A large turkey house and 10,000 young turkeys in it were destroyed in a $30,000 fire at Dover Wednesday night.

The building of concrete block foundation and frame upper structure was termed a total loss by firemen. They said it measured about 100 by 200 feet at the foundation.

The building and the turkeys were owned by Maxwell Jett and were located at Morris Estates, a development in the suburbs of Dover. The turkeys were young birds being raised by Carmine Demarie of Dover, and employe of Mr. Jett.

Members of the Robbins Hose Company of Dover were called at 7:10 p. m. but found on their arrival that the fire had gained too great a headway for them to save the building. Their attention was then directed to efforts to save adjoining buildings. A spokesman for the company said the availability of city fire hydrants was a help in efforts to prevent the spread of the fire. He added that the water froze at times after it had been played from the hoses. Small ponds of ice formed on the ground.

There was a fear at one time that the fire would leap to the Morris Estates homes, about 100 feet away, if the wind rose and fanned the flames. However, the relative lack of a strong wind helped hosemen to confine the fire.

Dover fireman put in a call for assistance to the Camden-Wyoming Fire Company through the two-way Civil Defense radio network.

Firemen were in action about two and a half hours. They said the cause of the fire could not be determined. The building loss was estimated at $20,000 and the contents at $10,000.

$22,000,000 Airbase Project Underway

With projects totalling $22,000,000 now under way and completion dates ranging from February through October, 1955 promises to be the busiest yet in the multi-million-dollar construction program at the Dover Air Force Base.

The outlook is based on the most recent figures released by the U. S. Corps of Engineers, Philadelphia, authorities at the Atlantic Division, Military Air Transport Service, installation point out.

While a few of the existing contracts are holdovers from the 1952 construction program, the bulk of the work comes under the 1954 agreements. There was no 1953 program scheduled because of unavoidable delays during 1952.

Central Heating Project One of the costliest projects under the 1952 program still to be completed is the central heating plant located on the north end of the installation. The total construction cost of $1,600,000 will include proposed technical refinements to the building and heating system next year. The plant itself is 99 per cent completed and should be fully operational within a month.

The plant was started in June, 1953, and one of the three boilers was put into operation last September. This single boiler is presently heating all buildings on the base not having separate

DEMOCRATS TO TAKE POSTS IN COURT HOUSE JAN. 4

Melville Taylor To Get General Assembly Post

It was announced Monday night at a meeting of Democratic members of the State House of Representatives that C. Melville Taylor, of Harrington, would be assistant clerk of the House at the General Assembly in January.

John E. Babiarz, Wilmington Ninth Ward party chairman, will be chief clerk.

The Democrats agreed to limit the total of attaches in the House to 46.

Committee assignments were also discussed. Speaker-designate James Quigley said the assignments will be announced after the session convenes Jan. 4.

Democratic leaders have been pressing for a reduction in attaches from a total of more than 100 employed by the House at the 1953 session of the General Assembly. The object is to show the Democrats can operate with more economy than their Republican predecessors.

Mr. Taylor is owner of Taylor Motors.

Avon Club Makes Many Donations

The decorations, program, and refreshments were in keeping with the Yuletide season. Gifts were exchanged. A feature was the making of Christmas corsages by Mrs. Nelson Hammond.

At the business meeting preceding the program, the club voted to donate $10 to the community party and $5 to the Salvation Army.

MRS. FLOWERS SUFFERS STROKE

Mrs. Martin Flowers, 315 Second Ave., suffered a slight stroke Wednesday, as she went out to feed her dog, and is at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Jacob Hickman, 213 West St.

Democrats will gain one office in the Kent County Court House next year as a consequence of the deputy attorney general.

The only offices remaining Republican are those of the Department of Elections as appointed by Gov. J. Caleb Boggs and the state detective attached to the deputy attorney's office, James B. Collins, also appointed by the Governor.

While one change will not become effective until next June 1, all other officials-elect will be sworn in on Jan. 4.

One Exception Listed

One delay will come in the office of county treasurer and receiver of taxes where, under the law, the incoming official is not sworn in until mid-year.

Elected to that office is Thomas C. Robbins, near Frederica, who will succeed Talbert M. Catts, a Republican and temporary appointee.

Grier H. Minner, the Democratic candidate for reelection to that office, died before the election, and Governor Boggs appointed Catts to a term ending next June 1.

Two officials will succeed themselves, Henry T. Price, Smyrna, as a member of the Levy Court, and Grafton R. Heather, Hartly, as register in chancery and clerk of the Orphans Court. Price was reelected for two years and Heather was reelected for four years.

All Other New

All others will be new with James B. Messick, Democrat, succeeding Herman C. Brown, Republican, as attorney general by appointment of Atty. General Joseph Donald Craven.

John T. Loder will succeed Fred B. Greenly and Emory N. Lynch will succeed Edward Kelly in the Levy Court.

Allen J. Cook will succeed Robert Pippin as sheriff, Roy J. Hone will succeed Robert A. Saulsbury as recorder of deeds, Walter A. Hansberry will succeed W. Frank Hazel as clerk of the peace, and Roland P. Trader will succeed William Fleischer, Jr., as coroner. Both the retiring and incoming officials are Democratic.

The holdover officials also are all Democratic: Brig. Gen. John P. LeFevre, prothonotary; J. Wesley Walls, register of wills, and William M. Paskey, comptroller.

Deputy To Remain

Kenneth T. Meredith, near Dover, will remain as deputy sheriff under Sheriff-elect Cook. He was deputy under Sheriff Pippin, who has been named as warden of the Kent County Jail, and under former-Sheriff William M. Paskey.

The Democrats with the naming of Sheriff Pippin, will have their first warden of the jail. The present warden is Norris B. Garrison, whose six-year term is expiring. Republican-controlled Levy Courts had the appointments of the first two wardens named after the warden system was created for the jail, which became effective in 1943. Sheriff Pippin will begin the wardenship almost simultaneously with his retiring as sheriff.

All incoming officials will be administered their oaths by Judge Charles L. Terry, Jr., according to plans.

How Hard Does A College Professor Work?

How hard does a college professor work? There is a popular notion that most professors lecture a couple hours a day, then go home to rest up and plan for that long summer off.

It's just not true, says Dr. John A. Perkins, president of the University of Delaware.

"Actually, if one meets the expectations the university has set for its faculty, the 40-hour week in industry becomes appealing by comparison," he writes in his 1953-54 report to the university's trustees.

True, faculty members seldom teach more than 15 hours a week. But for every lecture hour, the professor is expected to make two hours of preparation for a fresh, stimulating presentation.

Then, too, he is expected to devote one or two hours daily to counselling individual students. Also, he maintains regular office hours to confer with students and staff members on academic matters.

During the winter, he is expected to teach at least one university extension course in the evenings. These are held in communities throughout the state and may entail the professor's commuting quite a distance. For night teaching, the professor gets extra pay—but not time and a half. He receives less than a half-time rate.

When the university professor is not in the classroom or preparing for it or counselling students, writes Dr. Perkins, "he is expected to spend time in creative activity often designated as research, but equally well described as experimentation, writing, composing, inventing and painting. The devoted scholar never finds sufficient time for these activities."

At times, the professor also may be called upon to represent the university as a speaker at civic and cultural group meetings or before radio and TV audiences. For this, of course, there is no pay. In his remaining spare time, the professor may put in long hours pouring over student papers and preparing examinations.

Veterans News

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Q—May a veteran take Korean GI Training in a school outside the United States?

A—Yes, provided he enrolls in a VA-approved course in an accredited college or university.

Q—I am taking flight training under the Korean GI Bill. Because of bad weather, I did not receive any instruction at all last month. Will I get my VA allowance all the same?

A—No. Flight trainees do not receive GI allowances for any month during which they received no instruction.

Q—I am planning to take a carpentry course under the Korean GI Bill. It is being offered by a school that requires a performance of shop work. How many hours a week would I have to go to be considered a full-time student?

A—Full-time training in a trade course requiring shop practice is at least 30 hours a week for at least five days a week, with no more than two and one-half hours of rest periods each week.

Q—I was separated from service in May, 1952. What is my deadline for starting training under the Korean GI Bill?

A—Your deadline comes in May, 1955—exactly three years from the date of your separation from active service.

Ah, but how about that long vacation?

"The year-round activities of professors render the term vacation, when applied to the two-month interim, a misnomer," says Dr. Perkins.

In the first place, not being notoriously overpaid, the professor may volunteer to teach a six-week summerschool session. If he doesn't teach or tutor, he is an engineer or scientist, both to augment his income and gain more first-hand experience in his professional field.

"Teaching at the University of Delaware," concludes Dr. Perkins, "if it is done as it should be, is hard work. The pay, although somewhat better than it once was, is not especially good by either community or collegiate standards."

Arthur Taylor Re-Elected to Kent Soil Post

Arthur Taylor, Harrington has been reelected by landowners as a member of the board of supervisors of the Kent County Soil Conservation District, L. D. Caulk, chairman of the board has announced.

He has been a supervisor since the start of the soil conservation program in 1943. He was opposed in the election by Winfield Willis, near Harrington. Most of the votes were cast by landowners in the Harrington area. The vote was 31 to 5.

The election was for a term of four years, one supervisor being selected each year. The other supervisors are: Charles Blendt, Smyrna, his term expiring next year; Mr. Caulk, Wyoming, term expiring in 1956, and Isaac Thomas, Marydel, term expiring in 1957.

Boundaries Fixed

Mr. Caulk announced that the board has fixed definite jurisdictional boundaries for the different supervisors, as follows: Area 1, Mr. Blendt, first, second and fifth representative districts; Area 2, Mr. Thomas, third and fourth representative districts; Area 3, Mr. Caulk, seventh, eighth, and tenth representative districts; Area 4, Mr. Taylor, sixth and ninth representative districts.

Serving with the board of supervisors in an advisory capacity are: Edward Kelly, Rising Sun, president of the Kent County Levy Court; George K. Vapaa, Dover, Kent County agricultural agent, who serves as secretary, and Robert Moyer, work unit soil conservationist.

Health Board Approves T. B. Control Plan

A report on tuberculosis control presented by Dr. Floyd I. Hudson, Executive Secretary of the State Board of Health, was approved by the Board at their regular meeting on Sunday, December 19, at Emily P. Bissell Sanatorium.

It was reported that as of December 11, 316 new active cases of tuberculosis were found in Delaware in 1954, representing an increase from 277 cases discovered during the same period during 1953. This was considered to point up the need for continuing the present intensive case-finding and follow-up program, as well as the provision for more adequate service at E. P. Bissell Sanatorium, if tuberculosis is to be eradicated in Delaware within a reasonable time. The need for a new occupational therapy program at the Sanatorium, which is now non-existent, was stressed, as was increased rehabilitation services.

Federal hospital authorities recommended that the number of annually reported active cases of tuberculosis. According to this formula, 474 beds should be available in Delaware at the present time. The present program includes the handling of selected cases on an out-patient, home care basis in a statewide program in cooperation with family physicians. The State Board of Health believes that the 223 acceptable beds which will be available upon the completion of construction at Bissell Sanatorium will be adequate to meet the need, barring an increase from causes not now foreseeable. It was felt that no sharp decrease in the demand for hospital beds could be expected within the immediate future.

The State Board of Health agreed that funds should be sought from the General Assembly in its coming session in order to adequately carry on the case-finding, control, and sanatorium programs. The request for the Permanent Budget Commission for sanatorium operations in 1956 was $915,000; and 935,000 for 1957. This represents an increase in 1956 of less than $170,000 in 1957. It was pointed out that the increases are essential if the proposed occupational therapy, rehabilitation program, and other improvements are to be put into effect to promote patient discovery and recovery.

It was also stressed that interested civic organizations and groups should be kept informed of the program, including the needs of the sanatorium, to insure an effective program.

Dr. Hudson also called attention to the need for considering the use of the sanatorium for diagnosis and care of other types of chronic chest diseases when the tuberculosis begins to decline within the next few years.

New Dairy Feed Chemical Given Federal 'O. K.'

Big news for cattle feeders came recently when the Federal Food and Drug Administration gave the sign to go ahead with the use of stilbestrol in beef cattle feeding. Stilbestrol is a synthetic chemical which has been manufactured commercially as a white powder for the past several years.

It has been used to some extent in pellet form in the poultry industry in fattening cockerels. Its effect on animals is that of stimulating growth and liveweight gains.

Experimenters have known for some time of the beneficial effects of this chemical when taken into the animal's body, but the food and drug people wanted to be sure that proper methods of feeding the substance were well known before it was released on the market.

"Even now, precautions must be taken in the use of this highly potent drug says Boyd T. Whittle, University of Maryland extension animal husbandman. "Because of the precautions necessary in handling stilbestrol in feeding mixtures it is not likely that farmers will be able to purchase the premix at the present time."

A premix is made up by trained personnel who blend small quantities of the chemical with a small quantity of feed suitable for later mixing into cattle concentrate feeds. A mid-western chemical company which has permission to manufacture and merchandise the premix will market it under the trade mark name of "Stilbosol." This is a mixture of soybean meal, vegetable oil, and stilbestrol. Ten pounds of this premix, when incorporated into a ton of supplement provides the recommended amounts (10 milligrams per head daily) when the protein supplement containing the premix is fed in the normal amount to fattening cattle.

All feed manufacturers who have adequate mixing and control facilities and who can meet state and federal regulations can use the stilbestrol premix in cattle feeds. Many different cattle feeds containing stilbestrol are expected to be on the market.

"There seems to be no question about the economic value of feeding beef cattle a ration containing stilbestrol," Whittle says. "In tests at Iowa State college, cattle on a high corn fattening ration had increased gains up to 37 per cent when stilbestrol was included in the ration. Gains were stimulated by 10 to 15 per cent where cattle were being wintered to gain moderately. This was at a reduced feed cost of 10 to 20 percent. A saving of two to four cents per pound of liveweight beef gain was demonstrated in various tests. On a steer fed to gain 300 pounds this would amount to a saving of approximately $10 per head. For each dollar spent on supplements containing stilbestrol, about $9 will be returned when the cattle are sold."

Cattle fed stilbestrol are not discriminated against on the market and neither are they likely to bring a premium. Carcass yields are good. There is no evidence at present to show that it is advantageous to feed cattle weighing less than 600 pounds, however, it is known that it will not be harmful to them. Cattle tested thus far have been yearlings on feed approximately 112 days. Results when fed to younger cattle for longer periods are yet to be determined.

Here are some precautions to keep in mind if stilbestrol is to be fed:

1. Stilbestrol should not be fed to dairy cattle or beef cattle being used in breeding herds.
2. Stilbestrol should not be fed to sheep or swine since desirable feeding practices for these types of livestock have not been developed as yet.
3. Do not attempt to feed at higher levels than recommended. Ten milligrams per day is the most satisfactory level to feed.
4. Make certain the supplement feed you buy is properly labeled and approved by federal and state regulatory officials.

Foil Wrap Saves Much Time In Cooking Christmas Turkey

Want to shorten the time for cooking your Christmas turkey? Then try the aluminum foil method of roasting, suggests Janet Coblentz, nutritionist for the University of Maryland extension service. Although this method does save time, the slow roasting of turkey at a low temperature of 325 F. is preferred by many people and is highly recommended.

You'll have a cleaner oven at the end of Christmas day, since there is no spattering when you cook in aluminum foil. You find that the skin of the turkey is soft and not brown as when roasted in an uncovered pan. And the meat has a tendency to pull away from the bone.

Use the 18-inch medium weight foil since the household weight tears easily. If your turkey is large, join two lengths of foil together with a drugstore or lock fold. Press the fold flat and tight to keep drippings from leaking.

Now, here's the way to prepare the festive bird for roasting in foil: Rub the cavity of the ready-to-cook bird with salt. Stuff or not as you prefer. Tie the drumsticks to the tail, and press the wings to the body with tips flat against the sides of the breast.

Place the turkey in the center of the foil with 5 or 6 inches extending beyond each end of the bird. Bring one side of the foil snugly up and over the breast. Next bring the opposite side up and over, using a simple lap fold. The ends should overlap 2 to 3 inches.

The turkey is now ready to cook. Place the foil-wrapped bird breast up in a shallow pan into a very hot preheated oven (450 F.). Cook to within 15 to 20 minutes of the total cooking time. Remove from the oven and fold the foil back from the bird to the edges of the pan.

Return the turkey to the 450 F. oven and continue until done. Test for doneness by moving the drumstick up and down. If the drumstick moves easily and the meat feels very soft, the turkey is done. Or if you've cooked the bird with a meat thermometer, the bird is done when the thermometer reaches 185-190 F.

CHRISTMAS SEASON BRINGS ADDED FIRE HAZARDS

"Perhaps you never realized it but Christmas is a particularly dangerous time for your home and family," says Miss Louise Whitcomb, home management specialist at the University of Delaware.

"In addition to the normal winter hazards, there are the seasonal hazards of combustible objects like Christmas greens and trees, paper wrappings, and decorations, and the extra electrical wiring needed for electric trains, tree light, etc.," she adds.

Biggest holiday problem is the Christmas tree itself. Because it is full of pitch and resin, a fir tree is one of the most combustible objects known—and once ignited, it burns so rapidly it is just about impossible to extinguish.

Here are a few tips to minimize the danger of having a Christmas tree fire:

1. Place the tree in the coolest part of the house, away from fireplaces and radiators. Don't let it block an exit.
2. Never use cotton or paper for decoration on or around the tree.
3. Stand it in water, or use a live tree planted in a bit of earth.
4. Don't put electric trains under the tree.
5. Use only electric lights, never candles. And see that the wires are not frayed.
6. Provide a switch some distance from the tree for turning tree lights on and off. Don't plug or unplug them beneath the tree.
7. Throw away gift wrappings as soon as the presents are opened.
8. Don't leave tree lights burning when no one is home.
9. If needles near the lights turn brown, move the lights.
10. When needles start to fall, take the tree down and discard it.

This year, remember the holiday hazards and give thought to safety. It won't detract from the fun. Instead, it will help make sure the fun isn't spoiled.

Follow this timetable for roasting turkey in aluminum foil: Ready-to-cook Total Cooking weight (unstuffed) Time

3 to 4 lbs.	1 1/2 to 1 3/4 hrs.
4 to 6 lbs.	2 to 2 1/4 hrs.
7 to 10 lbs.	2 1/4 to 2 1/2 hrs.
10 to 12 lbs.	2 3/4 to 3 hrs.
14 to 16 lbs.	3 to 3 1/4 hrs.
18 to 20 lbs.	3 1/4 to 3 1/2 hrs.
22 to 24 lbs.	3 1/4 to 3 3/4 hrs.

If you prefer to roast the bird stuffed, add 20 minutes to the total roasting time for small turkeys weighing under 16 pounds and 30 minutes for those over that weight.

Plan your schedule so that the turkey is out of the oven 20 to 30 minutes before serving time. This gives the meat a chance to absorb the juices, and it will be easier to carve.

CARE OF WATER PUMP A VITAL TASK ON FARM

It's a rare sight anymore to see a farmer spending an hour or more on a cold winter morning, pumping water by hand for his livestock.

This is one of the unpleasant farm jobs that has been largely taken over by machinery. But if you fail to take proper care of the machine, you may find yourself laboring on a pump handle.

Al Krewatch, University of Maryland extension agricultural engineer, passes along some simple tips on avoiding the most common pump troubles.

"There is an oil level mark or plug on most water pumps," he says, "keep the oil level with the plug."

Another recommendation: Keep the stuffing box tight but not so tight that it increases the load on the motor. A good system is to tighten the stuffing box until the water stops leaking, then unscrew the nut a half-turn or more—until it leaks only two or three drops a minute. These drops are approximately the correct leakage, and will help to lubricate the shaft.

Ever tried roasted eggs? It's a different idea in egg cookery and can provide you with a new taste treat. Stick a needle into the large end of eggs, then lay them on the rack of an oven preheated to 325 F. Roast for 20 minutes. Cool, peel eggs, and serve. The flavor is different from water-cooked eggs.

By-Products May Cut Dairy Costs

By-products feeds may be the answer for Maryland dairymen who are looking for some way to cut down the feed bill and still provide an excellent ration.

Good examples of by-product feeds are molasses, citrus pulp, flour feeds and meals, wheat gluten by-products such as bran, red dog, and middlings, and fermentation products.

Dr. Richard F. Davis of the University of Maryland dairy department says two especially good buys right now are molasses and citrus pulp. "At present prices a dairyman has to pay $100 to buy as much energy in the form of corn as he can buy for $82 in the form of molasses and citrus pulp," Dr. Davis points out.

Citrus pulp is a dry, bulky feed that can be fed in any mixture. If high levels are fed, a small amount of extra protein is needed. Some successful feeders are using up to 40 per cent citrus pulp in grain mixes, using a pound of pulp to replace a pound of grain.

Molasses is sticky and harder to feed, but many individual feeders have developed ideas for handling the product under their particular circumstances. If molasses is fed at high levels some adjustments in the ration may be necessary to account for the fact that it has about two-thirds the energy content of mixed grains on a pound for pound basis. Molasses has no digestible protein and this must also be accounted for. Under normal conditions up to six to eight pounds of molasses per cow per day may be fed. How do cattle like these feeds? "Changing to any new feed may take a day or two but if changes are gradual cows soon get used to either of these feeds," Dr. Davis says. He adds that in the past citrus pulp was widely known as an unpalatable feed. "However, manufacturing difficulties have been overcome and a uniform pleasing product is now available. Cows really go for this type of feed."

APPLESAUCE IMPROVED! PRICE WILL JUMP

A process developed by U. S. Department of Agriculture scientists has made possible a new, improved applesauce. An essence made from by product peels and cores and added to the sauce produces a tangy, fresh flavor that lasts through months of storage.

Commercial production of this improved applesauce is expected after a satisfactory method is found for adding the essence in processing. The product will be slightly higher priced than ordinary applesauce.

Production costs on the Scott farm near Laurel have been kept low because tractor repairs have been minimized by son George, 15, who was awarded an all-expense trip to the National 4-H Club Congress in Chicago as a guest of the American Oil Company.

Delaware winner in the 4-H Tractor program, George has devoted two years to the study of tractor operation and maintenance. He has learned to do more and better work with his tractor and to appreciate and understand why care is necessary in maintaining farm machinery.

George is reporter of his local group and was a state winner on a Southern State Tour in 1953. His local leaders are Gladys Hearn and David Elliott.

The display was designed and constructed by a high school art class with additional help from other art classes, under the supervision of Earl R. Scheidt, art instructor at Caesar Rodney School.

Stokes' first grade was third with 96.4 per cent.

During November a total of 43 new students enrolled in school and 15 transferred out.

"Pumpkin Pine"
As a furniture wood, pine has been gaining increasing favor. Many pine pieces are being finished to simulate antique or Early American furniture. One of these finishes, known as "pumpkin pine" is a melon yellow color. One way of obtaining this finish is to apply a blend of orange shellac and light mahogany spirit stain. A final coat of straight orange shellac is applied before the finished surface is rubbed with 4/0 steel wool and waxed to a dull lustre.

The Creche

The triangular space, south of the railroad, has become a place of great interest and excitement. Junior and Senior High School art students participated in cutting and painting the figures for the creche, which now stands in this area.

After Sam Short approached us about this project, we readily accepted, not knowing the job had to be completed in one week. Mrs. Malek felt that a nativity scene would be appreciated several weeks before Christmas. On the other hand, we couldn't very well neglect other work already in progress. Despite the time limit, we decided that an exhibition of our work would be valuable from several different points of view and also a lot of fun.

We profited by reviewing color experiences which we had had before and also discovered new meanings which evidently had previously not been wider. Our interest in community life has increased and made us determine what should be done in the future. We hope that we contributed in a small way to the enjoyment and merriment of all who live and travel in Harrington.

Christmas Service

Last Friday evening, the Glee Club, Children's Choir, and the Dramatic Club presented their annual Community Christmas Service. The program consisted of Christmas selections, under the direction of Mr. Melvin Brobst and a play, "The Supreme Gift", given by the Dramatic Club, under the direction of Mrs. Kathleen Pollitt.

Miss Katherine Calloway, a senior soloist, sang "Cantique de Noel". Mr. Donovan, fifth grade teacher, sang "Nazareth". Both solo's were very much enjoyed.

So many parents and friends attended this festive occasion that our auditorium was completely filled.

Merry Christmas

The Press Club bids you all "Merry Christmas."

If you wish any other expression of joy at the Yuletide season, we suggest the following greetings:

- Glaedelic Jul ..... Denmark
- Hartelijke Kersgroeten... Holland
- Hauskaa Joulon..... Finland
- Joyeux Noel ..... France
- Buon Natale ..... Italy
- Felices Pascuas ..... Mexico

Our Cafeteria

Last Wednesday, our turkey dinner served at lunch time was a gala event in the cafeteria. Three times this year, there have been banquets for adults groups of the community or state. On October 10, the State Association, held a chicken salad luncheon; on November 4, the Interstate Milk Association had a turkey dinner and on November 18, the Delaware Association of the School Administrators held their dinner meeting.

On January 3 at 7:30 p. m., the Kent and Sussex Fair Association will enjoy its annual turkey dinner.

The satisfaction derived from these banquets is due to the efforts of Miss Hazel Johnson and her able assistants: Miss Lydia Johnson, Mrs. Arta Masten, and Miss Velma Steward.

Foil Fungus

Wood doesn't rot—it's eaten by living fungus growths and insects. For this reason, it's important to apply a first coat of wood preservative to all sides of wood which are in contact with moisture or soil. Also apply it to all sides of wood which are used to replace boards which have rotted. Among wood preservatives of this type are chlorinated phenols and copper naphthenate.

Most College Failures Laid to Lack of Incentive

Most student failures are due to limited ability but to "lack of motivation—a desire to learn," says Dr. John A. Perkins, University of Delaware president, in his annual report just released to the trustees.

Learning lacks appeal, he says, chiefly because students today grow up in a "social climate" which honors success on the athletic field or in social affairs more than it does intellectual achievement.

As a result, the university is "making a considerable effort to emphasize intellectualism in campus life as well as in the classroom," Dr. Perkins writes. Also, inside the classroom, beginning courses are being revamped to "capture interest and motivate students."

To stimulate greater campus interest in intellectual things, the university is broadening its program of visiting lecturers, concerts, art exhibits and theatre offerings.

Also, the student who succeeds academically will be singled out more often for special awards and honors. In commenting on his report, Dr. Perkins said, "Every college gymnasium has pictures of star athletes. Why not pictures of 'star' senior students in classrooms and lecture halls?"

Lately, the university has had some success in arousing interest in intellectual achievement by presenting trophies to dormitories whose students have the best collective grades.

Some of the trouble lies inside the classroom, Dr. Perkins adds. Student apathy toward scholastic accomplishment was disclosed in a study made during the past year, which showed that 40 per cent of the university's failures were freshmen and that sophomores accounted for another 30 per cent. This was despite the fact that entering students averaged 10 points above the national college norms in test ratings and had good high school records.

The problem, says Dr. Perkins, is not finding superior students but "challenging those we have." Students have little desire to learn, he maintains, because they were raised in communities "where adults often have little regard for intellectuality. Plaudits in home towns throughout our land are for the boy who makes the touchdown rather than for the boy who makes the highest grades in mathematics. The girl who twirls the baton is more complimented than the girl who writes superior prose."

Freshman and sophomore students often get discouraged and "bogged down" in basic courses which cover "what seems to them to be rote learning of formulae, definitions, vocabulary. Even students who do not fail devote but little of their potential to these basic courses. They do not discover the real joy of learning until their college days are half over and they are far into their 'major.' In such cases, the university is failing as well as the student."

Hence, the university is planning to revamp many beginning courses in English, mathematics and modern languages to "capture interest."

In view of the desperate need for trained teachers, scientists and educated citizens generally, Dr. Perkins said, universities are not justified in allowing intelligent but poorly motivated students to "fall by the wayside," especially when universities themselves are greatly at fault.

SULKY SLANTS

By Mrs. Dave (Pat) Smith
May I start this off with a big Merry Christmas to Everyone.

Gee, after so long it's like old home week. Just walking down the streets hurrying here and there.

First one to greet me, when I came back, was Mr. Rash in the People's Service Station. Then in walks Earl Thomas. So over a cup of coffee, I gather some news. Always a long chat with Mrs. Warrington.

Sorry Benny Moore has been delayed in showing up at his service station, though he has put in an appearance or two. Hope by Christmas you will be well. You, too, Mr. Wheeler. Reese Harrington, happy as a lark.

Teen Marshall—you couldn't get that big tree in your house you were looking at, at Acme Market.

Since they have started tearing down the grandstand out here, it looks like Harrington's race track is really going modern.

I think in all our traveling that as far as winter quarters, you can't beat our fairgrounds here.

Harry Littleton and John Schlegal and others do a good job keeping things going out here.

Our general manager, Brit Holloway, the same always willing to sit and listen to our gripes and this and that. Sometimes I wonder wouldn't he like to throw us all out. I hope not. But in my book, he's the tops.

Now, take Mrs. Thomas in the office, she, too, will stop working to talk and give you any information she can.

Earl, how you keep your horse transportation trucks so pretty and clean.

Booty Morris, your wreaths and trees are so pretty in your front yard.

Was over to visit Sam Short and wife and Sam's cashier, Betty. Gee, do they have the Christmas spirit.

And leave it to Irene to do her place up like Christmas. She is like me. Plenty of color.

As I go from place to place, everyone with the Christmas cheer. Take Betty Cain, Mr. Harrington, Mr. Chamberlin, the Blacks, the Collins, and everyone in the newsstand.

Now, above all, what do I get when I go to the Postoffice on a cold, rainy evening? A beautiful tabby cat that someone either cast off or it took it upon itself to wander off. Anyway, I asked Mr. Price, Sr., if it belonged to them. Oh, no. So I have him. If any reading this and has lost a pet, I have him.

My Colt, Dave bought from the Ralph Bowers of the Bohemia Point Farms, certainly is a corker. You see he is a replacement for the one I lost a couple years ago. "Roustabout." I'm waiting for the day I can drive him. Now, we have another Donald Truax filly out of our Anna Day. Even if she is mine, she is a wonderful filly. I'm looking forward to having a lot of fun with her.

Mr. Voss, our city policeman, I promise to have a nickel for a paper. Oh me.

Out here, there aren't too many stables in yet—the Workmans, Johnny Amato, Happy Gray, Olin Davis, Dupee, the Herringtons, Bobby Hobbs, Simpson, Emile

Adams, Ellis Myer, Paul Vineyard, Stokleys, Martin and Ralph Bowers.

If I've left anyone out, will catch up next week.

Right now, I, too, am off to take of my Christmas.

See you next week, Merry Christmas and Happy New Year to All.

Pat Smith

Felton School News

Wed., January 5, the fourth Student Council feature moving picture, "No Highway in the Sky," will be presented to the student body in assembly.

Improvements to the school plant already completed or planned for the near future include complete overhaul of window shades and installation of venetian blinds in the school office, Home Economics lab, nurses room and faculty lounge. New black-out drapes for the Vo. Ag. laboratory to permit the showing of films, replacement of a defective power line to the Industrial Arts shop and installation of adequate fluorescent lighting in all the elementary classrooms.

The elementary school Christmas concert and operetta set a new record for attendance at a single performance in Felton School. More than six hundred children and adults witnessed or participated in the performance. Gate receipts for the Music Department were more than $125. The program was the most ambitious ever attempted by the elementary school and was enthusiastically received by the audience. Ross M. Evans assisted by the elementary school teachers directed the program.

The vegetable specialist also points out that it might be very profitable to spend one day this winter taking soil samples. "It will take the guesswork out of buying fertilizer, and may show places where you can use considerably less fertilizer."

Soil sample cartons are available from county agents' offices.

Prepare For 1955 Gardens

Every spring, a few Maryland gardeners find out too late that the soil in their hot beds and cold frames is contaminated with soil-borne organisms that cause plant disease.

"Don't let this happen to you," urges University of Maryland extension vegetable specialist Andrew A. Duncan. "Take the first step now, or during the next few weeks, to get next year's gardening project off to a good start. Remove old soil from hot beds and cold frames and replace it with clean soil. If it is impractical to change the soil, then fumigate with steam or chemicals."

The new chemical methods of fumigating plant beds are easy and not too expensive. Chloropicrin and methyl bromide are two good chemicals.

There is an additional job to do in beds heated with hot-water pipes.

There is an additional job to do in bed heated with hot-water pipes. Duncan suggests that pipes be uncovered and a level laid on straight. If they aren't, air pockets them to make sure they are might develop and prevent the circulation of water.

"As a matter of fact, it's a good idea to check all type of heating systems Duncan adds. "Make sure your system is in good order, whether you have hot water, steam, electric or flue."

The vegetable specialist also points out that it might be very profitable to spend one day this winter taking soil samples. "It will take the guesswork out of buying fertilizer, and may show places where you can use considerably less fertilizer."

CONTROL DESTRUCTIVE MOTHS, SILVER FISH, CARPET BEETLES

Insects in the home are objectionable for various reasons. They infest and destroy practically all kinds of food materials; some eat holes in clothing, blankets, rugs and other fabrics, and do considerable damage to books.

Damage done by such insects as silver fish, carpet beetles and clothes moths on materials of animal or plant origin is especially noticeable at this time of year. The increased amounts of cereal food used during cold weather months also causes an increased infestation of flour beetles and grain beetles. Clothes moths and carpet beetles probably cause more financial loss in the home than any other insect. When in the larval stage, clothes moths feed on all kinds of dry materials of animal origin, such as wool, fur and feathers. The full grown larva is about 1/2 inch long, practically hairless, and white, except for the dark heads.

Like the clothes moth, the carpet beetle feeds on rugs, furs, and woollens. The carpet beetle larva has an elongated—oval shape about 1/4 inch long and have brownish or black bristles that give them a fuzzy appearance.

The silver fish do most of their damage in the adult stage. It is a 1/2 inch long glistening silver or pearl gray insect which is characterized by three long projections at the end of the body. Because of its ability to hide quickly, the silver fish is seldom seen except when caught in bathtubs or other receptacles. It feeds mainly on starch and does most serious damage to book bindings in order to get the starch and glue therein. It will also eat any clothing or piece of goods which contains starch or size.

All three of these insects are controlled by using 10 per cent DDT dust or 5 per cent solution of DDT in deodorized kerosene. Spray closets and all crack around baseboards, bookcases, door and window facings, and mantels. At least one-half pint of material should be used for the usual large closet. Drawers or chests where blankets and other woollens are kept should also be sprayed. A treatment lasts about two years.

Woollens should be dusted with 10 per cent DDT every year. When storing blankets and other woollens, carpet beetles and clothes moths can be controlled by using one-pound naphthalene or paradichlorobenzene for each trunkful. Rugs and carpets can be preserved by treating with a 5 per cent DDT kerosene spray every twelve to eighteen months. Use one and a half to two quarts of spray on a 9 x 12 rug.

INCOME TAX SHORT COURSES SCHEDULED FOR JANUARY

A Farmer's Income Tax Short Course has been planned for each county of the state, according to George M. Worrlow, Dean of the School of Agriculture, University of Delaware.

The short courses are sponsored jointly by the School of Agriculture, the State Tax Department and the Wilmington Office of the Federal Internal Revenue Service. The purpose of the meeting is to discuss the 1954 revisions of the federal tax law and the 1953 income tax law.

The place and dates of the meetings are the Middletown Firehouse, Monday, January 10; Georgetown High School, Tuesday, January 11; and Capitol Grange Hall, Dover, Wednesday, January 12. All meetings will start at 8:00 p. m.

"Farmers should be well acquainted with the existing federal and state income tax laws and regulations so they know their just deductions as well as their taxable income," suggests Dean Worrlow.

A copy of the program may be obtained by contacting the county agricultural agents or by writing the Agricultural Short Course Office, University of Delaware, Newark.

How to Wash 'Fake' Leather

If you should acquire a simulated leather coat or jacket during the holidays, you'll welcome a little "know-how" about the fabric and how to care for it.

According to clothing specialist, Lavonia Hilbert, University of Maryland extension service, simulated leather is a term used to describe the thermosynthetic resin coated fabrics. It has the appearance, feel and pliability of genuine leather. This fabric is also known as fake, artificial or imitation leather.

These fabrics have certain uses and characteristics which make them adaptable to a variety of garment styles and trimmings. They are also used in vests, sportswear and accessories.

Simulated leather is soft and pliable, regardless of climatic temperature changes. It is scuff resistant, wind-proof, non-inflammable, washable, and tear and stain resistant.

Miss Hilbert points out that simulated garments that are unlined or combined with washable fabrics can be wet cleaned or washed by hand successfully. Some types of simulated leather tend to become stiff and hard when dry cleaned.

Jackets and coats that have lining fabric and trim such as rayon, wool or mouton may or may not be dry cleaned successfully. If you plan to send your garment to the dry cleaner, it is a good idea to consult with him about the cleaning method to be used.

Remember, if you are considering buying simulated leather garments or accessories, that you will get the most wear and satisfaction from ones that are unlined or combined with washable fabrics. Be sure to check labels or specific instructions on care.

Ever try currant jelly with whipped cream on top, over your favorite pumpkin pie? After it comes piping hot out of the oven, serve it to your holiday guests with this unusual topping. It's delicious.
