

KENT & SUSSEX FAIR IS SUCCESSFUL; DRAWS 82,000

In reply to a question as to the outcome of the 37th annual Kent & Sussex Fair, held here last week, T. Brington Holloway, the general manager, said, "It was a good fair from all indications." He said returns hadn't been checked, but that the attendance, at around 82,000 for the week, including Sunday night, ought to be up around 8 per cent, compared with a similar period last year.

Saturday was the biggest day, with attendance around 23,000 for day and night. Receipts, to the grounds and the grandstand, ran around $400 more than those of the same day last year, Holloway indicated.

The value of the new grandstand, costing somewhat more than $300,000, was realized Friday and Saturday nights when it was packed by the Midwestern Hay Ride and Pat Boone. The crooner, appearing on the latter night, was guarded by 15 policemen, as he performed, to protect him from his ardent fans. SRO tickets only were sold to the grandstand Saturday night.

Holloway said it appeared the fair was developing into a night and weekend affair. With the best two-year-olds and the best drivers in the country, for the stake races, daytime attendance was not what it should have been. The general manager says this trend is universal, and that he believes it is because fewer persons are engaged in agriculture.

"When they were working for themselves, they could take off. Now, they're working for someone else," he explained.

Mrs. Mary E. O. Willey Dies After Long Illness

Funeral services for Mary Elizabeth Owens Willey, 68, of near Harrington, were held yesterday afternoon at one o'clock from the J. Millard Cooper Funeral Home, 110 E. Center St., Harrington. The Rev. Richard Gibson, pastor of Asbury Methodist Church, Harrington, officiated at the services. Interment was in Barratt's Chapel Cemetery, Frederica.

Mrs. Willey had been in ill health for several years and died at the home of her daughter, Miss Rae Willey, near Harrington, Monday.

She was the wife of the late Martin H. Willey, and was born and lived her lifetime in Delaware. She was employed many years at the Ace Manufacturing Company until ill health. She was a member of Asbury Methodist Church and its Ever Ready Sunday School Class here.

Besides her daughter, Miss Rae Willey, she is survived by one sister, Mrs. Clara Rose of Newark, N. J., and three brothers, Robert of Island Heights, N. J., Roland L. of Milton, and Charles P. of Detroit, Mich.

Trinity Methodist Church Notes

Sunday, August 5, Sunday School meets at 9:45; Church services at 11:00 a.m. This Sunday will be marked by the observance of Holy Communion, which ordinarily occurs on July's first Sunday, but which had to be postponed this year until the first Sunday in August. The pastor will give a short meditation on the presence of Christ in the Lord's Supper. The ritual to be used is in the back of the Methodist Hymnal.

One of our church members, Mrs. Edgar Hall, is in the Kent General Hospital at Dover, under observation for appendicitis. Her condition is improving.

Another of our members, Mr. Alfred Raughley, is in Milford Hospital as the result of an accident Monday, July 30.

The ladies of the church ought to keep this in mind: the officers of the Dover District W.S.C.S. cordially invite them to a "tea," to be held at the home of Mrs. Granville A. Tyndall, 212 Stockley St., Rehoboth Beach, Del., on Saturday, Aug. 18, from two to five p.m.

John Smith received the highest score in poultry (80), and James Williams received the highest score in eggs (92).

Other contestants who participated in the contests were: Everett Warrington, Bridgeville; Robert Lum, RFD Elkton; Ralph Chambers, Middletown; Alfred Lum RFD Elkton; Lee McHenry, Middletown; Wayne Morris, Houston; Billy Redman, Middletown; Marvin Davis, Middletown; Nina Tammi, Newark; Kenneth Marvel, Houston.

Members receiving scholarships to 4-H Short Course or 4-H Club Camp next year are: New Castle County: John Smith, Robert Lum, Betty Moore, and Ralph Chambers; Kent County: Alvin Jarrell, Wayne Morris and Kenneth Marvel; Sussex County: James Williams, Wayne Elliott and Everett Warrington.

State teams representing Delaware in the regional judging contests will be selected from the 4-H Club members receiving the highest scores. The rules require contestants in the regional contests to be over 14 years.

In the poultry judging contest, the boys and girls had five classes to judge: a class of four White Rock hens to be judged on past and present egg production qualities; a class of four White Breeding Cockerles; four pens of three broilers each; a class of four pullet roasters to be judged for meat production qualities; and ten birds for breed identification.

W. T. McAllister, marketing specialist, supervised the egg grading contest. Contestants graded one set of eggs for size (extra large, large, medium, small) and exterior quality (cracked, dirty, rough shells and sound eggs). Another group of eggs were judged for interior quality (AA, A, B, C and reject).

Pirates to Conduct Trout Camp

The Pittsburgh Pirates will conduct a trout camp at Penns Grove, N. J., on Monday and Tuesday, August 6 and 7. The sessions will be held at the Salem County Regional Y.M.C.A. Field, and will start daily at 9:30 a.m.

The trout sessions will be under the direction of Pirates' scouts Rex and Joseph Bowen.

Players must be at least 16 years of age to be eligible to attend the sessions and no Junior American Legion player will be permitted to participate in the camp if such participation would interfere with any of his Legion activities, and such trout will be permitted only with a letter of approval from either his Legion coach or the Commander of the Legion Post he represents in Legion play.

Players are expected to furnish their own baseball shoes, uniforms and gloves with the Pirates furnishing all other equipment. Players will also be responsible for their traveling and living expenses, with the understanding that all expenses will be reimbursed to those players signed to contracts with Pittsburgh organization clubs.

Ocean Fishing Is Very Good

Largest schools of marlin ever seen were spotted 5 to 10 miles south of Five Fathom Lightship about 30 miles out from Rehoboth. Up to five schools churned the water around one party boat.

The success of marlin fishing depends upon the bait, tackle and knowhow. Squid is threaded on four lines; two long lines are attached to the outriggers and two shorter ones to the stern. A teaser jumps the water 8 to 10 feet ahead of the bait attracting the fish.

Fishing news is frequently incredible, but so is the fish laden ocean east of Rehoboth. Eight-nine pound blue fish are running on the bottom; 170 small blues weighing 1 to 1 1/2 pounds were brought in by one fishing party; nice tide runners are being caught in the outer breakerwater, and 3 and 4 pound sea trout near the "stone piles." Rock from the Inlet are weighing up to 25 pounds. Plenty of sea bass and ling are being caught on the "old grounds." Surf fishermen are catching trout all along the beach.

Arthur Henry from Felton, shellfish assistant at the University of Delaware Bayside Laboratory, Lewes, has been experimenting with rod and reel fishing during twilight and after-dark hours. He reports catches of croakers and weakfish along with plenty of sharks in the shallow water along the Lewes Beach area.

These fish are feeding upon the Lady of Calico Crab, which has appeared in large numbers in the area this year, and also hermit crabs. The tide seems to have little effect on the abundance of the fish, since they have been caught on both high and low tides. However, the time of day does seem to be significant. The fish begin to bite around 6 p.m. and fishing is good until dark when it then begins to slack off.

The answer as to the presence of these fish appears to lie in the fact that their food is living in the bay surf. It is interesting to note that boats fishing one-half mile from shore have not met with the success encountered by shore fishermen in this twilight period.

The 8 1/2 pound bass caught in Wyoming Pond by Sergeant Albert Kitchen a couple of weeks ago was approximately 9 years old. The age of fish is determined by microscopic examination of the scales.

Congress ended the attempts to turn back the clock on conservation progress in its closing hours, when both Houses passed the amended Bonner-Magnuson bill, S. 3275, which remains the U. S. Fish and Wildlife Service as a single agency in the Department of the Interior for administering the Federal Government's responsibility in the management of fish and wildlife resources.

This final action by Congress is a complete victory for the conservationists, sportsmen, and others who have been demanding that the Fish and Wildlife Service be kept together as one agency for the administration of those interrelated and inseparable natural resources. The act provides immediate relief for commercial fishermen in the form of low-interest loans and an extension and expansion of the Saltonstall-Kennedy Act.

As sent to the President, the Fish and Wildlife Act of 1956 provides for an Assistant Secretary for Fish and Wildlife in the Department of the Interior. Serving under the Assistant Secretary will be the Commissioner of the U. S. Fish and Wildlife Service. Both of these top level positions will be filled by Presidential appointees, subject to Senate confirmation. Under the Commissioner are created two new bureaus, the Bureau of Commercial Fisheries and the Bureau of Sport Fisheries and Wildlife, each headed by a Director.

For the first time, fish and wildlife resources have been elevated to sub-cabinet status by the creation of an office of Assistant Secretary for Fish and Wildlife. This improved stature should bring benefits to commercial fishermen through more influential representation at foreign meetings and on fisheries, treaties, commissions, as well as participation at high level discussion of tariff and trade agreement problems here at home.

The new Act recognizes the importance of sport fisheries and wildlife in the national economy. No longer will the Fish and Wildlife Service be forced to take a back seat in discussions of matters affecting these invaluable re-

HOUSTON MAN CHARGED WITH MURDERING WIFE

Houston's "week-end constable" fired a single into the air Sunday to assure the surrender of Francis Brown, Negro, of Houston, wanted for questioning in the murder of his wife.

John Wesley Johnson, 35-year-old auto mechanic for the Delaware state police, who doubles as constable in Houston on Fridays, Saturdays, and Sundays, was marching Brown up the road from the man's home when four state police cars—each containing two troopers—drove up the road to relieve Johnson of Brown's custody.

Houston's entire population of 350 appeared to be all at the scene a few moments after the police cars arrived. Any moment of crisis had passed, however, when Brown appeared in the doorway of his home after Johnson had fired his shot in the air. Brown was taken to the Kent County Jail in Dover by the troopers who have held him without bail "for further investigation." He appeared before Magistrate Gooden Callaway in Harrington, Monday and entered a guilty plea to a charge of murder.

Brown had been sought since Saturday morning when the battered body of his common-law wife, containing two bullet wounds, was found at the edge of the Williamsville Road, about three miles west of Milford.

About a mile further along the road police found the Brown car, a 1956 two-tone green model, abandoned on the road side. It had struck a telephone pole.

Autopsy Finds Bullets

When her body was found, it was so badly battered that for a time it was thought she had been beaten to death. An autopsy by Sussex County Coroner Volvie Gray, however, found that she had died of hemorrhages and shock caused by a wound from a .38 calibre bullet in the chest. Another bullet wound was found in her arm. She had apparently lived for a short time after being shot but the coroner said that other injuries had occurred after death.

Police said she may have been tossed out of a car after the shooting, or the body may have been struck by a vehicle as it lay on the side of the road. Garrett Newell, who towed the car into Wright's Garage, Milford, said the car had a badly dented left fender.

Both Mrs. Brown and her husband, about a year older than his wife, were employed at the Libby McNeil & Libby freezing plant in Houston.

The man could not be found after an unidentified motorist had located his wife's body on the road.

Saturday another employee of the Libby plant went to the home of Johnson's father, George L. Johnson, to report that he was sure Brown had returned home. The elder Johnson immediately contacted his son.

Constable in Guard

The part-time constable knew the broad details of the case but little else. He was in town just for the week-end to fulfill his duties but his main interest right now is his training at the Delaware National Guard encampment.

Hearing the news, he immediately contacted the Georgetown state police station. He was ordered to go to the house immediately and keep it under surveillance until state police arrived.

Securing a pistol he went to the house, one of three which stands near a wooded area in the town, he called to Brown to come outside. There was no response. He said he knew that Brown was inside and repeated the order to come out. Still no response.

PUBLIC APPROVES OF ELEMENTARY LANGUAGE TEACHING

While one authority asserts that Johnny can't read, several others maintain that he can learn a foreign language, much better in fact than his older brothers and sisters in high school.

What's more, Johnny's parents seem to agree. This fact was brought out in a survey of 238 Delawareans, most of them parents, which was conducted in connection with a University of Delaware workshop in foreign language instruction to elementary school children.

The analysis was done by Edwin J. Hughes, a member of the class and a sixth grade teacher in the Newark school. Hughes found that 88 per cent of the people he talked to preferred that school children begin a study of language other than English early in the elementary grades. Numerically, 139 parents answered with an enthusiastic "yes" while only 23 gave negative reply.

The survey, conducted for the benefit of the class members, may be a prediction of a basic change in the language instruction program in public schools. Educators are becoming increasingly convinced that young children learn a foreign tongue much more readily than do high school students. Also, the weakness of two-year high school courses in language have been apparent for some time.

To gain a fair sampling, Hughes visited homes where the income ranged from $3,400 to $12,000. Of the people questioned, 85 per cent were high school graduates while only 10 per cent attended college. The remaining few completed postgraduate work. A total of 84 per cent of those interviewed were married, and 80 per cent of the married group were parents of a total of 469 children.

Seventy per cent selected Spanish as their choice of a "second language"—a language in addition to English. French was the second most popular choice, while Latin, German, Italian and Greek were mentioned in that order.

An interesting point brought out in Hughes' survey is the fact that, in spite of the overwhelming approval of elementary language instruction, very few of the parents were accomplished in language themselves. Only about 10 per cent could read or speak a foreign language with ease.

Most of the persons interviewed preferred a "special" teacher for the task of training the youngsters, while the minority was willing to leave the work to the children's regular instructor. It was not learned, however, if the parents would approve of the regular teacher if he were trained in this type of work.

Varying replies were received when Hughes asked when the language instructor should begin. Most of the people felt that the children should be introduced to foreign language in the fifth grade and should continue to study it through elementary school. Actually, many programs elsewhere in the nation began even earlier than the fifth grade.

EMILY P. BISSELL SANATORIUM

The average length of stay of patients at the Emily P. Bissell Sanatorium was reduced 20 percent during the last fiscal year, and net operating costs were reduced 11 percent, it was reported yesterday by D. Raymond A. Lynch, president of the State Board of Health.

Dr. Lynch made public the sanatorium's annual report, which showed the reduction in average length of stay from 297 days in the 1955 fiscal year to 235 days in the fiscal year ended last June 30. The national average in tuberculosis institutions is 240 days, he said.

The reduction was credited to the use of the new facilities and services of the recently improved buildings of the sanatorium, and to the use of new drugs and surgery, Dr. Lynch explained.

The annual report, copies of which are available upon request to the State Board of Health or the Sanatorium, gives a pictorial presentation of activities there, emphasizing new developments of the past year. It also reports briefly on financial statistics including the reduction in costs which Dr. Lynch attributed to more efficient operation made possible by the new buildings and their modern equipment. Through consolidation of activities, the number of employees was cut from 217 to 158.

The report pointed out that facilities of the new main building made it possible to open an occupational therapy department. "These new facilities include a woodworking shop, a classroom for clerical training, a modern kitchen for cooking classes and a barber shop and beauty salon which provide services for the patients as well as opportunities for training."

The report also states that "the State Vocational Rehabilitation Division has cooperated splendidly by providing both equipment and instructors for the classes." It points out also that the division cooperates in the effort to rehabilitate vocationally every recovering patient who needs a new field of employment. "A rehabilitation conference is held with each patient before his or her discharge to determine what jobs he or she is interested in and fitted for, and to arrange for needed training."

The sanatorium's report shows a six percent increase in the number of patients admitted last year, and a three percent rise in the average census. Total patient days last year numbered 59,590, as compared with 57,760 the year before.

The net cost of operations was $659,827.15 in the fiscal year just ended, as compared with $748,934.70 the year before, a reduction of 11 percent. The cost per patient day was cut from $12.96 in the 1955 fiscal year to $11.07, a reduction of 14 percent.

SHUSTER ADDRESSES MIAMI CONVENTION

Dr. Carl N. Shuster, Jr., director of the University of Delaware Marine Laboratories, yesterday addressed the joint convention of the Oyster Growers and Dealers Association of North America, Inc., the National Shellfisheries Association, and the Oyster Institute of North America, in Miami, Fla.

At the gathering, Dr. Shuster presented the results of an oyster research project that was started by the staff of university laboratories this summer. He also prepared a convention exhibit illustrating the shell structure of the Eastern American oyster, the Northern Quahog or hard clam, the Blood Ark, the Disk Dosinia, and the surf clam.

Pointing out the basic laminated pattern of growth common to the shells of the bivalve molluscs, Dr. Shuster explained how shell structure relates to the natural history of the shellfish. He also observed that additional information on this relationship will give a greater insight into the lives of these molluscs, and may be of practical value in the management of shellfish crops.

MASKED MAN HOLDS TWO CAPTIVE AT MILFORD

Milford and state police were still searching for a masked man who held two women captive a few minutes Friday, in an attempt to steal an automobile.

Mrs. Ellen Orkin, wife of Benjamin Orkin, Cedar Creek hundred constable, was standing in the front doorway of her Melson Street home at 11:15 a.m. when a man with a stocking over his face approached her, brandishing a revolver.

He ordered her into the house and began to wrap tape over her eyes. Just as he was doing this, a neighbor, Mrs. Paul Duphily, became suspicious and entered the home.

The intruder quickly forced Mrs. Duphily into the dining room and also taped her eyes.

The obviously excited man demanded Mrs. Orkin's car keys. To emphasize his remarks, he fired one shot through the dining room table. Mrs. Orkin quickly told him where to find the keys.

Chief Robert Downes of the Milford police, on arriving on the scene said he saw a man running away from the rear of the house and fired two warning shots in the air at him, whereupon the fleeing man turned and fired a shot at the chief.

The man, described as about 6 feet tall and well built was carrying a duffel bag which he dropped. It was recovered by police and contained only adhesive tape.

Milford police believe the man entered an automobile a short distance away from the house.

However, he never had a chance to get them. Milford police officers, summoned by neighbors, were approaching the house by that time.

The intruder spotted the policemen through a window and fled out the back door.

Milford and state police began to comb the area for him immediately.

FARM LABOR LETTER CURRENT ACTIVITIES

Potato harvest continues at peak despite drop in price to around $5 per cwt. for number ones. Most growers are getting the crop out of the ground as fast as possible with most of the cobbles already out. Katahdins will be harvested starting next week. The estimated crop for Delaware this year is 1,758,000 hundred pound bags. Crews are short handed in many cases which has slowed digging on individual farms. Three Tex-Mexican crews are working in the area and are doing especially good work. The early snap bean harvest is past the peak although some growers for canneries will have beans through the summer. Planting of late beans is now underway and will continue for some time. Tomatoes are slow in maturing. Unless unfavorable weather develops, there should be a big crop. Delaware has an estimated 7,000 acres planted, which is 400 acres more than last year and 970 acres above the ten year average. With this increased acreage and prospect for a good crop, the indications are that labor will be very scarce. Harvesting and processing of sugar corn is underway with all indications of a good crop.

Heaviest Competition was in the meat classes, which included any breed or cross. Top three places for broilers and pullet roasters were as follows:

Broilers under 3 lbs.—1st - Wayne Elliott, Delmar, 2nd - Betty Moore, Bear, 3rd - Thomas Carter, Newark.

Broilers 3 to 4 lbs.—1st - Bernard Pierce, Townsend, 2nd - Wayne Morris, Houston, 3rd - Wayne Elliott, Delmar.

Pullet roaster under 5 lbs.—1st - Thomas Carter, Newark, 2nd - Peter Congo, Newark, 3rd - Brooks Cannon, Seaford.

Pullet roaster, over 5 lbs.—1st - Leanna Becker, Harrington, 2nd - Diane Hopkins, Harrington, 3rd - Kenneth Marvel, Houston.

First place winners of the other poultry classes were: Capon - Norman Long, Selbyville; White Rock hen - Sammy Sloan, Jr., Harbeson; White Rock cock - Sammy Sloan, Jr., Harbeson; White Leghorn hen - John Benson, Houston; Barred Rock hen - Betty Moore, Bear; Rhode Island Red pullet - John Benson, Houston; Rhode Island Red cockerel - John Benson, Houston; New Hampshire hen - Merry Hollis, Houston; New Hampshire cock - Betty Moore, Bear; White Cornish cockerel - Sammy Sloan, Jr., Harbeson; Cochon bantams - Patricia Spear, Delmar, Japanese bantams - Betty Moore, Bear.

In the classes of ducks, Wayne Coverdale and Merry Hollis won first place. In the turkey classes Kenneth and Raymond Marvel won first prizes. In the classes of geese, Peter Congo and Bernard Pierce received first prize.

HOUSING

Housing for migratory labor is getting considerable publicity and operators of camps and growers' quarters should give attention to the problem of bringing their quarters up to standards that will meet health regulations. Good permanent type housing on farms or a cooperative labor camp serving a group of growers is greatly needed in several areas. Good housing is a good investment.

WHAT IS A FARM FIELD DAY? The best way to find out is to attend the University of Delaware Farm Field Day at the Experimental Station, Georgetown, Wednesday, from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. See various crops grown under different conditions, broiler research, pest control, calf judging, etc; meet and talk with research workers from the University and eat fried chicken and watermelon! The Kent & Sussex Fair Is a Success

Attendance at the Kent & Sussex Fair last week was approximately 82,000, with an increase of around 8 per cent over last year.

The officials have been continually trying to improve the fair, trying this and that, over the years and have, apparently, struck the jackpot on several occasions.

Time was when Saturday was a poor day, but the big-car auto racing was tried and it has been a success for years.

Auto thrill shows have been used on Monday nights with success. A rodeo was tried, without success, especially since it was a new thing in this area.

The Fair Association has been trying stake racing, with big stakes and the best juveniles and drivers in the country. This, at this stage, has not panned out so good.

Last year, the Mariners, a famous quartet, appeared here on Saturday night and before the new grandstand which holds 4000. This new structure has made it worthwhile to bring in big shows.

This year the well-known Midwestern Hay Ride packed the grandstand Friday night. On Saturday night, Pat Boone, crooner, who has had a meteoric rise in the past year, appeared. The grandstand was sold out and standing room only tickets were sold.

The receipts this Saturday, to grounds and grandstand, were about $4000 greater than those of the corresponding day last year. The credit for this goes to auto racing and Boone and to the foresight of the fair officials for bringing in these attractions.

Boone is now packing them in at Hamid's Steel Pier in Atlantic City. The Hay Ride is in Watertown, N. Y.

This Sunday will be the last church service until the second Sunday in September, the minister has been granted that period as a vacation by the members of the congregation.

LET A GOOD REPAIR MAN BE RESPONSIBLE FOR YOUR CAR

The way to keep an automobile in good condition is to place it in the care of a good mechanic. Tell him, "If you see anything that needs repairing on this car, just go ahead and do it and send me the bill."

Thus the mechanic will install a new fuel pump, an oil filter, check sparkplugs and wiring. If it needs a battery, he will put one in. If the windows are difficult to raise, he will fix that too.

We have been at our location several years and have hosts of satisfied customers who will swear by our service. Instead of checking your car for mechanical ailments or waiting for it to break down, put it in our care. We will check it from time to time. An ounce of prevention is better than a pound of cure.

More Water—Better Poultry Higher Profits

Chickens and turkeys, like other animals including humans, need more water during hot summer months according to Wade H. Rice, University of Maryland extension poultryman.

Hot weather lowers the poultryman's profits in many ways. It may reduce feed consumption, lower growth rate and may reduce egg production and quality. In cases of extreme hot weather, Rice says chickens may die from heat prostration.

One of the cheapest and easiest ways to help poultry flocks in hot weather is to provide plenty of water and watering space. More watering space means more profits says Rice.

Increasing water space from four to six 4 troughs per 500 layers could bring an average of 20 eggs more per hen per year. This could mean another $300 in the poultryman's pocket.

For broilers, watering space should be increased as above, by the time the chicks are seven weeks old. When the birds are sold at about 11 weeks, they could weigh a quarter to a half pound more. In terms of dollars and cents this could mean from $50 to $100 more income from 1,000 birds.

With eight week old turkey poult this increase from four to six 4 foot water troughs could mean a saving in time and feed. The poult could reach an eight pound average (turkey broilers) in 4 to 5 days less time and on nearly half a pound less feed. Such savings could result in about $75 more per 500 turkey broilers. The additional troughs cost only about $17 so the investment would be worthwhile, Rice believes.

Blue Sunoco used by more Automotive Engineers than all other premiums combined

IT'S PREMIUM IN EVERY WAY... STILL AT REGULAR GAS PRICE

We invited a large group of automotive engineers to try Blue Sunoco, boosted in octane, in their own cars and give us their reactions. The results of this survey, compiled by an independent firm of certified public accountants, make New Blue Sunoco the favorite.

43% already are users of Blue Sunoco

Of the 1,166 engineers who reported on '56 Blue Sunoco, 43% told us they were already users of our gasoline. This was a far greater number than reported using all other premium gasolines combined—perhaps the greatest testimonial any gasoline ever had!

Blue Sunoco is recommended for the newest high-compression cars when owners' manuals specify a premium gasoline.

Up again in octane

Blue Sunoco is the only gasoline that meets the new higher premium octane standards and sells at regular gas price. Follow the lead of automotive engineers. Make your own 10-gallon test today.

COMPARISON CHART
This is what automotive engineers reported after comparing New '56 Blue Sunoco with premium-priced gasolines in their own cars
93% say Blue Sunoco matches or exceeds premium-priced brands for overall performance	91% say Blue Sunoco matches or exceeds premium-priced brands for power and pick-up
85% say Blue Sunoco matches or exceeds premium-priced brands for anti-knock performance	86% say Blue Sunoco matches or exceeds premium-priced brands for miles per gallon

There's a chicken for every pot this weekend. Prices are very reasonable on broiler, fryers and roasters. These high quality, fresh tasting, ready to cook chickens are the ideal meat for outdoor cooking as well as for meals prepared in the kitchen. Nothing could be more delicious than a piece of golden fried chicken, or a delicious sandwich made from cold roast chicken. Regardless of what the weather may be there's always a way to cook chicken to suit the occasion, the weather and the people who eat it.

This weekend look for specials on broiling and frying chickens, chuck roast, beef steaks, turkeys, hams and cold cuts. Bacon has gone up in price a few pennies but still is a "good buy."

Good quality vegetables are coming in from local growers. Those showing price declines include snaps, cabbage, corn, cucumbers, green peppers and summer squash.

Summer squash offers scope for much needed added interest to the menu. Easy to prepare, deliciously flavored squash blends well with other foods. If the skin is tender, no need to peel. Just cut in cubes or slices, and cook in a small amount of water until tender but still holds its shape.

Have you ever tried stuffed zucchini? It's wonderful! Zucchini is a squash that resembles a large cucumber with green and white stripes going lengthwise on its skin. To stuff zucchini just wash and cut off the ends and par-boil the whole squash for about 5 minutes. Cut it lengthwise and remove the pulp, leaving shell intact. Fill the shell with stuffing (made of bread seasoning to taste) and dot with crumbs, cheese, onions and sauté. Bake at 350 F for about 20 minutes.

More peaches are reaching the market and prices are lower. Now is the time to make plans for freezing, canning and pickling peaches. The forecast is that peaches will be ripe and reasonable during the first two weeks of August.

Many peaches on the market this year will be hydro-cooled—do try to buy one that have had this treatment since it retards brown rot. In hot weather brown rot can spot a basket of peaches in six or eight hours. Hydro-cooling, which gives the fresh picked fruit an ice water bath which removes field heat, extends protection to two or three days from brown rot.

If a worker in your family dies, ask if survivors benefits are payable. Myron Milbouer, district manager of the Wilmington social security district office states that each year there are some benefits that are not claimed by the survivors of insured workers. This is particularly true when the deceased worker is a female or when a male is not survived by a widow or close relative. The Social Security Act provides that a lump-sum death payment can be made in every case if the worker was insured at the time of his death. An application for this payment must be filed within two years after the wage earner's death.

The lump-sum death payment is paid to the worker's surviving spouse, provided they are living together at the time of the worker's death. If there is no surviving spouse, then it is payable as reimbursement to the person or persons that paid the deceased worker's burial expenses.

In addition to the lump-sum death payment, monthly benefits may be payable to the deceased wage earner's children under 18 years of age; and to his widow, regardless of her age if she has minor children of the wage earner in her care. When the last child reaches age 18, if the widow is still under 65 years of age, her benefit is stopped—to be resumed when she becomes 65, provided she has not remarried. Under some conditions, monthly payments are possible to dependent widowers, at age 65.

In some cases where the wage earner leaves no minor children and no surviving spouse, if he was contributing as much as fifty percent of the support of his parents, monthly benefits may be payable to them when they reach age 65.

Mr. Milbouer explained that social security benefits are not automatic. Applications must be filed for all types of benefits. He urges that in the event of the death of a worker, soon afterwards someone should contact the nearest social security office and find out whether survivors benefits are payable.

Veterans News

Q—I am going to school under the Korean GI Bill. What procedure must I follow if I want to change my course?

A—You must apply to VA for a change of course. Included in the application should be a report of your progress and conduct from your present school. The application should be sent to the VA Regional Office that handles your records.

Q—If a Korean veteran suffered a mental illness within two years of his discharge from service, would he be admitted to a VA hospital on the same basis as a service disabled or a nonservice disabled veteran?

A—He could be considered as a veteran with a service-connected condition, and then admitted to the hospital on the same basis as any service-disabled veteran.

Q—Must a Korea veteran be drawing VA disability compensation payments in order to be eligible for vocational rehabilitation training under Public Law 894?

A—The veteran either must be drawing VA disability compensation payments, or must be entitled to such payments. A veteran drawing disability retirement pay instead of compensation may be eligible for training.

Q—I plan to buy a farm with a GI loan. Included is a farm house we will be living in. Will this be considered a GI farm loan or a GI home loan, for purposes of VA's guarantee?

A—So long as the property includes a farm house to be occupied as your home, the GI loan will carry the same guarantee as any home loan: 60 percent of the loan, up to a maximum guarantee of $7,500.

Bulk Milk Handling Has Advantages and Disadvantages

Bulk tanks for handling milk on the farm have certain advantages and certain disadvantages when compared with the usual milk can equipment, according to John Dietrich, University of Maryland extension dairyman.

Dietrich suggests that a review of these advantages and disadvantages should help producers in deciding whether to shift to bulk handling—or in adjusting to the use of a bulk tank after it is installed. Bulk handling of milk in Maryland is becoming widespread. There are now over 1000 tanks in use throughout the state.

At present, Dietrich points out, the initial cost of a bulk tank generally exceeds by a substantial margin the cost of new can facilities to handle the same volume. This is particularly true for the smaller dairy farm, and true if the comparison is made on the commonly accepted basis of every-other-day pickup for the bulk milk and every-day pickup for the cans. On larger dairy farms, the difference between the two methods becomes less important and practically disappears if the two are compared on the same frequency of pickup.

The reason for this difference, Dietrich explains, is that the present investment cost per gallon of capacity is high for a small bulk tank, but it decreases rapidly for the larger sizes.

On the credit side, bulk handling eliminates the job of lifting milk cans. In addition, it may mean actual savings in time on many dairy farms. Can washing at the farm—a requirement in some milksheds—requires considerably more time than cleaning a bulk tank.

This saving in time, though it may be quite significant on many farms, according to Dietrich, is not likely to be large enough to permit any great reduction in the labor force. The result is more likely to be a shorter working day or an increase in volume of business within the same length of day. These possibilities, combined with the reduction of heavy lifting, should make it easier for dairy farmers to attract and hold skilled workers. The real gain in labor saving is realized when the tank is operated from a pipeline milking system which can often eliminate one man in the barn at milking time.

Loss of milk and butterfat because of stickage is reduced by bulk handling as compared with cans because the surface area of the container is much smaller per gallon of milk in a bulk tank than in a 10-gallon can. This saving may account to as much as 1 percent in milk and possibly even more in butterfat. Then, too, danger of loss from spillage is much reduced with bulk handling.

Off-flavor milk may be a problem on some farms with bulk handling since an entire tank of milk can be lost by off-flavor milk from one cow, whereas with cans the loss might be limited to one or two cans. Ordinarily, this problem is not serious, says Dietrich, and it can usually be handled through careful management.

In general, the dairyman sums up, bulk handling is one more step in the mechanization of dairy farming. Along with other devices, such as pipeline milkers, barn cleaners, silo unloaders and overhead grain storage, the farm labor force can produce more efficiently and with less drug-borne profitable to those farmers ery.

Here's where Ford's winning ways begin

With years-ahead Thunderbird styling!

The long, low, dreamy lines of the Thunderbird are evident everywhere. And that's why the '56 Ford is winning new hearts all over America.

...and they never seem to end!

With performance that makes Ford the world's largest-selling "eight"!

You need only glance at Ford's competitive record for '56 to see why Ford's the performance choice of thousands and still the V-8 champ! Need more proof? In any Fordomatic Fairlane or Station Wagon model, you can have the biggest, liveliest V-8 engine in the low-priced car line!

The Thunderbird's own V-8—with 225 h.p.—is the same engine that has powered the fabulous Ford Thunderbird into the hearts of so many sports-loving Americans. For hill-melting magic and peace-of-mind passing ability there's never been anything in a low-priced car like it!

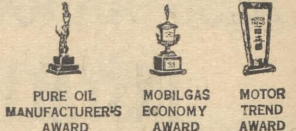

You get extra built-in quality throughout the whole Ford car. For example, only Ford in its field has a sturdy, 5-cross-member frame—a front stabilizer for surer-footed roadability—a tight, quiet all-steel body with insulation that matches the expensive cars.

You get Ford's famous savings. And it adds up! For a Ford V-8 again beat everything in its class (including Sixes) in the famous Mobilgas Economy Run. And even Ford's 202 h.p. Thunderbird V-8 feeds on "regular" fuel.

You get value that keeps... even through resale! Take a good look at a Ford and you'll agree that a Ford has much more in common with cars costing hundreds more than it does with cars in its own price class! That's why a Ford is actually worth more than the price you pay for it... that's why it brings a traditionally high resale price, too!

Church School 10 o'clock, Fulton J. Downing, superintendent. "A Call to Christian Living," is the theme of the lesson which is the second in the series on "Living our Faith." The test of our Christianity is how well we live it. This too is the thing by which people in general gauge the effectiveness of the Christian Church.

We are called upon to glorify God by our living, and not to bring reproach upon Him, His cause and His church.

Morning worship will begin at 11 o'clock. "The Lost Gospel," will be the subject of the pastor's sermon.

Next Sunday, August 12, is Collins Memorial Sunday. Rev. Collins was pastor of Asbury from 1924 to 1934. This ten year period saw many advances in the church, so it is only fitting that we should pay tribute to this devoted servant of God. Invite your friends to come with you.

Sulky Slants

By MRS. DAVE (PAT) SMITH

As I sit here watching the TV, I can't help feel a little sad, knowing that the Greatest Show on Earth is no more. I wonder what the little children think? Older people it's not so bad. As the years go by the youngsters of today will be asked by their children what a circus is.

Course, as they say, they will play in auditoriums, but that to me doesn't give the feeling of going inside of the big top. Only thing you have to look forward to is going down to Sarasota, Florida, to the winter quarters and see what you can. And that is an experience in its self. Well so much for the circus. I happened to have some friends in and that is what comes of talking about shows and etc.

And speaking of shows, you certainly can see any kind of stage play up here on Cape Cod. Plenty of straw hat theatres. All the Broadway plays are pulling in 'til after Labor Day. Guess all in all, there are about 12 different plays going on. I know several of the trainers and their wives have gone to see some of them. What doesn't go to the lakes, go to the shows.

Another sport that is going over big, close to the track, is automobile racing. Gosh, I got caught in that crowd on No 1 highway and what a mess. But they have the most beautiful plant I have ever seen for car racing.

Then there is the dog racing track about 10 miles from the track here. When you get tired of harness racing, just go to the dogs.

Speaking of tracks this place ends up in another four weeks. Then back to Batavia. And still by time this goes to press we might even be there. But I think we will finish out here.

Then on to Lexington, then back to Baltimore and home. Sure will be glad when that time comes. I'm rather tired out already.

Happy Grey is sure feeling good, seems he can't do anything but win with Hickory Bob. But still they complain about this track. They say, and I quote, "It sure is a breaking sun of a gun." They can't make the time they did last year.

I don't think I will ever fuss about racing in New York state again, will be glad to get back there again. For why, maybe I had better not state my reasons, but I can tell you they wouldn't do to state here. I'm not alone with my thoughts about racing down there. I'll take New York. From all I hear the fair was a great success. Wish I had been there. And better still, wish we were racing down there. Oh yes, another thing in the papers up here is all about the growing of Ocean City, Md. Really do advertise it in the Boston paper as the eastern shore playground. They had the Ocean Downs race track on TV the other night. Also the corner stone laying of the new Westbury track and the new track that is opening near Louisville, Ky. Was quite a news reel. They play harness racing big up here in this state on radio and TV.

This will be a funny way to end up this little get together, but here goes. A driver up here had a monkey, he traded the monkey for a goat, then he traded the goat for a little burrow, that isn't any larger than the little white pony Real Thomas had. We are all waiting to see what next he will trade for. Think I will trade my parrot for that little fellow, but Dave says no. So ends the trading here at Foxboro raceway.

BOYER IS RENAMED DELAWARE STATE REP. Charles Boyer, BRT Delaware state representative and secretary of the state legislative board, was re-elected to those offices at the board's recent reorganization meeting in Wilmington. Renamed chairman was Hubert Kenney (123). Walter M. Crippen (123) was elected vice-chairman.

Take Steps to Control Tomato Diseases Now

Wet weather and unreasonable temperatures have been good for growth of tomatoes and late potatoes. This same weather has also been good for early and late blight of these crops, reports Dr. L. O. Weaver, University of Maryland extension plant pathologist.

Late blight on potatoes has been reported in Cambria county, Pa., and persistent rains could spread this disease rapidly to western and central Maryland counties, Dr. Weaver says.

Early blight on tomatoes is already well established in many fields. As the disease spreads, leaves turn yellow and fall from the vines. Other symptoms of early blight are poor color and quality of the fruit, sun scald and reduced yields.

The plant pathologist recommends the use of fungicidal sprays and dusts to prevent early and late blight anthracnose, and grey leaf spot. University of Maryland Extension Fact Sheet 27, "Field Control of Tomato Diseases and Insects," gives spraying and dusting recommendations. The Fact Sheet suggests zineb (Dithane or Parzate) or Maneb (Manzate) in the ratio of two pounds of chemical to 100 gallons of water. Applications of these fungicides should be repeated until a crop is assured. Sprays containing copper will prevent late blight and other leaf diseases but are weak for anthracnose control.

Home gardeners should spray or dust tomatoes and potatoes with general-purpose sprays containing effective fungicides such as zineb and copper.

Rains which cause heavy foliage and wet soil favor soil rots or fruit rots from fungi in the soil. Picking of early ripening fruits, especially those touching the soil will reduce losses.

Because the town council has banned Sunday test-runs, Bethlehem fears it will lose its position as a leading South African speedboat championship center.
