Poultry Fund Up 64 Per Cent In This Area

This local area has increased its financial support by 64 percent over last year in the annual poultry promotional fund drive, sponsored by the Delmarva Poultry Industry, Inc., according to Chairman Charles Peck and his solicitors in that community.

Equally as encouraging as this increased amount of cash, is the fact that over three times as many people have contributed in the current campaign as who supported this tri-state organization's fund drive last year.

Such response seems to indicate a greater realization on the part of the poultry industry, allied businesses, merchants of all kinds and civic leaders toward the importance of the chicken business to our area's economy and for the need to promote our most important agricultural commodity," said Mr. Peck. He, however, wants to assure any people who have not yet contributed to this year's drive can do so by calling him, or send their investments directly to the Delmarva Poultry Industry, Inc., Selbyville, Del.

The Delmarva Poultry Industry Inc is a tri-state organization serving the welfare of the Delmarva peninsula and particularly its poultry industry. It is an outgrowth of the Delmarva Chicken Festival, started back in 1948. Since that time, both the scope and the aims of this organization have changed. Gradually its program of activities have been expanded until it now has a year-round schedule of promotional projects.

In addition to the Chicken Festival, including the National chicken cooking contest (9th annual festival to be held in Ocean City June 20-22), the DPI publishes and distributes recipe booklets. It participates in trade shows, conducts cooking demonstrations, conducts public relations projects including press parties, publicizes our chickens over radio and television programs and through the daily press and periodicals and promotes both indoor and outdoor barbecues.

DPI's members include not only poultrymen, but also feed manufacturers, feed dealers, civic leaders and progressive businessmen.

Never before has the competition for the customer food dollar been greater. The market place is filled with attractive foods and consumers are constantly being urged to buy this or that. Because of this highly competitive situation it is most important that we continue to tell people everywhere about the advantages of chickens from the Delmarva Peninsula.

Greenwood Motorist Involved in Traffic Charges

A young motorist has learned that it can be quite expensive to enjoy a race along a highway and then later endeavor to dodge responsibility for his part in the event.

On March 31, at about 9:30 p. m., Gerald Bowman, 23, of Greenwood, engaged in a race with another car along the dual highway south of Felton with both cars traveling at an excessive rate of speed.

The racers were halted by a state trooper but Bowman, a civilian employe at the Dover Air Base, turned around and left the scene.

About 11:40 p. m., that same night Bowman phoned to the Dover Troop of the State Police to report that the tag on his car had been stolen, causing another investigation by State Police.

Last week Bowman was taken before Magistrate Elmer R. Poynter, of Felton, on three motor vehicle violations and fines totaling $175 and costs were imposed in his case.

On Saturday Bowman was taken before Magistrate W. Carrow of Camden on a charge of making a false complaint to the police and a fine of $25 and costs was imposed in this case, causing Bowman to pay a total of more than $200 for the privilege of his race along the highway.

The Moscow-Vladivostok rail line will be wholly electrified in 10 years.

Greenwood Man Injured in Wreck

Severe lacerations of the face were suffered by William M. Finkbinder, 42, of Greenwood, in a Saturday accident on Route 16, six miles west of Greenwood.

Finkbinder was driving a pickup truck which ran off the road and struck a tree. The driver's head went through the windshield. Finkbinder is in the Milford Memorial Hospital. State police said his car ran off the right side of the road, crossed back to the left and then hit the tree.

Cottage cheese moves into the limelight as we approach the season of peak dairy supplies in late May and June. With good reason cottage cheese is a favorite food of dieters. Uncreamed cottage cheese contains only 110 calories per half cup but it furnishes as much protein as a like quantity of meat. This mild-flavored cheese fits into menus many ways — from salads to desserts and from main dishes to snacks.

Other good buys in Delaware food stores this week include: Lamb, pork, and beef liver, stew meat, sweet potatoes, lard, spinach and turnip greens, canned grapefruit juice, dried peas and beans, frying chickens, canned cherries, and carrots.

vival, the speaker for the morning and night services will be Storer Emmett, a medical student at the Johns Hopkins Hospital, Baltimore. Mr. Storer is preparing for the foreign missionary service, and is a splendid singer and speaker.

3 Charged With Theft From Boss Of Rainbow Inn

State police at Penny Hill and Dover have filed charges against three Wilmington area men arrested in Pennsylvania accusing them of a series of burglaries in New Castle and Kent County. Wilmington police are also checking the trio for their possible participation in local breaking and enterings.

On Thursday evening Mrs. Alison Davis and Gary and Mrs. Jacob Hatfield and Ellen enjoyed visiting the Joe Dennis family.

Sandra, Tanis and Birzetta Fisher spent three days of their Easter vacation with their grandmother, Mrs. Dewey Taylor at Farmington.

The three are Thomas F. Church, 27, of the 1100 block, West Fifth Street, Marvin Fletcher, 22, of the 400 block North Harrison Street, and Stephen Hari, 40, of Minquadales.

They are accused of the theft of $800 in cash and $1,100 in checks in addition to some groceries from a truck owned by William Robinson, operator of the Rainbow Inn, at Little Heaven, near Frederica, March 17.

Accused in Burglaries
Police said they are also accused of being implicated in burglaries at the Adele Diner on the Governor Printz Boulevard, broken into four times in recent months; the Williams Service Station, same boulevard, and the Willows Restaurant, South Market on the DuPont Parkway, near Minquadales.

Church and Fletcher were arrested while attempting to break into a road stand near Chadd's Ford, Sunday. Questioned by state police after being caught, the admitted the Kent County job and implicated Hari. The latter was picked up and is being held in default of $3,000 bail in the Kent County Jail on larceny counts. Charles Robert Derrickson, 17, arrested March 6, at Freeport, Texas, has been held in $10,000 bail for Superior Court by Judge W. Marion Stevenson of the Kent County Juvenile Court on charges of burglary and armed robbery.

Charged in Holdup

He is alleged to have broken into Burton Smith's Sporting Goods Store at Harrington on Dec. 17, and used a gun stolen there to hold up Joseph Dennin, of near Felton, driver of a Dover taxi.

Derrickson, police said, had been arrested Dec. 16, on a charge of stealing gasoline and paid a fine of $10 for petty larceny. Previously he had been arrested on at least two charges of larceny of cars.

After he left Delaware following the taxicab robbery, police said he hitch-hiked to Arizona, Utah, California and Texas. He was arrested in Freeport and served nine days on a vagrancy charge and was released. He was later arrested by a Texas sheriff when his FBI fingerprint record disclosed he was wanted in Delaware.

Kent County Farm News

Some 38 Kent County farmers will be visited tomorrow, Monday and Tuesday as a part of the 1956 Greener Pastures program sponsored jointly by the Delaware Crop Improvement Association and the University of Delaware Agricultural Extension Service.

The coordinated approach is made so that several aspects of a farmer's problem may be considered at one time. Today, more than ever before, has it become important for a farmer to consider each part of his operation in line with every other part—to "tune up", so to speak, his total program for maximum returns for time and money invested.

One of the basic concepts of the program is that a livestock farmer should be able to raise all of his forage—hay, silage and pasture, and a goodly portion of the feed should come from the less expensive forages.

A visit schedule is given at the end of this article. Because this is the first visit this year, there may be slight changes up to the day of visitation.

Social Security News

Social Security reports are due in April from housewives in Delaware who employ domestic workers, according to Myron Milbourn, manager of the Wilmington district office, Social Security Administration. Housewives are required to make these reports during April on household workers paid as much as $50 in cash wages in January, February, and March.

Work of cooks, maids, housekeepers, gardeners, and other workers in a private household counts towards eligibility for retirement or death payments under old-age and survivors insurance if they are paid at least $50 cash wages by one employer in a calendar quarter.

Free booklets explaining the employer's obligation and benefits to the employee are available at the social security office located at 813 West Street, Wilmington.

Kent Home Doings

by Charlotte L. Swanson, Home Demonstration Agent

Sandwiches, plain and fancy, large and small, are being discussed, made, and probably sampled, too, at Kent County Home Demonstration Clubs in April. Leaders attended a meeting on Tuesday, March 27, at which Miss Joan Allen, Nutrition Specialist, demonstrated "Quick and Easy Sandwiches"; and discussed with the group suggestions for presenting the subject.

Giving a variety to sandwich lunches was emphasized at this meeting. Miss Allen suggested keeping a variety of breads, whole wheat, rye, raisin, nut, pumpkin.

The leaders who attended and are giving demonstrations in April are:

Caesar Rodney School Notes

The Board of Education of the Caesar Rodney Special School District has authorized a referendum to be held on Saturday, May 12 on the question as to whether or not the Board will be authorized to levy an additional tax of ten cents per hundred dollars of assessed valuation on real estate and add one dollar to the capital.

The Parent-Teacher Association Executive Board has endorsed the action of the Board of Education and has put the topic on the agenda for the April meeting of the P.T.A. which will be held on Thursday, April 12.

The Board believes that this additional levy is necessary in order to maintain the instructional standards of the school. If not authorized most of the increase will be used to supplement teachers salaries on a merit basis, with an average of about $200.00 per teacher.

Recent action of other districts, including Dover, in increasing teacher salaries, has placed Caesar Rodney in a situation whereby the Board finds that it must raise salaries to attract competent teachers. With a rapidly growing school population the Board not only has to fill vacancies of teachers who resign but also has to add from five to eight teachers each year to take care of expanding enrollment.

This additional tax would bring the maximum possible tax rate to fifty cents per hundred dollars of assessed valuation with an apportionment of eight dollars.

The referendum will be held in connection with the annual school board election on May 9. In accordance with recent legislation, the voters may cast their ballots at either Caesar Rodney High School, Star Hill, or at the Wyoming Dunbar School between the hours of one and eight in the afternoon.

One member of the Board of Education will be elected on the same date between the hours of one and eight in the afternoon.

Broiler Chickens Meke Record Gains on Low Feed Intake in Univer. of Del. Experiments

Step up the calories in broiler feed and you not only make broiler chickens grow faster but they'll eat less feed while doing it. At least that's the conclusion drawn by poultry research specialist Tom Runnels from feeding tests completed recently at the University of Delaware Agricultural Experiment Station. He grew some strains for broiler chickens to more than 3 1/2 pounds weight at 8 weeks on less than seven pounds of feed per bird.

The tests, in which animal fat was added to a basic broiler ration of 950 calories per pound of feed, were started over a year ago. Calories were stepped up to 1100 per pound of feed by the addition of beef tallow, and pork and lamb fats.

Birds used in the tests were White Rock cockerels. Runnels said if straight-run chicks of both sexes had been used that the birds would still have averaged over three pounds weight at 8 weeks. They were ready for market about one to two weeks earlier than most broilers grown commercially on the Delmarva peninsula and used up to two pounds less feed per bird than the best commercial growers now need to grow birds up to three pound weight.

Runnels pointed out that the feed used in the experiments cost about $8 a ton more than the most commercial broiler feeds now sold so that the savings from it itself were not too appreciable. The real savings from its use, he said, were the savings in time, housing and labor in being able to market the birds at an earlier age.

About 12 per cent fat was actually added to the experimental feed, Runnels reported. He cautioned that such high-fat rations are still in the experimental stage however. Feed manufacturers can boost fat content in their formulas to 5 or 7 per cent with present mixing methods, he said, but considerable research in mixing problems will be headed before they can get as high as 12 per cent.

Not only do such high fat diets present mixing problems, Runnels said, but they require changing other ingredients in the feed to give the flock a properly balanced diet. As one example, he mentioned that corn gluten meal had to be added to a high-fat ration so that the diet would produce enough yellow color in the dressed birds to satisfy consumer preference.

Corn Borer Carry-Over Called Serious in Parts of Delaware

With corn borer damage costing Sussex farmers an average of $111 per farm last year on farms where corn was grown, Dr. L. A. Stearns, extension entomologist at the University of Delaware, warns that there has been a low winter kill of the insects and that Sussex County farms face a serious problem with it this season. Frequently, 6 to 8 healthy borers are being found in a single old stalk of corn, he reports.

Stearns, reporting in the University's farm letter, "Late News," says that borer damage last year in Kent and Sussex Counties was somewhat less than the $111 figure experienced in Sussex counties but added that this insect pest alone, has cost Delaware farmers a total of almost $3 1/2 million since it was first discovered near Stockley in 1934.

Total loss of corn to the borer during the past 21 years has been 2,391,000 bushels, or more than the entire yearly average crop from Sussex county. A little over half of this damage has occurred on Sussex County farms, while Kent has had a 30 per cent share and New Castle only 19 per cent of the total.

1955 was the worst corn borer year on record, Stearns said. 84 per cent of the corn in Sussex county was infested and there was an average of 323 borers found for every 100 corn plants. An average of 241 borers was found for every 100 plants.

He urged farmers to plow under standing stalks or stubble before May 1 this year and bury all corn refuse as deeply as possible. He said that it was imperative to find some method to destroy all of the residue of last year's corn crop.

BIG JUNE FLOWER SHOW PLANNED AT UNIVERSITY

A total of 103 different classes of flower and plant exhibits are scheduled at the University of Delaware's Spring Flower Show to be held in Agricultural Hall on Commencement weekend, June 2 and 3, it was announced today by Dr. Charles Dunham, secretary for the show and a member of the University's horticultural staff.

Sponsoring the show are the School of Agriculture, the Delaware State Garden Committee and 15 other Delaware organizations, Dunham said. It has also been accredited by the Garden Club Federation of Pennsylvania and judges assigned to it from the accredited list of the National Council of State Garden clubs.

Dunham says that there are no exhibits or admission fees required and asks anyone seeking information or exhibit rules to write him at Agricultural Hall in Newark. The schedule of exhibit will be printed and available on request by April 15. Both professional and non-professional gardeners and flower growers are invited to exhibit.

Program chairman for the show is Robert F. Stevens, also of the University's horticulture department. He reports that there will be 52 classes in horticultural specimens. They will feature roses, perennials, lilies, peonies, house plants and other plants and flowers.

Eleven different classes in flower arrangements are planned, Stevens said, including one for beginners called "Beginners Luck." There will be one special flower arrangement class for men only.

Two junior divisions are scheduled, one for youngsters under 14, the other for those 14 to 18 years old. Included will be garden flowers, flower arrangements, and pressed leaf and flower specimens.

There will also be a special class for professional gardeners only.

Dunham and Stevens reported that special exhibits already planned for the show include an orchid display by the Delaware Orchid Society in the foyer of Agricultural Hall. Nurserymen are combining to build a large exhibit on the stage in the auditorium of Agricultural Hall, as well, and the Wilmington Branch of the National Gardeners Association is entering a perennial garden exhibit. There will also be exhibits by conservation organizations.

Venezuela is opening the door to applications for new oil concessions, Caracas reports. None has been granted since 1945.

A total of 103 different classes of flower and plant exhibits are scheduled at the University of Delaware's Spring Flower Show to be held in Agricultural Hall on Commencement weekend, June 2 and 3, it was announced today by Dr. Charles Dunham, secretary for the show and a member of the University's horticultural staff.

Sponsoring the show are the School of Agriculture, the Delaware State Garden Committee and 15 other Delaware organizations, Dunham said. It has also been accredited by the Garden Club Federation of Pennsylvania and judges assigned to it from the accredited list of the National Council of State Garden clubs.

Dunham says that there are no exhibits or admission fees required and asks anyone seeking information or exhibit rules to write him at Agricultural Hall in Newark. The schedule of exhibit will be printed and available on request by April 15. Both professional and non-professional gardeners and flower growers are invited to exhibit.

Program chairman for the show is Robert F. Stevens, also of the University's horticulture department. He reports that there will be 52 classes in horticultural specimens. They will feature roses, perennials, lilies, peonies, house plants and other plants and flowers.

Eleven different classes in flower arrangements are planned, Stevens said, including one for beginners called "Beginners Luck." There will be one special flower arrangement class for men only.

Two junior divisions are scheduled, one for youngsters under 14, the other for those 14 to 18 years old. Included will be garden flowers, flower arrangements, and pressed leaf and flower specimens.

There will also be a special class for professional gardeners only.

Dunham and Stevens reported that special exhibits already planned for the show include an orchid display by the Delaware Orchid Society in the foyer of Agricultural Hall. Nurserymen are combining to build a large exhibit on the stage in the auditorium of Agricultural Hall, as well, and the Wilmington Branch of the National Gardeners Association is entering a perennial garden exhibit. There will also be exhibits by conservation organizations.

Venezuela is opening the door to applications for new oil concessions, Caracas reports. None has been granted since 1945.

Veterans News and Answers To Questions

Q.—My World War II GI insurance policy is on the endorsement plan. When it matures, would I be permitted to receive the proceeds in monthly installments guaranteed for the rest of my life?

A.—No. But you do have the right to choose one of two methods of payment: (1) lump sum, or (2) equal monthly installments ranging in number from 36 to 240, in multiples of 12.

Q.—Is there any time limit for applying for disability compensation?

A.—There is no time limit. A veteran may apply at any time during his life. However, if he applies within one year after discharge, his compensation may be back-dated to the date following his discharge if circumstances warrant. Otherwise, the payments will be effective as of the date of application.

Q.—I am taking flight training under the Korean GI Bill. Will I be allowed any specific number of days of absence, during which I will receive my GI allowance?

A.—No. Flight trainees are paid only on the basis of flight instruction actually received. When no instruction is received, no payments will be made.

Q.—Is a GI farm loan supposed to be used only for the purpose of buying a farm?

A.—Not necessarily. A veteran may obtain a GI farm loan to buy livestock, equipment, or supplies; to improve farm buildings or land or equipment, or to conduct farming operations.

A.—No. But you do have the right to choose one of two methods of payment: (1) lump sum, or (2) equal monthly installments ranging in number from 36 to 240, in multiples of 12.

A BETTER ROUTE

Since the state has been improving the Harrington-Denton road, a new plan has popped up. Someone suggests it would be a good idea to Delaware 14 on Reese Avenue, across the railroad on an overhead bridge and direct to U. S. 13.

An advantage of this route would be the elimination of traffic in the business district. Much of this is Baltimore and Washington traffic bound for the seashore.

If the road were built, it would result in the development of an area that needs it. If one were to look on a city map, one would see that Vernon Road and Reese Avenue would give a direct route, without curves, to U. S. 13.

THE HIGHEST POINT IN HARRINGTON

Where is the highest elevation of land in Harrington? Loan Callaway, outdoorsman and dilettante in historical matters, says it is at Commerce and West Streets.

From this point a ditch flows south along the Harrington-Farmington blacktop road. After leaving Commerce Street, it soon divides. A ditch then takes off to the southwest, behind the Harrington Milling Company. It heads thru the woods, goes back of Calvin Adams' place on the Vernon road, goes east of Andrewville and enters the Marshy Hope Ditch, which, in turns, goes into the Nanticoke River which, in turn, goes into Chesapeake Bay.

As a boy we gathered wild strawberries on the banks of this ditch back of the milling company. The ditch was oily and the berries were as large as the cultivated kinds. Was it because of the oil?

Now, let us get back to ditch on the Farmington road. As was said, one branch goes southwest, while another continues on past the fairgrounds road and turns east, goes under the railroad track, under U. S. 13, and into the Brick Kiln ditch which goes into Brown's Branch which eventually flows into Delaware Bay.

26 Attractions Slated For Old New Castle Day

From the squat Old Dutch House with its curious 17th Century furnishings to the magnificently-constructed Read House on The Strand, the 26 attractions of this year's "Day in Old New Castle," Saturday, May 19, are bound to capture the fancy of all visitors to Delaware's former state and Colonial capital.

Rich in history, romance and legend, New Castle is known far and wide as the most faithfully preserved early American community in this part of the country. Its cobbled walks, its giant old trees and its charming homes, large and small, make for an atmosphere alien to this atomic age and a welcome retreat from the busy world.

Off the Delaware River side of The Strand, lies a narrow passageway known as Packet Alley. The only evidence of its past function is a tablet erected at its entrance, recording that such notable figures as Stonewell Jackson, Daniel Webster, Henry Clay, Sam Houston, Louis Napoleon — yes, and Davey Crockett himself, passed through this once bustling thoroughfare enroute to Washington in the days of packet boats.

Another relic of travel of bygone days is the original ticket office of the now defunct New Castle & Frenchtown Railroad. Built in 1832, it is the oldest known ticket office in America. The tiny structure was resurrected in 1954 and replaced in its former spot with a section of track and some of the original stone sleepers.

The Old Dutch House, believed to be the oldest dwelling in Delaware, never fails to charm the newcomer to New Castle. Restored in 1938 and completely and authentically furnished in the manner of the early Dutch settlers, it is now one of the city's two museums. On "A Day in Old New Castle" it is occupied by residents in early Dutch Colonial costumes.

The Amstel House, also a museum, once entertained George Washington as a guest at a famous Delaware wedding. The main section of the house was built about 1730 and the kitchen wing before 1700. In the beautiful old garden is a sundial pedestal from Old London Bridge.

Harmony House, the home of a direct descendant of Lydia Darragh, the Revolutionary War heroine who warned Washington of the British attack at Valley Forge exhibits personal belongings of this famous lady on "A Day in Old New Castle."

The Read House, built in 1801 by George Read, signer of the Declaration of Independence, for his son, George Read II, is perhaps the most impressive of New Castle's private homes. It is considered a perfect specimen of Colonial architecture and is charmingly complete with period furniture. Its garden was laid out in 1837 by Andrew Downing, foremost landscape gardener of his day.

"A Day in Old New Castle" has been sponsored since 1924 by Immanuel Episcopal Church on The Green, itself one of the main attractions of the tour. It was built in 1703. In its adjoining graveyard lie the remains of many illustrious Delawareans.

These are but a few of the treats in store for visitors on "A Day in Old New Castle." To seal the 18th Century flavor, many of the residents, including the children, don Colonial costumes with the Dutch and English influences prevailing.

New Castle traces its origin to the founding of Fort Casimir by the Dutch on its site in 1651. It later was taken by the Swedes then recaptured by the Dutch and named New Amstel. In 1664, it was captured in turn by the English and the name changed to New Castle.

In 1682, land within a radius of 12 miles of New Castle was conveyed to William Penn by James, Duke of York. It was here that Penn first landed in America the same year and on the site of Immanuel Church was enacted the ceremony in which Penn received the tokens of his ownership of the land. Until 1776, New Castle was the Colonial Capital of what is now Delaware and it was the state capital from 1776 when it was transferred to Dover.

Visiting hours for the annual historical observance are from 10 a. m. to 5 p. m. Tickets may be obtained on arrival at booths conveniently located about the town.

The Rev. Carl Henn's Sunday morning sermon was, "The Scandals of the Faith." There was special music by the Junior and Senior choirs.

On Monday evening a joint meeting of the afternoon and evening groups of the WSCS met in the Community Hall for an Easter program.

Two members of the evening circle, Mrs. Reed Hughes and Mrs. John Godwin, gave readings on Easter. This was intercepted by musical recordings played by another evening circle member, Mrs. William Haldeman.

The hostesses for the evening were chairman Marion McGinnis, Mrs. Maude Reynolds, Mrs. Albert Warren and Mrs. Barratt Simpler.

A new member, Mrs. Richard Hardy, was welcomed to the society.

The WSCS will have a food sale on Saturday, April 14, at 10 a. m. in front of the Post Office. Plans are also being held for a rummage sale May 3 and 4.

PECK HEADS CHAMBER OF COMMERCE; GROUP HEARS MILES FREDERICK

Charles L. Peck, Jr., was elected president of the Chamber of Commerce Wednesday night at a dinner meeting, highlighted by a speech by Miles L. Frederick, head of the State Development Department, at The Wonder Room.

The meeting took the place of the regular meeting normally held the second Monday in the month.

Other officers elected after being nominated by a nominating committee headed by Samuel A. Short, Jr., were as follows: Vice-president, W. W. Shaw; secretary, C. H. Burgess; and treasurer, Arnold L. Gilstad. The last-named two officers were holdovers.

Previous to the announcement of the nominations, Mr. Downing, who had served two years as president, said he believed the post should change around. He said he had enjoyed working with the chamber and expressed his appreciation for the co-operation of the members.

Clarence Collins was chairman of the dinner committee.

The new president is former mayor of Harrington, an active worker in the Lions Club, a member of Asbury Church, an active worker in promotion of the poultry on the Peninsula. With his brother, Thomas Peck, he conducts Peck Brothers Farm Supply.

In business of the evening, the chamber voted to secure a speaker on the wage and hour laws. Mr. Peck appointed a committee, to handle the project, of the following members: William W. Shaw, chairman; Walter Messick, and J. C. Messner.

The Chamber voted to send a delegation of four to Washington, D. C. May 1, to attend a dinner sponsored by the State Chamber of Commerce, for Delaware's congressional members. Mr. Peck will name the delegates.

Mr. Frederick told of the growth of the State Development Department, in the past four or five years, and said it was getting out of hand. It originated as an information center, but that now it had many functions.

He said it was sending out twice as much information as formerly, and that the department had 1500 requests weekly. The work of the department, he explained, is handled by himself, by Col. C. B. Shaffer, head of the industrial section; a full-time secretary, and a part-time girl.

Slanting at industry, he pointed to the Industrial Development Committee, Inc., appointed by Gov. Caleb J. Boggs not too long ago. This non-profit organization, Mr. Frederick pointed out, hoped to raise money by private subscription to advertise Delaware's advantages for industrial sites.

The activities of the State Development Department are many. For example, Mr. Frederick said it aided the Kent & Sussex Fair, Mother of the Year, the Miss Delaware contest, Dover Day, Old New Castle Day, tourism, and travel.

As a means of attracting industry, he explained the department advertised in newspapers and magazines.

Mr. Frederick is also often the state's representative at nationwide conferences.

Felton VFW Installs Officers

On Tuesday evening, the newly elected officers of Adams-Simpler-Ware Post No. 6009, Veterans of Foreign Wars, and Auxiliary, of Felton, were installed. The installing officers were the past Post Commander Thomas L. Kates and the auxiliary, his wife, Past President, Margaret Kates.

Prior to the installation the auxiliary members entertained the post members and their families at a covered dish supper in the post home.

In the commander's annual report, it was brought out that the post had a very intensive community service program, which includes the following: Presentation of a Flag to the Felton High School; annual academic award to a boy senior of Felton High School; use of the post home for high school activities. Also the post home is sponsoring a newly formed Cub Scout troop with Charles Sheets, a post member as cubmaster. The post is also backing the reformation of the ground observation corps with Joseph Bernard, a past commander of Post No. 6009, being the chief observer.

Mrs. Mary Johnston who is serving her second consecutive term as president of the auxiliary, stated in her annual message that four seniors of Felton High School have submitted entries in the essay contest promoted by the National VFW auxiliary. She also brought out that the auxiliary community service program consists of: A wheel chair for community use; Participation in a Christmas program at Governor Bacon Health Center; sponsorship of the TB X-Ray unit, annual award to the best all-around girl senior at the Felton High School.

The new post officers are: Commander, Wm. M. Dill; Sr. vice-comm., Dorsey Hudson, Jr.; vice com., William C. Eliason, quarter-master, Thos. L. Kates; post advocate, Donald Kinney; chaplain, Joseph Bernard; surgeon, Robert J. Donoway; trustee, 3 years, William Haldeman; trustee, 2 years, Richard Adams; trustee, 1 year, Franklin Morgan.

The auxiliary officers are: President, Mary Johnston; sr. vice-pres., Willow Bernard; jr. vice-president, Sealena Kates; treasurer, Dorothy O'Day; chaplain, Mamie Adams; conductress, Myrtle Brittingham; guard, Blanche Sherwood; patriotic instructor, Margaret Kates; musician, Ella Melvin; color bearers, No. 1, Pearl Delong; No. 2, Emma Marge; No. 3, Pauline Morgan; No. 4, Rose Adams; secretary, Emma Kates.

Mr. Dill, after receiving the gavel from the installing officer, stated that the post will sponsor a matinee race of harness horses, Saturday, April 28, at Walter's Race Track, one mile east of Canterbury. Post time for the first race will be 12:30 p. m. The public is invited to attend.

Church School-9:45 A. M.

The Service-11:00 A. M.

The Rev. John M. Scherch, Pastor, recently elected as the first pastor of Reformation Church, will be formally installed as pastor this Sunday morning during the regular service. Representatives of the United Lutheran Church, Dr. Charles Muhlenberg Cooper, president of the Lutheran Ministerium of Pennsylvania, will be present to officiate at the installation. Dr. Cooper, before being elected as president of the largest Synod in the ULCA, was professor of Old Testament in the Lutheran Theological Seminary of Philadelphia. He received his Ph.D. degree from Dropsy College, and has served in various capacities as pastor, professor, administrator and educator throughout the church. Dr. Cooper will be present to preach the sermon, conduct the service, and deliver the charge to both pastor and congregation.

Honey Bee 4-H Club News

The April meeting of the Honey Bee 4-H Club was called to order by our president Bobby Collins. The Bible was read and salute to flags was repeated. The roll was called in which 28 members answered. The treasurer's report was given and was $51.17.

Donald Pierson, Frances Tharp, Ted Becker, and Bonnie Chew received chickens through the 4-H club.

We went to Seaford on Wednesday, April 14, and had a tour of the Southern States Mill and also the Southern States Chicken houses.

Mrs. MacDonald told us about the 4-H Speaking Contest which is to be held in May. She also talked to us about our 4-H Project books. Our club did not have many who received pins last year, and we hope everyone will keep a record of their project this year.

We had an election for two Junior Leaders. One for the boys and one for the girls. Kenny Outten was elected for boys and Jean Outten for the girls.

For the June meeting Mrs. MacDonald will bring a movie for us. She gave out our project books and then the meeting was adjourned. Refreshments were served by Anna May Baker.

Spotters Notes

The first week the G.O.C. spotter's station was back in service, the station had 60 hours that were filled.

Planes spotted were 124, with the following breakdown: 24 multi-motor, 32 bimotor, 9 jets, 1 helicopter, 55 unknown, and 3 single motors.

Edward Smith had the most success in checking, accounting for 17 planes in all, namely, 8 multi-motors, 5 bimotors, 4 jets. The Rev. Robert VanCleaf checked 5 multimotors and 11 unknowns. The multimotored planes, the jets, and the unknowns are the most important as they are the ones that can be the most destructive and must be reported, says Sam Short.

He also quotes a portion of a letter from H. Kirk Schminkey, chief, GOC division:

"Every O. P. needs more people. How can we get more? By asking them to serve. By being able to tell them what I've told you here. By giving them a job to do and making it possible for them to do it. By insisting on the cooperation of our community leaders, organizations and administering to that organization properly, so that it operates whether we're there or not, whether it rains or shines, or whether any individual serves or doesn't. This is the job—it must be done. I pledge you my full help and support. I ask only that you give me the same in the common cause of patriotism and pride in a job well done."

Now we quote Mr. Short: "We need you and you need the post for the protection of yourselves, your business and your community. Won't you contact the supervisor and ask for a place in the worthwhile project. It is your civic duty to do this. Don't wait until it is too late."

4-H Clubs Visit Seaford Mill

On Wed., April 4, the Andrewville Speedies 4-H Club and the Honey Bee 4-H Club met at Franklin Baker's Feed Mill to go to Seaford and tour the Southern States Cooperative Mills. We arrived there around 10 o'clock and were greeted by Mr. McCole, who told us a little about the mill. Then we divided into 4 groups and had a tour of the mill. We saw pellets made, and learned that everything was controlled by push buttons. The entire mill was run by 43 people.

At noon we went to the Seaford Inn where we were served a very delicious meal.

After lunch we came back to Greenwood and toured the chicken houses. We learned that the chickens were divided into different houses and each set of chickens were served a different type of food.

We had a very nice trip and are very thankful to the Southern States Cooperative for giving their time to show us the mill.
