

SCHOOL BUILDINGS 'BURSTING AT SEAMS,' SUPT. MESSNER TELLS CHAMBER OF COMMERCE

J. S. Messner, superintendent of Harrington schools, told the Chamber of Commerce at a dinner meeting at the Wonder R Wednesday night, that the plant facilities of the schools "were starting to burst at the seams."

"The best solution," he added, "is to build a high school. However," he continued, "the State has also been advocating an area high school."

The superintendent said a new school was worth considering for our own particular future, and that a 32-room unit would cost $860,000. The tax assessment could be raised to provide a third of the cost if the State would pay the balance.

The school enrollment is some 880 pupils. "If we have too many pupils they become mere numbers," Messner pointed out, meaning that without adequate plant facilities and teachers the pupils could not get the individual attention they needed.

"It is not my problem, the Board of Education's problem; it's the community's problem. We can get along for the present but we are overcrowding," he commented.

He thought we might consider a merger of high schools of Harrington, Felton, and Greenwood, of the 10th, 11th, and 12th grades. Members of the Chamber pointed out that a county-wide merger of schools had been approved recently in nearby Caroline County, Md.

A $522,000-building was built several years ago. It was thought then it would be adequate for years to come, but it is already proving inadequate.

As a site for a distinctly local high school, Messner suggested the southwest corner of the present school grounds, at Center and West Streets.

The study of the school problem was turned over to the Community Betterment Committee composed of the following members: Dr. Hewitt Smith, chairman; Mr. Messner, Walter Messick, Charles Jerread, and Millard Cooper.

A report, unconfirmed, made at the meeting, had it that Center Street would be paved and gutted by the State Highway Department.

The committee in charge of the dinner meeting was composed of James Rash, Clarence Rash, and Thomas Clendinging.

Christmas Program

In the busy meeting, President Charles Peck, Jr., thought the city should have its Christmas lights up by Thanksgiving. William W. Shaw, chairman of the Christmas Committee, said he would welcome suggestions for the annual program. These included the building of a Santa Claus house, the arching of the strings of Christmas lights across the streets, decorating the water tower. Mr. Messner said the school had some 1000-watt light bulbs that might be used in floodlighting the tower. Others thought a star or an electric sign, "Merry Christmas," on top of the tower would also be appropriate.

Mr. Shaw, chairman of the Industrial Committee, reported he had answered correspondence from industries seeking sites. He added he was also procuring data to be incorporated in an industrial survey brochure being compiled by the Delaware State Chamber of Commerce.

Joins State Chamber

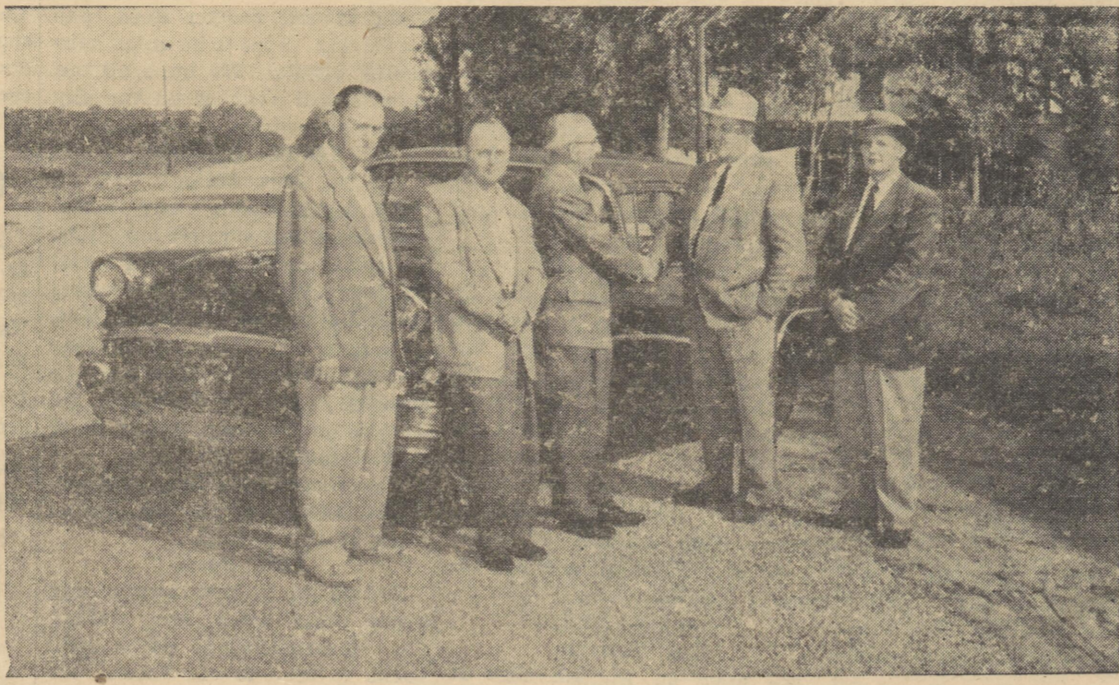

The local Chamber voted to join the state group. Peck thought the president and secretary and possibly another member would be on the Executive Committee of the state group. Incidentally, the state Chamber will supply the local group with a number of brochures. Regarding attempts to form a downstate chamber of commerce, members said they could still join it if it were formed.

Samuel A. Short, Jr., brought up the question of forming a local credit bureau. He said he talked the matter over with Magistrate L. Gooden Callaway who said he was interested in the project and that he had pertinent data. The subject, which found responsive ears, was turned over to the Retail Merchants Committee of which Claude Cahall is chairman.

Cub Scout News

Dens 4, 5, and 6 of the Cub Scout Pack 76 of Harrington, visited the Lewes museum Saturday. Other points of interest visited included the De Vries Monument and the cannons on Pilot Town Road.

The arrangements have been completed for the dens to visit the Dover Air Field Base, Monday, leaving the school at 3:30.

Edward Kelly, of Rising Sun, a member of the State Highway Department, is congratulating Glenn Jones, general superintendent of the Edgell Construction Company, of Dover, on the completion of the first dirt road to be improved under the terms of the dirt road improvement program passed by the present session of the Legislature. Present at the acceptance of the road, reading from left to right, were State Senator Jehu Camper, Harrington, Representative Peter Nechay, of Sandtown, Mr. Kelly, Mr. Jones and Wallace F. McFaul, Jr., Division Engineer for Kent County for the State Highway Department. The new road is shown beyond Senator Camper. It extends from Masten's Corner to the Felton to Hopkins Cemetery and follows a completely straight course.

MASTEN'S TO HOPKINS CEMETERY ROAD IMPROVED

The first dirt road to be improved under the provisions of the dirt road improvement program, adopted by the present session of the Legislature, was accepted as completed by the State Highway Department last week. This road extends from Masten's Corner to the Felton to Whiteleysburg highway, a distance of 2.278 miles. Work on this road, in conjunction with several other dirt roads in the Felton area, was started in February of this year.

R. A. Haber, Chief Engineer of the State Highway Department, in company with L. W. Novinger, Construction Engineer, and Wallace F. McFaul, Jr., Division Engineer of the Department, made a final inspection of the road in company with Glenn Jones, General Superintendent of the Edgell Construction Company, the contractors on the project.

Following the inspection, Mr. Haber commented on the eighty miles of this type of road improvement, mostly in Kent and Sussex Counties, on which work is now in progress, or under contract, or being planned by the Department.

Recent innovations in doing the work, in addition to speeded up planning for the roads, will result in the improvement of the dirt roads being completed at a more rapid rate, Mr. Haber pointed out.

The road inspected last week generally followed the route of the previous dirt road and is almost a straight line from beginning to end. The roadway was graded, a large amount of drainage installed and a surface treatment, 20 feet in width, applied to the roadway surface.

We are indebted to Lester Emory for this picture of Commerce Street, taken during the early part of the century. The exact date it was taken is not known, but it was taken between 1911 and 1917. The view looks north. The first building on the left was the Peoples Bank, now Harrington & Raughley's grocery store; the next store was O. C. Sapp & Sons Clothing Store, now Silco's. The three-story frame building was the Harrington House which occupied the site of The First National Bank and part of what was then Fleming Street. All the way down the street is a small frame building occupied by Mrs. N. M. Harrington, a jeweler. It is now occupied by Smitty's barbershop. Emory says the dray wagon was owned by his father, the late Benjamin Emory. The harness on the right was a display of John Bullock. This building has been replaced by the Smith Building.

Roads Program Must Be Pursued, Says McConnell

J. H. McConnell, Democratic candidate for governor, says that Delaware must vigorously carry forward its program of resurfacing and improving the state's dirt roads.

Speaking before a packed house, sponsored by the Ninth District Democratic Club, at the American Legion Home here Wednesday night, McConnell said that "the present leadership in the Highway Department is already making good progress on this project." He noted that since March of this year, up to the present, about 89 miles had been contracted. This, he said, contrasts with only 18 miles of dirt-road improvements under contract between July, 1955, and March, 1956.

McConnell also emphasized that the most recent bid accepted by the Highway Department was $9700 per mile for resurfacing. He pointed out this was in contrast to the $22,000 per mile, the initial layout bid submitted in September, 1955. He also pointed out that by reducing the right-of-way width from 60 to 50 feet, additional land has been kept for tax purposes and farm production.

Other persons who spoke or were introduced were as follows: Former-governor Elbert N. Carvel, Mrs. Belle Everett, Democratic national committeewoman; Joseph Donald Craven, attorney-general; Harry Smith, state insurance commissioner; Sen. Jehu Camper, Coroner Roland Trader, Rep. Leon Donovan, U. S. Sen. J. Allen Frear, Vernon Derrickson, candidate for lieutenant-governor; State Auditor Clifford Hall, Mrs. Edna Brasure, candidate for state treasurer; Rep. Peter Nechay, candidate for senator; Ralph Hanson, candidate for county comptroller; Thomas Hughes, candidate for sheriff; George W. Cain, candidate for representative; Clarence Dixon, candidate for register of will; William Paskey, candidate for prothonotary.

Harold Minner, president. Jimmy Emberlin's orchestra furnished the music. Refreshments were served.

DISTRICT GOVERNOR TELLS OF AIM OF ROTARY CLUBS

Rotary clubs in 99 countries throughout the free world are united in an endeavor to promote international understanding, good will and peace. That was the message of Harold E. Woodward of Penns Grove, Governor of District 272 of Rotary International, in addressing the Rotary Club of Harrington Tuesday night following a conference with local officers and committee chairmen.

"In addition to activities of Rotary's 9,127 clubs within their own communities to promote this objective," Mr. Woodward explained, "Rotary International has spent more than $2,000,000 in recent years through its program of student fellowships, which enable outstanding college graduates to study for one year in countries other than their own, as Rotary ambassadors of good will. Since 1947, when this program was established, 834 Rotary Fellowships have been awarded to students in 61 countries for study in 40 countries. Miss Muriel Taylor, of Collingswood, N. J., was selected by District 272 as a Rotary Fellow to study in Switzerland during the 1956-57 academic year."

"With fellowship and service to others as its keynote, Rotary provides a common ground for 431,000 business and professional men throughout the free world, regardless of differing nationalities or political or religious beliefs," the Rotary District Governor emphasized.

"In addition to the promotion of international understanding," Mr. Woodward continued, "special emphasis is being placed by Rotary Clubs in this district which includes 55 Rotary Clubs in Delaware and the seven southern counties of New Jersey, on community betterment projects such as libraries and playgrounds and in encouraging high ethical standards in business and professions."

Mr. Woodward urged the local Rotary Club to be well represented at the Rotary District Conference to be held in Atlantic City in April, and to make plans for the club to be represented at the 48th Annual Convention of Rotary International, which will be held in Lucerne, Switzerland, next May.

This exhibit, which will be held for several weeks, was the result of the interest in old money evidenced by recent visitors of all ages. It will contain a variety of items, such as old paper currency including Shipplasters or United States Fractional notes; colonial and confederate paper money; paper currency issued by the Bank of Milford in 1854; a fifty-cent store card issued January 28, 1863, by Thomas E. Ricard, a storekeeper in Lewes; and of more recent interest Lewes National Bank note signed by the curator's father, James T. Lank, Cashier, and Dr. Hiram R. Burton, President.

Coins included will be copper and gold ones found on the local beaches by treasure hunters, copper half-cent pieces dated 1803, 1809 and 1823, three-cent piece dated 1862, five-cent piece dated 1870, and half-dime piece dated 1841, all presented as gifts to the museum. Carter, Sr., will demonstrate the possibilities of this fascinating hobby.

The regular museum hours are Tuesdays through Saturdays, 10 a.m. to 5:30 p.m., Sundays and holidays, 12:30 to 5:30 p.m., closed on Mondays.

Rotarians Give Scouts Bus

Last winter the Scoutmasters asked the Rotary Club for a place to store their equipment.

The troop committee of the club suggested a two wheel trailer with a box on top. One thing led to another and finally the Scoutmasters found a bus that was in sadly in need of repairs, but that could be bought reasonably. Gayle Smith of the Harrington Motor Co., and a Rotarian, looked the bus over and pronounced that it was worth the asking price. He agreed to tear it down and rebuild it free if he could get automotive jobbers to furnish most of the parts and the Rotary Club the rest.

The Rotarians took up a collection among themselves and bought the bus. Gayle took the engine apart and rebuilt it. Then the bus was painted two shades of green. The Rotary Club paid a year's insurance on the bus and turned it over to the local troop. This past spring, almost before the paint was dry, the Scouts took a trip to West Virginia.

Only Scoutmaster Howell Hitchens, Explorer Advisor Roland Hitchens, and Assistants George VonGoerres, Linwood Kates, and Billy Jester are allowed to drive the bus. It has been plainly lettered by Joe Penny free of charge and the Rotary Club is proud of its appearance. With Gayle's assurance that the bus will go anywhere in the United States it is hoped that two years from now the local Scouts will be able to go in it to Philmont Ranch in New Mexico.

The Harrington Rotary Club sponsors Troop No. 76. The club is in the midst of the annual drive for funds for the Del-Mar-Va Council, Boy Scouts of America. It takes over $14 a year to keep a boy in scouting. And in the past ten years the number of Boy Scouts on the Peninsula has doubled. Here in Harrington the Trinity Methodist Church sponsors an outstanding Cub Pack. When the Cubs become 11 years of age, they graduate to the Boy Scout troop.

The Rotary Club is confident that the citizens of Harrington wish to contribute their financial share in this program for boys.

It's still chicken on top of the list of good buys on meat counters this weekend. Not only broilers and fryers are very economical but also roasting and stewing chickens are good buys now. The young stewing hens are tender and cook fairly quickly. They are ideal for cool fall meals, use them as chicken and noodles, chicken and dumplings, chicken pot pies, chicken and rice casseroles. A hen simmered in water with herbs added makes tasty, cold sliced sandwiches.

Look for many good buys on turkey this week. Medium and small size eggs remain good buys. In using smaller sized eggs it may be necessary to convert some recipes, those using eggs entirely for thickening or leveling, as baked custard. When recipes call for 3 eggs—the number should be increased to 4 small sized eggs. Some recipes give egg amounts by the cupful which makes the size of the egg immaterial. In many dishes too such omelets, scrambled eggs, etc., an egg is an egg—no measuring necessary.

October is the month of cheese. The dairy industry, with the U. S. Department of Agriculture cooperating, is celebrating Cheese Festival Time, to the point up of the innumerable varieties and uses of cheese, now so plentiful.

Cheese goes nicely with just about any food, and any meal. You can use it to enhance flavor and at the same time it will work for you by adding food value to such foods as cereals and vegetables. Five ounces of cheese contain the concentrated food value of one quart of milk. So watch news ads and enjoy more cheese at less money.

The cabbage clan still reigns at the vegetable counter this week. Cabbage, both red and green are very economical and because of their versatility furnishes a wide variety in dishes to tempt the family. Cauliflower remains an excellent buy, selling in many stores for 19 cents a head. Those of you with home freezers should take advantage of these low prices on both broccoli and cauliflower. Carrots are exceptionally fine in quality and prices are low. Look for good buys on celery, winter squash, turnips, beets, onions and potatoes—all are worth looking for.

Farmers Like Local Ag News

Said one editor to another—"Our readers like to see success stories about their neighbors here in the county," Carrington Burgess, editor of the Harrington Journal, informed Jack Murray, new extension editor at the University of Delaware. The latter was visiting editors and radio program directors in Kent County. "You fellows carry on a lot of research for farmers, but the results are more meaningful when a farmer in the area tries out a new practice and the story is reported to his neighbors."

The county agent, George Vapaa, agreed with this and cited the example of soybeans planted in rows. Only a few years ago all soybeans were sown with a drill or were broadcast. But when a few farmers read of yield increases and better control of weeds by planting in rows and tried the practice, then other farmers quickly followed. Very few farmers continue to broadcast soybeans today.

"We can use all the pictures you send of farm improvements going on in the state," said Jim Miller, desk editor of the Delaware State News. "George Vapaa often orders these plastic Fairchild picture mats that the weekly editors can use, and we all can get the story released at the same time. We appreciate that the weeklies do not want a story that has been printed elsewhere a couple of days earlier especially when it is not spot news."

"I guess all of our weeklies in Kent County are printed Thursdays, which means that we ought to have the releases by Monday or Tuesday at the latest. The earlier we get a story, the better chance it has to appear," reminded Ted Townsend, shop foreman at the Milford Chronicle. The same story was echoed by the staff at the Smyrna Times.

"Yes, we can use short taped messages by specialists on our radio programs," agreed Virginia Bracken and Borden Smith, program directors at WDOV and WKSB respectively. "Our audiences like to hear what the farm situation is locally and hints for the homemaker as given in the county agent broadcasts. Spot announcements at different times during the day would also be very effective."

D.P.I.A. to Discuss When to Sell Broilers

"Is there any good way to determine when to market broilers for maximum profits?" This question will be tackled by Dr. Raymond Smith, economist at the University of Delaware at a meeting of the Delaware Poultry Improvement Association local group Thursday, Oct. 18th. The group meets regularly at the Caesar Rodney School at Wyoming, starting at 8 p.m. The general public is invited to attend as well as the poultrymen members.

Dr. Smith has just completed a two-year study and published a report on broiler marketing. He has accumulated most of his data on the Eastern Shore. The group will also conduct a panel discussion on egg producers as to which is best "market eggs or hatching eggs." The trend over the years had been away from eggs sold for immediate consumption as food. But many producers now feel that new developments such as hybrid strains of layers, cage layer management, and more efficient methods may be swinging the pendulum back again. Eggs for the hatcheryman usually bring a premium but broiler strains of birds do not lay as many eggs.

It is firmly put forth in the Constitution of the State of Delaware that the Governor shall name policy-making officials, but the Democrats of the 118th General Assembly did not believe this, for they continually added the names of commissioners to the bills they passed. To avoid repetition, elect a Republican 119th General Assembly on November 6.

These are just two topics suggested by the local planning committee which met to outline ideas for the winter season. Those serving on the committee included Elbert Golder of Cheswold, August Haas of near Pickering Beach, Ted Schorske of Camden, Thomas Peck of Harrington, George Bringham of Viola, and George Vapaa of Dover. Additional suggestions for future meeting topics will be welcomed by the committee.

Several others are serving on the committee to develop the annual DPIA handbook. Besides the above, they include: Guy Winebrenner and Melville Taylor of Harrington, George Pyott and Charles Marker of Dover, and Ernest Cool of Woodside. The handbook highlights the new developments in the poultry industry and is the means by which the association can award scholarships, sponsor the Junior Broiler Program, support the local poultry promotional efforts.

Sulky Slants

By MRS. DAVE (PAT) SMITH

You should be up here, gosh, it is cold and windy. No wonder so many trailers are moving out to warmer places. It was down to 34 degrees last night.

Janet's Girl will go down for the big race in Baltimore. They took her to the cleaners down in Lexington. We sent her down with Johnny Chapman, however, she trotted her mile in 2:01 1/4. Next trip 2 minutes flat, but was only sixth in the pack. They are building a beautiful new club house and a large grandstand up here. From what I hear it is supposed to be very modern. They certainly have nice tack stalls for the men. All glass enclosed windows with screens, and doors with windows, with locks. All fire proof. They shouldn't complain now. They also have beautiful bath houses that are really kept up. Little by little all the things they have said in the past are being done. No one has a trailer park like this in the harness horse business that's for sure. Who minds paying a dollar a day for that.

Another thing that is really beautiful at this time of the year is all the big ocean going boats in the Buffalo Harbor. I guess there were millions of bushels of wheat being stored in the large grain elevators. The banks around the boats had plenty of visitors. Also at this time of the year all the new automobiles that are brought in by boat are there. What a sight! So colorful you wouldn't really know which car you would like best. Everyone had a camera, from the movie to the small Brownies.

The parks are so pretty. All the leaves are turning color. Going through the Thruway is still more beautiful. Down in the valley near the Indian Reservation is grand. In fact all around Towanda, N. Y., is beautiful. Stand on top of the Zors and you think you are looking at the Grand Canyon.

DELAWARE STATE DEVELOPMENT DEPARTMENT

Governor J. Caleb Boggs called today for the observance of Columbus Day Friday, Oct. 12, not only in honor of the discoverer of America but "as a mark of respect to those who followed in his footsteps to help build a new nation, dedicated to the principles of equality and justice."

He said that the observance provides an opportunity to pay respects to American citizens of Italian extraction "who rank high in the fields of education, commerce and science," and he called for proper observances by public schools, religious groups and citizens generally.

"The discovery of America Oct. 12, 1492, opened a new era to mankind and Columbus' vision, fortitude, sacrifice and seamanship in reaching his objective makes his voyage stand out in history as one of its major achievements."

The proclamation follows: Whereas, the discovery of America by Christopher Columbus Oct. 12, 1492, opened a new era to mankind; and

Whereas, the vision, fortitude, sacrifice and seamanship of this explorer in reaching his objective makes his voyage stand out in history as one of its major achievements and;

Whereas, had it not been for the persistence of the man who felt there was a "new world" beyond the confines of the then known trading areas, the establishment of our own United States might have been long delayed; and

Whereas, Columbus Day is an occasion for observance by Latin-Americans not only to repay tribute to Columbus, but to hail anew the alliances that commerce, geography and the interchange of ideas made possible for man; now

Therefore, I, J. Caleb Boggs,

Governor of the State of Delaware, do hereby proclaim Friday, Oct. 12, 1956, as

COLUMBUS DAY

I call on our schools, religious groups and citizens generally to mark this day in a manner fitting to recall the exploits of Christopher Columbus and to pay our respects to those of our citizens of Italian extraction who rank high in many fields of endeavor. Let us fly our national and state flags on this occasion as a mark of respect to the discoverer and to those who followed in his footsteps to help us build a new nation, dedicated to the principle of equality and justice for all.

Kent Home Doings by Charlotte L. Swanson, Home Demonstration Agent Have you been sewing new fall and winter clothes? If you have been looking at pattern books recently, you have probably noticed pink sheets with new body measurements for pattern sizes. A new standard of measurements was adopted by all of major pattern companies, effective June 16, 1956. There are two reasons why a new standard of measurements was needed. First of all, the average figure has changed in the last few years, through the use of the modern bra and foundation garment, and the new measurements allow for this. Secondly, there was often a big difference between patterns of the same size in different brands; you will probably still find some difference in the amount of ease allowed, but not so much as there once was.

Therefore, you should be able to get a pattern which will fit you better, if you take your body measurements and buy the size which corresponds with them and your figure type. Before you buy a new pattern, check your bust, waist, hip, and back waist length measurements - and compare them with the chart in the pattern book. Choose your correct size, and you can with confidence buy any pattern in the catalogue in that size (even though the measurements on the envelope may not be the same as those in the chart). Remember that the measurements given are body measurements—the pattern allows for the proper amount of ease. Another important point to remember is that the bust measurement should be taken over the fullest part of the bust—the high chest measurement is no longer necessary. Of course, you may still have to make alterations in your pattern, although selecting the correct size will help. If you would like more information about measuring for patterns or making pattern alterations, I'll be happy to send it to you.

From where I sit... by Joe Marsh Happy Swap More and more farmers—who badly need hired help sometimes, but can't afford a full-time hand—are making deals with young town workers and the employers they work for.

For instance, young Hap Hooper now lives rent-free on Easy Roberts' farm. In return he works about 100 days a year for Easy—for a farmhand's pay.

The rest of the year Hap works for his "regular" boss... Buzz Ellis, the electrician. Buzz just speeds up his business when Hap's on hand—slows it down when he isn't—and, like Easy, pockets healthy savings in wages.

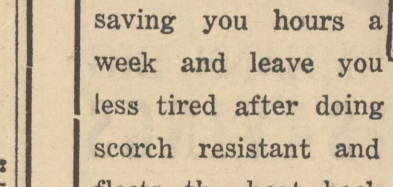

From where I sit, it's great how people with different backgrounds—and different viewpoints—can co-operate. How about more of us trying that? I live in a town—maybe you're a farmer. I'm partial to a good glass of beer—you may prefer coffee or milk. But we can make things pleasanter by ignoring differences and giving each other a "hand."

Delaware Farm Management Specialist

Delaware farm management specialist said that there is need for considerably more on-the-farm storage of corn in the state and that this tax write-off offers farmers considerable savings in building such structures. He thinks that if more storage were available it would year in and year out by avoiding tend to stabilize grain prices year in and year out by avoiding market gluts at harvest time.

McAllister also reminded farmers that they can get government loans to increase their storage facilities. Loans up to 80% of the cost of constructing storage and 75% of the cost of drying equipment are available. He advised those who are interested to stop in at their county ASC office of the U. S. Department of Agriculture.

This is where Tomorrow starts!

The New Ford Station Wagons. This famous line of champions has been redesigned from name-plate to tailgate. These five spacious glamour wagons are lower, longer, livelier than ever.

The New Fairlane 500 Series. Less than 5 feet high, over 17 feet long, largest car ever offered in the low-price field. With the look of tomorrow in its flight-hearted lines, this Club Sedan (above) typifies the beauty of all five Fairlane 500 models.

After today, American cars will never be the same again.
For the Big New Kind of Ford is a brilliant new automotive package—the one fine car in the low-price field!

We've unwrapped the 1957 Fords!

These are the best Fords of our lives. The whole package is new.

The power is new—with Silver Anniversary V-8's to fit every horsepower need.

The style is new—a revolutionary, sharp, brilliant, clear-cut design that will stand out in traffic.

The comfort is new—a rock-solid velvet-road ride.

The braking is positive—silky smooth when your toe says "whoa." The steering is feather light yet firm.

This is a great automobile, from the large honest dial faces on the instrument panel to the effortless loading way it cruises. At high speeds this new Ford has none of the struggling, lurching, stretch-out feeling you sometimes get in some other cars.

The new Ford begins with the "Inner Ford." Its new elegance comes from within, from the way its automotive muscles are put together. There are a thousand-and-one automotive lessons built into this New Kind of Ford. All of the changes are toward more rugged endurance, toward increased power, toward smoother operation. These are the bases for its "Mark of Tomorrow" elegance. This is the one fine car in the low-price field.

There are actually 19 different new kinds of Ford—the new Custom 300 and Custom Series on a 116-inch wheelbase, the new Fairlane 500 and Fairlane Series on a 118-inch wheelbase, and the famous five Ford Station Wagons, the champions of glamour cruisers. And no matter which new kind of Ford you choose, it's yours at low Ford prices!

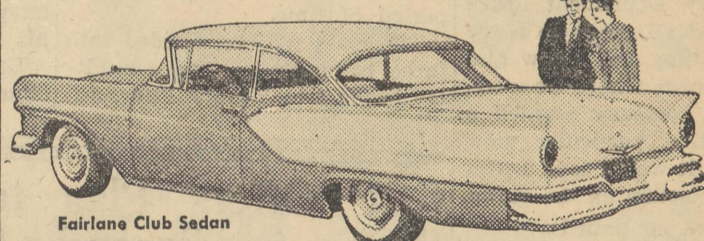

How does it look? It's only fourteen hands high—as tall as a child's pony. You can stand beside it and lean your elbows on its roof. And it's over seventeen feet long... 21 inches wider than it is high!

This big new kind of Ford looks like the fun on a travel poster. It's the kind of car that looks sunshiny in the rain.

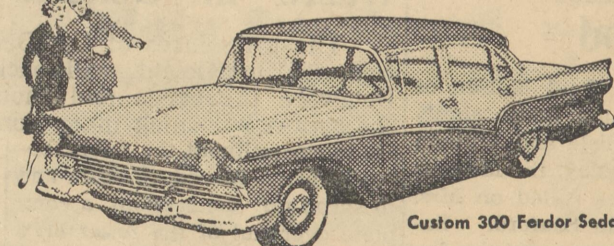

It looks as fresh as morning. It looks like tomorrow—like the first thing out of Detroit that symbolizes the new Age of Movement.

See it at your Ford Dealer's. Give it your own Action Test. But you'd better leave a deposit... for you won't want to bring it back.

GOP Offers Plan to Reduce Waste in General Assembly

The procedures of the Delaware General Assembly are wasteful, inefficient, and backward, costing the people of Delaware thousands and thousands of dollars.

First, the proceedings of the House should be published verbatim every 30 legislative days. The people would then know what their representatives were saying, and how they were voting on every issue.

Second, the present system of committees should be abandoned. These so-called committees do not really function as deliberative bodies, rarely do they hold meetings or conduct hearings, and their principal use is as a graveyard for legislation.

Third, a smaller number of committees should be set up, with rules compelling them to hold meetings and pass on all bills within 30 days; to schedule and hold public hearings when requested; and to report all bills if approved by a majority of the committee.

Asbury Methodist Church Notes

Church School 10 o'clock. The International Sunday School Lesson is entitled, "Ten Laws for Life." Do you know that these ten laws are called the Ten Commandments? Do you know that they are recorded in two different places in the Old Testament? And where are they recorded? These are only some of the questions we will be discussing. We would like to have you with us for the discussion and the lesson. Morning worship 11 o'clock. The pastor's sermon will be entitled, "The Badge of Discipleship." The service will feature anthems by the Junior and Cathedral choirs.

The Methodist Youth Fellowship will meet at 6:30 o'clock with Joyce Downing in charge of the devotions. Evening worship at 7:30 o'clock. "To Whom Shall We Go?" will be the title of the pastor's sermon. The service will feature an hymn sing, a question and answer period and an anthem, "Bow Down Thine Head" sung by the Chancel Choir under the direction of Melvin Brobst. Last Sunday night we had a trombone duet: "The Holy City" done by Philip Holson and Edward Wilcox and the choir sang "The Light That Guides."

"Who was Cain's wife?" "What was the punishment placed on Cain for the murder of his brother?" were some questions asked by the congregation and answered by the pastor in the question and answer period. If you have a question you would like to ask-why not come out Sunday night and ask it.

The subdistrict will meet at the Greenwood Church Monday evening. The Booster Class will meet Tuesday evening at 7:45 in the Sunday School room. Some important projects for the near future will be discussed. So, all members be present, please! The choir will rehearse Thursday at 3:30, 6:45 and 7:45.

There will be a service of Baptism at 11 o'clock this Sunday. Next Sunday is Laymen's Sunday. Laymen will be in charge of the 11 o'clock service.

Launching Sites

The earthen launching ramp at Fowler's Beach was washed away by the abnormally high tides last week. But more serious than the loss of the graded access site, which will be replaced before next fishing season, is the continual weakening of the natural barrier dunes by tides and winds.

Agricultural lands immediately adjacent to the beachlands may be inundated by high tides as has happened to similarly situated farms in the Woodland Beach area, where natural barrier dunes were neglected a generation ago. Unless reinforced materials are used to strengthened this very essential wall between the Bay and the fertile farmland, the tide will eventually change fertile farmland to salt marsh as has happened at Cedar Neck.

Two launching sites have been graded this week at Lums Pond, just north of the Chesapeake and Delaware Canal; the other is at Churchm's Marsh which will furnish easy access to the Christina River from this 400 acre refuge.
