The National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis has set a goal of 75 million dollars to be raised in the present March of Dimes campaign because it is the crucial year in the fight against diphtheria. This is the year of hope and belief that the vaccine developed by Dr. Jonas E. Salk, research professor of bacteriology at the University of Pittsburgh will be effective in protecting children against paralytic polio.

To see this great fight to a successful conclusion an arbitrary quota of $2000 was set for Harrington, Farmington and vicinity and as of Tuesday of this week, the contributions received to date total $714, of which $150 was contributed by the pupils and faculty of our local school, $150 by two corporations, leaving only $256 being contributed by the remainder of our population.

While the official closing date of campaign is Jan. 29, the local committee has extended the closing date to Feb. 15, to enable our citizens to continue the fine work they have done since 1934.

Bad weather conditions have hampered Eddie Taylor and his committee from soliciting the rural districts, but this will be done beginning next week.

In commenting on the $150 voluntarily contributed by the faculty and pupils, Earl Sylvester, chairman of the local committee, said, "This is the outstanding effort of any group since my affiliation with the March of Dimes program. The pupils were not solicited, but simply handed a card and the response was thrilling. These children know that the largest number of victims come from their group and they wanted to help."

The Mothers March on Polio sponsored by the auxiliary of the C. K. R. T. Post No. 7, American Legion, and held Tuesday night, was well organized and began promptly at 7 p. m. When the fire siren and bells of the Asbury and Trinity Churches heralded the start. Mrs. Irene Outten, president of the auxiliary, supervised the operation of 12 teams. Total amount collected, $386.75.

Additional contributors follow: Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Denney, Mrs. Henry J. Clukey, Harrington Business & Professional Women's Club, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Lomicky, Miss Edith Smith, Mrs. Leatha Beauchamp, Mr. and Mrs. Nathaniel Minner, Mr. and Mrs. W. L. ## Kent & Sussex Motor Company Suffers Fire

A stubborn fire Monday night did considerable damage to the Kent & Sussex Motor Company building on North Walnut Street, Milford.

Carlisle Fire Company officials said the fire may have gotten its start in a store room housing the building's electrical center.

George W. Marshall, the manager, said he was waiting for insurance company estimates before making a guess of the loss.

He added that five cars and a truck were removed, during the fire, and that some incurred slight damage, while the damage was pronounced on a 1954 Buick. A number of cars, in a lot across the street, were unharmed.

Mr. Marshall said the office and contents were completely destroyed, and that some shop equipment was also destroyed. Considerable damage was done to the building and its roof.

Mr. Marshall said Tuesday the business would continue to operate while the damage was being repaired.

SWINE PRODUCERS INVITED TO MEETINGS

If you have problems with your swine, the University of Maryland animal husbandry department invites you to come to one of its swine field days and talk them over.

A schedule of swine field days has been announced by Malcolm H. Kerr, who is in charge of swine breeding at the University. The field days will be held at different locations in the state so farmers will not have to travel far to attend.

The first field day will be in Denton on Feb. 2. This program for Eastern Shore farmers will start at 10:00 a. m. in the firehouse. Dr. Emory Leffell, swine nutrition specialist at the University, will start the program with a talk on swine feeding. Dr. Leffell will emphasize antibiotics and proteins.

Several farmers who have had exceptional success at making pigs put on fast and economical gains will report on their feeding practices. Kerr says this feature of the program is certain to reveal some practical feeding methods that other swine producers can adopt.

Extension animal husbandman Boyd Whittle will complete the morning session with a report on the use of pasture in raising swine and approved management practices.

Dr. Robert Flaherty, Easton veterinarian, will start the afternoon program with a discussion on swine diseases. Farmers will be invited to ask questions and discuss individual problems after Dr. Flaherty's talk. Ken Clark, Eastern Shore livestock buyer, will follow the question and discussion period with a talk on local marketing methods.

A discussion on the meat type hog by Malcolm Kerr will complete the afternoon program.

There will be some substitution of speakers at the other four field days, but all programs will be essentially the same as for the Denton field day, according to Kerr.

The other field days will be at Bel Air on Feb. 16, Hagerstown on Feb. 19, Lisbon on Feb. 25 and La Plata March 18. All meetings are scheduled to start at 10:00 a. m.

USDA STUDY SHOWS LAND VALUE DECLINE

Farm land declined in value in nearly all parts of the country during the period July to November, 1953. The decline is revealed in the latest U. S. Department of Agriculture study of land prices.

Earl L. Park, agricultural statistician with the Maryland-Delaware Crop Reporting Service, says the report shows farm land values declined in every state except New Jersey. There was no change in that state.

Park also notes that a recent survey of reporters for USDA reveals that 40 percent of the reporters expected further declines between November, 1953, and April, 1954. Only 4 percent expected an increase and the rest thought there would be no change.

The USDA study pinpoints drought as the factor causing the greatest declines in land value. Prices dropped the most in the drought stricken states. In other areas the declines were moderate and could be traced to the general down-turn in prices of farm commodities which has been under way since August, 1952.

Lower cattle prices have been one of the most important factors in lowering land values, according to Park.

In discussing the land value situation before the period covered by the latest USDA study, Park said the highest land values occurred sometime between November, 1952, and the spring of 1953. "Only in three states was the value of farm land higher in November, 1953, than a year earlier. These states were New Jersey, North Dakota and Delaware. Values in those states reached a peak after November, 1952 and declines started later than in other states. The general decline became apparent early in the spring."

In spite of the present decline, farm lands are now 21 percent above the average for the period 1947-49 and are one and one-half times the values in the period 1935-38.

School News

Magician

On Tuesday, January 19, at 2:40 p. m., C. Thomas Magrum, master of magic, from the Antrim Bureau of Entertainers, gave a most exciting performance for the Junior and Senior High School.

Mr. Magrum is one of the most creative magical entertainers of this generation. He presents some very astonishing illusions of modern magic. His program was elaborate and spectacular, full of fun and mystery, and included many new, novel, and original presentations from the Old and New World. It consisted of baffling illusions, clever sleight-of-hand, humorous situations, and thrilling escapes. Ask Gary Homewood and Charles Baker why they jumped around and "hollered"? By the way, each of them received a certificate for one "holer."

The audience was kept in roars of laughter and profound bewilderment. Mr. Magrum's performance was enjoyed by all.

This is one of the outstanding entertainment advantages which the school furnishes for its students.

BROILERS BARELY PAY FOR PRODUCTION COSTS

Maryland broiler growers are barely able to recover their cash cost of production at present prices, according to Agricultural Economist Harold D. Smith and George A. Stevens of the University of Maryland.

The economists state that the average grower with a flock of 10,000 birds will have to spend about 23.2 cents per pound to produce a 3-pound broiler in 10 to 11 weeks. When the market price is 25 cents per pound, the grower gets very little pay for his labor, management and return on investment. Since the early part of last December, the market price has averaged below 23.2 cents.

Items included in figuring cash cost are feed, chicks, fuel, litter, medicine and insurance. These account for approximately 90 percent of total costs.

Stevens and Smith point out that the grower who starts a flock of 10,000 birds will usually sell about 27,000 pounds of broilers in 10 or 11 weeks. His cash cost of producing this poundage will total about $6,254, based on the price of production items during the first week in January. During the same period last year it cost $6,458, or about 24 cents per pound. The difference is due to feed prices which were about $5.00 per ton higher a year ago.

The grower who hires all labor will incur higher cash outlay than one who relies entirely on his own family labor. Labor may cost as much as more than $35 per 1,000 birds started.

The economists say their data are based on average conditions and "a good manager blessed with better than average luck can produce broilers slightly cheaper. But cost reducing opportunities are limited to growers who are average or better. As a rule, profits or losses are determined more by changes in market prices than any other economic factors."

Let us Not Get Panicky Over the Recession

We see no cause for alarm over the current recession in business. Business was booming; now it is merely good.

We abhor and despise waste, whether it pertains to tangible products or labor. We believe the let-down in business will tend to eliminate these undesirable factors.

In discussion with some businesses out of town, we have discovered a more or less common trend. Gross business was better in 1953 but profits were lower due to increased labor costs.

To some extent, we are feeling the recession. However, we view prospects for this year with optimism.

Here is how our customers can save money. Buy in the largest quantity possible. Check your supplies and order before you are out.

As for advertising. Advertising reminds us of a saying in boxing: a good big man can beat a good, little man.

VETERANS ADMINISTRATION INFORMATION SERVICE

Questions and Answers
Q—I have a permanent National Service Life Insurance policy. Would it be possible for me to change it to a term policy?
A—No. Permanent plan policies may not be exchanged for term policies, under the law. However, NSLI term policies may be converted to permanent plans.
Q—I want to take medical internship training under the Korean GI Bill. Does VA consider it as on-the-job training or as classroom training, for purposes of the monthly allowance?
A—Medical internship is considered as full-time institutional classroom training, for GI allowance purposes. But the training must be approved by the Council on Medical Education and Hospitals of the American Medical Association.
Q—I served continuously in the armed forces, without a break, since 1940, and I am just now getting my discharge. Would I be allowed to take the maximum of four years of training under the World War II GI Bill?
A—No. The reason is that the World War II GI training program, for nearly all veterans, comes to an end on July 25, 1956—about two and one-half years from now. But you would be entitled to the maximum amount of training under the Korean GI Bill, which is 36 months.
Q—I am a World War II veteran who recently became disabled, and I plan to apply for the VA pension which is payable for total and permanent non-service-connected disabilities. I have a wife and two children. Will I receive a larger pension because of these three dependents?
A—No. Pension rates for non-service-connected total disabilities are not affected in any way by the number of dependents you have. The rate is $63 a month with or without dependents, increased to $75 when you reach age 65 or when you have been on the rolls for 10 years.

SOCIAL SECURITY

Persons aged 65 or over are subject to social security taxes if they are working in employment or self-employed covered by the law. This was announced today by Myron Milbouer, manager of the Wilmington office of the Social Security Administration, at 813 West Street. The local office has been receiving many inquiries as to whether an employer should stop deducting social security taxes from the wages of a worker when the worker reaches age 65. The answer is no. Age is immaterial, and so long as the work is performed in a job covered by the law the tax must be deducted. Federal Old-Age and Survivors Insurance is paid for by a contribution (or tax) on the employee's wage and the self-employed person's earnings from his trade or business. Mr. Milbouer pointed out that persons age 75 or over, who have qualified for benefit payments even though they may be working, will also continue to pay taxes under the program on any wages they receive.

Needlecraft News

by Nancy Baxter

Sweaters—long, short, sleeveless, fitted, boxy, bulky, buttoned, ribbed, plain, patterned, and so on down the list—are the most versatile articles of wearing apparel. You could go on for minutes itemizing the many varieties and their numerous uses. And sweaters know no season or time. Summer, Winter, Spring or Fall, for morning, noon or evening wear, these knitted marvels find an appropriate place in each wardrobe.

FOR ALL-TIME, YEAR-ROUND WEAR

If you were to knit a sweater for each use you could think of, you would be clicking your needles for the rest of your life working on this one project alone. Instead, it would be wise to knit one that can be worn for many occasions and spend the rest of your knitting time making a variety of articles. A classic cardigan sweater is adaptable to almost any wardrobe. You can wear this type during the cold months as a blouse or on cool Spring or Summer days over flimsy frocks to keep the chilling breeze off your shoulders. Keep it simple and tailored for casual outings, trim it with sequins, beads and pearls for fancy affairs.

KNITTED OF NYLON—A NATURAL

In heavenly blue, with pearl buttons and a tiny, rounded collar, this long-sleeved cardigan can be appropriately and prettily worn with practically everything. Nylon yarn is the magic ingredient and you, as the knitter, are the magician. You can have the knitting instructions at your fingertips, in sizes 14, 16 and 18, by just sending a stamped, self-addressed envelope to the Needlework Department of this paper for CLASSIC CARDIGAN, Leaflet No. C-104.

ONLY A DIME

By S. A. Short, Jr.

Only a Dime so thin and round,
Will help a lot you know,
Can do some good when spread around,
If it is given by you as you go.

Only a dime just one hundred mills
Will help some child to forget
He ever had the polio chills,
So give it now you won't regret.

While you are in good health
And are able to go
Just spare this wealth
To help fight this polio.

Now if you will give
It'll be used you'll see,
To help him live
This you'll see.

It may be your child,
Or mine who knows
It's a cruel disease,
Wherever it goes.

God only knows the one you spend
Will be blessed by Him on high,
So don't stop at one, just give ten,
Do it now or he may die.

Caesar Rodney School News

Caesar Rodney F. F. A. Host To Other Kent Chapters

The Caesar Rodney Chapter of Future Farmers of America was host to the Felton, Harrington, Milford and Smyrna Chapters last Wednesday evening. At that time ten F. F. A. basketball teams, made up of varsity and junior varsity players for two teams from each school played in the first Kent County F. F. A. basketball tournament.

This program was organized to give F. F. A. members who do not play on regular high school teams an opportunity to play in high school competition. Too, it afforded an opportunity for members of each of the schools to get together and learn something of each others F. F. A. activities.

The varsity results found Milford defeating Felton and Caesar Rodney winning over Smyrna in the first round, Milford over Harrington in the second round and Milford over Caesar Rodney in the finals.

Junior Varsity competition found Milford victorious over Caesar Rodney in the first round, Milford over Felton and Smyrna over Harrington in the second round and Milford over Smyrna in the finals.

At the conclusion of all games, refreshments were served to all by the Caesar Rodney Chapter.

The program was planned and managed by the advisors and three members from each of the F. F. A. Chapters.

The Kent County F. F. A. advisors are:

- Melvin Luff, Felton.
- Frederic Myer, Harrington.
- A. C. Davidson, Milford.
- Leonard Hitch, Smyrna.
- Horace E. Short, Caesar Rodney.

SOCIAL SECURITY

Did you have net earnings of $400 or more from your own business in 1953? If so, you must file a social security tax report on Schedule C with your income tax return for 1953, Myron Milbouer, manager of the Social Security Administration office for Delaware stated today. Earnings reported on Schedule C will count toward Old-Age and Survivors Insurance benefits under the Social Security Law.

Schedule C is to be filed with the Director of Internal Revenue along with income tax return Form 1040 by everyone who earned $400 or more from self-employment in 1953. Schedule C will be furnished automatically only to those persons who included a report of profit or loss from a business or profession with their income tax returns for 1952. Self-employed persons who did not receive blank Schedules C with their income tax blanks should get them from the Director of Internal Revenue, Post Office Building, Wilmington, Delaware.

Not included are farm operators and self-employed professional people—doctors, lawyers, dentists, funeral directors, professional engineers, and a few others. Most self-employed people, however, are now covered by Social Security. Mr. Milbouer reminds businessmen and women that this provision is compulsory. Among those affected are the sole owners or partners of a store, laundry, shop of any kind, restaurant, manufacturing plant, and many others.

Free pamphlets and additional information are available at the Social Security Office, 813 West Street, Wilmington, Delaware. The Tax Form 1040 and Schedules C, however, are available only from the Director of Internal Revenue, Post Office Building, Wilmington. All checks for payment of social security taxes should be sent to the Internal Revenue Office.

KENT HOME DOINGS

Good pressing helps to keep clothes looking their best. Smooths out wrinkles, aids in restoring the original texture of the fabric, and aids in preserving the shape and fit of the garment.

Poor pressing may draw the fabric out of line or give it a shiny "ironed" look. It may flatten curves, stretch the neckline, ripple the shirt hem, or otherwise alter the shape of the garment.

Good pressing is different from ironing. Most pressing should be done by lowering and lifting the iron rather than moving it over the cloth as in ironing. This lower-and-lift motion applies pressure as needed and helps to avoid stretching the fabric. The amount of heat, moisture and pressure required for a good job varies with the fabric.

The method you use depends on the way the garment is made, the fiber or fibers used, the weave, texture, and finish of the fabric. Follow the directions on the label or tag which came with the garment for heat and moisture.

Very little equipment is needed for pressing. An electric iron with heat control is necessary but a steam iron is desirable—not essential. Press boards which are padded to give a smooth firm surface are a necessity.

For Your Calendar

"Selecting Patterns" is the topic of a special meeting to be held Wed., Feb. 10, at 1:30, in the Oak Grove Community Hall. Mrs. Scott, a representative from Simplicity Pattern Company, will help us in selecting the correct size pattern, a flattering style, and suitable fabric. If you are interested, you are welcome to come.

Farm and Home Week—Feb. 22 to 25—will have an interesting program for homemakers every day. More details later, but plan now to attend at least one session, held at the University of Delaware, in Newark.

MIRACLE DRUGS

NO SUBSTITUTE

FOR SANITATION

Today's "miracle" drugs, widely used in the poultry industry, are no substitutes for good sanitation and management practices.

tics, warns George K. Vapaa, county agent.

Actually these drugs are only one of four methods of controlling poultry diseases, Vapaa tells poultrymen. Other important practices are sanitation and management, immunization and eradication. Eradicating flocks infected with certain highly contagious diseases is termed necessary "only in rare instances."

Sanitation and management are basic practices in the poultry business. Clean feed and water and properly constructed and ventilated houses are vital for keeping the birds healthy.

NEAT WORKSHOP SPEEDS YOUR JOB

A cluttered farm workshop not only slows you down, but it can cause accidents, too.

"Why not use one of these cold winter days to put your shop in order?" suggests County Agent George K. Vapaa. He lists items to check as you straighten out tools, remove accident hazards and make minor repairs.

1. Keep every tool in a place of its own.
2. Burn oily rags or store them in a tightly closed metal container.
3. Store flammable liquids in tightly-capped, non-breakable containers, in a cool place.
4. Check the cords, insulation and plugs on soldering irons, drills and other electrical tools that get a lot of rough treatment.
5. Provide good lighting for your work bench.
6. Keep guards on the electric grinder, and keep goggles handy.
7. Keep a recently checked fire extinguisher within reach.
8. Keep welding equipment away from flammable materials. Provide good ventilation and take time to put on a face shield and protective gloves when you weld.

FIREMEN HOLD LADIES NIGHT

CONSIDER USE, BUILD OF APPLIANCES BEFORE BUYING

Before buying electrical appliances, consider the amount of use you will make of them. A. V. Krewatch, University of Maryland agricultural engineer, says it will pay you to find out whether the equipment can be serviced easily and if replacement parts are available when something goes wrong. It is also good to recognize reputable manufacturers.

Check to see if the appliance is well built. Krewatch points out that many low priced appliances are not easily repaired. You'll want to be sure that the appliance is approved by the Underwriters Laboratory and carries its seal of approval. Take irons, for instance. Only automatic irons are approved by the Underwriters Laboratory. The heating element and thermostat should be readily serviceable and the cord well protected at the handle where it flexes. Check to see if the iron has tapering sides with beveled edges and a narrow point.

In general, appliances should be well designed with no sharp corners, cords anchored and protected where they enter the appliances, and carry the UL tag of approval.

When buying appliances such as a percolator or coffee maker, find out how easy it is to get replacement parts, how easy it is to clean, and how conveniently the fuse that protects the heating element can be changed.

Equipment with motors, such as washing machines, dryers and irons, should have their own individual protectors for the motors. See that fans with metal blades are protected by strong guards. You may find that cheaper fans become noisy.

GOOD CALF MANAGEMENT HELPS DAIRY PROFITS

Poor management in the calf barn may mean no profits in the dairy barn when the animals grow up and begin production, says John Deitrich, extension dairyman at the University of Maryland.

Deitrich recommends special watchfulness over calves for the first two months after they are born, because this is the most critical period of a calf's life. "During this period the calf should be dehorned at about 10 days to two weeks of age. The most common method of doing this job is to use a caustic preparation, either liquid, paste or a caustic potash stick. Electric dehorning equipment is available that does a quick, clean and safe job without leaving an open wound."

Deitrich says calves should be properly identified to eliminate the possibility of getting records confused. Eartags or neckchains with numbers may be used until sketches, photographs or tattoos are made for permanent identification.

Young calves need protection from severe weather and Deitrich recommends individual pens or stalls that are well bedded, dry and free from drafts. After the calves are weaned from milk they may be placed in pens with other calves. Care should be taken that all calves in a pen are approximately the same age and size so they all have the same chance to eat. Feed boxes should be located at a height that enables calves to reach them with ease and they should be attached so they can be removed and cleaned when necessary.

The extension dairyman points out that the extra teats which dairy heifers often have in addition to the four normal ones have no value and detract from the appearance of the udders. He says extra teats may be removed when the calf is vaccinated or any time before the calf is a year old. The recommended method is to cut the extra teats off with clean, sharp scissors and to disinfect the area around the teat before and after the operation. Usually there is little bleeding and healing is rapid.

Another important step in managing heifers is vaccination for Bang's disease. Deitrich says the local veterinarian should be called to do this job before the calf reaches eight months of age.

JERSEY CATTLE CLUB ELECTS OFFICERS

The Maryland Jersey Cattle Club elected officers for the coming year at its recent annual meeting at Ellicott City.

Shaw, Fairplay, district 1; Harold Young, Rockville, district 2; Joseph Hoopes, Bel Air, district 3, and Waldo Brooks, Centreville, district 4.

Former Secretary of State William J. Storey has been named temporarily as deputy attorney general for Kent County pending the outcome of separate investigations into the official and professional conduct of Henry J. Ridgely, it was disclosed Tuesday night.

The appointment was made by Atty-Gen. H. Albert Young, who, on Jan. 6, disclosed that Mr. Ridgely, in his third term as deputy attorney general for the county, had been "temporarily relieved" of his duties.

Selection of a temporary appointee was considered necessary because the criminal cases for the February term of the Superior Court in Kent are due to start on February 8.

The separate investigations into Mr. Ridgely's conduct are by Mr. Young, for the attorney general's office, and by the Censor Committee of the Supreme Court of Delaware for the Supreme Court.

At the time that he announced the temporary relief on Jan. 6 Mr. Young said that his investigation "has been practically completed."

The inquiry by the Censor Committee, headed by William Poole, of Berl, Potter and Anderson, is continuing.
