Interstate System Will Boost Farm Road Funds

Good highways are changing the farmer's way of life and helping enlarge his bank account. They are changing him from an isolated individual, working virtually alone, to a part of an integrated unit who collectively become big business.

But even with the high improvement in farm roads over the past three decades, the need for even better farm roads is still pressing. The question is—how can the farmer get them?

Strangely enough, the only real chance for a steady increase in funds for farm roads seems to be in building a highway system that wasn't necessarily designed to serve the farmer alone.

This is the building of the Interstate Highway System according to proposals now before Congress. The object is to link together major centers all over the country with a modern, safe highway system that would move farm products and other goods to large markets in a fraction of the time now required. The system would be built almost entirely with Federal funds.

How would this benefit the farmer who wasn't lucky enough to live on one of these highways? Interestingly, it is this interstate system which would build and maintain his farm roads for him. It is not generally understood that it is the main highways that earn the money that makes good rural roads possible. Since these main highways carry most of the traffic, they earn the gasoline and other taxes that pay the bills. In Arkansas, for example, the relatively few major roads pay more than half the cost of maintaining the large network of secondary routes.

Practically every state is now spending all it can now afford on its highways. If the Federal Government builds the Interstate System it will relieve the states of the intense pressure to build these vital major roads. This will release these funds for secondary roads. This direct benefit to the farmer is a bonus which has been generally overlooked.

The main question is, of course, whether Congress will vote to do the whole job or try to tackle it piecemeal. It could be built in 10 years but under some schemes it wouldn't get finished in thirty years—if ever. The longer we wait for the Interstate System to be completed, the longer it will take the states to get money for rural roads.

Doing the whole job now is important to the entire country and nobody has a more direct selfish interest in its accomplishment than the farmer.

Local Poultrymen To Visit Farms In Pennsylvania

Kent County egg producers will have an opportunity to visit poultrymen in Bucks County, Pa., on Monday, June 20. Transportation will be available for those not wishing to drive, according to George Vapaa, County Agricultural Agent. The group will meet at the following places: 8:00 a.m. at the Postoffice Building, Georgetown; 6:15 a.m. at intersection of Routes 113 and 14, Milford; 7:00 a.m. at Marker's Hatchery, Route 13, Dover; and 7:45 a.m. at Hare's Corner, diner, Junction of Routes 13 and 273 (south of Delaware Memorial Bridge entrance).

Different types of poultry housing, equipment, ventilation, egg rooms, marketing, processing and management can be observed on this tour. First stop will be near Doylestown, where poultry and eggs are sold through a marketing cooperative. About 4,000 cases of eggs are sold per week. Thirty per cent are candled and banded. About 800 coops of live poultry are sold at auction one day per week.

At the Supermaid Creamery in Doylestown, the group will see the newest and simplest process for candling and cartoning eggs yet developed. From 1200 to 1500 cases are picked up by truck in several counties weekly. All eggs are candled and cartoned; one girl can candle and carton over 50 cases daily.

The tour will include a small country dressing and processing plant handling about 10,000 birds per week—approximately 55% fryers, 20% caponettes, 20% fowl and 5% turkeys. They prepare poultry New York dressed, eviscerated, cut-up, packaged and frozen. Most of their products are sold to retail route men in Philadelphia.

After lunch at Cross Keys Inn (built in early 1700), the group will visit Raymond Taylor at Newtown, who raises 5,000 Leghorn layers. He has a trapnesting and breeding program along with a small hatchery. All flock replacements are raised on range. Among other points of interest here is a mechanically cooled egg room.

Silas VanHorn at Wrightstown has a 17-acre farm with 3,000 hybrid layers housed in one-story houses. Flock replacements are raised in semi-confinement. Mr. VanHorn is 82 years old.

Earl Daniels and son, at Pineville, have 8,000 Rhode Island Red layers on their breeding farm. Some hybrid broiler chicks are also produced, mostly two-story houses, fan ventilation and automatic feeders. Flock replacements are raised on range.

The group will arrive back at Hare's Corner about 5:30 p.m. Poultrymen interested in the tour may call the County Agricultural Agent, at Dover 2621.

Hot Weather Gives Good Egg Handlers Chance to Profit

Hot weather invariably means a widening of the difference in wholesale market prices paid for Grade A and Grade B eggs. Market quotations in Baltimore, Philadelphia and New York show this difference often reaches 12 to 14 cents per dozen, or $3 to $4 per 30-dozen case, in August.

Poultrymen can either profit or lose by this market trend, depending on how they handle their eggs. They can profit if they market high quality eggs and get Grade A prices, or they can lose if they market low quality eggs and miss Grade A prices.

"Hot weather is the time when egg quality pays the best returns," says University of Maryland Extension Poultryman Wade H. Rice. "The difference between prices paid for high and low quality eggs is greater during hot weather because a higher percentage of the eggs marketed are low in quality then. The result, of course, is a shortage of high quality eggs."

He points out the two main reasons which are responsible for relatively fewer high quality eggs reaching the market: (1) Eggs are perishable, and deterioration speeds up in high temperatures. (2) Egg producers fail to cool eggs promptly after they are laid to prevent deterioration.

Eggs are laid at the body temperature of the hen (about 107 degrees F.), and cool very slowly if the air temperature is 80 degrees F. or above. An egg that is Grade AA or Grade A can soon become a Grade B or Grade C egg at such high temperatures.

"The sooner eggs are cooled to 50 to 60 degrees F. after being laid, the better they retain their original quality," Rice says. "For this reason, eggs should be gathered at least three times daily during the summer and promptly placed in a cellar or egg-holding room with a temperature of 50 to 60 degrees F. Plenty of moisture is also important. Humidity should be 70 to 80 per cent, which is fairly moist. This amount of moisture is found only in cellars or rooms where moisture can be added from time to time."

The Extension poultry specialist says that checks of egg-holding rooms where thermometers or humidityguides are not used, usually show that temperatures run too high and humidity too low to maintain egg quality.

A cellar is nearly always preferred for holding eggs because conditions there come closer to meeting the requirements than any other farm location.

"It doesn't pay to guess at temperature or humidity levels," Rice emphasizes. "Money spent for a properly constructed egg-holding room can be repaid in two summers."

"Don't blame the hen or your market man for Grade B or C eggs," he tells Maryland egg producers. "If you don't think it's your own fault, provide a properly constructed egg room furnishing proper temperature and humidity, and see the difference."

VETERANS' QUESTIONS

Q—If a veteran fails to apply for Korean GI term insurance until the last day of his 120-day free coverage, and that final day is a Saturday, does he lose out on his chance to get insurance?

A—Not necessarily. If the final day falls on Saturday, Sunday or a legal holiday, the 120-day period will be extended to cover the next VA workday. With the final day on Saturday, the veteran could obtain his GI term insurance the following Monday.

Q—May a veteran taking Korean GI Bill training also receive GI unemployment allowances at the same time, since he isn't working?

A—No. The law prohibits veterans from receiving GI training allowances and GI unemployment allowances at the same time.

Q—I am a World War II veteran in school under the original GI Bill. At the wind-up of the program on July 25, 1956, I figure that I still will have some unused GI training entitlement. Will I be able to use my entitlement after that date?

A—No. Even though you may have unused entitlement, your GI Bill training must stop on July 25, 1956. GI training beyond that date will not be permitted, under the law, except in certain rare instances.

Q—I have just entered the armed forces for the first time. Will I be eligible for a GI loan after I am discharged?

A—No. Under the law, servicemen who enter the armed forces for the first time after January 31, 1955, may not be entitled to the GI loan benefit after they leave service.

DECEASED WORKERS' FAMILIES MAY NOW GET S.S. PAYMENTS

Families of individuals who died before Sept. 1, 1950, may be eligible for monthly social security insurance payments now, according to Myron Milbouer, district social security manager. "This provision of the 1954 amendments to the Social Security Act," Milbouer said, "applies if the worker died after July 1, 1940 and before Sept. 1, 1950, even though the family's original claim for survivors' benefits was denied."

"Recent changes make it possible to provide an insured status under the law in such cases if the worker had at least six quarters of coverage at the time of his death. This special provision, however, will affect only monthly benefit claims," the local manager added.

Survivors who might qualify for these monthly payments are widows who are 65 or older, children who are not yet 18, and, in case he worker left no widow or children, parents who were receiving at least one-half of their support from the deceased when he died. Milbouer urges anyone who feels this provision may affect him to get in touch with the district social security office at 813 West Street, in Wilmington. Or see a representative who comes to the City Office Building, Milford, the first, second and third Tuesdays of each month from 9:30 a.m. to 12 noon.

It's the new kind of hardtop—
The 4-Door Riviera!

THERE seems to be some confusion about what a hardtop really is, and we'd like to set the matter straight.

A hardtop is a car that looks like a Convertible with the top up—but has a solid steel roof overhead—and no center posts in the side window areas.

Up until just recently, it could be built in volume only with two doors—not more—because it would take wholly new structural principles to hinge another set of doors without floor-to-roof center posts.

But Buick came up with those new structural principles and is now building—in volume—hardtops with four doors.

You see one pictured here. It's the 4-Door Riviera. And it's taking the country by storm...

Because here, at long last, is an automobile with the sleek and sporty styling of a true hardtop—but with separate doors for rear-seat passengers, plus the added room of a full-size Buick Sedan.

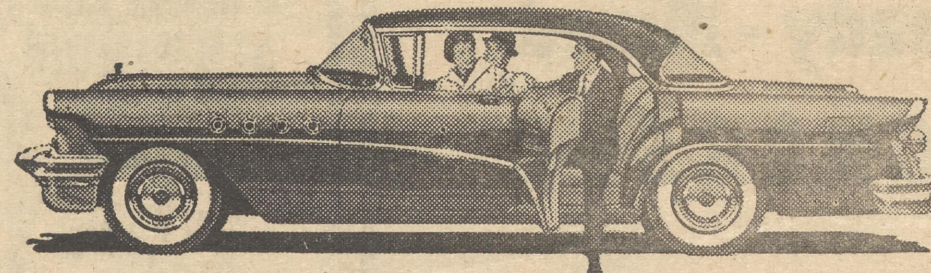

On top of that, this beauty is all Buick—with the buoyant ride of Buick's all-coil springing—the walloping might of Buick's record-high V8 power—the whip-quick getaway and sizable gas savings of Buick's spectacular Variable Pitch Dynaflo.*

And it's available in Buick's two lowest-priced Series—the budget-tagged 188-hp SPECIAL, and the high-performance 236-hp CENTURY, illustrated here.

Come visit us for a first-hand meeting with the 4-Door Riviera—and see how quickly and how easily the last word in automobiles can be yours.

"...accidents do happen"

"Last March, before I paid our dues," says Mrs. Edgar J. Boggs, of Cheswold, 1954 Mother of the Year, "I wondered if Mr. Boggs and I should keep our Blue Cross membership, since we were both just as healthy as can be. But, after thinking it over, I did pay our dues. And I was glad I did! Just ten days later, after cleaning the attic, I fell and broke my hip. I was taken to the Kent General Hospital for treatment... and I discovered how long it takes a broken hip to heal, and realized how expensive my accident might have been without our Blue Cross coverage. I feel very fortunate in having carried our Blue Cross on and I'll never dare to think of dropping it again."

An unforeseen illness, an unexpected accident can happen to you. And, hospital expenses PLUS all the extras can mean financial crisis. Your Blue Cross membership is unique in that it provides you with hospital care when you need it—bed, board, general nursing services—and it includes many "extras" such as use of the operating room, routine laboratory examinations, all drugs and medicines, etc. And, remember it is unique too, in that whatever your age you can keep your membership. Invest in the low-cost, health plans—Blue Cross for hospital care, Blue Shield for surgical-medical protection. Contact the office nearest you.

4. NOT WEATHER INCENTIVE. With Beacon All-Pellets, feed consumption is improved, compared with mash.
5. TIMID BIRDS FEED - have a better chance to get full feed requirements with pellets. You'll have more uniform weights throughout the flock.
6. MORE EFFICIENT CONVERSION. Change to Beacon All-Pellets at the third week. Foster growth with less feed.
7. ADDED FAT SAVES FEED. High grade fat, added to Beacon feeds, means less feed per pound of weight gain since one pound of the kind of fat Beacon uses is about equal to two pounds of corn. Beacon pellets have the same fat content as in mash form.

H. J. Ramsdell Dies Suddenly

Services for H. Judson Ramsdell, 73, who died at his home Saturday of a heart attack, were conducted from the Boyer Funeral Home Tuesday afternoon, with the Rev. Robert VanCleaf, pastor of Asbury Methodist Church, officiating, assisted by the Rev. J. E. Parker, a former pastor, now of Camden.

Burial was in Hollywood Cemetery.

Mr. Ramsdell was born near Denton, a son of Floyd C. and Louisa Smith Ramsdell, and lived in Harrington 40 years, where he served as a rural mail carrier. He and his late wife, who died 10 months ago, also conducted a grocery store. This business started in their former home, across the street from the present store.

As it grew, a new building was constructed, as well as an adjoining home.

Mr. Ramsdell was a member of Asbury Methodist Church, chairman of the trustees, member of the Booster Sunday School Class, and the Chosen Friends Lodge No. 35, IOOF, of Harrington.

Survivors include a son, Alden J. Ramsdell, of Sanatoga, Pa.; two brothers, David S. Ramsdell, of Palos Park, Ill., and Charles P. Ramsdell, of Ashland, N. J.; two sisters, Mrs. James Foreman, of Park Ridge, Ill., and Mrs. Robert Butler, of Denton, and several nieces and nephews.

MRS. MARY E. STILL

Mrs. Mary E. Still, 79, died at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Mamie F. Adams, near Felton, where she had lived a number of years.

Funeral services were held Sunday in the Berry Funeral Home at Felton with the Rev. Carl Henn, pastor of Felton Methodist Church, officiating. Interment was in Bridgeville Cemetery.

SPRAYS KILL POISON IVY

Poison ivy can be killed by a spray combining 2,4-D and 2,4,5-T, though several treatments may be required. Another good poison ivy killer is ammonium sulphamate (sold as ammamate). Ammonium sulphamate is less likely to drift to other plants, but it will kill any plant that is well covered with the chemical.

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

In checking the reports of the spotters' post and sending them into headquarters for our Harrington area, I find the lack of interest is getting greater in our community in keeping the post manned as it should be.

So, despite this fact, I believe this is wrong. As a citizen of the U.S.A., I believe we should realize the importance and seriousness of this a little more than we do.

It is true we have never had an air attack on our shores and God knows we don't want one, that is why the U. S. government is asking us to do this for our own benefit and protection.

You are only asked to serve two hours only one day a week unless you want to serve more. When you do this, it will help keep our armed forces up to date on all the aircraft crossing our territory day and night.

We realize you have your problems, but you are all civic-minded and have your own responsibilities to see after.

But do you realize this is your own selves—your own places of business, your own loved ones you are helping every time you serve the two hours you are at the post. We have tried to keep this post going by pleading to the better judgment of this community and trying to point out the dangers of an air attack from any hostile aircraft that should fly under our radar system and bomb our city, killing and wiping out whole families which could be your own.

If our government says we need this protection, we need it and there is nothing more we can do about it.

We find our holidays and Sundays the post is more vacant than any day of the week, but go down to the seashore and see for yourselves. That is where you will find most of the ones who have their names on the books at all spotters' posts.

These are the days that we could get that attack and how would we all feel if we should come home and find this thing had happened?

We have been told by some

Cut Kitchen Hours In Summer

When the thermometer hovers in the 90s, no woman feels like spending much time in the kitchen—particularly if she has to stand over a stove.

Actually you don't have to spend much more time in the kitchen than you want to. Simply sit down in some cool spot and plan your family menus, cutting to a minimum, of course, those dishes that require long cooking.

This is garden time, so make use of your cool, crisp greens. Break them up for a refreshing tossed salad.

And for a lunch time or evening meal, you might want to let the family do a little planning for themselves. Simply load up the table with a variety of cold cuts, cheeses, spreads, and several kinds of bread. Then let each enjoy creating his own special kind of "Dagwood." A sandwich and salad meal is nutritious and tasty, and it gives the "cook" a rest from the kitchen.

For a dessert you might serve a fresh sherbet or ice. There's nothing more cooling on a hot muggy day.

Plan, too, to take your eating out-of-doors. A picnic is where you make it. You needn't go any farther than your own side porch or back yard to get into the spirit of an old-fashioned picnic and give lagging appetites a lift.

Bulletins on Freezing and Canning
Gardens and produce markets are full of fruits and vegetables now. And homemakers are busy filling freezers and pantry shelves. I have had many requests in the last week from homemakers about freezing and canning, and I thought you might be interested in knowing about the bulletins which are available. They are: Freezing Foods for the Home; Canning; Jams, Jellies and Preserves; Freezing Combination Main Dishes; What To Do When the Home Freezer Stops.

You may have any or all of these bulletins by writing to me. The address is: Home Demonstration Agent, Post Office Building, Dover.

Greenwood

We have the following news from the graduating class of Greenwood High School. Their class night exercises will be held June 10 and the baccalaureate sermon will be on the evening of June 12, with the Rev. George H. Moore as the speaker. Commencement exercises will be on the evening of June 14 with Judge Ernest V. Keith of Dover as the speaker. Diplomas will be presented by Luther H. Lyons, president of the Board of Education. All of the programs will be presented in Greenwood High School Auditorium.

Lora Lynn Wise was a Sunday guest of Ellen Hatfield. The Jacob Hatfields motored to Seaford in the afternoon and called on Mr. and Mrs. Brenen Jackson and Mr. and Mrs. Huey Jackson. Mrs. Annie Hatfield spent the afternoon with Mrs. Ardella Coulbourn in Seaford. Mrs. Hatfield and Mrs. Coulbourn were girlhood chums, and the two found much to talk about, hashing over old times.

Don't forget to get your rummage ready for the Ever-Welcome Class of Grace Church. They will hold their sale on June 11 and would like to have the material collected by the middle of this week. Call 4255 or 4503 and someone will pick it up.

A reception for our minister, by the three churches of Greenwood Charge, will be held in the Fire Hall, Saturday at 8 p.m.

A Tricky Twist To Tomato Trellising

Most home gardeners prefer to tie their tomato plants to stakes or to trellis them in such a way that they conserve space in the garden and keep vines and tomatoes up off the ground.

Tests carried on over the past four years have shown that tomato plants trellised in a special way will bear heavily until frost. In some cases a single plant produced as much as 62 pounds of tomatoes and 25 plants produced more than three-fourths of a ton of fruit.

Basically, the new trellising method amounts to keeping each plant inside a wire cylinder two feet across and five feet tall. The result is a column of vine growth held in place and supported by a wire cylinder. Wire with six-inch mesh is best because it makes it easy to reach in and pick the tomatoes. Concrete reinforcing wire is ideal because it is rigid enough to be self-supporting. A few stakes around the cylinders will keep them from being blown over. Prepare the ground by digging in some organic matter (peat moss or compost) along with two pounds of 5-10-10 fertilizer to 100 square feet. Make the bed for the plants at least five feet wide.

Use Rutgers Improved Garden State, Chesapeake, or any other high-yielding variety. Set the plants four feet apart in the row.

Immediately after planting, mulch with straw or sawdust. Mulch should be spread over the entire width of bed. Place the wire cylinders over the plants soon after transplanting and keep all the tomato branches inside the wire framework. The tomato plants will eventually grow over the top of the cylinders and down the outside, making a vine length of about 10 feet. Do not prune off any of the branches.

Water plants frequently during the early part of the season and late in the season water only during dry spells. Keep plants well supplied with complete fertilizer. Make light applications of 5-10-10 at regular intervals from the time the first cluster of blossoms is set until the end of the summer.

Tomatoes grown this way should be clean, bright red and free of growth cracks and rots. The tomato plant is capable of producing a larger amount of food over a longer period of time than any other vegetable in the home garden. With special care it will bear until killed by frost.

If a wire trellis is not suited to your conditions try to "gadgeteer" some other device that will do the same job for you.

Sad Note From The Bugle

All of us on the Clarion were alarmed to learn that our principal rival in the newspaper field—the Balesville Bugle—might have to shut down.

Crops were bad in Balesville last year and one of their factories moved out of town. Just temporary hard times, of course—but the Bugle needs help now if it's to survive.

So, this paper is going to scrape up a little money to help tide them over, and we hope other local concerns will do the same. We've seldom agreed with them editorially over the years—but we want their competition to keep us on our toes.

From where I sit, this country needs papers with different points of view—just as it needs people with different ideas and tastes. You may prefer iced tea as a hot-weather cooler... I generally choose a cold glass of beer. But if either of us couldn't express his opinion, and act on it, that would be "bad news" for the whole community.

Mar-Del League Standings table with columns for team, W, L, Pct.

Wyoming put up a battle but failed to halt pennant-bound Milton nine in a Mar-Del League slugfest at Wyoming Sunday, the Milton nine walking off with a 15-12 decision.

It was Milton's fifth straight victory without defeat and featured the hitting of the winners' Graham Dill and Wyoming's Harry Barrett. Dill homered and cleared the bases with a double, while Barrett slammed a two-run homer and also had three singles.

Milford hung in at Farmington, 10-6, on the latter's field as Dick Papan led the winners at the plate with a three-run home run.

Frederica held second place with a 12-5 verdict over Felton at home as Billy Morris' bat produced five runs on a home run and two singles.

LYONS' STABLE PUTS THISTLE'S SON IN WINNERS' CIRCLE

Chalk up another victory for J. Howard Lyons' stable of Green-wind. This time the blue and red silks were brought home by Thistle's Son, a five-year-old bay trotter, who turned in his second straight victory of the season at Roosevelt Raceway by scoring a length and a quarter triumph over Butler Wyn, in 2:09.

Thistle's Son, driven by the owner's son, Luther, who returned to the races after sitting out a costly five-day suspension, took the Dean Hanover trotter to the front at the half, after racing on the outside for his first half mile. Once in command, Lyons opened up a commanding lead and flashed across the finish well in front of Butler Wyn. Tronia Comet wound up third.

Bond Bread and DP&L Win Softball League Games

Bond Bread won their third game by scoring two runs in the fifth inning on an error, walk and double, to defeat the Lions Club 15-10.

D.P.&L. scored two runs in the first inning and two more in the fifth inning, to score a 4-1 win over the Explorers. The Explorers had runners on second and third when the final out was made in the seventh.

On Monday night D.P.&L. won their third straight by trimming the Legion 11-4. Three errors by Wyatt, Legion third baseman, combined with four hits, enabled D.P.&L. to score nine runs in the first inning. The Legion scored three runs in the sixth inning on four consecutive bunts. The remainder of the schedule will be played at the Harrington High School grounds.

ADIOS HARRY WINS ROOSEVELT PACE

Neither rain nor a very muddy track could keep J. Howard Lyons' great four-year-old sidewheeler, Adios Harry, from entering the winner's circle in the featured Huntington Free For All Pace for $8,000, in 2:03, at Roosevelt Raceway.

Luther Lyons, the owner's 35-year-old son, was back in the sulky once again behind the son of Adios-Helen Wyn. Zooming away from the No. 2 post position, Adios Harry assumed command of the lead around the paddock turn and never was headed as he spread-eagled the field of four other amblers by two lengths most of the way. As he reached the top of the stretch, Adios Harry really opened up his commanding lead with a fine burst of speed in the final quarter, to win by four lengths over his nearest rival, Phillip Scott, driven by Frank Safford.

Adios Harry was clocked in 30.4 for the quarter, 1:02.4 to the half, 1:33.3 at the three-quarters and sped home in 2:02 for a 2:03 timing. Most observers believe that a fast track might have provided the Greenwood pacer with a world record timing on a half-mile track. The victory was Adios Harry's fourth of the season in five starts. His only defeat came at the hands of Jimmy Jordan's Meadow Rice, whom Adios Harry has beaten decisively in their last two outings.

The Lyons' stable has moved well in front as the leading money-winning stable, earning $37,150 in purses and an additional $500 that the management of Roosevelt presented to Lyons after Adios Harry's two-minute mile on May 27.

Several chemicals may be used for killing weeds that sprout under high-branching shrubs. Three that give good results are sodium isopropylxanthate (NIX), pentachlorophenol (PCP), and sodium arsnitt. Their strength can be adjusted according to the manufacturer's instructions so that they kill weeds without leaving a residue likely to damage the roots of desirable plants.

ATLANTIC SALMON, GREAT FISH FOR SPORT, NEARLY GONE NOW

Formerly this salmon was one of the more important food and game fishes from Delaware north along the Atlantic Coast. Now it has practically vanished from the waters of the United States. Its disappearance may well be due to a large extent to the pollution of the streams in which it bred, to the erection of dams beyond which it could not go to its breeding spots and to unwise harvest of the crop by men who could profit by taking them. Atlantic salmon have become resident in some lakes and there may be taken by sportsmen acting under practices definitely designed to maintain a supply.

ATLANTIC SALMON ©1954 National Wildlife Federation

Many Americans have enjoyed vicariously the pleasures of taking these fish by reading about them in the sporting magazines. Henry VanDyke wrote about them so well that many a fisherman read his stories again and again when the urge to go fishing became almost too great to resist, no matter what the law or the weather or the terrain said. Varieties of the fish are mentioned in the literature and include the Sebago Salmon, Landlocked Salmon and Ouananiche. The Atlantic Salmon and the Rainbow Trout both belong to the genus "Salmo."

From February to June it is the custom of Atlantic salmon to migrate upstream to spawn. The female lays her eggs in a nest in a riffle where they are fertilized by the male. A 40-pound female may lay from 10,000 to 20,000 eggs, but a 20-pound female may also lay as many as 20,000 eggs. About five months after the eggs hatch the young fish may reach a length of 3 1/2 inches and be known as "smolt." By the ninth month, they may be five inches long and be known as "parr." Fish that have spent a year in the sea may be about two feet long and weigh from three to six pounds. Those that have lived two years in the sea may measure three feet and weigh about 10 pounds. A fish that has lived four years in the sea may measure to four feet and weigh to 74 pounds.

The eggs are heavy and not sticky. With water at 57 degrees F. they may hatch in 22 days and under ideal conditions may, at a temperature of 63 degrees F., grow an inch a month for a while. Young parr feed much as do trout, on aquatic insects, but they are more inclined to be bottom feeders.

Sports fishermen commonly take their salmon on artificial flies. The fish are more deliberate about taking flies than are trout ordinarily and because of this the strike is more delayed than that practiced by the trout fisherman. Commonly salmon are taken in waters so clear that the fish may be seen in the act of taking the bait. Atlantic salmon

Delawareans Give $96,357.39 In Fight Against Cancer

Delaware has contributed $96,357.39 in the 1955 Cancer Crusade to fight the disease which last year claimed 556 lives in the state, it was announced today by Frank J. Horty, crusade chairman for the American Cancer Society's Delaware Division.

The total reported, already more than $16,000 over the division's quota of $80,000 is expected to rise even higher as final reports come in from downstate areas.

"Delaware can be proud of its record in smashing Cancer Crusade quotas for the fifth consecutive year," Mr. Horty said.

"Particular credit must go to the army of 3,000 state and local committee leaders and workers, whose careful planning and conscientious efforts have brought such a successful outcome in this important battle against disease," he added.

Of 60 state and large city divisions of the American Cancer Society, Delaware was 12th to go over the top, it was reported by Elmer H. Bobst, national crusade chairman.

New Castle and Kent Counties have already topped their quotas, county chairmen reported. Mrs. Samuel Handloff of New Castle reported contributions of $23,312, more than $5,000 over the $18,000 quota, while George W. Ayars of Dover has received $8,491, almost $500 above Kent County's $8,000 goal. Final reports for Sussex County are still being tabulated by Mrs. Eliza Stevenson of Bridgeville, who reports the $12,500 quota already almost reached.

Special gifts have totalled $23,091, more than 50 per cent above the $15,000 goal. Mrs. Thomas H. Urnston heads the committee, which includes Mrs. Daniel O. Hastings, Reynolds duPont, Vernon B. Derrickson and Lt. Gov. John W. Rollins. Collections by radio stations amounted to $2,000, 800 per cent of the $250 quota assigned. Membership in this committee included Harvey C. Smith, Ewing Hawkins, Gordon MacIntosh, Tim Crow and Tom Numan Jr.

Under the chairmanship of J. Henry Topkis, Wilmington city committees exceeding goals included: Industrial, Franklin B. Drumheller and E. Avery Gray, co-chairmen, $3,953; office buildings, A. J. Matas and T. L. Hale Jr., $7,656; public schools, Dr. Zenas R. Clark, $644; city and county employees, Robert W. Reynolds, $556; special events, Samuel L. Gerson, $692, raised in the city's Parade of States, headed by Mrs. Robert E. Baker and Miss Mary Halloran.

Federal employees contributed $546 through Chairman Paul Roberts, while Charles Gallagher, with $1,076, more than doubled the state employees' quota of $500. Also exceeding quotas were the Wilmington financial group led by Arthur H. Clarke and Clifton E. Morris, with $2,338, and coin collections through beverage dealers, led by Lee J. Buckley for a total of $1,084.

Assisting Mr. Horty at the state level were Mrs. William N. Cann and C. Greer Yount, vice-chairmen, and Samuel E. Bird, Mrs. Handloff, Mrs. H. E. King, Mrs. William Messick and Mr. Topkis. Funds raised in the Cancer Crusade will support detection centers, state-wide educational programs, aid to cancer patients and other work of the Delaware Division, American Cancer Society, as well as national research aimed at stamping out the disease which currently strikes one in every four living Americans.

Civil Defense Sets June 15-16 For 'Operation Alert'

A new set of Civil Defense "public action" siren signals—the "alert" and the "take cover"—will be sounded for the first time in Delaware during "Operation Alert," the nation-wide exercise set for June 15-16.

Thereafter, the new signals, just approved by the Federal Civil Defense Administration, will permanently replace the present attack warning signals—the "yellow alert" or advance warning, the "immediate attack" and the "all clear." D. Preston Lee, state CD director, announced today.

The new "alert" signal will be a steady three- to five-minute siren blast, which may be sounded before or after an attack, depending on the circumstances at the time. It will indicate that the public is to follow any pre-arranged emergency plan set up by local CD authorities. In a genuine emergency, the "alert" would be backed up by specific instructions over radio, public address or by word-of-mouth through police and wardens.

The new "take cover" signal will be a wailing tone or series of short blasts lasting three minutes. It will mean that an attack is imminent and that the public should take cover immediately.

Since the June 15-16 exercise does not call for public participation, it will not be necessary to take cover during the test alerts at that time, Mr. Lee said.

The new "take cover" signal, he pointed out, is exactly the same sound as the present "immediate attack" signal, which also means take cover.

"There should be no confusion about when to take shelter," Mr. Lee emphasized. "The siren sound is the same in both the old and new setup."

The principal change in the new signal system, he said, is the fact that the "all clear" and the "yellow alert" or advance warning have been eliminated.

The "all clear" was dropped because the danger of atomic "fallout" will vary from section to section, thus making it impossible to issue a general signal releasing the public from shelter simultaneously. Officials in each area, Mr. Lee explained, will be expected to check on local "fallout" conditions and, when safe, release the public from shelter by means other than sirens.

The new "alert" signal can be used as an advance warning if there is time. But its purpose, whether used before or after an attack, will be to notify the public to take whatever action has been previously planned by local authorities. In target areas, this could mean a mass evacuation, providing there is no "fallout threat" and providing such a plan has been rehearsed beforehand. In non-target areas, the "alert" could be used to mobilize CD forces in preparation for helping other areas.

In both cases, the "alert" signal, Mr. Lee said, would be followed by specific instructions to the public via radio, mobile public address cars or directly from police and wardens.

Mr. Lee explained that the new signals are intended as "public action" signals not "attack warning" signals as are the present siren notes. The new "take cover" will mean that the public should go into shelter immediately. The new "alert" will mean that the public should take whatever action is called for by local CD authorities.

The nation-wide exercise June 15-16 will send about 2,000 Delaware CD workers into action, Mr. Lee said.

A mock enemy bomber fleet will drop hypothetical atomic and H-bombs on 55 cities in the U.S. and possessions. Wilmington will be hit by a simulated A-bomb at Seventh and Market Streets at 3:10 p.m. on June 15, causing an estimated 46,000 killed and 48,000 injured.

The Delaware exercise will be directed at restoring order following this blast. For purposes of the test, a nine-day emergency will be considered as telescoped into the 26-hour exercise.

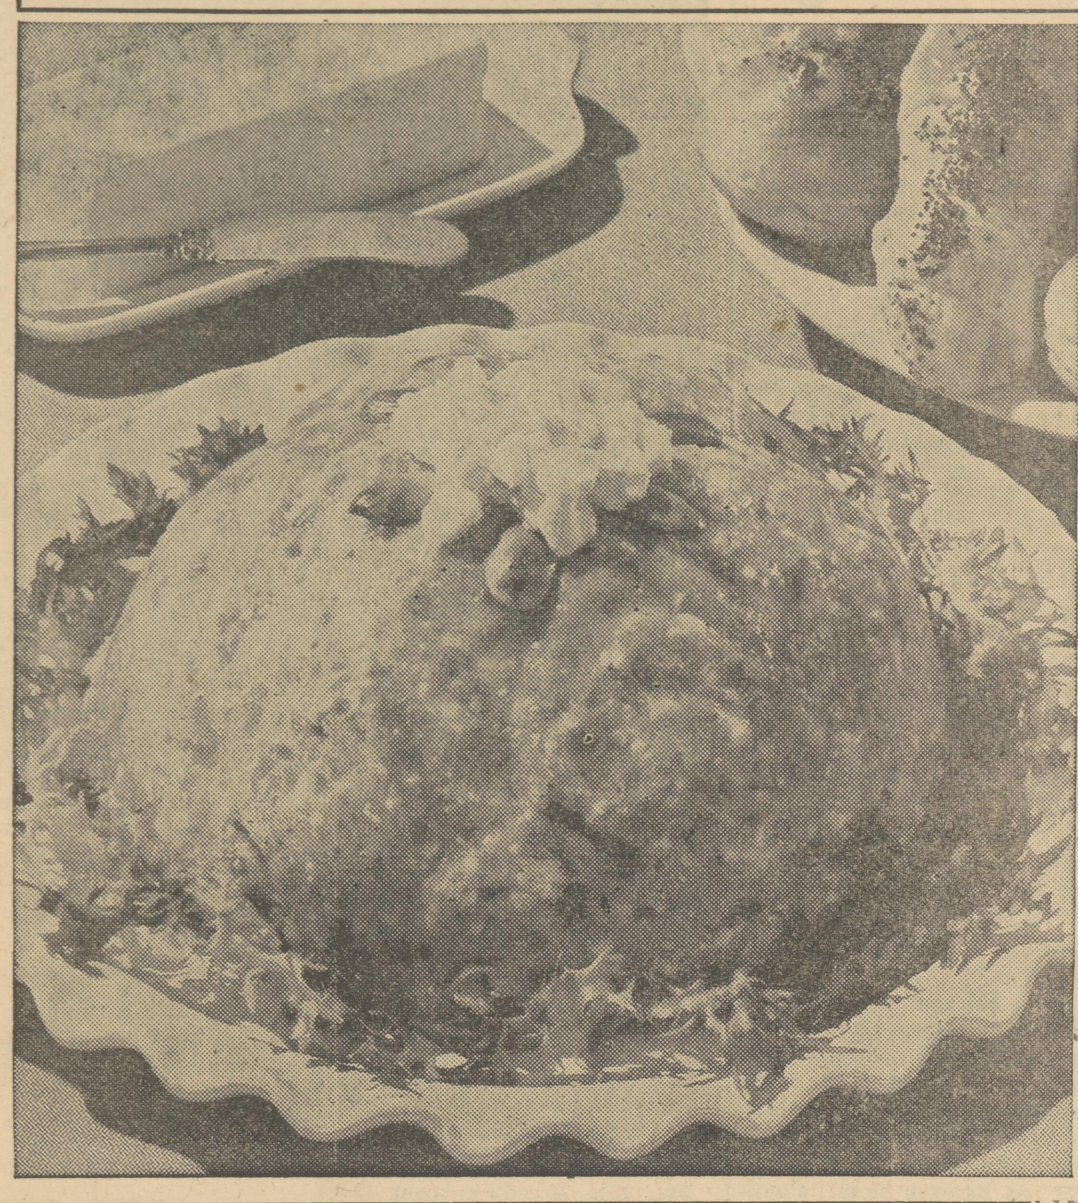

The work of fire control, rubble clearing, rescue, restoration of utilities, fall-out detection, first aid, refugee feeding and care will be simulated in "canned" messages passing from the field through various CD headquarters via radio, teletype, telephone and courier.

The exercise will be primarily a workout for CD headquarters, message center and communication personnel. Field incidents are also planned for various CD units, including volunteer firemen, rescue teams, radiological monitors, first-aid teams, public utility and highway crews.

Tasty Luncheon Salad Mold—Featuring Cottage Cheese

The tangy taste of lemon and pineapple are contrasted with the milk flavor of cottage cheese and delicate flavor of avocado in this molded salad.

As shown here, the salad is ready to be served with hot rolls and plenty of butter for a light luncheon. However, it can go equally well with the most elaborate dinner.

Cottage cheese gives important nutritive value to salads and other dishes. Being chiefly the coagulated protein of milk, it is low in calories but high in protein value.

Unlike other cheese, cottage cheese should be used within a day or two after its purchase. Always refrigerate and keep it tightly covered.

- COTTAGE CHEESE AVOCADO SALAD

Railroad News

Mass transportation now in operation in our own back yard. Over 4,000 cars of runway building material is now moving into Dover at the rate of 15,000 tons per day, for use in the construction of new runways at the Air Base.

The crushed stone, coming from Downingtown, Pa., is being unloaded off the old south lap, north of old Holly Tower. The slag comes from Sparrows Point, near Baltimore, and is unloaded off the old north lap siding south of Dover. The bituminous covering material will also be handled off this same track, while the cement is unloaded at Cheswold. All four points have suddenly become beehives of activity with some 30 or 40 trucks carrying the material from the railroad to the Air Base.

Four contracting firms are wrapped up in the sudden mad rush to complete the new runways in 1956, which will eliminate to a large degree, planes passing over the city while taking off and landing at the base. The contractors are: the Williams Construction Co. and Bituminous Co. of Baltimore; the Langenfelder Cement Co. and Bradford Hills Quarry at Downingtown, Pa.

While the operation provides additional work for train and engine crews in the Clayton area, it also represents quite an interesting prosperity item to the railroad in general, since the Bradford Hills Quarries have just completed a new $25,000 side track into their quarries near Downingtown, Pa.

4 lamb patties      4 medium-sized hot
 4 slices bacon     4 cooked potatoes
 4 tomatoes        4 tablespoons grated
 ¼ cup canned whole      American cheese
 kernel corn           salt and pepper

Butter
 Have ground lamb shaped into thick patties and wrapped with bacon, fastening ends of bacon with toothpicks or small skewers. (Note: If bought as patties, omit this step.) When patties are brown on one side, about 6-8 minutes, turn. Add to the grill whole tomatoes, hollowed out and crinkled generously inside with salt and pepper and then filled with coarsely seasoned ¾ teaspoon salt and dash of pepper; and cooked potatoes which are sprinkled with grated cheese. Season meat and potatoes. Add pear halves, which have been brushed with butter. Continue cooking 6-8 minutes longer or until patties are done, and potatoes, tomatoes and pears are heated and slightly browned.
