

NAAWP BEGINS MEMBER DRIVE, MASS MEETING IS TOLD

A Campaign to enlist a million members in the National Association for the Advancement of White People, the organization which has spearheaded the fight against integration of the public schools in Delaware, was announced at a mass meeting sponsored by the NAACP at Harrington Airport Sunday afternoon.

Bryant W. Bowles, of Alexandria, Va., national NAACP, told a crowd estimated at between 2000 and 3000 which braved the cold to attend the outdoor meeting, that the drive would be concentrated in Southern States and that it would be conducted over a six-month period.

In the course of his remarks to the audience of pro-segregationists, who have fought long and bitterly and thus far successfully against integration, Bowles touched on a recent Washington D. C., incident which gained national attention in which he is alleged to have struck a mail man.

Bowles told the crowd that he did hit the man, but that he "definitely did not" kick him, as reported in the press. Bowles added that he hit the man because the mailman who Bowles said threatened his wife, rushed across the lobby of the Washington building where the NAACP has its national headquarters. Bowles said the man rushed at his wife after an argument over the delivery of mail.

The crowd was described by state police who were there as orderly. In contrast to previous meetings, there was no talk of a boycott of the public schools in the lower part of the state in the event the 10 Negro students are ordered readmitted to the Milford High School. They were removed from the rolls there Sept. 30, after having attended classes for more than a week in the previously all-white school.

Their admittance to the school by the original school board touched off the integration vs. segregation storm which has rocked the state for about a month and one-half. Since then, court actions on their behalf have been heard in the Court of Chancery and in the State Supreme Court. They are now attending school at a Negro High School at Georgetown, although not officially enrolled there.

Baby Suffocates While Sleeping Alone in Auto

Coroner Volte C. Gray of Georgetown said this morning that as nearly as he could reconstruct the suffocation death of a 10-month-old boy in a car on Market Street Friday afternoon, the infant had begun to squirm immediately after his mother and grandmother left him asleep on the back seat and got his arm caught in the arm-rest.

In his struggle, his head became wedged between the seat cushion and the door of the car. Depressions on the side of the face and neck bore out this explanation.

Mrs. Morton Melvin, Harrington with her mother, Mrs. Lena Austin Milford, parked their car about 1:30 p. m. on Market Street near the Court House Annex and went to Blackstone's Restaurant at the corner of Market and Race Streets for lunch.

They were gone only 20 minutes, but when they returned the child had suffocated. The mother picked up the baby and screamed out to passersby. Ray Elliott ran with the child to the office of the nearest doctor. Dr. Albert Wildberger, who said that the baby had been dead for 10 minutes.

Funeral services were held Monday afternoon at the Boyer Funeral Home in Harrington, with burial in Hollywood Cemetery, Harrington. In addition to his parents, the child is survived by his paternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Roland Melvin Sr., of Harrington.

The children, sons of Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Lyons, were treated by Dr. Hewitt Smith.

The accident took place about 5:15 p. m., when the truck crashed into the rear of the tractor, demolishing it and turning the tractor over.

Nelson Meredith, 44, of Bridgeville, driver of the truck, was charged with operating an unregistered car and driving on a restricted license without glasses. Meredith was fined $25 and costs, on the first charge, and $10 and costs, on the second, by Magistrate L. Gooden Callaway.

Citizens to Hear Plans For New Water Tower

The City Council, at its November meeting Monday evening, spent most of the time discussing plans for the erection of a water tower. These plans will be presented at a citizens' meeting at the Firehall Tuesday evening.

If approved, the Council will call for a referendum on a bond issue to provide the funds for the tower. The consensus appears to favor a 200,000-gallon tank in the eastern portion of the community.

The Council Monday night discussed locations for the tank and indicated preference for one near the sewer pumping station at Dixie and Liberty Streets.

Since the site of any tower, however, would depend on the soil, it was agreed to ask the State Board of Health to make soil tests at the preferred location and also on city property on the west side of Franklin Street, near the standpipe.

Mayor Ernest Killen said it might be a good idea to tell the citizens at Tuesday's meeting about possibilities for income from the water system. These, he explained, included higher water rates, outside the city limits, and the prospect of more users of water.

The Council has secured prices from two companies, on erecting the tower, and scheduled a special meeting for last night if a representative could confer with the group.

The Council also agreed to pay for Christmas street lighting and, furthermore, authorized City Manager Norris Adams to repair a leak in the water main on Dorman Street between South Street and the home of Robert Wix at No. 316.

Trailer Crashes Into Tree, Burns

A huge tractor-trailer struck a tree and burst into flames on Route 13 south of Farmington early Sunday morning, causing an estimated damage of $8500 to the vehicle alone.

State police at Bridgeville were unable to estimate the damage to the trailer's general cargo and the loss is expected to be increased by thousands of dollars when the express company checks the contents.

The Bridgeville troop said the driver of the tractor-trailer was Edward Vann Little, 38 of Philadelphia. Firemen from Harrington and Farmington, fearing that Little was still in the vehicle, were fighting the flames when the driver made his appearance. State police said he was returning from Farmington, where he had gone to summon firemen.

The accident occurred about 4:30 a. m., about a half-mile south of Farmington. The Turner Motor Express Company, of Norfolk, Va., was listed as the owner of the trailer and cargo.

According to state troopers, the tractor-trailer ran off the highway, skidded against the tree and caught fire. Apparently the gasoline tank was smashed and the flaming fluid was showered over the vehicle, according to police. The tractor-trailer did not turn over and the driver escaped without injury.

Sen. Frear Buries Warburton With 20,000 Vote Majority; G.O.P. Rout in State Complete

The most one-sided rout in Delaware's modern political history Tuesday found the Democrats in virtually complete control of the state below the office of governor.

U. S. Senator J. Allan Frear Jr., won by more than 20,000 over Republican Herbert B. Warburton, the largest margin ever rolled up by a state-level candidate.

Kent County Gives Democrats All Offices

The Democrats swept to a complete victory in Kent County Tuesday, taking all county offices, which they held previously, and in addition, taking two State Senate and three House seats away from Republicans.

The total vote, better than 16,000, was about the same as in 1950, the last off-year election, and about 4000 short of the presidential vote in 1952.

The Democrats broke through to take Senate seats away from the Republicans in the Third and Fifth Districts, and gained House seats in the Second, Fourth, Fifth, and Tenth Districts.

Roland P. Trader led the ticket, with 10,982 votes for coroner, against 8854 for Noble Warren, Jr., his Republican opponent, a margin of 5128.

The Levy Court remained solidly Democratic, with Wilmer T. Derickson, Dover Republican, in the first district, losing to Henry T. Price, Smyrna, by 3960 to 3274.

The other Levy Court contests ended with John T. Loder, of Clayton, defeating A. Keith Webb of near Dover, 3508 to 1372 in the Second District, and Emory N. Lynch, Frederica, defeating Harry H. Jones, Magnolia, 3268 to 2161.

State Legislature Goes to Democrats

The Democrats Tuesday won overwhelming control of the General Assembly and a hectic session is expected next year, as they steer a course in the face of policies of Republican Gov. J. Caleb Boggs.

The Democrats, in the minority, by a slight margin during the 1953 session, took 12 out of 17 Senate seats and 28 out of 35 in the House.

The Democrats won eight of 10 Senate contests, and 28 out of 35 in the House. The Republicans won only one Senate, and one House seat south of New Castle County.

The victory gave them the ability to muster a two-thirds majority any time they want to in the lower chamber. If they hold every member in line they have the same power in the Senate.

In the past 20 years, no party has controlled the General Assembly as tightly as the Democrats will control the 1955 session. In the memory of veteran politicians, the legislative balance has never been so one-sided.

An "indicator" for the landslide was the win of Eugene Lamont, Democratic candidate for the State Senate from New Castle County's First District (northern Wilmington). Veteran political observers in Wilmington had never heard of a Republican defeat in the district.

The total vote of 143,466 was 90 per cent of the registered voter strength of 159,945—also a record turn-out for an off-year election in Delaware.

While the vote was considerably short of the 170,705 cast in the 1952 Senate race in Delaware, it went well above the last off-year vote of 129,565 in 1950.

Farmers Still Have Time to Plant Fall Cover Crops

It's still not too late to sow a cover crop in the garden.

Dr. Edgar P. Walls, retired professor in the University of Maryland department of horticulture, says wheat, barley or rye will make a cover crop if sown now. "I prefer rye," Dr. Walls adds. "It can be sown up to Thanksgiving, and generally makes abundant growth even on poor land. Rye makes spring growth earlier than wheat or barley, which are rather slow in starting growth in the spring."

Little seedbed preparation is needed for rye. Dr. Walls points out that spading would help, but may not be necessary. "The wheel hoe will generally get the ground in shape," he says. "Then I would broadcast about three pounds of 5-10-5 fertilizer per 1000 square feet and rake it in well. Next, broadcast the seed by hand and rake it in lightly. About 2 to 2 1/2 pounds of seed per 1000 square feet should give a good stand."

Dr. Walls lists three reasons for sowing a cover crop: (1) It gives some growth to turn under next spring, and thus will increase the organic matter content of the soil. (2) Soluble fertilizer materials in the soil will be taken up by the roots and built into plant tissues, so they cannot get away. Without a cover crop, these fertilizer materials may be lost by washing or leaching. (3) Prevents soil erosion.

Once the cover crop is established, the next step is to turn it under next spring. The crop should not be over knee high when turned under, and a better job of getting it entirely under can be done if the crop is a little shorter. At this stage of development, the crop is very succulent and decays quickly when turned under.

Hurricane winds blow counterclockwise in the Northern Hemisphere and clockwise in the Southern.

Thursday, November 11, is the date for the Kent County Home Demonstration Achievement Day.

Mrs. Arthur Short, of Smyrna, president of the County Council, will preside at the meeting, which will be held at the Capital Grange Hall, in Dover, from 10:00 to 3:00.

The program will be one of the best ever. Rev. Edwin Thomas, pastor of St. Paul's Methodist Church in Odessa, will be the featured speaker. He is a native of Dover, and a highly recommended speaker. Miss Margaret H. Black will lead group singing, as she has for the past few years.

You will hear combined reports of activities, given by county chairmen. We are planning a new way of reporting on the National Home Demonstration Council meeting, too.

Reading certificates will be presented by Mrs. Bernice Hammond, State Librarian, to those who have completed first, second, or third year reading list this year. It looks like a record number, from the reports in so far!

Be sure to bring things which you have made since the 1953 Achievement Day, as a part of the Home Demonstration program. A few items which I can think are: Furniture Upholstered with Foam Rubber; Sewing Screens; Tailored Garments; Arrangement of Flowers or Dried Materials; Splint Seats; Miniature Gardens; Articles Decorated with Textile Painting; Lamp Shades; and lamps. Any items which have been made since Achievement Day 1953 as a result of the Home Demonstration program can be exhibited.

The following committees have been appointed: Hostess Committee - St. Jones Club; Exhibit Committee - Fraziers Club Key Board Committee - Cee-W-Dee Club; Decoration Committee - Cowgill's Club; Program Committee - Mrs. Francis Raughley, Dover, Mrs. William Conard, Dover, Mrs. Clifford Clark, Kenton.

Bring a box lunch-coffee and tea will be served. We'll see you at Achievement Day!

State Highway Construction Program Speeded by Favorable Fall Weather

Favorable weather conditions prevailing during the early fall months have resulted in considerable progress being made on construction operations on State Highway Department projects, a spokesman for the Department reported this week.

The construction projects on which work is now in progress, are located in almost every section of the State and the work is reported to be proceeding rapidly.

This condition has resulted in some improvements being available for use of the traveling public earlier than had been anticipated when the projects were started.

Traffic has been permitted to use both lanes of the new dual highway being constructed from Five Points to Rehoboth, although work is still in progress on this project.

Maintenance forces of the various County Divisions of the Department have made considerable progress in reshaping and surface treating many miles of roads in their counties.

In the meantime the County Divisions are also preparing for winter snow storms. Snow plows have been attached to trucks to learn if any adjustments are needed before they go into service, and supplies of material for treating ice covered highways have been placed at the required locations.

Snow fences along the highways will be erected in accordance with agreements with the land owners which among other things, names the dates for these snow fences to be put in place.

Delaware Signs For School Milk Program

Delaware signs for school milk program—to provide children more milk, expand dairy markets. Delaware school children will get more milk to drink, and the State's dairy farmers will sell more milk, under an agreement with the U. S. Department of Agriculture signed today by Dr. George R. Miller, Jr., State Superintendent of Public Instruction.

Signing of the Plan of Operation adds Delaware to the States taking part in the U.S.D.A. program to increase consumption of milk by children in high school grade and below.

To increase consumption, U.S.D.A.'s Agricultural Marketing Service will advance funds to the State and the State will reimburse the schools for part of the cost of additional milk they serve to children. To compute additional servings, a "base" has been set for each school, representing normal consumption during last school year.

Schools which did not serve milk last year will be reimbursed at a rate up to three cents per half-pint for milk they serve under the school milk program. Schools which have been serving milk will be reimbursed at the rate of four cents per half-pint for all the additional milk they serve over their "base" consumption. This higher rate recognizes that consumption increases may be more moderate in schools which already have milk serve, and that these schools must divide all reimbursement received among all milk servings, including their original "base" consumption.

All nonprofit schools of high school grade and below are eligible to take part in the program. Participating schools must agree to operate their milk and food service on a nonprofit basis, and to serve fluid whole milk (including flavored whole milk) which meets local and State standards for butterfat and sanitation. Milk served under the program will be bought by schools directly from local dairies and distributors.

Dr. Miller said full details of the new program are being mailed to all school administrators, along with the forms they need to make applications to take part in the program.

The new program, Dr. Miller said, will benefit Delaware school children by making more milk available to them. Drinking more milk will provide immediate health benefits, and build firm health foundations for adult life. The program will also provide immediate and long-range expansion in dairy markets. More of the current production of Delaware dairy farms will be moved into consumption, and broader markets will be developed for the future as the habit of drinking milk is established among more children.

Since State law prohibits the Department of Public Instruction from disbursing funds directly to private schools, the school milk program in Delaware will be administered in such schools directly by the U. S. Department of Agriculture.

Boggs Asks Observation Of Veterans' Day

Governor J. Caleb Boggs today urged the observance of Thursday, November 11, as Veterans Day "to pay tribute to all of our loyal defenders who served their country in time of stress."

The state's chief executive pointed out that the old Armistice Day—a legal holiday since 1938—had lost its significance because of the even greater struggles that followed World War I.

Governor Boggs called for a display of the national and state flags and for observances by all citizens, whom he said, should "pledge this day to consecrate ourselves to the task of promoting peace, so that the rows of white crosses and the occupied beds in our Veterans Hospitals will not have been in vain."

WHEREAS, the march of Time brought to this nation the responsibility to defend itself on the field of battle when its hard-earned liberties were challenged by a foreign foe; and

WHEREAS, through the successful defense of the American Way of Life in World War II and the extensive conflict to curb communism on the battlefields of Korea, new honor and glory was added to the nation's fighting forces; and

WHEREAS, it has been customary since 1926 to observe the eleventh day of November as one of gratitude and remembrance for those who fought and died on European battlefields in World War I; and

WHEREAS, the significance of the sacrifices of that great war

were lost in the even greater struggles that followed; and WHEREAS, a grateful nation, wishing to pay tribute to all of its loyal defenders, caused the 83rd Congress of the United States of America to enact legislation which would finally honor all who served their country in time of stress, and changed the name of Armistice Day to Veterans Day; and

WHEREAS, the veterans of the State of Delaware, always in the forefront in the battle lines from final moments in Korea, should be remembered on this one day

WHEREAS, the veterans of the State of Delaware, always in the forefront in the battle lines from final moments in Korea, should be remembered on this one day

VETERANS DAY

On that day let us solemnly remember the contributions of all those who fought so valiantly on the seas, in the air and on foreign shores, to preserve our freedom, and let us pledge this day to consecrate ourselves to the task of promoting peace, so that the rows of white crosses and the occupied beds in our Veterans Hospitals will not have been in vain. I call upon our state officials to properly display the national and state flags on this day, and urge all patriotic groups, the schools, veterans and civic organizations to take full note of this occasion by such measure as may fully describe and present the basic reasons why we remain a free and prosperous people.

Houston's Health

Houston's city health department has been working on a budget that amounts to $1.17 a year per citizen. This is better than New Orleans' $2c per citizen, but far below Washington, D.C.'s $3.36, San Francisco's $2.66 and Seattle's $1.99. Recommendation: that Houston up its public health budget to about $2.

Our Town Makes Good in New York City

Couldn't place a new subscriber named Clark, but I found out who they were last week when they dropped in The Clarion's office. "We're native New Yorkers," Mrs. Clark said, "and all our friends there are originally from other places. We always felt left out when they talked about things 'back home.'"

From where I sit, just about everyone thinks his own town is best. Picking your town comes natural. The right to do this "picking," though, is what really counts. Whether it's a favorite town, a favorite out of town, or even a choice of a beverage—say between beer and buttermilk, it's respecting the right to this freedom of choice that makes a good neighbor. I hope you subscribe to that!

To Questions

Q—I understand that a veteran may not receive Korean GI training benefit payments if they duplicate payments made by the Government under some other program. I plan to enroll in a land-grant college, which gets Federal funds from a non-VA source. Would I still be permitted to take my training under the Korean GI Bill?

A—Yes. The fact that the Government provides funds to land-grant colleges would not deprive you of your rights to enroll under the Korean GI Bill. The ban on duplicate payments would apply only if you yourself were to get money from two Federal sources—the VA and some other agency.

Q—I have a GI insurance policy. I have named by beneficiaries but I have not yet told VA how I want the money paid out. If something were to happen to me before I designate a method of payment, what will VA do with the money?

A—If you fail to select a method of settlement, the insurance money will be paid to your beneficiary in 36 equal installments. Your beneficiary, however, would have the right to choose some other settlement method so long as it is not a lump-sum payment.

Q—I am a disabled World War I veteran drawing a VA pension. Recently I set up a small business that I operate part-time from my home. Do I have to count all the money I make from the business as in come for pension purposes?

A—No. In computing the income from your business, you are permitted to deduct necessary expenses of carrying on the business. It is your net income that counts, not your gross income.

Q—Would it be possible to attend a cooking school in France under the Korean GI Bill? This school is not a college.

A—No. Under the Korean GI Bill, veterans may train in foreign countries only at accredited colleges and universities. They may not enroll in any other type of school.

GROUP HOSPITAL SERVICE, INC.
The Delaware Blue Cross-Blue Shield Plan
WILMINGTON 99, DELAWARE
PHONE 4-9991, 908 WEST ST.

October 29, 1954

To All Blue Cross-Blue Shield Subscribers:
Effective February 1, 1955, your Delaware Blue Cross-Blue Shield Plan will make adjustments in its rate schedule and expand its benefits. We wish to take this opportunity to explain why these revisions have been made in the Plan.

Since February, 1951, when your Plan last fixed its rates, member hospitals have made twenty-two rate increases. For the most part, we have been able to absorb these rising costs by dipping into the reserve fund which is intended for emergency use, such as an epidemic. In the past year this fund has declined when it should have grown.

To meet higher costs of hospitalization and to give you the new benefits which you have requested, it will be necessary for us to increase your subscription rates. Therefore, on February first, your Blue Cross-Blue Shield protection becomes even broader than before—and your monthly rates will be slightly higher. Today, with hospital costs at an all-time high, Blue Cross-Blue Shield means more than ever before.

Very truly yours,

SOCIAL SECURITY ACT PRESERVES BENEFITS WHEN DISABILITY RESULTS IN LOSS OF INCOME

By MYRON MILBOUER
(Manager of The Wilmington Social Security Office)

There is a provision in the new social security law that resembles, in some ways, the drop-out of low or no earning years that I explained in a recent article in this series. This is the provision known as the "disability freeze". It should not be confused with the drop-out. But it does act to discount no-earning years from the worker's average monthly wages. And like the drop-out, it is something entirely new to social security. So I'd like to explain a little about the disability freeze in this article.

The social security disability "freeze" may be roughly compared to the "Waiver of premium" feature in ordinary life insurance. A waiver of premium is used to maintain the protection of the private insurance policy for the duration of the policy holder's disability. The social security disability provision will freeze the years during which a disability has kept the worker from earning so that those years of disability will not affect the disabled worker's social security account.

I should like to mention one fact about the disability provisions that may be misunderstood at first. The disability "freeze" is not disability insurance. A person must be disabled to apply for the "freeze", but he cannot receive social security benefits until he retires at age 65 or later. Then he will find that he will not receive reduced benefit amounts because his wage record has been frozen during the years in which he was unable to perform any gainful work.

Before the 1954 disability provision in the social security law, the worker, who became disabled after a long record of contribution to the labor force of the nation, may have lost his insured status. This came about under the old law because the entire period of disability was included in the time that was the basis for determining an insured status. Or if the disabled person didn't lose his insured status, the period of his total disability—during which he was earning no wages—would greatly reduce his average monthly wage. And it is upon the average monthly wage that the benefit amount is computed.

The 1954 amendment with the special disability freeze was designed to eliminate this reduction of the benefit amount or the loss of insured status. It is a provision for those who have a long and recent record of attachment to the nation's labor force. For this reason there is a requirement that the disabled person must have worked under social security for at least five years. These five years must have been during the ten years right before the disability began. And one and a half of the five years must have been during the three immediately before the disability began.

Any worker who, after meeting the qualifications just described, becomes totally disabled by illness, injury, or other physical or mental impairment that is expected to be of long and indefinite duration, that is medically determined, and that has lasted for at least six months is eligible for the disability freeze. This means that his wage record for the period of his disability will be frozen and not counted against him in figuring his insured status, and the amount of his future benefits.

The provision goes into effect on January 1, 1955, and that is the first day a disabled worker may apply for the "freeze". The disability freeze cannot be applied in cases where the worker has died or is no longer disabled at the time of application. Because of this, it is to the worker's advantage to apply for the freeze as soon as his disability begins. After a disability has been in effect for at least six months, it may be medically determined for purposes of the "freeze".

The disability freeze will not be applied in figuring benefits paid to survivors of disabled workers who die before July 1, 1955. If a worker is declared disabled, July 1955 is the first month in which he can be paid a retirement benefit computed with the exclusion of the period of disability. And when a worker reaches age 65, his period of disability will be considered ended. If the disabled person applies for the disability freeze before July, 1957, his wages can be frozen for a disability as far back as September, 1941, if he is still disabled at the time of application and if he meets the work requirements. After July 1957, the disability freeze will apply to wages going back only as far as a year but it will extend into the future.

for the entire duration of the disability. After the period of disability has been excluded from the computation of benefits, the disabled person may take the advantage of the five-year drop-out of low earnings. I described how the drop-out works in a recent article and the same procedure will apply to the disabled individual. Along with protecting the disabled worker's insured status and benefit amount, the freeze will protect the benefit amount of the survivors and dependents of a qualified disabled person.

Horticultural Body Plans 68th Meeting

The 68th Annual Meeting of the Peninsula Horticultural Society will be held on December 14 and 15, 1954 at Capitol Grange Hall, Dover, according to Robert D. Smith, Jr., of Bridgeville, President of the Society.

Poultry Needs Better Lighting

Poultrymen planning to improve their present buildings—or broiler growers planning to rebuild following Hurricane Hazel might think of better lights.

At a recent meeting of rural electrification specialists at the University of Delaware, specialists from Delaware, Maryland and New Jersey agreed that poultry houses could be lighted better in terms of foot candles.

"Lights should be thought of in terms of light on the floor instead of watts in the ceiling," says William E. Larsen, agricultural engineer at the University of Delaware, in commenting on the conference.

A foot candle is a measure of the brightness of a light. In poultry houses we are interested in the amount of light on the floor and feeding areas. Watts do not tell anything about the amount of light that is reaching the floor and chickens. The amount of light will vary with the distance the light is from the floor and the type of reflections around the bulb. The type of reflecting surfaces around the light also affects the amount of light that will reach the floor.

Larsen recommends that you replace the standard light bulb with a bulb that has a built-in reflector. This bulb will take the light off the ceiling and put it on the floor and feeding areas with the chickens. A good bulb for this type is R-30-75. Although this bulb costs more than a standard bulb, it is well worth it because it has a much longer life and it puts the light where it is needed. Tests have shown that a bulb of this type lasts about three times as long as an ordinary bulb. Try these bulbs and see if they don't improve your poultry house lighting.

Waltz by Sam Short Jr., and Friends Winning 'O.K.' of Press and TV

A waltz ballad written by Samuel A. Short Jr., Harriet Ross Norman of Mentor, Ohio, and Rene Bruneau of Canada, is getting to be very well known around the country through the efforts of Mrs. Norman and Sam.

News of this song has appeared in such leading newspapers as the Niagara Falls, N. Y. Gazette, the Niagara Evening Review, the St. Catharines Standard, the Buffalo Evening News, the Silver Creek Times, N. Y., the Erie Dispatch of Pa.

It has been sung by Jane Fisher on T.V. and has been played on the Tower Carillon of bells, and has been requested to be done a number of times since.

This song is one of their best and one that has heard it states that it is one that will be long lived and remembered a long time.

Their next step now is to get a good recording by Perry Como

2,000 CHILDREN KILLED YEARLY BY POISONS FOUND IN HOMES

By DR. MARTHA M. ELIOT
Chief, Children's Bureau

The scene was the emergency room of a large Chicago hospital. Eighteen months old Johnnie was about to leave in a taxi with his stricken mother. Just an hour before he had come to the hospital in an ambulance. Johnnie had swallowed some liniment he'd found on the washstand. Fortunately his mother had found him before he'd had a chance to drink more than a little. Still it was serious enough. It helped that the mother knew just which poison her child had swallowed. Now Johnnie's stomach had been washed out. He'd been given the proper antidote. His symptoms carefully observed to be sure he did not need further treatment, and he was ready to go home.

A nurse from the Health Department would visit them in about a week, to make sure he was alright and to check whether there were other dangerous hazards. She would give his mother a home safety check list, too, to help her identify the common household poisons that should be kept out of Johnnie's way—and that of his 4-year brother.

Johnnie was one of the lucky ones. Our best estimates that there are 187,500 cases of accidental poisoning every year. Close to 2,000 of these result in death. About one-fifth of the dead are children under 5 years of age. It's too high a toll! And such an unnecessary one.

Most of the poison cases fatal to young children are caused by common household items: kerosene, aspirin, hairwaving lotion, moth balls, shoe polish and furniture polish, drain cleansers and cleaning fluids, turpentine. A remarkable job in saving the lives of children so poisoned has been accomplished by the Chicago Poisoning Control Committee.

and if enough requests gets to Mr. Como, in the next few months he is sure to record it for them. If any one of Sam's friends would like to hear this song done by Como he would appreciate it if they would drop a Post Card asking him to do it for them and sing it on one of his T. V. Programs sometimes. The first verse of the song reads: MOON O-V-ER NI-AG-A-RA, Stars twink-ling a-bove Soft and sil-ver-y Shad-ows Fall-ing on one that I love. It is written in three flats 3/4 time and has been accepted for Publication by Austin & Hope of Winter-Set Iowa. About 50 per cent of all patients who visit general practitioners are suffering from sickness associated with mental illness or personality disturbances.

This Committee, at the instigation of the American Academy of Pediatrics, with the approval of the Chicago Medical Society and with the cooperation of 6 Chicago hospitals, the Board of Health and the State Toxicological Laboratory, set up a Poison Control Center. Since this was a brand new idea, representatives of the American Medical Association, the Federal Food and Drug Administration, and the National Safety Council were also called into consultation. A guide for recognizing the symptoms induced by particular poisons, along with identification of poisonous substances in common household products and the best known treatment to be used by all hospitals in the area was one of the first key contributions of the Center. The Chicago Center has proven so practical and helpful that similar poison control centers have now been set up in Boston, Dallas, Cincinnati, New York City, Phoenix and Washington, D. C.

There have been numerous attempts to alert parents as to the dangers of poisons in the home, too. But just this last October, on the occasion of amendments to New York City and New York State Sanitary Codes governing labeling of hazardous substances, the assistant commissioner of the city's Health Department warned that the most carefully worded of warning labels could only be a partial solution to the peril. "It's an apathetic attitude on the part of the homemaker that places the children in danger," the commissioner said, in announcing the amendment. "I guess people just don't read labels."

Perhaps they don't read labels, and perhaps they really don't realize the danger lurking under the sink, on the bottom shelf of the linen closet, in the bathroom cabinet, in the cellar works'op. Perhaps they forget that a young child does not have the judgement to identify danger, while he does have a very strong drive to know, to look and feel and taste, the things in the world he finds about him.

Assembly
On October 26, 1954, the High

School was entertained by a film on "Duke University". The movie showed scenes of the different phases of University life. There are many fields in which one might choose to study. Among these are: Medicine, Nursing, Electrical Engineering, and the Ministry. We all enjoyed the picture immensely.

During the same assembly, we had reports from the Harrington High School representatives who had attended the Red Cross Training Center of Camp Tockwogh on the Chesapeake. They explained Junior Red Cross Membership and told us about the membership drive which lasts Nov. 1 to 15. Every student in the school may enroll by making a contribution to the Junior Red Cross. Let's have 100 per cent membership in every homeroom so that Harrington Special School District will have a perfect record.

The names of the pupils who took part in the "Red Cross Story" are:
Norma Jean Brown, Viola Vanderwende, Ronald Moore, Billy Jackson.

After their summary, we had a brief Red Cross film produced by "The March of Time".

SENIOR PERSONALITY
Grace Suzanne Graham
Grace was born on February 25, 1937, and has always attended Harrington Elementary and High School. She is taking the Scientific Course and lists her favorite subjects as chemistry, history, French, and bookkeeping. Grace is a member of the Glee Club at school and is also the feature editor of the Press Club. She sings in Asbury Methodist Church, Chancel Choir on Sundays.

Grace is interested in all kinds of sports (dancing, skating, tennis, bowling, and basketball) enjoys singing, and makes a hobby of collecting trinkets. Her pet peeves are boys and gossip. Popular music is her favorite and she especially likes "I Need You Now" and "Hey There." June Allyson, David Niven, and Louis Jourdan are her favorite Hollywood stars.

Grace has always wanted to be a nurse. We think she will make a fine one. She plans to go into training at Delaware Hospital in Wilmington.
