about 700 feet (250 paces) along the highway on both sides of the driveway entrance. Set markers at each point.

Now get in the driver's seat of your car. If you can see both markers, the "sight distances" are proper. If not, you should clean your driveway of weeds and other obstructions.

It Takes Coal
To make a pound of glass—whether it be sparkling crystal, plate, or ovenware—requires nearly half a pound of coal.

Sing Under Water
Frogs are able to sing under water because they normally sing with their mouths and nostrils closed.

Your personal valuables and important papers, like those of city folks, deserve better protection than a tin box, mattress, bureau drawer, closet, crock, or other hiding place. When they're in our bank vault you always know where to find them, and they won't be burned or stolen.

FIELD HOUSE POSSIBLE WITHOUT BOOST IN TAXES

The Field House will at last become a reality if our community so desires. The building program for same with supporting legislation has been approved by the State Board of Education of Delaware.

The legislature has made $120,000 available if the Harrington Special School District will support the proposed program by supplying $80,000. To this end a referendum election will be held on Saturday, Oct. 3, from 1 o'clock in the afternoon until 8 o'clock in the evening.

The District is in the fortunate position to be able to carry the additional finance program without raising the present tax rate.

The following statement is presented to substantiate the ability of the Harrington Special School District Board of Education to float the bond issue of $80,000 without a change in the rate of the tax; namely, continue with the present program: (.40) forty cents for debt service and (.10) ten cents for current expense and $4.00 poll tax.

The 1952 assessment was $4,840,684.50. The 1953 assessment is $5,198,500.87 and there are 3187 polls. The total income with all taxes collected is $38,741.50. The indebtedness as of July 30, 1953, follows:

'50 bond issue—$183,000 with interest rate of 2 3/8 pct.

'51 bond issue—$128,400 with interest rate of 2 1/4 pct.

The debt service needs for 1953 total $22,234.25. In addition to this, allowing ten percent for delinquents and percent the current income we will have a total of $10,631.82. The debt service $22,234.25 and $10,631.82 totals $32,866.07. The income $38,741.50 less $32,866.07 leaves a balance of $5,875.43. The new bond issue will add the following obligation: $80,000, using 2 1/2 pct. as the probable interest rate and retiring one twenty-fifth of the issue, will cost $5,200.

Supporting this program will give the community fine facilities and should be an addition of which we all will be proud to have for our own and our children's use and enjoyment.

WELL PLANNED BREAKFAST IMPORTANT FOR CHILDREN

With the start of school, mothers should give more thought to the kind of breakfast they serve their children, suggests Miss Gertrude Holloway, extension nutrition specialist for the University of Delaware. She says it is essential for children to eat a good breakfast so they can do their best work at school.

"Breakfast should provide one-fourth to one-third of the daily nutritional requirements," Miss Holloway points out. "A good breakfast should include fruit or juice, whole grain, cereal, bread, meat, eggs, milk and butter. These all are necessary to furnish energy for top efficiency."

Children may suffer from lack of breakfast. Their reactions are slower, they are not as alert, and they have unpleasant dispositions. Resistance to disease is lowered and general appearance suffers too, as well as school grades. A poor breakfast may mean poor progress.

Many homemakers claim there isn't time to prepare or eat an adequate breakfast. There will be time, Miss Holloway suggests, if you call the children 10 minutes earlier. As for cooking, there will be time for a good breakfast if some preparation is done the night before.

Such things as setting the table, preparing the fruit or juice, and planning the menu can be done the night before. It might be helpful to have a shelf for the canned fruits, juices, cereals, jam and other foods to be used for breakfast.

There are adequate breakfast menus that can be prepared in five minutes. There are some menus which take longer.

CAESAR RODNEY SCHOOL NOTES

Awards Made at First Assembly

The first high school assembly of the school year was held Wednesday, Sept. 9, at 9:45 with the Student Council in charge. W. Calvin Wood, a Student Council sponsor, was chairman.

President of the Student Council, Thomas Webb, welcomed the students and faculty and asked for full co-operation with the council for the new year.

W. Lyle Mowlds, state supervisor of Agricultural Education, presented $700 to Samuel MacFaddin as a first place F. F. A. state award for Farm and Home Electrification. He also presented to Robert Biggs a 1953 graduate, a check for $100 as a first place F. F. A. State award in dairy farming.

Mr. Mowlds also presented a plaque to the Caesar Rodney Chapter for having won first place in the crops division at Kent-Sussex Fair. Carlton Fifer, chapter president, received this award on behalf of the chapter.

Floyd T. Hart, state director of music education, congratulated the band on winning two first place awards during the summer, first in the chicken festival parade and first place in the Firemen's parade at the Kent-Sussex Fair.

W. Calvin Wood, athletic director, presented certificates to the following boys for placing in the 1953 "Five Star Track 100 Club." There were a total of 1048 participants in 841 schools in this ranking which involved track skills. The Caesar Rodney boys ranked as follows in the first hundred in the U. S.: Kenneth Calloway, 12th; Paul Lissy, 30th; Jack Holland, 31st; Lawrence Webb, 66th; Wilson Reed, 71st.

Dr. W. B. Simpson introduced the new members of the staff and urged students to make the best use of the school facilities.

The assembly closed with group singing led by Edwin F. Englehart.

Enrollment Increased by Sixty

Enrollment figures as of Mon., Sept. 14, showed 1066 students in Caesar Rodney School with 594 of these being grades 1-6 and 472 in Grades 7-12. This is seventy more students than were in attendance at this time last year.

In the colored schools there are 114 pupils enrolled as compared with 124 last year. The reduction in enrollment in the Star Hill and P. L. Dunbar schools is due to the fact that grades seven and eight have been discontinued in both schools, with the students being sent to Booker T. Washington Junior High School in Dover.

Combining the enrollment in all three schools of the district gives a net gain of 60, which is considered to be a normal increase.

PEOPLE behind your telephone

Floyd D. Marine
Vernon E. Marine

To provide good, fast, dependable telephone service for Delaware takes vast quantities of equipment . . . and nearly 1400 skilled people to install, operate and maintain it.

Aptitude for telephone work often seems to run in a family. Take, for example, the Marine family of Seaford. Vernon Marine, a veteran of naval service in the North Atlantic, is now an experienced telephone Lineman. His brother Floyd has also joined the telephone team—as a Cable Helper. Together, they help extend the network of wire and cable that carries Delaware's growing telephone traffic.

It is people like the Marines . . . alert, competent people . . . who make your telephone service so dependable in emergencies, so useful every day in the year.

SENIOR PERSONALITY

Janet Collison

Janet Lee Collison, better known to classmates as Janet, was born Oct. 11, 1936 at Harrington. She has attended Harrington School for 12 years, and has held the office of secretary of the press club for two years.

Her hobbies are flowers and sports, especially baseball and basketball. Like most teen-agers, Janet has a strong dislike for gossip among classmates.

After graduation, Janet plans to enter Milford Memorial Hospital to train as a nurse.

The enrollment of the Harrington School of Sept. 15 is as follows:

There are 442 students in the white elementary school, 82 in the colored elementary school, 282 in the white junior and senior high school, and 18 students in the colored 7th and 8th grades. This totals 494 elementary students and 300 in the junior and senior high school.

Athletics

Since our boys have no fall sport, there is a possibility that they may have a few baseball games. This will keep them in shape for next year's season. Leon Hart, the boys' coach, is trying to arrange for a few games. Basketball will be started as soon as the gym is ready.

The girls began hockey practice after school. Also the cheerleaders, captained by Ann Howard, are starting practice now.

ELEMENTARY NEWS

Mrs. West's Room

The children in Mrs. West's room were the first class to go into the new building. We have a beautiful green room of which we are very proud. We like our fountain and lavatory in our room. The first graders like to learn to write and sing. The second graders are very interested in reading about Alice and Jerry.

This is a poem we wrote about Henry's new book bag.

Henry has a new book bag, In it are many colors. Bright red, green, blue and yellow.

He is a very lucky fellow.

Mrs. Brown's Second Grade

Mrs. Brown's second grade was also one of the first groups to move into the new building. Her room is very beautifully decorated in red.

Mrs. Irwin's Second Grade

We were very excited about moving into our new building. We have a pretty green room and everything is so handy. We all hope the other elementary children will join us soon.

VA ADMINISTRATION NEWS

Q - I want to apply for VA's vocational counseling to help me choose a training objective under the Korean GI Bill. There aren't any counseling facilities in my town. Would VA pay my transportation costs to and from a counseling center?

A - No. VA may not pay the travel costs of a veteran who merely desires counseling. But VA could pay those costs, in the case of a veteran for whom counseling is mandatory.

Q - If I meet all the eligibility requirements of the Korean GI Bill, would I be allowed to take training, even though I've gone back on active duty and am now in uniform?

A - No. The Korean GI Bill prohibits training by veterans on active duty, even though they do meet all the eligibility requirements of the law.

Q - I'm planning to buy a house with a GI loan. What should be my first step?

A - Your first step should be to go to your VA Regional Office and obtain a Certificate of Eligibility. Be sure to bring your original discharge or separation paper with you. Once you have the Certificate, see a lender for a GI loan.

Q - I've just come out of service, and I'm planning to apply for $10,000 worth of GI insurance available to Korean veterans. I have a $5,000 commercial life insurance policy. Will I still be able to get the full $10,000 GI policy, even though I hold commercial insurance?

A - Yes. The amount of commercial insurance you carry will in no way reduce the amount of GI insurance to which you may be entitled.

Cream Whips Main Street Traffic

Big traffic jam in front of the office last week. Thought everybody in the county was coming in to buy The Clarion, but they weren't.

Seems a 5-gallon can fell off Whitey Fisher's truck, spilling cream all over the street. Our cop on duty, Tiny Fields, halted traffic so Whitey could pick up the can. Tiny was about to wave the cars on when a kitten ran out and started lapping up the cream.

Well, traffic piled up, but Tiny paid no heed. Light changed green three times. After the kitten had enough, Tiny waved the traffic through.

From where I sit, this was just a "Tiny" demonstration of the way people in our town are. They're usually pretty considerate and tolerant. If one of our neighbors prefers a good glass of beer to his friend's coffee at dinnertime, it's just each to his own taste and everything's "smooth as cream" between them.
