

CITY COUNCIL REFUSES TO APPLY TO BONDING COMPANY FOR SHORTAGE

The City Council, at a special meeting Friday morning, failed to pass a resolution to make application to a bonding company for a shortage revealed in the audit of the city's accounts for the 1955 fiscal year.

The auditing firm of Gunnip, Isaacson & Stolper, now Isaacson & Stolper, of Wilmington, had revealed a shortage of $1207.60 in the city tax accounts in a special audit, made last year, for the fiscal year ending Sept. 30, 1955.

N. Maxson Terry, city attorney, had prepared the resolution and had advised that application be made to the bonding company, the Home Indemnity Insurance Company.

When the auditors told the City last fall of the shortage, the councilmen voted-unanimously to have the audit which cost $1600. At that time the auditors added that the cost of the audit would be greater than the shortage it would recover.

Mayor Ernest Killen said that it was thought best to have the audit in all fairness to the taxpayers and to disclose how the shortage came about.

He added that an application must be made to the bonding company before it will pay off.

Councilman Dr. Hewitt A. Smith, at the Friday meeting, read the resolution and moved it to be adopted. He was seconded by Councilmen Charles Peck, Sr. Councilmen Charles Jerred, Walter Messick, Leonard Harrington, and George Graham did not vote.

Councilman Messick said Tuesday that he did not vote because he thought the resolution was not written properly in that it didn't cover all persons who could have been involved in the shortage.

Highway Dept. Has Much To Do In County

The Kent County Division of the State Highway Department stands ready to provide service required of it on a 24-hour basis, stated W. F. McFaul, Jr., division engineer, in a recent report.

In this report McFaul also called attention to the many problems created for his division through the constantly increasing population in this area. The report follows:

Due to the increase of traffic in the county and the problems which result from the added population and industry, the highway department finds that in addition to the regular maintenance and construction program, it has many other public services to perform.

Within the incorporated limits of the many towns in the county, the maintenance of the thru streets has become a major problem. The purchase of special equipment (for instance, a pickup sweeper and the establishment of a special crew of men who will concentrate on the specific problems presented within our municipalities will help alleviate this situation.

Also, the great increase in population has created many problems for the State Highway Department. Dumping areas throughout the county have been established and are used so heavily that a special crew has been assigned the sole duty of operating these county dumps. The highway department finds that it costs less to maintain these designated areas than to have illegal dumping along the highway and the resulting cleanup involved.

The traffic over our county roads has increased in leaps and bounds. Naturally the additional maintenance places an increased work load on the division forces. Here again the acquisition of modern motorized maintenance equipment is increasing the capacity of our maintenance sections.

Operating on a fixed salary budget means that the division must continually increase its efficiency if the services are to keep pace with the demand. For the first time in several years the organization within the division is being brought up to date. The once effective county wide primary and secondary districts are now planned to be redistributed, having Harrington as the base of operation for the lower portion of the county and Dover for the upper portion. By having more local control, it is the hope that increased work can be performed with fewer men. The remainder of the work force can be employed in giving the county additional types of needed services.

W. F. McFaul, Jr., division engineer in Kent County, states that with the cooperation of the men in the county division, the public can expect first-class county roads and that the division stands ready to provide service as required on a 24-hour basis.

Trout Bite at Coral Beds

Stormy weather has slowed up salt water fishing this week. It is well to keep an eye on the weather while fishing. Squalls coming up in a matter of minutes can be hazardous in the Delaware River and Bay.

Trout are biting at the Coral Beds, Slaughter's Beach. Snapper blues are plentiful off the Fenwick Island shoals — parties are averaging 175 to 200 blues.

Parties fishing Indian River Bay near Massey's Landing are landing nice catches of two to three pound flounder. Rock and flounder are biting at Roosevelt Inlet.

A 10 pound bass was reported caught in Prime Hook Creek. Bass fishing has been exceptionally good in most Delaware ponds due to cloudy and cool weather this week. Fishermen are having much greater luck with surface lures than they would ordinarily have at this time of the year.

Here are a few pointers for the bass fisherman who is preparing his catch for the frying pan.

The first step in cleaning a bass is to cut the fish up the underside and remove the entrails. Remove the dark band of blood along the backbone by scraping loose with your thumbnail or knife. Now wash the fish thoroughly.

To skin the fish make a cut around the head just through the skin and from the head to the tail along the back. This latter allows you to skin half the fish at a time. With a pair of pliers slowly pull the skin towards the tail.

Some anglers prefer to leave the skin on and simply scale the fish.

When the fish has been skinned, cut off the head and tail. If the fish is to be left whole, remove the dorsal fin by slitting along either side of it, then lifting it out.

Bass or comparable fish are usually split or filleted. For this a sharp knife is a necessity. Lay the fish on a board and begin by making a cut by the tail and working forward on the fish, being careful to keep the blade close to the backbone to avoid leaving too much meat on the bones. When the ribs are reached cut down from the back, again keeping the knife close to the bones. When one side is removed turn the fish over and do the other side the same way. For boneless fillets you should work your knife carefully over the ribs, leaving them attached to the backbone. One other method is to cut out the rib section entirely, leaving only the meaty back section above it. This latter method is somewhat wasteful.

The July issue of Field and Stream carried a most timely and significant article by Harold Titus. Its title is "Let's Take The Outdoors Out of Politics." In it, Mr. Titus summarizes the combined thinking of 18 national conservation agencies and comes up with a sound long-range conservation program. He calls upon the voting public to demand that every candidate for political office declare himself on conservation matters.

The seven major points of the program in which there is broad general concurrence by the important national conservation groups are these:

1. Integrity of public lands (No special privilege).
2. Establishment of long-range policies now, regardless of party.
3. Conservation administration based on the greatest good for all.
4. Make the greatest use of rainfall.
5. Research — and more research!
6. Save the good wetlands.
7. Set up an expert board of review.

CHIGGERS INVADE SILVER SPRING

The Silver Spring (Md.) area is reported to be under attack by the Eutombicula batatas and you need mighty good eyes to see them. They are minute red insects that belong to the mite family and are commonly called chiggers.

Silver Spring is not the only area of the state that is scratching, for chiggers can be expected most anywhere. The little red fellers are usually found in woodlands, around streams or lakes and in low, damp places where vegetation is rank. Some species are also found in lawns, golf courses and parks.

Social Security Notes

Cash social security benefits for disabled workers at age 50, benefits for children 18 or over who were disabled before they reached 18, and monthly benefits for women at age 62 instead of 65 were added to the nation's old-age and survivors insurance program August 1, when the 1956 social security amendments were signed into law by President Eisenhower. Legislation embodying the changes was completed by the 84th Congress in the closing hours of the session on July 27.

Other new provisions in the legislation bring under the law additional workers—among them new groups of professional people, more farm owners and operators, and some American citizens who work abroad for foreign subsidiaries of American corporations. The amendments also include changes giving more equitable treatment to certain groups, suspending payment in certain cases to aliens while they are outside the United States, and bringing the interest rate on the Federal Old-Age and Survivors Insurance Trust Fund into line with the interest rate on other long-term investments.

One of the most significant changes made by the amendments was the provision for payment of disability benefits beginning at age 50 to workers who are totally disabled for substantial gainful work of any kind. Under the new law they can get monthly disability payments beginning with July 1957. No applications can be accepted by social security offices before October 1, 1956.

To qualify for disability insurance payments a worker must meet requirements prescribed by the law on the total amount of work to his credit under social security and on the amount to his credit in the 10-year period and the 3-year period before he was disabled. The definition of disability is the same as the one which has been in the law as one of the requirements for a disability freeze since 1954. The payments can be made only to a worker who has a disability which prevents him from engaging in any substantial gainful activity. The disability must have lasted at least 6 months, and must be expected to continue indefinitely.

To prevent duplication, the amount of any disability payment will be reduced if the beneficiary is receiving disability benefits from another Federal agency under a State or Federal workmen's compensation law.

To meet the costs of these benefits an increase in the social security tax will go into effect January 1, 1957. The amount of the increase is 1/4 of one percent each for the employee and employer, and 3/8 of one percent for self-employed people, on the first $4,200 of earnings in a year.

The optional method of computing farm self-employment earnings is changed by the amendments. For taxable years ending on or after December 31, 1956, a farmer whose gross income from agricultural self-employment is not more than $1,800 may report as his net earnings from farming either his actual net earnings or 2/3 of his gross farm income. If his gross income is over $1,800 and his net earnings are less than $1,200, he may report either the actual amount of his net earnings from farming or $1,200. If his gross income is over $1,800 and his net earnings are $1,200 or more, he must report the actual amount of his net earnings. The amendments make this optional method of figuring net earnings from farming available for social security purposes to members of farm partnerships and to individual farmers regardless of whether their books are kept on an accrual or cash basis.

Beginning in 1957 the cash wages paid to a farm worker by an employer for agricultural labor will count toward social security if the worker meets either of two requirements. If the worker is paid $150 or more in cash by any one employer during the year, these earnings are covered by the law. Regardless of the amount he is paid, however, he is covered by the law if he performs agricultural labor for the employer on 20 or more days during the year for cash pay figured on a time basis for example, by the hour, day, or week,—rather than on a price-rate basis.

After 1956, crew leaders who furnish workers to perform agricultural labor and who pay the workers will be considered the employers of the crews unless there is a written agreement with the person for whom the work is performed providing that the crew leader is an employee.

No foreign workers admitted to the United States on a temporary basis from any other country to perform agricultural labor will be covered by social security after 1956.

The amendments make it possible for United States citizens employed by a foreign subsidiary of an American corporation to be brought under old-age and survivors insurance of the American corporation owns 20 percent or more of the voting stock of the subsidiary. If such a foreign subsidiary holds more than 50 percent of the voting stock of another foreign corporation, the American citizens employed by the latter could also be covered. These requirements had been 50 percent in each case. American citizens working abroad for a foreign subsidiary will, as in the past, be covered by the law only if the American corporation agrees to pay the taxes due.

American ministers serving as pastors of churches in foreign countries may elect to be covered by the law if their congregations are composed predominantly of American citizens.

The amendments make it possible for a new group of dependents—"disabled children over 18"—to receive social security payments based on the earnings of a retired or deceased parent. The "children" eligible for benefits under this provision may be of any age at the present time, provided they are unmarried, that they become totally disabled before they were 18, and that they have remained totally disabled ever since. The child must show actual support by the insured parent, unless he had received or was eligible to receive a social security benefit on his parent's account before he was 18.

Under the old law the mother of a child under 18 entitled to benefits could also qualify for benefits if she has the child in her care; mothers of disabled children over 18 also may now get benefits. Payments to the disabled children and their mothers may start with the checks for January 1957, due early in February; applicants have until January 1958 in which to make their claims without losing benefits. No applications can be accepted before October 1, 1956.

Under the amended law, working women, the wives of men receiving old-age insurance payments, and the widows of insured workers can start getting monthly benefits at age 62. The dependent mother of an insured worker who dies leaving no spouse or child eligible for benefits may also get benefits at 62.

Working women and wives who apply before age 65 will receive benefits at reduced rates, on a sliding scale. Benefits for widows and dependent mothers of insured deceased workers at age 62 will not be reduced. Payments for women who are already 62 and who qualify under the amendments can begin with the November benefit checks, due early in December. Applications must be made for those benefits; however, there will be no loss of benefits to women first eligible in November 1956 who apply before December 1957.

A large group of people self-employed in certain professions was covered by one law for the first time. Self-employed lawyers, dentists, chiropractors, veterinarians, naturopaths, osteopaths, and optometrists will get social security credit and pay social security taxes on their earnings for taxable years that end after 1955. Doctors of medicine are now the only self-employed people who as a group are not covered by social security.

Several important changes were made in the social security coverage of farmers and farm workers. One of these changes brings under the social security law, for taxable years ending after 1955, the income a farm landowner gets from a share-farming arrangement, provided the owner "materially participates" in the operation of a farm.

Under the amendments, payments to certain alien beneficiaries will be suspended if they are outside the United States for more than six months. Benefits will be resumed if they return. The restriction, however, does not apply under any of the following circumstances:

a. If the worker has ten years of work under the law or has resided in the United States for 10 years;

b. If the suspension would affect treaty obligations of the United States existing when the law takes effect.

c. If the alien beneficiary is a citizen or national of a country which has a social insurance or pension system of general application which would pay benefits to American citizens, otherwise eligible, who return to the United States to live.

This provision applies only to aliens who become eligible for benefits after December 1956.

Employees of the TVA and the Federal Home Loan Banks may now be covered by the law subject to approval by the Secretary of Health, Education, and Welfare of plans for coordinating the retirement systems of those organizations with OASI.

The amendments remedy the situation under the previous social security law in which a widow who remarried lost immediately all rights to benefits based on the earnings record of her former husband, but did not gain any benefit protection on her second husband's account if he died within a year of their marriage and there was no natural or adopted child. Beginning with November 1956, the new law restores a remarried widow's benefit rights on the earnings record of her first husband under such circumstances.

Another change in the law permits, where there is good cause, an extension of the period in which proof of support must be filed in claims for dependent husbands, widowers, and parents benefits. Under the old law, in each of these cases, the application or the proof of support must have been filed within two years after the death of the insured worker. If the claimant can show good cause for failure to apply or furnish the proof within this period, he now has an additional two years after the end of the original two-year period or two years after September 1956.

Other amendments change the law so that years before 1956 in which a worker, now brought under the law, was not covered will not adversely affect his becoming insured or the amount of his benefit.

The new law also changes the interest rate in investments held by the Old-Age and Survivors Insurance Trust Fund to take in account the long-term nature of the investments. In the future, the interest rate will be equal to the average rate of interest on all marketable interest-bearing obligations of the United States not due or callable until after five years. This provision will give the trust fund a better return on its investment than the rate provided in the law heretofore.

The new legislation contains a provision that will deny social security coverage for service in the employ of any organization required to register, under the Internal Security Act of 1950, as a Communist-front, Communist-action, or Communist-infiltrated organization. The provision is not retroactive; it becomes effective when the organization registers or when the final order of the Subversive Activities Control Board requiring it to register becomes effective. In no event are services performed for the organization before July 1956 affected by the change.

Provisions are also included to permit Federal courts, in imposing sentence for future convictions for treason, sedition, subversion, espionage, or sabotage, bar payments to the convicted person of any social security benefits based on his earnings prior to the conviction or on the prior earnings of any other person. Now Is The Time To Rseed Your Lawn

Now. Now. Now is the best time of the year to seed that new lawn or new pasture. You will normally have the best success, too, with reseedling an old lawn or an old pasture if the work is done now, advises George Vapaa, Kent County Agent. There are several reasons for it. Most of the hot weather is over, so young seedlings will get a good start. Competition from weeds is less than in the spring if a good seedbed has been prepared. Rains and moisture usually can be regulated a little better now than in the spring. Chances of success are less after September 15th, because the grass should go into cold weather with 3 to 5 inches of top growth.

"A good lawn or pasture is the result of good care and management," says Claude Phillips, agronomist at the University of Delaware. "Fertilizer, for example, is probably best applied about September 1st. Most home owners use too much lime on lawns. A soil test will give the best indication as to how much is needed. A sample of soil delivered to the county agent at the postoffice building in Dover will be tested and a recommendation given at no charge."

Seed mixtures will differ for varying conditions. Sunny, shady, sandy, or wet soils do better with different mixtures of seed. The county agent will be glad to help you with your particular problem.

In general, for lawn mixtures, about 10% of ryegrass (sometimes identified on the tag as Poa trivialis) is enough. There should be a minimum of 25% Kentucky bluegrass, and varying amounts of redtop or fescue. Shady locations should be seeded with a minimum of 50% creeping red fescue. Some people do not like clover in lawns, but clover does tend to build up the soil somewhat.

The ideal pasture mixture yields about 50% grass and 50% clover for grazing. The basic seeding recommendation for Kent County is 7 pounds of orchard grass, 1 pound of ladino clover and 3 pounds of alsike clover per acre. Other grasses may be added depending on soil and moisture conditions.

How to seed is also important. An even distribution of seed and a firm, well-prepared seed bed are musts. A fluffy, loose seed bed may cause a failure. Be sure to pack down the seed with a roller or tamp.

Mowing of a new lawn should not be done until the grass is four or five inches high. Never clip any lawn closer than two inches. Most mowers are designed so that they will cut close to the ground. But this simply stunts the plant and allows weeds to come into the lawn.

Lawns and pastures have similar problems and similar needs. The desired end result is a good, even growth that stays healthy over a number of years. The job is neither too complicated nor too difficult. But it does require that the job be done in the right way at the right time.

Boggs to Recommend Veterans Commission

Governor J. Caleb Boggs will recommend to the next General Assembly that a State Veterans' Commission be created to cope with all veteran problems within the state. The Chief Executive outlined his plan to the heads of the state's two largest veterans organizations in a conference in his executive offices this week.

Making an official call on Governor Boggs were John M. Longbotham, Department Commander of the American Legion and David S. Hugg, Department Commander of the Veterans of Foreign Wars. Both leaders live in Milford.

It was their first meeting with Governor Boggs since the respective department encampments of the two organizations. Both the American Legion and VFW endorsed campaign resolutions requesting the formation of a State Veterans' Council. Governor Boggs had been notified in advance of the encampments that such action would be taken and said that should a majority of the state veterans groups approve such action, he would be happy to follow their suggestions.

The two veteran organization resolutions called for the elected heads of the state groups, or some one designated by them to be appointed to a Council.

In their interview with Governor Boggs he pointed out that a Council would be a fine thing, but he believed that a veterans group would attain higher status if it were to be a regular commission of the state government, with a moderate appropriation with which to carry on necessary work.

"A majority of the states have such commissions," Governor Boggs continued, "many of them dating back to post World War I days. While Delaware has no official agency for this type of service, I have in the past designated the State Development Department to answer correspondence and serve as liaison on veterans' affairs as occasion demanded."

Governor Boggs said that while the bonus to World War II and Korean veterans is practically all paid through the office of the Veterans Military Pay Commission, there is no doubt in his mind that social problems concerning ex-servicemen would face agencies for many years to come.

"I believe the state could best serve its veteran population by the creation of a Veterans Commission, and I for one will do what I can to bring such a commission into being," he declared.

Both Commanders Longbotham and Hugg said they believe their organization would back the commission idea in preference to the Council requested in their resolutions.

Motor Fuel Taxes Set Record

A new all-time high record for receipts from motor fuel taxes for any one month was established for the receipts from these taxes for the month of June which were received during July.

According to a report of the Motor Fuel Tax Division of the State Highway Department, receipts from motor fuel taxes for the month of June totaled $761,350.26, it being only the second month to ever exceed $700,000 in these receipts.

The receipts for June of this year were $98,517.25 more than the receipts for June of last year and were an increase of $163,456.93 over the receipts for June of 1954 and $172,755.64 more than was received for June of 1953.

The motor fuel taxes received for June represented the sale of 15,227,005 gallons of motor fuel, an increase of 1,970,344 gallons over the amount sold during June of last year.

The report indicated that during June there were 45 concerns bonded as distributors of motor fuel in this state and of this number three concerns reported no sales for the month.

Three other concerns reported sales that accounted for $318,226.

40, or 42 per cent of the tax collected. These concerns, and the amount of taxes they reported were Atlantic Refining Company, $101,671.74, Diamond Ice and Coal Company, $78,837.30 and Esso Standard Oil Company, $138,447.33.

School Children May Not Pay Income Tax

Parents of youngsters who are working during the summer vacation were reminded today by H. L. Brown, District Director of the Internal Revenue Service, that under certain circumstances their children may still be claimed as full exemptions for Federal income tax purposes. And the children themselves may be entitled to refunds in whole or part of income taxes withheld from their wages during their employment. The special exemption rule applies to children who will still be under 19 years of age at the end of the year and to children who are full time students, regardless of their age.

Exemption may be claimed by the parents if they contribute more than half the child's support, regardless of the amount earned by the child. This new law was passed by Congress in 1954. Mr. Brown explained. Prior to 1954, no person earning $600 or more could be claimed as a dependent by another taxpayer. Inquiries received, however, indicate that many who are entitled to this benefit are not aware of it. And some parents continue to have their dependent children stop work before earning $600.

Children 19 and over to qualify as dependents must be engaged in full-time study at a recognized educational institution for at least five months of the year or must be pursuing a full-time accredited on-farm training program.

Mr. Brown said that any questions regarding individual cases should be submitted to the Internal Revenue District office in Wilmington, or to the branch offices in Dover and Georgetown, by telephone or letter.

Nicaragua is to have a new brewery employing 1,000 workers, Managua reports.

One of the features of the tea will be an exhibit arranged by Mrs. Ralph Reed and Mrs. Elwood Cursey, Milton, displaying outstanding achievements of promotion used in the different societies.

We have noticed that some train whistles are more melodious. Occasionally, we hear one at night on the Penny that reminds us of the steamboat whistles we used to hear on the Mississippi and other rivers.

VALUE OF LOCAL NEWSPAPER ADS

How valuable is local newspaper advertising to local business people? Here's what the American Bankers magazine, a publication which represents a traditionally hard-boiled profession, has to say:

DON'T BE AN ENVY ADDICT

People who eat away their insides being envious of others have their terrible malady written all over their faces and in their manners. They are destroying their personalities, and often have gone so far up the road of jealousy and hatred it would be easier for an alcoholic to make a come-back.

SHADE OUTSIDE GAS TANKS TO CUT EVAPORATION

Shading outside gasoline storage tanks with a shed or putting them under the shade of trees cuts down evaporation losses materially, reports Guy W. Gieger, University of Maryland extension agricultural engineer. Gas losses by evaporation can run as high as 10 percent in a month's time when tanks are exposed to hot summer sun he says. Overheating and evaporation of gasoline may change the fuel's characteristics and result in poor tractor and truck operation. The gas may even gum up valves and rings, the engineer says.

Shading has proved more effective than painting with reflective paint tests have shown. Pressure valves for replacing the vent cap are now available and tend to reduce evaporation losses. These valves permit the pressure to build up to 2-3 pounds before they are released. The best place for gas storage tanks is underground, Gieger says, but warns that extra precautions must be taken. The tank must be of high quality and thoroughly coated with waterproofing materials to prevent leaks. The underground tank must be located away from wells and sewer lines to prevent contamination of well water or backing up of gas fumes into the sewer line.

Asbury Methodist Church Notes

Church School 10 o'clock, Fulton J. Downing, superintendent. "The Way of Christian Fellowship," is the title of the lesson for this week. This lesson is the third in the series "Living Our Faith." The sense of fellowship and oneness was the great attribute of the early church. The early Christians found themselves by losing themselves in this fellowship. The church affords the same opportunity today as it did then. Morning worship will begin at 11 o'clock. "By Faith," will be the title of the pastor's sermon based on the immortal 11th chapter of the book of Hebrews. This is Collins Memorial Sunday. Rev. Edward H. Collins came to Asbury Church, as its pastor, in 1924 and remained until his retirement from the active ministry in 1934. During his pastorate, Asbury Church saw many advances. Many of his ideas are still bearing fruit today. The most notable accomplishment during his pastorate here was the erection of the Collins Educational Building. He devoted over 1000 hours of labor to the actual erection of the building. We invite you and your friends to attend this service in memory of Rev. Collins. There will be no morning worship service on August 19, 26 and Sept. 2. The regular morning and evening services will be resumed on September 9, however, Church School will be held at the appointed time on each of these three Sundays. Rev. R. S. Gibson, pastor

"KING AND I" AT REESE AUGUST 12-13-14 John Payne's "Rebel In Town" August 9-10-11

Force of habit is a great thing. If that is true, one may find their friends and neighbors at every Reese Theatre performance. Unusual entertainment promotes the Movie Center habit, combined with courtesy and the outstanding method of presentation. Who hasn't heard about "The King and I," famous as a true story of an American girl who taught and mothered the King of Siam's children, marvelous as a stage play on Broadway for five years, it is lauded as the King of all entertainments, and especially for the entire family. In Cinemascope, with Deborah Kerr and Yul Brynner as the stars, this entertainment treat is listed to play the Reese Theatre. Sunday, Monday, Tuesday, Aug. 12-13-14. Two hours and twenty-seven minutes of living enchantment awaits the family.

Lee reports a fine time and also one that was very worthwhile and helpful. Lee replaced Jim McDowell who was not able to attend.
Nelson Meredith, Jr. is recovering nicely from an operation in the Milford Memorial Hospital and is expected home soon.
Mr. and Mrs. H. G. Omwake and Nellie Ann were Friday evening dinner guests of the Jacob Hatfields. Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Meredith came in later for dessert and coffee.

Sulky Slants

By MRS. DAVE (PAT) SMITH

This morning sure is something. Seems like you don't any more and get started than you have to start all over again.

This past week has certainly seen the horses go out of here.

They even called Dr. Huber up in Buffalo to see of Dave could stay this next two weeks. But we didn't get to, so on to Batavia.

It seems as tho, Carl Goslin, you should be going over with Old Symbol Louis. Do you remember that old Canadian Barn? You wouldn't know Batavia Downs now. No part of it is likt it was when you were there.

Everyone tells us there are plenty of stalls to be had there, unless its like with us, we had to reserve one for the past two weeks.

Only thing I'll really miss is the lake behind me and the boats. Another great thing is the beautiful woods and the trees. Up here every Thursday night a Packard car is given away. No charge to get in to see the races. You should see the crowds, they had 31,000 last week.

Some were invited to visit the paddock. They were amazed to see how much care was given to a horse. Sure seemed to enjoy it. I think a conducted tour like that helps create interest in the horse business.

Delaware Food

If your menu reflects the best buys on the market, you'll be serving lots of tender fresh summer time vegetables. Green beans, down three cents a pound in many stores, are an excellent buy. Try adding a few raw slivers of snaps to your next salad bowl, they are good that way. Local tomatoes are very plentiful with prices ranging from 15 to 25 cents a pound. The quality of tomatoes varies this week, so look carefully to get firm, vine ripened tomatoes. Eggplant is a new item on the good buy list. And with cheese so plentiful, why not try serving eggplant souffle for supper.

Other vegetables deserving the label "best buys" are beets, cabbage, carrots, cucumbers, green peppers and corn. Squash is on the vegetable counter and in good supply. The yellow straight neck squash is delicious stuffed, while the white squash is excellent fried, and butternuts are excellent for squash pies. There is a variety for every need.

Watermelon still can't be beat as a fruit buy. Melons are averaging around 30 cents, or 4 cents by the pound. The Congo melon is especially delicious. They are long and dark green with "invisible" stripes. Cantaloupes went up a few pennies, but with local supplies beginning to come in there will be plenty for everyone to enjoy. If you have a home freezer, now is the time to make your own melon balls. It's easily done and now is the time to do it with the excellent quality watermelons, cantaloupe and honeydew melons now are available on the market.

Locally grown peaches are now on the market and are good buys. Plums are excellent in quality and prices in most cases are good too.

Small turkeys of the Beltsville type, weighing from 4 to 8 pounds are good buys this week. With the supply of these small turkeys being plentiful and the price good, what better meat can you serve your family.

Turkeys as a whole are quite reasonable in price, so much that you with freezers can begin looking for your Thanksgiving and Christmas turkeys now at a good saving in price.

The London Rowing Club was established in 1856 at Purney, then a country village, and has since won 81 events at Henley Royal Regatta and been Head of the River 13 times. Its century of rowing is being celebrated this year.

NEW CASTLE COUNTY GROUP TO TAKE PART IN A TOUR

Kent County dairymen have been invited to take part in a tour to the Allentown, Pennsylvania area, on August 23 and 24. Each year the New Castle County group has taken a two-day tour by bus to visit farms and dairy facilities in neighboring states, and this year felt that other groups may be interested in such a trip. Advance reservations should be made as early as possible. Call the county agent (telephone Dover 2621) if you want to know more about it.

Some of the highlights of the trip will include the registered Holstein herd of Harvey Worthington, West Chester, Pa. Herd production last year averaged 160,000 pounds of milk per man. At this stop will be seen a rotation pasture system, hay crusher, air dried hay in all lofts in the barn, and a loose housing system in raising heifers. This is an outstanding dairy farm operation.

Also visited will be the 1200 acre Laurel Locks farm, near Pottstown, Pa., with 300 Guernsey animals, 3000 chickens, 6000 turkeys, and 30 sheep. Here will be seen one of the largest milking barns under one roof, maternity barn, hay and straw storage, calf pens, milk plant and many other practices.

Other visits on the tour will include several Holstein farms, the Frey and Wessel Jersey farm, and the unusual Sylzazi milking shorthorn herd, the Lehigh Valley Milk Producers' Cooperative Milk Plant, alfalfa dehydrating plant, and bull stud, and the New Holland Machine Company.

Your county agents have covered most of the stops, and feel that everyone should enjoy the trip. Six to ten wives usually take this holiday with their husbands. How about your family? You will have a grand time with forty or more folks for the two days. Costs are very reasonable—and need only include a nominal bus fare, five meals and overnight lodging.

WHEAT ALLOTMENT FOR FARMS WITH NO WHEAT FOR THREE YEARS

Farmers on land on which no wheat was seeded for grain for any of the years 1954, 1955, and 1956, may apply for a 1957 wheat acreage allotment, according to Joseph W. Ennis, chairman of the Kent County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee. To be considered for an allotment on a farm which had no wheat seeded for grain for any of those years, the farmer must apply in writing to his county ASC committee by August 15, 1956. Blank application forms are available at the county ASC office at 313 South Governors Avenue, Dover.

Nazarene Church Notes

Because of the closing of the annual district camp meeting at North East, Md., only Sunday School and morning worship will be observed this Sunday. Next Sunday, August 19, the

He and his wife, the former Inez Crisp, and children are visiting Mrs. McLellan's family. Mrs. Lorraine Ottinger, pastor

Social Security

Persons past age 65 who have sufficient coverage to be eligible for old-age insurance benefits, but have not filed application for benefits because they are still working, were reminded today by Myron Milbouer, manager of the social security office at Wilmington, that if their earnings in 1956 are sufficiently low they may receive full or partial benefits for the year. "We are inclined to believe," Mr. Milbouer said, "that there are people who could receive benefits for 1956 who have so far not taken advantage of their rights, because of misunderstanding or confusion as to the new retirement test in the law." In brief, an individual who was past 65 years of age the entire year of 1956, and who has had sufficient covered employment or self-employment to be eligible for benefits can receive benefits for the entire year 1956 if his total earnings for the year do not exceed $1200. He can receive partial benefits if his total earnings do not exceed $2080, even though he works throughout the entire year. In the case of a self-employed person, the net profit from the trade or business is what is considered as "earnings." "Regardless of the amount of his earnings in certain months of the year, a beneficiary can get benefit payments for those months in which he neither earns more than $80 in wages nor renders substantial services in self-employment," Milbouer declared. Persons who will not earn over $2080 in 1956, and who meet the other conditions for eligibility may secure further information and assistance in filing application for benefits, by contacting the Social Security Administration office at its new address, 504 W. 10th St., Wilmington. The Gold Coast has an Independence Celebration Committee at work organizing celebrations throughout the country, against the day when freedom of government is granted.

Veterans News

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS Q—What is considered full-time on-the-job training under the Korean GI Bill? A—Full-time training means the standard work-week of the firm where the veteran is training, but not less than 36 hours a week. Training of less than 36 hours a week may be authorized if the firm's standard work-week, arrived at through collective bargaining, is less than 36 hours. Q—My application for disability compensation has been turned down. I plan to appeal. Do I file my appeal directly with VA's Board of Veterans Appeals in Washington, D. C.? A—No. The appeal should be filed with the VA regional office having your records. The appeals procedure starts there. Q—Is it possible for a veteran living in one State to get a GI loan to buy property in another State? A—It is possible. However, you will find that generally lenders confine their lending operations to certain areas, and may not be willing to lend money for out-of-State property.

INSPECTORS HELP REDUCE PLANT PESTS

United States loss from plant pests, now over $3 billion annually, would be substantially greater without the protection of plant-quarantine inspection, says U. S. Department of Agriculture. Inspectors last year intercepted about 18,500 destructive pests—11,500 insects and 7,000 diseases. They must recognize known insects and diseases but must also be alert for new species of pests. Commercial imports of plants and plant materials are fairly easy to control, because most are certified as pest-free by the country of origin. But the trained inspectors stationed at border, sea and air ports, examine commercial imports for assurance there are no pests, contaminating soil or prohibited packing material. Fumigation or heat and cold treatments are safeguards. Passengers and crew baggage, mailed gifts, furnishings of ships and planes and military equipment also may provide means of entry for plant pests. Last year inspectors examined 48,000 vessels and 90,000 planes from overseas, 15 million motor vehicles, 85,000 freight cars and 2,300 pullman coaches arriving from Mexico.

RESEARCH REVEALS CAUSE OF GARMENT DAMAGE

The meticulous housewife who has carefully stored away winter woollens using the combination of certain plastic hangers and certain moth preventives, may have a problem on her hands—come fall weather and time for using the clothing once again. Inquiries from homemakers about the cause of garment damage from plastic clothes hangers in summer storage led the U. S. Department of Agriculture to do some research. They found that some plastics soften when in the presence of certain moth preventives. It was found that vapors given off by a moth preventive called paradichlorobenzene, soften the plastic hanger so the garments adhere to it. The plastic also may be absorbed in the fabric, leaving a stiff, shiny stain. Hangers used by the laboratory of the Agricultural Research Service, were the transparent, plastic type. Vapors given off by moth balls or flakes (naphthalene) did not cause plastic to soften. Research with the plastic-moth preventive combination also revealed that heat hastens the softening process. At 130 degrees, the plastic, in the presence of paradichlorobenzene, was softened in a few hours. Drops of what appeared to be melted plastic soaked into garments. On the other hand, at 80 degrees, the plastic took a period of months to soften. Iraq will build 818 houses in its Mosul textile factory housing project.

During this training, emphasizes was placed on the practical phase of instruction, which more fully qualifies him for appointment in the Army Reserve or the Regular Army as a commissioned officer upon graduation from college.
