

Youth Killed When Automobile Overtakes

Robert Nelson Evans, 16, of Greensboro, was killed instantly late Sunday night when thrown from a speeding car which ran off the Harrington-Whitesburg Road near Harrington, in front of his uncle's farm.

Three other youths, including the driver, Richard A. Walls, 17, also of Greensboro, were injured.

In the local accident seven miles west of Harrington, police said the car, going fast ran off the road at a curve and turned over several times. Evans was thrown out as it rolled over the first time.

He was pronounced dead at Milford Memorial Hospital, where the driver and Paul Ward, 16, Goldsboro, were held for X-ray and treatment. The fourth member of the party, Norman Bolt, 16, of Henderson, was treated for minor injuries and released.

The accident occurred in front of the farm owned by Evans' uncle, Raymond Welch. Evans was the only son of Mr. and Mrs. Nelson Evans. Police said the boys were returning from a movie in Harrington, Evans' body was released to the Rawlins Funeral Home at Greensboro. The automobile, owned by George Edward Walls of Greensboro, was badly damaged.

Late Friday night a mishap took place near Carpenter's Bridge, between Harrington and Frederica. When a car operated by Pauline Petruski, 33, of Bowers Beach, went out of control and turned over, with the woman being thrown from the car.

She was moved to Milford Mefford of the right leg. Later at her request, she was removed to Kent General Hospital, Dover.

The car, owned by Herbert Cain, Harrington, was totally demolished.

Delaware Oaks Races Tomorrow

The Delaware Oaks, which is expected to have a gross value of at least $46,000 and net the winner $35,000 or more, is the big attraction at Delaware Park this Saturday (June 26). One of the finest fields of three-year-old fillies brought together this year is anticipated for the mile and a furlong stake, which will be run for the 16th time.

Another important stake is scheduled for Friday at the Stanton oval. This is the $10,000 added Georgetown Steeplechase Handicap, to be decided on the stakes course at a distance of two miles.

Among the notable Georgetown eligibles are The Mast, Mrs. J. R. H. Thouron's champion of the 1953 jumpers; Mrs. V. G. Cardy's Sun Shower and James F. McHugh's Sundowner, to name a few. Only two steeplechase events are run on the stakes course each year—the Georgetown, and the later, longer Indian River. All the other jumping contests are staged on the "inside course."

The field for the Oaks will come from the 59 fillies that remained eligible after the third and final payment, last April 15, necessary to keep the nominees engaged in the fixture. This early-closing stake, like the Leonard Richards for sophomore colts and geldings along with the fillies, called for original nominations closing on May 1, 1953. A second payment had to be made last October 1.

The possible favorite for the Oaks is the Cain Hoy Stable's Cherokee Rose, a stout-hearted lassie who proved her class and route-running ability in winning the mile and three furlong at Belmont Park on May 29. Trainer Eddie Hayard, who saddled the same stable's Dark Star to capture the 1953 Kentucky Derby at the direct expense of the great Native Dancer, also is pointing Cherokee Rose for Delaware's $100,000 added, mile and a quarter New Castle Handicap, world's richest race for fillies and mares. That classic will be offered on July 5, closing day of the Stanton meeting.

Among other stars that may race in the Oaks are Open Sesame, Devil's Delight, Cherokee Rose's stablemate, Fayran or Parlo from Foxcatcher Farms; Rain, Greek Lady, O'Alison, Indian Legend, June Fete, On Your Own, Rivierina, Fascinator, Incidentally, Small Favor, Level Rippey and Fancy Diver. Entries are due Friday.

| Henderson  | 3  | 4  | .429 |
| Ridgely    | 2  | 5  | .286 |

There was no place like home Sunday for half of the Mar-Del Baseball League teams as they scored successes before home audiences.

Felton, taking over first place, turned back Wyoming, 12-9; Harrington bested Viola, 8-3, knocking the latter out of the lead; Ridgely upset Lewes, 8-5, and Frederica climbed to third place by whipping Henderson, 9-2.

Felton's triumph was featured by a 5-run rally in the eighth inning, capped by Johnny Johnson's triple with the bases loaded. That wallop, plus a homer and two singles by Nelson Camper insured the pitching verdict for Cliff Chambers, who worked the last six innings in relief of Tom Wess.

Harrington also won via the big inning, scoring eight times in the seventh to give relief ace Eldon Evers the decision over Harry Semans. The latter appeared with a 2-1 edge until the roof fell in the seventh. Fred Frear came on to relieve Semans and get the side out.

Jim Kreeger, who hurled the first six innings, and Johnny Wetzel taking over the last three frames, combined to pitch Ridgely to victory, besting Fred Ridgely, who left in the seventh with an injured finger, and Fred Wilson.

Bob Knight fanned 11 and was aided by Marv Brown's double and two singles in Frederica's win over Henderson. Jim Goodley's homer was wasted in defeat.

Postoffice Recommends Eliminating Farmington Rural Route No. 1

U. S. Representative Herbert B. Warburton has received a recommendation from the Postoffice Department that Farmington Rural Route 1 be discontinued, and that the territory be served by extending Harrington Rural Route 3 and Greenwood Rural Routes 1 and 2.

The Postoffice Department's recommendation was made upon completion of an automatic inspection to determine the feasibility of absorbing a rural route when Farmington postoffice, carrier position.

The recommendation would extend Harrington Rural Route 3 from 50.9 miles to 62.3 miles; and Greenwood No. 2, from 33.9 miles to 60.95 miles.

The Postoffice Department estimates that the rural carriers on the extended routes would be able to complete full service between the hours of 9:30 a. m. and 2:30 p. m. It is further anticipated by the department that the changes would result in an approximate annual saving of $2460.

Representative Warburton stated, "I desire to present to the Postoffice Department such representation as our residents on Rural Route No. 1, Farmington, desire to make, either for or against the proposed changes. I therefore ask that our interested residents immediately write to give me their views upon those recommendations, together with the reasons for the positions they express."

Mr. Warburton emphasized that the proposed elimination is only of the Farmington rural route and would not involve removal of the Farmington Postoffice.

The certificate programs are on the college level and are similar to regular campus offerings except for the time and place of meeting. For courses requiring laboratory work, provision is made for laboratory time on the campus, using the regular departmental equipment.

The certificate programs are terminal programs in the sense that they have been developed to give the student, in the equivalent of two years of college work, an integrated sequence of courses in the area chosen. The general education and professional courses in each program are selected in a way that the student may reach a significant level of competence in his field. The certificate programs need not be considered terminal, however. Students who wish to continue college work may apply for admission to a regular undergraduate program. Through a careful choice of courses in the certificate program, students may complete many of the degree requirements normally completed during the first two years of regular campus work.

The program thus offered to students unable to pursue full time study is equivalent to that the regular university and comparable to the best junior college course of study. Nearly all of these study programs, which will be offered in Wilmington and Newark, have a valuable vocational aspects which will aid the student in his job activities.

Dairy Display At State Museum

Dairy farming in Delaware, the second largest agricultural enterprise in the State, is the subject of the largest exhibit to be displayed in the Delaware State Museum in Dover. Sponsored by the organized dairy groups in Delaware, the exhibit was installed last week in conjunction with the observance of National Dairy Month, being celebrated during June.

The exhibit illustrates to museum visitors the daily food needs supplied by one quart of milk the amount of milk produced by Delaware dairymen, the steadily increasing yield being derived from dairy herd as a result of herd improvement. Implicitly, the exhibit shows the opportunities to be found in dairy farming in Delaware.

Delmar Young, extension dairyman of the University of Delaware and chairman of the committee responsible for installing the exhibit, pointed out that the climatic conditions, soils, marketing facilities, and population areas are very favorable for dairy farming here. In 1953, a total of 209 million pounds of milk were produced in Delaware. Forty-one percent of this amount was exported to Philadelphia, the balance being sold in the State or used on the farms. This production was represented by over 2100 dairy farms having a total of 36,000 milk cows.

Holsteins, Ayrshires, Guernseys, and Jerseys, all of which are represented in the exhibit by scale models, are the chief breeds used in milk production here. Mr. Young noted that all of these breeds are being improved by means of an artificial breeding program being carried out by the various organized dairy groups in the State, assisted by research being done by the Agricultural Extension Service and the Agricultural Extension of the University of Delaware.

Other factors relating to the dairy industry are also illustrated by the exhibit, which is located in the gallery of the museum's no. 1 building, where it will remain on display for the balance of this year. The museum at 316 South Governors Avenue, Dover, is open daily, Tuesdays through Saturdays from 11:00 a.m. until 5:00 p.m. and Sundays from 2:00 until 5:00 p.m. The museum is closed Mondays.

Vacation Church School to End Next Week

The Vacation Church School for the community of Harrington has been holding daily sessions this week in the school building between the hours of 9:00 and 11:30 o'clock. Three pastors and fourteen teachers and helpers have been directing the study, devotional and recreational activities of over one hundred pupils ranging between the age of four and eleven years.

Pupils are organized in three groups: Primary and Junior, and are kept busy learning religious songs and choruses, and mastering new skills. Although there is one theme used throughout the school the various age groups use materials suited to their ability and interest.

Session of the school will continue through Monday to Friday of next week. Closing exercises will be held in the Church of the Nazarene, on Mechanic Street, on Friday evening, July 2, at 7:30 o'clock. The general public is invited to attend the closing program of the school and all parents are urged to bring their children to the Community Vacation Church School and receive training in Christian living.

Sponsors of the Community Vacation Church School this year are: The Pilgrim Holiness Church, The Church of the Nazarene, Trinity Methodist Church and Asbury Methodist Church.

$206,000 Bid Accepted on Field House

James H. Wood, Dover, was the low bidder on the construction of Harrington schools' field house. The bid of $206,000 was accepted by the Board of Education Friday.

Other bidders and their bids were as follows: John E. Healy & Son, Inc., Wilmington, $224,400; Clute Brothers, Wyoming, $236,600; Day & Company, Easton, Md., $216,850.

Kiddies Day Its July 14

It was mentioned in last week's newspaper that Kiddies Day would be held at Wheeler's Park July 21, with a rain date of July 28. This was a mistake when given in by the committee. Kiddies Day will be held Wed., July 14, with the rain date, July 21.

A committee from Chosen Friends Lodge called on their sister lodge, the Rebekahs, to help out this year. They will take charge of the refreshments and the IOOF Lodge will handle the games.

Ground Observers To Meet Here

Personnel of the Harrington Ground Observers Corps will be presented identification cards and wings Friday evening on the second floor of The First National Bank Building.

R. B. Harrington Heads Movi-Park

The annual meeting of the Movi-Park was held at Ocean City, Md., Monday, with Reese B. Harrington being elected president; Harry Keith, vice-president and Harrison Scarth, secretary and treasurer.

James B. Vonian, Roanoke, Va., and James Felton were named new directors.

Firemen Answer Two Alarms

Firemen answered two alarms early Wednesday evening, one at Peoples Restaurant and the other at a dump on the Jackson's Ditch road. The restaurant blaze was in the kitchen. Damage was slight.

Explorer Scouts and advisors of Boy Scout No. 76, sponsored by the Harrington Rotary Club, had an exciting canoe expedition down the Susquehanna River, it was revealed Tuesday night when Scoutmaster Robert Wetchenhiser and his assistant, Roland Hitchens, appeared before the Rotary Club.

Also making the journey were Dave Nolan, district Scout executive; Billy Bowdle, chaperon, and the following scouts — Richard Brown, Billy Cluley, Charles Pearson, Henry Nutter, Lee Harrington, Elmer Riggan, Bobby Taylor, Dicky Seely, all of Harrington; John Tunnell, of Georgetown.

The party left Harrington at 6:30 a. m., Sun., June 13 and drove 178 miles to Clark's Ferry on the Susquehanna River, 16 miles northwest of Harrisburg, Pa.

After the noon meal, seven canoes were launched and the long trek started for Chesapeake Bay 130 miles distant.

Six long hard days of paddling, camping on islands and near inlets, towns, running rapids, spills, carrying canoes and gear around dams brought the party to the mouth of the Susquehanna at Perryville, Md.

The long six miles across the bay to Camp Rodney at North East, Md., was only playstuff for the now rugged mariners who had seen a lot of "white water," (Indian term for rapids) and they pulled into camp a day ahead of schedule a little battle-scarred and tattered, but ready for any emergency and a big step nearer the manhood that makes the world a better place to live in.

There can't be enough said about the credit due Bob and Hitch who assumed all responsibilities, arranged every detail and saw that they were carried out, said a Rotarian.

Both young men were loud in their praise for assistance and co-operation given them by Dave Nolan, Billy Bowdle, and Dr. Hewitt Smith, who performed all physical examinations, Eddie Taylor who transported the canoes, and the parents of the boys for doing so many things to make such a trip possible, continued the Rotarian.

Robert Bull to Teach at Colgate

Robert J. Bull, a native of Harrington, has been appointed assistant professor of philosophy and religion at Colgate University, Hamilton, N. Y.

Sollars Builds Swimming Pool

The public is invited to attend the opening of a swimming pool July 4 in the rear of the Electronic Shop on Clark Street.

The pool, being constructed by William Sollars, proprietor of the shop, will be 20 feet x 40 feet with a depth of 3 to 8 feet. Adults and children are invited to use the pool, but the latter must be accompanied by an adult.

No Sale!

Right in front of Granny White's beautiful old house on Maple Avenue there's a brand-new sign: "Antiques. Inquire Within."

Now—don't get excited. Granny explained it all the other night—after we settled down in her parlor, me with my temperate beer, Granny with her tea.

I asked her if she was really going in the antique business. "Oh, no," says Granny, "I wouldn't sell anything. I put that sign up so folks would come in and talk—and look around. If they insist on a price, I tell them some outrageous figure! I guess I just like people," she said.

From where I sit Granny can be excused for her little ruse. She may be in her eighties, but her mind is young—and open. She's the kind of person who's made this town so wonderful. Granny not only likes people—but she respects them and their preferences and opinions. Come to think of it, "liking" and "respecting" mean much the same thing, don't they?

Why Poultry Buyers Pay a Premium for Broilers Protected with SULFAQUINOXALINE

Poultry buyers pay premium prices for quality broilers. Don't let coccidiosis cheat you out of higher returns for your birds. Your first step is to purchase a quality feed containing preventive levels of SULFAQUINOXALINE.

Exposed birds protected with SQ feather uniformly, without delay, and have better shank color. Market weights as high as 12 per cent above those of unprotected birds have been reported. This type of top-quality finish brings greater profits.

Production costs are cut as much as 9 per cent when you prevent coccidiosis with SULFAQUINOXALINE. This is because deaths and stunting are drastically reduced. Feed efficiency may be increased by an average of 6 per cent.

You can feed SULFAQUINOXALINE right up to marketing time. Used successfully in thousands of flocks, SQ is the only product effective against all dangerous poultry coccidia.

Don't take a chance; SQ may make the difference between profit and loss. Tell your dealer you want feeds containing SULFAQUINOXALINE.

Kent Home Doings

By Charlotte L. Swanson
Kent County Home
Demonstration Agent

Thursday's program included a fashion show—with women who had taken the Tailoring Project School—modeling their own suits and coats. Kent County women who participated were: Mrs. Robert Kirby, Mrs. Tilghman Outen, Mrs. Heyman Roosa, Mrs. Paul Zartman, Mrs. Walter Winkler and Mrs. William Sterling.

Several other Kent County women attended for just the day, Thursday.

One highlight of the program was a tour of the Brandywine Valley on Friday. Seen in the tour were many examples of good conservation practices as well as much beautiful countryside. Many Kent County women who were unable to attend the complete program were able to take the tour on Friday. They were: Mrs. Clyde W. Campbell, Hartly; Miss Elva Taylor, Hartly; Mrs. Charles Denney, Clayton; Mrs. Arthur Short, Smyrna; Mrs. Florence Maclary, Leipsic; Mrs. Myrtle Wilson, Smyrna; Mrs. William Wilson, Smyrna; Mrs. Anna Wheatman, Clayton; Mrs. Martha H. Wright, Clayton; Mrs. Lester C. Smith, Clayton; Mrs. Townsend Vaughn, Smyrna; Mrs. Earl Coleman, Dover; Mrs. Mabel Walters, Clayton; and Mrs. Harry Hall, Leipsic.

Two Kent Countians have attended fifteen years of Homemakers' Short Course. Mrs. Samuel Hoekstra and Mrs. George Hunt, both of Dover, received special recognition for this at the Wednesday evening program. All of these homemakers will agree with me that this was an entertaining, enlightening, and inspirational Short Course program!

Homemakers Short Course meant a full schedule for 31 Kent County homemakers who attended along with fifty other Delaware Women. They arrived at the University of Delaware Wednesday, June 16, for registration at 2:00; from then until Saturday they had a wonderful time seeing new places, meeting new people, and learning many things to help them become better homemakers.

Living in Smyth Hall, a new women's dormitory, was a wonderful experience for the homemakers, who ate in Kent Hall. They also saw the new Home Economics and Education Building which will be open to classes in the fall.

Every part of the program was enjoyable, and most of it was educational too. The Homemakers learned about hard-surfaced floor coverings, hats, nutrition, china, tailoring—and also about radar and today's headlines. Programs designed for fun and relaxation were fun night—complete with square dancing and get-acquainted games—and a concert by the Playtex Chorus. A group of women rehearsed faithfully with Miss Margaret Black and presented a concert of their own—as the Homemakers Short Course Chorus.

The women from Kent County who attended the whole program were: Mrs. Emory Williamson, Greenwood; Mrs. Gordon Warner, Greenwood; Mrs. John Lloyd, Greenwood; Mrs. Minos Wright, Greenwood; Mrs. Laura S. Myers, Smyrna; Mrs. Marie Downs, Smyrna; Mrs. William Warren, Dover; Mrs. Samuel Hoekstra, Dover; Mrs. Harry V. Schneider, Woodside; Mrs. Pearl Schettler, Clayton; Mrs. Earl J. Hurd, Clayton; Mrs. William Rowe, Dover; and Mrs. Ellwood B. Gruwell, Dover.

Mrs. Margaret S. Evens, Viola; Mrs. Heyman Roosa, Milford; Miss Pearl S. Hanson, Harrington; Mrs. Charles M. Harrington, Dover; Mrs. George A. Hunt, Dover; Mrs. Robert J. Kirby, Milford; Miss Rosanna Messick, Houston; Mrs. C. H. Nutler, Milford; Mrs. George Craig, Dover; Mrs. William T. Hufnal, Dover; Mrs. Joseph B. Wilson, Dover; Mrs. Susie Knotts, Kenton, and Mrs. Nelson Lockwood, Viola.

Kent County News
Wheat Allotment For Farms With No Wheat For Three Years

Kent County farmers will need acreage allotment in order to grow wheat in 1955.

Farmers on land on which no wheat was seeded for grain for all of the years 1952, 1953, and 1954 may apply for a 1955 wheat acreage allotment, according to J. Leon Tarburton, Chairman of the Kent County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee. To be considered for an allotment on a farm which had no wheat seeded for grain for any of those years, the farmer must write to his county ASC committee by June 30, 1954.

Blank application forms are available at the county ASC office at 313 So. Governor's Avenue, Dover. Mr. R. Harry Wilson, office manager, will be glad to answer questions on this and other government support programs at the office or by telephoning Dover 3078.

WINNERS ANNOUNCED IN 4-H ESSAY CONTEST

Results were announced this week in a 4-H essay contest designed to stop accidents due to falls in the home. The winning essays were written by Judith Lane of Newark, John Benson of Houston, Jean Jaquette of Milford and Virginia Waters of Greenwood.

The essays were judged by the staff of the Delaware Safety Council. Prizes will be awarded in the form of scholarships to 4-H camp or 4-H short course.

This was the first time that such a 4-H essay contest took place in Delaware. Active in arrangements and operations of the contest were Louise R. Whitcomb, Extension home management, specialist who handles farm and home safety projects, and Samuel M. Gwinn, state 4-H leader, both from the University of Delaware.

The essays were judged on how well the story of accident (falls) was told. Also important were the number of accident hazards corrected by the contestants in their own homes, plus the number of members and friends they helped to correct fall hazards.

The winners are members of the following 4-H clubs: Judith Lane, Green Meadows; John Benson, Houston Cardinals; Jean Jaquette, Handy Hands; and Virginia Waters, Helping Hand.

Gladiolus Among Best Flowers, Still Time To Plant Locally

It's still not too late to plant gladiolus—and they'll bloom 8 to 10 weeks after planting.

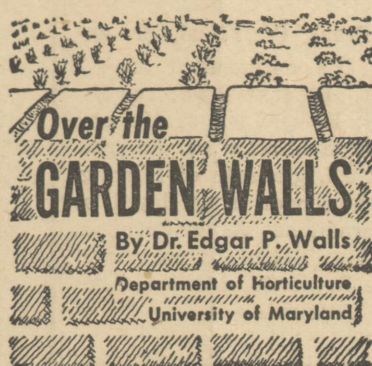

That's the tip from Robert F. Stevens, Extension horticulturist, University of Delaware, who says that with good corns and fair growing conditions, the gardener may have more for his efforts with gladiolus than from most of the garden flowers.

He warns, however, not to be careless about the culture of "glads." During recent years, gardeners have had many failures. Causes can be grouped under two heads: (1) Factors affecting corns before planting—old or poorly developed corns, diseased corns, corns infested with insects, and corns damaged by improper storage; (2) Culture in garden—soil that is poorly drained or in bad mechanical condition, too much manure or fertilizer, lack of water, insect attacks, improper cultivation, or damage from weeds.

It is extremely important to get young, clean, well-developed bulbs, Stevens says. The depth of planting varies from 4 to 6 inches. Deep planting lessens the danger of the plant falling over, and tends to produce better flowers. Shallow planting helps the multiplication of bulbs. Plant 3 to 6 inches apart in rows spaced 18 to 24 inches apart.

Commercial fertilizer may be used. Superphosphate (20%) applied at the rate of 5 pounds to 100 feet of row will be all that is needed in good garden soils. Mix thoroughly with the soil in the open row before planting. Fertilizer mixtures, such as 5-10-10 and 5-10-5 low in nitrogen, may give good results.

Cultivate frequently. As the plants develop, throw a little soil around them. Clean out weeds and grass. Water, when necessary, in late afternoon.

Over the GARDEN WALLS

By Dr. Edgar P. Walls
Department of Horticulture
University of Maryland

Every spring when blossom time comes along the home fruit gardener is gladdened at the heavy bloom on his fruit trees and is even happier when the little apples, plums and peaches appear. Almost invariably, the trees set too many fruits. But the home gardener figures upon having enough fruit to share with the insects, birds or any diseases that may occur. It is rather difficult to impress upon the home gardener the importance of thinning some of the fruits from his trees, but it is a sound, logical and beneficial practice.

Of course, nature may take care of the thinning job if the trees are not to be properly sprayed for insect and disease control as the fruits will drop heavily from the trees before maturity.

Thinning of fruit allows the grower to take off the blemished, worthless or crowded fruits early in the season. It lightens the tree load and prevents limb breakage. It reduces the number of fruits in proportion to the number of leaves which will nourish these fruits. Leaves make sugars and these sugars cause fruit color.

Fruits may be removed by chemical sprays applied at a certain period following bloom. The time of application and the concentration of spray varies with the variety of fruit. Apples have responded well to chemical thinning. Present research is showing favorable results with peaches. However, hand removal of the little fruits is most practical for the home gardener.

To thin properly, break off each. However, hand removal of the little fruits is most practical for the home gardener. Apples should be about 4 to 8 inches apart after thinning. Also, apples should be thinned down to one fruit per spur. Plums should be 2 to 3 or 4 inches apart after thinning, depending upon variety.

Leaving too many fruits on the tree defeats the purpose of thinning and may waste time and work. Very few trees are ever over-thinned. If there is doubt about the value of thinning, the grower may want to try it on only a few branches. These test branches will convert even the most skeptical.

Scientists tell us that 30 leaves are required to nourish a peach and 50 leaves are necessary to grow a good apple. Don't count leaves, but try to give the fruits a chance and lighten up on the tree, too. Early, proper thinning will influence next year's crop. It's too late for that now, but never to late to thin off that excess fruit. Commercial growers thin fruit just as consistently as they fertilize or prune, so it must be right.

LEAFHOPPERS NEW THREAT TO ALFALFA

"Don't think you have got the insect problem in your alfalfa whipped if you succeeded in controlling alfalfa weevils, spittlebugs and pea aphids," warns T. L. Bissell, University of Maryland Extension entomologist.

The entomologist points out that potato leafhoppers may move into alfalfa fields and do a lot of damage unless the crop is closely watched. Leafhoppers overwinter in the South and usually show up in Maryland in the latter part of June.

"We recently found a small number of leafhoppers in Kent County," Bissell says, "so we should be on guard for heavy infestations."

The first warning a farmer may have that leafhoppers are present may be dwarfing and yellowing of leaves. Some types of yellowing caused by diseases or by nutritional deficiencies are hard to distinguish from advanced stages of potato leafhopper injury.

"Because of the small size and green color of the insect," Bissell points out, "you cannot rely entirely on casual observations to determine the seriousness of an infestation. The best method is to use an insect-collecting net with a 15-inch opening. If you capture an average of one leafhopper per sweep, you have an infestation that may damage your crop within three weeks."

The control recommended for leafhoppers is one quart of methoxychlor per acre in 10 to 20 gallons of water. The time to apply is at the first sign of injury or when sweeping operations show a large number of insects are in a field.

The adult leafhopper is a pale-green, wedge-shaped insect about one eighth inch long. It is very active, jumping or flying when disturbed. The greatest damage done by the insect is usually to the second cutting of alfalfa. Leafhoppers also damage other forage legumes, as well as potatoes and beans.

Weed Control May Be Needed In Farm Ponds

A pond with clean, clear water is an asset to any farm. But a farm pond that is filled with weeds and scum may only be an eyesore and a disappointment.

When ponds become clogged with weeds swimming is unpleasant and livestock do not favor drinking the water. Weeds also present a problem in irrigation ponds because they often clog the equipment. The same may be true where water is piped from the pond for watering livestock. The pipes and valves may become clogged with the plant material.

"One of the most objectionable weeds in the pond is the filamentous algae often called 'pond scum' or 'frog spit'," says Charles P. Ellington, University of Maryland assistant Extension soil conservationist. "It is also one of the more difficult to control. In a bulletin recently released by the Cornell Extension Service, the use of copper sulfate is recommended to control the scum. Before applying the material it is necessary to calculate the amount of water in the pond and then treat with not more than one-half pound of copper sulfate for every million pounds of water in the pond. Higher concentrations will kill the fish."

Copper sulfate may be dissolved in water and sprayed on the pond. Repeated applications may be necessary to bring the algae under control.

Another type of pond weed, commonly found in Maryland, includes those weeds that are rooted on the bottom but have leaves on or about the surface of the water. Cattails and lilies are in this group. Often times hand pulling of the weeds is the best control, but they may also be controlled with 2, 4-D mixed with water or kerosene. Concentrations of 5 to 10 percent are recommended.

Some plants are rooted to the bottom and grow entirely below the surface of the water. These are the third type of pond weeds. They may be controlled with applications of sodium arsenite. Concentrations of 3 to 4 pounds per million pounds of water in the pond are recommended.

"SODIUM ARSENITE IS OF COURSE A DEADLY POISON AND MUST BE HANDLED WITH EXTREME CAUTION AT ALL TIMES," Ellington adds.

"Where the pond is highly infested with weeds it may be desirable to spray only one section at a time," the soil conservationist explains.

"The decay of the weeds may cause a shortage of oxygen in the water resulting in injury to the fish population."

CULLING RECOMMENDED FOR LOW PRODUCING COWS

"Cull all low-producing cows before they eat into your profits." That is the recommendation of Delmar J. Young, dairy specialist for the Agricultural Extension Service, University of Delaware.

In order to balance the supply and demand, it will be necessary to produce less or consume more—perhaps some of each—according to Young. Reductions in milk prices should encourage consumption of dairy products, but they also call for increased efficiency in dairy production. One way to accomplish this is to cull all low-producing cows.

Milk production per cow has risen in the past ten years from an average of 4600 pounds to 5400 pounds, according to figures supplied by the U. S. Department of Agriculture. As a result, milk production has been exceeding the amount consumed since late 1952.

The U. S. Department of Agriculture reports that the culling rate needs to be increased 10 percent over 1953 just to hold cow numbers at the January 1, 1954 level. To bring production into balance with demand, culling should be increased considerably more.

"Average and lower-than-average producers not only fail to pay for their own upkeep," Young points out, "but they swell the total volume of milk produced, thereby reducing the potential profits of better producers."

To help decide whether to cull now or in the fall, Young suggests a comparison of returns to be made from summer grazing prospective lower selling prices for the cull cow at the end of the season. Prices of utility-grade cows in a normal year are 9 percent above the yearly average in May—and 7 percent below in November.

This means a drop in value of about $20 on a 1000-pound cow. Also, unless pastures are abundant, it is more profitable to save them for the best producers.

Feed Prices Down Sharply

Southern States Again Leads Way in Reflecting Immediate Feed Market Declines

Southern States Poultry, Dairy and Livestock Feeds are down sharply in price under a month ago . . . from $3 to $9 per ton in most cases. This is the result of declines in the market prices of the ingredients which go into those feeds . . . protein, oil meals, etc. . . . and of Southern States Cooperative's policy of reflecting those ingredient price drops immediately in the manufactured feeds it supplies to farmers.

What's more, present market prices seem likely to remain at or near current levels for the next few weeks . . . well below prices which prevailed in April and early May. Now's your chance to stock up on the feeds you need to keep your hens and dairy cows at top production during the summer months. Remember it pays to feed livestock and poultry well . . . even when good pasture is available. It means more profit for you.

Here's How Our Prices Have Dropped:

|                                   | May 3 Price    | Today's Price  | Reduction Per Ton |
|-----------------------------------|----------------|----------------|-------------------|
| Southern States 16% Pasture Dairy | $3.90 per bag | $3.65 per bag | $5.00            |
| Southern States Egg Maker         | $5.00 per bag | $4.55 per bag | $9.00            |
| Southern States Growing Mash      | $5.00 per bag | $4.80 per bag | $4.00            |
| Southern States 32% Milk Maker    | $5.30 per bag | $4.95 per bag | $7.00            |
| Southern States 40% Pork Maker    | $6.95 per bag | $6.60 per bag | $7.00            |
| 32% DAIRY SUPPLEMENT              | $4.50 per bag | $4.25 per bag | $5.00            |
| SUPER LAYING MASH                 | $5.20 per bag | $5.00 per bag | $4.00            |

Two Pasture Feeds Especially Priced

In addition to general price reductions on all Southern States Feeds, two feeds, Southern States 16% Pasture Dairy and Southern States Egg Maker, have been further reduced to help dairymen and poultrymen during this present squeeze on farm profits. Both of these feeds are designed especially for feeding with good pasture. Both are Southern States top quality feeds, but contain less of the ingredients which cows and poultry can get from pasture this season. See Prices above.

Sanitation and Insecticides Good Combination in Fly Control

"Only continuous sanitation and proper use of chemicals can hold fly populations to small numbers this season," declares Dr. Louis A. Stearns, head of the department of entomology at the University of Delaware.

Dr. Stearns says right now is a critical time in fly control. The pests are becoming established for the season. And this is the usual time for manure-hauling and general clean-up-around the farm.

"Sanitation—the removal of materials in which flies breed and develop—holds the real key to the control of these disease transmitting, and annoying insects," he adds.

The entomologists advice to farmers who are willing to work at fly control includes these points: Haul manure, trash and rotting plant refuse to the fields and spread it out to dry. Clean up around livestock feed bunks. Scrape feed lost to the concrete in paved lots and to the fresh earth if unpaved.

Keep a clean up campaign going the year-round, Stearns advises.

Many farmers do a good job of removing the obvious breeding places, but they miss other important "hot-spots". Some of these are the corners of barn gutters, spilled feeds and other small accumulations of organic matter that may begin to decay.

This, together with insecticides properly applied—will pave the way toward a neater, better-appearing farmstead and relief from the annoyance and health-hazard of flies.

New engine power! New operating economy!

New Chevrolet Trucks... do more work per day... more work per dollar!

You save hours on the road. Thanks to greater acceleration and hill-climbing ability, you can save time without increasing your maximum road speeds.

You save extra trips. That's because of extra load space. New pickup bodies are deeper, new stake and platform bodies wider and longer.

You save time on deliveries. New truck Hydra-Matic transmission saves time and effort at every stop. Optional at extra cost on 1/2-, 3/4- and 1-ton models.

You save on operating costs. The "Thriftmaster 235" engine, the "Loadmaster 235," and the "Jobmaster 261"

(optional on 2-ton models at extra cost), deliver greater horsepower plus increased operating economy.

You save with lower upkeep, too. There are heavier axle shafts in two-ton models, bigger clutches in light- and heavy-duty models, stronger frames in all models.

And your savings start the day you buy. Chevrolet, you know, is America's lowest-priced line of trucks!

Dr. Martha M. Eliot
 Chief, Children's Bureau

The human touch is still one of the best medicines.

This statement, made by one of its officials, is the key to the philosophy of the Adolescent Unit of the Children's Medical Center, in Boston. A unique addition to hospital service, the Unit is evidently filling a real need. And it is meeting the need with new techniques that may well have wide impact on a large number of the young people of the country.

The adolescent, no longer a child, but not yet adult, is subject to most of the ills of both children and adults, and has many troubles peculiar to his own age groups have had.

At the Unit, boys and girls between the ages of 12 to 21 go to their own Out-Patient Clinic, where each has his own doctor (or doctors) for treatment of whatever ailment he may have, whether the need is surgical, medical, or emotional.

The Unit makes a point of treating "the whole patient." No matter what the youngster's trouble, he physicians—all of them especially selected for their knowledge of and interest in this age group—take into account his personality as well as his physical aches and pains when treating him.

A boy with heart disease, for instance, may be examined for his progress in school, how he feels about sports, his relations with his family and his fellows, his plans for the future. Failure in school, these specialists feel, is as important to watch out for as infected tonsils. Headaches may be due to lack of adjustment as well as to sinusitis. Some handicaps have to be lived with, and a youngster sometimes has to learn how.

Staff of the Adolescent Unit hope the Unit will also focus attention of researchers upon adolescents' problems and provide training opportunities for physicians in the special medical and emotional problems of teen-agers.

The fact that the Adolescent Unit is filling a real need is shown by the rapidly increasing demand for its services and by the long list of doctors and agencies now referring patients to it. Among them are the Boy's Club of Boston, the Industrial School for Crippled Children, the Society for the Protection of Cruelty to Children, the Home for Little Wanderers, the Jewish Family and Children's Service, the Charles S. Hayden Memorial Goodwill Inn, the Boston YMCA, the Boston University Counseling Service, and the Boston Visiting Nurse Association.

In its second year there were 300 percent more patients than in its first. More than 10 percent come from States other than Massachusetts. But since its work is still relatively little known, it is believed that its major job still lies ahead.

MISS YOU

BY Helen Sherwood

Lonely thoughts but pleased memories of all the years now passed and gone
 How I wish I'd be ever with you
 And we could wait and time pass on

The nights are long and endless here without you
 Sometimes I just can't sleep well but that's because I miss you.
 Mom and Daddy
 More than words could ever tell

Thoughtless words off my lips have uttered
 When I really didn't mean them so
 But I really hope in deeds of kindness
 My love for you will always show

All the times we've played together and smiled and laughed with glee
 But just think dear little sister those times are now History

We'll still be near each other sometimes though many miles apart
 But you see dear little sister You're always in my heart

Though these few verses cannot really tell you how I miss you there
 But each night I pray to God to Bless you and keep you in his care

Till these training days are over
 And once again I'll be home I'll always, always miss you
 Wherever I may roam

I know that I'll be older and I'll never be the same but if God lets us be together

Mom and Daddy I'll be home again

Hammerhead Shark

HAMMERHEAD SHARK

Superficially this animal might look a bit like a shark carrying a bone horizontally in its mouth. Except for the head the lines of the animal are much like one would recognize as being the general average for sharks.

Hammerhead sharks in one species or another are found in warm seas near shore or offshore north as far as Maine in the Atlantic or to Japan in the Pacific. Three of the five species may be found off the California coast. Most conspicuous of those varying from the type shown here is the Bonnethead Hammerhead Shark, whose head is somewhat shaped, and the Scalloped Hammerhead that has a rather pronounced notch in front.

There are a number of fossil hammerhead sharks found in rocks from the Miocene to more recent times.

Our Hammerhead Shark reaches a length of 18 feet and a weight of 1500 pounds. A 12 1/2 foot animal weighs about 900 pounds. In such an animal the head may be 3 feet wide with the eyes at the extremities and with the nostrils in a slit along the front of the snout. The tail is about 1/3 the total length of the fish with its upper lobe about 3 times as long as the lower. The first dorsal fin is high on the back.

There are records of Hammerhead Sharks attacking men in Australia and as far back as 1805 there is a record of an American hammerhead that had human flesh in its stomach. There was no evidence however that the man had been killed by the shark. As is so frequently the case, it is quite probable that the danger to man of these animals is greatly overemphasized.

Hammerhead Sharks are fast swimmers with exceptional ability to changes in vertical direction.

The teeth of Hammerhead Sharks are similar on the upper and lower jaws except that the upper jaw teeth are usually the larger. The teeth have saw-toothed edges.

The flesh of Hammerhead Sharks is fine-grained and in Japan is considered a delicacy so there is no doubt but that there are more men who eat sharks than there are Hammerhead Sharks that eat men. The skin of these sharks is of fine quality and makes good leather. The liver is of great value in producing oil of medicinal value. Like most sharks the Hammerhead has a rugged constitution and a dogged desire to keep alive and free. Because of this hardness Hammerheads are considered to be among the best of the sport fishes of their environment.

Hammerhead Sharks feed largely on fishes, squids, crabs, sting-rays and barnacles, which they are easily able to capture under ordinary circumstances.

To most persons a shark is most quickly noticed because of the fins which may appear above the water surface. The Hammerhead Sharks have fins that are usually dark tipped, this being most conspicuous in the large, paired fins which appear forward on the fish.

Letter to the Editor

If the average Harringtonian were approached on the street or answered a knock on his door and asked the question "Do you think having an airspotting station on Harrington is a good thing?" he would probably reply something like this: "Sure it's a good thing. 'We've got to guard against those Roosians. They're liable to try to atom bomb us before we know it.'"

When the average Harringtonian is asked, "Are you willing to serve 2 hours a week on this worthwhile project?" he immediately stares at you blankly and says "Who me?" I haven't the time." Too busy." Let somebody else do it." Of the 2,000 or more citizens (the word citizens is used advisedly) only 144 are actually needed to do the job.—288 if two work together on every shift. Yet, all the shifts are not filled.

If all the man hours were used by those in the pool parlor and on the street corner in some worthwhile cause instead of discussing hours on end how Gluefoot Hanover might do in the 6th at Laurel, our air-spotting station would be completely manned. If one of the above characters is called and asked, "How about taking the trick of John Doe at the air-spotting station, he's sick today", "its 8-10 tonight", he would rise up in indignation and say "Can't do it, too much to do". And with that he would grasp in his grubby little fingers a form sheet, some of his hard earned money, and be off to Laurel with a group of his fellow slackers.

The A in HARRINGTON stands for APATHY. If you don't know what that means and can lay down the racing form, look it up in any dictionary. You might wake up.
