Erection of the Kent & Sussex Fairgrounds' new grandstand will start next week, T. Brinton Holloway, general manager of the fairgrounds, said Tuesday.

Mr. Holloway said the foundations for the structure had been poured, and that three carloads of steel and 33 barrels of bolts had arrived. The grandstand is scheduled to be completed in time for the fair in late July.

The Art Building, just east of the grandstand, is being moved out and modern restrooms will be constructed on the site. The cupola of the building has been purchased by Fount Billings. The remainder of the building is being moved by Hardy Foraker, a wrecker.

The Fair Association is constructing an Art Building next to the Agricultural Building. The new building is being constructed of cinder block. It will be 124 feet long and 30 feet wide.

Sulky Slants

By MRS. DAVE (PAT) SMITH

THANK YOU for the beautiful beautiful bouquet of daffodils you gave Dave and I for Easter. Dr. Chipman, what kind of a send-off did Ellis II give you, when you left the trailer? Gosh, would I love to put it in print.

Sure miss little Judy Davis out here at the track, since Olin and Ruth have moved to their new home.

Doug is again able to help Dave jog horses. Certainly coming along fine since returning from the hospital.

Who is the busiest gal out at the track? — Mickey Workman. And what would Crockett do without Winnie?

Mr. Dupee getting his horses ready for the opening in Canada. Millard Hodge will also campaign his own two horses in Canada this year. Mrs. Hodge has joined her husband to travel to Canada with him this summer.

Mr. Slater plans to race his stable of horses in Hamburg this year.

Bobby Hobbs, your horses look like you are really going places this year.

Rose and Roland Herrington busy as bees with their horses. Harry, does that shirt-tail out make the horses go faster? Emil and Harry really giving a pair a work-out.

Try and get a place to park around the fence on pretty days at the big track. Sure looks good to see so many out.

Charley Sutton, who has been on the sick list this spring, is on his way to recovery.

You know it really looks like spring is here. Passed Mrs. Stokley's trailer and her trailer awning was up — chairs and all out.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Bowers will open in Hamburg this year and then to Saratoga. Gosh, wish we were racing in Saratoga again.

Dave and I raced six years there. The most beautiful raceway anywhere, unless out in California.

Dave will make the Brandywine Raceway this fall. Gosh, that's a break, as we nearly freeze up there in Batavia in October. Won't be so far to come home.

Harry Littleton and grandson Jean, or "Punkin' Head," as Harry calls him, out helping Harry to grade the track and road. Harry is starting him off young. Wonder what Betty thinks of it?

Gosh, the cutest little like out here is Mr. Schegle's little grandson, Kem. Certainly isn't afraid of the horses. I don't think he is but two years old. But he's a pistol.

Mr. Holloway Sr. tells me in the newspaper store yesterday that all the speed isn't out here at the racetrack. Just go out to Killen's Pond on Sundays for the thrills.

If you really are interested in a good looking speedboat, go down to the Taylor Awning and Boat Store next to People's Service Station.

CLERK AT FREDERICA BEATEN; SUSPECT IS CAPTURED BY POLICE

A 43-year-old clerk was attacked and brutally beaten as she worked alone in a small variety store at Frederica Tuesday afternoon and state police, climaxing a swift and extensive manhunt, Tuesday night arrested a man they said admitted being her assailant.

The victim, whose name was not disclosed by police, still was in Kent General Hospital at Dover Tuesday night, suffering deep lacerations of the scalp, a possible back injury, an arm injury, and severe shock.

Her alleged assailant, identified as 26-year-old Nicholas Barnes, a Florida native who has been working on oyster boats at Bowers Beach for the past two years, was taken into custody at 9:30 p.m., while he was visiting at the home of friends in Canterbury.

Police reported that the man, admitting the assault, told them his motive was robbery.

Suspicion pointed to Barnes shortly after the manhunt began and police, told that he might go to the home of his friends at Canterbury, immediately began to watch the house.

The attack at Frederica, occurred early in the afternoon. The woman was alone in the store of Thomas Spurry, by whom she is employed, when the man entered a few minutes before noon, state police said their investigation showed.

The supposed customer said he wanted to buy a pair of trousers and the saleswoman went to the back of the deep store to get a pair in the size he gave.

Century Club To Again Sponsor Cancer Fund Drive

At a recent meeting of the Harrington New Century Club, the president, Mrs. Oscar T. Nemesh, announced that the club would again sponsor the 1955 American Cancer Society drive for funds. The drive will continue through April.

Cancer is the No. 2 killer in our nation and it is estimated that if present rates continue cancer will strike one in four Americans. Last year 75,000 men, women and children were saved from dying of cancer by early detection and prompt treatment.

Research and care of cancer patients is expensive, and your contribution is needed.

A part of each dollar donated remains in the Delaware Division for use in this State. In 1954, the Delaware Division spent $14,475 in our State for needy cancer patients. Services furnished were: home and hospital care, visiting nurses, drugs, sickroom supplies, transportation, dressings and operation of cancer detection clinics.

Please avail yourself of this free service provided by the cancer clinic or visit your physician twice each year.

Howard Wagner, of Peoples Bank in Harrington, is treasurer of the Harrington committee.

Members of the committee will call on you for your contribution, however, should a member fail to reach you, your donation may be made directly to the Peoples Bank of Harrington or deposited in the Cancer Fund boxes, which have been placed in many of our local stores.

Delaware's quota for 1955 is $80,000. Please help your city and State to meet their goal, so we may be ready to help our own and pay our part to further research for cancer.

A full list of committee members will be published next week.

Harrington High Band In Spring Concert April 22

The Harrington High School band will give its annual Spring concert next Friday evening, April 22, in the school auditorium, beginning at 8:00 o'clock.

The program this year will be in a different vein from former years in that it will feature as its guest soloist a member of the school faculty, Leon Donovan, who will present a short song recital. Mr. Donovan, a graduate of the George Peabody College for Teachers in Nashville, Tenn., is well known for his appearances at local churches and community functions both in Harrington and Milford.

Appearing on the same program will be the singing of the High School Chorus in two numbers, an arrangement of Grandfather's Clock, and Vincent Youmans' Hallelujah, from Hit the Deck.

In addition to the regular standard marches and selections, the band will join with Mr. Donovan's rendition of Drake and Shirl's One God as the final number of the program.

The program for the evening appears rather interesting, and a large audience is expected to attend. Tickets are now on sale and can be purchased from any member of the band, or they can be procured at the door on the evening of the concert.

KENT OFFICIAL'S STORE ROBBED

The hardware store of Grafton R. Heather in Hartly was broken into early last Friday morning and a shotgun, a quantity of ammunition of various types, and a chain saw, valued at a total of $350, were stolen.

State police, investigating the burglary, learned that a neighbor had heard glass crash about 1:30 a.m., but because of a strong wind thought it was glass blown out by the wind.

The loot included a .410-gauge single-barrel shotgun, a case of 12-gauge shotgun shells, 15 boxes of 410-gauge shotgun shells, six boxes of 12-gauge rifle slugs which are used for deer hunting, the chain saw, which weighs 22 pounds and 100 boxes of .22 calibre cartridges, with 50 in each box.

No money or equipment of the store was taken.

Mr. Heather is Kent County register in chancery and clerk of the orphans court.

Another Special Election Today on Water Tower

The electorate of Harrington will vote today on a proposed bond issue, for $60,000, to provide funds for an overhead water tank with a capacity of 200,000 gallons, necessary connecting lines, and new water pumps. The election will be from noon until 4 p.m.

At the special election every person who had a right election shall have one vote for every dollar and fractional part of a dollar of tax paid by him or her during the year preceding the election, and the vote may be cast in person, or by proxy.

GREENWOOD ORGANIZES C. OF COMMERCE

Greenwood's reactivated Chamber of Commerce held its first meeting in the fire house Tuesday evening, and 21 members attended, it was reported this week by President Ebe Reynolds, in charge of the session.

Reynolds pointed out that he hopes to have all committees appointed by the next meeting, which will be held May 10. The businessmen hope to participate fully in further development of the community and in civic enterprises, they said.

The speaker at the initial meeting was Miles L. Frederick, director of the State Development Department. Frederick congratulated the members on their renewed interest in community affairs and assured them co-operation.

He pointed out, however, how necessary it is for the local community to develop its own source of material so that other agencies will have access to them. If a suitable business location is available, such information should be forwarded for consideration by firms inquiring for spots in the state. A close check also should be kept, he said, on the available labor market.

"Your people are in a position to know how many men and women want employment or would accept it if a new industry were to come your way. Often we need that information before a company will even bother to look at a site or building. Your co-operation in this field will help us immensely."

Frederick then told the group about plans for "Delaware in Springtime," and pointed out that Winterturk Museum would be open for its spring tours from April 19 through May 29; Dover Days will be observed on Saturday and Sunday, May 7 and 8, and New Castle Day is set for Sat., May 21.

It was pointed out that because of the state's historic treasures, many national publications are featuring articles and photographs of interesting places. This week's issue of Life Magazine is featuring photos of Winterturk.

They have a daughter, Mrs. Dorothy Willey, of Harrington, and a son, Walter Jr., who lives three miles north of town, employed by Sussex Finance Co.

Carpenter Foreman Frank Hobbs and his crew, quartered in the camp-train south of the tower, is doing a spring house-cleaning job on the station and surrounding buildings. His program calls for a complete face-lifting of the station itself; the red brick will be painted battleship gray, in line with PRR standards and to guard against being mistaken for B&O.

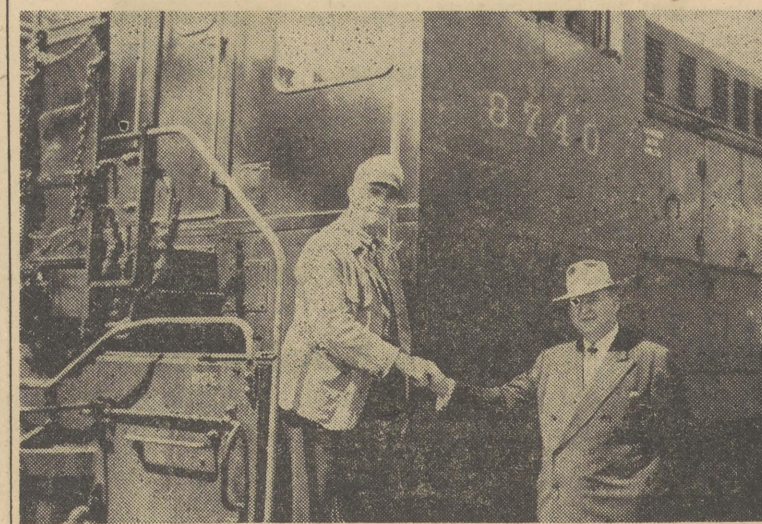

The writer was asked recently, by a certain prominent resident, what railroad he represented. When told, "There is only one railroad," he said, "Remember, I grew up around Baltimore."

Hence the change. An Army order restricting the use of the Salisbury Armory for certain kinds of functions, made it impossible for our regular safety rally and oyster party, as there was no other building centrally located, big enough to accommodate such an elaborate affair.

Rumors have it that he will be a former Harrington supervisor, so we can feel assured he will be all right and may still remember the names and times of some of the horses.

Regardless of who it might be, he is going to have a tough time filling the shoes of Kirk Werden, who is leaving behind more friends in all departments, on and off the railroad, than has been customary heretofore.

Walt Lekites Retires

Engineman Walt Lekites retires after 42 years' service. He is being congratulated here by M. M. Quinn, road foreman of engines.

Mr. Werden, Delmarva Division engineer at Cape Charles, has been promoted to system division engineer in the office of the chief engineer of the system in Broad Street, Philadelphia, effective today. The name of his successor had not yet been made official when this went to press, but will appear in the next issue.

Rumors have it that he will be a former Harrington supervisor, so we can feel assured he will be all right and may still remember the names and times of some of the horses.

Regardless of who it might be, he is going to have a tough time filling the shoes of Kirk Werden, who is leaving behind more friends in all departments, on and off the railroad, than has been customary heretofore.

next week is the time to get them off your mind.

The five-day period, April 18 to 22, has been designated as "Know Your Bank Week." Nearly all banks throughout the state are planning open house programs on the evening of Thursday, April 21.

"We bankers hope we will be badgered with questions all week," says Edward B. Green, president of the Delaware Bankers Association, which is sponsoring the event.

"The fact is people in banks are ready to answer questions at any time, but we have set aside this week to encourage our friends and customers to come in and get information on how we can help them.

"Frequently, people ask questions like: How do I get a loan? ... How do I open a checking account? ... How do I stop payment on a check? ... What does a bank actually do with my money? ... How does it protect its cash? ... What is meant by a certified check?"

"During 'Know Your Bank Week' questions like these can not only be discussed but the actual operations involved can be demonstrated right in the bank," Mr. Green said.

He advised everyone to ascertain the exact time when his local bank is planning its open house and make every effort to attend.

"We want people to see for themselves how a bank functions. If you have been curious about those massive vaults, come in and see them work. Watch the ingenious machines that count money, sort checks and perform scores of complicated chores. Trained staff members will be on hand to answer questions."

In addition to open houses, many banks will hold exhibits and conduct special tours for school classes and other groups during the week.

SEVERAL FLY-BAIT NEW ON MARKET

When flies did the seemingly impossible and developed a resistance to the modern miracle insecticide DDT, agricultural scientists scurried back to their laboratories to find another and better method of killing the familiar pest. Fly baits, combining an old principle with the use of new chemical insecticides, are proving to be the best means of meeting this problem.

Several fly-bait materials that are effective in killing resistant flies are now on the market, reports George Vapaa, county agricultural agent.

Malathion and diazinon, two new insecticides that are good for this purpose, may be purchased separately or in prepared fly baits. Either way, directions for use will be supplied by the manufacturer and should be carefully followed.

Another effective chemical, Bayer 13/59, is available only in a prepared bait (Dipterex).

SLOW MILKING MAY BE CAUSED BY CLOGGING OF PIPELINES

Some of the cows in your herd may be slower in milking out than you think they should. Perhaps it isn't old bossy's fault—it is possible that the vacuum line between the stall cock and the vacuum pump is partially clogged. "A free flow of air is absolutely essential to the proper operation of the milking machine," says John P. Dietrich, University of Maryland Extension dairyman. "If the pipeline is partially plugged up you can't have a free flow of air and you can't expect the milking machine to do a very efficient job."

A broken inflation or failure to empty the milker pail in time will occasionally draw a little milk into the pipeline where it oozes and forms a lump of cheese. Changing temperatures in the barn causes condensation inside the pipeline. Dirt, flies and insects that gain entrance to the pipeline can partially or completely clog the air line and slow down the milking process.

Some lines need to be cleaned more often than others, but to be on the safe side they should be cleaned at least once each year. Milking machine service men can do the job, but a dairyman can do it himself without any special equipment.

To clean out the pipeline, about 14 quarts of hot water and a can of lye is needed. One can of lye in 14 quarts of hot water is a strong solution, so care is essential. If some of this solution is accidentally splashed on your hands or face, it must be washed off immediately with cold water to prevent injury.

Dietrich says the first step is to fasten down the relief valve and start the vacuum pump. "Put a vacuum hose on the stall cock furthest from the pump and drop the other end into the lye solution. Lift the hose out of the solution occasionally to let air into the pipeline. Eventually the lye water will be drawn into the vacuum tank."

"Now walk toward the pump and open each stall cock for a few seconds, then close it and go on to the next one. When you have reached the stall cock nearest the pump leave it open and stop the pump. To complete the job, put an empty pail under the vacuum tank and drain out the solution. This is likely to be a sour, smelly mess and in addition it contains lye, so be careful. Empty the contents of the pail where children and animals will not come in contact with it. After the lye solution has been drained from the tank flush the pipeline and tank by running through several quarts of clean water to which a dairy cleanser has been added."

LIGHTNING RODS REDUCE HAZARDS

The lightning storm season will soon be here again, and with it the hazard of livestock losses in pastures and the damage or loss of farm buildings by lightning.

Such losses are largely preventable, says A. V. Krewatch, Extension agricultural engineer at the University of Maryland. Wire fences on wood posts should be grounded at regular intervals of 10 rods or so by means of a length of No. 10 or heavier wire thrust into the ground at least to post depth, and stapled tightly across each intersecting wire along the post.

Pasture trees under which cows like to gather during storms can be protected with lightning rods extending to the top of the tree and having the usual ground at a depth at which the earth is always moist.

Properly rodded buildings are seldom struck and rarely destroyed by lightning.

The correct installation of a lightning rod system calls for technical information and only reputable and experienced dealers should be entrusted to do the work, Krewatch insists. Now is the time to check connections where down conductors join grounding rods, at points where breaks might occur and see that all connections are well made and tight.

DPIA Members To Discuss New Poultry Practices

Kent County DPIA members will discuss new developments in poultry laying practices and New York poultry marketing practices at the next regular monthly meeting, Thursday, April 21, at the Caesar Rodney School, at 8 p.m.

Several people are very much interested in cage layers—a method of management whereby culling can be more closely practiced. The program is proving extremely popular in California and in the south. There will, also, be a slide talk discussion on the new Penn State poultry house that allows a poultryman to keep two birds where normally one bird has been kept. The method calls for a system of forced ventilation, the use of artificial lights and thermopane glass. The program will emphasize the advantages and disadvantages which might apply.

Nine Kent County people went on the poultry marketing tour to New York City on April 4 and 5, and pictures taken on the tour will be shown and explained at the meeting. Those who attended from Kent County include the following: Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Bleckman of Hartly, Mr. and Mrs. DeMarie of Dover, Mr. and Mrs. Parks of Harrington, Charles Peck Jr. of Harrington, John Clough of Dover, and George K. Vapaa, Kent County agricultural agent, of Dover. While in New York, the group visited the latest electric kitchen, Macy's Fancy Foods Department, the Women's Feature Department of the Herald-Tribune, several stores selling barbecue chicken, the Washington Street wholesale markets, the Mercantile Exchange, a TV show featuring chicken, several promotional concerns and retail department stores. A similar trip is planned for April 25 and 26. Poultrymen who would like to go are encouraged to call Dover 2621 for reservations as soon as possible.

From where I sit... by Joe Marsh

Learn How to Pull Together

Saw a kid go by the Clarion office on a brand-new coaster wagon yesterday—and it reminded me of when my brother and I were about forty years younger. Our folks weren't poor, but there wasn't enough to buy two wagons for Christmas. We got one between us. Dad made a rule that we each could have it for a week—but the boy with the wagon was responsible for keeping the kitchen wood-box filled. Seemed a bargain to Bud and me—at first. But soon we discovered it was no more fun playing alone than working alone. It wasn't long before we were sharing the wagon in return for sharing the chores. From where I sit, you can't enjoy a privilege yourself if you're going to deny it to others. There are some folks who want the right to enjoy their favorite beverage—but would deny me my right to an occasional glass of beer. I doubt if such people get their full "share" of happiness, though.

WHEN THE SHOE IS ON THE OTHER FOOT IT'S DIFFERENT

At first glance one might term some of the impending legislation at Dover, as "ripper," that is, laws and statutes designed to give a political party ascendancy, without regard to public need.

On a second look, however, the so-called "ripper" legislation might be termed "corrective," in that it is correcting "ripper" legislation enacted in past years by the G.O.P.

Certainly, the situation should be considered on a calm, factual basis. In such a discussion, it should be remembered that members of the various legislatures, as well as the governors involved, were the elected representatives of the electorate of Delaware.

It should also be remembered that the Democratic party has elected only two governors in the 20th century, for a total of eight years, and did not have a majority in the legislature during these administrations.

Therefore, any effort to perpetuate a one-party rule in Delaware must be charged to the Republican party. Many statutes governing the voting of the citizens of Delaware are a result of the above-mentioned effort and should be corrected by the present Democratic majority legislature.

With the control of executive and legislative branches of the state government, the Republican party was not satisfied with that, but reached into county governmental operation to thwart the will of the voters.

During the administration of Gov. C. D. Buck, a Republican controlled legislature passed a statute setting up the present Kent County Levy Court districts to perpetuate control. They conceded the Third Levy Court District to the Democratic party by placing the Third, Fourth, Sixth and Ninth Representative Districts in it. At that time the composition of the other two Levy Court districts was strongly Republican, hence assuring them control.

This was so obviously "ripper" that Gov. Buck refused to sign the bill. This gerrymandering had more success in Gov. Bacon's Republican administration and was passed and signed into law.

The innovation, however, backfired, with the Democrats in control of all Levy Court districts.

Also, during the Gov. Bacon administration, the Sussex County prison farm and other county buildings were taken from the elected Democratic Levy Court and placed in the hands of the Republican judiciary by a state law.

The present legislature has "corrected" this "ripper" legislation and returned the farm and county buildings to the control of the elected representatives of the voters of Sussex County.

The then famous New Castle County Board of Elections legislation was passed in 1939 by a Republican legislature over the veto of Democratic Gov. McMullin. Since then, during Gov. Bacon's administration, various pieces of legislation have been passed to perpetuate control of elections to the Republican party. The present Democratic legislature should pass "corrective" legislation to assure honest elections. The Republicans call this "ripper" legislation.

During Gov. McMullin's Democratic administration, the Republican-controlled legislature of 1939 passed over the executive's veto, this vicious "ripper" giving the Republicans control of the then separated State Highway Department and Motor Vehicle Department.

The legislature was able to do this because of the untimely death of Democratic Senator Daniel Kelly. The then Republican sheriff in New Castle County refused to hold the election on Saturday, in the strong working man Democratic district, but held it on Monday at which time many hundreds of voters were deprived of their right to vote because they could not reach the polls.

Certainly, the present Democratic-controlled legislature is fully justified in passing "corrective" legislation. Incidentally, it has been stated many times that the election of the Republican successor to Senator Kelly was the most corrupt one ever held in Wilmington.

But now, as a Democratic legislator so aptly said the other day, "The chickens have come home to roost."

Harrington Brownie News

March was a very busy month for our Brownies. All three troops took part in the cookie sale, selling a total of 437 boxes. Joanne Hart of Troop 131 led the Brownie sales with 119 boxes sold. Troop 21 made candy boxes and cream candy, decorated with tinted coconut, for their mothers at Easter.

Troops 131 and 127 are sewing a surprise for their mothers. It is surprising how well these third and fourth graders are mastering the needles and thread.

The American Auxiliary sponsors these Brownie troops. On Saturday they sponsored an Easter party at the Legion Home for the Brownies. From 2 p.m. to 4 p.m. the girls were entertained by a three-divided egg hunt games and prizes. Then they were served refreshments.

Mrs. John Marshall, district director, held a meeting in Harrington last week to plan a Girl Scout rally for this district. The following committee attended: Mrs. Wineburg, Mrs. Stauffer and Mrs. O'Day from Felton, Mrs. Fischer, Mrs. Charles Lundstedt and Mrs. Frank Clendaniel Jr. of Milford, Mrs. Norman Brown and Mrs. B. Norman Hopkins of Harrington. Mrs. Frank Clendaniel Jr. was appointed chairman.

U. of D. Summer School To Feature Visiting Teachers

Two visiting instructors for the University of Delaware summer school program have been announced by Dean William O. Penrose, director of the summer session.

A special feature of the extension course offerings at Rehoboth Beach will be the course, "Community School," to be taught by Dr. T. M. Stinnett, executive secretary of the National Commission on Teacher Education and Professional Standards.

Registration for this course, a part of the August 1-19 extension program in Rehoboth High School, will be held on the first day of the class in the high school cafeteria.

Dr. Stinnett's course concerns effective co-operation between schools and their supporting communities for the improvement of social living.

He has previously taught in the graduate schools of the University of Arkansas and the University of Texas and has twice been a member of the summer school faculty of Arkansas State Teachers College.

Medill Bair, prominent lecturer on education and regional superintendent of the Pennsylvania Schools of Fallington, Pa., will offer two summer courses, "Public Relations in Education" and "School Organization and Administration."

The study of public relations in education concerns the principles, purposes, relationships, values, approaches and procedures in school public relations as well as the function of the child, board, public, superintendent and other school personnel.

"School Organization and Administration," provides a general introduction to the administration of schools and is designed for administrators, supervisors, staff specialists and teachers.

A resident of Newtown, Pa., Mr. Bair has taught at the University of Delaware for two summers and three times in extension during the regular academic year.

An exhibition of African Negro art and contrasting pieces of Icelandic art is now being shown in the art gallery of the memorial library on the University of Delaware campus in Newark. The exhibition, under the sponsorship of the Cultural Activities Committee, is open to the public without charge and will continue through May 5.

The various items exhibited comprise the private collection of Prof. Earl Parker Hanson, chairman of the Department of Geography and Geology. The African items include ceremonial masks and other carvings in wood and ivory, metal castings, and a large collection of textiles—including several cotton fabrics made in Manchester for the African trade, but designed by West African native artists. The Icelandic collection consists largely of wood carvings dating back to Iceland's days of colonial travail, several homespun and home-woven textiles, a wedding dress, and a permanent, demountable Icelandic Christmas tree.

On the evening of Friday, April 22, the memorial library of the University of Delaware will be the scene of a lecture by the distinguished American Studies specialist, Prof. E. Sculley Bradley of the University of Pennsylvania. The program will begin at 8:15 p.m. and Prof. Bradley's subject will be "Leaves of Grass, a Century's Unfolding of Whitman's Meaning."

The lecture is being offered under the auspices of the friends of the University of Delaware Library as part of the library's celebration of the centennial of the publication of Walt Whitman's great poem, "Leaves of Grass."

The university library itself is sponsoring an exhibition of Whitman materials taken from its own collections and on loan from individuals and other institutions, which will continue through April 30. The public is invited to participate in both these events.

Veterans News And Answers To Questions

Q—I am taking on-the-job training under the Korean GI Bill. Although I have not completed my training, my employer has increased my pay so that now I am receiving the beginning wages paid to a fully-trained worker. Does that mean my GI allowance will be cut off?

A—Not necessarily. Your GI allowance will not stop, so long as it is established that you still are a trainee in all respects except pay.

Q—Is it possible to collect GI unemployment pay at the same time I am enrolled in school under the Korean GI Bill? Since I am in school, I am not working.

A—No, it is not possible, under the law, to obtain GI unemployment allowances while you are enrolled in training under the Korean GI Bill. Although you may not be working, you are drawing monthly GI training allowances from the government.

Q—I am entitled to increased disability compensation pay by reason of my dependents. What does VA consider as the effective date of those increased payments?

A—The effective date of increased payments because of dependents is the date on which VA receives evidence establishing entitlement to the extra pay.

Q—A veteran-friend of mine who had been getting a pension somehow failed to send VA his annual income questionnaire. As a result, his pension has been stopped. If he now sends the questionnaire to VA, and if his income is below the legal maximum, will the payments be resumed?

A—If he returns the questionnaire within one year from the date it was originally sent to him, he will receive his pension payments all the way back to the date they were cut off. If he waits longer than one year, the payments will begin as of the date of receipt of the questionnaire or the date a new claim is filed. All this presupposes that the veteran's income is below the legal maximum for a pension.

Predicting that Michigan may pass Ohio in size of population before the end of the century, the State Health Department says Michigan grew 7.5 per cent to 6,851,000 while Ohio, the sixth most populous State, grew only 6.7 per cent to 8,482,000 between 1950 and 1953.

GOOD RECORDS HELP IN MAKING TAX RETURN

Homemakers of many farm families keep the farm accounts. It's a task that is necessary because of income tax. Yet, many homemakers dread the thought of keeping records so much, that they neglect the home accounts.

"Keeping records isn't so frightening . . . just remember that an account is simply the listing of expenditures made for the farm and home throughout a given period"—this thought is offered by Joanne W. Reitz, home management specialist with the University of Maryland Extension Service. She believes that the job need not take a great deal of time.

"Let's make it a painless process," she points out, "and consider these suggestions:"

1. Have a regular time of the day or week for keeping your account book. Make it as much a part of your homemaking routine as washing the dishes.

2. Save sales slips from the store, receipts from payment of doctor, dentist, garage bills, etc. When it is an expenditure for which a sales slip or receipt is not given, jot down the amount. Unless you have a better memory than most, that amount will not become a part of your record otherwise.

3. Select a book or make one which meets the needs of your family. List as many of the large expenditure headings as possible—food, clothing, car expense, household expenses, personal items, church and other donations, insurance, etc. The account should be simple to start with and enlarged as you use it.

4. Make a separate page for each month.

5. Make a summary sheet in back of book. At the end of the month total the columns and transfer to the summary sheet.

It has been said that there are few people who cannot actually add 30 to 50 per cent to their earnings by doing a better job of spending. Certainly, having an account of how that money is spent is the first step in getting more for each dollar and adding to earnings. And Miss Reitz thinks the homemaker will be amazed with the results at the end of the year.

HONEY BEE 4-D CLUB REPORTS ON MEETING

The meeting of the Honey Bee 4-H Club was called to order by our 4-H club agent, Mrs. MacDonald. We elected the following officers:

President, Eloise Brown; vice-president, Carole Ann Sharp; secretary, Kay Bowdle; treasurer, Billy Ray Collison; reporter, Jean Outten; recreation, Gladys Welch and Irene Brown.

The treasurer's report was $49.37. We decided to buy two new flags—one the 4-H flag and the other the American flag. Each member will also receive a 4-H sign, and Mr. Collins will get a leader's sign. The club also decided to change the name from Vernon Honey Bee to Honey Bee 4-H. Our meetings will be held the first Thursday of each month. The dues will be 10 cents per person each month. There were 22 present.

Mrs. MacDonald talked to us about our projects and coming events such as 4-H camp, short course, and the speaking contest. She gave each one of us a calendar and a program book.

The meeting was adjourned and delicious refreshments were served by Mrs. Collins. We are happy to welcome Mr. and Mrs. Robert Collins as our new leaders.

Studies Police Methods At Northwestern Univ.

In order to improve the personnel management of the Delaware Memorial Bridge police force, Sgt. Scott W. Rees recently completed a two-week course on the subject at Northwestern University, Evanston, Ill., it was announced this week by Charles T. Gallagher Jr., general manager.

Sgt. Rees received a certificate at the end of his course and Ray Ashworth, acting director of the Traffic Institute at Northwestern, commended him for his "sustained interest and application during the period of instruction." Seven hours daily were spent in class, plus evening study devoted to review of notes and completion of reading assignments, which Mr. Ashworth said constituted a rigorous schedule.

"As a result of his study," Mr. Ashworth informed Mr. Gallagher, "your officer is equipped to help you improve your department personnel management activities."

Sgt. Rees will present a written report of study on the course and will offer suggestions and recommendations to Mr. Gallagher for improvement of services in the bridge police department, it was pointed out.

The goal of the course, Mr. Gallagher said, is to give department representatives an understanding of personnel management, principles and methods, tried, tested in business and industry and some few departments, for their effectiveness in improving the quality and quantity of work conducted by people.

Mr. Gallagher commended Sgt. Rees for his application to the course and said he felt sure that it would reflect in improved services at Delaware Memorial Bridge.

PROPER HANDLING OF LIVESTOCK IN TRANSIT INCREASES PROFITS

Maryland livestock producers can increase profits by reducing the number of injuries to animals enroute to market.

Fewer shipping injuries increase profits in two ways, according to Amos R. Meyer, livestock marketing specialist in the Department of Markets, University of Maryland Extension Service. He says better handling would lower insurance rates and increase market prices.

"Producers who seek to protect themselves from losses by insuring their animals for the haul from farm to market often do not realize that the cost of this protection is based upon transit loss experience," Meyer explains. "Faulty practices in handling animals result in unnecessarily high charges for insurance protection."

Buyers often discount stock from a producer with a poor record on bruise losses, the marketing specialist adds, because damage not detected until after slaughter represents a loss to the processor. A producer with such a record may find himself "a last resort" source, to be used only when meat supplies cannot be obtained elsewhere.

Meyer suggests that transit damages and losses could be cut substantially if livestock producers would: (1) avoid exciting animals before shipment, if possible sorting and assembling a day in advance, (2) prevent livestock from over-eating or drinking immediately prior to shipment, (3) load animals carefully and unhurriedly, using good loading equipment and avoiding use of clubs, whips, or canes, and (4) choose a trucker with a low loss record and insist upon careful handling.

CAUTIONS ON SAFE USE OF ELECTRICITY

Use electricity safely on the farm, or it can be a quick killer in an off-guard moment, cautions County Agent George Vapaa. He warns that the ordinary 115-volt lighting circuit can be as deadly as high voltage lines.

He joins with Bill Larsen, agricultural engineer of the University of Delaware, in recommending that electric wiring, additions, or repairs be checked by a qualified person. When poorly installed, a new extension or repair job can make a safe wiring system hazardous.

Even the best wiring system needs a little attention now and then. Vapaa suggests: "Outside, you should check frequently for broken insulators, frayed insulation, and loose or sagging wires that may contact trees or other obstructions. Inside the buildings, watch for defective outlets or switches, loose connections at junctions, damaged insulation or worn fixtures. Appliance cords need frequent attention. When defective, discard or repair cords immediately."

"Don't delay repairs. It may cost a life. Even for minor repairs, you should be sure the current has been turned off before work begins. Water is a good conductor of electricity, so remember to be especially cautious in damp places. When you purchase electrical appliances, look for the 'UL' label signifying that the equipment has been tested and approved by the Underwriters Laboratory."

"When a fuse 'blows,' something is wrong—too much load on the circuit or a short-circuit somewhere. Locate and remove the source of the overload or short before inserting a new fuse, and be sure to use the proper size fuse."

Meat, Poultry Prices Level Off; Frost Damage Boosts Fruits

Meat and Poultry: Meat prices have leveled off after a recent downward trend.

Marketings of top grade beef animals have been slim during the past few weeks but better-fed cattle now are coming to market in greater quantity. Reduced prices on choice beef, relative to lower grades, are in prospect. This week's best buys in beef include chuck roast and ground beef. Some of the more expensive beef cuts are featured "specials" in a few stores now that Easter promotions of ham are over.

Many pork cuts remain excellent values this week. Especially attractive are picnic shoulders, Boston butts and sausage meats.

Lamb prices have been stronger recently. Even though a few stores have sales on Spring lamb now, the new lambs are not yet being marketed in very large volume.

Prices on stewing chickens, fryers and turkeys are unchanged. Seafoods: Economical fresh fish include shad, sea bass, cod, pollock and haddock. Frozen haddock, ocean perch, whiting and halibut are reasonable. At moderate prices are oysters, shrimp and flounder.

Canned tuna, sardines and salmon also are good values in seafood.

Fruits and Vegetables: Frost damage already has shown up in terms of higher prices on Louisiana strawberries, and peach and apple production this summer will be affected. Apples in storage are running 22 per cent above last year with prices lower. "Apple scald," a skin disorder, is more serious but usually interior quality is not harmed. Banana quality is improving and prices are remaining quite firm. Florida Valencia oranges are in good supply with prices reasonable. Grapes are relatively high this month and supplies are limited.

Old crop onions, although very low, will sprout quickly at this time of year. They should be purchased only in small quantities if waste is to be avoided. Keeping quality of new Texas onions is much better and the price is much higher. Scallions and green onions are plentiful and are quite low in price.

Potato prices rose slightly with news of frost damage in the south, but potatoes remain a very economical vegetable.

Pascal celery is now in good supply with moderate prices. Lettuce prices are expected to remain steady this month, at prices about 5c a head above last April. Carrots, collards, spinach and turnip greens all are bargain priced vegetables this week.

Increased Earnings Now Permitted Under S.S. Law

More part-time or seasonal work will now be possible for beneficiaries of the old-age and survivors insurance system without loss of their social security payments, according to Myron Milbourn, manager of the Wilmington Social Security office. New provisions of the law now permit beneficiaries under age 72 to supplement their benefits with earnings from employment. There are no longer earnings restrictions on beneficiaries over age 72.

A person under age 72 can now earn $1200 a year, Milbourn stated, without losing any of his benefit checks. The previous limit was $75 a month for wage earners and $900 a year for self-employed persons, there being a separate test for wage earners and the self-employed. The new provision puts both wage earners and self-employed on an annual basis. Suspension of benefits is determined on the basis of total earnings from all remunerative employment or self-employment, even if the work is not covered by social security. If a beneficiary earns more than $1200 in a year, one monthly benefit will ordinarily be withheld for each $80 (or part of that amount) in excess of $1200, except that no benefit will be withheld for a month in which neither $80 in wages was earned nor substantial self-employment services were rendered in a trade or business.

Because of this new provision in the law, the local manager pointed out, a beneficiary may work all year for $100 a month and still receive all his benefit payments. If he works throughout the year for $110 a month, he will lose two months' payments. Under the former rules, he could have received no benefit payments in either of these situations if he was working for wages. The new law gives wage earners the advantage of the annual rather than the monthly test. It also helps the self-employed by raising the limitation from $900 to $1200.

The new provision has particular advantages for beneficiaries who have seasonal employment opportunities. Previously they lost benefit payments for any month in which their earnings exceeded $75. Now, high monthly earnings in a seasonal industry will require no suspension of payments unless the yearly total exceeds $1200. Beneficiaries should be aware, however, that earnings in excess of $1200 may cause suspension of benefit payments at the rate of one month's benefit for each $80 (or part of that amount) over $1200. A beneficiary who has earned $300 a month for four months, for example, will lose no benefits. However, if he works an additional month and earns $300, his benefit will be withheld for four months.

Benefits will not be suspended for any month after a person attains age 72, regardless of the amount of earnings, Milbourn emphasized. In the year the beneficiary reaches age 72, however, benefit checks for months prior to his birthday may be withheld if the annual earnings (including earnings after age 72) are over $1200.

Beneficiaries are expected to notify the Social Security Administration, on a form which has been provided, if they believe their earnings in 1955 will exceed $1200. Payments will then be stopped while they are working. At the end of the year, an adjustment will be made if, based on the annual earnings and the number of months worked, an incorrect number of payments have been withheld.

NATIONAL HOME DEMONSTRATION WEEK WILL BE MAY 1-7

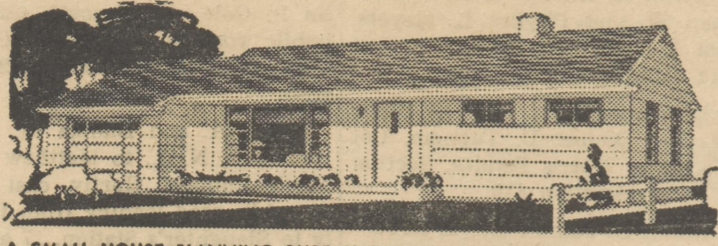

During the first week of May a special effort will be made throughout the country to acquaint the public with the Extension programs for homemakers, to recognize volunteer leaders and to encourage families to use their influence to strengthen the communities in which they live. This period, May 1-7, has been designated National Home Demonstration Week, and 1955 marks its 10th annual observance.

The national theme is "Today's Home Builds Tomorrow's World," but some Maryland counties are supplementing this with a special slogan according to Mrs. Florence W. Low, Home Demonstration agent leader, University of Maryland Extension Service.

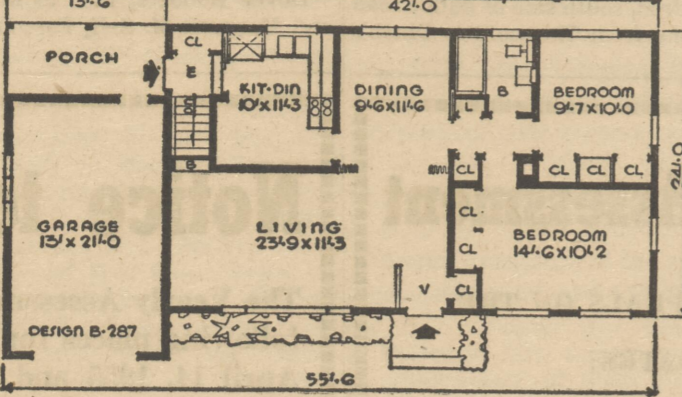

Some 600 homemakers' clubs with an approximate membership of 19,000 women learn so that they may: feed their families well-balanced meals, get the most for their dollar; know how to buy, make and care for clothes; use easier ways to do their work; make their homes convenient and attractive; give wise guidance in family living, and improve their communities.

Dairy products supply about 30 per cent of Americans' protein diet.

Looks of Room Spoiled By Too Skimpy Curtains

"Making sure which is the best length and width is the all-important decision before starting to make curtains," says Miss Vivian L. Curnutt, Extension specialist in home furnishings at the University of Maryland. The wrong length or too "skimpy" curtains can certainly spoil the looks of an otherwise lovely room.

The straight-hanging or tailored curtain may have a finished hem 1"-2 1/2" on both sides of each width of material. The bottom hem may be from 3"-12" depending on the style of the window. Another choice may be to have a finished hem one-half inch on the edges of the curtain at the outside of the window, and a 3-inch hem on edges at center of the window.

If the curtains are to be styled with ruffles, hems on the curtain at the outer edges of the window should be one-half inch. The ruffles may be 4"-10". The desired styling and fabric will indicate which width is best. If the ruffle is to extend completely around each width of material, then the finished width is 1 1/2"-2". Hems on all width ruffles should be 1/2".

Miss Curnutt emphasizes taking accurate measurements as being most important in making curtains. She tells homemakers to remove all selvages completely. This eliminates drawing and unevenness after curtains are laundered. While working, use a gauge to measure width of hems. Pinning hems carefully into place before stretching eliminates basting—and "who likes to baste?" the specialist queries.

Measure off correct length at center of width of fabric rather than at an edge. Clip and pull thread from this part to insure straight and even hang.

All corners are mitred. The straight mitre is used for the curtain which has a narrow width at sides and a deeper hem at the bottom. The diagonal mitre is used where the hem along the side of the curtain at the center of the window is the same as at the bottom of the curtain.

Then at last, the homemaker is ready for the seams. They may be put in by hand if one chooses; or they may be stitched by machine using matching thread, Miss Curnutt concludes.

personal touch by relocating and replacing some material but, here again, the do-it-yourself enthusiast would in many cases, especially if he has little gardening experience and knows next to nothing about trees, do well to seek professional advice.

Trees will enhance the appearance of your home for many years to come. Getting the right trees in the right place will pay off in enduring satisfaction.

Friday, April 1 was the date of the Spring meeting of the Kent County Home Demonstration Council. Only one club was unable to send representatives.

The meeting was really almost a "three-ring circus"—because we had first a joint meeting and then separate sessions for the council, family life chairmen and program planning chairmen. Mrs. Arthur Short, president of the council, presided at the joint session and at the afternoon council meeting. Our county Family Life chairman, Mrs. Lola Cole, worked with the family life group. Mrs. Ernest Waller, Newark, the state chairman, was also with the group. The program planning chairmen met with Mrs. Alice M. King, State Home Demonstration leader. Everyone left the meeting with a better understanding of their own job and of the whole Home Demonstration program.

Those attending the meeting were: Andrewville, Mrs. Frank Taylor, Mrs. Laura Griffith; Canter-

LEGION SELECTS OWN MARCHING SONG
American Legionnaires, who have marched for years to the tune of such songs as "It's a Long Way To Tipperary," now finally have their own official marching song.

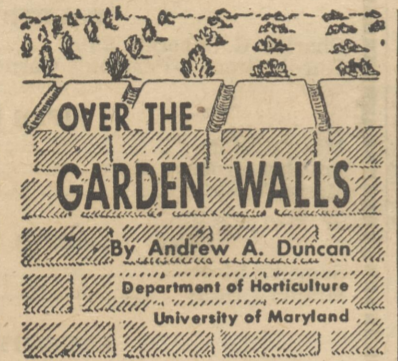

The Legion has announced that "The American Legion March," composed by Army Capt. Samuel R. Loboda, of Coy, Pa., has been chosen as the winner in the Legion's marching song contest. The Legion said an effort will be made to have musical arrangements of the new march published in time for it to be played officially for the first time at the 37th national convention in Miami next October.

OVER THE GARDEN WALLS

Fertilize for Higher Yields
Vegetables are the monsters and freaks of the plant kingdom. Man eats plants which he finds are palatable and nutritious. For centuries only the biggest, highest yielding and most flavorful sorts have been propagated. In more recent years man has turned to hybridization to further increase the yields and improve the quality of vegetables so that the present-day varieties have the inherent capacity to produce far more than their forebears.

Certain conditions have to be met to take full advantage of the inherent potential of our present-day vegetables. The most important conditions are heavy fertilization and plenty of water. While most home gardeners realize the need for watering plants to make them grow, few are aware of the need for fertilizer.

Even where manures, composts and other organic materials are used in large amounts, vegetables will respond to additional fertilizer and lime. With average weather conditions most gardens produce best when up to four pounds of complete fertilizer (such as 5-10-5, 5-10-10, 4-8-12 etc.) are used on 100 square feet.

One-half of the fertilizer should be turned under and worked into the top soil and one-half used as a side dressing during the growing season. Most vegetable gardens should have at least four pounds of lime to 100 square feet mixed with top soil every three years. If ground limestone is used it can be added at the same time as the fertilizer; if hydrated lime is used it should be worked in separately.

Every home gardener should figure on spending at least as much for fertilizer and lime as he does for seeds and plants.

GOOD SELECTION OF TREES AID PROPERTY

Even small properties need a professional landscaping touch. As the lot size diminishes, difficulties increase in arranging a pleasant effect without crowding.

This is especially true of tree selection. Trees are permanent assets and as such are keystones of the landscape. Therefore it is important to get the ultimate in utility as well as beauty from them. All other plantings are subordinate to them.

Because of this, small-home owners often find it a sound investment to obtain professional help. Smaller plants, shrubs and even many evergreens can be changed when they outgrow their attractiveness or their surroundings. Not so, however, with the major trees like oaks, maples, lindens, gums and others.

In many of the larger-home community developments the builder does the landscaping. Frequently these plantings are quite uniform. Restrictions of space, necessary utilities and economic limitations may influence the design and narrow the choice of the plant material used.

BEACON ALL-PELLET SYSTEM

UP TO $100.00 MORE PROFIT PER 1000 BROILERS

Independent research tests . . . and our own . . . show you can grow broilers at lower cost with All-Pellets. You can easily see WHY when you consider what happens. Look at these clear cut advantages . . .

1 . . . Birds continue eating under stress
Birds suffering from respiratory troubles and other stress factors continue eating pellets when they won't eat mash . . . or eat enough. Thus they are better able to maintain their growth rate and feed efficiency.

2 . . . Faster early conversion
Due to increased feed consumption with pellets, you get faster and more efficient conversion, especially at early ages when it takes less feed to make a pound of chicken than when birds are older.

3 . . . Little or no wasted feed
The saving through elimination of wasted feed can be tremendous, especially where growers depend on hired help and where hoppers have been filled too full. Spilled pellets are picked up and eaten. Few are wasted.

4 . . . Flock uniformity
Less aggressive birds have a better chance to get full feed requirements with pellets. Thus the timid birds maintain growth rate. Weights are more uniform through the flock.

5 . . . Market weight 4-6 days earlier
Time is money too. You can expect market weight at an earlier age compared with mash feeding. Earlier weight . . . better conversion . . . lower feeding cost per pound . . . all-around more profitable results.

The sooner you start to feed Beacon the sooner you have the benefits of a FEED - SYSTEM - SERVICE that keeps you AHEAD. See your Beacon dealer.

If you are NOT a Beacon feeder you can never be sure of the profits you can make until you try Beacon feeds . . . and the Beacon Service that goes with them. Others who have compared are quick to say, "Beacon grows faster, at lower cost."

NOW, with the new Beacon All-Pellet System, feeding cost is still lower. Today's markets make it vital that you grow for less to make consistent profits. Inefficient, price-minded feeds cannot compete. Growers using them cannot survive in close markets.

Over 85% of Beacon feeders on the Peninsula . . . and many others . . . have changed over to Beacon All-Pellets. We invite you to try this latest low cost method. Drop a postcard to The Beacon Milling Co., at Laurel, Del., and say, "Have the Beacon Serviceman call." There is no obligation. It is YOU who stand to benefit.

GREENWOOD NEWS

Ralph Harmon, son of Mrs. Lester Workman, has now completed a course in his training program and has been graduated from the U. S. Naval Pre-Flight School. His mother received a letter from his commanding officer, Capt. B. M. Streen, U. S. Navy, recently, of which she is justly proud. The letter praises Ralph highly for his work during the 14 weeks of the pre-flight course and states that they feel sure he possesses the qualifications to pursue a naval career and to become a naval officer and pilot. We are happy to hear of one of our own boys making good in the world outside of Greenwood. Perhaps many will want to write and congratulate him, so we are printing his new address, where he expects to be stationed for a year: "Nav-Cadet Ralph M. Harmon, USNR-R Bldg. 1403, Room 234, NAAS, Whiting Field, Milton, Florida."

Miss Rose Handloser made a hurried trip home to see her parents over the Easter holidays. She brought with her as her guest, Miss LaVera Applegate of Tennessee, who is also teaching in Man, W. Va. Rose is taking only one week's vacation this summer. The rest of the time she will be associated with Bible schools and summer camp programs in her field.

Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Zott entertained on Sunday with an Easter dinner, having as their guests, Mrs. Byron Willey, Miss Emma Willey, Miss Helen Willey, Arthur Willey and Ernest Nenneman of Wilmington. Callers in the afternoon were Mr. and Mrs. Edward Bailey and Mr. and Mrs. George Eskridge of Lincoln.

Dover Woman Named Delaware Mother of the Year

Mrs. Morris L. Zurkow, of Dover, a 64-year-old mother of four children and grandmother of five, civic and religious leader, has been named Delaware's Mother of the Year.

Mrs. Zurkow succeeds Mrs. Edgar J. Boggs, mother of Governor Boggs, who was selected by the committee in 1954.

Announcement of the choice was made by Mrs. William N. Cann, Wilmington, state chairman of the American Mothers Committee, Inc., who said 12 entrants had been named this year, and that Mrs. Zurkow's qualifications and recommendations found the committee in unanimous agreement on the selection.

Letters of recommendation came from high places, she said, and Mrs. Zurkow was selected for having the following attributes:

1. She has satisfactorily raised and assisted to educate, through college level, four children, all of whom are filling responsible positions in society.
2. She has been active for many years in attempting to create a formal religious group for the Jewish people of the Dover area and is now a member of an active congregation.
3. She is well known for her capabilities in homemaking and highly regarded among the people of Dover for her efforts to improve community welfare.
4. She has made one of her principal goals in life the helping of others.
5. She has shown by her affiliations her feelings about public service.

A resident of Delaware for the past 40 years, Mrs. Zurkow and her husband traveled extensively before settling down in the state capital community. Dr. Zurkow is a veterinarian and was associated with the federal government in his early years. He continues the veterinary practice in the Dover area.

Mrs. Zurkow was the former Esther Rabin, and a small dry goods store with residence attached on Mulberry Street in the middle of Manhattan, New York, provided her birthplace. She remained there during her childhood.

She attended high school in New York and graduated from the New York Business College, later serving as a secretary for the Remick Publishing Company. Despite the allure of the music publishing business, she married the young veterinarian, recently graduated from the University of Pennsylvania and an instructor at the Cornell Veterinary College.

Rep. McDowell Opposes Red China As U.N. Member

Rep. Harris B. McDowell Jr., today announced his membership in, and support of, the Committee of One Million Against the Admission of Communist China to the United Nations.

The committee, whose chairman is former Senator Warren R. Austin (R-Vt.), former United States delegate to the United Nations, is a bi-partisan body which will seek to work by all means possible against admission of the Chinese Reds to the United Nations.

Steering committee of the group is composed of Sen. Paul H. Douglas (D-Ill.), former Gov. Charles E. Edison of New Jersey, former Under-Secretary of State Joseph C. Grew, Rep. Walter H. Judd (R-Minn.), Sen. H. Alexander Smith (R-N.J.), and Rep. Francis E. Walter (D-Pa.).

Rep. McDowell was among 238 signers of a statement released today by the Committee of One Million which declared:

"Despite repeated declarations by two Presidents against the admission of Communist China to the United Nations; despite unanimous resolutions by both houses of two successive Congresses to the same effect; in the face of new Communist insults and aggressions against the United Nations itself, today the Red leaders are nearer than ever to their goal—control of Formosa and other strategic areas as steps in the conquest of Asia.

"The President and Congress have reacted to this new challenge with firmness, making clear both their desire for peace and their refusal to be intimidated. Unhappily, however, the same cannot be said of some of the governments of other free nations, nor of some of the leaders of American opinion. Despite the Peiping government's brutal contempt for the United Nations, influential voices are raised urging further negotiations outside the U.N., on the model of the Geneva Conference which surrendered Indo-China. The ultimate hope of those who favor this kind of negotiation is to conciliate the Chinese Communists by admitting them to the United Nations, an aim which is more and more openly expressed. Such appeasement, under the guise of negotiation, can never preserve the peace."

It has been proven time and time again that you gain nothing by prolonging a course of action that has failed to accomplish even the slightest semblance of success. And it seems that the course we are now being encouraged to follow by some sources fits into that category. A nation that is constantly violating its commitments to the other nations of the world is not one to be appeased but one to be shown that the honorable nations of the world do not wish to be associated with them until they prove their sincerity to become a peace-loving nation.

Retreat no further, appease no more, stand firm in your conviction that it will serve the interests of the United States best to oppose the admission of the Chinese Communist government to the United Nations.

Dover Mother

Mrs. Zurkow not only assisted the USO but was also instrumental in providing religious services at the Dover Air Force Base during this period. At the conclusion of the war she increased her activities with the Century Club of Dover and for several years developed outstanding programs as chairman in charge.

She has been a member of the auxiliary of the Delaware State Hospital at Farnhurst and a member of the women's auxiliary of the Kent General Hospital. She is also active in the Hadassah and sisterhood of Temple Beth Emeth, Wilmington. Among those who recommended her highly for this year's state title was Rabbi Herbert E. Drooz.

"In her 40 years in Delaware," said Rabbi Drooz, "Mrs. Zurkow has proven herself a splendid mother for four children and has been a creative citizen in the large community."

The Zurkows now have five grandchildren. Their two sons are practicing dentists; the one daughter still works as an interior decorator and the other is a French and English teacher, the selection committee pointed out. Dr. Zurkow's avocation is flower gardening at home.

Mrs. Cann said that plans are under way to honor Mrs. Zurkow in her own community, after which she will be the guest of the American Mothers Committee in New York City, where the National Mother of the Year will be selected in May.

COMMUNITY OF GEORGETOWN SHOWS GROWTH

Although partially handicapped by a housing shortage, the community of Georgetown in famous Sussex County, has for the last three years been in the throes of industrial development.

This is reported by the Delaware State Development Department in the third of its series of reviews on state communities that have been affected by the general boom in the First State in recent years, created by a growing population and more firms coming into the area because of favorable manufacturing situations.

Five new firms have located in the Georgetown area in the past three years. Two of these firms would probably have located elsewhere were it not for the fact that the Levy Court fell heir to a well-situated airport, which it made available to firms desiring to lease sites for building and manufacturing. For this advantage it was necessary that they locate on the former airport.

One of these companies, the first to move there, and which processes lighter than air units, is the General Development Corporation. In operation in Elkton, Maryland, this firm was forced to expand in order to carry on its work and chose the Georgetown site because of its airport facilities. Another, the All-American Engineering Company, has a test base there, while its larger operation remains at duPont Airport, Wilmington. This company is engaged in the design and development of products that tend to stabilize airplane operation and increase safety measures.

Another organization, Arrow Safety Device Company, is engaged in the manufacturing of safety material for automobiles, etc., and a fourth, the Debrava Company, is the producer of pearl buttons. This operation finishes buttons which are obtained from rough cutters, who abound in this vicinity as well as in nearby Maryland. Formerly rough cutters were forced to ship their buttons to New York City for finishing.

These buttons are used in men's wear and ladies' blouses, it is pointed out, and the Georgetown organization is one of the largest companies of its type in the country.

The fifth company is a wholesale lumber organization, Johnson and Winsatt, specializing in both heavy and light lumber for building purposes, together with allied lines. The manager of this company when asked why they selected Georgetown for their operation said, "We felt after surveying the Peninsula that Georgetown suited such a plant better than any other location, and further the indications are for a decided growth from Dover south to Cape Charles."

These five plants have invested in their buildings and equipment some $1,075,000 and at the height of employment have an annual payroll of $861,309.

As noted earlier, housing in the Georgetown area has not quite kept pace with other developments, the survey points out. In the last three years 66 houses have been constructed in the area, costing $792,700. This shortage has caused employees of the above firms, or at least a large percentage of them, to find housing in other communities within a suitable driving distance.

A few civic-minded people have assisted in bringing in industry and it is hoped, according to Col. C. B. Shaffer of the Development Department, that they will be able in some manner to stimulate the building of more homes. Several well-known Georgetown citizens have been working relentlessly for development and are to be complimented on their assistance to the community, Mr. Shaffer said.

More than 300 jobs have been opened in the area by the firms mentioned, and with some contracts already bid on, this number could easily become doubled. This could happen before summer of this year.

As in other communities, local churches have been well able to build up to requirements for the present, and they also have helped on the development which has recently taken place. Congregations have completed additions or new buildings to the extent of $225,000. Mr. Shaffer points out the fact that in all communities surveyed so far, churches continue to lead development, thus carrying out the leadership standards of early Delaware religious workers.

Georgetown schools are among the best in the state, it is reported, but they are also feeling the increased population trend of the last four years and are exerting every effort to meet the situation. In the last two years the community has spent or is now spending on additions the sum of $825,000. When completed, this expansion will also call for more teachers.

State services have called for additional expenditures on buildings for a total of $200,000 at nearby Delaware Colony; the State Highway Department has expended $235,000 on paving Bedford Street and improving roads in the immediate limits of the city. Another $6,000 in improvements went into the state police barracks. The city power and water companies have also increased their services to the people to the extent of $82,638 in three years.

The Old Brick Hotel, a Georgetown landmark, has given way to progress. It is being remodeled into a beautiful and efficient office building. Two filling stations and additions to the State Experimental Farm adds up to another $104,000 in expenditures.

Georgetown supports two state banks that show a total in assets of $10,051,194, and these banks have also expended recently the sum of $104,000 to remodel and redecorate their quarters in order to better serve their patrons. These institutions show a sound increase year by year which combined with other community developments makes Georgetown one of the soundest communities in agricultural Delaware, Mr. Shaffer declared.

The fact that $2,699,338 has been spent on industrial buildings, housing, schools, institutions, highways and other projects means that there is represented in employment over the last three years a total of 760 men and women. Add to this another 150 new employees of the service companies in the community and the total of new jobs reaches 910. This was mostly stimulated by the city's growth, Mr. Shaffer concludes.
