WHY DIDN'T WE THINK OF IT?

A relief from some television advertising. Why didn't we think of it? There is now a device on the market, called Blab-off, by which a viewer, can shut off the sound, and hence the commercial, at will.

The viewer can sit across the room, with a small device, connected to the set by a wire. When the commercial starts, one merely presses the device and the sound goes off. The viewer can watch the screen and tell when the show recommences. Then he presses the device and the sound begins anew.

The device sells for only $2.85 and can be installed in 20 minutes, says an article in Reader's Digest.

Wonderful—no more syrupy commercials. No more corny, singing commercials.

Blab-off should be instrumental in improving the commercials. The minute one is displeased with a commercial—snap—and it is off. No longer will a viewer be forced to leave the room or shut off the set to escape hearing praise of a brand of alcoholic beverage.

We believe Blab-off will insure better programs, with better continuity because of less interruptions from the commercials. Also, as in newspaper and magazine advertising, the commercial will have to be good, else its message will not get across.

The viewer now has an easy way out.

Every teen-ager, he thinks, should get hep and do what he's doing—those that don't are just careless of the future. The dimes and quarters he saves, he says, will finally make him rich. Rug Making

The girls of third-year home-making class, under the direction of Mrs. Violet Goodwill, are now making hooked rugs. They have put together their own frames and designs by using narrow pieces of scrap lumber and closely woven burlap bags. For most of them, this is their first experience in hooking a rug. Several of them are using old wool clothing cut into narrow strips and worked with the old fashioned type rug hook.

The members of the class include: Deanne Shultie, Ruth Wright, Katie Calloway, Patti Wilfe, Mary Ann Barlow, Mary Fry, Barbara Minner, Doris Porter, Shirley Larimore, Joyce Harrington, Ann Howard, Maxine Wyatt, and Mary Ellen Simpson.

Barbara Minner is hooking a rug 36 by 26, with stripes made of old red, yellow, pink, and blue wool skirts, sweaters and coats.

Joyce Harrington is making a hooked rug of green and gray knitting yarn.

Mary Ellen Simpson is making a rug, 20 x 26, of red, gray, blue, yellow, green, white, and maroon colored yarn.

Maxine Wyatt is hooking a rug, 28 by 28, of red, green, black, yellow, tan, and pink yarn. The pattern has roses and rosebuds.

Ann Howard is making a "Welcome" mat, 20 by 26, of dark and light green, red yarn and a tan background.

Money—A Standard of Value

The story behind a piece of eight, a silver dollar, and a dollar bill, with their relation to the colonial period and the nineteenth century, and modern times constituted a television program seen in the library during the second period on Tuesday. This program led to the question: "What will money buy?"

This is a part of the history series presented by Wilbur Hunter of the Peale Museum with the cooperation of the Historical Society, comparing three periods of 1750, 1850, and 1950.

This entertainment came from WBAL, TV, in Baltimore. It was for the Juniors' and Seniors' history classes.

Movie

On Oct. 28, the 6th grades watched a TV show from 10:45 to 11:00, on "Hallowe'en Safety." Public School No. 18 of the Baltimore Schools gave a drama showing how to have a safe Hallowe'en.

Report

Miss Morris' room had Home-room Wed., Oct. 21. The president, Ralph Poore, called the meeting to order. The secretary then read the minutes. The treasurer made his reports and collected the dues. The inspectors of lockers checked the lockers and reported to the class. Ralph Poore and Kenneth Collins offered to bring corn or decoration for the Hallowe'en Party. The entertainment committee then made its report on what entertainment we will have for our party. Then the president adjourned the meeting.

Spiders

My name is Richard Seely, student of Harrington High School. The story you are about to hear is true, only the names have been changed to protect the innocent.

Tuesday, Oct. 13, 1953, I had to get three animals for biology. I got a fly, a moth, and a spider.

Wed., Oct. 14, 7:00 a. m., I came downstairs to look at animals. I had a spider, two flying moths and pieces of a moth. It was first degree murder.

9:00 a. m. I got an idea for my biology report. Miss Paskey said I could start on spiders.

6:30 p. m., I captured two more spiders and a couple of eggs. I named the male Harvey, the female Eliza, and the moth killer, "Killer."

6:45 p. m., gave Killer ten flies and the married couple 7. Came back in a half hour and the flies were gone. First degree hunger.

Sat., Oct. 17, 6:15 p. m. I found another playmate for Killer, a spider about a quarter his size. Then the battle began. Within 15 minutes Killer had killed again. His killings now were 27 flies, 7 moths, 3 bugs, and a spider.

Monday, Oct. 19, 7:00 a. m. Harvey and his wife had a battle. Harvey killed his wife. I put him in with Killer, thinking he would be punished because he was only one half as big as Killer. He finished, Killer in a matter of minutes.

7:00 p. m. He was tried and convicted of murder in the first degree by the W. W. Welch farm.

7:45 p. m. Harvey escaped from his Kraft Mayonnaise jar. IMPORTANT—If you see Harvey, report to me at once. He is 1 1-3 inches diameter, black legs, and bottom. He has a gray top with black spots. He is armed and must be considered dangerous at all times. If you see him, don't phone your radio or television station or newspaper, but see me.

11 10th Grade. To—Dickie Seeley

Subject—Coroner's Report

Found—One mouse believed to answer description of Harvey.

On the night of Oct. 20, I went into the bedroom and walked down into our dreary, dusty cellar. It was 6:15. As I stood on the creaking steps, I heard the pitiful cry of a mouse who was in great pain.

Williams.

Pen Pal Club News

Annmarie Kotlaba, Reporter

The Pen Pal Club has elected new officers for the coming year. They are as follows:

President, Marie Minner. Vice-president, Peggy Moore. Secretary, Lois Hopkins. Reporter, Annmarie Kotlaba. Assistant reporter, Lillian White.

Adel Callaway has already received a letter from her pen pal in Honolulu, Hawaii. She read it at the last meeting and the rest of the club enjoyed hearing it. At our last meeting we discussed the different things that we could enclose in our letters to make the correspondence interesting. One suggestion was to enclose picture post cards of Harrington and of other interesting places. If the correspondent has a hobby it was also suggested that we could send things for his or her hobby.

The Pen Pal Club is looking forward to a happy year of correspondence with boys and girls abroad.

SINGERS IN WILMINGTON FOR DSEA

Last Friday afternoon, during the final session of the teachers' meeting sponsored by the Delaware State Education Association in Wilmington at the P. S. duPont High School, the chorus from the 1953 Summer Vocal Camp sang with practically a 100 per cent attendance from the students who attended the summer camp held annually at the Wesley Junior College in Dover under the sponsorship of the Delaware Music Educators Association.

The group gave the same concert as that given at the summer concert last June, and was well received. The substitute director, Walter Ehret, was the camp director for music during the first year of its founding in 1951. John Raymond, director of music at LaFayette College in Easton, Pa., conducted the morning rehearsal, but was recalled by the college unexpectedly. He was ably substituted by Mr. Ehret, who was no stranger to the students of the chorus.

HARRINGTON, AS HAS BEEN THE CUSTOM SINCE THE CAMP CHORUS WAS FOUNDED THREE YEARS AGO, HAD THE LARGEST REPRESENTATION OF ANY SCHOOL IN THE STATE, WITH A COUNT OF 18 STUDENTS IN ATTENDANCE.

The singers from Harrington were: Alvin Jarrell, Joyce Gruwell, Rhea Lee Clendaniel, Elva Minner, Mary Jo Pitlick, Joan Shaw, Mary Evelyn Harrington, Barbara Edwards, Charlotte Ann Noble, Joyce Hopkins, Betty Ann Moore, and Gracie Graham.

Parents and friends cooperating with transportation to the concert Friday were Mrs. Gloria Dill, Mrs. Clarence Jarrell, Mrs. William Shaw, and Mrs. George Thompson.

Melvin Brobst, music teacher for Harrington, was responsible for the attendance of these students, and was proud that our school in the state, with a count

Rae Smith, Janet Smith, Nancy Nelson, Ann Howard, Louisa Howard, Sandra Raughley, Ginger

Thompson.

Vehicle Safety

About 30.6 per cent—or nearly 1 out of 3—of the vehicles given safety checks during last year's program were found to be in need of service attention for one or more parts affecting safe vehicle operation?

HELP FOR FARMER IN COST-PRICE SQUEEZE

There's a ray of hope for price squeeze.
Agricultural economists at the University of Delaware have some tips that may ease the plight of the farm operator who finds lower prices for his products while his operating costs remain high.
"Look for places to cut costs but don't overdue it!" advise W. T. McAllister and William E. Daniels. "In the next few years good farm profits will depend a great deal more on good farm management."
The economists point out that while hired labor costs four times as much as in pre World War II days machinery has just doubled in price. However, while labor-saving machinery is a god investment for some, for other farmers, hiring machinery may be more practical if it is used only a few days each year.
This isn't the time to cut down on fertilizer sprays and dusts, caution the economists. It will still pay in the long run to spend what is needed for these items, as well as some farm machinery, good seed and proven varieties.
Get rid of non-paying livestock now. When prices are falling, low producing cows and lazy hens may not earn their keep. Farmers can provide their cows good homegrown hay and pasture at much lower cost when buying it.
Other ways to beat the price cost situation? Pay off debt or combine several short term debts into one longer term farm mortgage at lower interest rates. Keep insurance paid up on buildings. Keep a more complete record of income and expenses.

CORN STORAGE NOW FOR BETTER PRICE

Corn storage has everything in its favor, believes George K. Vapaa, Associate County Agent. Especially now when farmers are looking for a few breaks, having a suitable place to store corn can mean more income.
The farmer with storage space can hold his corn after harvest until prices go up, explains the agent. With approved government storage he can get the current minimum support price rate of $1.74 per bushel in Delaware. Also in the farmer's favor is a new law which allows him income tax credit for building corn storage.
There's still time to provide temporary corn storage space, Vapaa points out. Many buildings not in use, such as chicken or hog houses, are adequate for a few months, but some arrangement should be made to keep corn from packing too close.
A snow fence crib can be put up quickly and inexpensively. Fasten the face poles set in the ground and cover it with a canvas cover. This will do the temporary storage.
In building permanent storage, keep in mind that it should be rat proof, easily fumigated and allow for drying.

YOUR CHOICE OF FAMOUS BRANDS

Many poultrymen have found this fall that PURINA'S HIGH-EFFICIENCY principle is making eggs on less feed per dozen than ever before on lower-energy feeds

If you haven't tried Purina Laying Chows with the HIGH-EFFICIENCY formulas, you surely will find it worth while to ask your Purina Dealer about them. Poultryman after poultryman tells us he is getting as many or more eggs on less feed per day than ever before on Purina.
