The last game of the season for Harrington High Basketball teams was played Tuesday, at home with our illustrious alumni. The High School girls racked up 50 points to the alumnae, 10. The alumnae appeared a little overworked with only one substitute, Bobby O'Neil who also subbed as coach, and was playing on a court double the size of which they were used to during their varsity days.

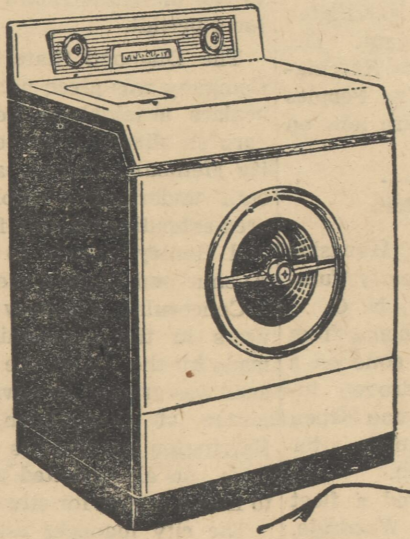

The alumni boys had a very good showing warming up after a slow start. J. Carpenter went wild the last 16 minutes playing time and dunked 11 points to emerge the high scorer. The final score was 47-37, in favor of H. H. S. The high scorers for H. H. S. were Darby, 9 points and Collison, 8 points. For five of the Varsity players, this too was their last basketball game and they received many yells also, during the game. The alumni are to be commended for showing such a fine interest in the support of the school.

Next week a complete tabulation of statistics for the seniors will be printed.

Comfortable in Winter? Come in and see how warm and cozy a Peerless Mobile Home can be!

Life in a Peerless is truly comfortable regardless of outdoor weather. A central heating furnace with underfloor ducts, thermostatically controlled, combined with electric ventilation makes the air more pleasant in a Peerless Mobile Home than it is in the usual permanent building.

Scientific use of Fiberglass and reflective insulation plus tight tongue and groove plywood floors assure heating economy, too. Fuel bills are surprisingly low. You get every household convenience in a Peerless... roomy living room, a truly complete kitchen with full size appliances, large airy bedrooms with the most modern innerspring mattresses and a large bathroom with standard plumbing.

Now on display at Moore's Community Esso just north of Harrington, U. S. 13.

Plant Growth Inhibited by New Chemical

Maleic hydrazide! Ever hear of it? The scientists call this chemical a growth inhibitor, that is, it slows down the growth of plants when you want to slow them down—like a lawn when its getting too much for your lawn mower.

Strawberry growers in Delaware may be using some of this season. Right now research men Chester Hitz and Milford Brown are testing it in the greenhouse at the University's Agricultural Experiment Station in Newark. Last season when they tried it on the Blakemore variety of strawberry, the yield was doubled to 6400 quarts per acre.

Ordinarily, commercial growers throughout the state grow 2400 to 3600 quarts per acre. So this maleic hydrazide is worth watching.

It's tricky stuff though, says Hitz. If you put it on at the right time and in the right amount it prevents strawberry plants from putting out too many runners.

This makes for fewer and larger plants per acre. But if you wait too long to put it on, or apply too much, it will slow up the growth of the fruit itself, Hitz reports. So that's why he and Brown are studying it now in the University greenhouse. They want to learn exactly how to apply it and when.

Soil Bank Plan Might Step Up Insect Control

The proposed federal soil bank plan, now being considered by Congress as a major part of this year's U. S. farm program, may well mean stepping up insect control programs on Delaware's farms, fields and forests, says Dr. Herbert Milliron, research specialist in entomology at the University of Delaware. This might not be necessary the first year, he said, but would mean quite a shift on studies and surveys of insect pests sometime within the next three or four years as the Soil Bank plan took full effect.

Reason why the Soil Bank would have this effect, says Dr. Milliron, is that it is likely to mean more grass, more wooded areas and less cropland on farms. This in turn will bring about a switch in insect pests with more emphasis necessary on control programs for armyworms, June beetles, Jap beetles, wireworms, leafhoppers, cutworms and plant bugs.

If the soil bank plan results in Delaware farmers putting more emphasis on getting some of their income from their woodlands, it may well mean that they will have to call for more surveys of forest insect pests such as moths, plant lice, boring beetles, sawflies and scale insects. They cut down on woodland profits.

Reason why crop growers will need to check their insect infestations much more carefully, he said, is that cutting down the acreage of corn, for instance, may bring about a greater insect population in the acreage that's left. So it may be necessary to spray or dust the crop often.

Children's Bureau Drive Ends in Lower Counties

Mrs. J. H. Tyler McConnell, General Chairman of the 1955 Campaign for Funds in Kent and Sussex Counties for the Children's Bureau of Delaware has announced that $1,899.50 has been raised and that the drive which began in December is now officially over.

Mrs. McConnell stated, "Although we did not quite make our goal of $2,400.00, the Children's Bureau is most grateful for the interest and support received."

Co-chairmen of the drive in Kent County were Mrs. William K. Paton and Mrs. N. Maxson Terry of Dover and in Sussex County Mrs. Otis H. Smith of Lewes and Mrs. James M. Tunnell, Jr. of Georgetown.

In announcing the campaign's quota and end, Mrs. McConnell called attention to other sources of income for care of Kent and Sussex County children with the Bureau. For instance, the Bureau is a member agency of the United Community Fund of Dover and for 1956 will receive $1,250.00 from the Dover fund. Also the Levy Court of Kent County has appropriated $500.00 to the Bureau for the current year, so the total income from Kent County will be $2,184.00. In Sussex County there is no other income assured the Bureau, although it is hoped that the Levy Court of Sussex County will make an appropriation for the fiscal year beginning July 1. Receipts from Sussex County, therefore, are $1,455.50 from the campaign. A total of $3,639.50 is available then for care of children from the two counties. In 1955, about 22 per cent of the children receiving care with the Children's Bureau were from Kent and Sussex Counties but only 2 per cent of the income to provide this care came directly from the counties.

Of the fifty-three children from Kent and Sussex Counties for whom the Bureau provided care in either boarding or adoptive homes in 1955, forty were in boarding foster homes for all or part of the year. For these forty children board was paid by the Bureau for each of them as well as clothing, medical, dental and incidental expenses.

Frear Advocates Highway Program

United States Senator J. Allen Frear says the nation should have a new Highway Program before Congress adjourns.

In his weekly statement Mr. Frear noted that differences exist over methods of financing the pending Highway legislation, but he indicated a belief that agreement will be reached whereby new and improved highways can be made a reality.

In other comments on current Congressional affairs, Senator Frear declared that political considerations will undoubtedly be more evident in legislative decisions between now and the adjournment of Congress. The Senator said that the announcement of President Eisenhower's availability for a second term and the stepped up activities of Democratic Presidential candidates account for the increased political tempo.

In other remarks Mr. Frear called attention to the Resolution which he has offered to set aside December first of each year as CAP Day. He said that prompt action by Congress to approve this proposal would help to bring about greater public recognition of the CAP Wing in Delaware and those of other states.

Spotters' Station In New Site

Things are up in the air at the Harrington Ground Observers Post.

The twelve-foot square frame building has been placed atop a ten-foot tower, erected by the volunteer plane spotters.

The new tower is located on Dickson Street opposite the post's former site on the city pumping station grounds.

Purpose of the move to the more secluded location was to obtain greater visibility and less interference from traffic noise. A platform encircles the building, giving the observers an unobstructed view in all directions.

The building was hoisted by crane to the tower top. The services of the crane and operator were donated by the Pennsylvania Railroad. Arrangements for the move were made by Samuel Short, Jr., post supervisor, through W. C. Miller, communications superintendent for the railroad, of Harrington.

Funds for the tower's materials were raised through a bake sale staged by the post members.

Praise for the co-operative spirit of the post's personnel was contained in a letter just sent to Mr. Short by D. Preston Lee, State Civil Defense director.

"The spirit and hard work the Harrington volunteers displayed in obtaining the materials and building their own tower so that their post can operate more effectively is representative of the fine record of public service evident through the Ground Observer Corps," Mr. Lee wrote.

"For the co-operative spirit of both the post personnel and the residents of Harrington, I want to extend my sincere thanks and commendation for a job well done."

An iron-framed stairway, salvaged from a Cape Charles coal station, was delivered to the station Tuesday. The spotting station should be ready by Wednesday.

Brandywine to Race 30 Days

Plans for a 56-night harness-race meeting at Brandywine Raceway this year have been shelved, at least for the present. The track will have a 30-night meet from Aug. 25 through Oct. 4, as originally scheduled, it was announced Saturday.

Track officials said that the plan to absorb Kent & Sussex Raceway's 20-night meet, in order to give Brandywine an uninterrupted 50 nights of racing have been discarded, and that both the Brandywine and Harrington tracks will go ahead with their meetings as scheduled.
