

BUSINESSMEN ENLIGHTENED ON WAGE AND HOUR LAWS

Wage and hour laws, basically, are applied to persons engaged in interstate commerce, or in production therefore, Thomas J. Finucane, deputy regional director of the Wage & Hour Division, of Philadelphia, told an interested cross-section of Harrington businessmen Tuesday evening at Harrington High School.

Mr. Finucane was accompanied by Thomas C. Samworth, of Wilmington, Delaware representative of the division. The duo answered numerous questions from the audience after the former's talk.

The director of the Wage & Hour Division in Philadelphia, incidentally, is William Hargadine, a native of Felton.

In a well-outlined talk, Mr. Finucane told of the background of wage-and-hour legislation. He said the first wage ceiling was set in Elizabethan times when, after plagues, workmen were at a premium.

Continuing, he explained that in times of the American Revolution, 19 persons were employed on farms to one in a factory. Nowadays, 60 per cent of the population lives in cities of more than 10,000 population.

"In Revolutionary times, one farmer fed himself and four other persons. Now, he feeds himself and some 20 additional persons," the deputy director, a native of New Hampshire said.

During the depression in the '30's, the NRA set up for the first time minimum wages, and also included provisions for child labor, but the act was declared unconstitutional by the Supreme Court, Mr. Finucane pointed out in showing how the federal government was attempting to establish arbitrary wage and hour laws.

The government was successful, he added, in getting the Walsh-Healey Act passed which permits the establishment of wages on projects filled by government contracts.

The government's next move was founded on the fact that Congress can regulate commerce between the various states, and between Indian tribes. Consequently, it passed legislation on child labor, minimum wages, and overtime provisions, with certain exceptions.

The current wage and hour law went into effect March 1 of this year.

Exemptions
Retail establishments are exempt from overtime and minimum wage requirements where the business makes 50 per cent of its sales in the state, and where 75 per cent of the merchandise is not sold for resale, Mr. Finucane explained.

Wage and hour laws do not apply to agriculture except in one another's children under 16 during the hours schools are in session.

Mr. Finucane gave these additional exemptions:
Executives, defined as persons receiving a minimum of $55 per week and spending 80 per cent of their time in supervision. They must supervise at least two employees. If he works more than 20 per cent of the time with his hands, he must receive time and a half.

Administrators defined as persons receiving $75 per week, or more, doing really important work 80 per cent of the time. This classification would also include professional men and outside salesmen.

Mr. Samworth gave some pointers on particular exemptions. Processors of fruits and vegetables may be exempt for a period of 14 weeks, but must make note of it on their records, and post notice for their employees of the weeks exempted. There is however, overtime for more than 12 hours a day or 56 hours a week.

These exemptions are termed seasonal and apply also to quarries, logging concerns, and processors of poultry and livestock.

Provisions
Since March 1, the minimum wage is $1 per hour, with time and a half for time more than 40 hours. A child cannot work in a factory under 16 years of age. On jobs deemed dangerous, said Mr. Finucane, such as driving a truck, operating certain kinds of high-powered machinery, the child must be 18, he continued.

Basic Requirements
You must keep hourly records on your employees and retain them two years, and in some cases, three years.

Penalty
If an overtime violation is found the employer is first asked to make up the discrepancy. However, an employee can bring suit.

The largest group ever to take the Tulse Short-hand Aptitude test reported to Mr. McDonald last Thursday morning. The test results determine something about the student's abilities in work relating to shorthand and the probability of how they will fare in the actual subject. All 26 students will be interviewed and counseled after the test scores have been compiled. Harrington is one of the few schools in the state which provides the opportunity for students in the academic and scientific courses to elect shorthand, typing, and bookkeeping on a full credit basis.

The Tulsa Short-hand Aptitude test and the Civil Service test are just two of the many types of tests given to the students who avail themselves of them. There is great value in knowing how to take an examination and the experience is invaluable when taken on a competitive basis.

We are especially proud of our seniors in the scientific-academic courses who chose to take typing, shorthand, and bookkeeping along with their regular courses, and who, we believe, were aided considerably in passing a highly competitive examination at Goldey-Beacom Business School and being accepted in the duPont plan. One part of the examination contained the same shorthand aptitude test that they had taken as sophomores at this school.

COUNTY JAIL EMPLOYEES TO CONTINUE UNDER NEW PENAL SYSTEM

The State Board of Corrections, upon the recommendation of Director Elwood H. Wilson, has decided when the new state penal system of Delaware goes into effect July 1 all present employees in the three county jails will be continued in their jobs and that the selection of new employees will be based entirely on merit, without regard for religious faith, race, or political affiliation.

The Board authorized Director Wilson to make this policy public as soon as possible in order to quiet any rumors that might be generated as the date of transition from the county jail system to the coordinated state system approaches.

"Every employee must be given a fair chance to show that he or she can adjust to the new correctional system," Director Wilson stated to the Board.

This means according to the new policy of the Board, that when the new system goes into effect July 1, there will be no dismissals because of politics or because of the new conditions under which the jails and jail farms will be operated.

Every effort will be made to train the current personnel and the new ones so that they will become real contributing members of the system, Director Wilson said.

He also made it clear that in the future there will be no arbitrary dismissals.

Legion Auxiliary To Sell Poppies

THAT in the spring of 1919, amidst complete devastation, the poppies bloomed in abundance on the battlefields of France, where so many of our men had fallen in battle, and that a replica of this poppy has become the Memorial Flower of the American Legion and the American Legion Auxiliary?

THAT at the time the American Legion Auxiliary adopted the poppy it pledged the profits from the poppy sales 100% to welfare relief for service men and women and their families, thus fulfilling the true meaning of the poppy — an emblem of faith, faith which is being kept with all who died, through service to the living?

THAT the memorial poppies are made of red crepe paper, by hand, by disabled veterans in hospitals and poppy workrooms in forty states, and that the workers receive pay for each poppy made, the material being furnished free by the Department in the state in which the hospital is located?

THAT the more than 25,000,000 poppies made by disabled veterans are sold on the streets under supervision of the American Legion Auxiliary, on the Saturday preceding Memorial Day, by approximately 125,000 volunteer workers who receive no compensation?

THAT through the American Legion Auxiliary poppy program more than $300,000 is paid annually to needy and disabled service men and women for making the poppies?

THAT proceeds from the sale of over 25,000,000 poppies made annually under the guidance of the American Legion Auxiliary amount to more than $2,000,000, every penny of which is devoted to rehabilitation work by both the Legion and Auxiliary, which includes aid to the needy veterans and their families? The method of distribution varies in our fifty-two Departments, depending upon the nature of the demands for help.

(Each of our 11,000 Units in communities scattered all over the United States, its territorial possessions and in foreign countries where veterans reside, maintains a Rehabilitation Committee working under a chairman, and a Child Welfare Committee with its chairman, and these Unit chairmen, and a Child Welfare Committee with its chairman, and these Unit chairmen are assisted by a state chairman of similar committees, who in turn work under the guidance and help of a National Rehabilitation Chairman and a National Child Welfare Chairman?)

THAT the public is given an opportunity each year to help the great work of the American Legion and the American Legion Auxiliary, as well as opportunity to pay tribute to all who died in service, by wearing a poppy on Poppy Day?

Suggestions To Home Gardeners

Here are some suggestions for home gardeners given by Mr. Gottlieb Hampfler, staff photographer and botanist at Longwood Gardens, as noted by George Vapaa, Kent County Agricultural Agent.

He indicated the camellias like partial shade and protection from drying winds. Usually the north or east side of the home is the best place to plant camellias.

Rhododendrons are very shallow rooted but in most respects grow under a variety of conditions. He suggested the abundant use of mulches and the need to keep an acid soil condition.

Mr. Hampfler proposes that tulips be interplanted with pansies to provide a succession of bloom. Geraniums can also be so used. Annual seed can well follow pansies. The plants should be clustered in clumps in a scatter pattern for good effect.

Every garden should have some type of wall or fence in order to focalize attention. Narcissus and the daffodil do very well as plantings along streams or ponds when planted in clumps. Likewise they can minimize the care needed around the base of trees.

Regarding roses, he suggests that it is best to hill up around the bases of rose plants to protect them from winter injury. The plants should be pruned back severely to 8 to 12 inch shoots in the spring, and should be sprayed or dusted every seven days during the growing season for insects and diseases.

Ornamental trees can give winter interest to the garden. Mr. Hampfler illustrated this with several slides of sculptured shrubbery at Williamsburg, Virginia. Other characteristics, such as bark color and texture, bright berries, or unusual shapes tend to increase beauty during the dormant season.

C. of C. Names Industry Group

President Charles Peck, Jr., at the May meeting of the Chamber of Commerce in The First National Bank Building, appointed the following Industrial Committee: William W. Shaw, chairman; Kesler M. Farrow, Arnold Gilstad, W. Cliff Miller, and Dr. H. W. Smith.

One of the functions of this committee will be the attempt to attract industry to Harrington.

W. Cliff Miller, of the Sign Committee, was given authority to go ahead with plans for construction of four highway identification signs.

The Chamber also authorized President Peck to handle, in any way he sees fit, the furnishing of flowers for the funeral of the mother of Vice-president William W. Shaw.

Cars Crash But No One Is Hurt

Automobiles driven by Gilbert Wyatt, 29, of Harrington, and Eleanor Fleming, 37, of Ridgely, were damaged in a collision on Route 13 at the intersection of that road and the Frederica road Saturday evening.

State police at Bridgeville said Mrs. Fleming was driving west on a side road, and as her car crossed U.S. 13, it was struck by the car operated by Wyatt. No one was injured. Wyatt was arrested on a charge of making an improper turn.

Hatfield Was Unopposed On School Board

Luther Hatfield was unopposed Saturday in the election to fill a post on the Harrington Board of Education.

He will serve in the spot at present occupied by A. B. Parsons. Unopposed candidates in some other Kent County districts were as follows: Edward B. Collins at Farmington; William C. Pardee, Magnolia; Virgil N. Jarrell, Felton; C. Emory Webb, Houston, and U. L. Harmon, Hartly.

Milford and Laurel voters reaffirmed support of their present school boards, and those at Greenwood defeated a backer of H. Geiger Omwake, the superintendent, who has been dismissed by the present board. Record votes were cast at Laurel and Greenwood.

At Milford, voters returned Crerar Bennett, Jr., a farmer, to the school board, giving him 1364 votes. His opponent, Charles D. Murphy, Jr., a lumber dealer, formerly of Harrington, received 1059 votes.

At Greenwood, the post won by Norman C. Hamstead, who polled 370 votes to the 271 for Jacob L. Hatfield. Mr. Hamstead said before the election he was neutral in the controversy, while Mr. Hatfield said he favored reinstatement of Mr. Omwake and four teachers who had also been dismissed.

Sulky Slants

By MRS. DAVE (PAT) SMITH

Here goes another of those crazy sayings. This was passed on to me by one of the driver's wives. So here goes — If my house is a sight, the neighbors drop in, but nobody calls when it's neat as a pin.

Sew and darn, cook and shop, wash and iron 'til I drop. He told me that house work was child's play. Oh, my gosh, he proved it to me on Mother's Day.

Yeh, mother, we had a fine dinner, canned grapefruit, canned soup, canned turkey, then again, just plain canned!

On my birthday he brings me candy, but never thinks to make himself handy. They say happy days are here again. Ash trays are scattered all over the house, but still he throws his ashes all over my rug — the louse.

It's OK to have your fun, but who cleans up when the party is done?

This comes from letting some of my friends read The Harrington Journal. Funny thing how they will give me these silly sayings. Like the old days on the T.V. I got a million of them.

Here is one from Dr. Huber. "Doctor," said the patient, if there's anything wrong with me, don't frighten me half to death by giving it a long scientific name. Just tell me in plain English what it is." "Well," the doctor replied, "to be perfectly frank, you are just plain lazy." "Thank you doctor, and now will you give me a good name for that condition so I can tell the folks at home?"

So much for this kind of chatter. Here is something I found out up here close to Batavia, N. Y. We drove out to see the Akron Falls. If you should be looking for something wonderful to see besides Niagara Falls, there are some just as mighty at Akron, N. Y. Two are called the twin falls. They say the heavy rains have brought a large flow of water over the upper and lower falls there which roar like Niagara. Oddly enough, many people have never seen the Akron Falls, and they don't know what a wonderful sight that's right in their own backyard. Funny part of it, the falls are only 26 miles from down town Buffalo. I was really surprised as I have traveled that road many, many times and never took the time to stop until this past week. As the old saying, you live and learn. I guess there were at least a thousand sightseeing that day. They are really plugging the park.

Here is something I thought would be good reading. Stop and think before you drink. Don't let your parents down. They brought you up. Be humble enough to obey. You will be giving order some day. At the first moment turn away from unclean thinking — at the first moment.

Don't show off while driving. If you want to race, go to the Indianapolis Speedway. Choose a date that would make a good mate.

Go to church faithfully. The Creator gives us the week. Give him back a lonely hour. Choose your companions carefully. You are what they are. Avoid following the crowd. Be an engine, not a caboose, or even better, keep the Ten Commandments.

I have saved the last ten sayings. I've put them away. To end, we are still having terrible rains up here. I think this past Saturday night was the most rain I've seen in ages. Even the lights were off for over two hours Sunday evening. We were in Buffalo and it sure made you feel funny in a large city with no light. Makes you think how terrible it would be in a black that was for real.

Sure looked good to see Mr. Brit Holloway's picture in the Harness Horse. I really do miss Harrington.

There are so many rules up here this year. I don't seem to get into the racing mood. But I'm not alone as you will hear little things each night at the paddock. For one thing, they are all angry because they don't have any place for the grooms to sleep. Sometime, maybe, they will get around to it. Again I say you can't beat Harrington.

The Gold Coast Government is establishing a housing estate to benefit people of Saltpond whose houses were destroyed or demolished last year through the flooding of the town.

dog races in Eire as a protest against a proposed Greyhound Industry Bill which would tax all bets and "wipe them out", the bookies assert.

The only ice rink in Belfast, Northern Ireland, has been discontinued and some 3,000 persons — average age 19 — have signed a petition for its restoration.

Social Security Notes

Do people take the required action to protect their rights under old-age and survivors insurance? As a general rule they do; however, there are still some persons who lose benefits by not taking prompt action, Myron Milbouer, district manager of the Delaware social security office declared today.

More than 10,000 persons ask for social security benefits every day and during the month of January 1956 the 8 million mark was reached in the number of people now receiving these payments. None of these persons would be receiving social security payments if they had not asked about benefits at their social security office, Mr. Milbouer said.

During the period April to June 1955 a monthly average of 82,000 persons asked to have their accounts frozen to protect their social security benefits during a period of disability. The freeze provision protects their right to benefits and the amount of their monthly benefit when they reach age 65, or their family's benefits in case of their death.

How about you? Have you taken the required action to protect your rights under social security? Here are some suggestions, Milbouer pointed out:

1. If you have worked at least 5 years under social security, including at least 1 1/2 years out of the 3 years just before your disability began, but have been totally disabled for work for more than six months, ask to have your account frozen to protect your social security benefits.
2. If a worker in your family dies, ask if survivors benefits are payable.
3. When you are 65, ask about your benefit rights.
4. When you are 72, ask about your benefits, which are payable even if you are working.
5. You can help speed the handling of your claim by bringing the needed proofs of your eligibility.

Complete information regarding social security payments can be obtained by contacting the Wilmington office at 813 West Street.

Also, for the convenience of local residents, a representative from the Wilmington office is in the City Office Building, Milford, the 1st, 2nd and 3rd Tuesday of each month from 9:30 a.m. to 12 Noon.

Delaware Food Market News

Delaware asparagus will reach its peak this week, if warm weather and rains continue. The crop "looks good" and there should be plenty of eating fresh and freezing, too. With a great increase in supplies at all vegetable counters, asparagus should be the vegetable of the week. Prices will range from 19 cents to 30 cents a lb. Select it wisely and enjoy a truly delicious vegetable.

Many vegetables deserve mention this week and are listed as "good buys". Florida tomatoes are averaging 19 cents a box or 28 cents a pound loose, a few pennies cheaper than they were last week. Sweet corn from Florida also, is selling for five cents an ear. For the most part the quality is good and the flavor is excellent for corn shipped in.

Other vegetables on the good buy list are new cabbage heads, kale, carrots, celery, spinach, onions, new potatoes and radishes.

Citrus is still the best buy on the fruit counter, though grapefruit costs a penny more and oranges are up two cents on the dozen.

Rhubarb is rapidly increasing in supply at the markets. Showing appealing color and packing plenty of taste appeal, rhubarb is something to buy and enjoy now. Rhubarb is often marketed in bunches weighing from one pound to one and a half pound. One pound will provide four half cup servings, while a larger bunch should be enough for six half cup servings.

Budget buys on the meat counters this week include an all time favorite — frying chicken. Other buys are chuck roast, beef liver and bacon. Week-end specials will include these four meats with features on roast beef, steaks, leg of lamb and frozen beef pies. However, most meat prices on the average went up this week.

More cheerful news on the pork end of the counter: hams and fresh cuts are cheaper. There has been a drop in prices on rib and pork chops, and bacon remains a bargain.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Q—I recently started in college under the Korean GI Bill, to study agronomy. I have come to the conclusion that I would be better off receiving an AB degree in liberal arts. Would such a switch at this time be considered my one-and-only change of course?

A—It would not be considered a change of course, if there is no extension of time involved over the time originally required to complete your program.

Q—I have been informed that I will need a physical examination in order to reinstate my lapsed GI insurance policy. My brother is a doctor. Could I get my examination from him?

A—No. A veteran's physical examination may not be given by a doctor who is related to him, associated with him in business, or who has a financial interest in his insurance.

From where I sit... by Joe Marsh.

Doc Nurses a Daydream

It's a treat when I get together with Doc Sherman. The Clarion keeps me much too busy—and Doc, well I think he puts in sixteen hours a day at the hospital.

But Tuesday—a beautiful day—he and I slipped away for a ride around Turtle Lake. Doc's driving a 1956 humdinger—it's like riding on a cloud.

Anyway, at one point Doc slowed almost to a halt. "Used to fish there as a boy, Joe," he said. "Used to sit and imagine myself up on the highway driving a high-powered car. Nowadays, I just sit here and wish I were down there again."

From where I sit, few of us are ever content with the way things are at any given moment. It's human nature. On the other hand, I've been rooting for years that someday everybody will show enough good American tolerance to respect his neighbor's right to enjoy a friendly glass of beer. When that day comes I assure you that I'll never want to change back.

Barn-dried Hay Is Better Feed

Delmar Young, University of Delaware extension dairyman, advises farmers looking for a way to avoid weather difficulties at haying time to take a close look at hay-drying costs and hay-drying benefits to see if they can afford barn-drying equipment.

"It costs more to produce a ton of poor hay than a ton of quality hay, everything considered," says Young. "And quality of hay is nearly always better under artificial drying conditions."

Research at the Beltsville Experiment Station of the U.S. Department of Agriculture shows that 25% of the nutrients in the hay are lost by field curing even when weather conditions are good at haying time, Young says. When weather is bad at haying time, 40% of the nutrients in the hay are lost.

Barn-cured hay, on the other hand, reports Young, retains 80% of the nutrients even when artificial heating is used. If heat is applied, the hay will retain 87% of its nutrients.

Translating this into milk, Young points out that dairymen can get 20% more milk from an acre of barn-dried hay than they can from field-cured hay. And, if they have a heater, they can get 30% more milk per acre from their hay.

Cost of barn-drying hay, according to University of Delaware results, is about $3.50 a ton when you use a heater, says Young. With a fan-and-duct system but no heater, $1 to $2 a ton will cover the costs of drying.

Cost of a good fan-and-duct system to barn-dry hay is $700 or more says Young. Heat-drying units cost at least four times this much. Main advantage of the more expensive heat-drying equipment, Young says, is that it means faster drying at a time when you need to keep the hay moving into the barn fast.

Corn Support Price to Average $1.50 in State

Corn price support in all three Delaware counties will be a minimum average of $1.50 per bushel on corn produced under acreage allotments, but not less than 82 1/2 percent of parity at the beginning of the 1956-57 marketing year, according to Mr. George C. Simpson, Delaware Agricultural Agent.

This increase of at least 10 cents in the corn price-support base is in line with the President's farm message of April 16 announcing prompt administrative steps in increase farm income.

Other action taken, important to Delaware farmers, includes making price support available for 1956-crop corn in the commercial areas which is not produced under acreage allotments. Support on such corn will be at an average of $1.25 a bushel, but not less than 70 percent of parity at the beginning of the marketing year. This brings the support generally in line with the price supports available for the other feed grains — oats, rye, barley, and grain sorghums.

These support prices for 1956 corn compare to a National average of $1.58 for the 1955 crop. The Delaware support price for 1955 crop corn was $1.77 on grade no. 3 or better, shelled and delivered on car.

The controlling legislation provides that supports for corn grown in non-commercial areas shall be at 75 percent of the commercial area rates. This is an approximate average of $1.82 1/2 a bushel.

As in the past, price supports for the 1956 crop will be carried out through Commodity Credit Corporation loans and purchase agreements, Mr. Simpson explained. Rates by counties will be announced at a later date.

County Pasture Tour June 5

What makes a successful dairy farm operation? Farmers and others can see for themselves at the annual "Excellents" pastures tour in Kent County on Tuesday, June 5th.

Visits are being planned for the following farms:

a. Charles Ewing, along the dual highway south of Smyrna. Mr. Ewing has some excellent alfalfa plantings and uses a stem crusher to more quickly cure his hay. He has also irrigated his pastures from time to time, using rented equipment from a neighbor who grows vegetable crops.

b. Charles Blendt, who lives along the Leipsic road southeast of Smyrna. He has a new thirty-acre permanent pasture seeding that is doing very well. Dairymen will also be particularly interested in his hard surfaced pound and in the individual calf pens.

c. Stanley Stachecki, east of Denny's Corner and north of Dover, uses irrigation on his pastures. He has a pole type dairy barn and uses pipeline milkers in his milking barn. He has been using trench silos for the past few years.

d. G. Wallace Caulk, who lives west of Woodside, is using the new zero grazing program. He hauls freshly cut green forage to his cattle twice a day, using a forage harvester and a wagon which is self-unloading from the front. Mr. Caulk is one of several farmers in the county now using a bulk milk tank, and an effort will be made to have a pickup demonstration at the time of the visit.

Each of these farms also feature a pasture fertility demonstration plot, wherein six different conditions of fertilizing and liming are being tested. The plots in every case are close to the road and may be observed at any time. Two other plots not on the tour are also in the county. One is along U.S. 13 at the Delaware State College. The other is at the farm of Merrill Jones, who lives west of Felton at Edwardsville. The county agent can supply details upon request.

The tour will start at 10:00 a.m. and will end by 3:00 p.m. so that farmers can handle their barn chores. The exact time schedule depends on final arrangements for several special events — such as aerial spraying of hay crops and bulk tank milk pickup. Anyone interested should telephone or drop a card to George Vapaa, Kent County Agricultural Agent at Dover for complete details.

ANNOUNCE ENGAGEMENT

Mr. and Mrs. Robert C. Friedel of 1101 Lindale Ave., Drexel Hill have announced the engagement of their daughter, Elizabeth, to Mr. Angus D. Currie, son of Mrs. Angus D. Currie and the late Mr. Currie of Newport News, Va.

Miss Friedel was graduated from Drexel Institute of Technology and Pennsylvania State University. Mr. Currie is a graduate of the School of Foreign Service at Georgetown University.

The wedding will be at the home of Miss Friedel, June 2, after which they will leave for Europe where Mr. Currie is employed.

Miss Friedel is the niece of Mrs. Harry D. Adkins.

Cancer Detection Schedule Changes

Medical authorities consider this the best method for locating early tuberculosis, lung tumors and certain heart conditions.

Mrs. Jack Chulick, Mrs. Bernard Hankin, Mrs. Henry Middletown, Mrs. Robert Gilliam, Mrs. Bert Widder.

A man driving a truck across state lines regularly comes under the wage and hour laws, as far as minimum wages are concerned, but for overtime he comes under Interstate Commerce Commission regulations.

Mr. Finucane gave a ray of hope for the executives. He said he figured the government would try to raise the minimum requirements of $55 per week. After all, executives and administrators get no overtime. Tuesday night's meeting was sponsored by the Chamber of Commerce and aided by the Lions, Rotary, and Business and Professional Women's Clubs.

POST OFFICE DRIVE-UP MAILBOX IS REMOVED

The drive-up courtesy mailbox, which has been in front of the Post Office for a year, was removed Saturday morning and placed in the basement of the building.

Postmaster Howard W. Dill said the move was made after Councilman Dr. Hewitt Smith told him the box should have never been put there in the first place, it hadn't proved satisfactory, and it was a traffic hazard. Dill added he then saw City Manager William F. Smith, who, Dill said, expressed similar feelings.

Both Smiths, members of the Police Commission, however, did not request that the box be removed, Dill said.

The drive-up mailbox, which permitted motorists to deposit mail without getting out of their cars, was the first to be installed south of the Chesapeake and Delaware Canal. Dill pointed out he added that similar boxes are now in use in Milford, Laurel, and Seaford, and in "I don't know how many other places".

Postmaster Dill appeared before the City Council a year ago concerning installation of the box. At that time the Council, Dill said, agreed to take out parking meters and to paint the curb yellow indicating no parking.

Sulky Slants

By MRS. DAVE (PAT) SMITH

Another week has rolled around and still cold, rainy weather, and if you don't think it gets cold on this lake, just come up here. I've even had to put on extra blankets.

And we don't have any mud horses in our barn either. Good thing our stake races don't come up until the last of June and July. By the time this goes to press we will be in Vernon, N. Y. Going to break our jump to Foxboro this year. Two weeks away from the water will help. Delvin Miller is shipping about 16 head up here to race this year. The Pownalls already have ten head. Course there are several for the Reynolds. That's why Dave is shipping out to save Janet's Girl for later on, and not to race her to death to fill races for two minute horses here.

The barns are all full here, but there will be several stables moving out of here when other tracks open up. So much for the horses.

We took a trip to the falls for the first time this past Sunday. As usual, it was busy. All highways leading into the falls were terrible, but the season hasn't opened up there yet, so you could get a good place to park and not too far from where you wanted to see. The trees were really in bloom, all the flowers in the park were out, and the violets were just beautiful. The park pheasants were all out to greet the tourist waiting for a handout.

Prospect is being readied for the season's crowd. You know that was the point that broke and fell into the falls. Well, it's still closed, but it will be ready opening day which is May 26. Some how are other as Dave and I stood looking over the falls and at the point so close to the head of the falls, I had no desire to go down again to Prospect Point. You really stand on the edge of the great falls. I heard several say as we were standing there looking down, they didn't want to get that close.

They also have built another walkout so very close to the Horseshoe Falls - almost right in front of it. It is really a beautiful view. From there you can view the Canadian side of the falls grand. Three Sisters Island has been improved and also Goat Island. The stores were all open with the exception of the department stores, and were they doing business! There were sight-seeing buses from all parts of the United States. The parking places that will be a joke. We were going to park and take in the stores, but it ended up we came back to Buffalo to sight see. But the drive up there is worth anyone's time just to see the beautiful new high bridges. Each year it seems things change. Now the New York thru way is on its way through Grand Island to connect the falls with the other thru way. So you can, in another year, go from New York to the falls without stopping. All overhead bridges are completed. I picked some flowers and on my way out it said, "Please do not pick flowers." Something new this year. Guess I was lucky the park wasn't open, but I wasn't the only one. No more!

Here is something I picked up at the falls which I thought was real cute. Two tramps sat beneath a tank in the cool shade. "So you think you'll go to the big city," said the older hobo. "Yep," said the younger man. "Ever been to one?" "Nope." "Don't go. Take the advice of an older man." "Don't go. Why not?" "Weel," said the old man sadly, "because if you do go you'll actually see people running to work!"

I think that it was the first time in years that they said there was a bunch of hobos through the town.

Catches of Trout Largest in Years

The largest catches of trout in twelve years are being landed in haul seines at Big Stone Beach south of Milford. Chief Warden Virgil Hearn watched the haul at daylight Saturday morning when nets were being hauled with over 100 bushels of trout averaging one to two pounds. The big haul caught the fishermen off guard. Many fish were released before beaching the nets because men lacked blue fishing at Indian River Inlet is excellent. Eighty-two blues were brought in by one angler. Fishermen going out from Massy's Landing into Indian River Bay are finding excellent blue fish and flounder fishing. Pxtwo thnetTsuan Crappies, yellow ned and pickerel are hitting in Delaware freshwater ponds. Waples and Red Mill Ponds on Route 14 and Millsboro Pond at Millsboro are favorite spots for freshwater fishermen.

Don Shiver reporting in The Fishermen Magazine explains how he manages to catch fish with a number of baits from his pantry. In his words, here's what he did: "I drew up a chart of possible baits that read something like a menu from one of the better restaurants. A few of the items were macaroni, noodles, spaghetti, cheese, sweet corn, bread, blueberries, shrimp, liver, and bacon. I handed the list to my wife and asked her to serve up portions of these during the following weeks so that I could experiment. She did so, and I caught fish."

All this experimenting proves that fishermen aren't required to search long and hard for bait and there is no reason to stay home because you can't find the usual worms in the garden. There are plenty of good baits in the kitchen cupboard, every bit as good as those dug from the garden or found in the field. You have a pantry full of "goodies" that any fish, from carp to trout, will be happy to sample. You might even try a small cube of laundry soap to see if there are any takers.

Non-residents may legally fish in the Delaware River, Delaware Bay, Indian River Inlet and Atlantic Ocean without having Delaware non-resident fishing license. Non-resident women and children under 15 do not need a license while fishing with a licensed fisherman or a person who is legally fishing. The $7.50 non-resident license is necessary when fishing all inland tidal waters in Delaware as well as freshwater ponds and lakes. No license is required to crab and clam in any Delaware waters.

Residents of Delaware are required to purchase a $1.25 license when fishing in freshwater ponds and lakes.

Chief Warden Hearn has set May 28 for the final stocking of trout in White Clay Creek north of Newark. Fishermen should have plenty of good trout fishing Memorial Day.

Electric Fences Broadcast

An increasing number of electric fence owners are in the broadcast business. Their programs consist of buzzes, crackles, static and other annoying noises.

If you are bothered with noises like these on your radio or TV set for no known reason, check your community for a defective electric fence, suggests Ernest Scarborough, agricultural engineer at the University of Delaware.

First, disconnect your fences and ask your neighbors to do likewise.

If the static disappears, the trouble is definitely in one of the fences.

To find out which one, turn them off one at a time. Then, if you still aren't able to track down the offender, you'd better call your power company or an electrical contractor.

There are several reasons why an electric fence will start broadcasting static, says Scarborough.

1. The wire from the controller to the fence circuit may be poorly installed.

2. Poorly made connections.

3. Loose gate connection or a wire spliced so that it will cause arcing.

4. Copper and aluminum wire used in the same fence.

Wheat Allotment Nears Deadline

Farmers with a 1956 wheat acreage greater than their farm wheat allotments have until May 31, 1956, to adjust their wheat acreage to the allotment, according to George C. Simpson of Houston, Chairman of the Delaware Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee.

Wheat acreage in excess of the farm allotment may be plowed under as green manure, pastured, or cut for hay. Any of these methods to reduce the wheat acreage must be carried out in such a way that the wheat will not reach maturity. Farmers with allotments of less than 15 acres who now have more than 15 acres of wheat may use the same methods to reduce their wheat acreage to avoid a marketing quota penalty.

Simpson reminds wheat growers that a farm with a wheat allotment of 15 acres or less may produce as much as 15 acres of wheat without being subject to marketing quota penalties. However, if such farms produce more than 15 acres of wheat, the marketing quota penalty is calculated on the difference between the allotment and the actual acreage harvested. The marketing quota penalty will be $1.07 per bushel — which is 45 percent of the parity price of $2.39 as of May 1, 1956. On farms with allotments of more than 15 acres, the normal production from any acreage in excess of the farm allotment is subject to the marketing quota penalty.

Regardless of the size of the allotment, wheat from any farm on which the farm allotment is exceeded is not eligible for price support, Chairman Simpson emphasizes.

Cub Scouts Go On Hobo Picnic

A well-attended hobo pack picnic of the Cub Scouts of Harrington, Pack 76, was held at Petersburg Sunday afternoon.

The fathers and Cub Scouts had a fine time playing baseball. The mothers formed their teams and played too.

After all those home runs, the Scouts cooked hamburgers on the den-made stoves using paraffin for fuel. The Scouts cooked and served their parents making the hobo cook-out a pleasing success.

The Cub Scouts will parade on Memorial Day.

What Is Freedom?

What is Freedom? To some it means the right to do as they please, regardless of consequences. To others it means next to nothing. They assume the separate right to write, speak and worship as they please just happens. They think — if it can be called thinking — that nothing can take those privileges from them.

They are dead wrong. Much of the world's population has never known freedom. They have been ruled without any regard for their rights or privileges. They dare not speak out, to do so would bring quick punishment, perhaps death.

From our favored position, we look with pity on these. They deserve pity, but they need more than that. They need the help of those who enjoy freedom — not the kind of help that comes with guns and swords to liquidate their oppressors. If they aren't ready to govern themselves new oppressors will arise to take over where the old ones left off.

They need the encouragement of those who live in freedom. More than that, they need the example which a free people provides.

America provides that example today. It is one of only a few nations in which the individual is still free to speak his mind, to write what he thinks, to worship as his conscience dictates. How long that freedom continues depends on how we use it.

There are, among us, men and women who would deny others the right to differ. To them there is only black and white, right and wrong — and their way is right. Those who think differently must be silenced, if not with gun and sword, with scorn, economic pressure, or boycott.

Not often, but too frequently, one hears the suggestion of pressure, of boycott. It should be discouraged by everyone who loves freedom, because it is the beginning of a trend that leads to destruction of the freedom and liberty which have been the heritage of Americans.

Student Council Notes

On Monday, May twenty-first, Shirley Kates, Eleanor Wagner, Phyllis Curtis, Emily Ann Brown, and Tony Perrone attended the sixth and final Kent County Meeting which was held at Milford High School. Each of the schools introduced its new officers to the Council. At the meeting, it was suggested, as a project for the incoming Council, to make up a calendar at the beginning of the year which would contain the date and the places of the meetings. The Council also voted on an amendment to the constitution pertaining to the rotation system of the Kent County and State Officers, which was devised by Smyrna. It was also suggested, as another project for the incoming Council, to have a general theme to discuss for the year, and to plan a social program for the first meeting of the year. As a general theme for the Council, it was suggested to discuss "Better Relationship Among the Schools". Milford then presented its program. The president of the Milford Student Council asked each school how the council conducted its election of new officers. Milford then served refreshments.

Barbecue School At U. of D., June 6

A 1-day outdoor chicken barbecuing school will be held Wednesday, June 6 on the grounds of Agricultural Hall at the University of Delaware, according to Wilford McAllister, University agricultural marketing specialist who is chairman of the arrangements committee.

Sponsored by the Northern Poultry Producers Council, the Delmarva Poultry Industry, Inc., and the Delaware Poultry Improvement Association, the school will bring barbecue masters from as far away as Maine. One of the visiting experts will be Roy Jones of Connecticut, known to many poultrymen as the man who pioneered the idea of mass chicken barbecues in this country.

Portable barbecue pits will be set up behind Agricultural Hall for the occasion. Purpose of the School, second to be held by the Poultry Council in the East this spring, will be to demonstrate to scout leaders, recreation supervisors and representatives of community groups like service clubs, Y.M.C.A.'s and others some of the fine points of barbecuing large numbers of chickens for outdoor gatherings.

With an estimated 50-million or more chickens to be barbecued at outdoor functions throughout the U.S. this spring, summer and fall, the work of barbecuing the birds in lots of 100 to 25,000 has been developed into a fine art, says chairman McAllister. He says that Curtis Norbeck of Ithaca, N. Y., will report on how to organize mass barbecues. Carl Dossin of University Park, Pa., will tell how he handles pits and barbecuing equipment for cooking large numbers of broiler halves at once; Ernest Mathews of Wells, Maine will be the lecturer and demonstrator on how to bring chicken in the mass to just the right golden-brown point over charcoal fires; and Gerald Zich of Trenton, N. J., will report on different kinds of barbecue sauces which are preferred throughout the East.

In the afternoon, Ann Armstrong of the Poultry and Egg National Board will illustrate how to plan a menu for a chicken barbecue supper. Emily Yoselson of Montrose, Pa., will report on how to make the proper serving arrangements for large groups.

From 3:30 P.M. until 7:30, the assembled students and experts will put all the theory to practice by holding an actual mass chicken barbecue for themselves and guests. Registration fee for those attending the School is $5, McAllister says. This includes cost of materials, bringing in the instructors, furnishing a complete barbecuing handbook to each student, plus, a barbecue supper. Registrations should be sent to Agricultural Hall.

The school will start at 9 A.M. June 6.

Greener Pasture Tour

Just how should a farmer put in a successful permanent pasture seeding? Well, it can be seen at the farm of Charles Blendt — and one may hear him describe how each step was done at the Greener Pastures Tour Tuesday, June 5. The tour will start at the Blendt farm about a mile southeast of Smyrna on the Leipsic road at 10 a. m. It is one of five stops to be made at farms in Kent County that day.

Mr. Blendt's pasture seeding is a mixture of orchard grass, alsike and ladino clover planted early last fall. Within a portion of the 30-acre field is a small plot set up to check the value of additional lime and of fertilizer. The field is also being strip grazed as a means of conserving the pasturage. Some farmers even put some of their excess spring foliage into the silo, and it is fed during the summer months when grazing is scarce. Mr. Blendt will have some additional grazing available with a sudan grass pasture. This grass grows in hot, dry weather when most other grasses have trouble just staying alive. And according to Delmar Young, extension dairyman at the University of Delaware, sudan grass pasture can mean an extra can of milk for every 20 milking cows each day as compared to farms using other pasture.

Here is the complete schedule for the tour on June 5:

10:00 a. m. — Meet at Charles

Blendt farm one mile southeast of Smyrna on the Leipsic road. See permanent pasture and sudan grass seedings, calf barn, hard surfaced pound, DHIA program. 11:00 a. m. — Charles Ewing farm south of Smyrna on U. S. 13. See alfalfa seedings and hear discussion on hay insect control. 12:00 noon — Picnic lunch at Garrison's Pond along U. S. 13, or eat in Smyrna, Cheswold or Dover.

1:00 p. m. — Meet at Stanley Stachecki farm one mile east of Dene's Corner which is north of Dover. See pasture irrigation, pole buildings, pipeline milker, trench silos.

2:00 p. m. — G. Wallace Caulk farm one mile west of Woodside. See zero grazing program, self-unloading wagon, forage harvester, feed bunks, and bulk milk tank.

3:00 p. m. — Michel Witomski farm west of Caulk's. See soybean plantings of the 1955 State Soybean King.

Everyone is welcome to attend the tour and to ask questions. Specialists from the University of Delaware will describe features of interest at each stop. There is no charge and folks are encouraged to bring a picnic lunch for the noon hour. Cold milk and soft drinks will be made available. Those who do not bring a lunch may patronize restaurants close at hand. Additional information may be obtained from George Vapaa, Kent County Agricultural Agent, at the Post office building in Dover.

World's most popular POWER STEERING?

Right this way!

EVERY YEAR, more and more new cars are equipped with Power Steering. Many a man has bought it "for the wife" — then wondered how he ever got along without it.

And if you have in mind a new car with Power Steering consider this fact: Since the beginning of last year, Buick has sold far more new cars equipped with Power Steering* than any other car — over 20,000 more in 1955 alone.

That's the record — and the reasons for it are just as impressive. Buick brings you In-Line Safety Power Steering. In addition to the one-finger ease of turning common to all such systems in varying degree, it has several distinct advantages.

It gives you surer, steadier, safer control at highway speeds — because it retains that good natural "feel" of the road.

On the other hand, it gives you more power assist when you need it most — at crawl speeds and at full stop. Here, Buick's Power Steering makes wheel turning nearly twice as easy as other types of systems.

Add another plus: this Buick feature works through the new Buick front end — where a unique new geometry and steering linkage bring a sweet new response and a wonderfully easy handling and a surer "sense of direction" even to new Buicks not equipped with the power system.

So there you are — and here we are, waiting to prove it all to you.

Waiting, also, to let you try the new thrills to be had in Buick's advanced new Variable Pitch Dynaflo† — where getaway response and gas mileage both step up even before you switch the pitch.

And waiting to show you how the highest power yet, the sweetest ride yet and the boldest styling yet — all help to make this bright new beauty the Best Buick Yet.

Today is fine with us. How about you?

*Buick's In-Line Safety Power Steering is standard on Roadmaster and Super, optional at moderate extra cost on other Series.

†New Advanced Variable Pitch Dynaflo is the only Dynaflo Buick builds today. It is standard on Roadmaster, Super and Century — optional at modest extra cost on the Special.

HENRY RIDGELY PORTRAIT

The portrait of an early Delaware lawyer and statesman who graduated from Dickinson College 159 years ago has been presented to the college by Mrs. Henry Ridgely, Dover, a descendant.
 Dr. William W. Edel, Dickinson president, accepted the portrait of Henry Moore Ridgely, member of the class of 1797, in ceremonies on the campus. Ridgely was a U. S. Senator, congressman, member of the Delaware Legislature and Secretary of State for Delaware.
 Ridgely's great-great grandson, Henry Ridgely Horsey, Wilmington lawyer, made the presentation for the donor, his grandmother, who was present. Also at the ceremonies was the donor's daughter, Mrs. Harold W. Horsey, of Dover.
 The 110th portrait in Dickinson's collection of founders, noted alumni and teachers was painted by Orville H. Peets from the original made in 1827 when Ridgely was in the U. S. Senate. The original hangs in the Dover home of Mrs. Henry Ridgely where Ridgely was born.
 Dr. Edel said the portrait is another Delaware link with Dickinson College which is named for John Dickinson, Revolutionary statesman and Delaware citizen, who was the first president of the board of trustees of the 183-year-old college.

THE KEY DEER

The diminutive Key deer is in the news again. It is not quite as precarious a position as it was in 1952 when the National Wildlife Federation devoted the annual National Wildlife Week publicity campaign to its plight. It is now two jumps ahead of extinction instead of only one jump, as it was four years ago.
 A bill, recently introduced by Congressman Charles E. Bennett of Florida, would allow requisition of lands for a refuge used by these small deer which are found only on the islands off the southern tip of Florida. Such a bill, if passed by the Congress, would allow the Secretary of Interior to acquire up to one thousand acres for the National Key Deer Refuge. This step is considered to be necessary for the restoration of this smallest member of the North American deer family.
 The Key deer are the smallest of eastern white-tailed deer races. Adult does usually range from 22 to 26 inches in height at front shoulders and from 36 to 44 inches in length, while weighing 40 to 80 pounds. Bucks are slightly larger and may weigh up to 100 pounds. They resemble the Virginia white-tailed deer in appearance except they are lighter in color and there is no seasonal change.

The small islands, or Florida Keys, making up the past and present range of the Key deer, are of special interest. Their vegetation is largely tropical and is green throughout the year. Much of it is not found in the continental United States. There is an ample supply of palatable natural foods and the severe shortages of winter forage, so frequently faced by its northern cousins, are unknown to this small race.

Older settlers claim that at one time Key deer were numerous. Hernando d'Escalante Fontenada, a Spanish youth who was shipwrecked off the Florida Keys in 1535 and lived with the Calousa Indians for 17 years, noted that deer were plentiful on one of the lower Keys, probably Big Pine. By 1949 the estimated number had dropped to around 30.

While hunting is no longer a serious problem, increasing road traffic and new roads will continue to cause losses. The only practical solution is through the development of isolated areas and outlying Keys so that they can be made more attractive for the deer. One problem is that of providing fresh water for the deer on Keys that do not have a year-round supply.

Another problem is the loss of deer habitat which has followed in the wake of the rapid development of the Keys. Most property owners, when approached, have been willing to lease their land at a nominal fee in order for the Service to provide protection against fire and hunting. But these leases are subject to cancellation on 30 days' notice and with increased demands for resorts and residences on the lower Florida Keys, the present arrangements may not insure permanent survival for the deer. It is necessary that arrangements be made for establishment of a permanent sanctuary of not less than 1,000 acres, as provided in Mr. Bennett's bill. This would serve to protect other forms of wildlife as well as the tropical vegetation and natural habitat of the Key deer. At present there are approximately 20,000 acres within the range used by the deer. All that they now require for permanent survival is continued protection and a reasonable amount of suitable habitat. The land acquired for expansion of the National Key Deer Refuge would help provide this.

It is hoped that the Key deer population can be increased to at least 300 animals. The present habitat can easily support that number, particularly if a year-round fresh water supply is made available throughout the range. Continued cooperation of landowners, coupled with interest and support of the national conservation organizations, will be required.

The National Wildlife Federation centered attention on the plight of the Key deer and other endangered animals during National Wildlife Week last March. This is part of its continuing educational program to protect wildlife and other natural resources. For further information on endangered animals and the Federation's conservation activities write to its offices at 232 Carroll St., Washington 12, D. C.
