

Outlines Plan to Rate Delaware Schools On Civil Defense Preparedness

A plan for rating Delaware's schools on their Civil Defense preparedness, with merit certificates to be awarded annually to the top-rated schools, was outlined today by Dr. George R. Miller, superintendent of public instruction and chief of the state Civil Defense school division.

Every public, private and parochial school in the state, he said, will be rated semi-annually in the spring and fall on the basis of a detailed check-list covering the school's Civil Defense organization, activities, equipment and student training for an emergency.

Schools averaging over 95 points in the two surveys will be awarded certificates of merit at the term's end. Those earning between 90 and 95 points will receive certificates of preparedness.

Copies of the rating check-list have been sent to all school administrators, Dr. Miller said. The first rating will be completed by Oct. 31 and the second next April 30. In each case, school officials will fill out the check-list forms and return them to the Department of Public Instruction, which will evaluate them and make the awards.

The plan was worked out by Dr. Miller in co-operation with D. Preston Lee, state Civil Defense director, who called it, "an effort to stimulate Civil Defense thinking and practice in the schools and at the same time give us an overall picture of the effectiveness of school preparations."

Stressing the importance of defense planning in the schools, Mr. Lee pointed out that in the confusion following an enemy air attack "every school will be a self-contained community, cut off for a time from the community at large and dependent on its own resources. It must have a Civil Defense organization, complete with fire-fighting, first aid, warden units and shelter areas. Every staff member and student must know his job."

The check-list for rating schools covers 29 points, touching every phase of defense preparations. Divided into four sections, it requires "yes" or "no" checks on such questions as: whether the school has a Civil Defense plan, director, staff; emergency fire, warden, health units; co-operates with the community and state Civil Defense officials; informs parents of its emergency plans; inspects equipment and keeps up-to-date inventory; drills teachers and students in their emergency roles; instructs students in the effects of atomic weapons; trains teachers and students in alert warnings, taking shelter, first aid and other self-protection measures.

FRED JOHNSON

Fred Johnson, age 55 years, died at his home, 17 Hanley Street, this city, on Thursday night, Oct. 20. He had been in poor health for about a year, but for the past few weeks had seemed to be improving, until he suffered a heart attack.

He was the son of the late Charles Henry and Jennie Benson Johnson, was born in Harrington, next door to where he had lived with his wife, the former Beatrice Williams, since their marriage 29 years ago.

When a boy, he started to work for the I. D. Short Lumber Company, this city, which was next door to where he was born, and when they sold out to the Harrington Lumber and Supply Company, he still remained and was employed by them until his death.

Being the oldest person there in service, he was well acquainted with all the stock, was honest and trustworthy, very considerate of all persons, and was highly respected by all who knew him.

He was a member of St. Paul's A.M.E. Church, Harrington, and had served in about all the offices in the church, including treasurer, for many years.

Funeral services were held at the church Monday at 2 o'clock, in charge of the pastor, Rev. William N. Brown, assisted by Rev. B. C. Rogers, a former pastor and now at Milton; Rev. Thaddeus Hackett of Metropolitan Methodist Church, Rev. R. B. Pinkney and Rev. Lawson Baynard, and Rev. William Hubbard, all retired.

Interment was in Williamsville Cemetery. Besides his wife, he is survived by two sisters, Mrs. George Harmon, Harrington, and Miss Marilda Johnson, Philadelphia.

Hits Newsstand

Jerred's Newsstand was damaged Saturday night when an automobile ran into it. Damage, covered by insurance, was estimated at $300 to $500 by the proprietor.

The accident occurred in this manner: Jack Pitlick, who operates a garage adjoining the newsstand, volunteered to help a woman with her 1941 Ford. He started the car up and when he pressed on the accelerator, the car jumped into high gear and smashed the front of the newsstand without breaking a huge window.

Pitlick was unable to say what damage was done to the car as it was towed away.

Work Started On Water Tower

The erection of the superstructure of Harrington's new 200,000-gallon overhead water tower started this week. It is estimated the work will be completed in six weeks.

The tank, adjacent to the standpipe which currently takes care of Harrington's water needs, is being erected by the Chicago Bridge & Iron Works. The foundation was built by Harrington Lumber & Supply Company.

Birthdays Celebrated At Cahall Home

A family birthday dinner was given on Sunday at the home of Mrs. Blanche Cahall, in honor of Mrs. Blanche Bell's mother, and Mrs. Annie Laurie Clark, who were celebrating their birthdays. It was Mrs. Bell's 83rd birthday.

Those present were, two sons of Mrs. Bell, Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Bell, Mt. Ranier, Md. and Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Bell and children, Skipper and Marthann, Hyattsville, Md.; Mr. and Mrs. Fred Greenly Jr. and children, Fred 3d, David and Allen, of Paradise Farms.

On Wednesday evening, Mrs. Blanche Cahall entertained in honor of her mother, Mrs. Blanche Bell, and sister, Mrs. Annie Laurie Clark, with open house, celebrating their birthdays. During the evening a number of friends were in to wish them happy returns of the day. The decorations were of autumn flowers. The table arrangement was with yellow chrysanthemums, with gold candles. Refreshments were served.

Continue Mowing Lawns In Fall, Advises Landscape Architect

Don't put that lawn mower away too soon.

Your lawn needs mowing just as long as it continues to grow in the fall, says Carl Johnson, University of Maryland landscape architect.

It's an old-fashioned idea, says Johnson, to let lawn grass grow long in the fall and remain that way over winter. Ideally, a lawn should be kept in such condition that no more than an inch of top growth is ever cut off at one time. Research has shown that it is harmful to cut off too much of the top at once.

If, for some reason, grass growth does get too far ahead of you, as happens sometimes in the best-managed households, then by all means remove the clippings after you mow, says Johnson. Loss of a large portion of its top growth plus being smothered by long clippings is enough to kill even well-established grasses.

When the lawn is mowed often enough so that clippings average between a half-inch and an inch, it is generally beneficial to allow the clippings to remain where they fall. As they decompose, says Johnson, they will add humus and help to maintain or improve the condition of the soil.

Another good reason for keeping the lawn mowed in the fall, according to Johnson, is that tall grass provides a favorable place for insects and plant diseases to hibernate over winter.

Stretching and Shrinking of Rugs Is Explained

The change may not happen right in front of her eyes, but the homemaker can expect to see a change in the length of her carpet or rug unless it exhibits the label, "Sanforized."

These changes in length are influenced entirely by the backing, according to Vivian L. Curnutt, home furnishings specialist of the University of Maryland. They are not caused by the kind of yarns in the nap.

The specialist explains that fibers and fabrics are kept under tension during the manufacturing processes. This tension tends to stretch them. The fibers stay stretched until moisture causes them to relax. Excess humidity will cause gradual shrinking while rugs are on the floor. Moisture causes backing yarns to swell, causing other threads to draw and making the rug shorter.

Some weaves will shrink more than others, even as much as 10 per cent. A rug cleaning institute claims most of the shrinkage may be stretched back. Use of special equipment and methods helps to hold most rugs to size when cleaned and dried.

Despite its warm climate and the barefoot habit of rural areas, Nicaragua's shoe consumption has been steadily gaining. Managua learns—18 per cent in 1954, to 506,328 pairs sold.

Tommy Dorsey Stops at Dairy Queen And Manager Irwin Recognizes Him

It's hard to tell which one was surprised the most—Tommy Dorsey or Bill Irwin.

Two men stopped at Irwin's Dairy Queen, on U. S. 13, Wednesday night and ordered a large cone and a chocolate milkshake. Irwin said to one: "How are you doing, Tommy?" The person addressed was Tommy Dorsey, who, with his manager, was on his way to Seaford to play at the annual ball given by the State Police.

Irwin recognized Dorsey thru having seen him at the Earle Theatre in Philadelphia. Dorsey was pleasantly surprised, on being recognized, and he and his manager spent some time talking about Dairy Queen.

Dorsey and his manager had changed a tire up the road and, at Irwin's behest, used the Dairy Queen's facilities to clean up.

Veterans Day To Be Observed November 11

Plans for the state-wide observance of Veterans Day on Nov. 11 are progressing, it was announced this week by Brig. Gen. Harry B. VanSciver, state chairman, and a number of individual communities have expressed their desire to hold local affairs in connection with the second annual event. The day was formerly observed as Armistice Day, marking the cease-fire of World War I.

So far events have been scheduled in Dover, Milford, Lewes, and others are in the making. General VanSciver said today.

So far nothing has developed in the Wilmington area with the exception of a party at the Veterans Administration Hospital, sponsored jointly by veterans' organizations and their auxiliaries. Gen. VanSciver announced the appointment of the following committee chairmen for that affair: Mrs. Florence Goldstein, War Veterans, refreshments committee; Thomas B. Egan, American Legion, entertainment committee, and Anthony J. Ciccone, Disabled American Veterans, token gift committee.

General VanSciver said that he was disappointed that to date neither state nor Wilmington school officials had shown any interest or desire in marking the day. He is prepared to furnish speakers for schools and service clubs requesting them, it was pointed out. Those interested may contact General VanSciver at Wilmington 8-7528.

In Milford the Veterans of Foreign Wars are planning ceremonies at the Lakeview School, where there will be presentation of six American flags to classrooms and appropriate exercises.

A joint veterans committee is planning a 2 p.m. ceremony on Dover Green, to be preceded by a short parade, it was announced this week by William Melville, general chairman. Further details of these affairs, including names of speakers, will be announced soon, committee members said.

NEW CHEVROLET ON DISPLAY HERE NOV. 4

The new 1956 Chevrolet will go on display for the first time locally Friday, Nov. 4, at Harrington Motor Company.

Traditionally, one of the outstanding automotive events of the year, the showing locally will coincide with the unveiling of the 1956 models at dealerships all over the United States.

F. B. Smith, local Chevrolet dealer, has issued a cordial invitation to all the people of this community and the surrounding area to attend the formal showing of the new models here.

The dealership will be open throughout the day and night Nov. 4 and the entire staff will be on hand to welcome the public, answer questions about the many new features and give demonstration rides in the 1956 models.

Firemen's Campaign For Funds Continues

Next week, Mrs. Malek, the art director, will publish the best theme written on the trip to Washington. The fare for the round trip was $2.50. This amount is given as a prize for the best description of the day's tour.

Press Club Trip On Tuesday afternoon, Oct. 25, 19 members of the Press Club took advantage of the invitation extended by the Delaware State News to visit the newspaper offices and see the paper being printed.

We were especially interested in the new electric eye machine for reproducing photographs. Since the State News became our first Kent County daily paper, new machinery has been installed. The press can now print 200 copies

Trinity WSCS To Conduct Service

The Woman's Society of Christian Service will have charge of the evening service on Sunday, Oct. 30, in connection with the Week of Prayer and Self-Denial. On Monday night, Oct. 31, the UNICEF Hallowe'en will be held at the Century Club. Members of both the Asbury and Trinity WSCS Societies will be on hand to assist the children and serve refreshments. All children in the community are invited to participate in the affair.

The regular meeting of the WSCS will be held on Tuesday evening in the church annex. The program will be in charge of Mrs. Earl Sylvester and will be entitled, "Women and the Church Through the Centuries." Mrs. Boyer and her circle will be hostess for the evening.

The regular meeting of the Lions Club was held at the Wonder-R on Monday evening, with Lion President Draper presiding. It was most gratifying to the club to learn how well the community has responded to the electric bulb sale. This is one of the club's fund-raising activities and the proceeds are being used for community projects. Any one not contacted who would desire to have some electric bulbs, please contact any Lions Club member and they shall be most anxious to supply you with the bulbs. The speaker for the evening was Dr. Hudson of the State Board of Health, who gave the history of polio. He explained the various kinds of the disease and gave an excellent explanation of the Salk vaccine. From his report we became aware of the thanks we owe our legislature and state board of health for supplying enough vaccine for all children from first through fourth grades to be vaccinated, as this is the most susceptible age group.

The New AC-CENT

AMAZING INTERIOR LATEX PAINT WITH PLASTIC BASE . . . FAR SUPERIOR TO ORDINARY RUBBER BASE PAINT

It's here at last—

- AC-CENT — the new UniCo interior latex paint with a plastic base. Taps in appearance, durability, permanence — vastly superior to any ordinary rubber base paints on the market. Look at the features that make AC-cent better:
★ Remarkable new acrylic type latex (plastic) base— Same kind of material used in radar noses of bombers.
★ Odorless — Put on two coats the same day; sleep in the room that night.
★ Dries in twenty minutes — You can apply second coat in an hour.
★ Permanent, durable, scrub resistant — Can be scrubbed until 12 hours after painting. Rubber base paints cannot be washed for 30 days.
★ Can be applied on any clean interior surface— Goes on smoothly, evenly, easily over bare plaster, wall paper, enamel. No streaking, no smearing. And no primer required.
★ Solvent and grease resistant — Makes outstanding finish for kitchens, bathrooms.
★ Easy clean-up — Just wash hands, roller, brushes under water tap.
★ 12 Exquisite colors and white.
Try this ultra-modern, completely different kind of paint and you will see how it does the job easier, faster, better — gives you the most attractive serviceable finish imaginable. Yes, you'll be thrilled and delighted with amazing new AC-cent paint. Try it right away.

university last spring, is spending this week in Kansas City. This year we sent an exhibit of potatoes to Springfield, Mass., to the Eastern States exposition. We won second place and a cash award. Friday night, Oct. 14, was the scene of our first activity. We had our annual F.F.A. dance, held in the school auditorium. Refreshments were sold and everyone spent an enjoyable evening. We made a profit of $48.

4-H Highlights—On Oct. 3 at Greenwood Fire Hall, the Greenwood High Elfers held their last meeting. James McDowell, our vice-president, called the meeting to order in the absence of the president. This was followed by Bible reading by Richard Revel. James led the club members in the 4-H pledge and flag salute.

Jean McDowell, secretary and treasurer, read the minutes and treasurer's report, which were approved. It was reported that Lee Whitmore motored to Harrisburg, Pa., to compete in an egg-judging contest. Lee was eligible for this trip because of his judging at the fair. The business of the meeting was to elect new officers for 1956. James McDowell was elected president, Richard Revel, vice-president, and second year, as reporter. Jean McDowell is to serve her third year as secretary and was also elected treasurer. Ronnie Webb and Lee Whitmore are the chairmen for refreshments and entertainment. James McDowell has been notified that he has won first in the county for his field crop projects. Donnie Lee Lorfman is our new member for October.

Farmington
Don't forget the Farmington firemen's supper Friday evening in the schoolhouse, beginning at 4. Mrs. Sam Marshall of Milford, Mrs. Mae Williams, Mrs. George Biddle of Virginia, Mrs. Thomas Biddle and Mrs. Dave Grant spent Tuesday in Easton, Md.

Mrs. Edward Collins was in Wilmington last Wednesday. Mr. and Mrs. William Gray entertained Mr. and Mrs. Milton Pratt of Linwood, Pa.; Mr. and Mrs. Neal Jarvis of Delmar, Md., and Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Andrews at dinner Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Lester Hatfield attended the Tommy Dorsey dance at the Seaford Fire Hall Friday evening. Mrs. Dave Grant, Mrs. C. F. Maguigan, Mrs. George Biddle and Mrs. Thomas Biddle attended the antiques show in Laurel last Wednesday.

Mrs. Woodrow Draper entertained several friends Thursday afternoon at a fashion show. Mr. and Mrs. Robert Messick are receiving congratulations on the birth of a baby girl, born last Monday in the Milford Memorial Hospital.

George Biddle and daughter, of Virginia, arrived in Farmington Monday, to spend a few days visiting his sister-in-law, Mrs. Thomas Biddle. Mrs. William Fleischer Sr. is among those on the sick list. Mr. and Mrs. Lester Mitchell attended the Tommy Dorsey dance Thursday evening.

Lester Hatfield flew to Greenville, S. C., Monday afternoon, to spend a few days. He was sent there by the DuPont Company in Seaford. Mrs. Dave Grant attended the funeral of a very dear friend in Philadelphia, on her way to New York City, where she will spend two weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Collins are the proud owners of a new car. The Greenwood Band went to Newark a week ago last Saturday and participated in the homecoming activities and the football game at the University of Delaware. We are mighty proud of this band and hope to hear more of their activities as the weeks go by.

Mr. and Mrs. Mart Uhler and Mr. and Mrs. John Hitchens of Uhlerville attended the open house at the Chrysler plant in Newark last Sunday. The Firemen's Ladies Auxiliary regular meeting will be held Friday evening, Oct. 28, 8 p.m. New officers will be installed for the year, by our new state president, Mrs. Angie Potter of Harrington. Luther Burbank Hi-Lights—Sept. 7-Oct. 17. Our first meeting was devoted to electing officers. Roger Butler was elected president and conducted the rest of the meeting. Leon Rust was elected vice-president, James McDowell, secretary; Lee Whitmore, treasurer; David Norval, chaplain; Richard Revel, reporter; Willis Butler, sentinel. We had five officers to attend the 1955 leadership conference. Dicky Davis, a freshman, won an award of $10 for outstanding work in dairying. Delaware Food Market Report
Have a good supply of apples on hand when "trick or treat" visitors arrive on Hallowe'en. Among the inexpensive varieties of apples, fine for eating out of hand are McIntosh, Cortland, Golden Delicious and Stayman. Red Delicious apples also are excellent for Hallowe'en treats but usually bring higher prices. Special promotions on apples are being conducted in many stores in connection with National Apple Week, and the values are unusually good. Several other fresh fruits are in the "good buy" class this week. Cranberries are in the greater supply than last year and prices remain low, making it possible to add extra color and flavor to meals with little cost by serving cranberry sauce. Florida orange prices have been higher than a year ago because the crop matured later, but harvesting has picked up and prices are down to 1954 levels. The Tokay grape crop is 30 per cent larger than last year, making these prices very attractive. Bartlett and Bosc pears are a fairly good buy. Economical fall vegetables are featured in most stores this week-end. Broccoli and cauliflower, often fairly high in price, are now among the best values. Cabbage is good. Peppers, cucumbers, radishes, spinach, turnip greens, squash and carrots are all low in price. Both white potatoes and sweet potatoes continued to sell at low levels, which make them exceptionally good choices in vegetables. Liberal supplies of pork are holding prices steady at the seasonally low point reported last week. Cuts offering the greatest economy are shank halves of ham, pork loin roasts, Boston butts, spareribs and picnic shoulders. Beef, lamb and veal have advanced in price very slightly since last week. There is still a wide assortment of thrifty cuts on the market. Among them are: blade cut chuck roast of beef, ground beef, rump, rib and round roasts of beef, shoulder cuts of lamb and veal, leg of lamb, lamb patties, beef and lamb stew meat, and liver. Broiling and frying chickens have declined in price during recent weeks and are now an excellent value. Other foods which are in plentiful supply and low in price include: canned tuna, raisins, rice, lard, cooking oils and dates. Dairy products, including milk, while not as abundant as earlier this year, are at near-record levels of supply for October, and most prices are very favorable for consumers.

STOCK, POULTRY PRICES IN STATE FOR PAST WEEK
The following is a weekly roundup of livestock prices and miscellaneous commodities prevailing last week. This report shows average prices received by Delaware farmers for commodities that were marketed throughout this week.

Entertaining Bill At Reese Theatre
Another "bang-up" show is listed for Movie Center patrons this Friday and Saturday, Oct. 28 and 29. Farley Granger, Richard Quinn and Anne Bancroft are the featured stars in United Artists' new release, "The Naked Street," the No. 1 top attraction, with Dale Robertson and Jeanne Crain in "City of Bad Men," and a Happy Cartoon Carnival completing this highly entertaining bill. Hallowe'en is here, and the ghosts and goblins take over. If one has a weak heart, it would be better to stay away from Dracula's Ghost Convention and Spook-orama, Saturday midnight, Oct. 29. The doors open at 11:30 p.m. and "Dracula rises from his coffin on the stroke of 12."

MGM, the company that gave you "Blackboard Jungle," now comes forth with another unusual hit in "Trial," with Glenn Ford, Dorothy McQuire and John Hodiak. According to critics, here is a picture that will lift you from your seat. Now playing at Radio City to overflowing crowds; nothing but praise by newspaper and public, urging everyone to see it.

We made some disappearing ink for Hallowe'en.

We wrote on paper with dilute sulphuric acid, lemon juice, and onion juice. When we held the paper near the fire, the writing appeared. Some of us got the paper too near the flame and it caught on fire.

Harrington Defeats Milford
By Rae Smith, Sports Editor
Harrington Varsity was victorious over Milford Varsity Wednesday, Oct. 12, by a score of 3-0.

Harrington JV lost to Milford 2-0. Both games were played well, with a lot of action.

The Harrington Varsity has won four games out of four played. The JV has won one out of four played.

Our next game is with Delmar, Oct. 20, at Harrington and should be very good. Come out and support your undefeated hockey team!

Grade 2—Mrs. Brown

We have a new student. He came to us from Kentucky. His name is Mike Tolliver.

We had our first spelling lesson Monday. We didn't know we could spell so many words.

Donald Wells came to school all dressed up in his new Davy Crockett suit.

Norman Legates has a new pencil case. We are looking forward to getting our report cards next week.

Grade 2—Mrs. West

We all had our pictures taken on Monday, Oct. 10. We like to write news. We read in our weekly reader. The grass in our school yard is growing greener and greener. We hope you liked our assembly.

We thank Anthony's mother for making his mouse suit. We enjoyed giving the play for you.

We have a large calendar. We mark it to tell the weather.

U. of D. Educator Receives Award As Book Author

The annual awards committee of the American Association for State and Local History has announced that Dr. John A. Munroe, chairman of the department of history at the University of Delaware, has been selected to receive an award for his recently published book, "Federalist Delaware, 1775-1815."

Fifty-four awards have been presented to individuals, historical societies, books, newspapers and other organizations in Canada and the United States for distinguished service in the cause of making Americans better aware of their local history.

The awards fall into seven categories, which include state or provincial historical societies; regional, county, local and junior historical societies; scholarly and popular histories and biographies; newspapers which have paid unusual attention to local history; individuals and organizations of various kinds which have aroused intelligent interest in the heritage of the American people.

The awards were made after careful selection, at state, regional and national levels, by a committee of 11 distinguished historical leaders, representing every section of Canada and the United States. The winners will receive certificates in recognition of their various achievements.

Dr. Munroe is a native Delawarean, who was born and raised in Wilmington, and attended Wilmington High School and the University of Delaware. In 1951-52, he was awarded a Ford fellowship and spent a year in the western part of the United States for research and study purposes. He is the author of a number of publications and a member of several historical societies, the Phi Kappa Phi Honor Society, and the American Association of University Professors.

recent full-length book, was published by the Rutgers University Press last year.

Uniform Ear-tagging For Cattle Approved

A nationwide, uniform plan for identifying dairy and beef cattle with only one ear-tag for each animal, is being pioneered by the U. S. Department of Agriculture, according to County Agent George Vapaa.

The plan is based on a numbering system found practical in the past for use in dairy herd improvement activities.

This new system provides a combination of letters and numbers sufficient to tag more than eight billion cattle in the United States and territories without a single duplication. Thus many different groups may use the identification number provided by the first tagging of an animal without danger of finding later that several cattle had this same number.

The most important feature of the new system is a single "book" (record of number assignments) kept in each state. Official agencies and groups will continue to buy identification tags where they choose, but they first obtain a block assignment of numbers from the federal or state official keeping the book within the state.

Animal disease eradication workers report that one of the chief difficulties in tracing cases of bovine tuberculosis back to their point of origin is the lack of adequate identification of animals sent to market. In some cases an animal recently killed has been found to have the same tag number as that carried by an animal still living.

Major advantages of the new plan are: (1) no duplication of identification numbers, (2) only one tag per animal, (3) no additional cost to individuals and groups. As central booking offices are established at state initiative, the USDA anticipates that the new system for uniform numbering will be quickly and widely adopted.

Treat Infested Wheat Before Cold Weather

Examine wheat stored in farm bins and fumigate any infested by weevils before cold weather, advises County Agent George Vapaa.

Wheat not treated at harvest time with weevil protective powder, or any put in uncleaned bins, can be infested easily by these insects. Two per cent weevil damage constitutes grain contamination, according to federal food and drug rulings. Also the presence of two rodent pellets per pint classifies it as unfit for milling into flour. Weevily and rodent-contaminated grain is subject to downgrading and can be sold only for livestock feed.

Some country elevators already have reported carloads of wheat intercepted and rejected for milling because of such contamination.

Chemicals sold for grain fumigation usually carry two or three carbon compounds and must be used at the proper dosage to be effective. To find the number of bushels in a bin, multiply the cubic foot volume of the grain by 3.8.

Wheat fumigated by the middle of October has an excellent chance of going through the normal storage period in good condition for milling.

Beware of warm spots in the grain, warns Vapaa. During the winter weevils ball up in local areas and keep such grain warm. Turning the grain is all that can be done at that time as fumigants are ineffective in unheated rooms.

HOLD FALL MEETING HOME ECONOMISTS

Miss Mary F. Shoffner, Rehoboth Beach, president of the Delaware Home Economics Association, has announced that the fall meeting will be held Saturday, from 9:30 a.m. to 12:30 p.m., in the Home Economics Building at the University of Delaware.

The program is to include a short business meeting, reports on the American Home Economics meeting in Minneapolis and the White House Education Conference, travel-talks by three of the members who toured Europe this summer, and a workshop on the year's program of work.

Leaders of the workshop will be Miss Betty Ruth Joyce, field secretary of the American Home Economics Association, Washington, D. C., and Mrs. Dorothy Smith, Wilmington, vice-president and program chairman of D. H. E. A. Special emphasis will be placed on the part the Delaware association can play in furthering the national association objective, "to co-operate in the attainment of the well-being of individuals, the improvement of homes, and the preservation of values significant in home life."

U. of D. Professor Author of Book

Dr. Cyrus L. Day, professor of English at the University of Delaware, is the author of a new book, "The Art of Knotting and Splicing," which has been published by the U. S. Naval Institute.

Dr. Day's interest in knots and sailing dates to about 1908 when his family used to rent a summer cottage at Cape Cod.

"My father insisted that lines be coiled, knots tied correctly," Dr. Day explains, "and it was he who first stimulated my interest in this direction."

Another impetus to his interest in knots came from his acquaintance with the famous yachtsman, Carl Weagant, who attracted attention when he sailed his 46-foot cutter "Carlsark" from Ithaca, N. Y., to Ithaca, Greece. Dr. Day was on a cruise with Weagant from New London to Baltimore and suggestions made by him led to further research in rope strengths and knot tying. Weagant, incidentally, later became an editor of "Yachting Magazine."

Dr. Day's next stop was at Columbia University, where he conducted a series of tests on the strength of Manila rope and on how much certain basic knots weakened the rope when in situations of stress and strain. These findings and other experiences collected around 1933 led to his first book, "Sailors' Knots," which was published in 1953 in England and America.

In 1947, a new, revised, and larger book, "The Art of Knotting and Splicing," was published. Pocket editions based upon the first book were printed in England and America in 1953 under the title, "Knots and Splices." His present edition, again revised, has been printed by the U. S. Naval Institute.

Dr. Day also has had two articles accepted by "Western Folklore," a periodical published by the California Folklore Society. The first of these, "Knots and Knot Lore: A Study in Primitive Beliefs and Superstitions," was printed in 1950.

The second will appear in 1956 under the title, "Knots and Knot Lore: Quipus and Other Menmonic Knots." A quipu is a knot record used by the ancient Incas, who had no written language, to record statistical information and remind them of their history and traditions. Many have been found preserved in Inca graves.

Dr. Day has been associated with the university since 1931. One of the most popular professors on the campus, he has been active in a number of extracurricular activities, especially dramatics, and is an honorary member of the student theatre group, the E-52 Players.

Sheep, Wool Assn. Elects President

At the regular meeting of the Delaware Sheep and Wool Association, Inc., on Oct. 19, Don Conclio of Great Geneva, on Air Base Road, Dover, succeeded Archie B. Bagwell, Smyrna, as president of the association.

At the election of officers for 1956, William Gray of Whitelburg, was made president-elect; Floyd Blessing of Houston, was named chairman of the wool pool, and Earl Rambo, also of Houston, vice-chairman. Mrs. Henry R. Goggin, Camden, and Mrs. Don Conclio were re-elected secretary and treasurer, respectively, for both the association and the wool pool committee.

Considerable interest was expressed by the members of the association to sponsor and conduct a lamb pool in 1956. A committee will be named to report to the association at a future meeting on plans that can be made.

India will take a livestock census.

Our WSCS will meet with Mrs. J. A. Willoughby next Wednesday afternoon. A large attendance is desired.

While working with a corn picker, J. A. Willoughby had the misfortune to have the clothing torn from his body, but he wasn't seriously hurt.

Mrs. T. H. Towers and Mrs. Gertrude Tripp were dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Frank E. Adams, Monday of last week.

Mrs. Allie Neal, Mrs. Clarence Rice, Mrs. Madison Towers and Mrs. Carl Towers were recent guests of Mrs. J. A. Willoughby. Mrs. Frank Wright spent a recent weekend at her Denton home.

Mrs. Lewis Butler spent part of last week with her son, Marvin Butler and family, Tuckahoe Neck. Master Tommy Lee Thomas, Easton, spent Sunday with his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. L. H. Thomas.

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Willoughby of near Burrsville, Lee Anthony of Washington, D. C., and James Mundt, Preston, were recent Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Willoughby and family.

Mrs. B. B. Allen, Mrs. T. H. Towers and Mrs. Gertrude Tripp visited Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Ricards, Denton, Tuesday afternoon of last week. Mrs. Tripp, who had spent a few days with her sister, Mrs. T. H. Towers, started for her Michigan home on Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. L. H. Thomas and grandson, Tommy Lee, were Sunday afternoon guests of Mr. and Mrs. Neil G. Edgell and family, of rural Seaford.

Mr. and Mrs. William Collins and daughter, Federalsburg, were Saturday evening guests of Mr. and Mrs. Roland Towers and family.

Shirley Faye Butler spent a few days with her grandmother, Mrs. Lewis Butler.

Our community was shocked to learn of the accidental drowning of Mr. and Mrs. Wilson Todd, Cambridge, on Saturday last. Mr. Todd, a salesman for the Delmarva Hardware Company of Salisbury, was well known here and very much liked. Sympathy is extended to their only child, Ronald E. Todd, with the Marines at Camp Pendleton, Calif., and other relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Ricards, Denton, were Monday afternoon guests of Mrs. B. B. Allen. Mr. and Mrs. Enoch Strannan were Friday guests of Mrs. C. V. Clarke.

Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Lister visited relatives at Pocomoke City last Sunday.

Mrs. Nelson Bishop and Mr. and Mrs. Fred Seward, Ridgely, were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Carlton Seward one day last week.

Magnolia

(From Last Week)

Mr. and Mrs. Walter McDonald had as a guest on Tuesday and Wednesday, her aunt, Mrs. Laura Schively of Ridgely, Md. On Wednesday they spent the day in Merchantville, N. J., visiting Mrs. Schively's sister, Mrs. James Powell.

On Sunday, Mr. and Mrs. McDonald, accompanied by her sister-in-law, Mrs. Harry Gottwals and family, of Dover, visited their brother, Abe Gottwals and family, in Millersville, Md.

Mrs. Carrie Muncy is visiting her children, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Frampton and family, in Denton. The Saguaque Council of Pocahontas has been attending a series of raising of chiefs. This ceremony was performed by the deputy grand Pocahontas, Mrs. Bess Dill, and her assistant, Mrs. Blanche Richards. The first raising was on Monday, Oct. 3, in the Ayita Council No. 19 of Selbyville. On Tuesday they traileed to Georgetown for the raising of chiefs in the Anona Council. The Iona Council of Milford held its raising on Monday, Oct. 10 and on Tuesday the local council held its raising ceremony here. The final ceremony in this series was held at the Delawana Council at Rehoboth on Wednesday evening. Members of the Saguaque Council attending were: Mrs. Bess Dill, Mrs. Blanche Richards, Mrs. Anna Orris, Mrs. Sallie Barrett, Mrs. Katie Knight and Mrs. Elizabeth Schwartz.

Mrs. Thomas Kennedy is visiting in Linwood, Pa. with her daughter, Mrs. Charles Jones and Mr. Jones.

Broilers Featured At Atlantic City Farm-Home Show

"Delmarvelous" broilers will be in the spotlight when the Mid-Atlantic Farm and Home Show gets under way in Atlantic City, N. J., on Nov. 2, according to J. Frank Gordy, Delaware extension poultryman.

Gordy, who heads up the show's Delmarva committee, reported that a final polishing is now being given to the display which will occupy approximately 800 square feet of floor space.

Three special phases of the broiler industry will be demonstrated. Broilers as efficient producers of meat is the theme for the first part of the display, with details of its execution being handled by Gordy and Dr. William Mellen, University of Delaware poultry geneticist, and James Nicholson, University of Maryland extensionist. Committeemen plan the use of charts, scales and other devices to illustrate the tremendous progress that has been made in developing more efficient broilers.

Better merchandising of poultry meat is the theme of the second part of the display and is being planned by Robert Bull and W. T. McAllister, University of Delaware. Rounding out the exhibit will be a full-scale demonstration of cookery with home economists of the Poultry and Egg National Board putting on a continuous demonstration of the simplicity, economy and versatility of poultry meat.

Farm show officials have set aside Thursday, Nov. 3, as "Delmarva Day," with special bus tours and auto caravans bringing growers from the Eastern Shore. One of the highlights of the day will be a chicken barbecue, cooked and served right on the boardwalk in front of Atlantic City's Convention Hall. D. Ernest Matthews, Salisbury, Md., will be in charge. Chicken barbecues will be staged on each of the four days of the show, with "Delmarvelous" broilers served piping hot to the thousands of visitors.

A special roster of speakers has been lined up for Delmarva Day. Dr. James Gwin, general manager of the Poultry and Egg National Board, will talk on consumer education and promotion, while George R. Vail, national poultry products manager for General Foods Corp., will discuss merchandising and packaging.

All four days of the giant three-state show will be packed with special events, Gordy announced. Displays include a million-volt electron gun that preserves food without refrigeration, a model atomic farm generator, farm equipment (ancient and modern), a 14-foot apple pie, a tri-state dairy show and a contest for the woodchopping championship of Delaware, Maryland and New Jersey.

Hotel chefs will pit their skill at carving turkeys, while special contests will crown a favorite farmer's daughter and favorite farmer's wife. For sportsmen, there are hunting dog field trials in the ballroom, a three-state wildlife exhibit, and a giant fish pond, where kids and grown-ups can test their casting skill for legal-sized trout.

Special farm show tickets and programs are available through the Delaware Extension Service.

13 Delaware 4-H Winners Get Trips To Chicago

Twenty-seven state-wide winners have just been named in the 1955 National 4-H Club Awards contests for Delaware, announces Sam Gwinn, state leader of 4-H club work at the University of Delaware. Of these, 13 already have won expense-free trips to Chicago to attend the National 4-H Club Congress, Nov. 27 to Dec. 1. Seven more are still in competition with state winners from other states in the northeast for regional prizes. Winners of these regional prizes also will get a free trip to Chicago.

All who win the Chicago trips will compete on a national basis for cash scholarships worth $300 each. There will be a total of 162 of these awarded during the National 4-H Club Congress. State winners who do not earn the coveted Chicago trip will nevertheless receive wrist watches, savings bonds, trophies or cash awards.

All awards, including prizes for county winners as well, have been donated by national sponsors—one of whom is President Eisenhower.

Winners of the Chicago trips and their particular 4-H projects are: James Williams, Seaford, boys' agricultural program; Rene Stevens, Smyrna, canning; Norma Robb, Dover, clothing; Richard Green, Middletown, dairy; Jane Walton, Newark, dress revue; James McDowell, Greenwood, field crops; Betty Adams, Bridgeville, food preparation; Robert Smith, Bridgeville, garden; Dolores Ulmer, Hockessin, girls' record; Nancy Ray Cecil, Wilmington, home improvement; Richard Reed, Townsend, poultry; Carolyn Marsh, Smyrna, safety; Arnold Moore, Laurel, tractor.

Other state 4-H winners, seven of whom are still competing for regional prizes are: Ray Johnson, Newark, beautification of home grounds; Kathy Schulz, Hockessin, bread demonstration; Janet Pierson, Hockessin, bread demonstration; Grace Elliott, Delmar, dairy foods demonstration; Marie Woerner, Newark, dairy foods demonstration; Joyce Elliott, Seaford, alternate dairy foods winner; Mary Ann Paterson, Newark, entomology; Abby Ann Apgar, Townsend, alternate entomology winner; Dolores Elliott, Laurel, frozen foods; Sylvia Field, Newark, leadership; Fred Grampp, Dover, leadership; Calvin Hollis, Houston, meat animal; Edward Wilson, Newark, public speaking; Betty Hayes, Houston, public speaking.

Rosanna Messick of Kent County and Franklin Melson of Sussex County were winners of the alumni recognition award given former 4-H members who have continued their interest in 4-H work and made outstanding records as volunteer leaders of clubs in their community.

In addition to these individual awards, there were six club awards and one county-wide award for safety projects. This latter was won by Kent County. The Hous-ton Cardinals Club of Kent County and the Blue Hen 4-H Club of New Castle County, had the best health projects. The Cardinals club won the state award for best club safety project, as well.

Club awards for the best Rural Arts and Recreation program went to the Delmar 4-H Club of Sussex County; the Blue Hen 4-H Club of New Castle County, and the Green Meadows 4-H Club of New Castle County.

State-Wide Rat Control Program Starts Nov. 1

A month-long campaign to cut down the rat population hampering Delaware farmers gets under way next week, it was announced today by Ray Lloyd, assistant agricultural extension agent in Georgetown. Lloyd, who heads the University of Delaware activities in the campaign, says that the Future Farmers, 4-H clubs, the Grange, the Delaware Poultry Improvement Association and other farm organizations are getting behind this push. They plan a farm-by-farm campaign.

Slogan of the drive is to be "Thanksgiving Feast for Rats." The neighborhood committees in each area throughout the state will concentrate on a clean-up to remove harboring places for rats.

Following this, they will set out approved poisons by carefully supervised crews.

"Rats are a serious drain on farm production," Lloyd says. "It takes 40 counties the size of Sussex County to produce the food they eat in the United States each year. The rat population in the United States is now as large as the human population."

Kent Home Doings

By CHARLOTTE L. SWANSON

Have you circled Wednesday, Nov. 9, on your calendar? Yes, that's the date for the Kent County Achievement Day. It will be held in Capital Grange Hall, Dover, from 10:00 to 3:00.

Rev. Robert Duke, pastor of People's Christian Congregational Church, Dover, will be the main speaker. He will be on the program in the afternoon.

The morning portion of the program will include reports of activities and achievements as well as a skit which will be written and presented by Home Demonstration Club members. We will also have group singing and the presentation of songs written for the Home Demonstration song contest.

Plans for the program and arrangements have been made by the following committee: Mrs. Harvey Flifer, Wyoming, chairman; Mrs. William Conard, Dover; Mrs. William Sterling, Dover.

Veterans News and Answers To Questions

Q—I am drawing monthly disability compensation payments from VA, and I also am paying monthly premiums on my GI insurance. Would there be any way out of my compensation to take care of my insurance premiums, so that I wouldn't have to bother with them every month?

A—Yes. So long as your disability compensation checks are large enough to cover your GI insurance premiums, you may apply to VA to have the premiums taken out of your compensation.

Q—I am a Korea veteran and I have just been discharged from service. I plan to apply for Korean GI term insurance within 120 days from my separation. Will I have to take a physical examination?

A—No. A physical examination is not required. All you need do is file an application and pay your first premium—within the 120 days after your separation.

Q—If I buy a house with a GI loan, is the salesman's commission considered a part of the closing costs or a part of the purchase price of the house?

A—The salesman's commission is considered as a part of the purchase price of the house. The sales price including the commission may not exceed the "reasonable value" as set by VA.

Q—I understand a veteran's Korean GI training entitlement can be extended if it runs out when he is more than half-way through his semester at school. What about on-the-job training? Can entitlement be extended here, too?

A—No. GI training entitlement may not be extended for veterans taking on-the-job training.

To Demonstrate Woodland Methods

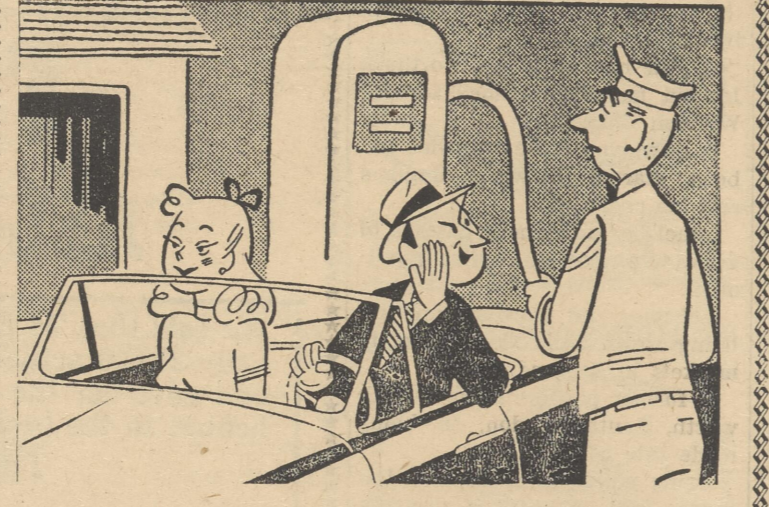

Engineers and foresters of the University of Delaware, the State Forest Service and the Soil Conservation Service have completed plans for this season's first big public demonstration of the latest in woodland improvement methods, it was announced today by Edward H. Schabinger, agricultural extension agent in New Castle County. The demonstration will be held Tuesday, Nov. 1, on the Wilbur C. Wilhelm farm, three miles north of Middletown and will feature tractor saws, power saws, fencepost preserving with farm equipment, chemical killing of trees and other shortcuts to profitable use of farm woodlands.

Engineers Ernie Scarborough and Bill Larsen of the University of Delaware will show how to preserve fenceposts with home-made equipment at a cost of only 10 to 20 cents a post. Such posts have a life of at least 15 years, they say.

Foresters will demonstrate the latest methods for selecting marketable trees from farm woodlands and will be available to discuss market outlets for farm timber cut this season.

To give down-state visitors a chance to attend, the demonstrations will not start until 1:30 p.m.

THE POLICE CAR NEEDS A RADIO

The police car should have a radio. This device, found in police cars in neighboring communities, is of especial benefit in communicating with the state police. Law violators, in many cases, move rapidly from place to place, in this motorized age, making their detection more difficult. A radio in the local police car would be a big help in getting the police, either local or state, on the job in a hurry.

GOING ALONG WITH THE CROWD

Most people are inclined to go along with the crowd. Undoubtedly, this is the reason dictators are so successful after they have organized small minorities which are taught to make a lot of noise. To test the theory, a Swarthmore college professor conducted tests with several hundred students. He picked groups of eight each, and arranged for the first seven to give the wrong answer to a simple question. One-third of the time the eighth student, nicknamed "the goat," would agree, contrary to the obvious fact. Tested alone, the "goat" knew the right answer. He wasn't a simple minded individual, since he was picked at random from the student body.

SCHOLASTIC HONORS GET RECOGNITION

After all these years, pupils with scholastic ability and who exercise it, are getting their recognition. Heretofore, it has been the football hero, the fellow who hit the home run, tossed in the winning basket, kicked the winning goal in soccer, who has been making the headlines. With such accolades, it has only been natural that the public has sometimes misconstrued the purpose of education. True, athletics play an important part but they should not hog the picture. Long after the feats of the football hero have been lost in the limbo of the past, the works of the scholar are benefiting mankind. And now the scholars are getting recognition. Elsewhere in this issue of this newspaper one will see the scholastic standing of students at Felton School. That is wonderful.

SMOOTH FALSE FOXGLOVE
© 1954 National Wildlife Federation
(Gerardia flava)

flava," which we use, should be applied to the Downy False Foxglove. Gray considers "Gerardia flava" to be the Smooth False Foxglove. At any rate, it should be obvious that there are a number of closely related species and at least the yellow-flowered "Gerardia flava" is smooth, not downy. The plant may be over six feet tall and the stem may be purplish or plain green. Many flowers may be borne near the top of the stems. The yellow corolla may be nearly two inches long, flaring at the open end and with a substantial tube at the lower end. The slender sections of the calyx are shorter than the corolla tube. There are four stamens, one pair of which is longer than the other. Pollination is effected by the visits of large butterflies and of bumblebees. The tube of the corolla is just about the right size to permit a busy bumblebee to hide himself while he gets a meal. Smooth False Foxgloves are found in dry woodlands where the trees commonly shed their leaves. They are found from Maine to southern Minnesota and south to Georgia and Alabama. They bloom continuously from July through September. Following pollination, the flowers shed and the plant becomes relatively uninteresting. The fruits are approximately three-fifths of an inch in length and about twice as long as the calyx tube. There are some 30 species of Gerardias to be found in the eastern United States. Some grow in open fields, while others, like this species, prefer woodlands. Some even prefer specific kinds of woodlands. This one is commonly found growing in association with oaks. It is needless to say that the National Wildlife Federation would favor anything being done to assure the prosperity of this, one of the most beautiful of our

wild flowers. — E. Laurence Palmer

Letter to the Editor

My Dear Winston: I have just read your article in The Harrington Journal editorial: "We need more housing." Before leaving Harrington after I had sold my home, I looked around to try and find a suitable house to live in. We drove to Milford and found an adorable little bungalow, recently built, modern conveniences, a spacious lot. Mr. Carl Webb, a local architect, has built a dozen of these bungalows. I am sure some enterprising citizen in Harrington could duplicate. Some way, in spite of the drawbacks, Harrington appealed to me. I lived nearly 30 years in my Virginia Colonial. Your old friend, MRS. FINCH

Social Security Office Explains Provisions of Law

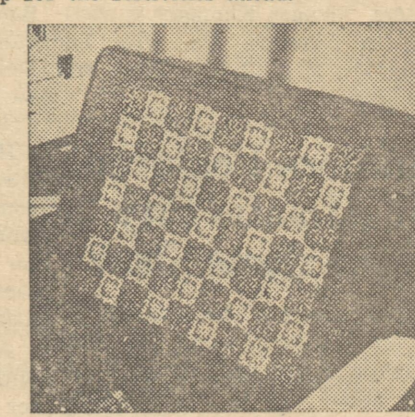

By living until 90 minutes past midnight, July 1, 1955, William A. Zochert, 65, of St. Paul, Minn., was able to satisfy a dying wish—to provide more security for his widow. Because he was able to cling to life until the early hours of July 1, Mrs. Zochert will receive $10 more per month in social security benefits for the rest of her life. She will also receive a lump-sum death benefit increase by $40 over what she would otherwise have been paid. Critically ill with a heart condition that had kept him from working since 1951, Mr. Zochert knew that he could not have the advantage of the new "disability freeze" provision in the social security law unless he could live until at least 12:01 a.m., July 1, 1955 is the first month for which increased amounts can be paid under this new provision. The "disability freeze" provision permits a worker who has become disabled before reaching 65 to apply to have his social security record frozen so that the years when he is unable to work will not be counted against him in figuring the amount of benefits payable to him at 65, or to his family in case of his death. Mr. Zochert had been receiving old-age insurance benefits since July 1954. Mrs. Zochert became entitled to monthly wife's benefits in June 1955, when she reached 65. If he had lived, both he and his wife would have received higher benefits effective with the check payable for the month of July. As it is, Mrs. Zochert will receive a widow's benefit of $57.30 a month, $10 more than she would have been paid if Mr. Zochert had not applied last January to have his social security record frozen, and then lived into July, the first month for which the increased amounts can be paid through the operation of the "disability freeze" provision. Mrs. Zochert said that her husband had been so ill that at times she didn't know how he could last. "But he hung on until July 1," she said, "because he knew I would need the higher social security checks to make the payments on our house." Mr. and Mrs. Zochert were forced to use their home as security for a loan last October in order to obtain money to pay for Mr. Zochert's medicine. The Social Security Administration urges all totally disabled people who worked under social security for five or more years before they became disabled, to get in touch with their nearest social security offices now. In Delaware, the Social Security office is located at 813 West Street, Wilmington. In the case of those already over 65, it may mean increases in their monthly social security retirement checks. Needlecraft News by Nancy Baxter Company's coming! All over the nation, families and friends will be gathering soon for an exchange of good wishes and merriment during the holiday season. If you are one who is expecting the usual household of guests, your busy days are starting right now. You are getting your home dressed up for the festivities ahead. IN A HOLIDAY MOOD Of course you don't have time to do any extensive redecorating, but you can put your home in a holiday mood by making a few, clever changes with crochet. Maybe you could replace those dollies on the end tables with ones that resemble delicate white snowflakes. The kitchen, which will attract guests with its delightful aroma of roast turkey, could be adorned with holiday pot-holders in festive colors. Perhaps your easy chairs could use a gay, seasonal change, too. Crochet a set or two of chair back and arm rest covers in the new spangled cotton that will reflect the glow of the Christmas tree. As a matter of fact, this metallic-blended cotton will add a gala note to any of your household accessories on display during holiday entertaining. And don't forget to use the extra strands for wrapping gift packages. SPARKLING CHAIR SET Crochet a Christmas gift for your arm chair—a chair set that sparkles with every stitch. The chair back and two arm rests are made up of small, square motifs joined in checkerboard fashion. In cinnamon and silver spangle, this set is as pretty as a dish of Christmas cookies. If you would like the directions for crocheting a MODERN MOTIF CHAIR SET, simply send a stamped, self-addressed envelope to the Needlework Department of this paper and ask for Leaflet No. 114.5.

Name Supervisor of Special Classes In Child Guidance

Dr. Georgia Frances Lightfoot of Hempstead, Long Island, has been named supervisor of special classes for the Division of Child Development and Guidance for the State Department of Public Instruction.

She replaces on a full-time basis, the part-time position left vacant by Mrs. Dorothy Guild, who will devote her entire time to the principalship of the John G. Leach School. Dr. Lightfoot will begin her duties Nov. 1.

Dr. Lightfoot has been a reading consultant and psychologist in the New York public schools for the past two years and has extensive research experience in psychological and educational testing and the personality characteristics of bright and dull children.

She is a native of Linden, Mich., attended private and public schools in Nevada and Michigan and was graduated from the Flint (Mich.) Central High School. She received the bachelor's and master's degree from the University of Michigan and the doctorate from Columbia University in 1949.

Dr. Lightfoot taught two years at the Hamtramck, Mich. school; 13 years in the Detroit public schools, one year at State Teachers College, Towson, Md.; two years at Hunter and Brooklyn Colleges in New York; two years at Hofstra College, Hempstead, N.Y.; two years in the Levittown School, Horace Mann School for Boys, and Centerport public schools in New York, where she served as school psychologist and reading consultant.

She has also been a visiting professor in the summer schools of Syracuse University, Trinity University, University of Vermont, and New Paltz State Teachers College.

During World War II, Dr. Lightfoot held the position of program director with the American Red Cross in England, France and Germany for two years, and was a civilian with the U. S. Army public relations division in Germany for three years.

Dr. Lightfoot is a member of Pi Lambda Theta, Kappa Delta Pi, N. E. A., American Psychological Association, International Council for Exceptional Children, National Council of Teachers of Remedial Reading, American Association of University Professors, American Association for the Advancement of Science, and A. A. U. W.

In addition to her public school and college teaching, Dr. Lightfoot has taught Americanization courses for adults and served as a practicing psychologist and private reading consultant.

Poultry, Vegetable Winners Picked

Russell Umstead of Dickerson, in Montgomery County, and Calvert Stewart of Lock Raven, in Baltimore County, took top honors and blue ribbons at College Park, Md., Friday, in the annual 4-H poultry and vegetable judging contest.

Russell accumulated 358 out of 900 points to take first place in the poultry judging, and Calvert earned 172 out of 201 points to take first in the vegetable judging.

Runners-up in poultry were: Jack Stabler, Sandy Springs, Montgomery County; Ted Rausch and John Twining, both from Glen Arm, Baltimore County, and fifth went to Roberto Huerta, Clarksburg, Montgomery County.

Vegetable judging runners-up were Eric Schumann and Major Bailey, both from Wicomico County; Harry Reinhardt, Howard, and fifth went to George Bradford Jr. of Wicomico.

In team judging, Montgomery County took first place in poultry, and Wicomico County was first in vegetable judging. Montgomery team members were Danny King, Damascus; Jack Stabler, Russell Umstead and Roberto Huerta. Team coach was Roscoe Whip, associate county agent.

Vegetable judging team members were: Eric Schumann, Major Bailey, George Bradford and Walter Whaley. Robert Miller, assistant county agent, coached the team.

The four high individual poultry winners will go as a team to the northeast poultry show at Boston, Mass., in January. The four high individuals in vegetable judging will be taken on an educational trip of local vegetable markets.

Military Advisers To CD Directors Are Appointed

Appointment of five military advisers to local Civil Defense directors in Delaware was announced today by D. Preston Lee, state Civil Defense director.

The aides, selected by the Delaware Military District headquarters, will assist local Civil Defense directors in drawing up tactical plans and also will advise them on conditions to be expected in wartime, Mr. Lee said.

The military advisers are: New Castle County except Newark, Lt. Col. Arno P. Mowitz Jr. of the Delaware Military District headquarters, Wilmington; Newark—Lt. Col. John G. Hodgson, University of Delaware; Kent County—Major Edward Hirsch, National Guard Armory, Dover; Sussex County except Lewes and Rehoboth areas—Lt. Col. Arthur B. Calhoun, USARTC, Seaford; Lewes and Rehoboth—Capt. Clarence B. Campbell, USARTC, Seaford.

At the same time, Mr. Lee pointed out that Civil Defense could expect only very limited support from the Army in a wartime emergency since "the military will be engaged in its primary mission of fighting the aggressor."

Army help for Delaware in wartime could be obtained, he said, only by a request direct from the state CD director to the commander of the Delaware Military district. Local CD directors would have to funnel their requests for military aid through the state director. Military support would be available only when "it has been determined that Civil Defense has used all available civilian resources," Mr. Lee said.

One exception, Mr. Lee added, is the Army's standing responsibility to send in specialist teams to remove "dud" bombs or unexploded ordnance left in the wake of an enemy air attack. The Army would do this only when requested by the state Civil Defense explosive ordnance reconnaissance division.

In peacetime planning, Mr. Lee explained, the Army stands ready to "encourage and assist" local communities in their Civil Defense preparations but "no Army equipment or supplies will be furnished for such preparations."

Britain and Canada supplied the United States with $25,000,000 worth of mink skins in 1954.

Maryland Herd First At Show

Maryland's 4-H Holstein herd was first place winner in a field of some seven other states at the International 4-H Dairy Show in Chicago early in October, according to John L. Morris, University of Maryland Extension dairyman. The Jersey 4-H herd of Maryland was fifth.

Individuals and the placing of their animals in the 4-H contest included: Virginia Derr of Carroll County, first prize senior yearling and junior champion heifer; Bob by Messer of Montgomery County, first prize junior yearling and reserve junior champion; William J. Janney of Montgomery County, third prize two-year-old; Juanita Adams of Montgomery County, second prize senior yearling and second to junior champion; Richard F. Lieske of Cecil County, third prize senior heifer calf, and David Brauning of Carroll County, second prize three-year-old and fourth prize four-year-old. All of these placings were in Holsteins.

In Jersey breed, Kenneth Stiles of Montgomery County exhibited the second prize two-year-old.

Three fundamental practices, made possible by DHIA records, are responsible for much of this improvement in American dairy herds over the years, says Schabinger. They are (1) culling unprofitable cows, (2) feeding the remaining cows according to their production, and (3) selecting the best breeding stock.

Dairymen organize, maintain and control their own associations. They hire and pay a supervisor, who tests all cows in each herd every month and maintains records. The testing is done under basic rules established by the American Dairy Science Association. At the end of the year, a 12-month record for each cow and each herd is computed from the records maintained in each owner's herd book. This book is used by the owner as a guide in the management of his cows.

Work in each state is under the guidance of county agricultural agents and the state extension dairyman. Yearly records are sent to Washington for analysis and filing by the U. S. Department of Agriculture's Dairy Husbandry research branch, which furnishes the records forms.

DHIA Testing and Records Mean Better Herds

Fifty years ago high-producing dairy cows were rare, even in well-managed herds. Today, high producers are the rule in every good herd. Much of this change has come about through the efforts of dairy herd improvement associations with their organized testing and record-keeping programs, says University of Maryland Extension Dairyman J. R. Schabinger.

In 1906, Helmer Rabild, an inspector for the Michigan Dairy and Food Department, convinced a group of dairymen that they should undertake a program of continuous testing and record-keeping for their herds. This plan, Rabild told the dairymen, was helping to improve dairy herds in his native Denmark.

In that initial year, 31 herds—239 cows—were registered and tested by the first Dairy Herd Im-
